

SENATE ARGUES CRUDE TARIFF

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

No matter how the three city bond issues fare in next Thursday's election it is quite evident the decision made then will be a decision into which the will of practically every qualified voter will be included.

Good because the civic mind has been aroused to activity and earnest thought upon problems facing the entire community. It will be a heavy vote.

Our estimate of Tom Jordan after a whole year "out of print" contributes his bit toward the movement to obtain funds with which to finance city improvements with a statement in today's Herald. Tom is a privileged character around the Herald office. His always will be for those in whose hands management of the paper now rests are not by any means unkind of the tremendous amount of time, money, thought and labor he put into the paper for a quarter of a century. We realize that had it not been for his efforts we would not have had the splendidly established publication that it was when he decided to retire from active management of a newspaper and to devote his time to the less exacting commercial printing business; it needs it less exacting.

Whenever you hear Tom say he's retired from active life or anything like that don't pay any attention to it. He never will be inactive. He's not built that way. And this column hopes he will see many, many more active years. One of the most compensating things we have experienced since taking over The Herald from Mr. Jordan is the cordial and highly useful relations we have had with him and his family.

What he has to say as to the vital necessity of voting these bond issues at this time is worth the time of every citizen to read. Tom is "up" on past municipal history as well as it not better than any one else. What he has to say about past chapters we are willing to leave to his judgment. Today he's fibing some of his old friends, who honestly differ with him at this particular time, and we feel sure they understand his attitude.

Remember, The Herald's columns always are open for discussion of municipal problems. Because it is, editorially, favorable to passage of the bonds is by no means a reason to be advanced for refusing to publish communications from those not favorable. However, we feel sure our readers already know that, judging from the amount of space we have given opponents as well as proponents. As aforesaid we would print nothing we felt damaged to reputation or standing of any individual.

Local Man Fears Two Bodies May Be Those Of Relatives

After obtaining descriptions of the bodies of a woman and girl found a week ago in the Pecos river near Grandfalls, L. C. Hill of Big Spring was undecided Friday as to whether to go to Fort Stockton to confer with officers in connection with the effort to identify the victims.

Mr. Hill had received a letter from his mother, Mrs. L. A. Hill of Mabel, in which she expressed the fear the woman might have been her daughter and Mr. Hill's sister, Mrs. Beulah McGeehan, 28, and her daughter, June, 21 years old.

The woman and girl were last heard from in Lubbock in December. They then were preparing to leave there, said Mr. Hill, who has a sister, Mrs. Madeline Denton, also residing here.

Doctors Report Taft Slightly Weaker Today

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The condition of William Howard Taft was reported as "slightly weaker," in a bulletin issued by his physicians at 11:40 a. m. today.

"The former chief justice is slightly weaker," the announcement said.

"He is able to take very little nourishment. There is no decided change in his condition since yesterday."

Dr. Francis Hagner said that when he entered the sick room, the former man recognized him with a flicker of the famous Taft smile. It was unable to speak, however.

BIG DOINGS AT SCHOOL

Junior Circus Tonight Outstanding Event Of Year

Probably the outstanding social event in the high school prior to graduating exercises will be held tonight when the junior class is to be host to high school students and adult citizens at a regular circus. The big performance will include numerous spectacular exhibitions and will be preceded by side shows.

One night during the latter part of each school year is designated as Junior Stunt Night at which the junior class offers entertainment under faculty direction. Proceeds from which are used to defray expense of the Junior-Senior banquet.

The side show with all the ballyhoo of a circus will open at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. There will be dancing girls, Blue Beard's wives, the toothless widow, fortune tellers and freaks of all types. Mothers of junior class students will operate a soda pop booth and sell confetti for the circus followers.

The feature act of the circus will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock in the senior high school auditorium. There will be wild animal acts, a set of tumbling clowns that are real thrillers, and Melva Gene Handley will present her famous death defying tight rope walking act. Nathan Orr will give the curious a few lessons in juggling plates and other breakable materials.

Probably the feature act of the entire show will be the "Prancing Pony Ballet" in which eight junior girls will be presented. In a review with Ted Phillips, president of the class, in the role of riding master.

Zollie Boykin has been named ring master of the entire circus and has been reading and studying writings of successful circus producers for the past two weeks.

Bankhead Lane Surveyed By U. S. Airways Official

ABILENE, Feb. 28.—Capt. Edgar Haight, federal airways official, yesterday surveyed the route between Abilene and Sweetwater checking tentative location of light beacons every ten miles. The work is a unit of a survey being made of the Bankhead airways of Texas by the department of commerce.

Haight was in Abilene yesterday, checking his maps of the route with those of the engineering department of the West Texas Utilities company. He was here Saturday en route west to chart the lighting of airline from Dallas to El Paso via Abilene, in anticipation of early contracts for the mail transportation of the transcontinental haul.

Oklahoma City Park Land Has New Oil Producer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 28.—Another producer on Park property of Oklahoma City was brought in today when the Cromwell-Franklin Oil Number 5 Trooper Park, in NE NW NE 13-11-3W, blew in and was estimated good for between 5,000 and 10,000 barrels of oil and 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. Total depth is 5,000 feet in hole. This is the sixth producer in Trooper Park.

Record Time For Dallas - El Paso Flight Established

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—From El Paso to Dallas is 666 miles, but it took a Southern Transport plane four hours and fifty-five minutes to make the flight Monday as against nineteen hours of train time. Pilot Virgil Turnbull was at the controls with five passengers in the ship. It marked one of the fastest passages between these points said P. D. Lampert, assistant operations manager, Love Field, the schedule calling for six hours. The rate of Monday's flight was better than 143 miles an hour.

Traffic in and out of Dallas is maintaining an average of 100 passengers daily with two sections being operated on all lines controlled by this branch of the American Airways, Inc., Mr. Lampert said.

Sweetwater Key Rate Reduced

SWEETWATER, Feb. 28.—Sweetwater's fire insurance key rate will remain at 26 cents for 1930 with a good fire record of 5 per cent. Fire Marshal R. E. Withers has been notified late Monday by J. W. DeWeese, state fire insurance commissioner.

The good fire record is 9 per cent less than it was in 1929 when it stood at 35 per cent. Fire losses which amounted to $61,000 during the year caused the reduction, it was said.

The new rates will become effective in March, Mr. Withers stated. Lowering of the good fire record will add an additional $9 to each $100 premium, insurance men pointed out. Formerly after the premium had been arrived at, 15 per cent was subtracted because of the good fire record, but now only 6 per cent will be taken off.

Lobby Probers Quiz Oil Man On Activities

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Wirt Franklin, president of the American Independent Petroleum Association, testified today before the senate lobby committee that his organization had raised $200,000 to advocate a duty on petroleum in the pending tariff bill.

Franklin said it had been suggested to him that the oil and sugar interests combine forces to get what they wanted in the tariff bill. He added other suggestions had mentioned lumber interests.

Franklin testified he was in the oil business as a producer, refiner and marketer and he had been in Washington since February 3, in the interest of a duty on oil.

He had discussed the proposed oil tariff with a number of senators, both republicans and democrats, he said, asserting no one had been employed and no "influence hired" to represent the association.

Activities of independent producers in attempting to gain support for the oil tariff were shown in letters and telegrams read before the committee.

One telegram, dated February 21, said sent to Earl Culloway of Amarillo, Tex., to John Sherwin of Dallas, said:

"Constantly weakening some. Get about half a dozen to call him over long distance and give him the devil."

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, asked Franklin if he had "found out all about the business interests of senators."

Dr. J. H. Snook Prepares To Die

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 28.—Dr. James Howard Snook, 80-year-old former Ohio state university professor, was tonight to be laid to rest in the electric chair for the murder last June 13 of Miss Theodosia Hix, a student, who sat at his last meal with Mrs. Snook, Warden P. E. Thomas announced today.

Warden Thomas granted the request after a conference with Mrs. Snook, Rev. Isaac E. Miller, pastor of the King Avenue M. E. church, and Mrs. Thomas, the warden's wife.

Dr. and Mrs. Snook will eat a chicken dinner between 5 and 6 o'clock today and within two hours the former professor of veterinary medicine will be led into the death chamber.

Central Labor Council Installs New Officers; President Declares Unions Should Control Politics

The Big Spring Central Labor Council in regular session Wednesday evening installed officers named at the preceding meeting. Listened to an address of admonition and exhortation from the new president, Tom L. Baxter, of the Typographical Union, and generally enjoyed an enthusiastic session.

Arrangements are being made for features of special interest for the meeting of March 12.

Officers installed were: President, Tom L. Baxter of the Typographical Union; vice-president, W. A. Hughes, barber; secretary, treasurer, O. E. Franklin, painter; recording secretary, Eugene Hargrove, meat cutters' union.

Mr. Baxter's address, which follows, admonished delegates to report to the central council the condition facing it, declared that the union should control politics of Big Spring so as to assure that the aims and wishes of organized labor are recognized and realized. Mr. Baxter's address:

"But what may we expect from the nation if we are not aroused to intense action as a class? What have we received from our national government in the past? A number of injunction restraints here and there. There has been special legislation for finance and business in the establishment of the federal reserve bank; railroads have been subsidized and extended enormous loans of public money to save them from bankruptcy and ruin; millions of dollars have been expended in behalf of maritime shipping in order to save an American institution. At last there has been special legislation for the relief of the farmer—thank goodness—but what has ever been done for the industrial worker, that important element in American industry? When congress appropriates five hundred million dollars for the relief of the wage-earner it will be when the wage-earners by mass action and political strength elect to governmental positions men in accord with labor viewpoint, or at least realize that they must act in labor's behalf in order to hold their own jobs. Mass action is necessary to this accomplishment."

"And, after all, in a way, we are our brother's keeper. When the man who is employed and is enjoying the comforts of life assumes an attitude of careless indifference as to present conditions and what the future may bring, that shows a lack of wisdom and foresight. His job may be the next to suffer the executioner's ax. No workman is safe from the continual trend to eliminate man-power in the industrial world. The man who is content in his own position and with his own surroundings, and who is blind to the destitution of others and deaf to the cry from hungry mouths is sinfully selfish and is possessed of an inhuman soul."

"There must be an awakening in every man who toils for his daily bread. There must be keen observation and deep thought. Everyone should be a student of politics of economics, of sociology—read closely of those things going on throughout the world that are of direct interest to the laboring classes. Read labor publications and keep advised as to what is being done in behalf of and against the laboring man. We must defend ourselves against the unscrupulous taskmaster and the conditions that the advancement of the nation is forcing upon us. It can be done, but it must be done orderly and with sound judgment. It must be done within the law. There is no room in the ranks of American labor for the Russian red or the anarchistic discipline. But there must be a solid front. Every soldier must be in line; every recruit possible must be added to the army. There must be collective action."

"History is full of great attainments that have come through mass action. Such is resorted to in variously designed efforts—in politics, in the business world, in social and religious life. Just now is sounded a cry for mass action in protecting activities being committed against Christianity in a foreign land. With the practice and recognition right of mass action in every other class and for every other purpose, surely there can be no legal nor social law against the laboring man resorting to the same means for his own protection against impoverished conditions that grind him down beneath the heels of progressing plutocrats and make of his home a green hell. No, surely the laboring man must resort to mass action."

THOMAS OF OKLAHOMA HAS FLOOR

Criticizes Appointment Of Sub-Committee; Smoot Replies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The senate began debate today on a proposal of Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, for a duty of one dollar a barrel on crude oil and fifty per cent on petroleum by-products.

Oil, now on the free list, had been mentioned in reports that a new coalition had been formed to put through rates on this product and lumber and a higher tariff on sugar. The Jones lumber tariff amendment was defeated by five votes last night. Sugar will not come up before next week.

Senator Jones, republican, Washington, announced today he would seek another vote later on his number duty proposal.

Opening debate, Senator Thomas said the oil industry was in "extreme distress" with price cuts occurring frequently and plans being made for further curtailment of production.

The issue, he argued, was between the independents and a "handful of powerful producers including the Standard group, the Gulf and the Royal Dutch Shell."

Thomas said Chairman Smoot of the finance committee might as well have called W. C. Taft of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, John D. Rockefeller and Secretary Mellon instead of appointing Senators Reed, Capper and Clegg of New Jersey, republican, and King Democrat, Utah, as a sub-committee to hear evidence on an oil tariff.

Children of the rural schools will be given smallpox vaccines at that time, although parents of town children may also bring their children to the clinic for vaccination.

Eighteen children will be given the second dose of diphtheria inoculation at that time, according to the health nurse.

Bell Telephone Earns $21,900,000

Not earnings for the Southwest Bell Telephone company for 1929 total $21,900,000, it was revealed in the annual report made public yesterday by E. D. Miles, president of the company. Net earnings for 1929 were $19,500,000. According to the report the company will spend approximately $200,000,000 within the next five years to provide for expected growth.

More than 54,000 new telephones were added to the company's plant during the year. Fifteen new buildings were erected, extensions made to eight others, and 586,000 miles of wire were added to the system.

Local baths will remain closed Monday in observance of Texas Independence Day which falls on Monday, March 3. To avoid inconvenience, bathhouses and public buildings are asked to commence the bath holiday.

Four Cage Teams In A.A.U. Open Tourney

DALLAS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Four teams were in the running for semifinals in the Southern A. A. U. open tourney for men's basketball teams today, with Sparco of Shreveport, La., and the Dallas Athletic club units promising the feature game on tonight's card.

Both teams took their elimination games handsly last night, and were paired to take up the fight to get to the final stanza. Schemps of Fort Worth will meet Morris Men's Wear in the other feature go, and several consolation matches will be played.

Many Striking Developments Yet To Come In Talking Films

Theaters of 1930 will accept as a matter of course performances that seem incredible today. Despite the remarkable advances made by talking pictures in the short year or so of their existence, I believe that revolutionary improvements in the making and reproducing of vocal tones will bring about changes the modern "rag" has never dreamed of.

These changes, from my viewpoint, will consist in a greater degree of entertainment in exchange for his money at the ticket window—which, after all, is something toward which the producers are always striving.

The point is that a combination and a development of new film and sound principles, principles already proven in the laboratory and in practice, will result in pictures as far ahead of today's best efforts as these efforts are ahead of the crude productions of twenty years ago.

and costumes for each production in order to achieve harmony. In the future that will require no more attention than is now paid to selecting the right combinations for ordinary black and white photography. The tremendous success of Fox's new Grandeur film likewise indicates the universal use of double-width film and screens in 1940. Although this does not actually give a three-dimensional view, as some think, it does supply the illusion of a third dimension to the spectator because of its extreme breadth.

Popular demand will necessitate the general adoption of this feature before much longer.

Another important development, which has already been tried and found practical in the laboratory, will be the abandonment of complete sound reproduction in favor of the partial perspective we now employ. In ordinary hearing, we use both ears to tell direction, and we tell instantly just where a sound or a voice is coming from. With present sound recording on one microphone and reproducing from one set of horns behind the screen, this directional effect is lost, and for practical purposes a theatre audience has the use of only one ear.

It has been found technically practicable, however, to record sound with two microphones, placed on either side of the camera, using two separate sound tracks, later reproducing this in an especially equipped theatre from two sets of horns on either side of the screen. Then a sound coming from a character on one side of the screen, or above or below it, gives exactly this effect to the audience, and adds immensely to the realism of the whole.

The only reason why these developments will not come immediately is financial. To equip a theatre for the use of the Grandeur film and of double sound reproduction is a highly expensive process. The theatre owners recently have spent many millions in adapting their houses to talking pictures, and for that reason it would be unfair to ask them to undertake this additional burden at once.

But it is inevitable that this change will be brought about within the next ten or twelve years. After all, the theatre exists only to satisfy a great public demand, and that public naturally wants only the best. The studios are ready to do their share as soon as the theatre can handle their part of the load.

Mr. Ford's newest production, "Men Without Women," said to be one of the most remarkable vocal films ever made will be the feature attraction at the Ritz theatre, beginning Friday. Kenneth MacKen-is and Frank Johnson tried to all-weather suit of this Morris Lewis melonheads of admiringly.

CENTRAL LABOR

man is the salt of the earth, the bone and sinew of every generation. From his product in the field and from his pay-check at the shop or mill a living world is clothed and fed. Stop the activities of the toiler and you stop the revenue-producer; you stop the circulating medium from which we all live, and you stop the big consumer of the products of the farm and the mill.

And insofar as the laborer is an important factor in the supply and demand of all things that go toward making a prosperous and contented nation, just so far he should be a power in the nation's life. He should have a place in governmental matters, in civic affairs, in social circles, and, above all, in politics. Organized labor ought to control the politics of Big Spring. Not necessarily in an official way, but they should exercise their power in selecting men to public office who are known with a certainty of being loyal to labor's cause.

"I am a zealous believer in organization as a means of bringing about the maximum accomplishment in any given pursuit—for business purposes, for political purposes, for religious purposes, for social purposes, and so on. The greater the organization in number and actual working forces, the greater is its strength and the more abundant the success attained.

"I believe that every wage-earner in the country who is eligible should be a member of organized labor. Bringing it closer to home—applying it to our own people and local conditions—I fully believe that every wage-earner in Big Spring who is eligible should be a member of organized labor. There are no new thoughts. They date back to the formation of the first labor organization. But thoughts are meaningless unless put into action. Words are empty and of no consequence if they fall on desert air.

"I feel that every local union of Big Spring should be closely and actively associated with the Central Labor Council. It is the principal purpose of this body to serve as an amalgamation of the several and varied union organizations and to concentrate the efforts of all collectively when assistance is needed for any particular one. Representation here means added strength for any local union and it assures assistance of the stronger for the weaker organizations.

"Mass action is the only salvation of the wage-earner, and the time is here for the most energetic efforts to meet the exigency of the inevitable.

"With the machine age now upon us, with the influx of thousands of foreign laborers annually and the number of jobless ever increasing, the working men of this country are up against conditions, and standing at a future such as has never before confronted us. Surely it is time for the wage-earner to look upon these facts with utmost seriousness. Surely it is time for the entire nation to view the future with much concern.

"I notice in a newspaper report that the local chamber of commerce is to 'make provisions to have labor represented on its board of directors. A commendable thought. But I wonder if they will discriminate against the union laborer, as is done in some places where such organizations are predominated by the nefarious open shop policies—policies that are engendered from selfish motives or by blind fossilism. In Dallas, for instance, the open shop policies have run rampant for some time but eventually the reaction will come to that city's sorrow. Dallas is ambitious to become an industrial center and they believe there that by sending out the word broadcast that Dallas is an open town and lots of cheap labor can be secured will serve as an inducement for industries to come to them. But Dallas is deluded by a class of men who haven't the business sense or the common integrity to judge wisely in such things. The successful masters of industry have fully learned that the well-paid workman insures them the highest efficiency and the greatest production—that the contented employee with the comfortable and happy home is worth all he costs in the higher wage.

"About two months ago, according to reports from the Dallas Typographical Union, the publishers of 'Holland's Magazine' and 'Farm and Home' 'locked out' their union printers, informing them that henceforth union men would not be employed in the composing room. There was no trouble between the Dallas Typographical Union and the publishing concern. It is claimed by the union. In fact it is said there had never been a rift in the relationship between the employer and the employees in forty years of co-operative progress. But the head of the concern had died some few months previously, his mantle having fallen upon a son, who was probably imbued with what he considered more modernistic ideas, or was led from the lines of wisdom by the Dallas atmosphere that surrounds him. Like all others, in time, he'll see the light, but it's going to be an expensive little flyer for him. I know of people in this immediate vicinity who have discontinued their subscriptions to the publications, and more than likely they are losing hundreds of patrons weekly. That's one of the benefits of mass action.

"Big Spring is admirably an organized town, and in Big Spring every business establishment is supported by the laboring man; every mouth is fed directly or indirectly from the pay envelope of the wage-earner. Then, surely, so sane and sensible business men in Big Spring could be opposed to organized labor.

"Now, I want you delegates to go back to your respective unions and impress upon them the importance of mass action. And whatever trouble your union has or may have assure them that it should be reported here. Union labor should be a power in this town, and with proper organization and co-operation we can make it such—nicely, decently and pleasingly.

MARKET PAGE EDITOR CALLS FOR SUGGESTIONS AS TO USE OF LETTUCE FOR NEXT WEEK

We certainly have plenty of evidence that the women of Big Spring know their cakes. The Market Page Editor was almost snowed under this week with recipes of the favorite cake of Big Spring housewives. We have no complaint, however, for the more recipes that are handed to the Market Page Editor the better we like it.

Cakes of every description... potato cakes, mahogany cakes, Lady Washington cake, fruit cake and a host of others are numbered in the assortment of recipes sent in this past week. We wish we could publish all of them but space will not permit. We have an idea that every one of them would make a cake that would be fit for a king and pleasing to every boy and girl and every man and woman in every home.

Uses Of Lettuce
One of the "all-the-year-round" vegetables that has come into great favor within the last few years is lettuce. There are a host of ways to use it and every one makes a very delightful dish. Next week we want to know your way of using lettuce. Of course, it is used most often in the preparation of salads but there must be some unusual ways that are not commonly known. These are the ways we want to tell the Market Page readers about next week. Send in your way now and if it is published next Friday on this page you will receive a Herald check for $1.00.

"Whole System In Good Order Now"

"Sargon took right hold of my troubles, made me feel 100% better, put my whole system in good order and gave me a gain of seven pounds in weight."

A. J. BUTLER

"I was rundown and nervous and my whole system was 'out of gear'. My appetite was poor, my nerves were so upset I couldn't sleep good, and I'd get tired out before the day was half over. Cold weather seemed to go right through me and I look cold easily. Sargon brought back my appetite and this nourished and strengthened me. I sleep good, go through the day without tiring in the least and I haven't had a cold since I started the medicine. Sargon Pills completely ended my constipation and put my liver in fine condition."—A. J. Butler, 1121 E. Jefferson St., Fort Worth. Cunningham & Phillips, Agents.

man of this meeting reminds me of" I'll tell you, since this is only a friendly discussion.

"A farmer took his son to town with him one day, and left him on the corner, to wait until his return. Upon leaving he said, 'Now, son, if anyone comes up to talk to you, don't say anything, for if you do, they'll find out you are a fool.' The little boy agreed to keep his mouth shut.

"In just a little while, a man came up and tried to engage himself in conversation with the youth.

"Sonny, what's your name?" he asked.

"No answer.

"What's your father's name?"

No answer.

"Where do you live?"

No answer.

"The man was furious with the lad, whom he thought very stupid—just because he was obeying his dad's orders and shutting out at him:

"Well, you're just a damn fool."

"When the boy's father returned, he said, 'Well, Dad, I kept my mouth shut but they found it out anyway.'

"We believe in the Scriptures and they say, 'Where little is given, little is required.' Now, if all of us had taken the same position on bond issues that Sam has always taken, would he have ever been able to sell a block of land for $50,000, or $70,000? Maybe he could have sold it for $2,000—but I say maybe! The land that he sold could have been bought for one-fifth of that amount, when I came here 25 years ago—and you know what enhanced its value. As I see it, 25 years from now, that same piece of land can't be bought for $500,000, if the growth of our town is not checked, by some shortsighted policies, as are now contracting us.

"The three issues that we are to vote on March 6th, are for things that we know the city of Big Spring needs. What town in West Texas has enough water? Not a one—and no town has the expenses Big Spring has to go and get that water. No individual in Big Spring knows that any better than does Clyde Thomas. Yet he tells us to wait until we get a new set of commissioners. That has been the cry I have heard from that bunch during the quarter century I have lived here."

"I remember, the first bond issue ever tried to be put over in Big Spring, was defeated. It was for a new Courthouse. I voted for it strong, and backed it with my paper—but they ran over me like a gravel train—and defeated the issue. I was not entirely knocked out by the blow, and a year or so later, we got the new courthouse. I believe we got our money's worth, too. I believe that that was the only bond issue that was ever defeated while I was managing the Big Spring Herald.

"Now, that same crowd told me when I began advocating the City's ownership of the water works, that they were in favor of it, but to wait until the city got in a better financial condition. Suppose we had followed their advice. According to Mr. Thomas, we would now be without enough water to take a bath. Now, I am a member of the old school, and when Saturday night comes, I believe in bathing, whether you need to or not! However, when I first moved to Big Spring, I have had to miss a few on account of water shortage—that was because some one said, 'Let's wait.'"

"I see somewhere in the writings, where one of the opposition to the bond issue, says that the city should not discriminate between her citizens and her enterprises. This is such a weak argument that I really feel ashamed to mention it. All of us know that most cities furnish their enterprises water free for many years, and some of them furnish it free, for all times.

"Mr. Thomas said that he hated to see a lot of politics mixed up in city affairs! Now, Clyde, aren't you and your first lieutenant, Sam, the first men to ever engage in politics in a city election? I was run over by that gravel-train that you and Sam put in motion once, but remember you were licked, at the last general election.

"I believe you when you say you have never voted against a city or county bond issue, for as I have said before, I believe you to be a progressive and far-sighted citizen, and a man with sense and forethought enough to know that no city can grow without issuing bonds. You say that you do not believe in secret meetings. Yet, when you were a candidate for mayor, you thought they were alright. They were held—and if you did not have the pass word you could not get in. Why the change? I suppose that you were not greatly surprised at the bonds being defeated at the recent election for you well know that no fight was made for them. But let me tell you this, you and your bunch are whipped this time.

"I disagree with you when you say that you have no influence in this town—you have—but the only trouble with you this time, is that you are not a non-progressive, and do not belong with the crowd you are in. On March 6th, why not vote for the bonds, for you know, Clyde, all of them are needed; if Big Spring is to go forward. (Sam doesn't think so, but you do). You know, that if Mr. Lancaster had come to you (while you were mayor of Big Spring) and told you and your council that he would build new shops here, as he proposes to build, you would have promised to get him water. Of course, you would have had a bunch to fight to get that water, but you would have gotten it. Get out of that bunch—you don't belong there.

"Any citizen in Big Spring knows that either Sweetwater or Midland would have given the Texas and Pacific Railway a bigger bonus than this entire bond issue and water free, if they would have located their shops and terminals in either town. And I want to say that at one time Sweetwater stood a good chance of getting the shops, but our commissioners had promised them the water. Have you ever stopped to think what it would have meant for Big Spring if no shops had been located at Sweetwater or some other point on the T. & P.? More than likely if they had not been secured by Big Spring, some of you who are out fighting the bond issue, would have had to sacrifice home. If that had happened, you certainly would not have been called upon to vote for more bonds, on March 6th, for there would have been no need for them. Due to the business integrity and forethought of our city commissioners, you were saved, and why fall down on them this time?"

"I guess you are right when you say that the city has fallen in debt faster than the county, but there is a reason. You know that if we were keeping pace with the other progressive counties of Texas, we would be voting a bond issue of over a half million dollars for good roads. Too, it won't be long now until we are going to have to build a new Courthouse. Of course, the anti-bond, two-bit tax payers, are going to howl, but nevertheless, we are going to be forced to build it. We'll soon have a population of 25,000 to 30,000 people and the newcomers will be tax-payers and will help carry their part of the load. Why worry about that, when we will be able to take care of our needs much better, with an increased population and valuation, than we now are. We know that these are hard times, and that would be the more reason for voting the bonds right now. It would give some deserving people work, and the more men earning steady salaries, help business in the town, and give us fewer calls for charity.

"Yes, we are going to be called upon to vote bonds for more schools. We need them, and when they are submitted, we are going to vote for them. As the town grows, the value of our property increases, and there is no reason why we cannot put some of our money back into the rebuilding of Big Spring. If taxes get too high for us, we will sell out, and move to a town that is already 'full-grown,' then we'll never be bothered with taxes, bond issues, or other such worries. But I would hate to live in a town that is in-lined, for its sure to be a dead one. An individual need food for life and growth, so towns need food for the same purpose, and bond issues are the means used for this development.

"The only way that the bonds can be defeated on March 6th, is for those in favor of the bonds, to stay away from the polls. The majority of the citizens want to see Big Spring grow, and believe that Big Spring needs these things for which she is asking, so that her growth will not be retarded. Show that you are keeping faith with Big Spring, by going to the polls and voting for the bonds.

"Your's for a bigger and better Big Spring"

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well
What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoons daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LUBBOCK FARMER DECLARES HE FEELS LIKE NEW SINCE TAKING ORGATONE (ARGOTANE)

"A few weeks of Orgatone (Argotane) treatment actually put an end to my indigestion and made me feel like a new man," said H. D. Owens, a well known retired farmer residing at 311 Ave. T. Lubbock, Texas, in relating his experience with Orgatone (Argotane).

"One day after eating," he continued "I had an awful attack of indigestion and from that time on I commenced to get in a general run down condition. My stomach would bloat up with gas so at times I could hardly stand the pain. I started doctoring myself, but in spite of the medicine I took I became so much worse and suffered such agony that it looked like nothing could ever do me any good.

"One of my friends advised me to try Orgatone and I began to improve right from the start and in a week I felt much better. A few more weeks and it fixed me up all right and I have gotten over my indigestion and can eat anything I want. I believe everybody in my neighborhood is taking Orgatone (Argotane) and praising it for the good it is doing them."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Big Spring at the Cunningham & Phillips Drug Store.—adv.

Sharkey Gains Technical Knockout Sports Have Brilliant Prospects For Winner

Steer Track Squad Ready For First Meet Saturday

Art Phelan Retains Part Of 'Dark Horse' Team Of 1929

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth and last of a series of articles on 1930 prospects of Texas League clubs.

SHREVEPORT, La., Feb. 28 (AP)—A veteran mound staff, proved under fire, and possibly the greatest collection of rookie infielders and outfielders ever gathered under one Texas League tent will be whipped into a compact unit by Manager Art Phelan to carry Shreveport hopes in the pending pennant scramble.

If they cash in on their prospects, the 1930 Sports will be fully as troublesome as last year, when, as the official "dark horse," they battled for the leadership right down to the tape and finished second in the full season standing.

Hurlers Strong Four regular chankers on last year's staff return to bear the brunt of the mound work.

WHAT'S THIS? One of our informants served notice this morning that someone criticized the humble conductor of this space. Well, now can you imagine that? Here we had been laboring under the impression that our efforts were meeting with 100 per cent approval and then to learn that someone differs with our opinion, well, it's nearly too much to shoulder.

INITIAL MEET The Steers make their initial track and field appearance of the season Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. The boys are far from peak form at this stage of the season, but we hazard the opinion they will give a good account of themselves considering the caliber of competition.

Schmeling Misses Radio Reports Of Sharkey Victory

BERLIN, Feb. 28 (AP)—Max Schmeling, who probably will meet Jack Sharkey in next summer's big heavyweight fight, missed the radio news of the Boston sailor's triumph over Phil Scott at Miami, Fla.

Shortstop and third base are the gaps upon which Manager Phelan will need to concentrate; particularly the hot corner. When Ernie Holman caught the eye of the Boston Red Sox bosses the Sports lost a third baseman who rapped 28 home runs, stole 15 bases, drove in 98 runs and generally raised Cain last year.

A Philadelphia judge released a man caught robbing poor boxes in the churches on condition that he join the army, navy or marines. The idea probably being to build up the military morale.

NEW YORK — Alfred O. Corbin, banker, who has played the victim since his boyhood in Holland, has acquired a Stradivarius made in 1717. His collection of instruments is valued at more than $150,000.

JACK SHARKEY

pair of promising youngsters, Joseph Huarte from the Lynn club of the New England league, and Umberto Baker, from the Piedmont League. Huarte is expected to replace Diviveros, and Baker will try to fill Holman's over-size shoes at the hot corner. Both were hard hitters and steady fielders last year and are expected to fit in nicely. However, if either falls down, there will be a flock of candidates to take his place.

Outfield Settled There is no question about the class of the outfield. The list of candidates includes Roy Hutson, Pete McClanahan, Walter Parks, Siki Sikes and Sam Scalfing, the last two slugging products of the West Texas League.

Cashion, a regular last year, is certain of a job, and he likely will be flanked by Hutson and McClanahan, both non-class men. Hutson and McClanahan were playing regular and clipping the ball at a steady pace when injuries forced them out of the lineup within a month after the 1929 race opened.

Infielders Back Half of the infield probably will be held down by stars of last year's combination. Gus Whelan, regarded by many as the league's greatest first baseman last year, is a certainty, and chances are that Cecil Stewart, second-basing sensation, will be returned for further seasoning by the Cleveland Indians, to whom he was sold.

Third Is Weak Shortstop and third base are the gaps upon which Manager Phelan will need to concentrate; particularly the hot corner. When Ernie Holman caught the eye of the Boston Red Sox bosses the Sports lost a third baseman who rapped 28 home runs, stole 15 bases, drove in 98 runs and generally raised Cain last year.

ISTANBUL — Going, going, are fat Turks. The government is sponsoring a dieting campaign to reduce extravagance and girth. Instead of 20-course banquets, a palatial menu just devised is meagre enough to do credit to Hollywood.

LONDON — Considerate fellows are those marines. The Scottish guards proposed a bayonet contest. "We might hurt some of you fellows," said the marines. Instead, there is to be a shoot between the teams from the marines and the Queen Victoria rifles.

A squad of 30 track men will represent Big Spring high school Saturday afternoon at a triangular relay carnival at Stanton. The first event is scheduled to start promptly at one o'clock, officials of the meet have advised. Midland high school will be the third entry in the triangular race for track and field honors. Lomax is reported to be sending a few entrants to the meet, but the report has not been confirmed by Stanton officials.

Nearly two weeks of practice is lying behind the Steer track squad, but most of the time has been spent conditioning the athletics. Little inter-squad competition has been attempted, so the value of material that will represent Big Spring this year is still a mystery.

Couch Bill Stevens expects to enter three men in each event and believes that Big Spring's chances of coping the meet are above par. The Steers are strong in the dashes and hurdles and will have a fair relay team to throw against the other two schools.

Buren Edwards is the only experienced hurdler on the squad, but Phillips and possibly Flowers will be sent into the low barrier race to round out the entry list. Bill Flowers will try his hand at the 440 with one or two other entrants to be selected.

Henry Richbourg, a letter man from last year's thin-clad squad, will be the main threat in the 880, but John Morjib and Elmer Pardue will be teamed with the veteran in an effort to land a few additional points.

In the mile run, Coach Stevens has Franklin Orr, Cecil Reed, Dines and Daily to choose between. Frank Fisherman, Luther Glover and Ginsberg will fling the discus and much the same lineup will take turns in the shot arena. Nathan Orr will replace Glover in tossing the round ball.

Cecil Neel, Nathan Orr and Bill Gordon will probably enter the pole vault event while Phillips, Edwards and Pardue are slated to represent the Steers in the high jump event. Fisherman and Richbourg are the only two sure entrants in the broad jump, but it is likely another man will be entered before the meet opens Saturday afternoon at one o'clock.

Stanton is working on a fast

LOW BLOW BRINGS CRY FROM SCOTT

Draw Decision In Risko-Campolo Fight; Unpopular Verdict

By ALAN GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—The cry of "fair or foul" was raised again today amid the chaos of the heavyweight fistic realm, wafted out upon the balmy southern breezes, as a result of Jack Sharkey's technical knockout victory over Phil Scott in the third round of the weirdest contest any tropical moon has shone upon.

In a finish as balmy as the weather, Sharkey was declared the winner by Referee Lou Magnolia last night after the lanky British champion had claimed a foul, taken a complete minute's rest to recuperate as the claim was disallowed and, then, refused altogether to continue as he swayed against the ropes from the effects of a terrific left hook to the pit of the stomach.

The third round The spectacle of this third round, the climax to a carnival of clout that was a financial as well as a fistic flop, probably has no precedent in the history of American heavyweight boxing—with Sharkey first warned for hitting low, Scott then making with an agonized look and cry of foul, police and headliners in the ring as the referee helped drag Scott to his corner for an examination and a minute's rest, Sharkey raging around the ring with tears streaming down his face as he feared disqualification, Scott then limping out to continue the bout with pain written all over his face and, finally, the abrupt ending with Scott erect, but virtually helpless on the ropes, protesting his inability to continue from the effects of body blows or an alleged foul or both.

Sharkey won the decision and, as a result, the right to battle Max Schmeling, German champion, for a bout that will be billed for the world's championship in June at the Yankee Stadium, New York. The Boston sailor, however, in the opinion of most critics, fought an unsatisfactory fight, jeopardized his chances of winning from an opponent he obviously outclassed and added nothing to his prestige as the leading American title contender.

Scott Eliminated Scott, thoroughly eliminated from any further consideration in the heavyweight circus, left a sorrowful impression as a fighter, inspired after a claim of foul, regardless of the blows struck or the merits of the referee's action, Scott put up a performance that served only to emphasize his reputation for claiming disputed fouls.

Referee Magnolia, veteran New York ring arbiter and the sole ruling official of the bout, declared he saw no low punches, but, after the fight, examination of Scott showed a lump on the right leg, several inches below the waist-line. A physician described the injury as traumatic sciatica, producing a partial paralysis. Magnolia explained his extraordinary action in stopping the fight for a minute was prompted by a desire to avoid any possible charge of unfair dealing.

The third round lasted three minutes and 34 seconds, including the minute devoted to debate and rest. All told, Scott was on the floor three times for a count, once in the second round after being rushed to his corner and flipped by a left to the head. He took a count of six and lasted out the round without much trouble. Another wild rush by Sharkey, early in the third round, put Scott down for a count of six before the blow that aroused the big controversy.

Unpopular Verdict The result of the sub-fine between Johnny Risko of Cleveland and Victorio Campolo of the Argentine, declared a draw by Referee Kid McPharland of New York, also was unsatisfactory to the majority of spectators and experts who considered Risko held a winning edge. Campolo finished spectacularly, staggering Risko in the tenth round with solid smashes. This, in the referee's opinion, entitled the South American giant to a draw, but most critics scored at least six rounds in Risko's favor.

Paid attendance was estimated at only 25,000, half the arena's capacity, and the receipts at $200,000 or less. On this basis, the Madison Square Garden Corporation faced a possible loss of $50,000. Last year's show drew a "gate" of $407,000 with Sharkey and Young Stribling in the main event.

In the three others on the card, Jimmy Maloney of Boston outpointed Moise Bouquillon of France, Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia gained the referee's decision over Pierre Charles of Belgium and Raul Bianchi, Argentine, knocked out Billy Daring of Palm Beach, in the first round.

The Knott basketball teams played good games at the county tournament Saturday. The girls' senior team won from Lomax 10 to 4 while they lost to Big Spring. Two of the best players, Minnie Belle Page and Pauline Trout, were unable to play because of minor injuries. It was the first time Knott girls had been defeated in the tournament in three years. The junior boys defeated Midway 20 to 12 and Forsan 20 to 8 but lost the final game to the giant Big Spring team. The boys all declared that when they become giants they will win. Both took their defeats in good spirit.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Phil Martin is captured by the Big Shot's gang and imprisoned in a vacant house. Enid Howard comes to his rescue and they escape after a thrilling experience in which they outwit three gangsters. They escape in the gangster's car. Martin telephones his story to his paper and rides off with Enid in a taxi. Enid reveals Martin's questions and leaves his story. He has learned that the Big Shot murdered a man named Jensen several years ago and had chased Enid when Martin had been a witness to the crime. Martin's papers are entrusted to the wife of a newspaper friend, which he is to retrieve.

Chapter 23
A HOUSE'S GAME
Enid had escaped to contemplate the moral issues involved in the double game she was determined to play she might have been shocked, even appalled at the metamorphosis.
It had not been so long ago that she would have viewed such things as reprehensible.
Now she did not even give it a thought—her mind was too busy in planning a course of action to give her brother, what irony! Her brother a murderer—pursued by the man she loved!
Enid broke the silence that had followed Phil's startling tale.
"But you haven't got the Big Shot yet," she observed judiciously.
"You've never seen him and you don't even know what he looks like. You said you heard Batty Rose and a man called Skinny talking. Did they say where the Big Shot lived?"
He shook his head. "Oh, no; nothing near as good as that!" he smiled. "What they said may not amount to anything; just enough to give a rather hazy clue to their game. The house can't answer questions but its landlord or its owner can; and what with that, and running Batty Rose and Skinny to earth, it won't take long to dig the Big Shot out of his hole."
"And then, on top of all that, Enid's you!" He was leaning toward her now. "Perhaps you will be able to help, too. In fact, I'm sure you will! It couldn't be otherwise ricked your life and mine for me tonight. I love you, Enid. I love you!"

She closed her eyes. He had swept her into his arms. His lips burned like fire on hers. Perhaps the taxi driver saw. How little that mattered! Where was that wanted man of hers that he was never to know that she cared!
With a little moan she tore herself away. "Don't! Oh, please, don't!" she said piteously. "There—there can never be anything like this between us. Oh, you are making it so hard—so hard! It is not a question of trust. I do trust you. I trusted you when I went to that house. I am trusting you now. If it were known that it was Enid Howard who was in that house tonight I would be in far greater danger than—"
"Yes, and that's what's driving me nearly mad!" he cried. "If—"
"Wait!" she interrupted desperately. "Let me finish! I want to speak about you. You do not need any further warning to tell you that you are in danger. Why don't you keep out of this—leave him alone! Leave him to me—to the police!"
"Scared off!" He laughed shortly. "Would you expect that of me? We won't talk about my danger. But I'll tell you now, if it will relieve your fears, that he has had the only chance he'll ever get at me. There won't be another. He'll be cornered before he can strike again—at me or anyone else!"
She could find no words. Nothing, she knew, would alter his determination. She twisted her hands together distractedly.
"Enid," he burst out, "what does it all mean? I can't understand! Not only about what has happened tonight but what you said a moment ago—that there... and never

CRAMPING SPELLS
Mississippi Lady Tells How She Suffered Until She Had Taken Cardui on a Friend's Advice.
Greenville, Miss.—In describing how she suffered several years ago, Mrs. Mattie Dalton, of 114 Pecan Street, this city, recently wrote:
"I would cramp, and my hands and feet would draw, so I came near having convulsions. I would have to stay in bed, sometimes a week, and when I would get up, I just dragged around and did not feel like doing my work. I suffered a great deal with my back."
"A friend came to see me and saw how I suffered. She told me to try taking Cardui, which I did. I seemed to have more strength, after my first bottle. After I had taken about four bottles of Cardui, I saw a great improvement."
"I quit having such bad spells, and was stronger and better than in a long time. I gained in weight. I took a few more bottles of Cardui, and felt so well that I quit taking it."
"I certainly can recommend Cardui, for I know what it is to suffer, and I know that Cardui helped me."
Thousands of women have written to tell of the benefit Cardui has been to them, in helping them to build up their health.
Having helped so many others, Cardui should help you, too. NC 272

Her seat was the nearer to the curb—and suddenly, now, she stepped out of the cab. "I have a telephone," she said, and sped around the corner.
