Tech Delegates Are To Attend Annual Meeting Of Engineering Society To Be Held In Austin

Dr. Bradford Knapp To Speak On Program; Svenson, Brandt, Godeke To Take Part In Discussions; Plans Are Made To Bring Next Meeting To Tech

Dr. Bradford Knapp and 20 delegates from Tech are to attend the third annual meeting of the Texas section of the Society for Promotion of Engineering Education to be held at Texas University tomorrow and Saturday, April 21 and 22.

This society started at the World's Fair in 1893 and is composed of men in engineering industries, teachers in colleges, and those connected with engineering education. The national society is to meet at the World's Fair in Chicago next June. The first Texas meeting was held with North Texas A. & M. and S. M. U., the second with Texas A. & M., and this year's meeting is at Texas university. The Tech delegation is to try to bring the 1934 meeting to Lubbock.

Prexy's Paragraphs

BY BRADFORD KNAPP

The annual student elections are approaching. They are tremendously important. There have been times when I doubted the value of student elections. They ought to be an example of the very best of good principles in operating organizations. The highest ideal of government lies in the selection of persons to perform public services on the basis of their true worth, their ability to do the work set before them in the office to which they aspire. The second ideal which we must not forget is that democracy, after all, requires a freedom of choice. I realize quite fully that students very often do not have an excellent example set before them in the administration of governmental affairs, but that is no reason for departing from the ideal.

Elections ought to be conducted honestly, conscientiously, and with the sole purpose of selecting officers of various student activities entirely worthy of the very best ideals of the institution and the student body. In the first place, the ballot boxes themselves ought to be carefully guarded. No person who is connected with student is this institution ought to be permitted to cast a ballot. No electioneering should be permitted at the polls. Careful check ought to be kept on every vote cast. If the student body wants a list of names of candidates who are now in college, who would be entitled to vote, we can furnish such a list. I believe very strongly that the person who votes ought to be required to sign his name opposite the name on such a list before he receives the ticket to vote. The Student Association ought to see to it that the voting is conducted in an orderly manner in accordance with the highest of ideals, and the count made openly and fairly so that the real victor is declared.

Knapp To Talk To Association

President Will Address Meet Of Texas Association For Annual Meet To Be Held At Baker Hotel In Dallas

Dr. Bradford Knapp will address the delegates at the annual meeting of the Association of Texas Colleges in Dallas, on April 28 and 29. This meet was held at the Baker hotel in conjunction with the Texas Association of Junior Colleges.

Court Acquits Coker In Trial

Judge James Fines Attorneys At Trial For Non-Preparation On Points Of Law; 2nd Pre-Law Trial This Term

A new chapter in the history of the Pre-Law club was written April 10, when the case against Glynn R. Coker, president of the club, was thrown out of court.

The defense pointed out that according to the constitution of the club, there was no legal way by which the president could be removed from office, following the suggestion made by Gordon Treadaway, graduate student in the government department, the attorneys of both sides were fined twenty-five cents each.

Judge Clyde James said in handing down his decision, "I am fining the attorneys of the prosecution twenty-five cents each because they were not prepared on the points of law on which they based their case, and I am fining the attorneys of the defense for not objecting to the irregularity of the proceedings before the court had already spent one hour on the case."

Coker, according to the decision of the court, still remains the office of president of the Pre-Law club. When speaking of the trial, he said, "I am completely satisfied with the outcome of the trial, and to show my appreciation to my attorneys, Charles O'Neill and Fred Barron, I am going to pay their fines for them."

Model League Of Nations Put On By Tech Students; Debate Held Concerning Jap Actions

Club Members Act As Delegates Of Various Nations; League Problems Are Discussed; Japs Withdraw

A Model League of Nations was held Monday night at 7 o'clock in room 302 by the Tech International Relations club. James Toothaker was elected president of the league, representing Henri Hyman of Belgium. Toothaker made the opening remarks prior to the meeting, stating the problem that lay before the league.

The first business of the league was the report of the Committee of Nineteen which was appointed by the League to formulate a plan for a settlement of the dispute between China and Japan. A debate by the League delegates on the recommendation of the committee to the effect that Japan should withdraw her forces from Manchuria, followed the report.

In the debates, Lloyd Glover, represented Great Britain; Noel D. Moulton, Tech professor, gave France's argument, and Garland Smith acted as interpreter. Chung Wo Au spoke for China with Doyle Settle as interpreter, Guatemala was represented by A. Melendez, and Dorothy Johnson interpreted for him. Manuel DeBusk, representing Japan, spoke forcefully against the action of the League.

Forty-four voted on the question of Japan's evacuation from Manchuria, with 42 assenting, one, abstaining, and one, dissenting, Japan. The vote was taken as unanimous because Japan had no vote, because she was party to the dispute. After the voting, Japan withdrew from the assembly, protesting strenuously against the league's action.

Spanish Test Given Friday

Llano Estacado Association Of Spanish Teachers Is Sponsor Of Event; Nannette Collier Wins First Place

A Spanish contest was held in connection with the Interscholastic League meet last week-end for the first time. This contest, which is sponsored by the Llano Estacado Association of Teachers of Spanish, is independent of the League and is being held to foster an interest in Spanish in this section.

Second-year Spanish students were eligible for the contest, which was in the nature of an examination. The contest, in which 28 contestants participated, was held in the administration building Friday afternoon.

The bronze medal of the Instituto de las Espanas was awarded to the winner of first place, Nannette Collier, of Plainview, Mildred Dunlop, of Lubbock, won second; third and fourth places were also won by Lubbock students. The contest will be held each year hereafter in connection with the League.

Pretty Girls To Be Presented In Style Show; Committee To Select Tech Queen Of Cotton

All Dresses To Be Worn In Event Must Be Made Of Cotton Fabric; Show Is To Be Held In Honor Of National Cotton Week; Carnival To Be Annual Affair

BY MARY ELIZABETH DRYDEN

A cotton carnival, sponsored by the Tech branch of the Phi Psi, honorary textile fraternity, is to be held at the Texas Tech during the week of May 14 to 20, National Cotton Week.

Pretty girls, selected from every organization on the campus, and from all of the civic and women's clubs in town, the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis club, Lions' club, and the business houses of the city, will be presented in a cotton style show. There is to be a judging committee which will select the girl in the show who wears the most attractive cotton dress.

The only requirement to enter the show is that the dress which is to be worn be made out of a cotton fabric.

First and second places will be awarded to the girls wearing the most attractive dresses. The girl who wins first place is to be crowned Queen of Cotton at Texas Tech.

The object of the carnival is to show the value of cotton and to show how attractive dresses and other garments may be made out of cotton. It is to be held in honor of National Cotton week which is to be recognized all through the South during the week of May 14 to 20.

The types of dresses are not limited to any one sort, but may be sport, evening, informal afternoon, or house dresses. Each contestant is to represent some organization in competing for the first place in the style show.

Each club and organization on the campus is asked to select their representative and have her dress for the show made promptly.

This carnival is to become an annual affair of Texas Tech, and the cooperation of every organization on the campus is requested to put this over.

Summer Work To Be Divided In Two Terms

Students To Have Chance To Complete Odd Thirds; Fees Change Not Planned; Forms Distributed To Students

Plans are being made to have two terms of six weeks each of school at Tech this summer. This will enable students to complete those extra "thirds" of courses that they need for credit on the semester basis, and it is urged that as many as possible plan to attend and take advantage of this opportunity to even up all units.

Unless the legislature makes some drastic changes fees for summer school will remain as former. That is, for one term, the registration fee will be $5.00, exclusive of recreation, laboratory, and medical fees.

Forms were distributed to students Tuesday and Wednesday to be filled out with the courses which they desire to be taught in summer school. Through these records, the school officials hope to offer the subjects which will meet the needs of everyone.

Pirtle Sponsors Show At Tech

Hollywood Marionettes Will Be Presented April 27; Characters Are Burlesques Of Well Known Movie Stars

Sponsored by Miss Ruth Pirtle, head of the Tech speech department, the Monro Hollywood Marionettes, "movie stars in miniature," will be presented in Lubbock at the high school auditorium, April 27. There will be a matinee and night performance, and students will be admitted for fifteen cents. General admission is twenty-five cents.

Being just what their nickname implies, the Hollywood Marionettes are burlesques of well-known movie stars. The afternoon performance includes a presentation of "Cinderella," featuring Ann Harding, Jose Mopica, and Marie Dressler. Four vaudeville acts, a specialty by Joe E. Brown, one by Will Rogers a saxophone number, and a skit with Ann Harding and Richard Dix, form the interludes.

The night show is an adventure of the "Days of '49," called "The Lost Adams Diggin's." Stars of it are Janet Gaynor, Ernest Torrence, and William Powell. Others actors and actresses are given minor roles.

Perfect audition is guaranteed the audience. Loud speakers and music reproducers are used so that every word is understandable.

Tech Instructors Are To Attend Science Meeting

Dr. R. A. Studhalter of the biology department and Dr. LeRoy Patton of the geology department will attend the annual meeting of the Southwestern Division of American Association for Advance of Science at Las Cruces, New Mexico, May 1 to 4.

Dr. R. G. Sidwell of the geology department may attend the meeting.

Dr. Patton is to give discussion of "Study of Geology Field Courses in Colleges and Universities" and Dr. Studhalter will talk on "One Aspect of the Roubidoux Plant."

New Mexico Agricultural college at Las Cruces will be host to the organization. Representatives from Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas will be present.

Faculty members are trying to get the 1934 meeting for Tech but due to the distance to Lubbock from many of the states, is not decided yet. By having a combined meeting of several of the divisions of the association at Tech in a larger gathering, it might be possible to bring representative from distant states here according to Dr. Studhalter.

NEW ELECTION PROCEDURE

The qualification for voting in a state election is to have a poll tax receipt. According to the student constitution, the only requirement necessary for voting in a Tech election is to be a bona fide student of the college. Only graduate students are ineligible.

Not only on the part of defeated candidates but upon the reaction of outsiders as well, there has been dissatisfaction about past student balloting. The general sentiment is for a straightforward election. The student body demands it. The student council should take steps to reassure it.

It is expedient that the election be well conducted this year because the college is in the spotlight. Every phase is being investigated by its discreditors in an effort to disclose unfavorable facts. The '32-'33 record has been irreproachable. Nothing must mar it now.

The Toreador recommends that the election be placed on a big time political basis. Instead of each student having a poll tax receipt as in a state election, each eligible voter should have his or her name on the voting roll. As each student votes, the name should be checked from this roll. The procedure used in issuing The Toreador may be followed. The eligible list could be obtained from the Registrar.

In this manner, there would be no confusion, no ballot box stuffing, or voting under assumed names. The only evil not provided against is that of intimidation of voters. This must be eliminated by the student themselves.

The Toreador suggests that the student council conduct the election in such a manner as not only to reflect creditably upon itself, but also upon the intelligence of the student body and upon the integrity of the college authorities.

THE LAST LAP

The mid-term examinations of the spring term are being held this week. As a result of these reminders, perhaps some students will realize that school is nearly over for the current year. Before it is too late, a few will begin studying in an effort to make up for poor work; others will let it go.

After the mid-term examinations last term, forty-seven per cent of the students were notified that they were unsatisfactory in one or more courses. Thus far, some students have lucked out; have not allowed their lack of knowledge to become known to their instructors. These mid-terms are the acid test.

Already, the schedule of examinations for the spring term have been issued. Let us remind ourselves of our studies and return to work. Let us again raise our grades to a safe margin so that the final examinations will not find us wanting.

THE ENGINEERING SHOW

The Engineering Show which has completed its fifth annual showing had a record attendance of 5707 in attendance. This show has become quite an event in the eyes of the people of the South Plains and even throughout the state of Texas.

The students and faculty may well be commended for their efforts this year to make this show one of the best in history of the school. Many students and faculty members spent many tireless hours of work to make the show such a success and have done so without any grudge whatsoever.

The value of the Engineering Show to future students and their parents has much weight on whether or not these prospectives will attend school at our institution or not. The sights that have met their eye have mystified them and have inspired thought for their children and themselves.

The Toreador congratulates the Engineers for their splendid show.

A NEWSPAPER PLANT

Newspaper editors carry quite a great deal of influence in their respectful field and are the leaders of their communities. The influential men of the community are the newspaper editors and publishers. When a committee is appointed, or the Chamber of Commerce has something to do for the good of the community, the newspaper men are always chosen. They are the hardest, and clearest, thinking men of the town because they have largely the responsibility of either making or breaking a community.

College editors must have technical training before they are really capable of taking on responsibilities of this sort. Rural leadership is one of the greatest assets that a country editor can obtain. To live up to these expectations, these editors must have technical training.

If Texas Tech would place a fee of 75 cents on students as a subscription for the Toreador, it would lead directly to a college owned and operated printing plant which would enable the editors and assistants of the Toreador to go out into the world of journalism, competent and trained in this line of work. Technically trained editors would have a great deal of influence on rural thought and if the occasion ever demanded, they could use their influence and their knowledge to a great deal of good.

Why not have this tax made compulsory and give our journalism students some real training in newspaper work, the type that they will follow after leaving college?

Letters To The Editor

In the future all letters to the editor must not be over 200 words in length. Any letters longer than this will be shortened accordingly.—Editor's Note.

Dear Editor: Some recent editorials in your paper have criticized the College Artist Course and its steering committee, reflecting rather unfavorably on what the committee has tried to do and whom it has brought here for the benefit of the students, faculty, and townspeople in general.

The programs are not supposed to be merely entertainment. As the name implies, they are artists, and must be regarded in that light. It is true that we have not brought Kreisler, Paderewski or the Metropolitan Opera, but such super-attractions could not be sold even in an auditorium seating ten thousand, at 25-50 cent prices. Such schools and colleges as present these high-priced artists charge approximately ten dollars for a student ticket. The Artist Course this year collected fees amounting to $125, and provided five numbers, four of which, at least, were above reproach. There may be some, possibly very few, who object to the cultural side and who demand merely entertainment. That of course is unfortunate, and it seems impossible to please all each year.

May I point out that the principal function of any educational institution is to build citizens—not merely engineers, farmers and housekeepers? That can be done in other ways with little or no cost to the State. This fact should be obvious from the curriculum of any college. In educating its citizens the State aims at evolving a true civilization. It is necessary therefore, to rub elbows with all thoughts, ideas, ideals, creeds, and gospels. Some of this is impossible in the same room, hence the student should be surrounded, or exposed, to these things in his extra-curricular activities.

I have but one more comment to make. The "Scarlet Scavenger" humorist saw but one student attending the Artist Course, and he was blind. Is it too much to assume that those absent were merely dumb? Very truly yours, W. R. Wagborne, Chairman, Artist Course Committee.

Dear Editor: Keep up the good work, Editor Taulman. At least it sounds good to me. Maybe, if it is stressed enough, we will be able to have some appreciable programs on the Artist Course. As has been suggested before, some method may be devised so that the students may have some choice in selecting the programs.

Another good plan would be to let several capable faculty members select the programs, keeping in mind that everyone doesn't have the same likes that they as individuals may have. The program this year have without a doubt been unfavorable to the majority of the students.

Since the students are compelled to buy the tickets, there isn't any good reason why they shouldn't be allowed to select their programs. Some good programs may be had that aren't trashy, and still be enjoyable. I say "Bigger and Better Artist Course" programs without a lot of fluff! Roy T. Shamburger.

Dear Editor: It is not my purpose to call anyone a fool, God forbid; but I do think it is time that something be said about the editorials which have appeared in the Toreador which were written for the purpose of criticizing the present Artist Course and its administration.

In the first place, what student is there on the campus of Texas Technological college whose experiences, knowledge, and appreciations are on a high enough level to make him capable of criticizing such artists as Martino Rossi, Zimbalist, or Ben Greet?

In the second place, what student of the above named group is capable of criticizing sensibly those persons who form the administration of our Artist Courses?

Thirdly, suppose the student body did have a committee to aid in the selection of our next Artist Course; what would be the result? The answer is implied in a statement Mr. Wagborne made at the last concert: "Now for a few dollars, we could bring here a troupe of dancing fleas." Our Artist Course would cease to be such, and this nomenclature would be the laughing stock of our town and our community's educated people.

Finally, there is no virtue in letting the world know of one's ability, or lack of such, to appreciate real art; to say nothing of his ignorance of what it is constituted.

J. Hollie Cross.

Dear Mr. Cross: I believe that the Artist Course should be arranged to suit the tastes of those who are forced to pay for such events. The Toreador does not criticize members of the Artist Course committee except to say that since Artist Courses are to be held, they should be good ones or none at all. What the Toreador is driving at is: Bigger and better artist courses, quality and not quantity as it were.

The Editor.

Mr. Parker Taulman, Editor, Toreador, Dear Editor: Through the goodness of a local

Campus Chatter

For the benefit of you people who sometimes go to church as I do . . . I will attempt not to put too many Hell's and Dam's in this column.

This manner of weather (Sunday and Easter) reminds me of the first time I was ever sun-burned. Quite some time ago it was. About the time I thought great fun was pulling a girl child's curls, and making fun of her freckles. I hadn't even heard the story of the little boy crying on the train.

We played all the afternoon out in the pasture, damming up the creek. We dammed up a place on a stream in a pasture where cows ate grass. We did this all day with our collars, cuffs, and other things off.

Hill from the sun. We didn't notice it then. We had a big time, caught a few snakes, and made mud pies. We the youth of America, backed up that stream something marvelous. I'm sorry for you city people you don't ever have any fun like that.

I went to bed that night feeling a business man during the past banking moratorium, people of Lubbock and Tech students were afforded the pleasure of signing slips for entertainment offered them. When this idea was first in progress Tech students were decided not to be allowed this privilege but due to the manager's having confidence in Texas Tech and the students secured this courtesy.

The remaining unpaid slips are 682 per cent belonging to Tech students. No steps have been taken by a majority of students to clear these small amounts and is leaving a rather bad impression of Tech students with local business men. There is no reason for students to betray a confidence that has been so greatly bestowed upon them.

Yours truly, A. B.

Dear Editor: When you buy something, you are supposed to get it. When students enrolled this term and last, they were charged for Artist Course tickets without question. The majority of these students did not receive their tickets when they paid for them. Many have not got them as all this term and the number is over. If the students must pay for these un-educational artist courses, I don't see why they should not at least get a ticket. Of course, they don't care to go to some long dry classical number, but they would have the satisfaction of having a ticket.

Signed, Robert Williamson.

The next morning when I thought I would get out of bed, I stuck to the sheets, and for two days and three nights I was afraid I wasn't going to die. I was told I was sunburned. I was told fairy tales, which I didn't believe, and was given buttermilk to drink. That was before Congress got modern and gave the country beer to drink.

Say, that was as good as telling you about the time I had my tonsils out. Want to hear that sometime? Or do you want some buttermilk? I still drink it.

Prexy's Paragraph

dent activities, and many student enterprises depends much upon the selections made at the coming election. The administration of the college is not concerned with candidates, but only with the best interests of this student body. All we can do is to advise and counsel. I sincerely trust that the very best influences of this student body may be manifested in this election.

Coming into the Main building the other day, my attention was attracted by a typewritten notice of a meeting of one of the classes tasked with thumb tacks on the outside of the door. How little respect we have some times for public property! A door of a building is scarcely the proper place for a bulletin. The college has supplied bulletin boards and is glad to supply others, but either painting or tacking notices on the walling shows a long time before the state can afford to furnish much money for repairs. Should we not be concerned, therefore, about the preservation of what we have?

I cannot too highly commend the fine conduct of this student body during the Engineering show and the interscholastic league meet. The Engineering show attracted more people than it has ever attracted before and the students of the Engineering school are due the thanks of the entire institution, both for the quality of the show and the manner in which it was conducted. It was a credit to the institution and an honor to the school of engineering and, therefore, an honor to all of us. At the interscholastic league meet, and especially at the track meet, I saw a great many fine young men and young women visiting this institution. I sincerely hope we won many friends out of this fine body of high school students who came to Tech last week. I was delighted to see their earnestness, their fine sportsmanship and their splendid conduct.
