

Delegates prepare for rodeo, western dance

Participants in the National Association of College and University Residence Halls convention number 816, about 200 more than expected, said Katie Upshaw, chairman of the event.

Miss Upshaw, said only 600 were expected until about six weeks ago.

The students, coming from all over the United States, have had a busy schedule of events since the first of the convention Wednesday. Most students appear "very tired"

Sorority applies for recognition

Tech may gain a 14th national social sorority, Delta Sigma Theta, pending approval by the Committee on Student Organizations.

Local alumnae have applied for campus recognition, reported Dr. William H. Duvall, assistant dean of student life.

Mrs. Willie Lusk, 2302 Birch Ave., Lubbock is president of the local Delta Sigma Theta alumnae chapter and is working with the 27 other local members and interested Tech girls to get the sorority started.

Mrs. Lusk explained that the sorority has a black history but is now integrated with a five-eight per cent. She said that all girls at Tech would be welcome.

An organizational meeting will be held Monday for alumnae and all interested girls. Mrs. Lusk said they will start accepting pledges immediately and that seven are needed to sign the charter to start the chapter.

MRS. LUSK SAID she made the application to the Committee on Student Organizations after being approached by some Tech students about the possibility of starting a Delta Sigma Theta chapter here. She also said the national office of Delta Sigma Theta was conducting an expansion program.

Positions open on annual staff

Applications for positions on the La Ventana are due Monday at noon in the Journalism Building, room 102.

Positions open are that of co-editor, magazine editor and art editor. Applications are available in room 102 of the Journalism Building from 8 a.m. until noon and from 1-5 p.m.

Campus committees formulated to contribute recommendations

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last in a five-part series to examine the value of Tech's student-faculty committees and the committee system. This segment looks at those committees which are inactive and contribute nothing.

By MIKE HOGAN
Staff Writer

Contributing to the betterment of the university and the students is the university committees goal; however, numerous meetings which emit no proposals or recommendations do little to further this aim.

When asked about the English Usage Committee, Lynn Green, student member, said, "It has no power. The purpose of the committee is to promote English on campus. So far, however, we have just talked and have taken no action."

"I DON'T THINK it is a very good committee," Miss Green said. "There are some excellent committees, but this is not one of them."

According to Miss Green, she was the only student at the meeting. "The students were called and they said they could meet, but they didn't show up."

Student publications director offers subscription proposal

Bill Dean, director of Student Publications, proposed Thursday that the University Daily be sold on a subscription basis rather than have students pay for the paper through the student services fee.

Dean made the recommendation while discussing the functions and problems of student publications with the Student Faculty Advisory Council.

"I don't think we should force any student to pay for the paper if he does not desire to," said DEAN. "Each student is presently paying about $1.60 for the paper through the Student Services fee."

"We feel we can sell the paper through subscriptions at a fair price and have a greater revenue than what we receive now through the fees." Student Publications is appropriated $30,000 annually from the fee.

DEAN SAID THIS increased revenue would enable the department to hire more said Vernon Paul, host for the convention.

A mock casino was sponsored Wednesday night for the delegates and money was exchanged freely for more than three hours.

Thursday, a number of tours, discussion groups, teas and regional and national business meetings, constituted the day's business. A Hootenanny concluded the day at midnight.

Nominations for officers of the association were turned in for the election Saturday night.

TODAY'S ACTIVITIES are:

7:30 - 9 a.m. — Breakfast.

8:30 - 8:45 a.m. — Advisors' discussion with Tech Advisors.

9 - 10:30 a.m. — Advisors' discussions.

9:15 - 10:30 a.m. — Write up of Thursday's discussion, Judicial Systems, Student Bill of Rights, Visitations, Co-ed Housing and Architectural Facilities.

10:45 a.m. - noon — Advisors' discussions, discussion groups, leadership manual, new student orientation program, student-faculty relations, and food service student improvement.

12:45 - 1:30 p.m. — Lunch at Wiggins.

1:45 - 3 p.m. — Regional meetings.

3:30 - 5 p.m. — Rodeo.

5:15 - 6:45 p.m. — Barbecue.

8 p.m. - midnight — Western dance in the Union Ballroom.

Tech 'compares favorably'

Greeks examine problems, foresee changes

By TOM DOWNS
Staff Writer

Tech has been growing at the rate of 400-500 students a year for the last five years. During the same period membership in Greek organizations has remained the same or declined slightly.

Commenting on the possible decline of Tech fraternities, Dr. William H. Duvall, Interfraternity Council (IFC) adviser, said, "The Greek system at Tech is changing and it will have to change more to keep up with the changing world around it." He said this was one of the main problems of Tech's 12 social fraternities.

"Our system compares favorably with others throughout the nation but it still has its problems. We are relatively free of things like drug addiction among Greeks or widespread apathy of members, but we still need to face up to our situation," Duvall was referring to a study made of the University of Colorado that was presented as a report to the 1969 National Panhellenic Conference.

THE STUDY WAS made by Dr. Fred Kershner, professor of American social history and an officer of a national fraternity. The study described the decline of a Greek system at Colorado University and the solutions used by the local IFC and Panhellenic Council to build it back up.

"One of the problems we have here, which was also present at Colorado, is the appeal fraternities use during rush. The traditional appeal is still mainly social. It consists of beer busts, parties, and the chance to meet new people. Fraternities need to appeal to students more on issues of campus reform and socio-political activities," Duvall said.

"Some fraternities have partially met this problem by inviting speakers on current issues to their chapter meetings. Only three or four chapters have done this though. The surface has only been scratched," he said.

Carola Joan Moberly, Panhellenic Council adviser, said Tech sororities have started to change in this area.

"The hardest part was to realize we needed to change. Emphasis is now on what the individual can do for the sorority according to her personal needs and abilities. Previously the emphasis was on mass participation in organizations outside the sorority," she said.

"THE GENERAL policy used to require each pledge to belong to three organizations outside the sorority. It's different now. For example, if a girl is an art major she is encouraged to develop her talents and work as much for the sorority as her time allows. By doing this the Greek appeal has been broadened," Miss Moberly said.

"Sorority appeal has never been completely social. Philanthropy has always played a part in our organizations and it is being emphasized more now," she said.

"I think that Tech has one of the better sorority systems in the nation. When I attended the National Panhellenic Conference in October, I was pleased to note that we did not have many of the problems outlined in the Colorado study," she said.

To combat the rising problem of fraternity pledges pledging during the semester, Bill Doyle, education graduate student, has offered Tech Greeks a possible solution.

"Dr. Duvall mentioned the fact to me that the percentage of men who fail to complete their pledges is rising. This prompted me to do a dissertation on the type of person who can complete his pledgeship and the type who cannot," Doyle said.

"THE DISSERTATION is just in the planning stage right now. I presented the idea to IFC and let the various representatives discuss it with their chapters. If they decide to go ahead and cooperate by letting me interview their pledges, the findings of the survey will be reported to the fraternities to use in predicting the type of person who can complete pledgeship and become an active member," he said.

Doyle is not a member of a fraternity.

Modern psychology is being used more by both fraternities and sororities. Group dynamics sessions were used by Greek organizations for the first time this year.

"The sessions are a practical method of getting people to know each other by talking about their first impressions," said Milt Wilson, pledge trainer for Sigma Chi. "It breaks down their initial barriers and brings them closer together," he said.

Lee Culver, a holdover pledge from the fall semester, said "I thought the session was a great success. Our spring pledge class is closer now, after only two weeks of pledgeship, than my first pledge class was after six weeks."

A HOLD OVER pledge is one who has to pledge again for failing to make the required grade point (2.00 with 12 hours) for initiation.

"The session was planned and conducted through the Leadership Training Board of the Tech Union. John Gaylord, Phi Gamma Delta, and Rick Hurst, Phi Delta Theta, plan to present the idea to their own chapters and other fraternities," said Wilson. Both Gaylord and Hurst are members of the Leadership Training Board. Susan Stephens, Delta Delta Delta pledge trainer, used a group dynamics session on her pledge class this fall. "I got the idea of using this from a Board of Student Organizations (BSO) retreat last spring. It was highly effective," she said.

Tech fraternities and sororities have faced problems in the past and changed to cope with these problems. Duvall, Miss Moberly and all other Greeks interviewed expressed optimism for the future of the Greek system and its ability to change with the society around it.

Union board positions open on leadership

Applications are now available in the Programs Office of the Student Union for membership on the Union Leadership Board.

The Leadership Board is composed of 15 undergraduates and graduate students who participate with other organizations in group dynamics and sensitivity training.

"Sensitivity training is using different techniques to help individuals become aware of themselves by seeing themselves as others view them," John Gaylord, member of the board said.

"Applicants should be interested in the area of human relations, show a desire to learn more about themselves."

Coliseum set as new site

O'Hair talk scheduled for Monday

Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hair, self-styled atheist and constitutional reformist, will speak in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

A previous speech by Mrs. O'Hair was postponed Feb. 23 after she refused to come to Lubbock unless her transportation was paid in advance. The subject of her rescheduled talk will be separation of church and state.

A follow-up panel discussion in the Tech Union Ballroom at 8 p.m. will consider Mrs. O'Hair's speech, although she will not attend. Members of the panel discussion will be the Rev. Homer Henderson, St. Matthew's Methodist Church; the Rev. O. A. McBrayer, Forest Heights Methodist Church and president of Lubbock Ministerial Alliance, and Edward Smith, Lubbock attorney.

The talk is sponsored by Tech Union's Ideas and Issues Committee and will be open only to Tech faculty and students. IDs will be required for admission.

MRS. O'HAIR'S previously scheduled speech attracted a crowd estimated at 1,500

Union officers Board names

Union officers Coy Ballard, junior from New Deal, Tex., was selected as president and Linda Logan, junior from Zaria, Nigeria, was named vice president for the Tech Union for next year by the Union Board.

Applications for secretary, committee chairmen and assistant chairmen are available in the Programs Office of the Union. Persons applying should have at least a 2.20 overall gpa and a 2.00 for the previous semester.

These positions will be filled by April 15 and installation will be April 22.

by Bill Scott, assistant chairman of the sponsoring committee. She failed to appear as scheduled apparently because of a misunderstanding over payment of her transportation expenses.

Scott said the committee expected to pay Mrs. O'Hair for her expenses after she arrived and Mrs. O'Hair expected advance payment.

No written contract has been signed but the talk is set for Monday by oral agreement, according to Ideas and Issues chairman Coy Ballard.

Mrs. O'Hair was instrumental in the Supreme Court's ban on school prayers and is now engaged in court proceedings to strip churches of their tax-exempt status. To force the point, Mrs. O'Hair has attempted to form her own church and to claim tax-exempt properties in that manner.

A court ruling to prevent this could be a judicial precedent for denial of tax exemptions to many religious organizations.

Air cadets sponsor benefit extravaganza

Tech's Air Force ROTC cadet units will sponsor the April 1 opening night performance of Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies as a benefit for Lubbock's Ballenger School for Educable Mentally Retarded.

The 8 p.m. performance in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum is being sponsored by the Lewis C. Ellis Jr. Squadron of the Arnold Air Society, its coed auxiliary, Angel Flight and the AFROTC Corps of Cadets.

"This is the original ice extravaganza, which has run continuously since 1936," said Cadet Douglas Speegle, publicity chairman. "It is considered one of the best ice shows in the United States."

WITH A CAST of nearly 100, the show has starred U.S. Gold Medalist and three-time World Figure Skating Champion Peggy Fleming, and the Dean of Ice Comedy, Mr. Frick. "Net proceeds of opening night, designated 'Community Service Night,' will benefit the Ballenger students," said Speegle.

The Ballenger School, 1301 42nd St., Lubbock, is operated as a part of the Lubbock Independent School District. The school enrolls students who are unable to compete in normal public schools. They are taught the basics of living in society, and each learns and progresses to the extent of his or her ability. In this way the students are prepared to reach their fullest capacity to be independent, and to contribute to society. There are currently 93 students enrolled.

The 75 members of the Air Society and Angel Flight have provided donations of playground equipment and have sponsored Easter egg hunts at Mackenzie Park and Christmas parties for the Ballenger students in addition to weekly visits during school recesses.

"THIS ICE spectacular is open to the public," said Speegle. "Our organization wishes to make a really significant contribution to Ballenger School and encourages everyone to attend."

Admission will be $3 and $4. For reservations call Capt. Ronald E. Knifer at 742-2145 or 673-3383. Ticket orders should be addressed to Arnold Air-Angel Flight, Box 4589, Tech Station, Lubbock 79409.

Editorial Votes could count

Every time a campus election comes along, we forsake all other issues to do the right and almost impossible task of convincing you people to vote. And every time you, wondrous example of American apathy that you are, answer—why should I vote; it won't make any difference? We suggest that you take a close look at the Senate election results and, with your college intellect in hand, try to make the same excuse good for this latest election.

Did you notice for instance that five of the seven Senate races were decided by 13 votes or less. More exemplary of how much votes count is the five vote difference between the winning and losing candidate for the Senate seat from home economics.

Think about it, five of you—just five—could have changed the whole political system in home economics, if there is such a thing.

The graduate school is another example, but in a different respect. There were only 46 votes cast in the whole election. Forty-seven people, block voting, could not only have changed the result, they could have elected anybody—even Grover Goodsheep.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"LOOK, WORTLEY, WE KNOW YOU'RE DISAPPOINTED THAT THE CO-EDS AREN'T RESPONDING TO 'REASON & LOGIC' BUT WE DON'T THINK THIS IS THE TIME TO GO MILITANT."

Burket's comments:

Dorm rules idiotic

The timing couldn't have been better. The campus is host to a national dormitory conference, Tech impresses them by using Robby's, a private dorm, for the conference headquarters, and the whole business is capped off when the local dorm rats condemn our system. Typical, that's all I can say.

The semi-official stink about the Tech residence halls is long overdue. Of course, the residents haven't exactly been silent and contented the past few years, but improvements have been negligible. About the only decent thing that's happened recently is the abolition of the ridiculous 9 pm closing hour for freshman girls. Hell, they got to stay up later than that when they were in third grade!

Before I go any farther, let me say a few good things about our dorms. First, they are plentiful. Housing is a real problem on the majority of college campuses, and we are lucky that our parental substitutes had the foresight to plan ahead. It's just too bad that their predictions for TTU's growth weren't worth a Hi-De-Ho date.

Another good point for the local residence halls is their overall quality. Believe me, even Sneed is a palace compared to a dorm I lived in at an eastern school, and I am sure that the Wiggins Complex is an outstanding example of dorm design. In every Tech dorm you get a lot for a reasonable price.

Great, you say, now what's the problem? Well, you know as well as I do that the RULES are idiotic, and the disciplinary and administrative procedures are infantile.

For a start, nobody should be forced to live in a dorm. What is this, a prison? Why should somebody from Dallas be inducted into Coleman when dozens of Lubbock slicks are grooving on the outside? Are students whose homes are beyond the hallowed "commuting distance" some kind of second class citizens?

The deal is now that if you're 21 on some magic date you can live off, but if you're 21 a day later you can't. Why 20? Why not 16? What if the parents of an 18-year-old say it's OK with them for him to live off campus? Seems to me that he would have just as much legal right to live off as someone 21, but I guess Mighty Max knows something I don't.

All right, suppose you end up living in a residence hall, either because you want to, as many do, or because you're forced to. That does happen, doesn't it? Girls, you have to be locked in at the prescribed hour, ranging from 11:30 to 1:00. What happens if you don't get in on time? I guess you turn into a pumpkin. Who knows, maybe if you don't come in you are instantly impregnated. There has to be some reason for such ludicrous hours, I hope. It would be horrible if they were making us miss the end of the late movie for no reason at all.

Let's say you have been lucky enough to be born a male. (Sometimes I wonder.) Goosey wing advisors and dorm daddies abound, like the demented supervisor in Bledsoe two years ago who set off the fire alarm 4 times in 30 minutes. Well, the firemen needed the practice.

Dorm life in general is enlightening. If your neighbors don't steal all your belongings maybe they'll fix it so you have to pay the damages when they set fire to your door.

You meet a lot of ambitious people in the dorm. Just check the grade averages and you'll see a bunch of real achievers. Hell, you can't blame it on their brains entirely. Dorm atmosphere just ain't conducive to all kinds of good grades.

I have a few suggestions for Tech's fine residence halls. Don't make people live in them. Abolish all hours for girls. Abolish all dress regulations. Offer optional meal tickets, not only to residents but to students living off-campus. Screen wing dicks and dorm daddies more closely, and let students have a part in the process.

I'm sure the professional dorm rats have all kinds of fine ideas that eclipse mine, so I hope the Tech crew benefits from this conference. It will be interesting if anybody in power pays attention to the reforming suggestions that have been offered recently. Maybe if the dorm situation shapes up here Tech as a whole will be ready to move into the mainstream of American University life.

Progress ought to be rapid and dramatic, since we're 8 or 10 years behind to start with.

Letters To The Editor Student complains about ODA rule

I would like to relate the closing time raids on potential "sex offenders" in the lobby of Stangel Hall by the self-righteous office girls (commonly known as Broadus' Bombers) as they swoop down upon their victims with pad, pen, and infraction cards, screaming "ODA".

It was once an accepted thing to be able to kiss your date before she entered the hollowed hall, but as of late the crack down has left many an escort walking away panting and promising to expose the situation to the students of Tech. Here is that promised exposure.

The office claims that the students have brought it upon themselves by grossly violating the rules. We think it is time for the WRC to take corrective action to rid the dorm students of this infringement. It is bad enough to be forced to live within the confines of the campus, but must we make it a convent?

I agree with the office girls that men should remove themselves from the lobby in a reasonable time and couples should refrain from an over display rather than an obvious one.

I further feel, that there is room in our permissive society for casual displays of affection (i.e. holding hands and other simple pleasures). However, sentiments are such that the joke is about to wear off, the fun is about to be over and the balking on rules is about to begin. I encourage men who date Stangel girls to plant a big, wet kiss on the next office girl that gives you trouble and sign her up for an ODA. It's about that stupid.

Let me relate an isolated incident from Saturday night. A couple entered the dorm and faced each other to say their good-nights. The boy leaned over and kissed his date quickly and left. The girl realized what the consequences would be and immediately made a hasty retreat to her room. Here comes an office girl with pad and pen and screaming ODA.

I did my best to slow her down and had I been able to block her pursuit another five seconds, the girl would have made it to freedom. But, good guys only win in the movies and the villain was victorious and another ODA was given.

Let us be mature about this and settle it in the proper manner. Each legislator should prepare a petition advocating abolition of ODA's and present it to her wing for signatures. If your legislator doesn't take the initiative, then you take it. The petitions should be presented to the WRC representative.

Just action can not be denied if a great majority of the girls participate. Girls your dates can't change it, but you can! If you just accept this tyranny, then it will devour you. Don't give in to the office girls.

Discusses TV show

With a tubercular laugh and a gaping, foot-laden mouth Al Capp appeared on the Sunday afternoon TV show, Experiment in Television.

If one has ever seen his cartoon strip, Li'l Abner, they soon realize how two generations of people in this country have been saturated with Capp's idea of the unruly, unwashed, student demonstrator and people who do not uphold America and all the wonderful persons therein dwelling.

It was a fair expose' in what they had the opinions of his adversaries. People such as Abbie Hoffman, David Susskind, and various and sundry other well-known, controversial people as well as students who expressed their views to Capp's strip.

Mr. Capp raves on the student animals who demonstrate with shows of violent indignation. Then, with all the ambiguity in the world, stated that these could not be the later developments of the forefathers who dissented against England with manifestations of turbulent rebellion.

Al Capp is very outspoken on the favorite issues of the usual conservatives, but one has to admire his drolle raving. At the very least Capp's views can't be attributed to the stagnant "Silent Majority." I seriously doubt if the aforementioned assemblage could muster the stamina to set their beer can on the floor and get out the door to rout an invading student insurrection.

Now with all that said, I would ask the people of this campus who give one tiny, thin, emaciated DAMN to see that show. You might even learn enough to argue intelligently with a "hippie".

Techsans plan trips abroad

By RANDY ARMSTRONG
 Staff Writer

The coming of summer means many things to many people, but to about a thousand Tech students it will mean travel outside of the United States.

Students will be traveling to such countries as England, Mexico, France, Spain, Austria, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and even Russia.

The trips will be for either educational purposes, work, pleasure or a combination of the three. A number of these tours are being sponsored by departments and organizations at Tech as well as those offered by the standard travel agencies.

THE OLDEST study program of this nature on the Tech campus is offered by the department of classical and romance languages.

It is a six-week course for advanced undergraduate and graduate students during the second summer school session in San Luis Potosi, Guadalajara and Mexico City.

The courses (Spanish 4328-4329 and 538-539) are open to 30 students who intend to teach Spanish or to enter business or government service.

"The department of classical and romance languages have been very pleased with the results of these courses, and we hope to continue to offer this program," said Dr. Harley D. Oberhelman, department chairman.

THE TECH art department is planning a European tour this summer for students interested in studying the art, civilization and culture of classical Europe.

The tour itinerary includes Rome, Florence, Venice, Munich, Montreux-Lousanne, Paris and London. The tour is scheduled to last six weeks.

Mrs. Edna Glenn, instructor of art and group advisor for the trip, said, "The tour is designed to give those students interested in art an opportunity to study all phases of European art."

DER LIEDERKRANZ, the Tech German club, again this year will sponsor a trip to Germany.

Students work the entire summer as a part of a cultural exchange program between Germany and the U.S.

Robert Goff, senior German major and trip coordinator, said, "Even though credit is not given, the trip is an excellent opportunity for a German major or minor to better his knowledge and understanding of the German language and culture."

A group of music majors are planning to spend six weeks in Salzburg, Austria studying at the Mozarteum.

"This program is geared for the music major who has already attained a high degree of efficiency in his or her field," said Dr. Judson Maynard, sponsor for the tour. All credit earned at the Mozarteum can apply toward a degree in music from Tech.

Dean Killion, director of bands at Tech, is planning to take 35 students to Europe in August. The students are all members of the marching band.

"The trip is just for pleasure and is something my wife and I have wanted to do for many years," said Killion.

The tour will include travels to Holland, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, France and England, and will last about 22 days.

ANOTHER TRIP, designed for government majors, is still in the planning stages.

No credit will be offered, however, students would be given a chance to study the governments of several countries including Russia.

Dr. John Burnett, professor of government, will act as sponsor and coordinator of the proposed trip. At least seven students will be required to make the trip a reality.

Both the speech and English departments have had trips of this nature in past years, however neither department has one planned for this year.

Dr. William Ickes, chairman of the department of speech and theater arts, said "We have had in past years excellent tours designed to emphasize the theater of Europe, however there is no tour of this kind planned for this summer."

THE ENGLISH department planned its tour to coincide with great literary works that came from the areas included in the tour.

"The main reason for discontinuance of this program was the fact that no one could be found to act as sponsor after the original sponsor transferred to another university," said Miss Marie Miles, professor of English at Tech.

However, there are many group travel programs being offered.

FALL PROGRAMS are not utilized by Tech students to any great extent. These programs are offered mainly by universities that are larger and older than Tech. A few of the universities that offer study programs of this nature are the University of Maine, Lewis and Clarke College, State University of New York, Columbia University, Yale, Harvard and Princeton.

There are still opening for students interested in travel of this nature.

Livestock teams place in contest

The Tech senior and junior livestock judging teams placed third and fourth respectively in the Intercollegiate Livestock Judging Contest in Houston Friday, March 6.

Outstanding individual scorers were: Bill Doherty, Branson, Colo., senior, who placed fourth in horse judging and fourth overall in the contest; Carl Jones, Whitharral, Tex., junior, third in horse judging; and Jerry Smith, Hart, Tex., sophomore, eighth overall. Other members were: Lonnie McDonald, Quitaque, Tex., senior and Eddie Holland, Llano, Tex., junior.

Tech's junior team placed fourth out of 23 teams entered in their division, and third in sheep and swine judging.

Marvin Meek, Plainview, Tex., sophomore, placed fourth in sheep judging and ninth overall. Other members were: Tom Martin, Dimmitt, Tex., freshman; Marsha Mills, Alpine, Tex., sophomore; and Paul

ROTC elects annual queen of military ball

Army ROTC members are voting this week to select their 1970 Military Ball Queen from five finalists.

The finalists: Kathy Griffis, Austin, Tex., senior; Sandy Korona, San Angelo, Tex., junior; Susan Hancock, Lubbock junior; Sandra Smithee, Ralls freshman; and Christy Chapman, Oxon Hill, Md., senior, were selected from the CorpsDettes, women's auxiliary drill team.

The queen will be crowned at the April 11 ball for which the Fourth Army Band is tentatively scheduled to play.

Melton, Abilene, Tex., sophomore.

Allen McCloy, Morse, Tex., graduate student, served as coach for both teams.

The top five senior judging teams were New Mexico State University, Abilene Christian College, Tech, Tarleton State College and Arizona State University.

The six best junior judging teams were from South Plains Junior College, Northeastern Oklahoma A&M, Northwestern Oklahoma State, Tech, Tarleton State College and Lubbock Christian College.

Jackpot rodeos scheduled for Tech visitors

Tech Rodeo Association is sponsoring a one-performance jackpot rodeo at 3 p.m. today as an entertainment feature for more than 700 visiting students and faculty on campus.

The visitors are here to attend the annual meeting of the National Association of College and University Residence Halls.

The public is invited to the performance to be held at Dub Parks Memorial Arena at 4th and Quaker Avenue.

Rodeo Association President Jack Thorn said one rodeo event will be open to visiting students, a calf-dressing event in which teams catch a calf and put a shirt, pair of pants, and hat on it.

Other events will include bull riding, bareback bronc riding and calf roping. All Tech students are eligible to compete.

Thorn said books for the performance will be opened at 8 a.m. today in the Union and will remain open until events have been filled.

New draft director says intends 'to serve youth'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Curtis W. Tarr, President Nixon's choice to succeed Gen. Lewis B. Hershey as draft director, said Thursday he is accepting the assignment somewhat reluctantly with the hope he can "serve the young people of America."

Tarr, a rather gangling man of 45, has been for the past nine months assistant secretary of the Air Force for manpower and reserve affairs.

In discussing Nixon's decision to nominate him to be director of Selective Service, however, Tarr emphasized his much greater experience as an educator in close touch with American youth.

For six years before joining the Nixon administration, Republican Tarr was president of Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. Before that he acted briefly as director of Stanford University's summer session and assistant dean of its School of Humanities and Sciences.

With this background, Tarr said, he hopes his work as draft chief will permit him to continue to serve young people.

Asked by newsmen at the White House for his attitudes toward student deferments and proposals for an all-volunteer army, Tarr said he would remain silent on such subjects until he testifies at Senate confirmation hearings.

He seemed to make it evident, however, that his views differ markedly, at least in some areas, from those of the aging Hershey who retired Feb. 16 after serving as draft director since World War II.

When asked if he would carry on in the Hershey tradition, Tarr said, "Man has to be an individual," and added that he has no intention of copying anyone's philosophy or life style.

Art contest entries due at Reese

Reese Air Force Base is accepting entries through April 1 for its second annual art contest. "Men, Machines and Concepts" will again be the theme of the contest. Entries may depict Air Force flight past, present or future.

The three first prizes are $100 bonds; fourth place, $50 bond; fifth place, $25 bond; and sixth place, $10 cash. Judging begins April 3.

There is no entry fee and no restriction on size, medium or number of entries. All entries become property of the Squadron.

The 3501st Student Squadron is sponsoring the contest.

The purpose of the contest is to acquire an art collection for the base. The squadron wants the collection to eventually cover Air Force history from Kitty Hawk through Apollo 13 and beyond. All entries will be framed with a plaque with the name of the artist and the work attached.

Entrants names will be kept on file so patrons may contact the artist.

Tech graduate named dean

AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. Ernest F. Gloyna, a Tech graduate, has been appointed dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Texas at Austin, effective April 1.

He succeeds Dr. John J. McKetta, who became executive vice chancellor for academic affairs of the UT system.

November's anti-Vietnam "March on Washington" — Tarr's words seemed a far cry from the criticism voiced by Hershey.

Tarr said of the march: "It was certainly an expression by a substantial number of people whose feelings certainly were sincere."

Brown-haired and blue-eyed with a prominent aquiline nose, Tarr is six feet six inches tall.

AWS elections for executives set Wednesday

The Association of Women Students' executive elections will be Wednesday and all women students are eligible to vote.

Polls will be open 9 a.m. through 5 p.m. in the Union and from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 5 - 6:30 p.m. in all women's dorms. Candidates for president are Betsy Bond and Anita Bell.

Beverly Jones is running for first vice president, Judy Clark for second vice president, and Nedree Riggs for third vice president.

Running unopposed for secretary is Anita Powell, Debbie Campbell for treasurer and Carol Usry for IAWS contact.

Even when faced with trying questions, he smiled readily.

Tarr said the White House approached him in December about the draft job and reported he expressed a preference at the time for remaining with the Air Force.

But early last week, he said Nixon called him in to urge him to accept the Selective Service assignment, arguing that he could be of greater service there.

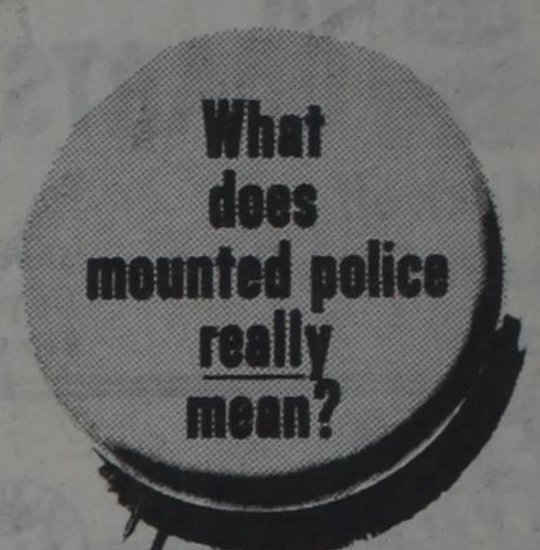

The administration has been searching since last October for someone to take the Selective Service job. A series of prospective candidates turned it down.

Tarr has had personal experience with the draft, having been inducted into the Army during World War II.

Director bills theater actors for April play

Casting assignments for "The Chalk Garden," scheduled for presentation by the University Theatre April 17-20, have been announced by director Larry Randolph.

Jane Abbott, Dallas senior, portrays Mrs. St. Maugham, a 70-year-old, ex-London society leader who now lived with her granddaughter in her house by the sea. Deborah Burrows, Azle, Tex., freshman, plays Laurel, a backward 16-year-old who would steal the pennies off a dead man — if her word were taken for it; and Mary Beth Bratcher is Miss Madrigal, Laurel's governess who has no "flair" for life, only a solid knowledge that it must be lived.

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast include John Brett Walker, Odessa, Tex., junior, as Maitland; Phyllis Preston, Childress, Tex., sophomore, as Olivia; Dee Rollo, San Antonio, Tex., junior, as the nurse; Kent Graham, Lubbock senior, as the judge; and Marjorie Leroy, Dallas, Tex., sophomore, and Kathy Klein, Kingsville, Texas., junior, as the second and third applicants.

Assistant director is Ginger Tongate, Meadow, Tex., sophomore, and Mary Helen Langford, Wellington, Tex., senior, is the production manager.

Topics named for intramural speech contest

Speech intramurals for 1970 are set for 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Administration Building.

"A Speak Out" is the theme of the tournament. Topics are relevant to current student and campus problems.

In the extemporaneous speaking category, students may speak on any topic related to the campus and the student at Tech. The persuasive speaking topic will be, "What should be the role of the student in determining campus administration and policies?"

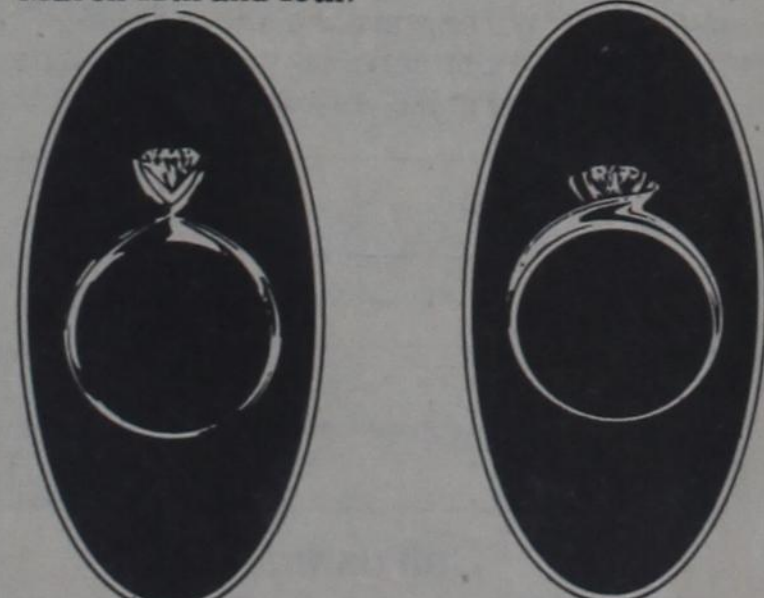

The two-man debate topic will be, "Resolved: that the entire campus of Texas Tech be a free speech area." Other categories are prose and poetry. The choice of selection is open to the contestant.

Points accumulated in the tournament will be counted in the overall intramural points for women. Medals and sweepstakes trophy will be awarded the winners.

On national tour Johnny Rivers arrives today

By CASEY CHARNESSE
Fine Arts Editor

JOHNNY RIVERS, who in 1963 had given up singing to produce records, is back on the stage again and his national tour brings him to Lubbock tonight at 8:15 in Municipal Auditorium.

Jim Diamond, disc jockey at co-sponsoring radio station KLBK, told The University Daily Rivers would definitely be in the city today for the concert.

Joe Gregg, college manager for co-sponsor Concerts West, has granted The University Daily an exclusive interview with Rivers. The story will appear in the Tuesday edition.

SINCE 1963, Rivers has sold more than 20 million records and has come away from the other side of the administrative desk at Imperial Records to sing full-time.

His first album, "Johnny Rivers at the Whiskey A Go-Go," became a national seller and was boosted greatly by the single "Memphis," which had been pulled from the album.

A rapid succession of hits followed this debut including "Seventh Son," "Mountain of Love," "Maybellene," "Secret Agent Man," "The Poor Side of Town" and "Baby, I Need Your Lovin'."

HE REMAINS on the top of the charts with a hit record every year since he is able to adapt himself to changing styles. He has never had permanent public image since it shifts as quickly as public taste.

Rivers was one of the first people to associate with the "Whiskey" in Los Angeles, first of the big-time discotheques.

A host of stars including Steve McQueen, Rita Hayworth, James Coburn, Natalie Wood, Eddie

One-act workshop slated

Drama students from 32 Texas high schools are slated to participate in Tech's One-Act Play Workshop today and Saturday, the largest number ever to register for the annual event, according to Speech Professor Ronald Schulz, director of the event.

Each school will present a play for discussion and criticism. Following the presentation in University Theater, the cast and director will meet with a critic to analyze the performance.

The critiques are expected to be helpful to schools preparing entries for the University Interscholastic League One-Act Play contest later this spring, Schulz said.

KTXT-FM

KTXT-FM, student radio station for the Tech campus, has released a list of the top 10 singles and top five albums for the week of March 12 through 19.

The survey is compiled by KTXT personnel and is based on student requests and a national listing.

- The top singles are:
1. Hello, It's Me by Nazz.
  2. Bridge Over Troubled Waters by Simon and Garfunkel.
  3. The Rapper by Jagger.
  4. Who'll Stop the Rain by Creedance Clearwater Revival.
  5. Evil Ways by Santana.
  6. Rainy Night in Georgia by Brook Benton.
  7. Give Me Just a Little More Time by Chairman of the Board.
  8. He Ain't Heavy, He's My Brother by the Hollies.
  9. Hey There Lonely Girl by Eddie Holman.
  10. Love Grows by Edison Lighthouse.

- Top albums are:
1. Bridge Over Troubled Water by Simon and Garfunkel.
  2. Willie and the Poor Boys by Creedance Clearwater Revival.
  3. Live in Las Vegas by Tom Jones.
  4. American Women by the Guess Who.
  5. Traces Memories by the Lettermen.

Harvey, Rock Hudson, George Peppard and George Hamilton popularized the young Louisiana-born Rivers by word-of-mouth publicity. Soon, with the aid of this star-studded fan club, he made his first album.

THE LOS ANGELES success was the result of a complex musical study that Rivers conducted himself, utilizing the styles of B. B. King, Fats Domino and Ray Charles.

He had studied voice and guitar since his childhood in Baton Rouge and, coupling this with his musical study, launched into a career that put him into the Nashville realm of singers upon his high school graduation.

There he worked at recording studio, began hobnobbing with the likes of Elvis Presley and Johnny Cash and writing songs and cutting demonstration records.

Next he went to New York and continued writing songs and cutting demos. Los Angeles, 1963, was his turning point and from a favor engagement for a friend at the small Gazzarri's club, he was noticed and booked into the Whiskey.

That success put him into the spotlight in the record business and soon he had his own publishing company "Johnny Rivers Music," and his own label, "Soul City Records."

HE HEADLINED cross-country, made television appearances and did an hour-long documentary on his life and work.

But all this was still not enough, and he entered the field of entertaining GI's in Vietnam. By working with only a trio and traveling by helicopter, he made the rounds in the jungle and entertained over 87,000 soldiers.

SINCE RETURNING from his overseas tour, the show bug has bitten him once again, and he has sold his record label to return to the stage, which he considers the peak of his art.

JOHNNY RIVERS RETURNS TO LUBBOCK—The phenomenal Johnny Rivers, armed with a steady stream of hit singles and albums, will return to Lubbock today at 8:15 p.m. in Municipal Auditorium for his second local appearance in four years. The show is sponsored by KLBK radio and Concerts West.

Banquet features premed honorees

Hubert David Cook, Levelland, Tex., junior, with an overall grade point average of 3.93 received the $300 Dr. E. W. Jones Premedical Scholarship at the annual Tech Premedical Society banquet Saturday night in the Union.

THE SCHOLARSHIP was established in memory of Dr. Jones by Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. O'Neil of Lubbock.

Miss Charlotte Nanette Manhoff and David Alan Cheatham received the $250 scholarships given annually by the Lubbock-Crosby-Garza County Medical Society to premedical students who have a minimum grade point average of 3.2. Miss Manhoff's average was 3.77, Cheatham's was 3.66.

The Alpha Epsilon Delta award for 1970 was presented to Lawrence Green, the honorary's president. The sophomore award went to Mark S. Weaver, premedical student with a grade point average of 3.92 on 36 semester hours for the spring and fall semesters of 1969. Miss Manhoff received the junior award with a 3.90 grade point average on 40 semester hours. Basis of determining recipients are grades for the two semesters prior to the presentation and the interest of the students.

APPROXIMATELY 50 persons attended the banquet at which Dr. M. L. Dalton Jr. of Lubbock was the guest speaker. He was introduced by John Armstrong, president of the Premedical Society. Awards were presented by Dr. Joe Dennis, professor of chemistry at Tech.

The product is ideas.

The 2600 men who sell ideas for us are excited about what they're doing. We know that because they're successful at it. And many of them are recent college graduates.

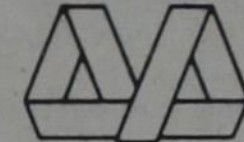

In fact, our preference is for young college graduates who get a kick out of being loners. Bull sessions aside, college students spend at least four years being loners in the world of ideas. # Tech, UTEP square off today in start of series

The Red Raiders open their home baseball season today when they host the University of Texas at El Paso at 3 p.m. in a three game series.

Tech Head Coach Kal Segrist said that he will not be sure of the site of the game until 11 a.m. this morning. The regular Raider diamond was soaked by the snow Wednesday but there is a possibility that the field may be dry in time for the contest.

If not, the game may be moved to Connie Mack stadium at Mackenzie Park. Segrist said this was the only other available site. "I am still not sure at this time whether we can use Connie Mack or not but all the other possible baseball fields are too little."

THE RAIDERS had their home opener snowed out last year.

Tech is just off a six game road trip which saw them split the series 3-3. The Raiders took their only contest with Hardin Simmons and then won two of five from Pan American University.

Since last Thursday Tech has only been able to get in one good workout because of the bad weather.

Friday and Saturday games with Trinity University and St. Mary's were rained out in San Antonio and the weather has been cold or snowy every day this week except Monday.

"WE HAD A REAL GOOD workout Monday but since then we have been hampered by the cold," Segrist said. "It's bound to effect a hitter when he hasn't been able to swing the bat for three days."

Tech has been plagued with injuries so far this year and has two regular starters out of the lineup.

Johnny Owens, regular third baseman last year is out of action with a fractured collar bone while regular right fielder Don McKee has a hairline fracture of his throwing arm.

THE RAIDER LINEUP for today's game will be Max Martin catching, Dick Shaw at first base, John McGuire at second, Doug Thorley at shortstop and Lenny Schenk at third.

In the outfield Segrist plans to start either Steve Hurt or Cecil Norris in left, Randy Walker in center and Don Spain in right. Gary Washington will be on the mound.

Martin is currently the leading hitter on the club going six of 15 on the road trip for an even .400 batting average. Walker collected eight hits and a .348 mark while both Spain and Hurt stand at .333.

WASHINGTON was the club's top winner last season with a 5-3 season mark and a 2.52 earned run average. Against Pan Am last week Washington went eight and 2/3 innings, the longest of any Raider hurler so far this season.

Segrist plans to pitch Jack Pierce and Ruben Garcia in the double-header which starts at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Pierce, a sophomore, was 3-1 for the season last year and finished with a sparkling 1.75 ERA in conference play.

Last year in El Paso, UTEP swept the three game series from the Raiders.

"The weather man said the temperature is supposed to pick up today and clear off," Segrist said. "We need to get in some game action pretty bad since we haven't been able to practice much this week."

Faculty, staff members given ticket priority

The Tech Athletic Department has been given special permission by the American Association of Football Coaches to extend priority to faculty and staff members on campus for advance reservation of seats for the All-American game in Jones Stadium, June 27.

Checks are to be made payable to the All-American Game 1970 and returned before April 1 to the Athletic Ticket Office.

Ticket prices remain the same as for a regular Raider contest. The prices range from $6.00 to $11.00.

The Athletic Ticket Office, 6th St. and Akron Ave., is open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Reservations for this game are in no way connected with the regularly scheduled Tech football reservations.

MOUND MAN—Gary Washington will be the starting pitcher for Tech today against the University of Texas at El Paso. The game will be played on the Tech diamond, beginning at 3 p.m. Saturday the same two teams will play a doubleheader.

Track squad hosts UT, Baylor teams

Round three is on tap Saturday for Red Raider track team members as they return to their home cinders for a tri-meet with Baylor and Texas. The action begins with the sprint relay at 2 p.m.

It will be the third outdoor meet in as many weeks for the Tech tracksters. This pace will continue each week until the Southwest Conference meet in May.

In the previous two meets, the Raiders have faced competition from six or more schools, but this week the track will not be as crowded with only three teams entered.

The top drawing card for Tech so far in the young season is freshman broad jumper Ken Ford. Ford is undefeated in outdoor competition, winning his event at the Southwestern Recreation meet in Fort Worth and the Border Olympics last weekend in Laredo.

Ford is the only Tech trackman that has garnered a first place this year in any meet. He will be the favorite in the broad jump Saturday, as well as running the intermediate hurdles.

Coach Vernon Hilliard also expects Ford to do well in the hurdles. Hilliard said that he expected Ron Grigsby to place high in both hurdles events, the highs and intermediates.

Hilliard said that he expects a "good footrace in the mile run" between Tech's Dave Gnerre, Baylor's Ronnie Mayfield, and Texas' Mike Mosely. Mosely is swapping races with teammate Fred Cooper, who usually runs the mile for the Longhorns. Cooper will try the 880 Saturday.

"The pole vault will be close between Bob Blaine (Tech's vaulter) and the vaulter from Baylor," Hilliard predicted. Blaine has been over 15 feet this year, as have the Baylor jumpers.

Hilliard cited Tech's best chances for winning in the sprint relay, javelin, 100-yard dash, the hurdles, and broad jump events.

Archie Van Sickle, who placed second in the javelin last week at the Border Olympics, is one of the favorites in that event. Van Sickle will face stiff opposition in the form of Bill Chamberlain from Texas. Chamberlain won the javelin at the Border Olympics with a throw of 200 feet 11 inches.

Zane Reeves will give Tech good representation in the 100, according to Hilliard. This will be Reeves first try at the 100 this season, for he has been out of that event due to a sore leg.

"We haven't been able to work out all week due to the weather," Hilliard explained. "I'm sure Baylor has been hampered too, but Texas has a tartan (all-weather) track, so they may have been able to work some."
