West Becomes Women's Dorm

by PRESTON MAYNARD and RALPH W. CARPENTER

West Hall will become a women's dormitory next fall and Texas Tech athletes will be housed in other campus residence halls.

Action bringing the change was taken by the Tech Board of Directors in a meeting Saturday.

First steps were also taken toward construction of a new women's dormitory.

With a target date of September, 1962, for completion, the Board asked that the "site, size and final arrangements" be prepared for the next directors meeting on April 8.

Although an addition to Drane Hall was mentioned as a possibility, a college official said Monday such an addition was only a possibility and nothing definite had been planned for an addition. Skepticism was expressed as to the feasibility of an addition to Drane.

The housing of athletes in the other dorms is being taken pending a decision on a permanent policy on housing of athletes.

As expected, the Board awarded a contract for the addition of a new wing to the Science Bldg. to Carl E. Macey Co. of Lubbock on a low bid of $411,000.

Dr. S. M. Kennedy was moved to dean of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Ivan Little was named assistant dean. Each has held the posts for about a year and a half on an acting basis.

Questions were raised by Harold Hinn of Dallas as to the telephone situation on campus.

"Since I live on the telephone I can sympathize with anyone who has trouble getting a call through," Hinn said, in requesting information on the telephones.

"We have tried four different times to work out a solution . . . this has been going on about two years," M. L. Pennington, vice president and comptroller, said. "We are in the process of trying to buy our own." Pennington said the women's dorm telephones were overloaded after 7 p.m. in the evenings and that the telephone study was continuing.

"I think it is important to keep the study going," Hinn said. "Nothing is more infuriating than not being able to get a telephone call."

"Why are the supervisors against having phones in the rooms if the students are willing to pay for them?" Manuel DeBusk of Dallas asked.

Pennington pointed out the possibility of students using unauthorized telephones and interruption of study as possible reasons.

No action was taken in the meeting concerning the telephones.

Consideration on fraternity-sorority housing was postponed pending further study.

In a resolution Saturday, the Board of Directors requested The Foreador to relay its appreciation to the student body and to student organizations for the healthy climate and attitude existing on the campus this year.

The directors okayed initiation of work on classifying all non-academic personnel under a system of jobs. The hiring of any outside firm was delayed and the Board authorized college officials to begin first work on the classification.

In response to a question concerning the cost of the study, Board Chairman C. I. Wall said that "the cost was roughly $8,500 by the outside firm . . . the firm did it for A&M, Texas (University) and the City of Lubbock . . . it is done primarily for cities and colleges."

Opposition to the employment of an outside firm was expressed by Tom Lineberry of Kermitt.

"I don't think it is feasible or desirable, I think it's a local problem and local folks can do it better than anyone else," Lineberry said.

Union Shows Controversial Film Thursday

A controversial movie, "Operation Abolition," concerning student demonstrations against the House Committee on Un-American Activities, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Tech Union ballroom.

The film will be followed by a commentary by Jim L. Munro of the Tech government department. Munro will also conduct a question and answer session.

The film, sponsored by the Tech Union, has been shown in many colleges and universities across the nation. Student picketing has preceded many of these showings.

According to Munro, "The film was prepared and marketed in a highly unorthodox manner. There are a number of distortions and suggestions in the film which the facts do not support."

The demonstrations that were staged against the House committee by the students of San Francisco last May are shown in the film. Munro said, "The movie contends that the demonstrations were Communist-inspired and led. In their desire to prove this, the committee took a number of liberties with the truth."

However, according to a statement issued by the Tech Union an "impartial and objective commentary" would be in order because of the film's controversial nature.

Valentine Cards—Not What They Used To Be

By JEANNIE BOOKOUT
Foreador Staff Writer

Valentines Day—the time when love supposedly fills the air and everywhere hearts are in tune. And hearts would have to be in tune to capture any romance in modern day Valentines.

Gone are the days of frills and lace. No longer do sweethearts send greeting cards trimmed in hearts and cupid, flowers and doves.

Debaters Defeat ACC For $1,000

Texas Tech's Harry Newhardt and Kip Glasscock, both of Lubbock, defeated Abilene Christian College's Terrell Reagan and Wayne Grisso and advanced to the quarterfinals of the Texas intercollegiate television debate tournament Sunday in Dallas.

The Tech debaters were presented with $1,000 for Texas Tech's scholarship fund by the Sinclair Refining Company, sponsor of the tournament.

The winners of next Sunday's debate between SMU and University of Houston teams will compete against the victorious Techsans March 19.

The tournament consists of a series of 13 debates. The winning team will have debated a total of four times with $1,000 awarded for each win. If Tech defeats the next three opponents, the team will win the tournament and will add a total of $4,000 to the scholarship fund.

Dr. P. M. Larson, head of speech department, said concerning the debate.

"It was pretty tough. After all, we were up against a group of very experienced debaters, in fact, probably their best. They are both senior debaters." Of the Tech team, Newhardt is a freshman and Glasscock is a sophomore.

"Be mine, you fool, at least until the party's over!" is more likely what a girl of today might find on a message from her very special guy.

And the girls as well as the guys must like this new and unheard of way of expressing affection, for according to storeowners around Tech contemporary cards sell two to one over the traditional kind.

This "off-beat" type of humor points up the way modern young men and women take a look at life. For example, one card realistically proclaims, "Know what the world go 'round!' Gravitational pull! But happy Valentines anyway!"

One coed, with true feeling of concern, sent this message to a friend: "Can I be your Valentine or have you enough troubles already?"

The contemporary cards, done up in wierd or startling manner, feature bold colors and daring designs. They usually range in price from 25 cents to $1 and often carry such things as aspirins, stuffed dolls or mirrors along with their messages.

There's a contemporary Valentine for almost anybody you can think of—uncles, aunts, grandmothers, daddys and dogs. There's even some out for wives and husbands.

One such card reads, "Perhaps I shouldn't be writing this but I just can't go any longer without telling you that I love you. From little things you do and say I am certain that you feel the same way, but you are far too noble to ever say anything. I realize that you are married, but let's not let that stand in the way of our happiness! Your loving wife, -----"

Perhaps it's the subtleness involved in today's Valentines that make them so appealing. What guy wouldn't be forced to read between the lines upon receiving this information in true Valentine style: "I'm not interested in men—except between the ages of 14 and 89!"

And it all makes sense too. For what could flatter the sensible, independent, unselfish coed of today more than a simple message from her sweetheart saying, "I'm not a magician but believe me, I could do wonders with a cute little trick like you?" Nothing could, except maybe a big beautiful old-fashioned box of Valentine candy.

The applications will then go before a screening committee consisting of members of the dormitory executive council. The council will reduce the number of applicants and the dormitory residents will then vote.

Each applicant must have at least 1.5 grade average. Elections must be before the meeting of the Board of Student Organizations March 3-5.

Dames Name Ikard Queen

The Palm Room was the setting Saturday night for the annual Sweetheart Dinner Dance given by the Tech Dames Club in honor of their husbands.

Dames Club members are wives of Tech men students.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Mrs. John Ikard as the 1961 Sweetheart. She was presented with a tiara by the club president, Mrs. Gerald G. Thompson, and with a gold pin, a gift of the club.

The pin, a small gold circle representing a wedding band pierced by an arrow, is the insignia of the National Association of University Dames.

Mrs. Ikard was selected from a group of eight nominees on the basis of leadership, contributions to the club and club activities. She is currently serving as vice president in charge of programs.

Mrs. Ikard, her husband and mall daughter, Stacy Lynn, live at 2120 24th Street.

The other nominees for Sweetheart were Mrs. Ronald Barnes, Mrs. John Cammack, Mrs. Larry Cannon, Mrs. Wesley Coleman, Mrs. Bobby Lasswell, Mrs. Joe McKinney and Mrs. Gerald G. Thompson.

The eight nominees were presented with red roses and recognized for their activities in the club.

The "sweetheart" theme was carried out in the decorations and each Dames Club member presented her husband with a miniature gold trophy inscribed with "World's Greatest Husband" on the base.

In the doubles division McDougle teamed with Jim Balfanz and swept to four straight wins, downing Bob Drago and Charles Thaxton.

Gold trophy cups were awarded the winners and runner-ups in each division. The second east wing sponsored the tournament under the direction of Ward Williford and Gary Bayless.

Home Economics Club Plans For April 21-22 Open House

The business meeting of the Texas Tech Home Economics Club was highlighted by a talk on "Responsibilities and Organization of Open House" given by Dean Tinsley of the home economics department Thursday evening, Feb. 8, in the home economics dining room.

The talk was given in preparation for the open house which the club will sponsor April 21 and 22, and it challenged the girls to take an active part in the forthcoming event.

Following Dean Tinsley's speech, club members presented a brief play, "Miss Oso Uninformed," which gave the girls an insight into the local, state and national organization of the Home Economics Club.

The Texas Home Economics Association will have its state convention in Houston on Friday, it was announced. Carolyn Vines, president of the local organization, and Mary Gerlach, sponsor of the club, will attend.

A campus-wide membership drive lasting from Feb. 13 to Feb. 15, is now in effect to make sure all members of the club are signed up for this semester.

"GIVE A MAN A TOUGH JOB AND A CHANCE TO GO SOMEWHERE
...AND HE'LL BREAK HIS NECK TO DO IT"

In 1958 when Bill Ebben was only a few months away from his engineering degree at the University of Detroit, he was in touch with 15 prospective employers.

He chose the Michigan Bell Telephone Company because: "This company offered the kind of engineering management opportunity I wanted—and they weren't kidding."

One of Bill's first assignments was a survey of Michigan Bell's big Central District to find out how long available building space could accommodate the switching equipment required by rapid telephone growth. "I wasn't given any instruction," Bill says, "I was just told to do the job."

So Bill did it. His report became the guide for planning and budgeting future construction.

On his next move, Bill proved he could handle supervisory responsibility. He was sent to head up a group of seven engineers to design a new long distance switching center for Saginaw, Michigan—a $4,000,000 engineering project.

Today, Bill is on the staff of Michigan Bell's Program Engineer. He's working on a system for mechanized control of telephone construction costs.

How does Bill feel about his job? "Give a man a tough job and a chance to go somewhere—and he'll break his neck to do it. Of course, I don't think I'm going to be running the business next year—but I'm getting every opportunity to hit the top. You don't worry about opportunity here—you worry about whether you're as big as the job."

If you're a man like Bill Ebben, a man who can size up a job, figure out what needs to be done, and then do it—then you should get in touch with one of the Bell Companies. Visit your Placement Office for literature and additional information.

"Our number one aim is to have in all management jobs the most vital, intelligent, positive and imaginative men we can possibly find."

Student Council Beat

Last Tuesday night the Council began laying the foundation for an entirely new system of elections. Acting upon the recommendation of Janis Jones and her Elections Committee the Council adopted several new policies and will attempt to establish more tonight.

The first major recommendation was to set up an orientation period for candidates for executive office and representatives to the council. This period will consist of several short meetings with candidates by this year's executive officers to explain the election rules, some phases of the constitution and the organization of the council. The purpose behind this is to give these candidates a better knowledge of what they are running for and the responsibilities involved. Thus they will be better qualified to present a meaningful platform and they will know something about their job if they are elected.

The second proposal adopted was to eliminate ballot boxes in all residence halls. The reason was obvious. In a city, state or national election ballot boxes aren't put in apartment houses or eating places. They are located in centrally located precincts. The same principle is going to be followed here. Ballot boxes will be placed in all major campus buildings and it will be a simple matter to locate one for voting purposes. In addition, more ballots will be printed in an effort to avoid running out, voting tables will be bigger, two ballot boxes will be at each table and two people—rather than just one, will be in charge of each voting table.

A third provision the council made is for an election rally to be held the night before the vote for executive officers and cheerleaders. The rally will be held at the Lubbock Auditorium to give everyone a chance to attend. At the rally the executive officer candidates will be given time to speak, representative candidates will be introduced and cheerleader candidates will have an opportunity to do a yell and to put on a skit if they choose. In addition, cheerleader candidates may do any type campaigning they desire outside the Auditorium in the parking lot. This includes jazz band, horses, mules, dogs, etc. But this will be the only time and place during the campaign that this type of campaigning will be permitted. The council felt as though this could be a very big thing and would accomplish several objectives. It would give everyone a good look at the candidates and give everyone a chance to hear them speak. It would give candidates a chance to show originality in campaigning yet cut out all the insane campaigning that goes on outside the Union and around the campus during election week. This is what the majority of the students asked for in a survey by the Toreador last spring.

Another proposal which will be decided tonight is to give candidates an exam over their orientation period. There was a great deal of different opinion on this last week and the Elections Committee is due another report on it tonight.

These changes are just the beginning of what the council hopes will lead to a better, more intelligent system of elections. We invite you to let us know how you feel about these changes and additions. If you wish, the council meeting tonight is open (as always). We meet at 7:15 in Ad. 228 and if that room isn't big enough we'll move elsewhere. You are welcome to attend or come by the council office to discuss these matters. What we want in the long run is what the majority of you the students want.

Red Raider Day Draws Praise

A visitor to the SMU basketball game Saturday night was heard to remark as he found his way to his seat:

"What is all that red for? Is there going to be a bullfight?"

He referred of course to the almost solid block of red in the Tech student section on the west side of the Coliseum where faithful fans were following up a new tradition at Tech—Red Raider Day.

From the opposite side of the stands it looked like about 90 per cent of the students were wearing some article of red clothing, usually shirts or blouses, but in some cases there were even red trousers and bright scarlet tennis shoes in evidence.

All told, it was one of the finest displays of all-out backing seen in recent years. It didn't go unnoticed, either, by the fans from Lubbock and other cities. In the reserved section on the east side, comments were buzzing along the aisles like a prairie fire, and it wasn't long until everyone knew that the show of scarlet was prearranged as a signal of sound backing for the Raiders as they fought to hold onto their Conference lead.

It seemed to be catching, too. It's been quite some time since townspeople responded to cheers the way they did Saturday night, even to clapping their hands while the band played, a task the cheerleaders have had some difficulty getting STUDENTS to perform in the past.

Thanks must go to the Saddle Tramps for their sponsorship and promotion of Red Raider Day, and their help in making it as effective as it was this year. One of their stated purposes in sponsoring the "All I See Is Red" theme was boosting school spirit, which it apparently did, judging from the cheers at the basketball game. Another purpose was showing appreciation to the basketball team and to Coach Polk Robison for their fine job so far this year, and it is to be hoped that both Coach and players took heart from the display of warm-blooded spirit which was very much in evidence Saturday.

Long live Red Raider Day!

Lumumba: Still A Threat?

by LYNN HEINZERLING
Of The Associated Press

Patrice Lumumba in a dusty Katanga grave may be a more dangerous threat to central African stability than he was in the days of his gaudy dictatorship in Leopoldville. The dictatorship never came off effectively, but his death quite easily could set off a new spasm of terror and bloodshed in the Congo.

Lumumba's fanatic, left-leaning lieutenant, Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville, with the moral support of Moscow and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, is capable of extreme measures against anti-Lumumba Europeans and Congolese in his domain.

Anicet Kashamura, another less forceful subaltern of the former premier, is cut in the same mold, but his domain in Kivu Province is isolated from the main theaters of conflict.

The events in these two centers during the next few days may well determine the course the future in the Congo will take. Even before the Katanga government of President Moïse Tshombe announced the "massacre" of Lumumba, forces of the ineffectual central government in Leopoldville were moving against Stanleyville by Congo River steamer.

The United Nations, unable so far to fulfill its assigned task of maintaining order in the Congo, now faces its supreme test. The quick reaction of Moscow Radio to the violent events in Katanga was a tipoff to the position the Communist world will take. "Agents of the Belgian colonizers" murdered Lumumba, Moscow said.

Gizenga in Stanleyville, as Lumumba's deputy prime minister, presumably is the heir apparent to the fast-talking leader who invited the Russians into the Congo to help him rule.

The fundamental realities in the Congo have escaped many of the powers which have sought to influence events there from capitals thousands of miles away.

There is no possible combination of Congolese politicians which can administer the Congo effectively without outside help.

The former Belgian colony is not a viable economic or political unit which can be governed peacefully from Leopoldville under a democratic form of government in the present stage of its development. Tribal antagonism and economic cupidities inevitably will divide the country until civilization can penetrate the thousands of square miles of cruel bush country.

The Belgians, who developed its riches but neglected to develop its human and mental potential, are capable of restoring the Congo to prosperity. But they are politically unacceptable to other African nations.

German Group Chooses Annual Program Theme

"Television a la Deutschland" is the title of the 11th annual German Club program to be presented April 6.

Built around a television theme, the program will feature a one-act drama, a puppet show, commercials and vocal selections of German hit tunes. The entire program will be presented in German.

A play, "Hund im Hirn," by Curt Goetz, will be directed by Tom Bacon of Lubbock, who is president of Der Liederkranz. Gail Pfluger, vice president, is assistant director.

Mrs. Constance Dowling, wife of Dr. John Dowling, head of the foreign language department, will make the puppets for the show.

The Texas Tech Kinderschulen will present two German songs. The children participating are those in the second through the seventh grades who have been taking German lessons.

AWS Undergoes New Point Check

Members of the Association of Women Students will soon undergo a point check, according to Ann Fursman, president. The check originated this year in an effort to keep points of all members at a fair number.

Kaye Edwards, points committee chairman, will receive reports from committee members representing town girls, women in dormitories and Panhellenic.

"THE SLOW RUSH"

Illustrated below is the membership pin of a brand-new national fraternity called Signa Phi Nothing. To join Signa Phi Nothing and get this hideous membership pin absolutely free, simply take a pair of scissors and cut out the illustration and paste it to your dickey.

Let me hasten to state that I do not recommend your joining Signa Phi Nothing. The only thing I recommend in this column is Marlboro cigarettes, as any honest man would who likes a filtered cigarette with an unfiltered taste, who yearns to settle back and enjoy a full-flavored smoke, whose heart is quickened by a choice of soft pack or flip-top box and who gets paid every week for writing this column.

It is difficult to think of any reason why you should join Signa Phi Nothing. Some people, of course, are joiners by nature; if you are one such I must tell you there are any number of better organizations than Signa Phi Nothing for you to join—the Mafia, for example.

But if you should join Signa Phi Nothing, let me give you several warnings. First off, it is the only fraternity that admits girls. Second, there is no pledge period; each new member immediately goes active. Perhaps "inactive" is a more accurate term; there are no meetings, no drives, no campaigns, no sports, no games, no dues, no grip, and no house.

The only thing Signa Phi Nothing has that other fraternities have is a fraternity hymn. In fact, two hymns were submitted to a recent meeting of the national board of directors (none of whom attended). The first hymn goes:

*Hotcha, hoop-boop-a-doop,
Mother's making blubber soup.*

The second hymn is considerably longer:

*A Guernsey's a cow,
A road is a lane,
When you're eating chow,
Remember the mein!*

Pending the next meeting of the national board of directors, which will never be held, members are authorized to sing either hymn. Or, for that matter, Stardust.

Perhaps you are asking why there should be such a fraternity as Signa Phi Nothing. I will give you an answer—an answer with which you cannot possibly disagree: Signa Phi Nothing fills a well-needed gap.

Are you suffering from mental health? Is logic distorting your thinking? Is ambition encroaching on your native sloth? Are your long-cherished misapprehensions retreating before a sea of facts? In short, has education caught up with you?

If so, congratulations. But tell the truth—wouldn't you like to make an occasional visit back to the good old days when you were not so wise and composed and industrious—when you were, in fact, nuttier than a fruitcake?

If you pine for those old familiar miasms, those dear, dead vapors, join Signa Phi Nothing and renew, for a fleeting moment, your acquaintance with futility. We promise nothing, and, by George, we deliver it!

© 1961 Max Shulman

We, the makers of Marlboro, promise smoking pleasure and we think you'll think we deliver it—both from Marlboro and from our new unfiltered king-size Philip Morris Commander. Welcome aboard!

City Of Lubbock Gives Trip To Community Ambassador

Applications are now available at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce for the annual Community Ambassador Project.

The person chosen for this project will receive a two-month, all-expense-paid trip to Brazil this summer, where he will study the customs, language and people of that country. Although there are no foreign language requirements this year, the person making the trip will be expected to give various speeches and lectures when he returns.

Applications are due by March 4, and all applicants will be screened by a committee of ten. The group will then be narrowed down to four applicants, who will be screened by from 80 to 100 Lubbock citizens. Each person applying must have been a resident of the city for the past year.

In Students

Geology Is Hit By Decline

Geology, a once highly popular department at Texas Tech, is suffering from a population decline. The reason is too many geologists in the field.

Where an average of some 350 students enrolled as geology majors some years back, only 75 have signed up this year. The drastic decline in geology can be attributed to several things, among them the fact that the oil industry, the main consumer of geology graduates, is overstocked. "When the big demand for petroleum geologists was at its height, oil companies hired all the personnel they could lay their hands on, now they are saturated with geologists and simply don't need any more for a while," said Prof. R. B. Mattox, geology teacher.

The demand for geologists in other fields, such as ground water exploration and government surveys, is lagging, but not as much as the oil industry.

Mattox went on to say, "The demand for geologists is expected to increase, but it won't reach the level it did before. In the future, a geology graduate will have to have at least a Master's degree if he expects to get anywhere. Like all fields of science, geology is becoming more and more complicated and takes many years of study."

Oil companies hire about 70 per cent of the total crop of geology graduates. Mining, surveys and teaching get the rest. Ground water, a growing problem, promises to offer a demand for geologists in the future.

'Harbinger' Issues New Deadline

Student contributions for the spring issue of the "Harbinger" are due March 10.

Original poetry, short stories, one-act plays, and freshman exposition are invited, according to Betty Limmer, president of Sigma Tau Delta.

Contributions to the magazine, published by the honorary English fraternity, should be typed or written in ink on one side of the page only. There is no word limit. Compositions should be sent to the English office, C&O 125, or mailed to the English department in care of the "Harbinger."

Awards will be made for first and second places in each category. Winners will be recognized at the annual Sigma Tau Delta spring banquet. A copy of the "Harbinger" will be sent to the national Sigma Tau Delta headquarters so that selections might be used in the national magazine.

Those who submitted work last semester that was not accepted are encouraged to revise and re-submit the material.

The fall issue of the "Harbinger" is presently on sale at local bookstores and at the English office for 35 cents.

'Murals Enter Third Round

The third round of the intramural speech program will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 22, in the Speech Bldg.

Winners of the first and second rounds are Gamma Phi Beta with 219 points, Phi Gamma Delta with 180 points, Kappa Kappa Gamma with 147 points, Pi Beta Phi with 101 points and Delta Delta Delta with 101 points.

Others participating are Phi Mu with 98 points, Alpha Chi Omega with 41 points and Pre-Law with 41 points. Any individual or organization may still enter by picking up entry blanks in the Speech Bldg. before noon Monday.

Trophies to be awarded to winners of the tournament are on display in the Tech Union.

Raiders Visit Aggieland

by CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor
The league-leading Texas Tech Red Raiders, after taking advantage of two crucial conference games last week to take a favorite's role, meet one of the pre-season favorites tonight in one of two important Southwest Conference games.

In addition to the contest between Texas A&M and Texas Tech at College Station, Arkansas and Texas clash in Fayetteville in a game that will see the loser bow out of the title race.

The Raiders looked good in beating Southern Methodist at Lubbock Saturday night, while the Aggies didn't do so good, being set back in Fort Worth Saturday by Texas Christian.

The encounter will be the fifth the Raiders will have played away from home in this season's conference campaign. Of the four previous road games, the cagers of Coach Polk Robison have won 3, losing only to the Texas Longhorns.

For the Aggies, tonight's game is a must if their title hopes are to be kept alive. At home, the Aggies have been little short of terrific, but of four out-of-town games with Baylor, Tech, Texas and TCU, only the engagement with the Bears turned out a successful venture.

A&M has defeated all its opponents at home, but it still has Baylor and Texas, in addition to the Raiders—all having a chance to spoil that record.

The Red Raiders likewise have lost no conference games in Lubbock. A&M was a 74-68 victim to the Tech squad earlier in the year at the Coliseum.

Carroll Broussard, leading scorer in the conference, leads the Aggies in tonight's tilt.

Broussard, only a junior, has scored at an average of 21.9 for the season and an even better 24.8 in conference action.

Del Ray Mounts and Harold Hudgens of Texas Tech continue to spark the Red Raiders in the effort for a Southwest Conference championship.

Mounts is second high scorer in the conference, trailing Broussard, and Hudgens ranks fifth. Over the season, Mounts and Hudgens rank 2-3 behind Broussard.

Other conference games tonight are Rice vs. Baylor at Waco and Southern Methodist vs. Texas Christian at Dallas, in addition to the Texas-Arkansas tilt.

Scarlet Scatterings by Charles Richards

Probably those of you who read the sports pages of The Toreador the last two semesters know that the two previous sports editors, Ralph W. Carpenter and Billy Patton, both were devout New York Yankee fans.

That being true, I, a Los Angeles Dodgers rooter, really got the works over the past week.

When Mickey Mantle arrived unexpectedly last Wednesday just prior to the landing of the Red Raiders' plane from Arkansas, I approached the Yankee star for his autograph, my main purpose being to present it to Carpenter, who didn't make the trip to the airport.

No sooner had I reached Mantle than a local television cameraman started shooting the two of us. Sure enough, when the sports was presented on that station that night, there I was.

I'll have to admit, though, despite all the razzing I've received, that I felt pretty big standing beside the world-renowned athlete.

—SS—

The 71 athletes turning out for the beginning of spring training represents a lot of potential for Coach J. T. King's debut into the Southwest Conference as Raider head.

It's another attractive home schedule for Tech. Six of the ten are home games, including SWC foes A&M, TCU, Baylor and Rice.

Besides the rugged Southwest Conference slate, Tech has non-conference games slated with Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss.; Boston College in Lubbock; and West Texas State in Lubbock.

—SS—

Tech's Red Raiders try to avoid the challenge of the Texas Aggies tonight in one game which should provide a lot of excitement and thrills.

The title race shaping up like it has, both clubs will very likely be "up" for the contest.

Should the Raiders win, the title contention should be narrowed to two clubs, with the Aggies and the loser of the Texas-Arkansas game dropping out.

That's IF the Raiders win. If A&M wins, it'll be a three-team proposition with the Tech cagers only one game in front.

—SS—

Although trying to predict basketball games in the Southwest Conference is considered about as sane as wearing a Batista button around Castro, the Scarlet Scatterbrain is going out on a limb this week, trying to call the winners.

TCU vs. SMU, Dallas: We look for Southern Methodist to mark up their second victory of the season over the Frogs.

Rice vs. Baylor, Waco: We may regret this, but we're picking the Bears to win their first game of the conference schedule tonight.

Texas vs. Arkansas, Fayetteville: The choice here is Arkansas, but because of the home court advantage only.

Tech vs. A&M, College Station: We pick Tech to win in another team effort, the Raiders' best performance of the year.

Ohio State Remains Nation's Top Team

Two more victories last week stretching its unbeaten streak to 23 games over two seasons, kept Ohio State solidly entrenched Tuesday as the No. 1 team in college basketball.

Led by Jerry Lucas, the Buckeyes won over Indiana 100-65 and Michigan State 83-68. This was enough to convince every member of the Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters that the Big Ten powerhouse deserved top rating.

This marked the ninth straight week that the Buckeyes had been a unanimous choice for the No. 1 spot.

St. Bonaventure, which trounced Tennessee 104-87 for its 18th triumph in 19 starts, was almost—but not quite—as popular a pick for the runner-up position. The Bonnies collected all but one of the 36 second place votes, the exception going to Mississippi State.

The weekly standing underwent only mild reshuffling and saw only one new comer to the top ten.

West Virginia, which beat NYU 75-60 at New York's Madison Square Garden and then toppled Richmond 93-88, moved into the No. 10 spot replacing Louisville. The latter lost to Eastern Kentucky 80-74.

Duke (17-2) held third place, followed by Cincinnati, Bradley, Kansas State, North Carolina, Southern California, Iowa and West Virginia in that order.

Cincinnati, winner over St. Louis 61-52, moved ahead of Bradley, which lost to Drake 86-76 and then beat Tampa and St. Louis.

Kansas State, which edged Iowa State 66-65, leaped into sixth place over North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina 89-82. Other positions were unchanged. Southern Cal beat Stanford 63-57 and Iowa downed Indiana 94-67.

Ohio State's next big test is at Iowa Saturday.

The standings, with points based on 10 for first place vote, nine for second, etc. First place votes and team records through Saturday.

1. Ohio State, 36, 18-0, 369; 2. St. Bonaventure, 18-1, 323; 3. Duke 17-2, 261; 4. Cincinnati, 17-3, 237; 5. Bradley, 16-4, 196; 6. Kansas State, 15-3, 190; 7. North Carolina, 15-4, 146; 8. Southern California, 16-3, 122; 9. Iowa, 13-3, 97; West Virginia, 18-3, 88.

Baseballers To Have Meeting

Texas Tech baseball coach Burl Huffman has announced that there will be a meeting for prospective baseball players Wednesday night at 7 in the Athletic Offices.

Although the players are already working on their own at 3 p.m. each day, the meeting in the lecture room is designed to get all the players together and plan workouts and positions for the team.

Huffman is being aided by a student coach, Marshall Johnson.

I. D. Cards Needed For Ball Games

All students who have not picked up their I.D. cards or have failed to have them validated for the spring semester should do so at the Auditor's Office.

Jimmy Wilson, business manager of the athletic department announced Monday that no students would be admitted to the basketball game Saturday without their validated cards.

The auditor's office is open until 5 p.m. weekdays and until noon on Saturday.

"We think the students will have plenty of opportunity to get their cards before Saturday," said Wilson. "Just the registration receipt won't be sufficient."
