Alpha Chi Will Initiate New Groups Today

Fifty-Nine Juniors And Seniors Are Eligible For Installation
ALPHA Chi, Tech chapter of the national scholarship society, will meet this afternoon at 5 o'clock to initiate the upper ten per cent of the junior and senior classes, which includes 24 eligible seniors and 35 juniors. Approximately ten graduates will be eligible to join; however, they will be initiated at a later date.
Katherine Leidigh of Lubbock, junior home economics major, is also on the list of elected juniors by the membership committee. Anna Mary Baucom, of Lubbock, junior liberal art, was elected this week by the membership committee as being eligible to join. She was left off the original list because of confusion of classification.
Besides initiating the new members, and reinstating the old members, a vice-president will be elected, and a program and social committee will be appointed by the president.
Students who have been members of Alpha Chi and are in school this year, but are not on the elected list, are eligible to join. They are Ruth Douglas, John S. Ball, Madeline Hughes, Mrs. E. B. Kerr, Gertrude Sampson and Eugene Watkins.
Officers for the society are Lloyd Glover, president; Gertrude Sampson, secretary; Leon Ince, treasurer. Faculty sponsors are Dr. A. W. Evans, Mrs. W. B. Gates, and Mr. R. A. Mills.

Engineers Will Hear Speaker

Dallas Agent Will Lecture On EE As It Relates To Petroleum
A. I. E. E., a society composed of electrical engineering students met Tuesday night in a business meeting with Earl Mayo presiding. Twenty-five members were present. D. A. Ford was elected to represent the department of electrical engineering in formulating plans for the annual engineering show.
The second Tuesday in December a Dallas representative of the General Electric company will lecture to the A. I. E. E. on the subject, "Applied Electrical Engineering in Petroleum Industry." All other engineering branches are invited to hear the talk, which will be illustrated by lantern slides.
Plans for Tech to be represented at a district meeting of the Electrical Engineers society were taken up. Colleges of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Kansas will be present at the meeting to be held in Oklahoma City in the spring.
A committee was appointed to make arrangements for planning a page in La Ventana.

Dairy Club Plans Semester's Work

Two violin solos played by Lyle Donahoe were the feature of the program of the Tech Dairy club at its regular meeting last Monday night.
The club discussed the possibility of staging one-act plays in the high schools over West Texas, and also voted to cooperate with C. Luker in his educational cream grading program. It was decided to enter a club picture in La Ventana.
K. M. Renner, head of the dairy manufacturing department, will inform Aggie graduates of the activities and purposes of the club.
The program committee for the next meeting includes Guy Bratcher and A. B. Sigler. John Crawford was appointed temporary reporter.

New Desk Is Built For College Paper

A copyreader or "horseshoe" desk is being built for the Torreador and will be installed within the next few days. This desk, built in the shape of a horse shoe, is 12 by 6 feet, and offers space for the editor and four headline writers and copy readers.
Each of the five have ample room for copy paper and other supplies.
The Torreador office, located in the engineering building basement across from Tech Press, serves as a laboratory for journalism students.

Dramatic Club Initiates This Year's New Entries

Toreador Will Be Printed Day Early
Since there is an official holiday for the student body next Thursday, November 30, the Toreador will be distributed Wednesday morning instead of the usual Thursday morning.
All reporters and editors are requested to get all copy in the Toreador office not later than 6 p. m. Monday. Work on the front page will be done Monday night instead of the usual Tuesday night.
Reporters, the deadline for all copy is 6 p. m. Monday. Get your copy in on time!

Blanding Will Appear Here

Vagabond Author Speaks At Local High School December 3
Don Blanding, vagabond author, will appear here December 3 in the second artist course number of this year at the high school auditorium. His subject will be "A Vagabond's Wanderings."
Blanding is a native of Oklahoma. Besides being a successful writer, he is also a painter. Two of his most popular books, which he illustrated himself, are "The Vagabond's Home" and "Hula Moon." He has two more books scheduled for publication this winter.
While working his way through the Chicago art museum, Blanding painted the backdrop for Ben Hecht's first play, supered in opera and posed for artists. After a sketching trip through the United States and Canada, he went to Hawaii and spent seven years there and in the South Pacific. He became a favorite of the natives, was illustrated himself, at a great feast, and was named Alohi Lani, or "the light from heaven."
At the age of fifteen he began his wanderings and worked in banks, lumber camps, ranches, mines, as newspaperman, soldier, commercial artist, cartoonist, stage manager, actor, producer, poet, painter and playwright.

Methodist students lead in the number attending Texas Tech according to a religious affiliation survey made by Registrar W. P. Clement.
The 2431 students now in attendance are classified as follows: Baptists, 756; Baptist Missionary association, 2; Baptist (Primitive), 7; Catholic, 42; Christian, 127; Christian Science, 2; Church of Christ, 188; Congregational, 2; Episcopal, 32; Greek Orthodox, 1; Jewish, 2; Lutheran, 8; Methodist, 877; Nazarene, 5; Presbyterian, 191; Presbyterian (Cumberland), 15; no preference, 171.

Cadet Corps Begins Competitive Drill

Officers of the Texas Tech Cadet corps are drilling their men consistently for a competitive drill that will start between the battalions soon. No prize has been named yet for the winner but one will probably be offered.
Veterans of Foreign Wars of Lubbock are raising funds to furnish the Cadet corps with khaki uniforms. Helmets were given the national guard band by the veterans.
Non-commissioned officers have been organized for private instructions. Buck privates will continue close order drill until work on the guns begins.
Miss Esther Sorenson, district home economics supervisor, will have her office on the second floor of the home ec building.
Dean Margaret W. Weeks recently sent out a news letter to 128 home economics graduates.

Caesar's Head May Become A Spanish Dancer In Clay Modeling Laboratory

SIDE by side lay the illustrious head of Julius Caesar, a piece of Doric column, a lone Adam's apple, and one foot without toes.
When students in the new clay modeling course discard a piece of their art as an unworthy attempt, they throw it into a wooden box with the other 1500 pounds of clay. Here art again becomes common clay when water is poured over the mass to keep it wet and pliable. What was Caesar's head one day may be a Spanish dancer the next.
New Course
The course is being offered for the first time this year and is taught by Professor F. A. Klein-schmidt. Twenty-three students are enrolled in the class.
Two laboratories have been equipped in the basement of the engineering building. One is a workshop where drawings are made and plaster casts are taken of the completed models to preserve the best work, as the equipment does not yet include a kiln for baking the clay.
The other room is the modeling lab where students slap handfuls of clay onto a board, level it off for a base, and build the model on this base from a drawing or plaster cast.
Clay Is Sprayed
Aspiring artists dash around with sprayers, but it is not Henry bringing the flit. The sprayers contain water, which must be sprayed over the uncured work to keep it from drying and cracking. If a student neglects to keep the clay with which he is working damp, he will walk into lab some morning and find yawning cracks in his model.
Five or six tools are used in the work, not counting the hands, which get very dirty. The girls say clay modeling is hard on fingernail polish and that this is one line of work where lily white hands are no advantage to a woman.
Throughout the year, modeling will be done from freehand drawings and plaster casts. This week the class is modeling from original freehand drawings. Roman style.

World War Is Not Probable, Says Pender

Professor Lists Causes Of Unrest Among Naval Powers

IN spite of recent critical happenings in international affairs, there is no immediate prospect of another World War, Prof. H. C. Pender told members of the International Relations and Pre-Law clubs last Monday night. "Two vital factors are operating to prevent another such conflict," he said. "First, the people do not want a war, and second, the nations cannot afford war."
Causes of Unrest Cited
Mr. Pender outlined the causes of unrest in several of the leading countries. He told of Germany's propaganda system in Austria designed to unite Austria and Germany. This has had the effect of bringing Italy against Germany, and has served to unite England, France, Italy, and Czechoslovakia.
According to Mr. Pender, the election to be held in the Saar Basin in January gives promise of causing an embarrassing situation. Even if the residents of the Saar Basin vote for German rule, many important mines will still be in the hands of the French, which is sure to be a source of friction.
Naval Equality
Mr. Pender then discussed the recent demands of Japan for naval equality, and said the virtual result of Japan's action was the scuttling of the present Naval Disarmament treaties. This fact, along with Mussolini's recently announced policy of military training for every Italian boy over eight years of age, has been almost a death knell to hopes for disarmament. However, in spite of these developments, the nations of the world would do everything in their power to avoid another war, Mr. Pender believes.
James Toothaker gave a brief summary of seven new books which the International Relations club recently received from the Carnegie endowment for international peace.

Convicts Will Weave Cloth

U. S. Reformatory Plans To Install Weaving Equipment
Ray W. Guffy and Mr. Williams of the chief staff of the United States Southwestern reformatory at El Reno, Oklahoma, visited the textile school last Friday and Saturday inspecting handweaving looms and hand woven material made by the department.
Guffy and Williams took samples of all the handwoven material and blue prints of the hand looms back to El Reno, as they intend to install handweaving in the reformatory. The hand looms will be made by the convicts themselves in their wood shops. There are 900 boys and men in the El Reno institution ranging from the age of 17 on up.
The convicts will make all of their own uniforms, and most of their wearing apparel. They can not sell any of the material.
The two reformatory officials took back complete instructions on handweaving and are starting the convicts to work on hand looms. They intend to buy their yarn at first, and later on, will spin it.
Defendant Silent
Nelson still retains a moody silence and refuses to disclose anything to the press, other than to say that he does not think he will be convicted. He also stated that he thought the suit was just a publicity stunt of Miss Clements. The Toreador staff is supporting everything that Nelson says and will testify for him the night of the trial.
This will be the first mock Pre-Law trial of the year.

Gargoyle Society Stages Initiation

Gargoyle club, composed of architectural engineering and applied arts students, initiated new members Monday night in the engineering building.

TEXAS Tech's ninth annual homecoming November 15-16 was attended by approximately 500 alumni and ex-students, according to registration reports.
The celebration opened with a parade Thursday evening and a pep rally at Matador field, where floats, sponsored by campus and social clubs, were judged. First prize was awarded the Engineering society, second to the Dairy club, and third to the Aggie club. A trophy, which has not been selected, is to be given by the Student Council.

A supper was served for alumni, ex-students, and faculty members Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the dining hall of the women's dormitory. President Mart G. Pederson of the Alumni and Ex-Student association acted as toastmaster. Two minute speeches were made by approximately 40 persons. Ned Bradley and his orchestra furnished the music during the supper. Nelson Becomes Sullen, Silent As Lawyers Prepare Defense

Pre-Law Mock Libel Suit Will Be Held In Girls' Dining Room
Lawyers for the defense and prosecution have been retained in the Clements-Nelson libel suit, which will be tried on November 30 at 7 o'clock in the dining room of the girls' dormitory, with Chief Justice George "Huey" Long presiding.
Lawyers for the defense of Lester Nelson, editor of the Toreador, who is being sued by Dorothy Frank Clements, senior arts and sciences student and campus co-ed, for libel for an article which appeared in the Toreador, are Paul Eubanks, chief attorney for the defense, Cecil Morris and Ralph Brock.
Lawyers Named
Prosecution lawyers are Edwin Butler, chief attorney for the prosecution, Clay Thompson and John T. Howell.
Miss Clements says that she has been held up to ridicule to such a degree in this article that she is afraid to attend classes. She feels that it will take the best years of her life to live down the damage Editor Nelson has inflicted on her reputation in this article.

Dr. Standefer Will Speak On Austria To Campus Clubs

Dr. Standefer will speak on "Austria—Yesterday and Today," to members of the International Relations club, A. A. U. W., and Pre-Law club next Monday at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the lounge of the girls' dormitory.
The Lubbock doctor recently returned from a two month's visit in Austria, and was there at the time of the death of Chancellor Dollfuss. In his discussion he will emphasize general social conditions existing at the present time. The effect of the murder of Dollfuss upon the people of Austria will be brought out, and the present attitude of the people toward Germany.
Dr. Standefer will also give facts concerning the historical background of the country, and the main problems which Austria now faces.

Society To Print Booklet Of Talks

Plans for the Plains Museum society were discussed in a recent meeting of the executive council with Gus L. Ford, president, presiding. The society will meet in March.
The council authorized the publication of a booklet containing all addresses made at former meetings. This booklet is to be ready for distribution at the meeting in March.
Members of the council are Prof. Ford, W. G. McMillan, first vice-president; Vivian Johnson, treasurer; Dorothy Rylander, secretary and M. A. Stainbrook, curator. Sylvia Wilson, who was secretary for several years, has been asked to continue attending meetings.

A program of folk dances, music and songs representative of various nations is planned. The heads of the department suggest that guests come in costumes.
An all-college dance will follow the festival.

More Holidays

ACCORDING to the college calendar for this year, the student body will only have one day, Thursday, as a holiday for the annual Thanksgiving week-end.

The opening of college this year was delayed ten days in order that the two dormitories could be ready for occupancy, and this delay, no doubt, has caused several of the holidays which are ordinarily on a college schedule to be cancelled.

If only one day is given and that is Thanksgiving, many students who live near by will go home Wednesday, and a great many of them will cut classes Friday.

Usually, there has been a football game for the students on Thanksgiving, but this year, there is not even that prospect to keep them here.

Naming Our Buildings

THERE is an unusual situation existing on Tech campus; a problem that is getting more unusual and urgent as the years go by.

The football field is sometimes referred to as Tech field, Matador field, Stadium, Athletic field, and even the High School field.

To further complicate the present situation are the new dormitories. Already they have been christened numerous names.

Naming these buildings and the field should not be done unthinkingly but they will surely be named sometime!

Theoretically, under the old deal, every man could run his business as he saw fit. Actually, the time had come when he couldn't do anything of the sort.

Criticism, however necessary, is always an ungracious art.

Was it sheer love of liberty that made us thrust independence upon the Philippine Islands? Well, no. Sugar imports had something to do with it, and the beet sugar industry, and Cuban sugar, and immigration, and Japan.

The industrial practices brought about by NRA and other efforts toward recovery have inevitably left the doors still largely closed against youth.

CURRENT COMMENT

EDITOR'S NOTE: Representing over 400 college editors throughout the United States, the Association of College Editors recently released an open letter to William Randolph Hearst...

In a recent interview, you challenged all Americans: "If Americans have not lost their common sense and balance of judgment entirely, they will stop following sweet singers and smooth talkers some day and settle down calmly and reason out a few things for themselves."

The Association of College Editors, as stated in its Covenant, is dedicated "to stimulate the interest of students throughout the world in international understanding and co-operation in the hope of ultimately achieving and insuring international peace and security."

A NUMBER of us are settling down calmly to reason a few things out for ourselves. It struck us that one of the most pressing of today's problems is the controversy between "nationalists" and "internationalists."

You may recall that Beverly Nichols recently wrote a book called "Cry Havoc." Determined to delve to the bottom of the controversy between "nationalists" and "internationalists," Beverly Nichols hit upon the idea of bringing together a recognized spokesman for each side.

Sir Norman Angell, probable winner of the Nobel Peace Prize for this year, was selected and consented to brief the case for internationalism.

Sir Norman Angell drew up a set of questions, a cross-examination of nationalism. Nichols sent these questions to Lord Beaverbrook.

It strikes a great many college editors as a singular and significant fact, that in the wording of those questions, the word "America" may be substituted for the word "Britain"; the name "William Randolph Hearst" may be substituted for the name "Lord Beaverbrook," without lessening the spirit of the question, without lessening the tremendous importance to our generation of having an answer to those questions from the most intelligent champions of nationalism.

THROUGH the courtesy of Doubleday, Doran and company, publishers of "Cry Havoc," we reprint here the questions which Sir Norman Angell drew up (the underlined words, the substitutions are mine, the questions of my generation):

1. Does William Randolph Hearst agree that if we pile on our already shrunken and disordered economic system the further dislocations, unpayable debts, revolutions, which we now know are the necessary legacy of war and which so shook the relatively sound system of 1914, then it will probably finish off the present order in chaos?

2. Is it William Randolph Hearst's general view that the best way to prevent that recurrence is to continue the old armament competition and decline to discuss international agreement or organization? If so, on what grounds does he believe that the old method will not produce the old result?

3. For a nation to be secure under the competitive principle it must be stronger than any possible rival. What becomes of the rival? Is he to go without defence? How shall defence of each be managed under this plan since the necessity of the one means the insecurity of the other? Does William Randolph Hearst think that there is some system by which each can be stronger than the other?

4. If, in order to be secure, America must make herself stronger than a rival, does William Randolph Hearst suggest that that rival will accept the situation and not resort to alliance making? And if that rival makes alliances, is America to refrain from resorting to the same weapon? An alliance is an arm, like a battleship, or a submarine, adding to a nation's power. Are Americans to leave this arm entirely in the hands of prospective rivals?

5. From the time of Columbus to Lindbergh there has not been a single century in which America has not been drawn into the affairs of Europe. Does William Randolph Hearst really believe that, if isolationism was not possible... even in ancient times, a great Power, a Creditor Nation such as America, in the days of the aeroplane can continue to pursue isolationism?

6. To keep America free of general, or permanent, commitments and be guided by each circumstance as it arises, was the method pursued before the War. Although America had no league commitments in 1914 and men up to the last, and William Randolph Hearst Among Them, proclaimed how free their hands were, America was drawn in. Does William Randolph Hearst think that America could have kept out, that her entrance was a mistake?

7. If he thinks America's entrance was a mistake, would he have regarded the victory of the German powers, the creation, that is, of an hegemony so preponderant that America could not have resisted any demands that it cared to make upon Americans, as a matter of indifference? If so, why trouble about armaments at all... if it is a matter of indifference that combinations much stronger than America should rise?

8. If, on grounds of national security, America cannot accept the preponderance of a foreign combination, why should Americans expect foreigners to accept theirs, especially as their preponderance (the Allies) resulted in imposing upon their rivals a treaty which Mr. Hearst himself refers to as the "Utter Injustice of the Versailles Treaty?"

9. On the eve of the war, Sir Edward Grey declared that the only possible alternative to the saw-saw of the balance of power, by which the precarious defence of one was achieved by the depriving the other of all defence, was for both to pool their power to secure the observance of a common rule of international life, like arbitration of disputes: To build up what Asquith called the community of power behind the law. On what general grounds does William Randolph Hearst differ from that view?

THE significance, the importance of those questions is increased because there are TWO powerful men in TWO powerful countries to whom those questions may be put as to one man. Particularly for that reason, they must have an answer—not for the readers for the newspapers of either Lord Beaverbrook or William Randolph Hearst, but for us, the generation of young Americans who might have to fight another war if Lord Beaverbrook and William Randolph Hearst happen to be wrong, if "preparedness" does not preserve peace.

Yours is a tremendous influence in America. More than any other one man you represent the "Power of the Press" which you believe you have the power to lead millions of other Americans to believe. That is why it is so tremendously important that you explain and defend "nationalism" as opposed to the "internationalism" embodied in the spirit of the League of Nations, to those of my generation who are about to believe—one way or the other.

Yours very sincerely, Francis G. Smith, Jr., Editor, The Daily Princetonian, President, the Association of College Editors.

Novelty Dance Given By Club

Wranglers Use Football Motif For Program In Hilton Hotel

One of the cleverest dances of the year was given Friday evening by the Wrangler club in the ball room of the Hilton hotel from 7 to 9 o'clock.

The ballroom was transformed into a "football field." Goal posts wrapped in Tech colors were located at each end of the lined-off "field." College pennants, football colors of numerous colleges were hung around the room and the Wrangler crest was suspended above the orchestra pit and was supported by a huge football. Members of Jimmie Ross's orchestra which furnished the music, were dressed in Tech jerseys and football helmets. Novelty dance programs representing football programs were given. Special guests were the football squad and coach, Jim Kelley, of DePaul university. Other special guests were Mesdames Mary W. Doak and T. R. Caldwell, and Dean J. M. Gordon.

Wimpole Street History Is Revealed By English Professor At Baylor U. In Letter To Waco News Tribune

Elizabeth Barrett married Robert Browning, we know, but what became of the other Barretts is what we all want to know especially after seeing the recent movie, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

According to a letter in a recent issue of the Waco News Tribune, a resident of Waco let her curiosity go a little farther than the wondering stage and wrote a letter to Dr. A. J. Armstrong, head of the department of English at Baylor university, and a world recognized authority on Browning, asking him all the questions she had thought of after seeing the moving picture. He answered her letter with the following information:

Retired Colonel
Henrietta did marry her soldier and their son became one of the big men of England. He is now retired, being a colonel in the British army. Dr. Armstrong, because of numerous letters from the English gentleman, believes him to be a very prominent man in England, and thinks that he resents the slander that has been heaped upon his grandfather.

Dr. Armstrong tells that Miss Arabel, the elder sister, never married. He thinks she was evidently quite wealthy, "as were all the Barretts" and lived near Mr. Browning and her sister until the poet's death. Dr. Armstrong is of the opinion that she outlived Elizabeth, and says that she left all her money to the poet's son.

Palatial Home
Dr. Armstrong states that he is not quite sure what happened to the various boys of the family, but he is in correspondence with the daughter of George. The home of the Barretts in Lechlery, Dr. Armstrong recounts, is a magnificent estate—one of the most gorgeous in England—the place, built by the father of the Mr. Barrett in the play. Elizabeth lived there all her younger days and it was in Lechlery that she was thrown from her horse and hurt.

This was the content of Dr. Armstrong's letter and it serves to answer questions that have made people wonder after seeing the motion picture.

Matadors Play North Dakota State Bison Here Tomorrow

Thundering Herd Spends Week Here Preparing To Face Cawthon's Raiders

By JIM LINDSEY
Toreador Sports Editor

THE North Dakota Herd is not just another hurdle for the Matadors to jump, as many fans seem to think. The Thundering Buffaloes proved this by outplaying a rejuvenated Goldbug eleven in the Sooner State capital last week. It might be remembered also that the Bison defeated the University of North Dakota Sioux, champions of the North Central circuit.

From Austin come some reliable information concerning our good friend, "Stinky" Gunn. As the writer, a Texas U. Ex. asks us to present enough of the paragraphs to give the Tech students an insight into the opinion of Texas students about Mr. Gunn, we're obliging him. It is impossible to print the letter verbatim because of libel laws.

Here's the introductory sentences for your pleasure: "Of particular interest to me is your incessant gibing of the University of Texas just because an irresponsible, ten-sipping Stanley Gunn has been assigned the duty of attempting to write sports for the Daily Texan."

How's this, as he continues in the next paragraph: "... He is not the mouthpiece of the true opinions of this institution but is merely a member of the minority clique that controls the policies of the Daily Texan ... emitting from the typewriter of this boy Gunn is not representative of the opinions of the coaches, football players, faculty, students or alumni of the University of Texas."

In closing, the scribbler states "... I shall be grateful to you if you will print enough of this letter to let the Tech students know that the ... ideas of Stanley Gunn do not bespeak the true spirit of the University of Texas."

We are glad to receive this letter containing the facts about the Texas scribe. They coincide with those we have obtained from his acquaintances in the Hub City. Thanks for the correspondence.

It seems to be traditional for an opponent of Tech gridsters to flay the coaching staff of this school each season. Now the tutor of the Institute Cadet comes forth with the statement that New Mexico will sever athletic relations with Tech. And for what reason we ask? Just because of someone's personal opinion?

But let's get Coach Ballard's side of the controversy: "I merely asked the official for some information about certain plays during the game. And outside of this there was nothing to it."

According to the Picador mentor, the Cadet game went off like clock work. It was a smooth affair minus any discussion while the contest was in session. The story appearing in the local paper was more or less ballyhoo—merely some person's opinion. As to the feeling of the Institute student body toward Texas Tech, there is no friction existing, Ballard states.

This same thing occurred last season. Such action may be credited to the jealousy of the neighboring schools. Tech, being young as far as years count, has taken the limelight of these parts in an athletic way. The coaches and directors of the institutions of the surrounding territory realize the gradual fading of their representatives. They are retaliating by thrusting unjust and untrue criticism at the Mats in

Bullfighters Make Last Appearance Before Local Fandom

TOMORROW at 3:15 the North Dakota State Bison trot on the turf of Matador field to do battle with Texas Tech's Scarlet and Black crew, in the latter's final stand before local fandom.

Coaches Finnegan and Lowe brought their charges into Lubbock Sunday from Oklahoma City. Friday the North Dakotans romped over the Goldbugs, 13 to 8 in the Sooner State capital. The visitors have been working out daily on Tech field and should be acclimated, thus avoiding the much talked about altitude handicap.

Finished Second The Herd finished second in the North Central conference although they took a tough struggle from the champions, North Dakota university, 7-0. The Fargo eleven lost to South Dakota State Saturday week in their circuit contest.

In Fritz Hanson the Buffs present one of the best pigskin toters along the Canadian border. Known in that region as the "Fargo Express," the hula-hula hipster junior has been leading the scorers of the North Central loop for two seasons. Hanson made the Associated Press honor roll last year.

As a sophomore Hanson made three touchdowns against the Goldbugs. This year his teammates have him to thank for the victory over the Oklahomans. With the Fargoans trailing in third stanza, the speedy Dakotan caught a Bug punt on the three-yard line and scooted through Oklahoma tacklers for the winning touchdown.

Gove, The Punter Sharing the backfield honor with Hanson is Gove, husky full back. He has been getting off some nice punts in workouts this week and his kicking featured the Goldbug game. The rangy 195 pound lad hits the line with much gusto and backs up the forward wall in neat style.

Back in the forward wall after being out with injuries is Lyle Sturgeon. This 282 pounder possesses an abundance of power and specializes in throwing the opposing backs for losses. Sturgeon and Sam Dobersvitch, who handles the other tackle played the South Dakota game on the bench because of injuries. Both will be available for the struggle tomorrow.

Leo Gertels, regular quarterback, did not make the trip. Neville Reiners, who has seen much service this year will handle the brain-trusting duties for the visiting eleven.

Matadors Ready Earl Thomas, hard luck center is out for the remainder of the season. Stan Maynard, elongated pivot man from Minnesota, has been assigned the snapper-back responsibilities.

Having clicked with the precision of a well-oiled machine against the DePaul Blue Demons in the homecoming game, Coach Cawthon's boys took up training Monday with the same enthusiasm. The first workout of the week was of a light nature but Tuesday the Mats settled down to the task of getting in trim for the contest tomorrow. Big Jim Neill and D. M. McElroy are expected to be free from injuries in time to see service against the Buffaloes. Gaines Davis, came out of the DePaul skirmish with an injured leg. The scrapping guard has been on the sidelines this week and will not be able to play in the Dakota tussle. Otherwise, the Red Raiders are in good condition.

Probable starting lineup:
Texas Tech Pos. N. Dakota
Martin LE Marquardt
Holcomb LG Dobersvitch
Owen LT Bettachen
Priddy C Maynard
Davis RG Perschel
Williams RT Sturgeon
B. Gilmore RE Olson
Duval QB Reiners
Dowell RH Hanson
McKeever LH Schollander
Harris FB Gove

An effort to stop the march of the Scarlet and Black to new heights.

Purdue has been getting better with each game this season, observers say.

"Fargo Express"

Fritz Hanson, above, star halfback for the North Dakota Bison, will probably offer the biggest obstacle in the way of a smashing Matador victory in the game tomorrow.

Horne Keeps Tech Faculty Golf Title

Cecil Horne retained the Tech faculty golf championship by defeating F. L. McRee Saturday, 2 and 1 on the Meadowbrook course. McRee was medalist in the qualifying round.

James Atcheson beat W. L. Stangel, 4 and 2, to take the first eight championship.

Plans Are Underway For Special Train To Tucson

Plans are underway for a special train to Tucson for the Arizona-Texas Tech game there Thanksgiving Day. Santa Fe officials and Matador coaches are anxious to know the number of students interested in making the jaunt.

A round trip rate of $15 has been announced, providing as many as 100 tickets are purchased. The train will leave here Tuesday.

This is the last contest of the season for the Matadors. Thirteen members will be wearing the Scarlet and Black for the last time.

Mats Humble DePaul Eleven

Scarlet And Black Runs Wild Against Demons Of Chicago

A cliking Matador grid machine put on a colorful show for 4,000 Homecoming day spectators by running roughshod over the DePaul Blue Demons of Chicago, 48-19, at Tech field Friday.

A well-oiled machine in every sense of the word, the Matadors did everything with the pig skin but ride it. They filled the clouds with heaves to complete five for a gain of 125 yards. The Scarlet secondary scampered through wide openings in the line behind perfect interference to roll up 294 yards to less than a 100 for the invaders.

The visitors did their bit in staging the neat exhibition but their part in the drama ceased after the opening half when the Bullfighters took the leading role and kept it until the curtain dropped. Durkin unseled a beautiful run after snagging a lateral to furnish the fans with a thrill late in the second quarter. The Demon counters both came as a result of passes.

First Period Scoreless

The initial quarter was scoreless, with the invaders showing the way. It looked for a while that a struggle rather than a parade of touchdowns was the menu for the day.

But in the final minutes of the first quarter, the Tech offense began to function. The timekeeper's shot ended a drive by the local after action had been mostly between the mid stripe and DePaul.

DePaul fought hard in the last stanza but it was futile. Both clubs rung up a "touch" in the final minutes. Beauchamp grabbed a pass from McKeever and when greeted by three blue tacklers reversed and tossed a lateral to Gilmore who jogged over the last stripe.

The losers registered the last marker via the aerial route. Fay tossed a pass to Durkin who was downed on the three. The same combination put six markers on the board for the Chicagoans.

The Missouri Student, publication of the University of Missouri, made an open demand for a winning football team in an editorial this week.

Institute Cadets Bow To Picadors In Close Contest

Coach Ballard's Picadors took a hard fought contest from the New Mexico Military Institute, 8 to 6, at Roswell Saturday. The visitors carried the ball up and down the field almost at will but lacked the punch to push across the goal.

The Cadets were the first to register. A 30 yard pass put the ball on Tech's 5. Duffy, ramming signal chanter, for the losers, plunged through from here for the Institute's lone marker. The visiting linemen smothered the kicker in the attempt for extra point.

"Doc" Merrill and Ed Smith led the 50 yard drive for the Fish touchdown. The Freshmen failed to kick goal.

The difference between defeat and victory for the Tech first year gridgers came in the last stanza. Fullback Makin, standing in his end zones, tried to kick out of danger. A swarm of green-clad forwards broke through the Soldier defense to block the kick and recover for a safety.

The invaders registered 15 first downs to 5 for the New Mexicans. Although the Institute team made only 35 yards from scrimmage to 231 for the Texans, they were more effective through the air. They completed seven heaves of 17 attempted for 109 yards.

The starting lineup for the Freshmen: ends, Tolver and Curfman; tackles, Doherty and P. Brown; guards, A. Brown and Keen; center, Bray; halfs, Guzik and Bird; quarter, Dickerson; and fullback, Puckett.

Shifty Back

Introducing little J. V. Beauchamp... from Greenville... weighs 137 pounds... second year on varsity... has stood out in last three games... watch him next year... wears jersey number 17.

According to Professor Foyd R. Eastland, instructor of Education at New York university, statistician for the Intercollegiate Athletic Association and for American Football Coaches Association, grid fatalities this year are 15 per cent lower than for the same period last season.

Freshmen End Grid Schedule

Ballard's Charges Meet Hardin-Simmons Crew In Last Battle

In their last game of the season, the Tech Picadors engage the Hardin-Simmons freshmen on Matador field Saturday. The kickoff is slated for 3:15.

Reports from Abilene indicate that the first year men at the Baptist school are rather small but powerful. The Fish, like the varsity, play inspired football against Tech representatives.

Starting the season with a large number of inexperienced players, the record of the Ballard proteges shows that the Fish have developed into a strong first year team. The Pica have registered three wins in four engagements, losing only to the strong Amarillo Badgers, champions of junior college circles last year, and in the semi-finals this campaign.

The future Matadors opened the current race by humbling the W. T. S. T. C. Calves on a mud splattered field. In their initial appearance before the local fans, they ran wild to smother the Decatur Baptists, 41-0.

Probable starting lineup for Saturday's fracas: ends, Curfman and Tolver; tackles, Doherty and Brown; guards, A. Brown and Keen; center, Bray; quarter, Dickerson; fullback, Puckett, and halfs, Guzik and Bird.

Graduate Studies German Situation On Bicycle Tour

Hubert Allensworth, 1934 Tech graduate, has been traveling in Germany on a bicycle for a month. He is studying the political and economic situation.

In a recent letter to professor M. E. Ogdon, of the government department, he wrote: "The people are the kindest and most gracious I have yet seen in Europe. The reports of suppression of free speech in the papers is to a large degree exaggerated. Some like the government and others are opposed. Those who are not in favor readily voice their disapproval and seem to be in no danger of reprisal by the propaganda ministry."

Allensworth, an honor graduate from the division of arts and sciences here last year, continued: "Hitler seems to have the support of the great majority of the population. He has made it into a united nation again, and the old state boundaries have almost been wiped out. Germany's preparations for war are no longer a secret. Every one hopes for peace and prepares for war."

Allensworth will go to Vienna next, and is not expected to return to the United States until March or April. His home is in Lubbock.

Girls In The Dorm Storm Mail Boxes At Noontime

Favorite gathering place on the campus has been discovered—around the mail boxes in the girls' dorm.

About noon a long line of chattering girls, pushing, shoving and wishing, forms in front of the office and extends around the steps almost to the front door.

Each girl is hoping for a check from "Dad," a box from "Mother," or a letter from "him." It would make a good study in psychology to see the different expressions on their faces. The recipient of a "box from home" suddenly has too many friends, and a great many visitors during the day are expected.

Up the steps and in the halls, girls are scanning the long anticipated pages, so lost in the news of the folks back home that they might as well be there; their minds are at home or in some place remote to the dormitory.

Disappointed passers-by are made curious by the laughs and sighs of the letter readers who are too impatient to wait until they get to their rooms to open and read their mail.

Letters! Letters! Letters! Wouldn't Miss Sully Port enjoy a survey of them?

'Happiness Ahead' Featured At Palace

The movie-going public are hailing the new star team appearing in First National's "Happiness Ahead." It is composed of Dick Powell and Josephine Hutchinson. This comedy comes to the Palace Sunday for a three-day run.

Graduates of the division of agriculture who are employed in that field compose 78.8 per cent of the 137 degree holders from Texas Tech. This number includes those graduates employed as follows:

The remaining 29 students are classified as: school teachers in public schools, 12; non-agriculture industries, 13; ministerial students, 2; and unknown, 2.

Subdivided in another way, these men graduated with majors as follows; animal husbandry, 48; dairy manufactures, 28; agricultural economics, 22; horticulture, 21; agronomy, 18; general agriculture, 2. Two students hold two degrees each.

Survey Made Of Engineers

Dean Adams Compiles Record Of Graduate Employment

Dean O. V. Adams of the division of engineering of Texas Tech has finished a survey of graduate employment for students of that division of the college. The survey is summarized as follows:

The Texas State Highway department employs 42 Tech graduates; public utilities, 19; Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in research work and textile mills, 6; U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, 3; Trucon Steel company, 2; employed in engineering departments of commercial or industrial concerns, 25; U. S. Interstate Commerce Commission, Bureau of Public Roads, Bureau of Standards, U. S. Reclamation Service, and other branches of government service, 9; private ownership of business (includes both engineering and non-engineering fields, 4; graduate work, 13; teaching (college), 6; teaching (public schools) 9; managerial positions in non-engineering fields, 2; commercial research work, 1; public office, 1; miscellaneous (stock raising, law, farming, drug business, etc.), 27; deceased, 1; no information, 15; and unemployed, 4.

According to Prof. Rudolph Altshuler of the University of California, well-known Dante scholar, Dante's Divine Comedy reveals the existence in Dante's time of gangsters and most of the other bad influences that exist today.

Making investigations at Heidelberg and at the University of Chicago, Dr. George Wald has discovered that the pigment of the eye contains vitamin A, and that a lack of it is likely to cause "night blindness," a condition which sometimes precedes total blindness.

Control of athletics at Cornell university, both intercollegiate and intramural, has been vested this year in a three-man committee on athletic control, appointed by the president of the university. It is the first time in its history that the university is in the position of directly fostering sports.

Varied Assortment of Articles Add Masculine Touch To Boys' Rooms

Pictures, bottles, signs, ash trays, golf clubs, unmentionables!

These and many other articles fill the rooms of the boys' dormitory. No fussy trinkets and clothes lines adorn these "dens" where a masculine atmosphere prevails and the boys reign supreme.

There is no available space in one room because signs, pennants, pictures and "whatnots" cover the wall space, arranged neatly. By the laboratory a hand bearing the inscription, "water hole," points to the sink.

Molotovs and "Do Not Disturb" signs are popular. Pictures feature "the most wonderful girl," or the "little woman," horses, "the ole swimmin' hole," movie stars, dogs, parents and other things. A famous preacher's picture graces a high boy in some proud boy's room. In another room, a whole baseball team is represented in single pictures, and in another, a group of movie stars.

Besides quilts of various designs, in another sanctuary there are two Indian blankets covering the beds. Loud pajamas and striped shorts, bottles, books, and souvenirs of "the night before" are strewn about the rooms, some orderly, some otherwise.

A favorite and handy place is the "shrine parlor" where "Clyde," the darky, rules. The laundry room is another convenient place, doubtlessly a favorite hang-out.

After Nine Years Work Dictionary Is Complete

Chicago, Nov. 21.—It is quite likely that present college undergraduates will be considerably older when the completed "Historical Dictionary of American English and the American Dialect Dictionary" is put on the market.

After nine years of work on the novel dictionary, the University of Chicago Press this year will publish the first volume, dealing with only a part of the letter A.

According to Sir William A. Craigie of Oxford, who heads up the staff which is writing the new dictionary, the work will deal particularly with words which had their origins in this country. Many slang words which have become an accepted part of the American language will be given a place in the dictionary, he said.

Spinach Is Not Necessary To Reach Ripe Old Age

Washington, D. C.—Well, boys and girls, you can now take or leave your spinach, and still live to a ripe old age.

Dr. George W. Caldwell of New York told the American Dietetic Association—the bunch that spends its time thinking up new disagreeable things you have to eat to be healthy—that you can get just as much good out of something called "Formula one" as you can out of spinach.

This formula one, it seems, is a mixture of peas, beta and asparagus tips.

Perhaps you prefer spinach after all.

The majority of the freshmen at Brown university this year have selected either medicine or engineering as their careers. Law, which led last year, is third this year.

Make Last Home Appearance Against Bison

Coach C. C. Finnegan's North Dakota State Herd will be the opposition for the Matadors, pictured above, in their final game before local fans. Four of these Tech players are wearing the Scarlet and Black for the last time in today's contest. McKeever, Fortner, B. Gilmore and W. Wilson graduate this year. Shown above are some who are destined to be stars in the Matador lineup of the future. Beauchamp and Baze have been carrying the ball places in the secondary. Williams and Kotrola look like sure shots for the first string next year. Spears, former Lubbock High standout, must carry part of the terminal burden again in the fall of '35.

Chemistry Tower Suggests A Room Of Old Bluebeard

A narrow stairway at the northeast end of the second floor of the chemistry building leads up into the tower. Its single room would make a swell pent-house, club room, or courting place. The isolation and appearance of the room suggest one of Bluebeard's strong-holds to our curious minds. Instead of being given over to some of the colorful purposes listed above, this room is devoted to the prosaic work done by geologists. Here they study oil well sediment, weigh sedimentation, make stratifications of the earth's surface with plaster of Paris and clay, and show how pressure will develop variations in the surface of the earth.

Home Ec Girls Save Money On Meals

Students who can't make the board money stretch should profit by the example of the girls staying at the home management house, who averaged 21 cents per person per day for their meals last week. One week out of every nine is limited income week at the house, when the expenditure for food is cut as low as possible without detracting from the nutrition value of the meals.

A typical menu was: breakfast—stewed prunes, cereal with milk and sugar, toast and coffee; lunch—potato soup and crackers, cole slaw, baked potato, and tea; dinner—salmon loaf, creamed potatoes, buttered carrots, biscuits, ginger bread, and milk.

Livestock Judgers

(Continued from Page One) of Purdue team at Lafayette, Ind. Tech placed third at Chicago last year, the highest ranking attained by the locals. Texas A. & M. is considered the strongest competition this year as they won first place at Kansas City this year. Oklahoma A. & M. college is the only team that has won three times at Chicago and is the only one to have permanent possession of the Bronze Bull trophy presented by the Union stockyards of Chicago.

The Tech contestants will spend two days at the exposition after the contests viewing the prize stock. They plan to return December 6.

Professor W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department, will be at the exposition during the contests. He will not go with the team but plans to leave later. Professor Stangel will attend a meeting of the American Society of Animal Production.

Homecoming

"Be it resolved that we, the Alumni and Ex-Student association of Texas Technological college, in session for annual homecoming celebration on this, the sixteenth day of November, 1934, go on record as being opposed to the changing of design or quality of senior class rings, which has been a tradition of our college since 1928."

Among the returning axes were several prominent politicians: Lloyd Croslin, recently named secretary to Congressman-elect George Mahon; J. Doyle Settle, state representative-elect from the district; County Judge-elect Alvin R. Allison of Hockley county; County Judge Jim Cloud of Dickens county, and Dr. Truett Smith, county attorney of Lynn county. Dr. Pauline Miller, formerly of this city, has the distinction of coming farthest to attend these annual events. Doctor Miller is practicing in the Women's and Children's hospital in San Francisco, California.

Tailor Leaves Estate To Dartmouth Faculty

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 21—In the ten years that he pressed the clothes of Dartmouth college students and faculty members, Christian Smith came to feel he was an important part of the campus. Just how much he took his connection with the college to heart was revealed last week when the probate of his will showed he had left his estate of $9,000 to the college faculty. The tailor left $1 each to a son and daughter he had not seen for sixteen years.

Many College Students Are Expelled From Nation's Campuses

New York, November 21—The growing feeling of animosity between radicals and conservatives on American college camps was evidenced in a number of spots throughout the nation last week. Here in New York the faculty of the City college expelled 21 students and disciplined 16 others connected with the student riot at the college October 9 during the visit of a group of Fascist students to the campus. At the University of California at Los Angeles, President Robert Gordon Sproul reinstated four of the five students dismissed by Dr. Ernest C. Moore, provost and vice-president of the southern branch of the institution which has its headquarters at Berkeley. The five had been suspended for "promoting radical activities."

Horne Will Speak At Press Meeting

"Qualifications of a Reporter" will be the subject discussed by Cecil Horne, journalism professor and head of the information and publicity department of the college, at the Press club meeting November 26. This speech was postponed from November 11, because Mr. Horne was called to Midland to assist in an Armistice Day program. Students interested in journalism, whether they are majoring in the subject or not, are eligible for membership in the organization. The club meets in room 214, Ad building at 7:30 p. m.

when he went on to charge that the National Student League had as one of its purposes "subversive agitation for the abolition of the R. O. T. C." In a more calm mood, students and faculty members at Vassar college revealed their political faiths in a questionnaire sent to all of them. Twelve per cent of the faculty indicated that they considered themselves radicals, while only nine per cent of the seniors, five per cent of the freshmen, and three per cent of the juniors and sophomores so classified themselves. The action of the faculty at City college here was taken despite a recommendation by Dean Morton Gottschall that leniency be shown. The dean held that the demonstration against the Fascists was not a carefully laid plot, but entirely spontaneous.
