3,601 Attend Fourth Annual Show At Tech

Eleven Hundred People File Through To View Engineering Exhibits During Last Two Hours Of Show

Canadians Here Engineering Buildings Were Effectively Lighted During Both Nights; Broadcasting Station Operated

BY LLOYD GLOVER Treador Staff Writer

The engineers have triumphed again! With 1100 people going through the fourth annual engineering show in the last two hours Saturday night, the total registered attendance swelled to 3,601, equalling the attendance reached last year when the show was open to the public three days. People visited the show from the two extremes of our country—New York, and Canada—besides dozens from neighboring states. Although the show managers were handicapped financially, spending only one fifth as much money as last year, the departments carried practically as many extra exhibits as before. Through the cooperation of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce sending invitations to all principals and superintendents in this territory, the show managers state as many out of town people saw the show as in previous years.

Hopper Pleased The show was very successful, not only from the standpoint of attendance, but from information and entertainment as well. The people were not unruly and they were easily conducted through the buildings, stated Sum Hopper, general director of the show. The fella col, generating a million volts, filling a room full of lightning, attracted more people than any one event in the entire show, especially attracting the women and children. The broadcasting station attracted many people through its good programs and its method of gaining attention. The textile mills offered the most interesting variety of instruction and information, going from the cotton, which was grown on the campus, to the finished cloth. Each department contributed its share of tricks and stunts.

Buildings Lighted The engineering building was effectively lighted at night with floodlights of varied colors shining on the second story of the main building. "Selscher," the dog in the M. E. work shops with the fiery disposition, was a fitting close for the memory of the visitors and students.

Officers for the show were: Sam Hopper, senior, Lubbock, director; J. P. Cotner, junior, Lubbock, assistant, director; Bernard Dean, senior, Lubbock, publicity manager. Department managers were: Roy C. Davis, senior, Itasca, chemical engineering; John P. Foster, senior, Stratford, architecture; Jimmie Kerr, senior, Lubbock, civil engineering; Lloyd Reeves, junior, Dallas, textle engineering; J. G. Whitehurst, senior, Houston, mechanical engineer; Olaf Lodal, senior, Mineral Wells, electrical engineering.

Finally after getting into one "tangle" after another, she has disgusted Antonio and he is fixing to leave. This, among a few other incidents, makes Rosina realize her love for Antonio and she confesses it bravely. Antonio, who has been in love with her all the time, finally answers that "under the circumstances it is difficult to say no."

Graydon Ausmus and Margaret Lindsey have the leading parts in the play. Others in the cast are Donna Maria, Ruth Guess, and Don Louis, Carl E. Patterson, the parents of Rosina. Serafinita, Jay Gordon, serenades his sweetheart, Rosina, a great deal during the play; Rosina even vamps Enrique (Ellis Mills) who is the fiance of Tere-sita (Alice Mose Rogers).

Thousands Pay Last Respects To Tech Head

Simple And Impressive Ceremony Marks Funeral Services For President Paul W. Horn On Thursday Afternoon

Jones Makes Talk Several Colleges And Universities In State Have Representatives Here At Funeral Services

A simple and impressive ceremony marked the funeral services for President Paul Whitfield Horn, Tech's first and only president, on the campus lawn Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery.

Dr. Horn died suddenly Wednesday morning, April 12, following a heart attack which he suffered early that morning. He had been ill for some weeks, but was recovering and had expected to be back to his office in a few weeks. Thursday afternoon from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock, students and faculty members were allowed to view the body at the campus home. Several hundred, including many former students, filed by the casket during the afternoon.

Representatives Here One of the largest crowds ever to assemble at a funeral service was on the campus lawn, south of the administration building, Thursday afternoon to pay their last respects to the great educator and Texan. Representatives from many colleges including T. C. U., Baylor, Texas University, West Texas State Teachers college, Simmons, A. C. C., and North Texas State Teachers college, attended the service.

Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city of which President Horn was a member, opened the service and introduced Clifford B. Jones, president of the Tech Board of Directors, who spoke for a few minutes. Pall bearers were Deans J. M. Gordon, A. H. Leidigh, O. V. Adams, Business Manager W. T. Gaston, Registrar E. L. Life Story Of Dr. Horn Told In Daughter's Story

Article Appearing In Southwestern Magazine Is Reprinted

Editor's Note—In 1930 Miss Ruth Horn, daughter of the late President Paul W. Horn, wrote an article about her father for the Southwestern Magazine, a publication in Southwestern university at Georgetown where Dr. Horn was president for one year before resigning to become head of Texas Tech. This article appeared in the May issue, 1930, of the magazine and is being reprinted by special permission. I began to write also at an early age. One of the treasures of our library is a scrap book that he started when he was eight, in which he pasted stories and poems from church papers, wrote original articles, and kept a sort of inverted diary; that is, instead of reciting each day the events of the day preceding, he made out his schedule for the day that was to follow. This habit of looking forward instead of back is one of my father's characteristics, and undoubtedly partly accounts for the fact that he has stayed young through his unusually busy years. The following is a typical entry: My plans for May 14, 1917. Read the Bible until six; breakfast. From half after six to seven read. From seven to ten chop wood. From ten to 12 read. Chop wood from twelve to one. Eat. From one to three chop wood. From three to five chop from five to six. Eat. Read.

Slaviansky Russian Chorus To Appear Here Tomorrow Night In Dancing And Singing Skits

Program To Be Given In High School Auditorium; Prices Reduced For Tech Students; Features Cast Of 21

The Slaviansky Russian chorus to appear in a program of dancing and singing at the high school auditorium tomorrow night has met with acclaimed success in a triumphant tour which has covered 50 nations during the past three years. Directed by the Princess Agrevena Slaviansky, the organization composed of 21 men and women will present a program of Russian dancing and Slavic folk songs in native costume.

During the second American tour the singers, dancers, and orchestra have been playing concerts in the leading cities, theatres, and churches of the countries and have been awarded over a hundred medals and special decorations from all over the world. They have expressed their opinions of the chorus as "having one of the greatest musical attractions in the world. They have featured in the United States within the past three years, "The Miracle Play," "The Passion Play" at the Hippodrome in New York, and fifteen capacity concerts in the Carnegie Hall in New York. The choir was first organized in 1858, by Alexandrovitch Agrevena-Slaviansky, father of the princess, who dedicated his life to the unearthing of the simple Russian folk songs that were rapidly sinking into oblivion. He began his work with a quartet, giving concerts throughout Russia, frequently appearing before the court of Alexander II, and brought the group to America for the first in the early 80's.

After the death of her father, the daughter, Princess Slaviansky, has carried on her work, presenting his concerts all over the world. Mademoiselle Mara Slaviansky, daughter of the choral director, soprano soloist and accompanist, is one of the outstanding members of the chorus. The sale of tickets to a table quartet, giving concerts throughout Russia, frequently appearing before the court of Alexander II, and brought the group to America for the first in the early 80's.

Administrative Power Is Given To Tech Deans

An Acting President Is Not To Be Appointed; Roscoe Wilson And Mrs. Mary Doak Will Be Associated With Officials

Four Deans Named Deans Gordon, Leidigh, Adams, Weeks, And Doak Take Charge Of College Business; Board To Act Slowly

The administrative authority of Texas Technological college is now vested in a council of academic deans, according to Clifford B. Jones, president of the board. Mr. Jones indicated that no acting president will be appointed, but the council of deans will assume all power until a permanent president is appointed to take the place of the late President Paul W. Horn who died April 13.

Deans composing the council are listed and have power in the following order: Dr. J. M. Gordon, school of liberal arts; A. H. Leidigh, of the school of agriculture; O. V. Adams, of the school of engineering; and Miss Margaret Weeks, of the school of home economics. It is likely that Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean of women, will be closely connected with the board as will Mr. Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock, vice chairman of the Board of Directors.

During the late president's illness this year the council of deans attended to much of the business of the college, although Dr. Horn was in touch with all official matters at all times prior to his death. Mr. Jones indicated that no permanent president would be appointed for several months.

TECH WILL CARRY ON

This student body and faculty is stunned by the untimely death of their first and only president—but Tech will carry on!

Texas Technological college will carry on because it has instilled in its soul that "never dying" spirit so vividly taught by its first president Paul Whitfield Horn. Tech will carry on because Dr. Horn would have it do so.

As time goes on there will arise a man who will eventually take over the work of Dr. Horn. But the Toreador is of the opinion that to completely fill Dr. Horn's place now is an impossible task.

Texas Tech will move on to become even greater and become that exceedingly great institution that its first president visualized. It is His wish that we do so.

THE SUMMER SESSIONS

To those students who have made no definite plans for the summer, The Toreador suggests they look over the schedule for Tech's two summer sessions.

This summer will be an extra good time to go to school; jobs will be scarce, and positions that may be open will not pay any large sums.

So if you're debating what to do during hot months, look over the summer schedule and go to summer school, for one term at least. It'll be the most profitable thing you can do.

A GOOD SHOW

To the engineers, The Toreador offers congratulations for the excellent show put on Friday and Saturday.

All demonstrations were well carried on, excellent cooperation was shown among the engineering students, and one of the best shows in the history of the schools was exhibited.

To Sam Hopper and his faithful helpers go merited congratulations.

BASEBALL IS IN THE AIR

Baseball is in the air and its catching among Tech students.

Each afternoon several students have a light work out and a few baseball games already have been played. There are few sports that will satisfy the average American during the hot days as the old favorite National sport, baseball.

It would be a good idea if some smart campus organizer could form a regular Tech league, with scheduled games for the rest of the year, each team playing two or three games a week. It is probable that some of the social clubs would enter teams, and it is certain enough teams would enter to form a nice league.

Tech awaits some enterprising young man to do the organizing.

Holden Gives First Lecture

"The Agrarian Problem" is Subject of First of Series of Speeches Being Sponsored by Tech YMCA

Presenting the first of a series of lectures on "The Modern World and Man's Adjustment to It," Dr. W. C. Holden of the Tech history department spoke Monday Apr. 11 on "The Agrarian Problem." These lectures are being sponsored by the Tech YMCA. Glynn Coker is chairman of the committee having charge.

Dr. Holden, speaking to a large crowd in room 302 of the administration building, began with a discussion of the fall of the Roman Empire. After pointing out the cause for its final fall in 476 A. D., he discussed the three great depressions of the United States. The first depression, according to Dr. Holden, was from 1815-37; the second 1866-98; and the third we are now experiencing.

Farmer Has Been Victim Throughout the lecture, Dr. Holden pointed out the problems that had faced the farmer. "During the first period of depression," said Dr. Holden, "the American farmer picked up his household goods and moved West. He did likewise during the second panic, but now there is no wilderness to go to. The American farmer has been the victim of all three of our deflations."

Miss Mabel Howell, former home economics student, is now teaching vocational home economics in Hedley, Texas.

TIME AND TIDE

BY WILL BRISBARTON

LIFE is out of our hands. We must make it as it happens, take it quietly, with as little outcry as possible.

There is nothing we can do when the hand of death has struck. In the Nature moving in Her eternal cycle. We ourselves are a part of the process and are moving in the same cycle. All we can do is to adjust ourselves to events, share one another's sorrows. Life shuffles the cards, we must play out the hand that is dealt us. This is the game and the game is worth the playing. Tributes are but splendid gestures of gratitude and grief is not assuaged by words of wisdom. Our feelings baffle expression. Before the void of the tomb there is no wisdom. The heart can only dumbly wonder and wait, serene in the assurance that death will most certainly return to heal every wound she has made.

His living was crowded with human sympathy, with kindness, with unselfish service, with achievement. He was a man with the humility of the truly great, the efficient mind of the born executive, the heart of a poet. He possessed the scholar's love of learning, the educator's patience and vision, the patriot's love for principles of freedom and justice. He had unshakable faith in democracy, believed in the "extraordinary possibilities of ordinary folk." He believed in tolerance, in freedom of conscience. There is no room for regret in the life of Dr. Horn. There is no tragedy in the death of one who has lived so richly.

Our personal loss is not measurable; Tech's loss is equally great. We know not what the future holds, but it is certain there will not be another Dr. Horn. Whoever comes as his successor cannot be the same. He cannot be expected to be as good as he. We will respect and defend the principles for which he lived. And his spirit will move in the life of the campus and bear fruit in our living and in the lives of those who come after us.

His gift of himself to us has been sealed by death. Though cut off in the midst of achievement he lived so genuinely, so truthfully, that his life is complete. Tech will not let him die. We will keep his spirit alive and real. We will follow the star of his idealism. We will respect and defend the principles for which he lived. And his spirit will move in the life of the campus and bear fruit in our living and in the lives of those who come after us.

With our friend, Allene Ruston, who lost her mother last week, we bow in grief.

To a beloved former teacher, Dr. Jackson, in his hour of bereavement, this column extends deepest sympathy.

Springtime chirpers
Poetry, the language of the gods, is also the tongue in which many of us do some liping before we become definitely convinced that we should confine our utterances to language more suitable to commonplace mortals. On the Tech campus I have no doubt there are many students who occasionally attempt to write verse. Now that it is springtime and the young man's fancy is lightly turning—and the young woman's yearning is brightly fancying—you see it's as easy as all that—there ought to be quite a few of you wrinking your brows over attempts to pen verse.

Now I'll make a trade with you. If you'll bring me—or send me—the results of your poetical endeavors I'll devote this column, and as much more space as I can talk Mr. Formby out of, to printing the poems of Tech's amateur poets. That's all right. No one need be bashful. I've written enough bad verse in my time that I'll not be the first to cast a stone at you—either literally or figuratively—and that's an assurance not always given scribes of verse. Sign your name, or a fictitious name, and don't sign any "at" doesn't make a darn—and mail it or bring it to the Toreador office addressed to Will Brisbarton. Anything you take the trouble to read and if I like it—that's the only way I know how to judge anything—I will see that you break out in print with it. Contributions must be in the hands of the editor by Saturday noon.

are the real martyrs of their country, and small thanks they get for it. If they do live and are unwittingly turned loose, some co-ed will grab her skirt and shriek when she sees them, and their lives will end in a mousetrap or some other infernal machine.

But whatever their views may be on the matter, there they now are in the home economics kitchen, and there they will be for the next six weeks. Although their prison term began only Tuesday, they have already fallen into the monotonous routine of the convict. Sleeping, preening, and sympathizing with each other, they pass the hours, waiting for their one daily meal.

Mowery, assisted by a group of seniors and juniors, had charge of the vocational agriculture and 4-H club stock judging contests at the Fifth Annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show in Plainview last week. Tech students who assisted were: Curtis Williams, Jimmie Potts, Harlan Howell, Ben Jenkins, and Buford Browning.

The object in taking the students was so that they could function as superintendents here next year, according to Mr. Mowery.

Hereford won the vocational agriculture judging with 15 teams competing. This is the same team that took second place at the contest here two weeks ago. The 4-H club judging contest was won by Lamb county with six teams competing.

Crabroton and Hereford tied for high place in the poultry show which is being conducted independently at Plainview. Jason Gordon, a junior at Tech, is superintending the show, and Robert Huser, E. G. Cagle, and Painter Wiley acted as assistants.

Plainview Bulldogs Win In District League Meet Here Saturday In Track Events

Seven Old Records Fall As Youths Of District 2 Gather For Annual Meet Here; Brownfield High Is Second

Seven district records fell Saturday when athletes from district 2 gathered here to vie for honors. Plainview's Bulldogs won the meet. The Bulldogs amassed a total of 31 points, and Stoddard, general handy man of the Plainview force, was high point man of the day with 16 1-4 points. He won the 230 yard dash, was second in the 100, third in the javelin and was a member of the winning relay team.

The Brownfield High school Cubs took second place with 18 points. Coach Marlin Hayhurst's team successfully defended the second place title won here last year in the district meet and provided the crowds with more than one thrill.

Jim Neill of Brownfield started the record-breaking stunts when he did the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.5 seconds, just half a second over the state record held by Leo Baldwin of Wichita Falls since 1924. Neill, by the way, was second high point man of the day, that is he was tied with Borden of Dickens for second place. The former district record for the event was held by C. Hooper of Olton at 15.7 seconds.

Graham of Brownfield slung the javelin for a 194-yard ride, the wind helping him, make it a trifle. But it was the unorthodox direction and he had to throw it into the wind for 176 feet, 7 inches to establish a new record anyway. He lacked only 2 short feet of attaining the state record, but it was far enough to win and far enough to break the old district record of 168 feet, 10 inches held by Curb of Adair.

Smith of Plainview ran a half mile race that would have been a credit to Smokey Brothers when he broke the former district mark of 2 minutes, 4.4 seconds and set a new one of 2 minutes, 2.5 seconds. The state record held by Goodright of Lubbock held the old record.

The old quarter-mile dash mark slipped as Olin Norris of Coach Bearden's Lamesa Tornados ripped around the oval once in 52.1 seconds breaking the former record held by Howley of Lubbock by four tenths of a second.

A new time of 3 minutes, 34.6 seconds was set by Plainview's mile relay team. The Lubbock relay team of 1927 held the former mark which was three tenths of a second slower than Plainview's time.

Dalton Elage proved further that the can-do thing breeds further right out for bi-district football champions when he slapped the old broad jump record in the face with a leap of 23 feet and 1 inch. Thatcher of Croton held the former mark at 21 feet, 7 1-2 inches.

Hooper of Olton broke the 100 yard hurdle record for the district in 24.9 seconds. The state mark is 24 flat, and the old district record was 25.5 held the Hooper's big brother, who used to attend Olton High school.

That was all of the record breaking. The other races were worth watching and the big grandstand at Tech Field was half filled with cash customers for most of the day. Bowden, from Dickens, an unassuming lad but a great hand when it came to the short distance races, was a popular figure. He won the 100 yard dash in 19.1 seconds, just a tenth of a second short of the district record; took second place in the exceedingly fast 220 yard dash and third in the high hurdles. Cobb, another Dickens lad, took third place in the pole vault with a play-off leap of 10 feet, 11 inches, the same height at which Woody of Littlefield won the event. Cowan of Lubbock lost in the jump-off, but his fourth place height was 10 feet, 10 inches, same as Altman's second jump. Cobb won a year ago at 10 feet, 6 inches.

Tennis honors were divided between four schools. Leroy Crews of Wilson won the boys singles championship by defeating T. V. Coppeland of Lockney, 6-2 and 6-4, in the final match. Crews played in the Wilson doubles team with Shaw which lost to Floydada's team of Truett Smalley and Marion Heald, 7-3, 6-3, 4-6, and 6-4.

Crews defeated Albert Sims of Lubbock, 6-1, 8-5, in a semi-final match earlier, and Coppeland had previously downed Jim Britt of Liberty, 6-4, 6-3. The Wilson doubles team defeated Sudan's team of Lench and Weeks, 6-2, 6-3, in a semi-final match, and Floydada won the right to the finals with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Goode and Ackinson of Mulahoe.

In the girls singles, Stella Mae Green of Levelland defeated Helen McDonald, McAdoo, 6-0, 6-3. Green had defeated Dorothy Newberry of Meadow in a semi-final and McDonald had beaten Lucile Williams of Crosby county.

The girls doubles team of Petersburg, composed of Mildred Sell and Matejka Gregory defeated Stanton's team of Wilma Hazelwood and Conny Jones in a thrilling three-set game, 6-2, 4-6 and 6-1. The Petersburg girls had previously beaten Lockney's team of Rachel Graves and Agness Cooper. Stanton's team had defeated Shallowater's team of Freddie Fite and Nola Mary Hollyfield in the semi-finals.

The girls volleyball team of Croton defeated Lamesa's Tornados Queens, 16 to 14, in the final match. Lamesa's Golden Tornados defending their district title won last year, were hard pressed and poorly missed the services of Hill and Wiggins and Addison, who helped them to a district title after they had won the Tech Relays.

Tech Golfers Will Visit The Simmons Courses First; Return Match Is Planned To Be Played At Meadowbrook

A tentative golf match has been arranged with Simmons to be played there sometime the first of next month. Later it is planned for Simmons to give a return match to be played over the Meadowbrook golf course.

The match to be played in Abilene will be over the Crescent course. At present the Cowboys are holding a tournament there in order to determine the rating of their players.

For the first time the Texas conference officials have recognized golf as a major sport. The strength of the Cowboy team is unknown but according to press reports they have material which will bear watching. The Crescent course where the

Under The Double "T"

BY LYLE HOLMES Toreador Sports Editor

This boy Graham from Brownfield who carried away honors in the javelin throw at the district 2 meet here Saturday had better be watched by some of the aspiring athletes who intend to compete at the state meet in Austin in the javelin event. Graham threw the javelin into the wind for a distance of 176 feet officially. After the contest he threw the javelin unofficially with the wind 194 feet. This is about four feet further than the state record. And the main thing to keep in mind is that the contestants will have the advantage of the wind in Austin, then just watch this boy go.

Besides Graham there were plenty more athletes who could make a splendid showing anywhere they go for track and field competition, for instance Stoddard. Stoddard holds from Plainview and was high point man of the meet. He won just about everything he entered, placing in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, the discus, javelin, and was a member of the Plainview team which won the mile relay. The thing which Pete Cavithon could not understand about this boy was the fact that his father would not let him play football. Pete was at work finding out all he could about this almost perfect athlete when someone informed him that Stoddard's parents would not permit him to play football of any kind. It's moments like this that cause coaches to go crazy, "so they tell me."

Neill of Brownfield made an excellent showing by placing in the discus, and the high and low hurdles. He had legs that would measure about 18 inches around the calf, just about the size of Duwell's. Picador full-back the past season.

Besides the visiting athletes named above there were several more who were good enough to make almost any track team. Tech will no doubt benefit both directly and indirectly by having such athletes visit her campus and school.

Coach Cavithon will probably take as many of the Matador gradsters to El Paso as possible so he can make some kind of an estimate as to their ability. In all probability no one man will see more than two quarters of service and most of them will not get to play that long. It is our guess that the Matadors are going to run those Miners ragged when they tangle Monday.

Matador racket wielders who have been making excellent showing and who in all probability will make the journey to Amarillo April 23, are Homer Roberts, W. B. Rushing, Jimmy Whitesides, and Cecil Bickley. The past two weeks have been very best in the Southwest.

Matadors Play Miners Monday

Spring Football Game Will Be Played In El Paso Monday And Matadors Will Attempt To Get Revenge

Saxon will entertain Pete Cavithon and his Matadors at an afternoon of football in El Paso Monday. The party is booked as a friendly affair but it is probable that the Matadors will release all they have got in an effort to gain revenge for the game they dropped to the Miners in El Paso last winter.

Since the Miners are the stronger of the two teams on Tech's spring football schedule, they will be forced to "shoot the works" against the Matadors. Past Miner games indicate that most of the "shooting will be via the air. A clever passing attack coupled with some dazzling running by Saxon's backs was responsible for the 14-12 trimming handed Tech last winter.

Facing two spring games, one with the Miners in El Paso, and another with the Buffs in Canyon, the Matadors will be forced to their limit. However, Capt. Ayres and his Matadors feel capable of handling the situation.

The Matadors will leave Sunday via special bus and will return Tuesday.

SOME FACTS ABOUT TEXAS

Texas is first in area and fifth in population in the United States. It is exceeded in population only by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio. The next four states which Texas exceeds are California, Michigan, Massachusetts and New Jersey.

Texas has an area of approximately 90 per cent more than Germany and 25 per cent more than France. Its population is about one-tenth of Germany and one-seventh of France. This shows the possibilities for vast development of Texas.

Texas is first state in railroad mileage, having 16,711.05 miles. Texas joined the Union in 1845. El Captain is the highest elevation in Texas, being 9,020 feet. This is the twelfth highest elevation in the United States.

Justice and liberty are no longer dreams of the future. They are dreams of the past.

used effectively for practice and it is to be supposed that the Matadors will be in fair shape for the Badgers.

Several students in Tech will be members of the golf teams of either the Meadowbrook or Country club courses which will compete in the recently formed golf league. The league includes the following towns: Plainview, Lubbock, Elton, Post, and Tahoka.

Tennis Men Plan Matches

Coach O. C. Corry And His Tennis Men Prepare For Invasion Of Badgerland April 25; To Play Six Games

Coach O. C. Corry and his racket wielders are putting in every afternoon possible practicing for their invasion of Badgerland, Saturday, April 25, the Matadors will play the Badgers in Amarillo. Six matches will be played, comprising four single matches and two doubles. The personnel of the Matador team will probably be Rushing, Roberts, Bickley, and Whitesides with Toothache, as an alternate.

Coach Corry urges every one who is interested to try for the team so that the best available material may be picked.

Resume Of Tech's 1931 Football Record Told By Toreador Writer

Tech's eleven won seven of the ten games appearing in its schedule in 1931. It has been pointed out that had Texas Tech been a member of the Texas, Texas Intercollegiate, Border, and Rocky Mountain conferences the Matadors would have finished the season as champions of four conferences. Tech defeated Canyon and Abilene Christian of the T. I. A. A., drubbed Colorado Mines of the Rocky Mountain conference, whipped New Mexico University and New Mexico Aggies of the Border conference, and handed Simmons of the Texas conference a bitter defeat. Every member of Cavithon's large squad contributed his best during the season. Jack Durham, vice captain of the team, was the shining light of a bright campaign. Durham, shifted from his regular berth at center to a guard position, fought off injuries and tough breaks to justify his team-mates belief that he was a fighting leader. Durham climaxed his college football career down in Abilene against the Simmons Cowboys in a manner that brought rounds of applause from both sides of the field.

Galaxy of Backfield

Tech's backfield, or backfields, fairly glittered with brilliancy. "Sporty" France, co-captain elect, treated Matador fans to exhibitions of broken field running that came mighty close to over-shadowing the reputation of Tech's greatest backfield man, Ransome Walker. France handled his punting assignment in tip-top shape and was a power on the defense. Harold Crites - and what a game that boy played against Simmons Cowboys - "Speed" Moffett, who learned the art of calling signals over-night, "Eliak" Close, former Wayland star, "Buffalo" Nichols, another of the heroes of the Simmons game, and "Leroy" Crews will all be back for next fall's campaign. Out of this assortment of backs plus a dozen freshmen stars, Cavithon will mould an offense that should carry Tech through another big season.

Powerful Line Returns

Line coach "Dutch" Smith rounded out a heavy and powerful line to open the holes for Cavithon's shifty backs. Sophomores filled in vacancies left by graduation and ineligibility in great shape. The truth of the matter is that sophomores just about stole the whole show as far as the line was concerned. "Terrible" Tribble, Tech's threat for All-Southwest center honors, came up from yearling ranks to win a place on the All-Time All-Texas Tech eleven. Tribble, they say, made about half the feature of the meeting was Bob Allen's crooning of popular songs.

Miss Effie Eklund is in charge of the home demonstration market at Texas avenue and 14th street. Miss Eklund is a former student in the school of home economics.

Tech Fails To Get '34 Meet By Two Votes

Gist, Smith, Read, Flowers And Patterson Are Tech Representative At Meet In Pennsylvania

The next national meeting of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geology fraternity, will be held at the University of California at Berkeley the first week in April of 1934. Tech missed getting the convention by two votes. This was a statement made recently by Mr. Morgan Gist, president of the local chapter.

The representatives of the Tech branch were Morgan Gist, Macon Smith, Sibley Read, Malcolm Patterson and Jack Flowers.

Leaving here early in the morning of March 28, the delegates travelled through the south and eastern states and arrived at State College, Pennsylvania, March 30.

The following elections were made: E. F. Schramm, University of Nebraska, president; H. M. Bullard, Texas university, vice president of the southwest division; Clark B. Carpenter, Colorado School of Mines, secretary and treasurer; W. A. Tarr, University of Missouri, editor, and C. A. Bonine, Penn State, historian.

A field trip was a special feature of the meeting. The representatives were shown some formations near State College, Pa.

The delegates visited the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C. Also they visited the national capital building, the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Mount Vernon, and Washington's Monument.

Six Students Attend Meeting

Tech Well Represented At International Relations Meeting At University Of New Mexico Last Week-End

Six Tech students, accompanied by professor M. E. Ogdan have returned from Albuquerque New Mexico, having been guests of New Mexico university at the second annual conference of the West Texas-New Mexico International Relations clubs. The meeting took place in delegations from six different colleges and universities, and the program consisted of an intensive study of world affairs, with a strong focus on the situation in the Far East and the disarmament question.

James Toebaker, of Tech, was elected recording secretary to the conference to meet at New Mexico A. and M. Las Cruces, next year, and he spoke in the business session Saturday afternoon, reporting on the activities of the Tech club during the past year. Frank Ward and Canon Clements had part in the debate concerning the stand that the United States should have taken in dealing with the Sino-Japanese situation, which was one of the main features of the Saturday program, and Professor Ogdan, who was instrumental in organizing the conference that had its first meeting here last year, presided over one of the meetings Saturday morning.

Other Tech students attending the meet were: Christine Settle, Canon Clements, Solon Clements, and Doyle Settle.

President J. F. Zimmerman, of N. M. U., gave the welcome address before the conference, was general manager of the activities, and hosts to the guests. Miss Ursula Hubbard, of New York city, connected with the Carnegie Endowment that sponsors the organization and work of the International Relations clubs throughout the various college campuses, also was among prominent persons giving addresses. Other speakers were professors from the different colleges represented in the conference.

The member clubs are: University of New Mexico, New Mexico Normal university, New Mexico State teachers college, West Texas State Teachers college, Texas Tech, and Wayland college. Clubs invited to participate in next year's conference are: New Mexico A. and M., New Mexico Military Institute, New Mexico School of Mines, Sul Ross State Teachers college, Texas College of Mines and Metallurgy, Amarillo Junior college.

Tarzan, The Ape Man Is Coming

"Tarzan, The Ape Man" Edgar Rice Burroughs' widely-read African adventure novel, has been brought to the screen under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, of "Trader Horn" fame, and will be shown starting Thursday, April 28, at the Lindsey Theatre.

Because the hero of this story is a white man who has been brought up in the jungle and lives like the apes in the tree-tops, making his way by swinging through them from limb to limb, difficulty was encountered in finding someone of sufficient athletic prowess to fill the exacting role.

Has Perfect Physique The problem was solved when Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer and one of the finest examples of masculine physiques, was cast as Tarzan. Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith, as leaders of an English safari seeking ivory wealth, Maureen O'Sullivan as Smith's daughter, Doris Lloyd, Forrester Harvey and Ivory Williams fill the remaining principal roles.

Miss Marguerite Williams spent the week end visiting her parents in Lovington, N. Mexico.

Life History Of Dr. Horn

from supper till eight, then retire.

If a day divided thus between reading and wood chopping seems a bit strenuous for a nine-year-old boy, one may withhold excess sympathy, since the next entry contains the naive confession:

Was interrupted and so could not. His earliest piece of literary composition that I can find was written in 1878 at Columbia, Missouri, and reads as follows:

Some books are very good. But not all. They are in three classes, first good, second, useless, third bad. Good books are very profitable. The opposite of bad ones. They should be used a great deal more than they are. It is good to write good things too. If one never wrote none would read. And if none read none would write. Useless books are no account books that cannot profit you any.

Why is it that people take more to trashy and bad books than to good? Now I will close. Love good books, hate bad. Don't like useless.

The style and spelling, if not the handwriting of the author have improved with time, but his belief in the reading and writing of good books is as firm today as it was when he was eight.

He graduated high school at Boonville, when he was fourteen, attended Central college at Fayette for a year, then taught a county school for a four-month term at a salary of twenty dollars a month.

He selected as his boarding place the house that had the greatest number of chickens and turkeys in the yard, only to learn from experience that the fowls were raised for the market and not for the home table. He says that he saved a greater per cent of that salary than he has saved from any salary he has drawn since.

He returned to Central college the next year, and in 1888, when he was eighteen, he received his master's degree from that institution. Central and Fayette are about ten miles from Boonville, which was home to the young collegian, but he packed his trunk and made the journey by train in the fall, returning at Christmas for the first time. So long a pilgrimage was not to be undertaken lightly, but was an event requiring preparation and forethought.

Central was a small college where the literary and debating societies flourished. There would have been no necessity for a Carnegie foundation if it had been a Carnegie to investigate Central in those days for subsidized athletics. There were no football, baseball or basketball teams, and no intercollegiate games. There was leisure for reading and thinking.

My father at eighteen still subscribed to the sentiment he had written down at eight. He not only believed in the good books, but read them. He devoured the pages of Dickens, Scott, Thackeray, Shakespeare, Carlyle, and Chaucer, and today at unexpected times will come forth with a long quotation from the prologue to the Canterbury Tales. Perhaps it was in freshman days that he acquired a distaste for the excessively busy man. The person who has so much to do that he never has time to do anything is regarded by my father with suspicion. He feels that man, like the sergeant-at-law of Chaucer, seems busier than he is. I think I have never known a more active person than my father, yet I cannot recall his ever being too occupied to do anything that needed to be done.
