

Ancient Paganry Renewed As George VI Crowned King

By FRANK H. KING
LONDON, May 12 (AP)—A king came to his crown, his church, his peers and his people today in all the ageless glory of British empire coronation.

The lords, the ladies and the men of state of a realm that reaches out to grasp a quarter of the world. It was a ritual of beauty and dignity unchanged in 40 reigns.

The king wore the crimson and velvet cap of state, both sides turned up with ermine. About his shoulders was his crimson and gold royal robe, heavily trimmed with ermine.

The queen was bareheaded. She wore deep pearl earrings and a magnificent white ermine cloak. Before her, the little princesses drew every eye as they entered the Abbey and walked gracefully to their miniature chairs on either side of their aunt, the princess royal.

When they were seated, neither the feet of Elizabeth nor Margaret Rosa touched the floor. Elizabeth was grave and dignified, but Margaret dangled her feet, completely at ease. Unconcerned with the great event, she stuck up her forefinger and smiled impishly when she saw someone she knew.

The archbishop spoke slowly. "Wherefore all you are come this day to do your homage and service, are you willing to do the same?"

A fanfare of echoing trumpets softened and died away. Thus the king was recognized, accepted sovereign of the British people, and ready for his coronation oath.

Diathed of his crimson mantle, the king was seated in the ancient King Edward's chair, the coronation throne, placed near the altar. The archbishop poured olive oil, which had been blessed, from the ampulla, or golden eagle, one of the oldest pieces of the regalia.

Urges Texas To Lead Way In Halting Demands On Washington

Named to guide the destinies of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the ensuing year are Milburn McCarty (top) Eastland attorney, who is the new president of the organization; and D. A. Barden (below) selected for the seventh year as general manager. The two were named Wednesday in closing sessions of the WTCC convention at Brownwood.

FDR A Guest Of His Son

A&M Cadets Had Heard President In Talk Concerning Peace

FORT WORTH, May 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt related today at the home of his son Elliott after an address at Texas A. and M. college in which he defended army and navy expenditures and opposed those who thought of American military training in terms of "acute pacifism."

Only an informal barbecue at Elliott's estate about 15 miles from here was on his schedule for the day before he left for Washington by special train before nightfall.

The president, speaking informally to about 15,000 persons, including 3,000 R.O.T.C. cadets, in the stadium at College Station late yesterday, declared the United States, despite a expenditure of 10 or 11 per cent of its income for national defense, was "not paying a high price" for such purpose.

He added this preparation was being "honestly made for defense and not for aggression" and expressed the hope that nations of the old world that are spending from 50 to 50 per cent for military purposes would "get our point of view in the days to come" and spend less for war preparation and more for peace.

FIRE DAMAGE
Fire Tuesday badly damaged the roof of the D. W. Wooten home at 402 Galveston street. Flames originated from an overturned gas line iron, quickly spread to an adjacent gasoline supply for the iron and then caught the roof. Firemen extinguished the blaze before it got out of control.

Urges Texas To Lead Way In Halting Demands On Washington

BROWNWOOD, May 12 (AP)—A barbed warning that citizens must halt making "demands" upon the federal government was projected before a West Texas chamber of commerce convention today which elected Milburn McCarty, Eastland attorney, its new president.

Solicitor Karl A. Crowley of the postoffice department, with "particular" reference to Texas, pleaded for states to assume a greater share of the financial burden "thrust upon Washington."

"It is high time," he said, "for our citizens to stop making demands on the federal government." He prophesied "a day of reckoning" was coming, with the federal government levying heavier and new taxes unless spending were reduced.

Succeeds Jarvis
McCarty was elected at a breakfast meeting of directors to succeed Van Zandt Jarvis of Fort Worth. He had been first vice president.

D. A. Barden of Stamford was given for the seventh time the general managership.

Others elected were Herbert Hillburn, Plainview publisher, first vice president; E. K. Faucett, Del Rio ranchman, second vice president, and C. M. Frances, Stamford, treasurer.

Wichita Falls was awarded the next convention of the organization, winning over Abilene by a vote of 1,509 to 217. T. N. Carwell, manager of the Abilene chamber of commerce, then moved to make it unanimous.

Ben J. Dean of Breckenridge won first honors in the "My Home Town" speakers contest. Sue Jean Lynch, El Paso girl, was second and Bob Watkins of San Angelo third.

Coleman Band Wins
Coleman's 84-piece band won first place in the convention band contest, and San Angelo and Howard Payne college were second and third.

TWO DEAD, FOUR HURT IN CRASH

What started as an expedition in search of student honors ended in sudden death Wednesday morning, as two cars crashed on highway 1 two miles west of Stanton to claim two lives and bring injuries to four other persons.

Dead were Mrs. Brooks Rice of Wink, and her ten-year-old daughter, LaVoy. Injured were Mrs. Cord Johnson; her son, Bailey, 14; F. D. Prater, 15, all of Wink; and Marshall Barrier, of Midland.

All the Wink people were in one car, enroute to Oklahoma City, where the boys, members of their high school band, were to play with their young colleagues in a national band contest. The Wink aggregation had won state honors recently at Lubbock.

Barrier, Midland motor company employe, was en route to his home. Suffering severe head injuries, he was taken to Midland. Still in a dazed condition this afternoon, he could give no coherent account of the collision.

Neither could the injured Wink residents, who were brought to the Big Spring hospital. It was believed the Prater boy might have suffered internal injuries. Mrs. Johnson and her son suffered bruises and lacerations and were not thought to be in a serious condition.

Details of the crash were unavailable. It occurred about 7:15 a. m. Bodies of Mrs. Rice and her daughter were brought to the Eberley funeral home. Arrangements had not been completed.

Other families from Wink had started for the Oklahoma City event. Some stopped at Stanton after the tragedy, expressing uncertainty as to whether they would resume their journey.

Wedding Will Be Postponed Until June

'Differences' Between Royal Family And Government Reported

MCNTS, France, May 12 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield will postpone their wedding until early June, friends said today, because of "certain differences between the royal family and the British government."

The disclosure came while the duke sat before a radio listening to Brother-King George's coronation—the coronation that would have been his own but for his abdication to permit his marriage to Wallis Warfield.

A special radio installed in the writing room of the duke's suite in the Chateau de Candé brought the coronation broadcast to the duke and Mrs. Warfield.

"Fair Treatment"
An associate of the duke said he did not know what the exact differences were, but hinted that King George and Queen Mother Mary were at odds with the government in their determination Britain should accord Edward "fair treatment" at the wedding.

A number of members of the royal family believe the marriage should be public, this informant said. "The government insists it should be a private affair."

George and Mary's stand, he added, was that Edward, as a former king and former Prince of Wales who served his country for many years, is entitled to great consideration.

King George sent Edward a special request to postpone the wedding until the differences are settled, it was disclosed.

Windsor accepted the request, delaying the tentative plans for a wedding soon. The duke and Mrs. Warfield still are working over an invitation list. It was considered highly uncertain whether the Duke of Kent or other members of the royal family would attend.

THE KING AND QUEEN

Queen Mother An Onlooker Where Little Princess Elizabeth Central Figure

Once She Herself Was Participant

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Memory momentarily dimmed the eyes of 66-year-old Queen Mother Mary today at the coronation of her second oldest son, George VI.

To Queen Mary, magnificently coroneted and with a half-million dollar diadem aglow on her head, it was a time of both pride and sorrow.

She watched and listened in the role of onlooker—where once she had participated and experienced. "Receive the crown of glory, honor and joy . . ."

There was memory in that of the day 26 years ago when she moved through the nave of the abbey to the throne; when she rode through the densely packed streets of London as a queen newly crowned, in the golden state coach with King George the fifth by her side.

THE KING AND QUEEN

The king was invested in imperial mantle and stole. Royal eagles ornamenting the robe symbolized the sovereign's imperial authority.

The golden orb, surmounted by a cross, was placed in his right hand. The archbishop: "Receive this imperial robe and orb; give the Lord your God and you wisdom, knowledge and wisdom. Remember that the whole world is subject to the power and empire of Christ our Redeemer."

A ring was placed upon the fourth finger of the king's right hand, "the ensign of kingly dignity." Called the "wedding ring of England," the ring symbolized the covenant "between sovereign and people."

The Crown
A procession of the churchmen, Dean of Westminster carrying the crown, moved toward King George. The archbishop took the crown from the dean of Westminster.

Solemnly and reverently he placed it on the monarch's head. A signal faced around the world. It was just 12:30. Cannon at the tower of London boomed.

A tumultuous demonstration began in the abbey. Shouts of acclamation "God Save the King!" rang and echoed.

Still and reverent since the ritual began, the resplendent assembly burst into life and voice. The King laid taken his seat in the scarred, old coronation chair over the rugged Stone of Scone. The primate of all England took the crown into his hands and placing it upon the altar, prayed:

"Glory and lightness set a crown of pure gold upon his head, that will enrich his royal heart with abundant grace and crown him with all princely virtues . . ."

So came the great moment. As the outburst subsided after the placing of the crown, the voice of the archbishop rose in prayer: "God crown you with a crown of glory and righteousness."

The two-hour ceremony was climaxed when the 41-year-old sovereign was lifted reverently to the throne, in sight of the 7,500 peers and prelates, foreign rulers, diplomats and statesmen from all over the world.

Outside the abbey, a million or more cheered. Guns in the Tower of London boomed.

Church bells pealed to signal that the priceless jeweled crown of St. Edward had been placed on the brow of George VI.

Queen Elizabeth, his Scottish-born wife, then was anointed and crowned in a briefer ceremony immediately following the coronation of the king.

Crush of Humanity
Outside the abbey, in the crush of humanity lining every inch of space along the six-mile processional route, more than three score spectators fainted and one youth died, in a fight in Piccadilly Circus in which twenty others were injured.

Dull, overcast skies, momentarily threatening a drizzle, darkened the glitter of jewels and the gleam of bright-hued uniforms in the coronation procession. A heavy fog which shrouded the city throughout the night, lifted, however, at daybreak.

DANSBY CASE SOON WILL GO TO JURY

ANSON, May 12 (AP)—State's testimony was finished late this morning in the trial of Mrs. L. Danby, charged with murder by poisoning of Mrs. J. T. King, her aged, well-to-do landlady.

Twenty rebuttal witnesses were introduced this morning by the prosecution. Their testimony was for the purpose of contradicting that of Mrs. Danby, who testified yesterday afternoon.

The case was expected to be given to the jury late today, or following a night session.

PLAN FOR PERMANENT CCC IS REJECTED

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The House firmly and finally rejected today president Roosevelt's recommendation for a permanent Civilian Conservation Corps. It passed and sent to the senate instead a bill to extend the CCC for two years only.

MADRID ATTACKS CLAIM MORE LIVES

MADRID, May 12 (AP)—Insurgent gun, renewing bombardment of Madrid, set the capital's toll of 217 killed and 693 wounded since April 1, it was announced today by Gen. Jose Maja.

Seventy-six of the dead and 240 of the wounded were women, Maja said.

ELECTRIC SERVICE SOON TO BE EXTENDED TO ACKERLY

Electric power is going to Ackerly in the Ackerly community. Ackerly will be served off the T. E. S. 60,000-volt line running from Big Spring to Lamesa. Equipment to permit step-down in voltage from 60,000 to required 110 and 220, at reasonable financial outlay has been perfected only recently.

Blomsheld said; and extension of service to the rural community was ordered after arrangement for installation of that equipment.

Future extensions in the area north of Big Spring were considered a probability. Texas Electric, in this district, already serves many rural customers. Lines extend eastward beyond Cosahoma to the Spear and Lay ranches, south to the old Cushing ranch, north of Lamesa on highway 9 and west of here to the Gunn ranch.

Missionary Discusses Modern Motherhood At Stanton WMS Meeting

STANTON, May 12 (Sp)—Miss Marian Flower of California, a visiting missionary, discussed "Modern Motherhood" as a special feature of the meeting of the Methodist Women's Missionary society at the church Monday afternoon. Miss Flower stressed the need of a Christian home in her talk.

Mrs. James Jones conducted the Bible study for the afternoon. Attendance for the meeting was small.

"Immense structure of the Empire of Rome had completely ceased to exist. From A. D. 500 to 900 or '000 was universal confusion in which one detects only the influence of Byzantium, as likely to regenerate a tottering world."

The reasoning and example by which Dr. Casson indicates that analogies exist between the present and these previous times of disaster is too involved for reproduction here. The argument is ingenious, however, and the conclusion not so dark as it might be. The very fact that we can see the parallels, thinks the author, is hopeful.

Mrs. Myrtle Donohue of 713 Rector Ave., Hot Springs, Ark., said: "Some time ago I was quite weak, had no appetite and didn't sleep very well. ## Reading AND Writing

By John Selby

"PROGRESS AND CATASTROPHE," by Stanley Casson; (Harper; $2.75).

Stanley Casson's "Progress and Catastrophe" is a good deal shorter than most thoughtful books, which is an advantage. Indeed, it would fall considerably below the length often considered necessary for dignity if it were not for a copious appendix in which the author has embalmed many of his notes.

His book (the first to be published in the United States) is simply a consideration of the open question whether we may not now be on the brink of a world disaster which will make the World War seem like a child's baseball. He does not whip Hitler, Mussolini and the politicians up and down the book, but goes to archeology for most of his answer.

Dr. Casson declares that twice before the world has been overwhelmed—not just parts of it but all of it. The first time was when about 1200 B. C., the Minoan-Mycenaean civilization "ended in ruin and immediate disaster brought by fire and sword." Dr. Casson is, of course, writing of the least important period of history: the 2500-years of recorded history. The preceding millenniums are the important ones, he insists.

The second great collapse came about gradually, and from such a multiplicity of causes that the student, archeological or otherwise, has difficulty tracing all of them. The point is that by 585 A. D. the

Or when you're hitting it up all day, you won't find this real Oil-Plating rubbing right off, like just some plain little drops of oil. Oil-Plating's not thinning out either, nor burning right up. ### Lone Debutante Steps Out As Memphis' Carnival Princess

Adaline Heiskell, Lone Debutante Likes To Stretch Out With A Good Book

By E. B. VACCARO
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Adaline Heiskell, Memphis' lone debutante of last fall has become "Princess Adaline."

She'll reign at the exclusive Memphis Country club during the annual carnival, May 11-15. When the princess "steps out" to preside over the club's carnival ball—one of the highlights of Memphis' annual tribute to King Cotton—it will recall the brilliant party that marked Adaline's introduction to society.

No Waiting for Her
She had looked forward to her debut for years. When other society girls in her group decided to postpone their debuts until next year to await a larger "class," Adaline would not agree with them. She went it alone. She enjoyed every minute of the series of parties in her honor.

She Can Cook
Adaline hasn't decided about the future. She's still very young. But she'd like to travel a bit, among other things.

She keeps her figure trim with tennis, swimming, golf and other outdoor sports. She enjoys dancing.

She likes a good book, when there is time for reading. And make no mistake about it, she can cook!

Adaline in the Kitchen Knows Her Way About

Dale Carnegie now is widely known throughout the United States as the pointer to the way of success. That is because of his best-selling book, "How To Win Friends and Influence People."

Carnegie's position was not attained overnight, however. For the past 24 years he has been training executives and salesmen in the intricacies of developing personality and sales ability, having trained more than 15,000 business and professional men. From morning 'til night . . . a tireless helper

• An Electric Food Mixer saves time and labor in preparing every meal. At breakfast-time it extracts every bit of juice from oranges and grinds coffee fresh from the roasted beans; at lunch it shreds the salad finely and quickly; and when preparing for dinner it relieves you of the work of grinding meat, mixing batter and dough, creaming potatoes and a host of other arm-tiring tasks.

And too, it does a better and faster job than can be done by hand, and it works for the ridiculously low wage of 1/4 cent an hour for the electricity it uses! See these new mixers with their handy attachments at our store or at other stores which sell electric appliances.

Leucivine is only medicine! A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, but containing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See.

Industry Survey Will Be Conducted To Determine Type Of Curriculum

In an effort to determine the community's needs in a curriculum, a survey of Big Spring industry will be conducted here shortly. Pascal Buckner, co-ordinator of diversified occupations classes, said Wednesday.

To assist in the survey, purpose of which is to list the suggestions of various crafts for vocational training, Buckner has named several committees from the several lines of work.

Buckner will be working on the survey in cooperation with James R. D. Eddy, director of vocational training for the state department of education.

Among material to be gathered will be these things: The need for vocational training in each phase of commerce and industry, the approximate number of full-time employees and the probable yearly turnover, average age of present employees, the number of apprentices now in training, the present type of apprentice and employe training, and the approximate number of new employes that Big Spring industry can absorb each year.

The types of training programs desirable in each phase of commerce and industry for pre-employment training, apprentice training, and trade extension training for present employes.

Suggestions concerning courses to be included in each type of training program.

Dogs Barred At City Hall

RUPTURE
SHIELD EXPERT HERE
H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Settles Hotel, Big Spring, Wednesday, only, May 12, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoistic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Final Tribute Paid Benedict

Thousands At Funeral Service For Texas University President

AUSTIN, May 12 (AP)—President H. Y. Benedict of the University of Texas, "the last great educational pioneer," today received the homage of a sorrowing state and countless friends over the nation.

Thousands from all stations of life gathered in Austin to file reverently by the body as it lay in state in the great hall of Gregory gymnasium and attend final rites.

Services were in charge of Dr. Thomas W. Currie of the Austin Theological Seminary. The Lenten horn band was to accompany the procession to Oakwood cemetery.

The university lecture rooms were silent and the state capital's business places closed at noon.

A ribbon of crepe on their arms, 9,000 students were honorary pallbearers with Governor James V. Allred, high-ranking state officials, noted educators, regents, faculty, alumni and the class of 1892 with which Dr. Benedict received the first of his many degrees.

Dr. Benedict, silver-haired astronomer, botanist and poet, highly regarded for his sympathy and humor as well as administrative ability, was stricken Monday in the act of performing archery services for his school. On his way to a legislative appropriation conference he faltered and fell. He died a few moments later in a hospital.

He is survived by his widow and a son, Harry, Jr. His body will rest beside that of another son who died at Annapolis during the World war.

Irish Free State Ignores Crowning Of British King
DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 12 (AP)—The Irish Free State did not see a coronation celebration today for the first time in 800 years of struggle with Great Britain. Only a single British flag was reported flying in Dublin, Cork, Limerick and Waterfield.

The capital was quiet after anti-coronation demonstrations yesterday.

A decision to permit showing of coronation newsreels came as a surprise. Pictures of the royal family in recent years have led to riots.

The council of the Dublin labor party announced a mass meeting would be held tonight to repudiate the coronation of George VI as "King of Ireland."

Authorities were expected to permit the meeting.

Justice Gavan Duffy in the high court of Dublin gave the opinion that a citizen of the Irish Free State is no longer a British subject.

JAIL FUGITIVE IS CAPTURED AT ROGERS
BELTON, Tex., May 12 (AP)—E. J. West, who escaped from the Bell county jail Monday night, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Jeffers at Rogers last night in company with the man who allegedly set him free.

Charges of breaking jail and theft of an automobile were filed against West and Vernon Oliver. Jeffers said Oliver had served a number of jail sentences here and had learned where the keys were kept. Monday night, Jeffers said, Oliver came to the jail and released West. Oliver was free on bond at the time, awaiting trial on a burglary charge.

The officer said the two men and an intoxicated passenger were arrested in an automobile which had been stolen from John Little, tourist park operator. West was in jail under a burglary indictment.

CIO'S LOUISIANA DRIVE OPPOSED
LAKE CHARLES, La., May 12 (AP)—Any effort of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization to organize longshoremen under the CIO banner will be vigorously repulsed by the International onshoremen's association. President John P. Ryan of New York declared today.

Ryan, here for a meeting of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast district of the I. L. A., asserted that his association will "stick tight in the American Federation of Labor."

As quickly as the convention ends, Ryan said, a drive to organize all dock workers under the I. L. A. will get under way.

ROAD PROJECTS ARE DISCUSSED BEFORE CLUB AT STANTON

STANTON, May 12—Judge C. E. Storey and County Commissioners Bonnie White, Jim McCreeless, and Leo Castle met with the Stanton Service club in its semi-monthly luncheon session Tuesday and discussed road projects.

The Luncheon to Stanton highway is the favored project, at this time, it was reported.

The club is cooperating with the school board in improvement of the school grounds. Sodding of the football field has been started and other improvements will be made.

Thirteen were present for the meal, including five visitors. Women of the Methodist church served the luncheon in the church dining room.

GALVESTON OFFICIALS WIN RE-ELECTION
GALVESTON, May 12 (AP)—Returns from yesterday's municipal election today showed Mayor Adrian F. Levy and other incumbent city officials had been re-elected.

Those returned to office were A. J. Peterson, finance commissioner, Raymond A. Stewart, streets and public property, Adolph Suderman, sewerage and waterworks, O. E. Casey, fire and police, and W. R. Willard, tax assessor and collector.

Film Strikers Seeking Help
Call On Two Other Powerful Unions To Aid In Campaign

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., May 12 (AP)—Striking movie craftsmen recruited support today from two powerful waterfront unions in a boycott of other unions whose members pass through studio picket lines.

The Federated Motion Picture Crafts asked the maritime federation of the Pacific and the International Longshoremen's association for help in the craft's fight for union recognition and a closed shop.

If the maritime unions comply, they will refuse to load location-bound ships with film company equipment and personnel.

J. R. Robinson, in command of the F.M.P.C. picket lines, reported that striking pickets had spurned a proposal by "outside influences" to participate in an arson plot against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. He also reported that a striker's automobile was fired upon by gunmen who escaped before their license number could be sighted.

The striker, Ernest C. Hoffman, was not injured.

Charles Kimberlin of the F.M.P.C. said the strikers were not interested in the producers' offer to negotiate on wages, hours and other issues provided the strike was called off and the men returned to work immediately. "When we get our demands the strike will end," Kimberlin said.

Production at the studios today went ahead as usual. Picket lines were orderly.

SENATE APPROVAL OF COURT CHANGE IS HELD IN DOUBT
WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Opponents of the Roosevelt court bill declared today administration leaders had advised the president senate approval of the measure was extremely doubtful.

Senate supporters, however, contended they had enough votes to pass it, although some said there would be only a vote or two to spare.

Both sides awaited the president's return Friday.

No one professed inside information on what he might do. Most discussion revolved about the idea of adding two, instead of six, judges to the supreme court and of submitting a constitutional amendment to force retirement at 75 years.

Would Turn Relief Load To States

Republicans Propose A System Of Federal Money Grants

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The republican membership of the house proposed today that relief administration be returned to the states through a system of federal monetary grants.

"This plan will insure that a larger share of each relief dollar will go into actual relief purposes than is the case under the present system of extravagant political control," said an announcement from a caucus of minority representatives.

The republicans adopted a proposal of Rep. White (D-Ohio) that "federal grants to states be made on a non-partisan basis, that administration be vested in state and local authorities, and that each state contribute at least 25 per cent of the cost of its relief."

The senate, debating a proposal to build a new $112,000,000 dam in

NEW EVIDENCE IN TAYLOR DEATH CASE

LOS ANGELES, May 12 (AP)—Deputy District Attorney Eugene Williams said today he expected to be "in possession of facts of material importance relative to the killing of William Desmond Taylor" as the result of statements made by two persons, heretofore unmentioned with the case.

Williams earlier announced that the 15-year-old killing of the noted film director is "nearer solution today than it ever has been." He said he would not be surprised if the "break" did not come within a few days.

Commenting on a statement by Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, mother of Mary Miles Minter, silent day film star, that she had seen Taylor in the Tennessee valley, heard Senator Tydings (D-Md) declare yesterday that another depression is coming and the nation must prepare for it.

Leaders predicted defeat of the dam proposal in what they called the first test of economy sentiment in the senate.

"The house failed to reach a vote yesterday on a bill to authorize $350,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps. Instead of holding to the president's request that the agency be made permanent, it voted 224 to 34 to extend its life only two more years.

TY COBB'S SON IN THE ROLE OF A HERO

ROSOWELL, N. M., May 12 (AP)—Cadet E. H. Cobb, 18-year-old son of the "Georgia Peach," Ty Cobb, shared a hero's role today with a fellow student of the New Mexico Military Institute.

Cadets Cobb and F. H. Lacey, officers of the military school said, acted with "great heroism" in dashing from their classes late yesterday to the aid of Andre Jaramilla, drowning in the institute swimming pool.

Jaramilla was brought out of the water by Lacey and revived by the first aid work of Cobb.

Leaders predicted defeat of the dam proposal in what they called the first test of economy sentiment in the senate.

"The house failed to reach a vote yesterday on a bill to authorize $350,000,000 for the Civilian Conservation Corps. Instead of holding to the president's request that the agency be made permanent, it voted 224 to 34 to extend its life only two more years.

FALSE PROSPERITY

Most economists and observers of business conditions agree that the true test of a country's prosperity is what they call the durable or heavy goods business—steel and lumber and metals of various kinds. When the demand for these is strong, people are at work and their money percolates down into other branches of trade—to the small manufacturers and retailers—so that everybody is receiving wages or salaries and has money to spend.

That condition is being reached in United States, their figures show, and while not everybody is employed there are many more at work than a year ago and the outlook is for many others to get employment of some sort.

But the reason for this demand, or a large part of it, is the armaments Europe is making, and to some extent those being made in this country. Armaments are meant for destruction—nothing else. One may say they are for defense, but that means destruction just as much as if they were for offense. And things made for destruction cannot bring lasting prosperity. Either they will be used, with the accompanying losses that will have to be made good, or they will not be used and will remain a burden on the people who have to pay for them and prevent those people having the money to buy useful things.

The millions of tons of steel and scrap iron this country is exporting, the cotton and oil and other supplies, are making prosperity for a time, but it is an uncertain prosperity and one that will shrivel the moment those nations reach the point they can no longer buy. That point is not far distant.

Real prosperity comes when men and women are employed making things of use to other men and women and that is the condition toward which we should set our mark.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the more absorbing chapters in Dexter Fellows' autobiography, "This Way to the Big Show," deals with newspaper editors as he knew them at the turn of the century. In those turbulent days, he says, people were not afraid to hiss and boo, and when an irate citizen found offense at anything an editor had written, he went looking for him with a horsewhip or a pistol. For this reason, Dan Anthony, editor of the Leavenworth, Kas., Times, always kept a revolver in the right-hand drawer of his desk. And O'Brien-Moore, editor of the Tucson, Ariz., Citizen, also had a gun nearby to defend what he wrote.

It was the latter's name that sent us down to the bookstore for an extra copy of the book. O'Brien-Moore was the father of Erin O'Brien-Moore, who, as you might suppose, is the red-headed actress you admired so tremendously in "The Black Legion" and who is now making "The Life of Emile Zola" with Paul Muni.

We drew a ring around the enlightening paragraph and shipped the book on out to Hollywood to her. It will make a good addition to the library of this Irish daughter of so Irish a father. Incidentally, all the earlier O'Brien-Moore's were editors in Ireland before they migrated to this country and became editors in Charleston, W. Va., and New Orleans.

Just before she got on the 20th Century Limited for the western journey I asked her how long she intended to be gone. "Only as long as it takes me to make a certain amount of money," she declared. "Apparently it hasn't taken her long, because 'Zola' will be through in about six weeks and she'll hurry back to Manhattan and her east side apartment, where a grinning ebony maid, who hails from Georgia, is waiting to prepare endless menus of yams that drip honey, and fried catfish, and cornbread and hams dressed in cider.

The apartment is one of those comfortable ones with lots of books autographed to "Erin Darling" by their authors, and with lots of always fresh-cut flowers. There aren't many pictures, but then the people encountered there are generally so interesting that you wouldn't have time to look at pictures anyway.

Oh, yes, I asked Fellows to autograph that book before he went off, and when I mentioned Erin's name he gravely complied. "This is very thoughtful of you," he said.

It wasn't until several days later that I learned two others had had the same idea, and Fellows, without batting an eye, had autographed them both.

BEHIND THE NEWS

Congress marks time while president fishes.

Court and reorganization await Roosevelt's return.

Quietus expected in Berry-TVA claim dispute.

Sugar legislation presents difficult problem.

Local Luck

WASHINGTON, May 12—A rumor is abroad that congress adjourned several weeks ago, when the president went fishing. This is what might be called official innuendo, but it is nevertheless just about true.

When President Roosevelt returns, he will learn the biggest thing that has happened in his absence was the capture by Rep. Sam McReynolds, of Tennessee, of a 45-pound bass (don't ask an audit on the pounds). It is also true that a couple of the legislators nearly balanced the budget in the fifth race at Pinlico the other day, but failed sensationally by a nose.

Outside of these two developments, the stillness in congress has been sufficiently sweeping to cause a major White House problem.

The unobserved fact is the leaders have cleaned up their legislative calendars of most bills that do not impose additional costs on the treasury, except supreme court packing and government reorganization. Now it is up to Mr. R. to decide whether he wants to reel in or let out line on the budget, and the leaders will not move until they hear from him directly and specifically on each bill.

Note—The supreme court packing drive now lacks any semblance of the drive which Mr. Roosevelt personally gave it at first. Some good judges of opinion in the senate and house doubt that he could get two additional judges in a vote today. What will he put into it, if any, remains to be seen.

Success

Senators have become so accustomed to sensational turns of events they have even stopped talking now about the sudden turn in the career of the new senator, George Berry, of Tennessee. Within a week, he was raised in the public eye from coordinator for non-existent industrial cooperation and claimant for around a million and a half dollars from TVA to a seat in the senate from Tennessee.

The only answer now authoritatively available for the Berry appointment involves two prophecies. One is that Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee, who made the appointment, will run for Berry's seat in 1938. Another is that Governor Browning will become one of the few governors in the country now enjoying federal patronage in his state. These two prophecies are as sure as anything even is in Washington, but if you want a third speculative guess to round out the picture, it is that the TVA claim dispute may be lost somewhere in the shuffle.

Stuck

The sugar question is hot, and nearly everyone who has touched it here is more or less personally acquainted now with the chemical reaction which takes place when sugar warms up. This includes two cabinet members, Agriculture Secretary Wallace and State Secretary Hull, half a dozen lobbyist organizations working at cross purposes and the house agriculture committee which is over its collar in difficulty.

The latest inside development is supposed to be that Wallace has informed Chairman Jones that the administration is inclined to scrap all sugar legislation rather than take the bill drawn by the subcommittee.

If this were officially made public, it might create a roar in domestic cane, beet and refining quarters, where the ideas for the bill came from.

The only thing sure is that Jones is trying to work out something which will appease Messrs. Wallace and Hull as well as the domestic interests. It will be a tedious procedure the outcome of which is yet in doubt.

Distinguished Discomfort

If Pennsylvania's Senator Guffey did not have such a good reputation as a host, he would probably have walked home from Louisville, Guffey invited congressional friends to the Derby, with Vice President Garner as the guest of honor. En route, nothing could have been more perfect. Board and lodging, to use a broadly descriptive phrase, more splendid. In Louisville, a special bus met the party and all reached Churchill Downs in the finest of fettle.

After the Derby the group returned to the bus; that is, all except Guffey. His guests waited and waited. It was stuffy and uncomfortable in the bus. More than an hour passed. If the absence had been anyone except the host—well, the procedure would have been more simple.

Finally, word got to the bus that Guffey was calling on a nearby telephone. Where had they been? Blankety, blank, where had he been? Oh, that was different. He had forgotten where the bus would be and went directly to the station.

Sights and Sounds

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Paul Muni is extremely beard-conscious. Pasteur had to wear one. So now does Zola. But Muni's beard in "The Woman I Love" was his own idea.

He said it would emphasize the difference in ages between himself and Louis Hayward, the other corner of the triangle, and also would make his character appear appropriately less attractive to Marjorie Main.

Marjorie Main iam Hopkins. This apparently was carrying realism and art too far for the exploitation department. The ads on "The Woman I Love" show Muni clean-shaven. Beards still are regarded as unromantic.

Seeks Role As Scarlet

Miss Hopkins, mentioned more than any other actress for the Scarlet O'Hara role, thinks it is all very lovely except that—"I wish someone would get around to asking me to play it," she laughs. "That's what I'm waiting for."

When I told her she was my choice because I liked her "Becky Sharp," she said: "You and my mother, bless you both!"

Kidding aside, she isn't counting on getting the role, believes it really will go to an unknown actress. Reminded that she'd probably have the vote of the Solid South, she laughed appreciatively:

"But there have been years in which the Solid South couldn't carry the election. Maybe this will be one of them."

With open season on commencement oratory around the corner, it's nice of Marjorie Main to come out with this encouraging thought: the high school orator of today may be the movie star of tomorrow.

Miss Main, here from the Broadway stage to play in "Stella Dallas" and "Dead End" for Goldwyn, is from Acton, Ind., and she won the state oratorical championship for high schools at the age of 15.

She isn't saying that her victory insured her stage success, but she does say that a boy or girl who can speak a piece convincingly has a head-start as a potential actor.

Records Bear Her Out

The records would seem to bear her out. Walter Brennan won the Swampscott (Mass.) high school speaking contest in 1914 and still treasures the prize, a set of books. Victor Jory and Joel McCrea were on college debating teams at the University of California and Pomona college respectively. Fay Wray won a speaking contest in her native Canada, and Rochelle Hudson copped a cup at Van Nuys high.

But it doesn't necessarily work that way. A high school orator once myself and what did it get me? Irving Cummings, the director, used to be a leading man and he's still an actor. "Vogues of 1938" marks his debut as an actor behind a color camera, however. He acts out the parts for his players just as he does when working in black-and-white film.

And that's how he is shooting the picture, too, with no tobacco because of the color medium. Cummings made a hit film of "The White Parade," a story about nurses' training. He's trying now to show the lives and tribulations of fashion models in the same manner—"with a laugh in every scene—I hope!"

Ted Peckman, of that gentleman escort service, is the most open publicity-seeker to hit town in months. After Paramount gave up its escort picture idea, Ted got himself a press agent but I acubt if it did any good.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Chapter 28 AN OLD LOVE STORY

Eve sat on the bottom step of the old portico, staring off to the low hills across the meadow beyond the orchard. She was thinner and paler than she had been a week ago when Ellen had first told her the news. Ellen had first gone back to her stock company in Sharon. Judge had gone on a long-promised camping trip the day before George and Ellen returned engaged. Eve rather wished he could stay away longer; she did not feel as if she could stand another set of double exclamations and questions. He would be back shortly; in time for supper, certainly. Well, there was this short moment of peace, here in the sunset. Not too long.

If she stayed where she was, inevitably she would see tiny and clear against the colored sky. George's familiar figure crossing his lawn as he came down from his work. She shivered a little and wanted wildly to run to the ends of the earth. And she couldn't. She mustn't.

"Well, daughter, what you thinking about?" Uncle Henry asked gently, coming up to her in his shapeless sweater and faded overalls. He was carrying a basket of pumpkins, golden and big as Cleveland's coach.

She looked up at him, not troubling to hide anything.

"I was wondering," she told him wearily, "why I don't bolt, like the Featherstones."

He said matter-of-factly. "Be cause it isn't in you. Some horses bolt and some don't; same with humans." He set down his basket, and sat himself beside her, staring, too, at the bright turning hills.

"You weren't more than seventeen when Evelina died, and at that age—I don't do better than a long time ago—old folks don't seem human to young folks. I don't suppose you ever knew there was a time when she and I were going to marry."

"No!" Eve was startled. "I never did."

"She had more education than I did, and your folks were always considered higher, but I was a handsome young fellow those days, was a lot of the old Nick in me. She was full of spirit and pride, too—too much, both of us. Well, we had one quarrel too many; how could we know it would be the last one? You don't," said the old man meditatively, staring at the scarlet-streaked hills. "No you don't."

"Well, Evelina flounced off somewhere—your cousin in Detroit, the Dentons. And Essie came to visit some folks of hers here. Little and lacy and delicate and sort of clinging she was, sort of a change from Evelina's always being so proud and capable. And new in town, with all the other fellows wild about her. So I heard her around. . . . And first I knew I'd said something or other, and, poor little thing, she took it we were engaged, and the town took it so too. . . . She hadn't any people but the cousins she was visiting, that were tired of her, she said. . . . And the upshot of it was we were married—before Evelina got back. And Evelina and I only needed to look at each other to know I'd made a mistake nothing could put right."

"You'll Say That, Daughter?"

"Oh, Uncle Henry!" Eve thought of fretful, dragged, selfish Aunt Essie, wrapping in her slovenly quilted sitting-room; and of her own Aunt Evelina, proud and fastidious to the end of her days as Uncle Henry himself.

"It's a long time gone, daughter. But your Aunt Evelina didn't run off. Not even when the old folks died, nor when your father and mother died. She reared you and took pride in the upkeep of this place, and helped run town doings and earned her living. . . . And when she came to die she said to me, 'Henry, it's been a good life. I've liked living, nearly straight through.' He paused a moment and added huskily: 'And you're a Mannerfield too. You'll say that, daughter.'

Eve found herself, suddenly, crying for that old love story as she had not cried for her own. The old man had told it to her to help, to show her that she, too, could find life good, could face living on near the man she loved, because of courage for work and responsibility and little pleasures. She blushed blindly for Uncle Henry's hard-earned old hand.

"I—I will, Uncle Henry—"

She stood up to go inside. Judge would be getting back soon now, with a hungry boy's appetite. A man's step scuffled at the corner of the house, and she stiffened. No, not to greet George with pleasant indifference again today.

"Well, son, what you doing so far from home this near supper?" Uncle Henry was saying, as shuffling Lance Seymour came up to them, gnawing a big yellow apple. It was windy, but Lance had put a sweater over his ragged blue shirt, and a bare knobby knee showed through his overalls.

"Not far from home," Lance mumbled sulkily.

"Hungry, boy? Guess we could find a sandwich and a glass of milk, eh, Eve?"

"Don't want any. Had a lot of apples, got Seymour apples. And I roasted some 'aters."

"Look here, Lance, you mustn't do like that. That's stealing. Your dad sold the house to George Cleveland, and that makes the potatoes his. You don't want to be put in the lockup again, do you?"

Lancelot's half-open, frowning mouth snapped shut, over his black teeth. His lantern-jawed face changed from its usual black expression to one of vicious fury.

"That's the Seymour house," he opened his mouth again; to say "It was built by Lancelot Seymour, and I'm Lancelot Seymour, and them Cleveland ain't no right there. They done a lot of things to it they ain't no right to do. Swellin' round there, and that Mattie Webb warn't no bit for diggin' up pinies to put on Granther Seymour's grave! Pinies a man named Evans or something sent him from England hundreds of years back! They got to get out! I'm goin' to make 'em get out!"

His whole gaunt body shook with weak hysterical anger.

"Well, son, now, I wouldn't do that. You go home now and talk it over with your dad. He'll tell you how he sold it to the Cleveland, look, stock and barrel, and it ain't yours any more."

"I had it home. Down to the saloon in Westport!"

But Lance, suddenly terrified at his own anger, stumbled quickly away.

Eve lingered on the steps. "You don't think he'll really do anything, do you?"

"Come no, child! What could he do? He's just talking the way half-wits always do talk. Run in now, the wind's rising."

Judge Brings Home Trout

She went slowly in. Judge, clattering in from the front door, where he had been dropped by his friends laden with bags and cans and a string of fish, wild with excitement at finding someone to whom he could relate the story of his exciting week, met her in the kitchen. "And I learned how to fix apples to bake, lemme show you!"

It was peaceful and quiet there in the old bright kitchen. Judge, brown and strong and bright-eyed, still smiling rather fishy, chattered on and on about the real trout, all cleaned, they would fry for breakfast, his prowess in jumping, his longing to go to a real boy's camp. Uncle Henry, raking outside, whistled on at his invariable work-time.

Phisic d'amour ne dure qu'un moment. Chagrin d'amour dure toute la vie!

Some French endure must have brought it to Connecticut long ago; Uncle Henry whistled it because his father had done so before him. Eve had heard it sung at concerts in New York. A stiff little fiddler, tinkling, tinkling, whistled it over and over, and Eve hummed the words.

And all in a moment, in the warm kind old kitchen, while the contented child chattered and the old man whistled cheerfully outside, Eve was suddenly, horribly frightened, frightened because George Cleveland had been threatened by a helpless half-starved halfwit. She knew it was crazy. George, strong, wise, capable—he was nonsense. . . . Except that when you love anybody the way she did George, it seems that your heart stands always on guard, argued, watchful, afraid. . . . They had been so long together; he had been Ellen's so short a while, that as she stood at the table, her clever hands pouring hot milk on fluffy flour, stirring, adding with mechanical perfection, her heart forgot; she slipped into a daydream about him.

If she were doing this for George. . . . George with his somnolent fondness for good food, long evenings by firelight, long walks; all the horse things that were so dear shared! She was deep in a daydream of the sort girls in love have; a silly, loving picture of George, coming in fresh with the autumn wind, kissing her and laughing and telling her to hurry up; he was hungry; George telling her about his day; his success in the new set of grafts; George leaning across the dinner table, praising the little, doubled brown rolls, her singing at the Grange the night before, proud of a wife who did so many things so well. (Copyright, 1937, Margaret WiddeMER)

Lance Seymour sets George's house afire, tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Joy and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gill were recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ely. Mrs. Gill is a sister of Mrs. Ely. The party was here two weeks ago en route to Springfield, Ill., and are now returning to their homes in Hollywood, Calif.

LIQUOR CANNOT STAND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

By JOSEPH FORT NEWTON Did you ever in your whole life long, know of a man who lost his job because he did not drink liquor? Did you ever hear a mother say that her boy would be a nobler man, more useful and honorable, if he were a drinker? Did you ever know of a woman who said that her husband would have been a better man to live with, and a better father of his children, if he had spent more money for drink? Did you ever hear children complain that they were robbed of their chance of health and happiness, and their opportunity of an education, through the temperate habits of their father? Did you ever know of a young man, thinking of a girl for his wife to decide in her behalf because she could lap up liquor, or guzzle more cocktails than anyone else? Honestly, now! Did you ever hear a girl say, explaining her choice of a husband, and her hope for a happy home and married life, "He's just a darling, and the jolliest drinker anyone ever knew"? Did you ever head, even in a rumor, of an employer looking for a man for a responsible position in his business saying, "Give me the boozier every time, he's just the man I am looking for"? Did you ever read of a man accused of a crime trying to excuse himself with the plea, "If I had been drunk I should never have done it"? Did you ever hear, even in a nice company offering to reduce premiums to a drinker, because he was a better risk? Did you ever know of a motorist involved in an accident attributing it to the fact that he had not had a few drinks before starting out? Did you ever know a town, issuing a handbook of its amenities and assets, to give a list of its saloons? Did you ever head anyone prove, by plain facts and sound reason, that liquor makes for health of body, clarity of mind, and cleanness of life?—(Submitted by the local plainer, her choice of a husband, WCTU).

A man in Hamburg, Germany, has 25,000 train and bus tickets, classified and mounted like stamps in ten albums.

but, and unless we want to see the federal government levying heavier taxes and new taxes, including a preemption of the funds now providing for state and local revenues, spending must be reduced. It will not be reduced unless we quit asking for federal grants for states. This debt must be paid x x x and it can only be paid by cutting down our spending.

Crowley said Texas must "quit running to Washington or to Austin, asking for state or federal handouts." He said Texas was one of the union's most prosperous states, its oil and cotton alone producing a billion dollars annually.

"If there is any state x x x capable of taking care of her own problems without asking for this so-called federal aid, then it is Texas," he said.

Inspection of 41 ranches in Howard county was completed Wednesday, Assistant County Agent M. Weaver announced.

The inspections covered as many applications for range conservation payments for participation in a program of retirement, deference of grazing lands and eradication of non-palatable growths.

At least 150,000 acres of land in Howard county are to be effected by the program.

Most ranchers plan to participate in temporary retirement of overgrazed lands, deferred grazing, and in the erection of contour rows, diversion dams and more tanks. Many will take advantage of assistance in ridding pastures of cacti, bear-grass, certain types of mesquite and juniper, as well as destructive rodents.

CHURCH PLAY SLATED FOR THIS EVENING

Senior department of the First Methodist church presents a play, "Elmer Waits Outside," in the church building at 8 p. m. today.

An all male cast is one of the unusual features of the comedy.

Other added features will be numbers by the Moore string band, vocal selections by the trio composed of Maurine Rose, Emily Stalcup, and Kathleen Williams, violin numbers by Ruth Thomas, Maurine Rose and Louise Berger, piano solo by Vivian Ferguson, and reading by Louise McClintey, and band music.

Big Increase Seen In Wheat Acreage

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The agriculture department predicts a near-record wheat acreage this year, along with a crop estimate 25 per cent higher than in 1936.

The crop reporting board, in a survey of May conditions, estimated yesterday that acreage would be 47,410,000, compared with 37,608,000 last year. The yield was estimated at 654,295,000 bushels, compared with 519,013,000 bushels last year.

Predicting a light yield for rye, the statistician said the crop probably would be close to 42,913,000 bushels.

Livestock and feed reserves have been depleted severely by the drought, and pastures, ranges, hay meadows, new grass seedings and winter grains are subnormal.

On the other hand, the board said, the demand for farm products is increasing and shortages due to the drought are encouraging some producers.

PILOT ERRORS ARE BLAMED IN CRASHES

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—The commerce department gave its opinion today that errors by pilots were responsible for two airplane crashes near Newhall, Calif., in which 17 persons were killed and eight injured.

The first of the accidents involved a United Air Lines transport plane flying from Oakland to Los Angeles, on December 27, 1936. All nine passengers and the crew of three were killed.

The other was a Western Air Express liner, flying between Salt Lake City and San Diego, on Jan. 12, in which five persons, including Martin Johnson, the explorer, were killed and eight injured.

FLIERS READY FOR TRIP TO AMERICA

LIVERPOOL, May 12 (AP)—The American transatlantic fliers Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie, died their plane at Speke Airfield today on the first stage of their return flight to the United States.

They flew from Croydon Air-drome near London. A heavy load of gasoline will be taken on here. Merrill and Lambie will hop for the United States shortly after dawn tomorrow with pictures of the coronation of King George VI.

The fliers did not see the coronation procession, but listened to a radio broadcast of the ceremonies at Croydon.

LIONS ACTIVITIES DISCUSSED BY CLUB

Lions education was stressed before the Lions club Wednesday with the assertion that the only genuine Lions club is an active Lions club.

Pascal Buckner, president, said that the membership should be proud of being affiliated with the local unit, not because of any accomplishments, but because of the opportunities ahead.

Among projects outlined for the year ahead when C. L. Rowe will head the club were the installation of a wading pool in the Mexican plaza, continuation of service courses, blind work, and more concerted committee work.

Buckner was presented with a .12 gauge pump shot gun as first prize in a long term contest sponsored in the club. L. L. Stewart, runner-up, will be given a hat by District Gov. Elmer Elliott of Dalhart. At the meeting Wednesday, he was awarded a pop-gun.

Richard Englander was a guest of the club Wednesday.

MAN HELD HERE ON CHARGE OF BIGAMY

Miss Wood filed suit in the 70th district court for annulment of the marriage and Special Judge W. M. Taylor granted the annulment.

EXPENDITURES OF STATE TO BE PROBED

AUSTIN, May 12 (AP)—A searching investigation of the manner in which the state spends approximately $250,000,000 every two years will be conducted under authority of a resolution adopted by the senate today.

The resolution asserted only $50,000,000 was accounted for in regular appropriations and in view of the recurring demand for new taxes and additional revenue it was vital to know whether that money and other sums making up the total were spent according to the mandate of the legislature.
