Daring Fliers Reach Floyd

By Daring Aviators

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—
The French fliers, Rosi and Codos, brought their transatlantic plane, "Joseph Le-brix," to a safe landing at Floyd Bennett field at 1:38 p. m., eastern standard time
Monday.

They appeared from the northeast, circled the airport
three times, dumping gasoline preparatory to landing.
Upon landing, the fliers
had been in the air thirty-eight hours, twenty eight minutes since taking off from Paris at 11:10 p. m. Saturday, covering approximately 3,700 miles.
Minor repairs were to be made.

NEW YORK (AP)—Two
hardy Frenchmen, backtrak-
ing the Lindbergh trail Monday were within striking distance of duplicating the only other nonstop flight across the Atlantic, Paris to New York, made four years ago by their countrymen.

Apparently forced to abandon, on account of mechanical trouble, their original objective, the Pacific Coast,
Paul Codos and Maurice Rosi, drove their huge monoplane "Joseph Lebriz" down
the New England coast to
New York.

BOSTON (AP)—The plane bearing French aviators, Paul Codos and Maurice Rosi, attempting a non-stop flight from Paris to California, was reported fifty miles northeast of Boston in a radio message at 10:35 a. m.

Some citizens of Atlanta, Ga., opposed the building of street railways many years ago, contending the streets were too narrow for trolley cars.

Although Florida has about 1,000, 000 head of beef cattle on pasture,
a recent survey shows residents of that state import about two-thirds of the beef they eat.

Estate Boards reports a growing shortage of single-family dwellings
in 273 American cities surveyed recently.

WASHINGTON
BY GEORGE DURNO

Insurance—
Over and above protecting the public interest, the Roosevelt administration has adopted a definite policy of washing its own dirty linen, no matter in whose closet it may be found.

The word has gone down from headquarters that it should be a Democrat or a government agent who points the first accusing finger
at any bad odor in the body politic.

So far, the administration has maintained the jump on its political opposition. Secretary of Interior Ickes turned up the first graft in Public Works administration.
Harry Hopkins followed suit with respect to Civil Works. New Owners' Loan Corporation just stood off open charges from the specie camp. A Democratic congressman brought the current political situation in Michigan into the open.

It is simply a case of profiting
by the experience of previous administrations.

Republicans say privately that the New Dealers have turned up things already within their own party that the G. O. P. didn't dream existed.

In any event, they haven't had

SON-IN-LAW OF MRS. F. F. GARY

Oil Man, Formerly Of This City, But Now Of San Antonio, Lost

HOUSTON (AP)—Members of the coast guard Monday dragged gulf
waters at San Luis Pass southwest of Galveston for bodies of three members of a swimming party
from Houston, believed drowned
Sunday afternoon.

The missing were Mrs. Dean Forrest, 28, Houston insurance company employe; J. C. Thompson, about 35, Houston oil man; F. H.
Etheridge, about 40, San Antonio
oil man visiting Thompson.

The three had entered the water at San Luis Pass, 30 miles west of Galveston. Mrs. Sylvia Thompson of Houston said they went bathing and she later found that they were missing.

Cuban Police Hunt Would- Be Assassin

Daring Attempt Made On Life Of United States Ambassador

HAVANA (AP)—Entire strength of the Cuban national police was thrown into a search Monday for four men who made a daring attempt Sunday to assassinate Jefferson Caffery, United States ambassador.

The cabinet, shaken by the affair, met in a special session to discuss the plot against Caffery's life.

Explosion of two bombs in a residential section after midnight added to the excitement which gripped Havana.

After the session a spokesman said: "The government is ready to take most severe measures to end terrorism."

Disarmament Conference Is Doomed

Indications Point To Grave Situation And Its Col- lapse Is Foreshadowed

GENEVA (AP)—Representatives of the United States and England,
emerging from a long conference,
indicated Monday the disarmament
conference is in a grave situation, and its collapse is foreshadowed unless some nation can take heroic action to save it.

It was understood Sir John Simon, British conferee, gave no
inkling that England would propose any concrete steps to save the conference. Never has an international convence been accompanied by such tenseness and confusion.

Premier Mussolini's speech at Rome, referring to possibilities of war, served to increase the pessimism.

France wants a public showdown in the conference itself and ready to discuss the European pact
of mutual assistance which Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign com-missar, probably will recommend.

LOCAL MEN ASK INCREASE IN ALLOWABLE

AUSTIN (AP)—Nominations for the purchase of Texas crude daily
during June totalled 1,128,307 barrels, the Texas Railroad Commission announced at the opening of its statewide oil proration hearing
Monday.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission members, said the nominations were incomplete and had not been checked to eliminate duplications.
The current daily production for Texas is approximately 1,035,000 barrels and the Federal Bureau of Miner estimated of the June market demand for Texas crude was 1,032,000 barrels.

E. P. Gregory, Iran, engineer
for the Yates advisory committee, told the commission that field
would be more efficiently operated at 70,000 barrels daily production than at the current rate of 48,000 barrels. Bottom hole pressure in the field has declined consistently with progressive reductions in the allowable since 1932,
he said.

Representatives of the Howard Glasscock pool asked for an increase. They said the field's potential production had increased 34,000 barrels daily while the allowable was reduced 2,500 barrels daily.

Testimony offered at previous hearings was ordered included in the record for other districts.

Nominations included: West Texas 173,941 barrels.

Relatives Leave For San Antonio

F. H. Etheridge, referred to in the above Associated Press dispatch is the son-in-law of Mrs. F.
F. Gary of this city. Mrs. Gary received a telephone message from her daughter, Mrs. Belle Etheridge, in San Antonio, stating that her husband had been reported drowned while swimming near Galveston.
Mr. Etheridge had gone to Houston on business earlier in the week, it was said.

Mrs. Gary, accompanied by her son-in-law, Dr. C. B. Bivings, left at 4:30 Monday afternoon for San Antonio, where they will be joined by Mrs. Etheridge, and continue to Galveston.

McCall Gary, a brother of Mrs.
Etheridge, left at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon for Galveston, to attend
in the search for Etheridge and others.

Mr. Etheridge formerly resided here, having been engaged in the oil business here several years ago.
He and Mrs. Etheridge later moved to California, where he was connected with an oil firm, and later moved to San Antonio, where he now resides.

Juare Murder Trial Begun

State Not To Ask Death Penalty For Mexican In Friend's Death

The state will not ask the death penalty and the defense will seek a suspended sentence if Tomas Juare, charged with the murder of Supriano Leos, is convicted.

These facts became apparent
Monday morning as attorneys began the task of selecting twelve men to decide the fate of Juare.

It was repeatedly brought out by the defense in questioning of jurors that application for a suspended sentence would be sought in event the defendant was convicted. District Attorney Bob Hamilton made it plain to one juror that the state would not ask the death penalty.

Five jurors were selected within an hour after court convened Monday morning and eight had been accepted when the court recessed at noon. Accepted were W. J. Mc-Adams, H. T. Moore, H. H. Sawyer,
H. H. McPherson, A. Z. Gray, C. O.
Murphy, C. A. Denton, R. P. Hargrove.

Indications were that the trial
would get underway Monday afternoon with prospect of all evidence being submitted before the day was over.

District Attorney Bob Hamilton
and County Attorney James Little are handling the case for the state. W. S. Morrison and John B.
Littler, appointed by the court,
are defending Juare.

Juare is alleged to have shot
Leos following a drinking bout
during a Cinco de Mayo celebration. Leos was a bystander and was hit by a bullet intended for a third party, questioning of both state and defense indicated Monday.

3 Prisoners Escape Jail At Sherman

Heavily Armed, Prisoners Commander Auto And Kidnap Driver

GUTHRIE, Okla. (AP)—Three

Loot Taken In Fisher Raid Is Recovered

Sheriff Gets Large Amount Of Stolen Stuff Back Monday

Practically all the loot taken in a haul on J. & W. Fisher department store April 10 was recovered
Monday by Sheriff Jess Slaughter.

The sheriff announced recovery
of 25 dresses, 5 pair of trousers,
two coats, two vests, two pair of shoes and 9 Stetson hats taken from the Fisher store. He had previously reclaimed a large quantity of the loot which was valued at $1,000.

In addition to the materials recovered for Fisher, Slaughter said there were 3 shirts, two suits of underwear and some piece goods
taken from the United Dry Goods store.

The stolen stuff followed questioning of several Mexicans, he said. It was buried on a farm near here. All of this had been crumpled into a gunny sack.

Andres Ceniceros and Antonio Sanchez are being held in the county jail facing charges of burglary in connection with the theft.
Another Mexican is charged with burglary of Smith Brothers drug store on North Gregg street.

Slaughter said Monday that further questioning since Sanchez and Ceniceros were arrested led him to believe that a huge theft ring had been broken. He indicated other arrests might be made.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Curry and daughter, Miss Virginia of Wellington and Mr. and Mrs. James For-bis and daughter, Miss Adeline of

Carnes Wilson Nabs Golf Title Second Time

BILLY HOLMES, YOUNG TEXAS TECH STAR, ELIMINATED 9-7

Wilson, Exceptionally Steady With Both Woods And Irons, Takes Big Lead On First Nine

By TOM BEASLEY
 Carnes Wilson, the diminutive 20-year-old defending champion of the West Texas Golf Association, became the first player ever to win the championship twice when he easily disposed of Billy Holmes, young Texas Tech star from Lubbock, 9-7, in a scheduled 36-hole final on the Country Club course here Sunday.

Wilson, exceptionally steady with both woods and irons, gained a comparatively safe lead from the start of the first nine. Holmes was driving hard and accurately, but his short game was poor.

The first two holes were halved with pars, but on the third, the defender struck a tree and was five getting on the green. Holmes took the hole with a fine birdie.

Wilson evened things up again on the fourth when he canned a long putt for a birdie. The fifth and sixth were halved with pars, but on the seventh Wilson took the hole with a par after the Tech boy missed a putt. Wilson took eight with a birdie, and nine was halved with par fours.

Leads From Start
 Carnes swept far into the lead on the second nine with a burst of superb golf, taking ten, eleven and twelve in a row. Thirteen was split with par three's, but on the fourteenth Wilson missed a short putt and Holmes took the hole with a par three. Fifteen, sixteen and seventeen were halved with pars. On No. 18 Holmes drove a long one behind a tree and took three to get on the green. Carnes took the hole to go five up when he sank a short putt for a par four.

Their cards: Morning round:
 Holmes out: 433 544 454-36
 Wilson out: 436 444 344-36
 Holmes in: 544 334 455-37-72
 Wilson in: 433 344 454-34-70

In the afternoon play of the scheduled 36-hole final, Wilson missed a short putt on No. 1 and Holmes was only four down. They halved two and three with par scores, but Holmes began to get into trouble with his putting and gained a good chance on No. 4 to gain back a hole. He lost it to go five down again. They halved five and six, but Wilson was forced to take a lay-out penalty. His next shot went into a trap, and he lost the hole to go six down.

Wilson Eight Up
 Wilson swept eight up on Holmes when the Lubbock boy missed what should have been easy putts on seven and eight.

They halved the ninth with birdies and the tenth with par fours. Holmes drove wild on the eleventh, and his second shot landed over the green. He took a par four, but the steady Wilson canned a beauty for a birdie and the title.

Their cards: Afternoon round:
 Holmes out: 434 635 453-37
 Wilson out: 524 593 343-34
 Holmes in: 44
 Wilson in: 43

A large gallery followed the final. Wilson received a set of silver for winning the title. C. W. Cunningham, president of the Big Spring Country Club, awarded the prizes. A Gladstone bag went to Holmes as runner-up in the championship flight. The awards were made at the club house immediately after the final. Obie Bristow assisted.

Gulm Wins Sr. Flight
 Allen Guin, Mineral Wells, president of the Association, won the senior flight, a new division put in this year, by defeating J. E. Kuykendall of Big Spring, 3-2.

The senior flight, for players over 45 years of age, will be an annual affair in the future.

The championship consolation went to N. C. Bussey of Lubbock, a former champion. He defeated Cotton McAfee, also of Lubbock, in the final Sunday morning.

THIS LAXATIVE Cleanses Completely
 no bowel abuse

Cleanse bowels of waste matter more thoroughly, more completely with delicious Fennel-mint, the chewing gum laxative, and you'll get quicker, sure relief from dizziness, headache and other constipation ailments. Fennel-mint is more thoroughly because you chew it. Just as chewing prepares food for your stomach, so the chewing of Fennel-mint distributes its laxative ingredient uniformly throughout the intestines to give a "full," more natural movement. Thus, Fennel-mint never checks the system or abuses the bowels. Doctors themselves prescribe the laxative ingredient used in Fennel-mint. Completely, thoroughly, Fennel-mint cleanses and changes the bowels of polluted waste. At headache and dizziness, you feel more active, energetic, fresh. Fennel-mint contains no refinements to upset stomach or to get stale. "Delay" is dangerous—slow Fennel-mint for constipation! Use and see at druggists.

Dallas Team Stopped 4 To 0

Oilers Defeat Col-Tex In League Game, Eight To Seven

By HANK HART
 Cosden baseball stock soared upward Sunday as the Oilers swept a double-header. They defeated the Dallas Railroaders, 4 to 0, and came from behind in the second till to edge out Col-Tex of Colorado, 8 to 7, in ten innings.

Flashing a marvelous exhibition of cooperation and teamwork, the Oilers found both teams with a fury which resulted in well earned victories. Almost 1,000 people turned out to see how the home town lads could stride against the Dallasites, and seemed surprised that they could hold their own.

The Railroaders learned a lesson when Cosden succeeded in making four runs out of three hits, while the visitors were collecting twice as many bingles, but never once law pay dirt. "Lefty" Potter kept the visiting nine baffled with his slow ball.

Looked Bad For Oilers
 For the first two innings in the league tilt with Colorado, it looked bad for the Oilers. Col-Tex collected six runs before the Oilers hit their stride.

Dallas threatened in the first frame when Tate doubled and Stallings was hit by a pitched ball, but Potter whiffed Lusk and forced Post to roll to Garcia who relayed to Terrazas for the third out.

The Dallasites again had men on base in the second and third innings, but did not score. Moffett and Pierrro teamed up to nip a spark at home plate.

Albert Garcia, who was a spark plug at third base, broke the ice in the third when, with Madison on second and Sain on third, he smashed a Texas Leaguer into center field to send Cosden into a two run lead.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN.

Chapter 13. INQUIRY

A few minutes later Mrs. Dufresne's sister arrived, with her husband, Richard Croymen. One had only to glance at Alina Croymen to recognize her as the sister of Sylvia Dufresne. Her hair approached an auburn shade rather than the golden blonde coloring of her sister.

Her features, too, though of the same distinctive beauty, had less of the fragile and ethereal quality. Her natural manner was more vigorous and forthright, though not lacking either in pose or gracefulness.

Mrs. Croymen accused herself at the first opportunity to go upstairs and see if she could be of any service. Harper continued to talk with Richard Croymen. He found that brother-in-law of Pierre Dufresne a nervous, impulsive personality, but with an alert, incisive turn of mind.

He questioned the detective closely along lines which showed that he had a keen grasp of the essentials of the mystery and a bond of mutual liking and respect sprang up between him and the Sergeant of Detectives at their first contact.

It was not until later that the detective found that Croymen was the famous concert pianist.

Croymen was not the only one who exhibited a strong interest in the strange mystery of the breakfast-room. The chauffeur, Donaghy, listened intently and said nothing. And Harper was surprised to glance upward and find Dr. Ulrich standing near the head of the stairs, absorbed in the conversation below. He caught the detective's look and slowly backed away with a sardonic gleam of the eye.

When Mrs. Croymen returned from upstairs, Harper mustered them all in the breakfast-room. They formed into natural groups, facing the body in the chair. In one group were Pierre Dufresne, and Mr. and Mrs. Croymen. To the other were the two Whitmores, Andrews, and Donaghy.

The detective gave a brief summary of the situation, to which they listened in absolute silence. He demonstrated how the features had been altered by the daggers.

"Have any of you ever seen this man before?"

Pierre Dufresne looked on in stony silence.

"Have you, Mrs. Croymen?"

"As sure I have not," she answered in a very small voice.

"Mr. Croymen?"

"No, Sergeant. Sorry I can't help you."

"Whitmore?"

The black-browed Mrs. Whitmore spoke up before her slow-minded spouse could pull his wife together. "No, we've never seen him," she answered, sharply.

"Perhaps your husband would prefer to answer for himself," Harper suggested, annoyed by her air.

"Well, I ought to know. We've been married twenty-some years, and if I didn't see him, John didn't see him," she shot back, her black eyes snapping.

"That's right, I don't know him," the slow-voiced John Whitmore replied, with a sheepish look.

"Andrew?"

The light-tipped butler looked more glum than ever as he silently shook his head.

"Donaghy?"

The handsome chauffeur had been the most interested member of the group. He looked long and carefully at the unidentified victim. "It seems to me I have seen this man somewhere before," he stated, slowly.

His deliberate words had the effect of a bombshell in that room. Harper caught the sudden tension, the sharp hiss of some one's breath, a catch that just missed being a gasp. His eye sought the group. Andrew's look was positively venomous. The detective scented something in the wind.

"Think hard, Donaghy. This is most important."

Joseph Donaghy held his pause to the limit, then he smiled and shook his head. "For a moment I thought I had it—something about the face. I'll try to remember, Sergeant. Maybe it will come back to me."

That was what Donaghy's words brought to Harper's ear, but it was as if Donaghy's real voice had been saying, "I know this man. That knowledge is dangerous to one of you. Will it be made worth while for me to forget?"

And more than one pair of ears was aware of the importance of both messages!

The following day, Wednesday, January 11th, dawned clear and cold. The heavy fall of snow had tapered off about midnight, and there had been very little wind to disturb it afterward.

Harper, arriving for duty at Dufresne's house shortly after eight o'clock, noted with satisfaction the undisturbed condition of the white blanket surrounding the house. A caprice of Nature had contrived this smooth carpet to record a portion of the previous night's fantastic story and the detective proposed to make good use of it.

Harper found Mrs. Richard Croymen in the hall, deep in consultation with the black-browed housekeeper, Mrs. Martha Whitmore. Despite the late hour at which she had retired, Alina Croymen was serene and clear-eyed, and without a trace of fatigue. She wore a tailored morning dress and its sheer simplicity of line enhanced her air of youthful charm.

"Good morning, Mrs. Croymen," Harper greeted her, and nodded pleasantly to the housekeeper.

Mrs. Whitmore returned a grudging nod and retreated to her domain in the rear of the house.

"Good morning, Mr. Harper," Alina responded, with a cordial smile. "Or should I say 'Sergeant' Harper?"

The detective smiled with her. "Not unless you prefer it. There is the theory that the best way to address a Sergeant of Police is to batch of dusting powders that had been sprayed here and there in the search for fingerprints.

"You certainly leave nothing to chance," Mrs. Croymen observed.

"This morning I saw there was a policeman guarding Mr. Dufresne's room. Isn't that a rather unusual procedure, Mr. Harper? Surely, but night's events put an end to the danger."

The detective shook his head. "This is an unusual case, Mrs. Croymen. We do not actually know that the man found in the room is the man who threatened Mr. Dufresne and attempted to kill him."

"But surely you have a theory? I thought the matter was quite clear."

Secret Service

It is not a new but a greatly increased staff of detectives that is working out of the Interior department. The lads are specialists on contract and building graft. Agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue are inquiring into incomes with renewed vigor.

The Department of Justice, as usual, gets an assortment of assignments for the men it can ill spare from the deadly serious business of hunting down Dillinger, kidnapers and the like.

There is an increasing amount of surface evidence to indicate that the U. S. Secret Service is looking into other things than counterfeiting and protection of the White House family.

When Horatio J. Abbott came to Washington last week to answer charges he was using his dual position as Collector of Internal Revenue at Detroit and Democratic National Committeeman for Michigan to solicit campaign funds he was accompanied by the principal Detroit Secret Service agent. One of the three most active participants in the questioning of Abbott which preceded his resignation as Collector was W. H. Moran, Chief of the Secret Service.

The U. S. S. S. has figured in other investigations here in official Washington outside the scope of their normal duties.

Crime

In the field of vicious crime, the government is letting go with both barrels. Sudden appearance of the Moley crime report after most people thought it had died aborning convinced Washington observers of this.

Prof. Moley's recommendation that the Department of Justice be given at least 600 more agents was designed to strengthen the like appeal Attorney General Cummings made to congress.

It was accepted here as just that much more evidence that the administration is determined to stamp out kidnaping and murderous interstate marauding.

When President Roosevelt recently put his signature on a series of bills destined to give federal agents more authority in running down interstate criminals, he made one statement which has a significant background in this connection. Among other things, he said: "Law enforcement and gangster extermination cannot be made completely effective so long as a substantial part of the public looks with tolerance upon known criminals, permits public officers to be corrupted or intimidated by them or applauds efforts to romanticize crime."

This was contained in a statement issued simultaneously with signing of the bills. It had been prepared in the Department of Justice. White House advisers sought to persuade the president to eliminate that final quoted phrase concerning romanticizing crime. They argued it might offend cer-

MRS. HOUSER'S PUPILS TO APPEAR IN RECITAL TONIGHT AND TUESDAY

Piano pupils of Mrs. E. F. Houser will close the semester's work with two recitals on Monday and Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the high school auditorium. A group will be presented in joint recital with Mrs. S. H. Gibson's expression pupils Monday evening, while the Tuesday program will be given by piano pupils with fill-in numbers by guest performers.

Two tuition awards will given Tuesday evening, the first a four months' free tuition in piano, to the student with the highest average, a second, a month's tuition, to the student showing the most hours of practice.

Piano pupils have shown greater interest in their study this year than in former years. Mrs. Houser said. This is greatly due to the interest manifested in the piano tournament held in the spring in Abilene as a part of the national movement to foster greater interest in the study of piano. Mrs. Houser believes. She plans to enter her class in next spring's tournament.

A third performance by Mrs. Houser's piano pupils will be given within a week in the form of a private recital.

The program for the Monday and Tuesday recitals was carried in Sunday's Herald.

NEW YORK Action

To date New York opposition to the New Deal has been mostly talk. Despite plenty of vehement squawks against "unjustifiable pressure" no important interests have felt brash enough to defy Washington by overt action. Of course the New Deal program has been violated many times in both spirit and letter—but only surreptitiously.

Now a group of substantial institutions are about to kick. Washington wishes squarely in the eye. The hold rebels are the New York savings banks. With possibly one or two exceptions they are planning to secede en masse from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and create a comparable insurance setup for themselves alone. The move has been brewing for some time and will soon be openly announced.

FDIC officials are not happy about it. That's understandable. The seceding institutions represent about 26 per cent of all insurable deposits—not total deposits—in the country. But official pleas and arguments leave the savings banks as cold as a penguin's feet.

Safe

The savings banks never wanted to sign up for FDIC in the first place. They thought it grossly unfair to be asked to underwrite the losses of commercial banks. But they were bludgeoned into it by Washington pressure as exerted through an officer of one of the largest savings institutions. He said he would enroll his bank any way and the others were afraid not to follow suit because depositors might get funny ideas and start withdrawals in volume.

This fear has now vanished. The banks are confident they can convince their depositors of better protection under the new system and anticipate no trouble whatever.

The rebels also feel safe from Washington reprisals. Membership in FDIC is purely voluntary. Moreover they all operate under state charters and have no responsibility to federal authorities at all. If Washington doesn't like it that's just too bad.

Critics of other New Deal phases are keenly interested in this "declaration of independence." They figure that if one group can get away with defying the lightning, why not others?

a typical Kathleen Norris novel. To many that's a much sadder thing than a knock. James Dunn turns in a creditable performance as the wise, crackling "crooner" who bluffs his way before the milk. Ginger Rogers appears as she usually does, as a "gold digging" chorine, whose first love is money. The hero tanks No. 2 with her.

Miss Gaynor, a personification of the sweet and pure, is said to be a poor orphan girl who graduates from college and has had going until perseverance and virtue wins its reward. In her own words, she is the "mamma but not the hot mama."

It is she who endures many things, goes to Farrell's aid when his is cast aside and dangerously ill, nurses him back to health and stands lily by until it becomes apparent that treacherous Ginger is to take the man, she loves. And Miss Gaynor comes through according to the script and retains the affections of her husband, who is promptly promoted in his law firm.

Farrell, at his best opposite Miss Gaynor, gives an admirable characterization of a cocky young man who jumps at conclusions in matters of romance, unstable in love until the crisis comes.

Large crowds saw the production at the Ritz Sunday and pronounced it good entertainment, but they were mostly agreed that it was in about the same class as "Hunny Side Up" and other Gaynor-Farrell hits.

That means it is a simple romance that means nothing but an enjoyable evening at the theater. It makes no pretensions to greatness on any other grounds—J. D. P.

Decoration Day

WEEKS ago the advance guard of Spring crept stealthily upon us. Little by little the bedraggled patches of snow, the last defenders of winter's fortress, reluctantly surrendered. Then with a rush the conquering hosts of May came galloping over the hills with a blare of bugles and bravely flaunting banners.

It's the age-old onslaught, the age-old miracle of the victory of eternal life. But always it presents itself anew, flashing with strange beauty, brimming over with inspiration.

Decoration Day is a day of commemoration. Let us make it truly a day of decoration. First, let us trim the hours with garlands of friendly, happy thoughts. Let us take a lesson from Nature, tripping merrily in a new dress, embroidered gaily with bright flowers. A new dress for yourself, Mrs. United States. A new suit for you, Mr. America. New togs for Uncle Sam's little nieces and nephews. A new rug for the porch. Some comfortable wicker chairs with gay cretonne cushions.

Let's brighten up—freshen up—put Winter completely out of our thinking.

For inspiration look to the advertisements in this newspaper. They suggest scores of things you need, things you will enjoy, things of honest value sponsored by manufacturers and merchants on whose statements you can rely.

MINNEAPOLIS STRIKERS BEAT OFFICERS IN RIOTING

The cameraman caught this remarkable bit of action in the Minneapolis riots at the height of turbulence shortly before a truce was called in one of the most bitter labor disputes in the city's history. The man in left foreground was one of numerous special officers to be clubbed by strikers and sympathizers in the riots. His assailant is shown completing a swing with a baseball bat. When the legislature quits its own experiment of controlling administrative appointments through legislative channels—the speaker and lieutenant governor, rather than executive appointment—will it turn to election of more officials, or will it give the governor the authority again, or spread it among department heads?

One definite defect in the Texas Centennial commission bill is revealed before the bill was to become a law, May 29. Desiring to recognize organized labor, the legislature set out to name the executive secretary of the Texas Federation of Labor. It named George H. Slater, who held the place, and who resided in Austin in performance of his duties.

The services will be conducted this week at the church building 14th and Main, as usual, 10:00 a. m. and 8:15 p. m.

The church in Big Spring is grateful to the people of the city and surrounding communities, for the unusual co-operation and good will shown during the revival effort, and is anxious that all who can will attend the remaining services and enjoy the spiritual feast.

Under The Dome

By GORDON R. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—The Texas capitol has its own "human fly." State employees dizzily watched Walter Langlin, porter, as he dusted the capitol dome's interior this week. Langlin does it twice a year. He walks sure-footed along the narrowing ledges that simulate galleries in the upper domes, plying his brush with unconcern. He does the hazardous house-cleaning at his regular porter wage.
The dome is 310 feet from ground to top. There are galleries at the second, third and fourth floors. Above that, ledges replace galleries. They become narrower as they approach the top of the dome. The highest barely leaves room for Langlin's body, pressed against the wall.

The dome, old timers will tell you, is not the one originally fabricated for the Texas state capitol. That one was made in Belgium. The ship bringing it across the Atlantic foundered and a second dome had to be made. The dome was put up without loss of life. One capitol workman, since, has been killed by a fall while painting it.

The capitol's visitors are seasonal. In May, school children by the hundreds flock through the building. Many come from distant school districts on Saturday by school bus. Railroad excursions have brought them from Dallas and Fort Worth.
In June, brides and bridegrooms register in great numbers. There is a visitors' book in the hall of the house of representatives.

Mid-summer brings the family groups. They stop at the capitol on automobile tours. Besides papa and the children, mama is usually along, uncomfortable in high heeled shoes and unaccustomed khaki. Fall brings its group of freshmen, arriving in Austin early for the opening of the college term. Winter's visitors are mostly men.

The number of vacant-house fires has decreased so rapidly that the state fire insurance commission has rescinded an order that made local agents make periodical inspections of such insured property.

The pursuit that ended in death for Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, actively will lead to establishment of a central crime bureau when the next legislature convenes.

Both the Barrow and Hamilton chases demonstrated the faults of the existing uncoordinated agencies.

State highway patrolmen, assured by Fort Worth police that Barrow's fingerprints connected him with the slaying of highway patrolman at Grapevine, centered on his capture. Tarrant county officers charged Raymond Hamilton's brother and Bonnie Parker's sister.

Success of former Ranger Captain Frank Hamer, acting as a state highway patrolman, points to him as the man likely to head the central bureau if it is formed.

Dr. Arthur Sillies, for many years state reclamation officer, fears that the state is bringing a plague of crop-destroying insects upon itself by failure to provide bird thickets. CWA activities have done much to destroy bird shelters, he believes.

"In plans for drainage and levee districts," he said, "we always left instructions that trees be left at specified distances for birds. We found that in spite of such instructions, the trees would all be cleared out. Without suitable places for nesting, the birds disappear from a section. When they disappear, insects flourish and crops suffer."

Texas relief funds cannot be used to pay insurance premiums for protection of relief workers. Assistant Attorney General Sidney Benson so notified the relief commission upon inquiry. Proposals to insure workers against death and accident had been made to the commission. Several deaths and accidents have occurred among those given employment.

Urges Vaccination Of Children During School Vacation

AUSTIN—Parents of children who will enter school this fall are reminded by Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, that vaccinations are a good time to have their children vaccinated against smallpox.

"The family physician is expected to vaccinate every baby and young child under his care," Dr. Brown said, "and the parents should see that it is done. The earlier it is attended to, the better it is for the child. Until the child enters school, the responsibility for having him or her protected against smallpox rests with the parents. After this it is shared by the teachers."

"Children, if vaccinated in the first year of life and again in the tenth or twelfth year, will be immune to the disease, practically for life. Single vaccinations usually last from seven to ten years. In part, this explains why most of the cases that have developed in the past few years are in adults who were vaccinated only once."

"Smallpox is a disease of ignorance and indifference. It attacks the rich and the poor, the healthy and the weak, with no discrimination; but it does not attack the immunized person who safeguards his health by taking advantage of modern preventative medicine."
"To stop vaccination would be relaxing our vigilance and the result would be rapid infection of non-immune people. There were

By Raymond Brooks

Sen. John W. Hornsby of Austin has stressed one aspect of the Texas oil control proposal that goes even beyond danger to the two-cent state production tax. In a speech of his race for lieutenant governor, Sen. Hornsby arraigned the federal oil control plan severely. It would, he declared, jeopardize all future state tax revenues from all the resources of Texas. Striking down state school, general fund and university revenues from oil now, the policy of federal administration of national resources would rapidly spread from oil to natural gas, then to sulphur, coal, potash, timber and all resources. And as fast as control was assumed, the taxing power would go with it.

A three-way race has been formed in Jefferson county for the legislative seat held by Rep. H. L. McKee of Port Arthur.
McKee is a candidate for re-election. Mrs. Wilhelmina Sheffield, secretary of the Beaumont real estate board, and an advocate of a state-sales tax, is actively campaigning. Nelson Carter of Beaumont is the third entrant in this race.

There is but one specific prospect that Texas must be driven to new exploitation taxes. That is that the federal government, by some Ikee-Thomas-Disney or similar bill, should dry up the state's only substantial tax on the severance of its natural resources. The oil, tax, and later the gasoline tax, make petroleum the chief source of revenue. But the gasoline tax is a sales tax, and is paid by the user not the producer of oil. The state gets some revenues from sulphur, and some from cement, and infinitesimal taxes from natural gas—but after all, oil is the one source of enough money to affect the state's financial set-up.
