Miniature Golf Knock The Ball Around The Lot

Again comes the miniature golf season. Knocking the little white ball through pipes, over hills, and into holes is the attraction offered by Pee Wee golf. One course has already opened and another announces its public opening Saturday. The Broadway Golf course owned by Scott (Pap) Turner will offer ten free games to the man and woman who turn in the lowest score Saturday, their opening day.

Third Week Of Grid Practice Is Under Way

Approximately Sixty Men Are Working Out Six Days Of Each Week On Practice Field Near Gym

Breaking eight bottom fasteners on blocking dummies the first day they were installed Coach Cawthorn's Matadors are well into the third of their seven weeks of spring football practice.

Sixty Work Out Approximately sixty men are working out six days a week on the practice field north of the gymnasium. Emphasis is being placed on blocking and tackling. Several plays have been given to the squads and a large part of the day's work consists of blocking by the team on the eight new dummies recently installed. These dummies are arranged the same as an enemy team and a large amount of good work is being derived from them. They are the first to be seen in this section of the country.

McWilliams and Owens from the freshman squad of last fall are showing up well and will see plenty of service next fall if they stay eligible. Langford, veteran from other years, can be expected to show plenty of fight when he is in there. Cawthorn has a wealth of material for both tackle and guard positions.

Durham Switched Captain Durham has been switched from center to guard. Greer is hard to beat out, Maltby, looking good last year, is back and looking good. Harris, another freshman, is showing up well. Turner, transfer from Wayland, seems to have the goods. Ends are headed by Teal, who made his letter last fall by turning in one of the best records yet made by a Tech end. Cowan, Hitchcock, Price can be expected to do their share next fall after gaining a bit more experience.

In a group of backfield candidates numbering nearly twenty-five, Wesner, Crites, France, Moffet and Pete Smith appear to be good for lots of yards when the season opens.

Fighting for the center berth is Nick Powers, Moore, Tribble and Barton. They seem almost evenly matched but another month of practice should find which can hold down the first string position.

Discussion Groups To Meet Friday

Marlowe, is chairman of the committee.

Ellis And Ward Compose Team For Tech

Texas Tech's debate team won a unanimous decision over the West Texas State Teachers college last Tuesday afternoon. The question debated was "Resolved: That the Nations Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade." Alvis Ellis and Frank Ward composed the Tech team while Edwin Boedeker and J. D. Hazelwood represented West Texas Teachers college.

Ellis First Speaker Alvis Ellis, the first speaker for Tech on the affirmative side of the question, welcomed the Canyon debaters to Tech and then opened the case for the affirmative by stating the case for the affirmative with the growth of internationalism, tariff has ceased to be a policy that is beneficial to the economic life of a nation.

Mr. Edwin Boedeker, first speaker for Canyon on the negative side of the case as being "We advocate a balance of trade, admitting that high tariffs have many faults, but believing in the general policy of protectionism."

Mr. Frank Ward, second speaker for Tech brought out the following main point: "We of America, cannot afford to lose our foreign markets, in attempting to protect our home markets."

Mr. J. D. Hazelwood, the second speaker for Canyon, concluded the constructive argument for the negative with a general attack upon the basic principles of Free Trade.

KNUTE ROCKNE

A story that goes back almost a half century begins in the little town of Voss, Norway, when a certain boy with his mother and her family boarded a steamship for America. A story of a man who rose from obscurity to the grand title of America's foremost football coach. His team went through two seasons without a defeat. He became popular in the eyes and hearts of sport lovers and was loved by those who knew him.

He loved the game of football. His interest always was with his team. He loved each man that ever played for him and in return for his love they fought, trained, and brought victory to their Alma Mater.

Probably the climax to his career came when his team, all weary with travel and fatigued from continual play, doped to lose by most sport scribes, outplayed and outsmarted the great University of Southern California's team to win by the score of twenty-seven to nothing.

As each man came off the field, who was playing his last game under Notre Dame's colors, he was met by this noble man and given a gracious embrace. Carideo was the last man to feel the hug of that great man in a scheduled game of Notre Dame. Carideo had played a great game and received a wonderful ovation from the stands.

A few days ago news wires flashed the story that Knute Rockne had been killed in a plane crash. Groups here and there read and heard of the tragedy and all realized that a man worthy of distinction had passed on. His death was mourned throughout the United States.

The "Rock" has gone but his spirit of fairness, loyalty, and kindness will live on. His successor will carry on the work that Rockne has started. The inspiration of confidence that Rockne so instilled will be well remembered.

TEXAS TECH RELAY

Texas Tech's first high school relays met the approval of spectators and those concerned according to reports into The Toreador office early Monday morning. The meet moved with the smoothness of any other well timed track contest and a lively interest was shown by a half-full grand stand.

The meet was held with the purpose of raising the standards of athletics in West Texas and to bring together schools that fail to meet during other athletic events held throughout Texas.

We hope that the contests found Texas Tech exactly as they expected and will see fit to enter its doors next year, for a higher education.

Tech, its students, its faculty members, its coaches, and college officials, appreciate the splendid support and interest given our coaches by the high school coaches and contestants competing in our first relay meet. We hope that they were as pleased with the contest as we were with having them here.

Here And There

Folk here's the latest on Little Oscar Kinchen, (well known forgetter of the history department).

It is said that when a boy went to the Citizens Military Training camp and was placed on guard duty for a few days. Being a little absent minded he shot himself one day while trying to pass—he had forgot the password.

Yes, you guessed right it's the Associate Office Boy at you again with a few sayings to get off his chest. One thing follows another at Texas Tech and no sooner were we through with our final exams for the winter term when we had to register. And now midterms are coming up in the next few days.

It is impossible to over-estimate the good that is likely to come out of the first annual Tech relays held on the Tech athletic field Saturday. Athletes from all parts of West Texas and New Mexico were here for the meet and it's a safe bet some of those same fellows will be here with their checkbook next fall when the 1931-32 school year opens. Here's to you Tech coaches.

These 1931 seniors are making their plans for their graduations and from what the Associate Office Boys learn Floyd Woolridge is planning things in a big way. The Associate Office Boys looks forward to the day when he plans for a degree. (He's a far looker). Here's to you Seniors of 1931!

There's one organization on the campus that's going to put Tech on the map, right when the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention gets under way here, May 14, 15 and 16. That organization is the Tech Chamber of Commerce headed by Don Maddox. The C. of C. has done much in the past, chief of these being the sponsoring of a Tech song contest. Students would do well in giving their assistance to this organization for the next two months.

That boy over in the chemistry building says he would get married and go and live with his folks, but his folks are still living with their folks.

Freshman day is coming and the "Fish" will get you if you don't watch out. But in all sincerity the Associate Office Boy thinks these

Student Opinion

What is more lovely and beautiful than a Texas girl in a Texas cotton dress, without the smears of makeup over her face and neck and a great chew of Wrigley's in her mouth.

Last Thursday on our campus there was the best display of beauty than there ever has been before. Gingham dresses, pretty clean faces, beautiful eyes and hair is what makes Texas girls famous in places other than here. Silks, satins, laces, and expensive workmanship is worn by coeds of our schools who are not able by any means to afford them, parents do without things that they really need, or let their children may dress as good as other people's children. The fact of the matter is that these who are really able to dress do not do so, so expensively. Are these things just mentioned more beautiful than the plain clothes, see for yourself, they are not. These things are more expensive and when one wears them they feel as though they will be thought of much better.

Unless it had been just a fad today how many girls would have thought of wearing a cotton dress. How many have thought of wearing them throughout the summer instead of buying costly ones.

What good is it going to do for these pretty clothes to be worn only one day this year, it will cost more than it would if they were never used. Why not make the cotton dress the style of the rest of this year and through the summer. What would be more economical or more beautiful than to see every girl wearing cotton dresses on our campus for the next four months?

THE WELL BRED HOST??

This is the story of a young couple who were beginners in the art of entertaining. This is the story of that young couple and their first entertaining.

A happy crowd gathered at their home. The evening shifted to midnight amid the joyous activities that the host had cleverly arranged. The handsome young husband and his charming wife apparently had played their initial role in society with all the grace and dignity that the occasion demanded. Conversation moved interestingly. Games progressed enjoyably. Dainty refreshments brought the eventful evening to a close.

The guests began to depart. As each little group paid their respects to the host and hostess and departed, the door slammed behind them. Unintentionally the guests were sent on their way with the realization that after all a needle's eye has seen more than most of us.

After all a needle's eye has seen more than most of us.

And as the King Solomon said in days of his 999 wives died. There must be an end to so much chatter.

Can it be true that Texas Tech intends to slam the door at its graduating class by cutting short their commencement activities?

FINCHER IN OFFICE AGAIN

The Sock and Buskin club met Tuesday, April 7, and elected the following officers for the spring term: President, F. B. Fincher; vice-president, Mable Mims; Secretary-treasurer, Lois Beckett; Sergeant-at-arms, Harold Simms, and Reporter, Helen Jennings.

Committees were appointed to furnish refreshments, tables, and chairs, music, and to check on attendance for a party planned to be held soon.

At the next regular meeting a few of the seniors plays will be given.

There'll be no spring for Hank Morgan. Working among so many leaves makes life always seem like autumn to the campus Lew Ayres.

Summoning a Ghost to your bidding

The chemist Van Helmont in 1609 discovered an invisible substance, an emanation from coal, that he named "geist," meaning ghost, shortened in English to gas.

Only now do its miraculous possibilities begin to be glimpsed. Only now can modern industry, like a latter-day Aladdin rubbing his lamp to summon a vaporous genie, turn a valve and order this Ghost to any one of a hundred tasks.

From the beginning, the problem was one of piping. When Crane Co., a half century ago, set itself to develop and produce the right materials for every gas and oil purpose, it began an incalculably valuable contribution to the solution of problems that had held back the gas industry since the Chinese used hollow bamboo.

So in the development of the natural and manufactured gas industry, as in practically every other industry, the Crane line of valves, fittings, fabricated piping, and specialties have played an important part. No matter what branch of industry you enter, you will find Crane materials playing a similarly important part.

Lamesa Takes First Honors In Tech Meet

Norman, One Man Team From Leveland, takes individual Honors With Twelve Points To Credit

First honors in the first Texas Tech high school relay carnival Saturday went to Lamesa, who by taking two first places, three second places, and a fourth place, totalling 17 points, won over Pampa by one point.

Norman, the one-man team from Leveland, took individual honors with one first place, tied for another, one third place, and a fourth place for a total of 12 points. He won the 50 yard dash, tied for first place in the high jump with Ayres of Pampa, placed third in the 200 yard low hurdles, and was fourth in the hundred yard dash. He tied with Cline for fourth place in the meet.

Two Records Equalled
Two state interscholastic league records were equalled and as many district records broken in the meet. McCintock of Snyder bettered the state record of 24.7 for the 220-yard low hurdles, set by Stevens of Abilene in 1925 by two-tenths of a second.

Two times during the day, Hill of Lamesa ran the century in 9.9 seconds equalling the interscholastic league record set by Draper of Fort Worth in 1925 and equalled by Davis of Preopert in 1927.

In the medley relay, Reed of Big Spring took the baton in the 800-yard race and started out four men behind the leader and before the track was divided once he was nearly abreast of the leader and he finished the second round ten yards in front. Big Spring would have won the race but the time was beaten in another heat.

Cisco Wins
Cisco won the quarter-mile relay with a team composed of Jeter, Mastings, Cammel, and Miller. Time was 46.5. Snyder's relay team won the half-mile in 1:36.4. Lamesa took the mile relay with the time of 5:34.3. The special medley relay was won by Pampa in 4:42.6. Plainview won the medley relay in 3:51.7. Graham of Brownfield won the javelin throw; distance: 151 feet, 10 inches. Ayres of Pampa and Norman of Leveland tied at 6 foot 1 inch in the high jump.

A field of 300 athletes representing 39 schools of Texas and New Mexico participated in what promises to be a yearly series of races.

Tech's Library Fund is Omitted

AUSTIN, April 15.—(Special)—Funds for a new library for Texas Technological college have been omitted by the house appropriations committee.

Both the library and a dairy unit also asked by Technological college are included in the senate educational appropriations bill. Whether the dairy unit will be granted probably will depend upon a decision by a free conference committee.

Library Urged
The educational bill turned in to the house Tuesday carries a total of $15,988,734 for the biennium, which is $1,850,000 less than board of control recommendations. The board urged a $250,000 library for Technological college.

An appropriation for this structure by the forty-first legislature was vetoed by former Governor Moody.

The Technological college board of directors asked the house appropriations committee for a library and dairy unit, two improvements stressed for the last four years as essential to the college's growth. Increase in enrollment has necessitated more buildings, the college now having 2,400 students, it was contended.

Use Oil Royalties
The University of Texas and Texas A. & M. college are the only state schools having larger enrollments, but they use oil royalties instead of depending on the legislature for building appropriations.

Yesterday's measure allowed West Texas only one new college building, a $200,000 administration building for the School of Mines at El Paso.

The committee bill also contains an item for $25,000, if matched by a similar amount by the West Texas Historical Association for a museum at West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon. Total appropriations, for 1932 and 1933, respectively, include: Texas Technological college, $427,370 and $492,370.

West Texas State Teachers college, $299,274 and $31,300.

GETTING OUR NAMES IN THE PAPER

Mary Alice Griggs who is such a personage in the Home Ec. school, got married Sunday. She's Mrs. Jack Copeland, now. What these girls won't do!

Hazel Gruber doesn't need any publicity, but guess we can afford to give her some. Hazel has a lot of interest on Thirteenth street for some reason.

It will be too bad for Ella Mae Blanton to leave school. Who will make all our shirts, suits and dresses to send to all the important people in the state? What we need now is a seamstress. Please notify at the Home Ec. building.

Emma Chapman is a sweet girl who is learning to cook and to sew according to the proper methods. Some of you Aggies ought to look her up.

Incidentally we've heard that some of the senior Aggies are having to get up at 6:00 o'clock and feed the hogs over here on the farms. Getting first hand information! "Learn to do by doing!"

Geraldine Clewell has been a good girl this year. She's been president of the Y. W. C. A.

In our Home Ec. column we want to put Sanford Gabrielle so that he won't feel left out. He was in their section in the annual last year and had the distinction of being the only male.

Vonelle Gilkerson can't decide whether she likes athletes, Wranglers, Centaurs, De Quos, or what not. G! It must be wonderful to be so popular.

We don't know him personally, but we've been hearing something about little William Luce. He makes all A grades and he gets some when folks don't laugh at his jokes. Ha! ha!

Durham Is Hero Of Beanery Nine

A slugging Monroe Beanery baseball team came back strong in the tenth inning to defeat the Avache-Journal nine 7 to 6 last Sunday afternoon in the feature game of the local baseball program.

Led by the superb pitching of Harold Crites and the timely fielding of Jack Durham, the Beanery boys scampered through ten innings of sandlot baseball to establish themselves as potential candidates for the local title. France and Moffett, infielders, opened several cans of beans to pile up the college boys' total of base hits. Barley, a beginner in the sport, pranced around the initial bag to give the six hundred frenzied spectators an imitation of the great George Sisler in action.

Failure of Evo Marshall to appear in the Beanery line-up brought around a disapproval from the fans. Jack Davis, local booking agent for the former Tech star, had announced that his man would appear in person. Marshall attended the game but refused to take part in the contest.

YWCA Lay Plans For Coming Year

At the first meeting of the YWCA cabinet which was held recently in the home of Marie Price plans were outlined for the work of next year. A worship service was led by Miss Jo Wilder, secretary of the YWCA, and at the close of the meeting refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the members present.

New officers of the YWCA cabinet are: Lila Gaye Rodgers, president; Cecile Horne, vice president; Marie Price, secretary; and Geraldine Clewell, treasurer.

Miss Theresa Robinson had as her guest during the week-end her sister, Kathryn Robinson of Canyon, who was a contestant in the Latin tournament held at the high school Saturday.

The Egyptian State Railways is buying 50 large passenger buses to be used as feeders to its rail lines.

ARE EARLY RISERS

At least not all college boys are late sleepers! At 6 o'clock each morning senior students in the Tech school of agriculture enrolled in the swine production class rise to feed the animals. Six students are in the class and two students work together for a week and then two others conduct the test.

The class is under the direction of the animal husbandry department.

OUT NEXT WEEK

Although scheduled to appear today, the home economics edition of the college newspaper, The Toreador, will not be out until next Thursday, Frank Emission, editor, said yesterday. A regular edition will be issued today.

The home economics paper will contain special information about that school and the students enrolled in that part of the college. A special editor will be appointed.

TEACHES EXTENSION COURSE

Under the direction of the Tech extension department J. W. Jackson, instructor in government, is conducting a class in advanced government at Brownfield each Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Regular college credit will be given upon completion.

Most of those enrolled in the course are public school teachers at Brownfield or nearby schools.

JUDGE PRODUCTS

With the products furnished by the Texas Panhandle Plains Dairy show association, students in the Tech dairy manufacturing department are scoring, students in the class which is under the direction of Professor K. M. Renner, head of the department.

A movement has been started in Las Vegas to give the name of "Mead lake" to the lake to be formed behind Hoover dam, in honor of Dr. Elwood Mead.

URGE ATTENDANCE

Because of the importance of the speaker, college officials are urging that students attend the convocation this morning at the gym at which time Dean R. L. Sackett will speak. Most of the 11 o'clock classes will be dismissed for the program.

Dean Sackett is one of the leading engineers of the country and is chairman of the national committee on education and training for the industries of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. He is a member of the engineering faculty of the Penn State college.

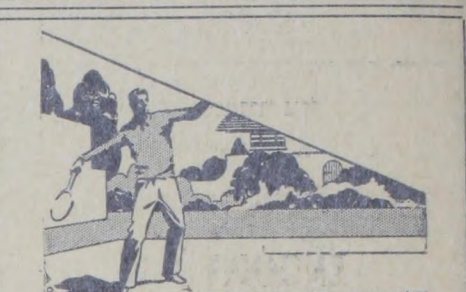

The Young People's Open House will feature an "April Shower Sociable" Sunday evening at 5:40 at the First Methodist church. These Sunday evening social hours are proving most popular.

Lorado Taft, the sculptor, has produced a stage show which was presented by Chicago school children.

A.W.S. Election To Be Held Tomorrow

Co-eds of Texas Tech will vote tomorrow in the annual Association of Women Students election. At that time ballots will be cast for president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. To date nominations for the office are: Hazel Gruber, president; Alice Beckett, and Doris Ladd Johnson, vice-president; and Ruth

Thompson and Geneva Adamson, secretary-treasurer. Additional nominations will be announced today. The A. W. S., a national organization of women students, holds its annual convention in Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22 to 27. Texas Tech will be represented by a delegate, probably one of the officers elected in tomorrow's election. Ballot boxes will be placed in the Home Economics building and in the Administration building. All women students of the college are eligible to vote.
