

Smith announces meeting of student body presidents

Gov. Preston Smith has called his first meetings with student body presidents.

A letter was sent to Student Association President Mike Riddle asking his presence at the meetings April 10 and 11. President-elect Jay Thompson will be sworn in April 9 and will represent Tech at the meetings.

The letter reads:
Dear Mr. Riddle:
In order to create and strengthen a higher level of understanding, I am organizing a series of meetings with student body presidents from all over the state.

These student and governor Communication Conferences will bring students and young people into a working relationship with their state government, and especially the governor's office.

It is my goal to establish a continuous exchange of ideas with our young people and to hear your views on state government and our society in general.

On Friday and Saturday, April 11 and 12, we will hold a conference of student body presidents from colleges with similar problems and opportunities. The whole conference will be completely informal and off the cuff, and will include an informal dinner Friday evening with some leaders from The University of Texas and some of my staff, a conference in the governor's office Saturday morning, and an informal luncheon. . . . I hope to see you in Austin.

Sincerely,
Preston Smith
Governor of Texas

Ike holding own

WASHINGTON — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition leveled off Thursday and doctors reported a halt in the weakening of his heart.

After reporting a steady deterioration of the 78-year-old general's heart function for several days, Walter Reed Army Hospital said in the late-afternoon bulletin he was resting more comfortably and breathing more easily.

"Gen. Eisenhower has rested more comfortably today and there is no evidence at this time of further deterioration of his congestive heart failure.

"His breathing appears to be somewhat easier this afternoon. He remains generally weak and has slept for longer periods today. He has taken some semisolid nourishment, Mrs. Eisenhower and members of the immediate family have visited and conversed with the general at intervals."

Senators approve spending

AUSTIN — Senators approved the highest spending bill in Texas history without a hitch Thursday.

The record two-year $5.77 billion appropriation measure was passed, 31-0, after Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., of Paris told his colleagues:

"It's the best bill I've ever seen. . . I hope this Senate will give it 31 votes. It deserves 31 votes."

Aikin, the Senate dean with 32 years of service, was given most of the credit for working out the bill, which provides $1.21 billion from the general revenue fund, the first time it has exceeded $1 billion. The proposed $1.1 billion house spending bill is expected to be debated by April 15.

Troops engage Viets

SAIGON — U.S. troops fought the North Vietnamese in two sharp engagements Thursday south of the demilitarized zone. One battle raged on into the night, with the thunder of American artillery and enemy mortars echoing across the coastal hills.

Allied patrols in the area had been making frequent contact with the North Vietnamese recently, indicating that the enemy is making increasing use of the buffer zone dividing Vietnam.

An Army spokesman said several hundred infantry of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division, began a sweep looking for the enemy a little west of Con Thien and four miles south of the zone.

Forging through dense undergrowth, they ran into about 500 North Vietnamese who opened fire about 10 a.m. from trenches and foxholes. The U.S. infantry was without its usual tanks and armored vehicles because Annamite range foothills there are too steep.

Preliminary battlefield reports said 35 North Vietnamese and 11 Americans were killed. Another 31 Americans were wounded.

Harassment must stop

WASHINGTON — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen accused federal officials Thursday of harassing businessmen about job discrimination and he threatened to have them fired if they don't stop it.

The Illinois senator made his declaration at the opening of a Senate inquiry into Nixon administration enforcement of the nondiscrimination provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The main targets of the inquiry are $9.4-million Defense Department contracts with three Southern textile firms accused of discrimination and a Department of Transportation decision to rescind "prequalification procedures" adopted last October for bidding on federal highway contracts.

Jordan accuses Israel

UNITED NATIONS — Jordan accused Israel before the U.N. Security Council Thursday of staging an air raid on a Jordanian village to head off a Big Four meeting aimed at settling the Middle East conflict.

Israel denied it and counter-charged that Arab terror warfare was what "undermines peacemaking efforts."

Israel said the village, Ein Hazar near the town of Salt, was hit Wednesday because it was headquarters for terror forays, and warned that if the Arab governments did not stop such terrorism, Israel would stop it for them.

The 16-nation council met urgently by request of both sides as Soviet, U.S., British and French delegates prepared for a private four-power meeting probably next week on how to get a general settlement.

WRITING INSTITUTE SPEAKER—Dr. William F. Carstens, manager of the technical information department of Sandia Corporation, Albuquerque, N.M., is one of several speakers taking part in Tech's third annual Technical Writing Institute which opened Thursday in the Union. More than 60 technical writers registered Thursday for the two-day institute, with attendance reaching 100 faculty and student guests. Today's sessions will feature talks by Leland Stephens, special agent for the FBI in Lubbock; Ralph C. Martin of the University of Oklahoma Research Institute, Norman, Okla., and Claron D. ## Secretary declares U.S. ready to talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers declared U.S. readiness Thursday for secret talks with the enemy on a Vietnam settlement, and for simultaneous U.S. — North Vietnamese troop withdrawal "over a very short period of time."

But Rogers avoided saying such private negotiations have already begun at Paris — on grounds that talking about secret talks impairs their usefulness — and he indicated the enemy has not yet accepted Saigon's latest offer for informal meetings.

Rogers testified at Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings, giving a global account of the foreign policy of the new Nixon administration. The session was carried on radio and television.

It was the new secretary of state's first such appearance before the group headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D—Ark. — and the cordial atmosphere contrasted with the chill accorded Dean Rusk during his latter months as secretary of state.

Many committeemen found Rusk too tough on Vietnam policy.

"I think your first performance has been excellent . . . very useful and an auspicious beginning," Fulbright told the 55-year-old Rogers, a former lawyer, at the wind-up of three hours of testimony.

Rogers ranged through current foreign issues in his overall presentation — defending President Nixon's go-ahead for an antiballistic missile system, expressing hope for a Middle East solution, foreseeing potential substantial progress in dealing with the Soviets.

On Vietnam, he offered the fullest outline publicly delivered by the Nixon administration to date on how it hopes to achieve peace.

The secretary of state said that basically, a satisfactory settlement bringing stability to Southeast Asia probably must come from an international political agreement rather than a Korea-type solution leaving sizable U.S. forces still on the scene for guard duty.

He treated the Viet Cong's attack on the Saigon government's offer of private negotiations as probably "propaganda" and said that past negotiating progress in the Paris talks and "out of the way places" had come through secret sessions, also in Paris.

Respect for others required

Bettleheim cites need for autonomy of man

By CLETUS SICKLER
Staff Writer

Man can be autonomous in the future but it means he will have to respect others, says Dr. Bruno Bettleheim.

Bettleheim, doctor of psychology and philosophy, spoke on "Autonomy and Alienation in Today's World" Thursday as part of the University Speakers Series.

Bettleheim said the history of mankind has been full of insecurity and starvation, with the life expectancy of 30 years and most people dying before they reached one year old.

Until this century Bettleheim said "man wanted, hoped, for these advantages (enough to eat and security) and feared he would never get them."

"The discontent of man with human living is more keenly felt than ever before," Bettleheim went on to say. Bettleheim said the present discontent and alienation is not only in the cities, but it is also an emotional distance. This emotional distance is called the generation gap—the generation of the father and the generation of the son.

"The greatest complaint of modern youth is closely tied with modern technology—nobody needs them. They feel society could exist without them and it is true. Machinery has done away with a lot of jobs."

Bettleheim quoted an ancient Chinese proverb: "If a rich man has no sons he won't stay rich very long. If a poor man has many sons he won't stay poor very long."

This was during the time, Bettleheim explained, when farmers needed many hands and the younger generation knew they were needed.

"With the hardships that existed," Bettleheim said, "no one could be autonomous. They had self respect because they knew they were needed and self respect can go a long way."

Bettleheim told the story of the two porcupines; "During the cold winter they had to stay close together or die. But if they got too close they would stick each other with their quills. . . . So they had to learn how to get warmth and companionship from one another without getting under each other's skin."

The modern middle class, Bettleheim said, tries to provide separate bedrooms for every one, where they grow up in painful isolation. "The emotional events of family life (birth, marriage, death) are taken out of the home."

"A person's sense of alienation," says Bettleheim, "becomes that of body, the immediate world—family, work, friends—and of society."

In past times a person would be glad to pay the small price of alienation, says Bettleheim, for the socio-economic advantages and the social expression that he was denied.

In those days, Bettleheim went on to say, "it was a sheer task of keeping alive; they were never required to step out and look at themselves."

Bettleheim said mass society made possible by modern technology caused their feeling of alienation and craving for autonomy.

"Unfortunately we don't see both together, but as either (or)," Bettleheim said.

If mankind wants relative autonomy in a mechanized alien world, Bettleheim said, then he must start in infancy and in the home; the seed has to be planted at the beginning of life.

"In the future man will be living in a partially alienated world and it (autonomy) is up to the future generations."

Public hearing due on movie proposal

By KATHY RHOADS
Staff Writer

The Lubbock City Council Thursday afternoon set April 24 as the date for a public hearing concerning the rating of motion pictures shown in Lubbock.

The hearing will be at 1:30 p.m. and Mayor W. D. "Dub" Rogers requested that anyone wishing to speak should register at the door.

The city ordinance concerns setting up a classification committee that will rate various movies. Dr. James H. Granberry, councilman, suggested that one or more public hearings be conducted and that the Tech students should have a chance to voice their opinions.

Granberry asked that the local ordinance be patterned after the motion picture industries rating system. Deaton Rigby, councilman, said that the line was very fine where you are protecting the interests of minors and where you started censorship. Rigby said that he didn't want the content of movie restricted but he wanted the ages restricted according to the motion picture industry and the Supreme Court.

Rogers expressed his opinion that as a broadcaster he was opposed to censorship in any way and that as long as people are paying to see a movie that they don't like being told what to see.

Morris W. Turner, councilman, said that the only basis for determining what is good for people is the people. Fred Senter, city attorney, said his main objection was that Lubbock was allowing the motion picture industry to set up standards that are inherently weak. He sighted the movie "Candy" as an example. Rogers was in favor of using the standards that the motion picture industry set up and make our own criteria from them.

Turner suggested that the classification committee was the only answer to the problem and that a cross section of the community should be selected to rate the movies.

Members set for committee on dorm rules

Dr. Glenn Barnett, executive vice president, announced Thursday the administration's members for an ad hoc committee to review and recommend revisions for dormitory regulations for 1969-70.

Dr. O. L. Caskey, vice president for student affairs, was appointed chairman. No meeting date has been set, but Barnett has set April 10 as the date for a preliminary report.

M. L. Pennington, vice president for business affairs; Lewis N. Jones, assistant dean of students for administration; Guy Moore, director of housing, and Dr. Florence Phillips, professor of psychology and former dean of women, have also been named to the committee, Barnett said.

Student members appointed Wednesday by Mike Riddle, Student Association president, are John Perrin, president of Men's Residence Council; Melinda Mitchell, president of Women's Residence Council; Jay Thompson, president-elect of the Student Association, and Riddle.

Speech series to discuss Christian unity situation

Dr. Albert C. Outler, active in the ecumenical movement, will deliver four speeches on the theme, "Problems and Prospects of Christian Unity," Monday through Wednesday in the Union Ballroom for the University Speakers Series.

Dr. David M. Vigness, chairman of the department of social sciences, said Outler will speak Monday at 9:30 a.m. on "Problems of Authority in the Church: A Crucial Ecumenical Dialogue;" Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. on "Development and Change: The Hope of Ecumenical Progress;" and Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. on "What Price Christian Unity?"

The Willson Lecturer for 1969, Outler was a delegate-observer to the Second Vatican Council, a member of the academic council at Jerusalem Institute for Advanced Theological Studies and twice a delegate to the World Council of Churches assemblies.

The Willson Lecturer is a series of lectures with religious topics sponsored each year since 1949 by Mr.

and Mrs. J. M. Willson, leaders in the Methodist church, of Floydada.

Outler, author of "A Methodist at Vatican II" and "Psycho-Therapy and the Christian Message," has presented more than 20 lecture series across the United States in the last 15 years.

Recount scheduled for secretary race

Larry Carter, secretary for elections, announced Thursday ballots for secretary cast in the executive officer elections March 21 will be canvassed at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Karen Johnson was declared winner over Lynn Hamilton by 95 votes. Miss Johnson polled 3,375 votes, and Miss Hamilton received 3,280.

Carter said the recount was not requested, but votes would be retabulated due to the close count. This will not be a public canvass, Carter said, but the two candidates will be invited to attend.

Florence Telders, a miniskirted young mother who plays pop records to her children. "Nobody has seen them for years. But as long as they keep making records and films it will be all right."

They plan to do just that. John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo last performed in public Aug. 29, 1966, in San Francisco. Promoters have offered them $1 million a night or more to go back on stage, but the Beatles, not hurting for money, have refused.

The size and the clothes-tearing mood of ecstatic Beatles audiences, plus increasing complexity of the pop group's electronic musical paraphernalia has made logistics for live performances comparable to planning a small-scale war.

"No more public shows — never," said Ringo, who nine years ago was a factory apprentice making $14.40 a week. "I suppose it's a bit nasty on the fans."

Fans who heard about their decision from newsmen had varying reactions. "Ow, this is terrible. I kept hoping they'd come back," said Victoria Adrian, a petite 15-year-old brunette.

"First Paul gets married and now we're never going to see them any more — I don't know which is worse," said teen-ager Sally Webster. McCartney married New York divorcee Linda Eastman this month to the howling protest of worshippers outside his house.

"It's just as well they're not coming back," said another fan. "I still like their music but the way they've been carrying on lately has put me off. John Lennon over there in Holland in bed with his wife, for instance."

Editorial

'In loco parentis' alive, dead, or crumbling?

A University Daily editorial from January, 1968 carried the headline "University's 'parent complex' crumbling." Since then, the crumbling has continued. The positions of dean of men and dean of women have been abolished. Dr. Glenn Barnett has become executive vice president and Dr. Owen Caskey has become vice president for student affairs; neither suffers from "in loco parentis" complexes.

The appointment of a committee to recommend next year's housing policies has set the stage for the first real "in loco parentis" showdown.

Four students with a list of comparatively liberal housing recommendations will be confronted by a committee including former Dean of Women Florence Phillips, Director of Residence Halls Guy Moore and Vice President for Business Affairs M. L. Pennington — three stalwarts of the "in loco parentis" tradition.

What will they say to free choice of residence for 21-year-olds, curfew elimination for junior and senior women, referendums on dress rules, room checks and room visitation hours? Barnett wants the committee's recommendations by April 10. Caskey says UD reporters will be welcomed at the meetings.

We should see soon whether "in loco parentis" is alive or dead — or just still crumbling.

Discusses Yarish platform

(Editor's note: This letter was written before Student Association officer elections Friday.)

Wednesday's statements of position by the candidates for president and vice-president of the Student Association were most interesting.

The vice-presidential candidates are running for second place and are both trying harder. The presidential race is shaping up about as expected: Arthur is shouting as usual (he'd be sunk if he got laryngitis), Jay's trying to woo the female vote with his smile and Mike's not talking, with the exception of getting rid of the two top men in the athletic department. I can only suppose that he means Polk Robinson and J T King, something which is quite often muttered about, but never really seen in print. Hmmm. Might be a good idea at that, if Tech doesn't go to the Cotton Bowl next year.

However, this letter is mainly about one Arthur G. Yarish, Junior, School of Business Administration, of New York City. Arthur Yarish has SOMETHING to say, but he keeps shouting over people's heads, and I'm going deaf.

I WAS REALLY sorry to see the picture selected for publication. It would be nice to see what he looks like with his mouth closed.

I'm quite sure that Mr. Yarish is an intelligent young man or he wouldn't be running for the office of SAP. But he has made the same mistake that other would-be militants and pseudo-intellectuals have made in the past. That of "Demand and it will be given—or else."

If one wants something bad enough, he MUST WORK FOR IT (I can shout in print, also, Arthur). An excellent example of this fact is the McCarthy Kids. They worked, not protested. They distributed campaign literature door-to-door or mailed it. Note that McCarthy beat Johnson in New Hampshire and that Humphrey had the Dickens scared out of him.

YARISH INSISTS that the students audit the business of running Tech. Really, Arthur! This isn't the Middle Ages. Students no longer really want to have control of the universities, or they still would. The only good thing about the Good Old Days is that they are gone.

Any BA student should know about simple economics and credit ratings. Believe it or not, Mr. Yarish, the reason that buildings go up on the campus is because Tech has a good

Boost morale

Letters can be an excellent morale booster. Please publish the following announcement.

credit rating because it pays its bills on time because the policy is to try to keep rent-paying students in the revenue-providing dorms. THIS IS THE BOARD OF DIRECTOR'S RESPONSIBILITY BOTH TO THE STUDENTS OF THIS INSTITUTION AND THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS.

On Yarish's proposed speakers policy, let me say only that laws against incitement to riot exist under the protection of Article Four, section four, same Constitution.

ON YARISH'S scholastics position, about everyone agrees with the first six. But the seventh is slightly different. The outlay to start a minority ethnic studies department could not be justified against the return here at Tech anywhere in the near future. Suggest he try San Francisco State.

LABOR is a farce! State employees are specifically excluded from the Federal standards. But I call attention to the fact that all state employees are paid by the same scales and that Texas plans to match or exceed Federal standards by 1972.

It is nice that Arthur espouses 18-year old voters, like everyone else, but is it really relevant?

IN HIS WINDUP, Mr. Yarish, as usual, DEMANDS continued meetings (confrontations?) with the administration. REQUEST sounds much more reasonable and not so harsh, which is why it is used when he writes of SOUL.

Yarish also states that he will support to the best of his abilities (Sorry, 'ability.' He only has one) effective interaction of all campus groups. Yet, in his closing paragraph, he speaks of "the rights and equities ... of individuals ..."

Yarish says that he would make a bi-weekly report, apparently in speech form. Wasn't he the one who grabbed the microphone and vilified Dr. Murray for trying to answer questions with a prepared speech? Think about it.

I'm naturally quiet, like most Texans, as Texas speaks for itself in its greatness, but when riled, like most Texans, I'll fight like a javalina.

Lynn Eldridge was elected senator from Agriculture with 70 votes.

Other Agriculture candidates were Mike Ligon, 50; and Keith Williamson, 23.

The Dixon (Ill.) State School, Fagan, who plans to become a teacher of the deaf retarded, is enrolled in Tech's program in special education of the deaf.

THE NEW recipient brings to four the number of Tech students who are studying under Illinois grants. Stipends were awarded earlier by the Dixon school to Miss Barbara Chamberlain from Cartersville, Ga., and by the Lincoln State School of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Byron of Lubbock.

The Tech program, launched last fall, was the first university course of study to be approved by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the training of teachers of the deaf retarded, Dr. Costello said.

TECH IS AFFILIATED with the Dixon school and with the Lubbock State School, slated to get under way this spring, in preparing personnel for service in this area of special education.

Tracksters topple SWC marks

DALLAS—Harassed by lingering, wintry weather, Southwest Conference track and field performers greeted the advent of spring with efforts that foretold an exceptional season.

Top performances in the month-old campaign were achieved on two fronts last week in 14 of 16 events, and in eight of them, the marks were better than those of last year at the same time. Existing SWC records were broken by Rice's mile relay and by freshman Pete Morales of Baylor in the three-mile run.

Rice nipped Texas in a 3:07.3 clocking four-tenths of second under the record fashioned by the Longhorn relay team last May. The Owls' mark was bettered by only four college teams last year.

In the same meet Morales was 1.6 seconds under the SWC record established by Walter Reyha last year.

The SWC teams spread their talents on four fronts this week: Dallas, Corpus Christi, Lubbock and Fayetteville. The Dallas Invitational attracts Texas A&M, Baylor, SMU and TCU along with Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Kansas State and Abilene Christian. Tech will host Eastern New Mexico, Wayland College, McMurry, West Texas State, while Arkansas will host a meet.

Other performances include a 21.0, 220-yard dash by Curtis Mills of A&M, a half-mile run that was clocked at 1:49.7

Tech baseballers launch their 1969 Southwest Conference baseball campaign in Waco today against the Baylor Bears in a three-game series.

Red Raider Coach Kal Segrist plans to start freshman Jack Pierce Friday in the first game of a scheduled double header. Another freshman, Mike Muschalek, or Larry York is slated to pitch the second game, and Pat McKean will throw Saturday.

Tech has never beaten the Bears in conference play and has managed only one win against Baylor in seven contests.

Segrist was pleased with the Raiders' performance against New Mexico Highlands Saturday.

and a 46.4 quarter that was run by Dave Morton of Texas. A shot-put shoot-out that involved Ronnie Lightfoot of A&M, Ronnie Mercer of Tech and Sam Walker a freshman of SMU turned out to be one of the most hotly contested events of the week. Lightfoot's winning heave of 57-10 edged out Mercer by a half inch and Walker by one-and-a-half inches.

Mercer now has the best discus throw in the conference at 164-8 and one-half, while Jim McCasland and Archie Van Sickle have chunked the javelin distances that rank fourth and sixth respectively. Bob Blain soared 14-6 in the pole vault to rank sixth among SWC vaulters. High hurdler Ronald Grigsby ranks fourth in the conference timings in the 120-yard event, while Bob Logan ran the sixth best time in the conference in the 440-yard dash with a 48.0.

Baseball team opens conference

day. Tech pounded out 34 hits in winning two of three games from Highlands, a team that has gone to the NAIA playoffs four straight years.

"Our hitting is beginning to come around," says Segrist. "In the Highland series we got nine extra base hits including four triples and two homeruns. If a few of our hitters perform like they did Saturday, we should have a good year."

Randy Walker or Randy Holman in center.

A major change in policy regarding the ringing of Tech's victory bells for baseball triumphs has been announced by Saddle Tramp officials.

The former policy of tolling the bells only for a Southwest Conference baseball championship has been amended to permit them to be rung for each team victory.

In order to avoid interference with classes in session, the victory bells will not be sounded until 10 p.m. following week day triumphs.

Tech tracksters travel to A&M

Tech golfers, fresh from a victory over defending conference champion Texas, will be in College Station Saturday to play Texas A&M.

The Red Raiders were thrust into the title picture by virtue of their upset win over the Longhorns, and a win over the Aggies would give Tech a comfortable position in the SWC race.

Raider Coach Gene "Butch" Mitchell speaks of Texas A&M with caution. "The Aggies are always tough in College Station, and we will have to be at our best to beat them. I feel if we can beat A&M we will be in a good position to have a shot at the title."

Making the trip for the Red Raiders will be Ronnie White, Jim Arnold, John Shepperson, and James Whitteker. White and Arnold are seniors, Shepperson is a junior, and Whitteker is a sophomore.
