Farm Groups Program May Be Postponed

Say Delay Would Give Farmers Time To Study Legislation

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—A movement to postpone action until next year on the agricultural adjustment program drafted by farm organizations developed today among congressional leaders.

They pointed out that a delay would aid the economy campaign and would give farmers time to study the legislation, which combines authorization for production control, soil conservation, limited crop insurance and an "ever-normal" granary.

The cost might be between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 greater than the present soil conservation program, said American farm bureau officials.

Although a final decision lay with President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace said yesterday he hoped a broad federal program along the lines of that bill would be enacted at this session.

"I think the farmers, generally speaking, have drawn up a very fine bill," he said.

Wallace expressed belief it was too early to consider whether some features would be held constitutional. Several members of the senate agriculture committee contended the supreme court's invalidation of the old AAA stood in the way of production control and price guarantees.

The objective of the groups supporting the bill is a return of the "good old days" of American agriculture—the pre-war years of 1909-14.

In those days, the sponsors explain, farm commodities had a fair buying power.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ADDS NEW EQUIPMENT

Fire fighting methods of the Big Spring fire department have been materially changed by the addition of two new type adjustable spray type nozzles.

Used on an oil fire at the Howard County refinery Wednesday, the new nozzles knocked the blaze in a matter of seconds.

Approximately 400 gallons of diesel fuel, crude oil and gasoline were set afire in a pit near the plant. The pumper, drawing from a water reservoir, gave sufficient pressure to create a small fog which permitted firemen to walk within a few feet of the raging flames. A few seconds later the fire was smothered out. The oil was ignited a second time and put out even quicker.

The new nozzles can be adjusted to give a fine spray, a fog or a full stream.

Drake Given Two Years In Forgery Cases

Pleads Guilty To Two Indictments; Terms To Run Concurrently

Donald Allen Drake, self styled graduate of a mail order detective school, pleaded guilty to two indictments charging forgery and passing a forged instrument in 70th district court Thursday and was sentenced to serve two years in each case.

Judge Charles L. Klapproth ordered the terms to run concurrently and gave him credit for time served in jail here since April 29 when he was returned from Arizona by Deputy Sheriff Andrew Merrick.

Drake was apprehended on advice from Merrick after he had trailed the fugitive for nearly two years. Drake's habit of writing of letters to chide them for their inefficiency resulted in his capture.

Merrick disclosed that the federal bureau of investigation showed that Drake, whose real name was given as C. C. Paulin, was arrested in 1931 at Bowling Green, Ky. and was sentenced a few days later at Columbus, Ohio. He had records at Dallas and in several other cities of the southwest as Cyrus Cecil, J. A. Blake, Jack Blake and Donald Allen, and Donald Drake.

Speech Made By Cardinal Is Protested

Ambassador Of Germany Makes 'Energetic Representations' To Govt.

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Leaders of three denominations upheld George Cardinal Mundelein today in his stand against Nazi Germany's attitude toward the Catholic church as the Reich made informal representations to the United States.

The Catholic prelate, addressing an archdiocesan conference Tuesday, urged Catholics not to take "lying down" to the "malicious propaganda" he said the Nazi government was spreading against the church.

In Chicago the cardinal's stand today was supported by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist Episcopal church; Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Chicago diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, and Dr. George Fox, president of the Chicago Robb-incl association.

MERLIN, May 20 (AP)—"Energetic representations" to the United States by Nazi Germany's newest ambassador to Washington, was disclosed today as Nazi Germany's newest reaction to an anti-Nazi speech by George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.

An official communique issued by the German News Agency, D.N.B., said: "The German embassy at Washington made energetic representations in the state department on account of the silly and tactless insults to the fuhrer and reichschancellor by Chicago Cardinal Mundelein."

(At Washington, it was stated the representations were made informally.)

An official spokesman, discussing the protest, said Dr. Dieckhoff's general instructions to stand for no "insults" to Adolf Hitler and his regime were explicit, and that the Mundelein representations "followed automatically in the wake of his duties."

Succeeded Luther
Dr. Dieckhoff is just beginning his career as German ambassador to Washington. He recently succeeded Dr. Hans Luther, who carried on the state department's third reich's protests against anti-Nazi utterances by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York.

These were in turn followed by

MANILA, P. I., May 20 (AP)—Fire swept uncontrolled through the gold mining town of Paracale today, leaving thousands homeless and an undetermined number of dead.

Ruffians were reported looting homes as terror-stricken residents fled before the wind-driven flames.

Newspaper reports varied from two known deaths to "many" believed dead. The Manila Bulletin correspondent estimated 200 houses were destroyed in the town of 10,000 people. He placed the loss at close to $500,000.

It was the second disastrous fire in the Philippines within 24 hours. Yesterday a $25,000 fire destroyed the business district of Maasin on Leyte Island, south of Manila. Many people were left homeless but no casualties were reported.

WILLIAM McCRAW TO TALK WITH HUGHES

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP)—William McCraw, Texas attorney general, arranged a conference with Chief Justice Hughes for this afternoon to discuss the possible appointment of a special master to hear testimony in the interstate fight over taxing the $57,000,000 cats of the late Col. E. H. R. Green.

Texas, New York, Florida and Massachusetts claim that the late railroad magnate lived within their taxable jurisdictions.

McCraw expressed hope, before the conference, that a special master could help untangle the conflicting claims and eliminate a long drawn out court battle.

Kiwanians Hear Their Lieutenant Governor In Thursday Program

The appearance of the club's Lieutenant Governor, J. Edward Johnson of Brownwood, was postponed for two weeks and W. R. Waghorn, musical director of Texas Tech, substituted on the Kiwanis weekly luncheon program Thursday at the Settles hotel.

Waghorn gave a talk on music and contributed several numbers on the piano. Harold Reed, local school youth, also shared in the program, giving an accordion solo.

Several of the members are out of town and were unable to attend.

ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER ABOLISHES WPA OFFICE

12 Offices In State Are Closed

District No. 18 Probably Be Consolidated With Lubbock, Angelo

The Big Spring and eleven other district WPA offices were abolished Thursday by an administrative order from H. P. Drought, state works progress administrator.

District No. 18, with headquarters for 13 counties located here, will be consolidated with the Lubbock and San Angelo districts, it was assumed.

R. H. McNew, district director, had been called to San Antonio early Thursday for a conference with Drought and could not be reached for a statement.

What will become of the local district heads and staff members remained a matter for conjecture. Approximately 21 are employed in the district office as department heads, clerical help, field supervisors, and time keepers. There are around 30 project superintendents in the district who may not be affected by the order.

187 Employees Out
Drought estimated a saving of approximately $30,000 per month due to the reduction of district offices from 20 to 12 in the state. The change will affect 187 employees, he told the Associated Press.

He did not say when the reduction would become effective.

Although figures could not be confirmed by the district WPA office here since McNew was out of the city, close observers said the administrative payroll for the local district likely ran in excess of $3,000 monthly. It was estimated that total administrative payroll for the two years WPA has been in operation here has amounted to around $65,000.

Other offices in the state to be closed under Drought's order are Tyler, Beaumont, Palestine, Wichita Falls, Abilene, Brownwood and Uvalde.

"It is with regret," said Drought, "that we face the necessity of releasing a substantial number of administrative officers who have rendered efficient and faithful service since the inception of this organization in July 1935. All of the district directors who accepted appointment at the beginning of the program have remained to the present time. I cannot express too highly my appreciation for the service which they have rendered at a time when the nation gravely needed such endeavor."

Offices Opened In 1935
Big Spring was assured the district WPA headquarters shortly after R. H. McNew, then district relief administrator, had been appointed as director of the district.

State Board Of Water Engineers Uninformed Of New USGS Allotment

The state board of water engineers at Austin said Thursday that it was uninformed of any new United States geological survey allotment to Texas for water surveys.

Associated Press accounts had said that the state had been given an additional $20,000 for the purpose, most of it to be used in West Texas. It was thought that the new allotment might contain federal funds to match a $10,000 emergency appropriation passed by the legislature to cover the work in the Big Spring area.

LEADERS OF UNION AWAIT POSSIBLE FEDERAL ACTION

HOUSTON, May 20 (AP)—Union leaders of Houston's auto mechanics 36-day strike today awaited possible federal action on their charge an employer had refused to negotiate with strikers under provisions of the Wagner act.

In Fort Worth Dr. Edwin A. Elliott, federal mediator with the national labor relations board, said he was not in a position to comment on a complaint charging the Beard and Stone Electric company failed to meet and bargain with "duly elected representatives of a majority of their employees."

Beard and Stone opened their service department yesterday along with other strike-bound shops.

FDR Is Urged To Seek Only Two Justices

Close Senate Advisers Tell President Original Bill Not Needed

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 20—President Roosevelt's closest senate advisers were urged today to withdraw his court reorganization bill or restrict it to two additional justices.

They argued that the original bill no longer is needed, because the court is constraining the constitution more broadly and because Justice Van Devanter's retirement is approaching.

Mr. Roosevelt still gave no public indication that he would yield.

Many senators predicted he would stand firm until the supreme court decides the constitutionality of the social security law.

There were indications, however, of private negotiations for a compromise.

The president himself called Senator Nye (R-ND) to the White House yesterday for a conference which Nye would not discuss afterwards.

Word was passed around in the senate that the president discussed with Nye a compromise on two, instead of six, new supreme court justices. Nye would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Senator Frazier (R-ND) also was understood to have received a White House invitation.

Court bill opponents said the administration was now working for the two justice compromise in the stead of the proposal supported in approval of Senator Robinson, democratic leader, for appointment of one justice a year as long as any incumbent were over 75.

There was strong sentiment in the senate for withdrawal of the bill entirely and substitution of a constitutional amendment to require retirement of judges at 70 or 75 years of age.

Opponents were just beginning today to write the committee's adverse report on the bill, and it appeared likely that the supreme court would rule on the social security act before debate could begin in the senate.

That might make it possible to work out a solution to the controversy before the issue reaches the floor.

Because developments on the bill all were backstage, senate discussion centered today on the possibility of Senator Robinson being appointed to succeed Justice Van Devanter.

Hughes became seriously ill after a heart attack last Sunday.

House Pushes Bill Aiding Rural Schools

Last Of Five Major Money Bills To Receive Floor Consideration

AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—The house today pushed the $12,000,000 rural school aid appropriation bill several miles farther along the road to enactment.

This was the last of the five major money bills to receive floor consideration and the lower chamber hoped to have it in conference within a few hours.

An amendment was adopted requiring that a school district must impose a tax of at least 50 cents on the $100 valuation for maintenance in order to be eligible for state aid. A proposed provision that tax collections must be at least 70 per cent to permit eligibility.

LINDY AVOIDS FUSS ON TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF OCEAN HOP

WEALD, England, May 20 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh studiously avoided any of the fuss of celebration today on the tenth anniversary of his now historic solo flight from New York to Paris.

He pottered about the garden of his country home, Long Barn, in the manner of a man who has never achieved fame and never wants to.

"I did it. Why should I celebrate it?" Lindbergh was quoted by a friend as having answered when questioned about his plans for the anniversary of the flight he made a decade ago.

A steady stream of congratulatory telegrams poured in on the Flying Colonel but there were no telephone calls.

Lindbergh has ordered the telephones disconnected so that even well wishers will have no chance to disturb the peace and privacy which he fled from the United States to England to seek in December, 1935.

Lindbergh's only plan for the day was to spend it quietly—just as he spends most of his other days—son, Jon.

Drive Halted By Basque 'Last Stand'

Emilio Mola's Columns Stall Against Reformed Defense Line

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 20 (AP)—Gran Basque militiamen, their backs to Bilbao's wall, blocked the insurgent offensive at least temporarily today.

Bilbao commanders declared one of Gen Emilio Mola's columns had stalled against the reformed defense line in its thrust from fallen, half-mined Amorebieta, about eight miles east by southeast from the tottering Basque capital.

An insurgent communique said Mola's forces captured Mount Gaudramendi and six villages in an advance on a six-mile front north-west of Amorebieta.

The commander reported the 1,000 feet of an important Basque communications center in that sector, but did not locate it.

The advance line was about five miles from Galdacano, a key point in the city's "little Maginot line" of steel and concrete fortifications.

ANITA LOOS' SARATOGA

Illustrated by Vincentini

NOTE—Today begins The Herald's new story, Saratoga, an exciting and romantic story of big time racing and the people who follow it. By Anita Loos and Robert Hopkins, Saratoga is synthesized by Milti Cunningham.

CHAPTER ONE
It had been a stiff handicap. But she had won!

"And not at long last either," she said to herself.

"Two short years from Brookdale Farm to Southborough House and Carol Clayton's the girl who's done it."

She turned her head and her eyes went slowly toward the lovely old garden. They stopped at the big stone house, covered with ivy, mellowed by the centuries into a beauty beyond the planning of its builders.

"Different," she said suddenly, "but in its own way rather fine, too."

The young man beside her who had been watching her and wondering, as he so often did, what she was thinking, laughed.

"Before you tell me what that cryptic remark may mean, I want you to make me one promise. Do you vow that always, all through "THE SOVIETS," by Albert Rhys Williams (Harcourt Brace); "SEARCH FOR TRUTH IN RUSSIA," by Sir Walter Citrine (Dutton: $3).

If your sense of humor has not deserted you completely, two recent books will provide giggles as well as information. These are Sir Walter Citrine's "Search for Truth in Russia" and Albert Rhys Williams' "The Soviets."

Both authors have had experience of Russia. Mr. Williams' being by far the more lengthy. Both gentlemen aim at entire impartiality. Neither gentleman achieves it. The reader, once again, is led to make his own evaluation according to his own insight and prejudice.

Sir Walter is one of the world leaders of the Trades Union movement. He went to Russia armed with the promise of Russian officialdom that he would be shown the bad with the good. The promise often was evaded—or rather, officials and others tried to evade it. Sir Walter refused to be put off.

He found the facts of the mud-fle over the ruble's value. He exposed the masked taxation in the various "capital expenditures." He pointed to the inequalities of wages and opportunity, and refused to ignore the immense difference between what the state kept from earnings and what it doled out to the workers. Sir Walter had, even on shipboard, going to Russia, some doubts that emancipating women into the greater freedom of day labor really amounted to anything. Creches exist, he learned later, but can accommodate only a small percentage of the babies. Rest homes exist, but if you're a worker, try to get in. Sir Walter's fairness and his methods are typical of England.

Mr. Williams is trying very hard to write merely a book of fact. He is answering the questions about Russia which used to be asked around firesides in the days when there was some mystery connected with the Russian revolution. But one has only to compare Mr. Williams with Sir Walter to see that the former has not been able to keep his personal reactions out of the matter any more than the latter. Mr. Williams' fact is fact; the difficulty is that the word "fact" means little when, as in Russia, the "fact" varies according to whom the authorities are talking.

THE SPORTS CIRCUIT—A Farewell Gesture To H. Thomas

Local softball will miss Howard Thomas. For the past two years he has been manager of the Settles aggregation. If not of championship calibre, the Roadrunners are one of the most colorful teams in this section.

Thomas deserves an orchid for his sportsmanship. In fact, the only man he ever fought verbally was Spikes Henninger, and arguments with Claude E. are as common as old clothes.

We hate to see Howard go but we're glad he's moving up the ladder. "Rat" Ramsey, whom big brother Herchell can claim relation to, missed his calling. He should be with the St. Louis Cardinals or the Brooklyn Dodgers.

It seems the Couden Oilers have become too good. The Loraine manager who was supposed to have everything all set for Sunday afternoon, suddenly decided to "cold-shoulder" Pepper Martin and his crew, and has scheduled a game with Coahoma instead.

The New Mexico team will return here June 13. The locals have an affair sandwiched in between with Lubbock June 6.

Congratulations are in order for Dutch Baumgarten who is leaving a coaching position at Midland to take up similar duties at Nacogdoches. Spud Taylor, who has assisted Dutch for the past few years, will probably be named head mentor of the Midland school.

He's going to have rough sledding, however, because big Dave Woffard will be lost to the team. Dave will be in school next year but he's several months too old for football under interscholastic league rules.

The majors continue to grab southwestern college recruits. L. D. Meyer, Lloyd Russell and Bob Finley were the first to go. Now Johnny Morrow, Texas A. and M., has been taken as a likely prospect.

Morrow, a second sacker, signed with the Chicago White Sox and will probably play with Dallas. Beau Bell's little brother seems on his way, too. Chester (as he is known on the Aggie campus) can't hit so well, coming in with a .200 average for the season but one blow of his proved good enough to beat the Texas Longhorns for the championship last week.

He punched out a home run to put the Aggies into the lead lost in the ninth frame. Big brother, who is hitting in cleanup position for the Browns, is clouting at the rate of better than 400 and is probably one of the three best outfielders in the American league.

HUB JUST A SPECTATOR AS RED BRDS AND JENTS BRAWL

DIZ LOSES AS TEAMS DISAGREE

By SID FEDEE (Associated Press Sports Writer)—The pitching argument of the era—Carl Hubbell's brains vs. Dizzy Dean's good right arm—is still a long way from being settled, but for the moment there seems little to offer against the nomination of "King Carl" as the best hurler in the game today.

Despite his all-time high run of 22 straight victories, Hubbell was another angel, generally overlooked in the first fling and excitement of the 4-1 beating Hubbell and the Giants pinned on Dean and the Cardinals yesterday.

Diz Loses In More Ways Than One, Is Fined $50

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Dizzy Dean and Jimmy Ripple were fined $50 by Ford Frick, president of the National League today, for their fight in the St. Louis Cardinals-Navv York Giants game at St. Louis yesterday.

President Frick, who spent about $50 of the league's money in long distance tolls trying to get all the facts, sent these telegrams to Dean and Ripple: "For actions on the ball field tending to precipitate a riot, you are fined $50 payable to this office within five days."

No one else was fined. Cardinals yesterday, which explains as much as anything why old "Squarepants" stands out like a Baobab tree in a field of bush leaguers.

When Dean and Jim Ripple started the battle that wound up in a riot, with about twenty men motleyly connected with both teams taking part, Hubbell wasn't anywhere around. And where was Carl when the lights went out? Why down in the Giants dugout, as cool as a keg of beer.

By his own explanation, Hubbell is paid to win ball games. And, since fast-throwing, in his opinion, doesn't come under the head of winning pitching, he kept both his seat and his head when the Giants poured out of their dugout to mix it up.

After it was all over, he calmly resumed his task of mowing the Cardinals down and wound up with his sixth straight victory of the season. It was his 22nd in a row over a two-season stretch, the longest streak in baseball history.

It may be unfair to compare Dizzy with Hubbell on the basis of yesterday's warfare, since Dean was given a tough break when a balk was called against him in a tight spot in the sixth, leading to the Giants' winning three run rally. But the fact remains that Hubbell has demonstrated that when the heat is on he has few equals.

Twice during that game, he showed his stuff in the clutch. When Ducky Medwick batted his homer, Hubbell immediately followed by fanning dangerous Johnny Mize and immediately afterward picked Lippy Leo Durocher off first. When Jim Brown singled to open the ninth, Hubbell didn't bat an eyelash, but wound up the affair by fanning Medwick and Mize, two of the tougher hitters in the league.

Compared to the Hubbell-Dean "battle of the century," the rest of the big league program didn't stand a chance at the headlines. But there were other doings. Night baseball made its seasonal debut in Cincinnati, with between 20,000 and 25,000 turning out to see the Boston Bees down the Reds.

Shippers Win Over Dallas, Galveston Whips Braves

By the Associated Press

Where They Play Today Houston at Tulsa, Galveston at Oklahoma City, San Antonio at Fort Worth, Beaumont at Dallas. (All night games.)

Orville Armbrust of the Galveston Buccaneers, who may have been reading Emerson on self-reliance, could prove today that a pitcher need not be a timid soul when it comes to batting.

Just to make certain he would win his game against Oklahoma City's climbing Indians, Armbrust copper-riveted his seven-hit mound performance by slamming out a long single worth two runs in the second inning. Those tallies proved the margin of victory, Galveston taking the game 3 to 1.

Ralph Buxton, Indian hurler, just as well but poor support at bat and outfield kept him behind. The loss widened the gap between the Oklahoma and Beaumont, which was maintaining its league lead in whipping Dallas 6 to 4. The Dallas game proved the Shippers owe much of their pace-setting proclivities to their pluck, their ability to ignore a little thing like a four-run lead in the second.

Poffenberger was nicked for that amount by the Steers. From then on Beaumont plugged away, scoring in the second, fourth, seventh and ninth innings to win. San Antonio and Fort Worth went 11 innings to break a three-all tie. Greenberg, Panther third baseman, stepped to the plate with two out in the eleventh and poked out a run-scoring single to put Fort Worth ahead 4 to 3.

Another close one went to Tulsa, 2 to 2, over Houston. After more than a month of play, the league clubs from top to bottom were finding themselves in the warmest race in a long time. Between Beaumont at the top and Dallas at the bottom only six and a half games intervened. The difference between both ends of the first division was three and a half.

The 1937 champions have a lot of work ahead. YESTERDAY'S RESULTS Texas League Beaumont 6, Dallas 4. Tulsa 3, Houston 2. Fort Worth 4, San Antonio 3. Galveston 3, Oklahoma City 1. West Texas-New Mexico League Roswell 12, Odessa 4. Midland 18, Monahans 7. Hobbs 8, Wink 1.

WATCH OUT, HE'S WELL AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley has no intention of letting the rivalry between Samuel Riddle's War Admiral and J. H. Louchheim's Pompoon make eastern racing a two-horse affair all season. Bradley says his colt Brooklyn will defeat both of them before the year is out. If it isn't in the Belmont Stakes June 5, the Kentuckian says, it will be at Saratoga in August.

IT ALL STARTED WHEN DIZ ADDRESSED BALL TO RIPPLE

Pellet Connected And Jim Rises To Occasion

By WHITNEY MARIN ST. LOUIS, May 20 (AP)—If some one hadn't brought in one from out in left field and hung it on Don Guttridge's eye, there would be little indication today that the battle of the century staged before 26,395 wincing fans at Sportsman's park yesterday as Carl Hubbell, lean giant southpaw, turned in his 22nd straight victory of the old and new seasons at the expense of Dizzy Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1.

The good old days when the coming to town of John McGraw's "Giant" meant open season for flat fights were revived by Bill Terry's current model yesterday, with the enthusiastic cooperation of the Cardinals, but aside from the individual who took a head on Guttridge, other pleasure fighters pitched no hit games.

It was not a spur of the moment affair, that ninth inning battle of the century. The first few innings Dizzy, while tape gloaming on his maimed right thumb, occasionally turned loose a ball with no definite address, and which sent Giant batters to the dirt. Ducky Medwick, Card left fielder, poked a home run into the left field stands. Possibly that was an accident, too.

Though the Giants were grunting over Dizzy's free and easy manner of toying with their heads, there was no hint of serious trouble until the Giant half of the sixth, when a balk was called on Dizzy which ultimately resulted in three Giant runs. The gas house gang stormed and snorted, but it was a balk, no less, to Empire George Barr. Going into the ninth all still was serene on the surface, although the Cards were fuming over that sixth inning affair, and the Giants were becoming increasingly hostile as Dizzy gave them free shaves.

When Jimmy Ripple, Giant center-fielder, flattened in the dirt to avoid a particularly hostile pitch, there was a hint of danger when he glanced toward the Giant dugout, nodded, then bunted down the first base line. It was a foul, and he tried it again, luring Dizzy over to cover the bag as the ball rolled fair. Dizzy and Ripple met, and started swinging. What happened thereafter is remembered by the nearly 27,000 howling fans as a wild confusion of rushing figures, swinging arms and wild shouts. The dugouts emptied like they were turned upside down.

The two-man battle became a free-for-all, and when police and the umpires finally had restored order, the question of what to do about it all arose. One of the ump had seen Gus Mancuso with a playful headcock on Mickey Owen, Card catcher, so it was decided to banish those two and let the original contenders remain in the game. Dizzy refused to discuss the fight after the game, but he and Manager Frankie Frisch, who was more hushed up than Dizzy's thumb, presented a noisy clubhouse demonstration of what does and what does not constitute a balk. The Giants play here again today, and the Cardinal manage-

Texan Due To Defeat Miss Owen

Florida's Frances Upsets Betty Jameson In Southern

ATLANTA, Ga., May 20 (AP)—Frances Owen, little Florida who upset Miss Betty Jameson, former champion, in the second round of the women's southern tournament, tested her sharpshooting today against Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, who won the crown in 1934, in a quarter final match somewhat overshadowed in gallery interest by that of the medalist, Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, against the defending champion, Mrs. Mark McGarry of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mrs. Goldthwaite, the former Anella Gorceyca, advanced to the quarter finals by beating Helen Dettweiler of Washington, D. C. 3 and 1. Mrs. Chandler had little real trouble downing Allen Hoover of Greensboro, N. C. 4 and 3 in the second round yesterday.

Another match which took a major share of interest today was that between Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., and Marion Miles of Lexington, Ky., national semi-finalist. The fourth quarter final flash matched a couple of comparative youngsters against one another in Dorothy Kirby, 17, three times Georgia state champion, and Lily Harper, 20, three times Virginia champion.

REBELS LOSE TO COAHOMA

COAHOMA, May 20 (AP)—Leonard Morgan's triple in the first frame accounted for the only run the visitors made as the Coahoma Bulldogs defeated the Co-Op Rebels of Big Spring, 8-1, here Wednesday afternoon in a seven inning affair. Alex Flemming twirled the opening two frames for the Big Spring outfit but proved a "cousin" in the Sinclair slugger and retired in favor of Vernon Whittington who finished.

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP)—Eddie Marshall's American Association record of hitting in 43 consecutive games was in no immediate danger, but Johnny Rizzo, young Columbus outfielder, had a pretty fair start in that direction today. Rizzo connected for three singles off Charley Wagner of Minneapolis, last night to run his consecutive game hitting streak to 28.

The Millers, however, slammed out 19 hits and a 13-4 victory. Milwaukee took advantage of two errors to defeat Louisville, 2-0, in the opening game of the series. Toledo came back to score two runs in the ninth, after St. Paul had staged a six run uprising in the half of the inning, to defeat the Salts, 8-7, in their night game. Vance Page shaded Phil Page in a hurly burly as Indianapolis out-pointed Kansas City 2-1.

QUARTET IS READY FOR INVASION

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP)—The officially designated teams to represent the United States and Australia in Davis cup combat at Forest Hills next week-end faced the prospect today of final workouts under the eyes of four foot fault judges.

This innovation was decided upon in a business session yesterday afternoon in an effort to solve the vexatious problem of foot faults. Officials agreed the rule should be rigidly enforced when the three day play in the North American zone final begins May 29.

The United States will rely upon two Californians, Don Budge, the nation's No. 1 player, and Gene Mako, one of the best doubles players in the country, Bryan (Bity) Grant, the Atlanta atom, and Frankie Parker of New York. Budge is almost certain to draw the No. 1 singles assignment when the final draw is made at noon Friday, May 29.

The second singles berth probably will go to either Parker or Grant upon the basis of their experience. The veteran internationalist, Jack Crawford, Vivian McGrath, Adrian Quist and 18-year-old Jack Bromwich comprise the Australian team.

Protest

Berlin representatives by the United States ambassador against Nazi press attacks on American citizens and institutions.

Cardinal Mundelein, on Tuesday, said in a diocesan speech at Chicago that the German trials of priests and lay brothers on immorality charges constituted propaganda worse than the atrocity tales of the world war. He termed propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels "crooked" and said of Hitler that he was "an Austrian paperhanger, and a poor one at that."

Press protests, started by Goebbels' Der Angriff, were taken up by virtually all newspapers. Last night, in a speech before the Institute of Politics at the University of Berlin, Prof. Friedrich Schoenemann, who just has returned from a trip to the United States, said public opinion in the United States now could be mobilized for war against Germany "within a few hours," in contrast with the "three years" it took before America entered the world war.

He blamed "skillful" British propaganda over a long period, and in recent years skillful communist and Jewish propaganda.

As of April 30, 1937, a total of $886,677.44 had been expended on WPA projects in this 13-county district. Of this amount, the federal government contributed $622,958.52 and sponsors $263,698.92.

Howard county, largest of these in the district, drew the largest expenditures with $149,561.43 being pumped into city and county projects by WPA and $94,137.50 by sponsors, including the city, county and school board.

The fact that McNew had been called to San Antonio, state headquarters, prior to the announcement of the reduction in the number of offices, was construed locally to mean that he likely will be offered another position with the WPA set up. Although his district was the "smallest" in the state, he ranked high among the district directors.

Members of the local district staff said they expected more definite information late Thursday or early Friday. McNew was due to return here Friday.

Counties in this district are Howard, Borden, Garza, Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Yoakum, Andrews, Martin, Midland, Ector, Glasscock and Gaines.

The governor meanwhile voiced the intention of cutting out a number of items in the major money bills. He said the lawmakers apparently would approve large increases in expenditures yet had not provided any additional revenue.

Allred signed a bill requiring applicants for drivers' licenses to take examinations. This was one of the parts of his public safety program.

With the scheduled end of the long biennial session only 48 hours away, conference committees on the educational and departmental appropriation measures worked until far past midnight. They said their reports probably would not be ready until the session's final day.

Special Session Likely A special session starting Monday to consider repeal of the race-track betting law still appeared probable. Governor James V. Allred had said repeatedly he would call such a session unless the senate voted on a repeal bill and senators on opposing sides of the issue had made no move to bring it up.

The governor meanwhile voiced the intention of cutting out a number of items in the major money bills. He said the lawmakers apparently would approve large increases in expenditures yet had not provided any additional revenue.

Allred signed a bill requiring applicants for drivers' licenses to take examinations. This was one of the parts of his public safety program.

The senate passed with amendments a house bill creating a workers' compensation system for state highway department employees.

Frank Preston Johnson, good will ambassador of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, will speak to the American Business club and its guests Friday noon on how products of the soil, once useless, are creating new industries and new markets.

Hugh Duncan, president of the club, said visitors would be welcome.

Smith Says Banks Have Won Back Public Trust

SAN ANTONIO, May 20 (AP)—Banks which survived the recent depression have proved their strength and able management and have won back the trust and good opinion of the public, Tom K. Smith, president of the American Bankers association, said today.

The depression, Smith said, wiped out most of the weak banks. The majority of the nation's bankers recognized the necessity of federal supervision of banking, he said, and appreciated the aid that had been given to them through this control.

Smith declared that while recent investigations had shown that commercial loans no longer were the backbone of the banking system, an increase in such business might result from the recently enacted federal tax on undistributed earnings.

Delegates Urge Code Regulating Plumbing

TYLER, May 20 (AP)—The state federation of labor today declared that the New London school disaster was "a terrible illustration of the dangers of plumbing and gas fitting when done by other than properly qualified mechanics," and passed a resolution urging a state code to regulate plumbing.

The resolution, passed at the organization's annual convention, set forth that there is not now any such law, except for certain city ordinances.

The federation passed another resolution opposing the Hill-Shepard bill, asserting that it "would place this nation at the mercy of a military dictatorship."

Salad Days Are Here Again; New Combinations For Summer

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
Every hostess treasures her favorite salad recipes as her husband treasures his choicest stories. For there are many occasions when she will need them — many afternoon bridges, informal luncheons and Sunday suppers when the proper salad will be the thing to make her party successful.

Salads are especially appropriate for serving in the late spring and summertime. They are simple to prepare. They make colorful additions to the outdoor table setting. And they are not too filling for appetites tuned to the lazy summer tempo.

Tomato "Baskets"
The tomato "baskets" in the illustration were made by removing the skin from the tomatoes, cutting out the core with a sharp knife and scooping out seeds and pulp with a spoon. Then the tomatoes were stuffed and chilled with a dressing that when they were stuffed quickly with thin slices of cucumber and two-inch sticks of cooked asparagus. "Handles" of thin green pepper strips and a few slices of radishes were added as garnishes.

Tomato baskets also are good stuffed with fish, chicken, veal or cheese salads. Or they may be filled with a mixture of finely minced onions, cucumbers, green beans and radishes — moistened with French dressing to which a little Roquefort cheese has been added.

Beet And Carrot Balls
The salad in the middle of the tray consists of beet and carrot balls mixed together and seasoned with horseradish, minced onion and celery salt. The balls were made after the vegetables were cooked with a French vegetable cutter which cuts about ten cents. French dressing was added just before the salad was served.

Cottage cheese molds topped with salad dressing and pimiento-stuffed olive slices added a pleasing contrast. The cheese, well seasoned, was pressed into cups to make round molds which were later unmolded onto crisp lettuce.

Numerous other attractive salads may also be prepared.

Cucumber "Boxes"
Cucumber "boxes," for instance, may be made by hollowing three-inch pieces of cucumbers and filling them with shrimp salad mixtures or just plain shrimp and sauce.

White cherries blend well with grapefruit and pineapple in a refreshing fruit salad. Melon balls — cantaloupe, honeydew and watermelon — are very appetizing served after they have been chilled thoroughly and topped with chopped mint and French dressing.

Tomato slices, too, are tasty spread with fish or cheese paste, cut into cubes and piled on lettuce or other salad greens.

Since tastes in salad dressings vary it is best to serve assorted dressings in convenient containers. Mayonnaise, French dressing — plain or mixed with chili sauce — or Roquefort cheese dressings are general favorites.

MASS EXECUTION IS CARRIED OUT BY SOVIET GOVERNMENT

43 Men, One Woman Convicted Of Espionage

MOSCOW, May 20 (AP)—The Soviet government was disclosed today to have carried out the greatest mass execution of spies in three years, shooting 43 men and one woman convicted of espionage and sabotage plots, allegedly "under the orders of the Japanese secret service."

The spies were lined up before firing squads at Svobodny in the far east on May 9.

The executions were the first of their type to be carried out since Joseph Stalin, secretary-general of the communist party, last March called for greater vigilance to wipe out spying and sabotage, and declared "the enemy must be exterminated mercilessly."

The shootings took place shortly after the conclusion of the trial of the 44 before a military collegium of the supreme court.

A communique published in the newspaper, Pacific Star, at Khabarovsk, on the Manchoukuoan-Siberian border, 450 miles north of Vladivostok, said:

"A military collegium of the supreme court of the U.S.S.R. has examined the case of a group of Trotskyist espionage diversions which acted under the leadership of the Japanese secret service in organizing railroad wrecks in the far east."

The communique added that the 43 men and one woman had been condemned to death and "the sentence has been carried out."

Thousands of other opponents to the Soviet Russian government policies are known to be under arrest.

The far eastern executions came upon the heels of repeated daily warnings in the entire soviet press to citizens against what was termed the espionage tactics of Japan and Germany.

Five Hundred Attend Soil Erosion Confab

AMARILLO, May 20 (AP)—Approximately 500 delegates from portions of five states convened here today in an effort to coordinate the dual program of saving soil from erosion and conserving "all the water where it falls."

Farmers, business and professional men and county agricultural agents from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma registered for the meeting.

Speakers on the day's program are Grover Hill, senior agricultural economist in charge of the federal range program for this section; L. H. Hauser of the Resettlement administration, H. H. Finnell of the soil conservation service and Parker Hanna of the college extension service.

John McCarty, associate publisher of the Amarillo Globe-News and president of the Panhandle Water Conservation association, which was granted an authority by recent state legislation, presided at the opening of the meeting.

REQUIRE REGISTRATION
OKLAHOMA CITY, May 20 (AP)—Registration at ports of entry will be required of out-of-state motorists when the state's new driver license law becomes effective after January 1.

J. M. Gentry, public safety commissioner, in announcing the rule, said plans at present called for issuing 30-day permits to drivers from states not requiring driver licenses. Motorists from those with driver license laws merely would register. Present laws require truck drivers to register.

Bounty payments were made on five wolves slain in Harris county, Texas, during the first half of 1936. Houston, largest city in Texas, is in the county.

MRS. SEVIER IMPROVED
SAN ANTONIO, May 20 (AP)—Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier of Corpus Christi, national democratic executive committeewoman from Texas, was reported as "doing nicely" at her suite here at a hotel this morning.

Mrs. Sevier, here on business, had been ill for several days and her physician, Dr. Ferdinand Herff, said she was in need of a rest.

Mrs. F. W. Esher of Waterloo, Iowa, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Dodge. She is a cousin of Mr. Dodge.

PLACE PAN UNDER PIES
Fruit pies are likely to "run over" during baking. To prevent the drippings from becoming scorched and leaving a burned odor in the kitchen, place a pan directly under the pie. The pan, which may easily be washed, will catch the drippings.

"SURPRISE" CAKES
Individual surprise cakes may be made by removing the centers of bakery drop cakes or any other individual cakes and filling them with a teaspoon of jelly, jam, preserved or stewed fruit. The tops should be covered with plain or fruit icing.

Use only one level teaspoonful to a cup of flour for most recipes.

DUKE OF WINDSOR TO BATTLE CRITICS FOR ROYAL RIGHTS

THE DUKE OF WINDSOR AND WALLIS WARFIELD

PARIS, May 20 (AP)—Persons close to the Duke of Windsor reported today the abdicated British monarch was determined to fight back at his critics in England. At the same time, these sources said, former King Edward VIII would do all in his power to bolster the royal family's position in the government. Edward, who lost his own fight to keep the crown and marry "the woman I love," intended to do all possible to help his brother hold fast to some of his royal rights, the sources close to him said. By what course of action Windsor planned to accomplish his dual purpose was not disclosed.

Close friends of Windsor, victim in a dispute with the British government over the right of his bride-to-be to have the title of "her royal highness," said they considered the opening gun of his fight was fired yesterday from the Chateau De Candé where he is living in voluntary exile. A few hours after the last legal obstacles to his wedding were cleared away, Windsor's spokesman, Herman L. Rogers, announced the reason no members of the royal family were coming to the wedding June 3 was that "probably the king was advised not to send anyone."

Smoked Beef Tongue Lends Tasty Variety To File Of Meat Dishes

By MARTHA LOGAN

How extensive is your recipe file of meat dishes? Do you find your menus are built around steak, chops, roast, and stew with a meat loaf or meat pie for an occasional change? I'm afraid most of us are apt to get into a menu rut and forget about the many meat used cuts of meat.

Today, let's talk about smoked beef tongue. You will find that in the last few years there has been a marked improvement in the quality, flavor, and appearance of this product as prepared by the larger meat packers. The flavor is mild, yet different from just boiled beef tongue. This meat is delightfully tender and may be served in a great number of interesting combination dishes although the most popular form will always be sliced hot or cold.

To cook smoked tongue, wash it well, place in a large kettle of water. Cover and simmer gently 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Simmering makes a more tender product and the skin will peel off without the use of a knife. Trim off fat and grate. Serve hot with horseradish or tomato sauce.

Cold sliced smoked tongue makes a delicious cold meat platter served with pickled peaches and mixed vegetable salad. Spiced Fruit Sauce: One-half cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup stewed cherries, cranberries or gooseberries, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 tablespoon whole cloves, 1-2 lemon, sliced thin. Combine ingredients and simmer 15 minutes. Serve hot over hot sliced smoked tongue.

Braised Tongue: Place a cooked skinned smoked tongue in a roaster or baking pan. Surround with diced vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, pea onions, etc. Add to the roaster 2 cups of stock in which the tongue was cooked. Cover. Cook in a 350 degree F. oven for 30 minutes or until the vegetables are tender. Arrange vegetables and tongue on a hot platter. Thicken the broth with flour and serve in a gravy boat.

Stuffed Tongue Rolls: Slice a hot cooked smoked tongue crosswise on a slant so that every slice is a good size and all the tongue is used. Make a bread dressing using 2 cups sifted bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons chopped onion browned in 2 tablespoons lard. Add 1 tablespoon catsup and season well. Add stock to moisture. Heat dressing. Place a spoonful of dressing on each slice of tongue. Roll up. Wrap a slice of bacon around each roll. Secure with a toothpick. Broil or bake in the oven until the bacon is crisp. Serve as a platter with potatoes au gratin. To use up the trimmings of the cooked smoked tongue, try this salad using tongue and ham, or tongue only.

Navigote Salad: 1 head lettuce, 1 cup cooked or canned tongue, 1 cup diced or canned ham, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup drained canner or fresh cooked peas, 1 cup diced fresh tomatoes, 1-2 cup well-seasoned French dressing. Chill all ingredients thoroughly before using. Remove the largest leaves from the lettuce and serve as a garnish to the salad. Break the remaining leaves into small pieces.

and combine with the meat, vegetables and French dressing, tossing them together lightly with a fork and spoon. Line a bowl or platter with the large lettuce leaves, arrange the salad mixture in it, and serve at once. Serves 6. To serve 2, make one-third of this recipe.

Permit Regulations Do Not Include Merchants Trucking Own Goods AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—Merchants transporting their own goods in their own trucks traveled the highways today free from permit regulations of contract carriers. They were assured yesterday by the railroad commission that that body had never construed the motor carrier act to include them if they did not make a charge for hauling. Merchants and manufacturers had sought relief from a supreme court ruling holding them subject to the same rules as contract carriers. "Any man is free to ship his own goods in his own vehicle to any point in Texas," commented C. V. Terrell, chairman, when a member of the delegation advanced hypothetical questions as to what constituted "shipping charges."

TWO SIDES

The house rode the crest of an enthusiastic wave Tuesday in voting unanimously for the submission of an amendment abolishing the present salary system as a means of compensating county officials.

Governor James V. Allred viewed the salary system as a "costly financial failure" and added that it has "utterly failed to produce as good type of service as we had under the old system."

The amendment, it is explained, does not make the former fee system mandatory but leaves the form of compensation up to the legislature.

Strong vote of the house may produce a lot of band wagon climbing, but thinking people should consider this matter carefully. The inevitable clamor for the return of old fee system should not dull the public mind to the evils so long perceived in compensation on a fee basis. It should not blind the public eye to common abuses by officers in reporting fee collections.

Neither should new wave of popular sentiment make the public entirely oblivious to the fact that while the salary system has fallen far short of its expectations, it nevertheless has some merit.

The governor has sounded the keynote which likely will result in the approval of the amendment by the sovereign people August 23 (if submission becomes a reality). It is to be hoped when the time comes for him to advise the legislature concerning its consideration of new compensation laws for officials, that he counsel that body to consider the evils and merits of both the salary and fee systems to the end that a law be developed which will outlast a biennium.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff: Art thieves are busily engaged in their usual summer thefts of styles and furniture lines. They are usually pretty girls and you may observe them sketching the new displays in the avenue shops and windows. Their job is to sketch the new creations and rush them back to their employers, who do a landside business in "reproducing" the new numbers.

This is really a remarkable achievement. In the 500 performances of "Victoria Regina" there has never been a single empty seat in the balcony. It may surprise you to know that only 39 plays in theatrical history have surpassed the 500 mark. Some time this summer Margaret Sullivan is going to have her baby, but this won't interfere with her stage career. In December she will come back to reopen in "Stage Door."

"You Can't Take It With You" is, financially, the most successful play of the year, but I am rather surprised at its winning the Pulitzer award. It is, after all, smart farce with a lot of funny lines and it is perfectly cast. But walk away from the theater and it is out of your mind. Practically everybody had the hunch that "High Tor" would win. This observer thought it was the most deserving piece of a long and sometimes exciting but generally mediocre season.

It seems to me that the Pulitzer award, theatrically at least, doesn't mean as much as it used to. The whole idea has lost prestige, principally because the board reverses itself so frequently, setting up regulations for one season or so and then knocking them over without further explanation.

For instance, there used to be a rule that plays based on novels could not win. But from time to time dramatizations of modern novels bobbed up as theatrical hits, and the board unblinkingly shoved the award that way. "The Old Maid" was such an instance, but in that case I thought the choice was excellent. To me the last scene in that piece was one of the most effective moments I remember in the theater.

Eel fishing is again luring New Yorkers who have free hours in the afternoon, and you may see them perched on the end of the Hudson river docks, hoping for strikes from those horrible looking specimens of marine life. They are doing a fine business with them. At least, the markets are doing a fine business with them. Excuse me, but I want no part of those fellows, not even on a hook at the end of a line.

The Eighth avenue express is the best avenue of approach to either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, if you like baseball. It stops only at 59th and 125th streets. If you want the Stadium, you remain on the express. To reach the Polo Grounds you switch to a local at 125th and get off at 155, which is right at the box-office window.

NEWS

BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLOTT

Copyright, 1937, by Paul Mallott

WASHINGTON, May 19—Some unseen power has outplayed President Roosevelt in every stage of this supreme court struggle from the beginning. It was not done on the radio or in the public prints, but by a very statesmanlike handling of events.

Names cannot be mentioned at this stage, but it can be said with assurance that a group of men (some within the court and some within congress) has been working orderly and forcefully to block or knock down every court packing move. They have not held meetings generally, but have been in communication constantly. They are not interested in politics or even in pro-Roosevelt or anti-Roosevelt considerations. Some of them are prominent in the president's own party, still friendly with him and desirous of seeing his administration succeed.

Originally, they were drawn together by the fact that the popular president controlled a great political and economic authority. He, therefore, seemed likely to win congressional approval for a plan which they thought would change our system of government. They felt so deeply, they were willing to risk their official lives in an orderly but tacit venture of opposition.

The first evidence of their handiwork was seen behind the supreme court reorganization of its position on state minimum wage laws. The just was the timing of the Van Devanter resignation.

Foiling

Few failed to notice that Justice Van Devanter announced his planned retirement so it would reach the public at just about the same time as the senate judiciary committee defeat of the president's court bill. Anyone who knows statesmanship knows this duller the edge of whatever blade of public pressure Mr. Roosevelt might choose to swing down upon senatorial heads.

It put Mr. Roosevelt definitely in the position of gaining part of his point in an orderly and normal way without extremist revision of the court as a branch of government.

Similarly the court's reversal on the state minimum wage law foiled the president's contention that a "no man's land" of jurisdiction existed, and forced him to fall back on the less forceful contention that, as he had won by a single vote, he still should try to reorganize the court.

You may be sure these things did not just happen.

Surmises

It is popular in chotee capital drawing rooms to credit the opposition group leadership to Chief Justice Hughes, who nearly became president himself one day. This conclusion is merely the arithmetical result of putting his well known ability in statesmanship together with his management of the court. It is quite possible, however, that another member of the court and at least two members of congress had equally as much or more to do with the defense of the court. One congressman certainly had more to do with the Van Devanter resignation. Their identities will become known in time.

Gathering Crowd

Most of the congressional authorities were completely taken by surprise. None was able to offer even a good guess as to a successor, although most of them seemed to realize the six-judge packing bill was as good as dead. They even made such bad guesses as naming Donald Richberg, the NRA nemesis of General Johnson. (Richberg undoubtedly could not be confirmed by the senate). Their best guess was Solicitor General Stanley Reed.

Beat line on it downtown was that the president would pick a circuit court judge who is nationally unknown, most of them seemed to realize the six-judge packing bill was as good as dead. They even made such bad guesses as naming Donald Richberg, the NRA nemesis of General Johnson. (Richberg undoubtedly could not be confirmed by the senate). Their best guess was Solicitor General Stanley Reed.

Motive

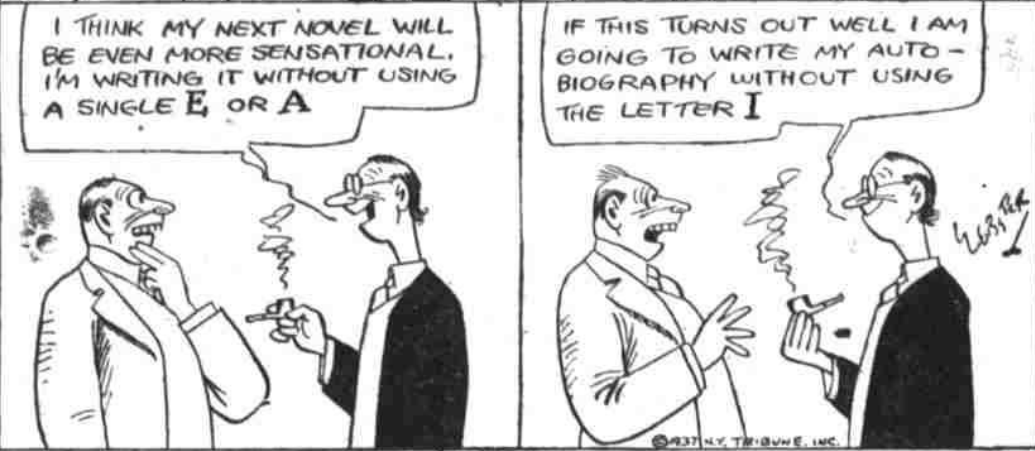

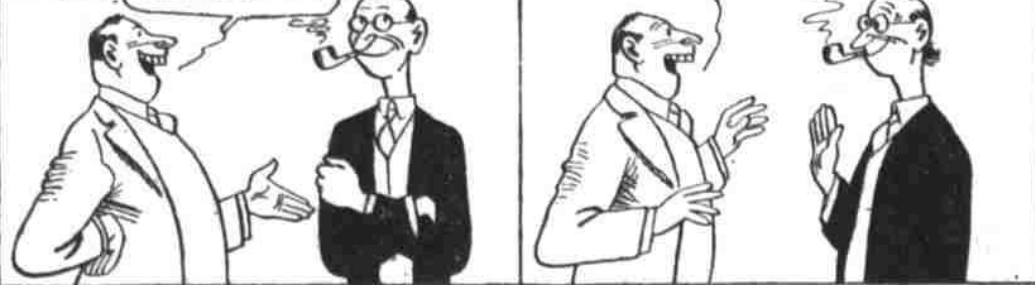

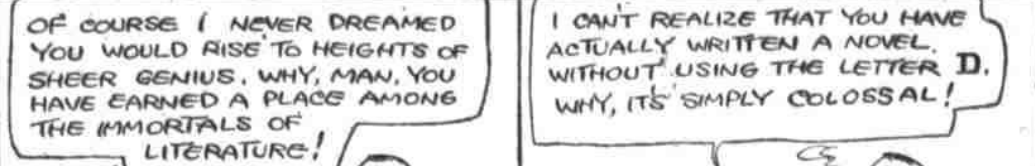

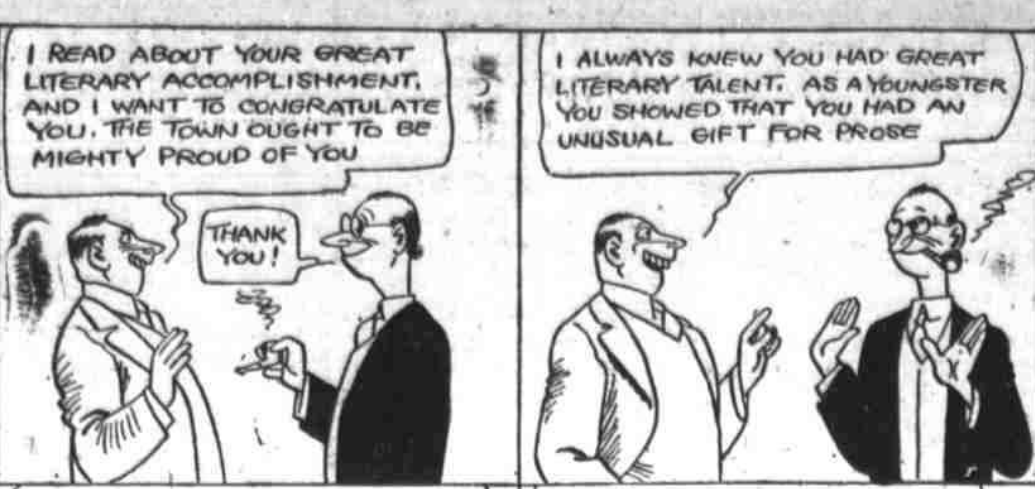

The personal motive behind the Van Devanter retirement was that he always wanted to be a farmer instead of a lawyer. He began preparing for retirement when he bought a Maryland farm two or three years ago and started working it. In his youth, his Indiana father declined to permit him to take up farming and put him into law.

The Boy Who Made Good

Hollywood

Sights and Sounds By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—At the zero hour when the director says "roll 'em!" and a movie scene gets under way, actors react in different ways. Most of them appear calm, poised, completely at ease. But inside, what goes on! They are standing before the camera, the clapper board held that black and white board with the mystic symbols of a scene identification before their faces, and popped it shut—clack! —and they're on their own. "It's like jumping into a pool of ice-cold water," says Clark Gable. Watch Gable in the just-before-the-battle scene, and you'll see him grab the lapels of his coat, then suddenly relax. That's a poison-releaser for him.

Myrna Loy gets the same psychological effect by adjusting her hair, ever so slightly, even though it's all been done before by the expert on the set.

No Worry To Shirley Shirley Temple, youngest of the trouper, shows least concern of any. She'll stand there grinning confidently through take after take, while a veteran like C. Aubrey Smith, twice floored by "blown" lines, braces himself for a third attempt.

Marlene Dietrich usually touches her make-up, steps on to the scene of action, and waits for the clapper to sound, all very cool. Joan Crawford looks tense, and in tense. Usually she has had phonograph music to key her emotionally just before the scene. Then she steps forth to battle, clears her throat and is ready.

Bette Davis is intent, but not tense. Robert Taylor has a habit of straightening his tie, screwing up his face, but Robert Montgomery, merely keeps up his usual calm of lively chatter. Dick Powell, used to his part too, shows no nervousness. At the signal he can turn on his grin or make a face.

An Ear Puller

Warner Baxter, seasoned veteran of many "roll 'em!" calls, still unconsciously pulls at his ears and nose. Frank McHugh, twice the ends of his mustache, and Lionel Barrymore walks away from the camera, then back again.

Catholic Daughters Plan Boycott Of Goods

HOUSTON, May 20—Catholic Daughters of America in Texas are on record today as ready to boycott goods "indecently advertised and to start a drive against consumptive propaganda in this state."

The group also resolved at its organization here yesterday that "opprobrious intervention of our American government in neighboring Mexico" should cease.

ANITA LOOS' SARATOGA

 that each of us came thousands of miles from home before we even knew each other."
 "Allah be praised we did," he said. She put one of her hands on his and pressed it to her.
 "You probably have seen Brookdale," she said. "It's rather unusual for anyone who goes to Saratoga at all, to miss it. It's so big and famous in its own, and if I do say it as shouldn't, when better horses are bred, they'll be bred at Brookdale."
 "Well," he said laughing, "I've not been at Saratoga or any other race track for quite some time, you know the reason why. But of course you're taking me to Brookdale."
 "You mean you're taking me from Brookdale. I've gone a long back from home but I'm going to be married, of course. But temptation won't be put before you—I'll set the day out of season. How's that for strategy? Your mother trusts me, despite what she must have considered at first, my deep, dark past and I'm getting right on being trust-able, to coin a word."

 "Oh, I don't think the family would mind now if I did have myself a little fling at the tracks now and then. They know I've settled down to business."
 "You're not going to take any chances," she said firmly. "It isn't all nobility and big-heartedness on my part and don't you think I'm just taking this stand because of your mother. I'm not going to have a husband who goes in for horse racing or any other form of gambling."

"Please dear," he said, in mock meekness, "when I play bridge, will the best try skill can bring me be a pickle dish or an umbrella stand or some other atrocity called a prize?"
 "Oh, cards are different—racing is something else again. Take the word of a woman who knows. And you won't get around me by telling me again that you were just a college boy. You did let yourself in for a scrape. Never again."
 "It seems to me I've seen you lay a few bets of your own."
 "So you have. But I'm different. It will never get me. It isn't in my blood at all. I like to have my money on a race as well as the next one—unless the next one is you or some one like you. I've been with racing people all my life; that is until I made the break and came over here. I wanted something different. I've got it now and I'm going to keep it."

"But you said Brookdale was good—"
 "Brookdale," she said firmly, "is a breeding farm and one of the best in the world. Just wait until Dad and Grandfather show it to you. They won't boast, of course, but anyone who isn't a morose can tell that they are proud of their place. And they have a right to be. Why, Dad and Grandfather through their work, know more about science than lots of you college boys. And the old place is lovely, too. We were all born there—all three of us, in the right order."

"I believe you but believing you I am wondering why you ever broke away and why they let you?"
 She was silent for a moment thinking back to the time when she was a tiny girl.
 "Always I wanted to go places," she said. "Of course, we did go lots of places—other breeding farms to check on methods and equipment and to race tracks. Dad and Grandfather went because it was their business and they always took me because—well that was their business too. I like it, but ever since I can remember, I have said to myself I was going to have another life."
 "Something must have made you say that."
 "This place may be responsible. Of course, I'd never heard of Rulborough House but I did hear some one read that old poem beginning 'the stately homes of England' and right then and there, I knew what I was going to do. I was coming over here."
 "And to be literary some more," he said teasingly, "like that kind" spotted me, I suppose—they were better at training horses than you small girl. So, however they felt in their hearts, they would have let me have my way. I thought there might be some opposition when I said I wanted to come over here to finish my schooling, but there wasn't. You see, Dad had always said he was going to leave off breeding horses and racing them and although grandfather sniffs at such talk, he used to say the same things, so I'm told, when he was younger."

"I've noticed," he said, "that everyone thinks some other life would be better than his own. The far off hills are green, you know."
 "Yes, but most people take it out in talking. I did something about it."
 "Blessings on you for that," he said.

They sat in silence for a time. He was thinking she was the most beautiful girl in the world, as any engaged man should. But she was thinking of what her life would have been had she stayed at home. As far as miles dent she and Hartley Madison had lived comparatively near each other all their lives—and they had been worlds apart. It wasn't primarily a question of money. The Claytons had money. Rather fiercely as if she were defending herself, Carol was telling herself she would never had married a man because he was rich. She was marrying Hartley Madison because he stood for all the things she admired and had wanted all her life. In addition, she loved him. Nothing else would have mattered if love had been lacking. Of that she had no slightest doubt, as they sat together in the moonlight. She was happy beyond her dreams. Had she not found her place in life?

But thoughts of Brookdale would not leave her. Suddenly, she jumped to her feet.
 "Dearest, I almost forgot—it's so glorious out here with you—I want to phone Father. I haven't heard from him for a long time and I want to hear his voice."
 "Of course, darling," he answered. "I'll wait out here until you have talked to him and you come back."
 "Come with me," she said. "Don't you think it will be too utterly something or other for you to be introduced over the telephone—from one continent to another?"

Carol's telephone call will be the first in the folks at home have of her engagement. Are they going to approve of this match she has made? See tomorrow's installment for the startling results of her call.

Straw 'Whiskers' Help Farmers Lick Erosion

U. S. Soil Conservation Photo

"Whisker dams," made of straw like these, are the Oregon farmers' answer to soil erosion.

By PAUL D. SHOENAKER
AP Farm Editor

ATHENA, Ore.—If a stranger were to drive through here he might suspect farmers of trying to grow new brooms from old by planting the handles deep in the soil and leaving a few inches of straw above ground.

That's what "whisker dams" look like. Actually, they are a newly devised means of controlling water run-off and erosion in gullies that are being seeded for permanent protection.

The dams were born of difficulties encountered in getting the areas fastened down with grass. Frequently fast running water from a heavy rain would wash out the newly seeded grass. Farmers discovered the dams not only slowed down the run-off water but caused it to drop the silt it was carrying.

Suggested by C. Edwin Hill, Oregon state coordinator of the soil conservation service, the dams are inexpensive and easy to build. A square-nosed spade and straw are all the farmer needs.

A narrow "V" the depth of the blade is cut in the ground and up the sides of the gully channel. Then the straw is pushed in and covered with earth, leaving the ends protruding. The dams ordinarily are placed two to four feet apart.

RED RIVER VALLEY COMMITTEE TO MEET

SHREVEPORT, La., May 20 (AP)—The first meeting of the executive committee of the recently organized Red River Valley Improvement association, will be held at Denison, Tex., Saturday. It was announced here today by W. H. Hodges, Elm Grove, president of the association.

The promotion of the greater Red River valley flood and erosion control program and other improvements is the object of the organization. It is expected that the members of the committee representing the four states in the Red River valley area will urge the report of engineers and action of the proposed Denison dam expected to cost about $50,000,000. Government engineers have submitted their report to Washington on this dam but its nature has not been revealed.

New Complications In Col. Green Will Dispute

NEW YORK, May 20 (AP)—A mysterious reference to "my two daughters" by the supposedly childless multi-millionaire, Col. Edward H. R. Green, was described today by a witness in the $70,000,000 Green will dispute.

The alleged revelation that Green left other possible heirs to the fabulous estate created a stir in the courtroom, heralding further complications in the long-fought court battle.

Willbur K. Potter, former business agent for Colonel Green, said: "I never heard of Colonel Green having any daughters, or any children."

The testimony of Green having "two daughters" came from Henry Woodhouse, president of the Aerial League of America, who said that the June, 1918, issue of a magazine called "Flying" contained a childless sketch of Colonel Green, who, he said, apparently had either written it himself or approved it.

"Colonel Green was a life member of the Aerial League of America, having joined in 1918," Woodhouse said, "and in handing me the article for publication, he told me, 'I am going to get life memberships for my two daughters, too.'"

Tipping Problem Solved For The Summer Tripper

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Wherever people travel the tipping problem rears its persistent head.

Travelers generally meet with the problem in three places: hotels, trains and public dining places.

For short stays, under ordinary circumstances, there's only one person who has to be tipped in the hotel—the bellboy.

It is the bellboy who "rooms" the guests—to use his own expression. The moment the guest arrives the captain of the bellboys turns his or her baggage and room key over to the bellboy who, in turn, settles the visitor in his temporary home.

Bellboys in higher-priced hotels receive a minimum of 25 cents for a guest who has approximately two bags and perhaps an extra hatbox or so. In less expensive hotels the tip is as low as a dime.

Once settled in his room the guests does not need to do any further tipping until he calls the bellboy when he leaves—unless he requires additional services.

If he wants meals brought to his room he telephones "room service." Most hotels charge a set fee for each meal served in the guest's room. In that case no other tip is necessary.

For anything else—cigarettes or a newspaper, for instance—he calls the bell captain. Ten or fifteen cents is the tip usually given to a bellboy who does such errands.

cents for each maid is about the minimum.

Other tips include:
From 10 to 25 per cent of the bill in public restaurants and dining rooms. (A lump sum tip of about five per cent is sufficient for an extended stay. It should be given at the conclusion of the stay.)

Ten cents to a quarter for checking wraps or packages at checking desks or coat rooms.
Between 10 and 20 per cent of the bill for services in a beauty parlor. (A quarter for the first dollar and a dime for each additional dollar. A dime for 50 cents or less.)
A quarter to 50 cents to a Pullman porter for each day's travel. (Overnight trips usually mean 50 cents or more.)
About 10 per cent of the bill for a taxi ride.

Stevens Is Arrested In Fort Worth

Gregg Co. Life Terner Is Captured By Radio Patrolmen

FORT WORTH, May 20 (AP)—Laval Stevens, 23, life term convict who escaped from the Gregg county jail with three other prisoners on May 14, was arrested while driving an automobile in the 2000 block of Mount Vernon street at 6 a. m. today by radio patrolmen Barbee and Hawkins.

Search for Stevens in this vicinity began a few hours prior to the arrest when county authorities were notified that a man who was drinking in a roadhouse on the Bankhead highway had declared that he was "hot in East Texas."

Before officers could reach the roadhouse the escaped convict left, but the license numbers of the automobile he was driving were broadcast over police radio.

Stevens, who gave his address as Grapevine, denied that he was an escaped convict when he was taken to the city jail. He admitted his identity in a few minutes after officers convinced him that his criminal record was on file in the identification bureau.

In his pocket police found a newspaper clipping of the Longview jail break.

The three who escaped jail with Stevens were Norwood McCall, convicted of burglary and later declared insane; Thomas Lewis, under sentences and indictments in three counties for forgeries, and Goldie Harlison, who was charged with the $2,000 robbery of a drug concern. McCall was captured in East Texas two days ago.

The escape was effected when night jailer Charles Davis went to the cell block housing the four in answer to a request for a drink. McCall pressed a pistol against the jailer's back and demanded the keys. He then liberated the others, took the jailer's pistol and locked the officer in the cell. Several other prisoners refused to escape.

TEXARKANA, May 20 (AP)—District Attorney E. L. Lincoln said a formal report was expected today from the fifth district grand jury which has been investigating a robbery complaint against Norwood McCall, Gregg county fugitive who was recaptured Tuesday.

The case would be transferred to 102nd district court which convenes Monday at Boston, Lincoln said. Fifth district court does not reconvene until August 2.

The charge against McCall was that he took $50 at the point of a pistol at a filling station here Monday while he and three other escaped prisoners were at large.

Miss Martha Grimes of Tuscola is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Hale, and Mr. Hale.
