WPA Jobs In Co. Viewed By Co. Judges

Description Of Work And Lists Of Project Costs Furnished

Cost figures and a description of completed WPA projects were released here by the district office last Friday on the occasion of the county judges and commissioners association meeting.

The visitors were first taken to the 5.5 Gall road project completed two weeks ago at a cost of $8,766.61 per mile which involved an expenditure of $20,598.48 federal funds and $16,817.94 from the sponsor, Howard county.

It was explained that grading and drainage problem on the road was complicated due to acute erosion conditions and unkempt condition of the road at the time work was commenced.

High School Campus Next the guests were taken to the high school to view the beautification project begun Oct. 1, 1935 and completed Aug. 1 of this year.

Among other projects seen were the street jobs. First was the two blocks of 36-foot paving on Johnson street south from E. 10th.

One of the major projects viewed by the part was that of the city park. Here, it was explained, WPA has paid out $11,236 and the city $6,600 (in equipment and materials) for 7,200 feet for surfaced drive ways, 65 acres of clearing, grubbing, pruning, placing of 1,000 cubic yards of top soil, new drainage structures, installation of 73 square yards of rip-rap aproning along the course of a small stream.

Gasoline Tax Revenues At All-Time High

Better Enforcement Of Laws, Improved Conditions Cited

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—More efficient methods of collection and a general improvement in business conditions were responsible for the substantial increase in gasoline tax collections which reached a new all-time high during the fiscal year ending August 31, in the opinion of George H. Sheppard, comptroller of public accounts.

Increased travel because of the Centennial was a contributing factor, but was not one of the primary causes, Sheppard said. Total collections for the fiscal period were $41,193,960, an increase of $4,111,935 over the preceding year, which also broke all previous records. The percentage of increase in the fiscal year just closed over the previous year was 11 per cent, compared with an increase of 9.07 per cent in collections for 1934-35 over the 1933-34 fiscal year.

That enforcement, rather than other factors, is the chief cause of the increase is borne out by collections of the cigarette tax division for the fiscal year, Sheppard said. The comptroller's agents, released from court injunctions with which they literally had been plastered, collected $5,484,450 in cigarette taxes as compared to $4,302,942 the previous year, an increase of $1,181,508. Before high court decisions established the right of the comptroller to collect the tax on smokers purportedly purchased in interstate commerce the state lost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Heavy rains were reported at Beaumont, Galveston and Laredo. Scattered showers fell in other sections. Damage was negligible from the Gulf storm. Government forecasts indicated occasional rains tonight and Tuesday in East Texas, with probable showers in the southeastern sector of West Texas. Partial cloudiness prevailed in West Texas.

GERMAN MILITARY STRENGTH IS PARADED BEFORE HITLER

Chancellor Declares Nation Is Well-Armed And Is 'Ready At Any Hour'

NURNBERG, Sept. 14. (AP)—Germany's new compulsory service army staged its first display of strength with steel and motorized equipment for the benefit of Chancellor Adolf Hitler and hundreds of thousands of nazis assembled in their fourth annual convention here today.

The military display came after Hitler asserted Germany will guard jealously the principle of private business enterprise. The dictator denied the plans for the future of the nation included the marshalling of all industrial establishments under government control.

Hitler told thousands in an address yesterday that Germany is well-armed and ready to defend a miracle—"the miracle of its own resurrection."

"Let no one be deceived," he shouted, "We are ready at any hour." Emphasizing that the 120,000 uniformed men before him were only an extremely small percentage of his 2,500,000 Storm Troopers, 225,000 black-uniformed "S. S." men, not to mention the nation's armament equipment, Hitler asked:

"Who can oppose this bloc of national determination? "Our old enemy, Bolshevism, is vanquished within Germany but still active around her borders. "But let no one be deceived. We are ready at any hour. We all have one wish—to maintain peace—but with it goes one firm decision: Never to surrender Germany to that enemy we have come to know so well."

Referring to Spain he said: "Everywhere agitators are calling masses together in demonstrations against fascism and against national socialism—demonstrations for supplying arms and ammunition and volunteers."

"But if I should call a demonstration it would amaze the world. Millions upon millions would respond with flaming hearts."

San Sebastian Is Kept Under Heavy Guard

Govt. Troops Lose Control Of Northern Region Near France

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 14 (AP)—Fascists completed occupation of San Sebastian today, setting up a civil administration, as strong lines of troops held the city from possible counter attack by defeated socialists who fled before the insurgent advance.

After 57 days of civil war against the Spanish socialist-communist government of Madrid, the fascists of Gen. Emilio Mola's army reached the coveted objective—a seaport in northern Spain, on the Bay of Biscay.

Government troops were driven west toward Bilbao, retaining their control of the Biscay region adjacent to France. But they hoped soon to stage a counter-offensive. Government headquarters were set up at Zumaya, about 15 miles west of San Sebastian. Oris, seven miles west, was designated the new line of defense.

Plan New Battle The fleeing San Sebastian governor, Antonio Ortega, asserted munitions were being manufactured post haste at Bilbao. Within 10 days, he said, armaments will have been provided for a new battle.

As the fascist insurgents made their way through the streets of San Sebastian, they found the city largely deserted. Most of those who remained watched in silence. There were cheers from merchants.

The fleeing government fighters fired a paper factory, bombed a few houses. But for the most part, conservative Basque nationalists, who directed the retreat prevented damage. To do so, they had to shoot some of their anarchist comrades bent on pillaging the city—determined to leave a city of ruins to the invaders.

Govt. Victories The Madrid government, saying the neighboring Portugal, where an attempted naval revolt was crushed last week, claimed important victories in the southwestern Talavera sector and in northern Oviedo. Aerial bombers wrought damage at these two points, the government asserted.

Diplomats were attempting to obtain releases of women and children among fascists besieged at Alcazar and Toledo.

Pope Says Communism Is Menacing All Order

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 14. (AP)—Pope Pius gave his blessing before the world today to the military defense against the "mad" forces of communism, saying that they menaced in Spain and elsewhere "the very foundations of all order, culture and civilization."

He invoked the "special love born of mercy and compassion" for Spanish preceptors of bishops and priests, and called upon constituted authorities of all nations "to oppose these great evils with every remedy and barrier possible."

Blum Faction Accused Of Starting Uprising

PARIS, Sept. 14 (AP)—Nationalists charged the Blum government today with attempting to provoke a native uprising in Morocco in the hope the rebellion movement would spread to Spanish fascists.

Communists declared a rightist military coup was planned for Morocco "with complicity of Regent-General Marcel Peyroux."

PLANS ARE COMPLETED FOR SENDING OUT COTTON CHECKS

Producers Participating In Last Year's Tax Exemption Certificate Pool Due Monday

Plans are now complete for the issuance and distribution of checks representing the pro rata share of each producer who participated in the 1935 national surplus cotton tax-exemption certificate pool, in anticipation of the repeal of the Bankhead act.

Sales from the pool were curtailed to some extent by the repeal of the Bankhead act before all cotton was tagged.

Certificates on approximately 2,000,000 pounds were listed in the pool from Howard county. If the one-sixth rule figure is correct, producers here will receive little better than $12,000 less administrative expense.

'AS MAINE-GOES, SO GOES'

Political interest of the nation centered on Maine today as voters of that state went to the polls to cast ballots in party primaries. Candidates in the contests include Lewis O. Barrows (top, left) republican, and F. Harold Dubord (top, right) democrat, rivals for the governor's office; and Sen. Wallace H. White, Jr., (lower left) republican, and Gov. J. Brann, (lower right) democrat, who fight it out for a senatorial post. (Associated Press Photos.)

Party Chiefs Await Outcome In Maine

Clean Sweep By Either Faction Seems Unlikely

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14 (AP)—Maine voters went to the polls today to elect a United States senator, a governor, and three congressmen, with rival parties ready and eager to pounce on victory in this state as the fore-runner of national triumph in November.

The Maine vote, in September has forecast the presidential vote in eight of the last 10 national elections, giving rise to the adage that, "As Maine goes, so goes the nation."

With independents, minority group endorsements, and personal popularity of the nominees complicating the looked-for test of strength, a sweep of either republicans or democrats seems unlikely.

Opponents for the governorship are the republican secretary of state, Lewis O. Barrows of Newport, and former Mayor Harold F. Dubord, democrat of Waterville. Republicans predict that Barrows will win by a wide margin. They point out that only a few democrats have occupied the Maine governorship in history. Louis Jefferson Brann, democratic incumbent, was elected because of personal qualities, they say.

Dubord, however, cannot be regarded as a weak candidate. He opposed U. S. Sen. Frederick H. Hays for the senate in 1934 and lost by only 1,200 votes. Benjamin C. Dubar of Blaine, Townsend plan supporter and one-time Baptist pastor, is running for governor as an independent.

Brann seeks a promotion from the governorship to the senate, and the contest between him and Wallace H. White, Jr., of Auburn, republican incumbent, is expected to be close. White has a record of 19 consecutive years' service as representative and senator. Brann's popularity is attested by his election in 1932—when Herbert Hoover carried Maine by 37,000 votes—and his re-election two years later.

In a wet-dry referendum voters will decide on three aspects of local option: 1—Shall the city or town have state liquor stores? 2—Shall licenses be granted locally for sale on premises? 3—Shall licenses be granted for beer sales? Anti-Saloon League leaders say a dry trend will be shown.

JAPANESE REFUSED ENTRY IN CHINA CITY

HONG KONG, China, Sept. 14 (AP)—Soldiers refused today to allow a Japanese commission to land at Pakhoi to investigate a reported slaying of a Japanese by Chinese rioters, spreading terror through the city, with part of the population fleeing in fear that the Shanghai "war" of 1928 would be repeated.

Medieval Era Inspires '36 Fashionists

Victoria's Hats Are Used As Model For Modern Designs

PARIS (AP)—Paris arbiters of modern style delved into rich patterns of the past, to crown the final fashions of 1936 with the halo of romance.

Medieval days of the diligence and the great coach inspired thick waltzcoats, filled shirts, tall, silver buckled hats, and other regalia of 18th century gentlemen. The strong Directorate influence reflected similar touches.

Beltlines, flounces, lace handkerchiefs, flowered headbands, ripple-back basque fashions of Victoria's days. Hats, high pitched at the back with back floating veils, were copied from Queen Victoria's era.

Skirts shorter. Medieval influence produced romance in evening styles, and quilled hats and headbands carried back to 1812 and the American Indian. Day skirts were shortened one to two inches above last season's. Waist lines mounted and collars ruffled.

Slipped in wind-blown effect to the backs of many short skirts that topped skirts equally ruffled. Afternoon dresses also followed this movement when ample waisted coats went with them. The fitted waist prevailed. Some long flared coats and knee length skirts required many gores and darts to fit them.

Straight as strings, though, were the tailored styles in wool frocks, coats, and town and sports suits. These went in for smooth or curly wools, nubby tweeds, new checks, stripes, while afternoon models appeared in duvetyne corduroy and broadcloth, with seams in broadcloth, cloque, velvet or new crinkled crepes.

Tailored Straight Lines. Formal coats and suits showed their romantic leanings in Directorate touches. These included high stand-down collars, slender revers, double breasted closings, and for skirts, long tailored cutaway jackets or an accented with thick borders of fox fur or old fashioned flat fur collars.

Detachable fur features played their parts. Astrakhan pelimpus tied and sealakin skirts buttoned in place over wool dresses, in company with bolero jackets of the same fur or of fabric. Rippled stand collars of fur went on many coats, and thick collars of fox or seal. Fur turbans were tall, in the Russian style, and new fur berets had visor fronts.

Stockton Girl Wed To McCamey Man Here Sunday

Miss Gladys Lewis of Fort Stockton and George T. Crane of McCamey were married at high noon Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fat Tatum, 1703 Gregg street. Rev. C. A. Bickley, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, performed the ring ceremony.

Kid Party Is Given To Honor Friend On Birthday Saturday

In honor of his birthday, J. F. Jennings was complimented with a surprise party at his home Saturday evening.

The group of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Allen and arrived at the Jennings home attired in clever "kid" costumes. Prizes for the most attractive costumes went to Mrs. C. C. Berry and Stephen Rowe.

Outdoor games were played after which lunches served in paper packs were passed with lemonade. Present at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Givens, Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Millon, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Richardson and the Jennings.

Mrs. Ray Cravens has returned from a month's stay in California points, including San Diego and Los Angeles.

Plan A Permanent Exhibit Of Texas' Natural Resources

HOUSTON, Sept. 14.—Serious consideration of promoting Texas' natural resources to the world is being urged by the natural resources committee of the Texas Centennial exposition and as the first step in this direction the committee favors a permanent exhibit the present display of Texas' natural resources at the exposition in Dallas headed by Judge John M. Spellman.

The appeal to civic organizations of Texas began at Houston when Col. George A. Knapp, prominent railroad official, addressed a meeting of the Kiwanis club of that city. Speaking in behalf of the natural resources committee, Col. Knapp asked the club for a resolution approving the program of the committee. He assured his audience that if such formal action were taken the committee "would be spurred to greater and more effective effort."

In emphasizing the opportunity that is Texas, Col. Knapp pointed out the fundamental principle that a movement to develop the state's natural resources would bring new industry to Texas. "With new industry will come additional population," he said. "When new population comes everybody profits. The clothier sells more clothes, the builder builds more homes, the grocer sells more food . . . and the farmer sells more of the products of his field at better prices," he continued.

An eminent British manufacturer who recently viewed the extensive natural resources exhibit at Dallas said, "If we had these resources under British soil, we would consider all our economic problems solved."

In addition to making permanent the exhibit of natural resources, the committee has adopted a program that will finance the exhibit through funds from industry, maintaining such services that will make the exhibit most effective in attracting natural resource industries to Texas. The program also includes an educational campaign to achieve such an attitude upon the part of the people as will en-

Liquor Shops Must Close Unless New Permit Is Granted

AUSTIN, Sept. 14. (UP)—Liquor inspectors have been instructed to close immediately all liquor package stores which are operating without a renewed permit, the liquor control board said here today.

"A number of dealers have gone out of business but the board has received information that others are selling liquor without permits," Liquor Administrator Charles R. Miller said. "They will be closed immediately."

Approximately 1,800 new package store permits have been granted by the board. Last year's package store permits numbered 2,292. Old permits expired Aug. 31.

Rabbits Cow Coyote
BEND, Ore. (UP)—Fire Warden L. A. W. Nixon saw a coyote run out of the brush followed by two rabbits. He waited, expecting another coyote to be trailing for the kill. None appeared and the animal disappeared in the distance. The bunnies still in hot pursuit.

ONE SUBJECT IS ENOUGH
Having called the lame-duck legislature to assemble in Austin September 28, Governor Allred might try the novel experiment of holding the body to the one thing which gave reason for the call—the providing of money with which to pay old age assistance allowances.

Thirty days is the legal limit of special sessions, and if the legislature makes provision for the assistance funds within that time it will have made some sort of a record. The governor is reported as saying "I hope there will be a minimum of local bills. That is always a tough proposition. However, I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

Crossing that bridge can be easily negotiated, Governor. Just let the boys know there ain't a-goin' to be any bridge. Why there should be any local bills at a special session has yet to be explained. There are too many at regular sessions, and certainly special sessions, faced with so large a piece of work as is covered in the call, should not be cluttered up with even one local bill.

The fact is that local bills are too often trading material. A representative or senator has a pet measure and authority by the governor for its consideration at a special session places that member under some obligation to the governor and the member feels more kindly towards certain legislation the governor wants. It is not unlawful to do this, but it is expensive.

If the legislature fails to enact proper legislation for old age assistance in thirty days, because of delay with local bills, nobody but the governor will be responsible. This is one time the legislature should have only one beverage on the menu. Mixed drinks should not be served. Let 'em take it straight and like it.

Man About Manhattan
By George Tucker

Suavely polite proprietors of those exclusive Park avenue restaurants seldom hesitate to give an annoyance the old heave-ho! They feel it is better to incur the displeasure of a single undesirable than invite a loss in patronage from the better behaved guests (and a dull lot they are) who resent having the funeral-like solemnity of their dinner hour broken.

Such, anyway, was the case when the other night there wandered into a certain well-known eatery a pleasantly-noisy gabbo whose carryings on quickly earned him the frank disapproval of everybody there. Slightly dippy-dew, our hero began orating in tones that carried into the street. The guests began lifting annoyed brows.

Precisely at this moment the ultra-French proprietor stepped to the offensive one's side. "Monsieur will please to leave. . . The management regrets. . . There will be no charge. . ."

Having no alternative, "monsieur" ambled out, pausing at the door only long enough to lift his hand—thumb to nose—in a farewell salute which generously included everybody there.

Sweeping aside a sheaf of unread manuscripts (to make room for his feet on the desk), Broadway's most unpredictable theatrical manager sank into the depths of a red morocco chair and orated on the terrors of modern highway construction.

Billy Rose was, he confessed, stepping his limousine through the maze of roads that thread the metropolitan area when he found himself trapped on one of those triple-deck intersections where a dozen thoroughfares bounce over and dive under each other to keep from colliding.

Rose desired ardently to reach route 9-W, some 15 feet below him, but after wearily circling for half an hour he wound up on the wrong level.

Finally, in desperation, he hailed a passing New York state trooper. "I want to get on that road down there," the Mighty Atom declared. "Which way do I turn?" "How the blank blank should I know?" screamed the cop. "I've been an hour trying to get on 9-W myself."

They hadn't anything personal against Mrs. Owen. In fact they liked her. It was just the idea of a lady diplomat.

Expensive Life
Mrs. Owen had on major obstacle at Copenhagen, and that was finances. She was quite frank about it. Her salary as American minister was $10,000, and it took a lot more than that to entertain.

She solved the problem by taking with her Helen Lee Eames Doherty, adopted daughter of Henry L. Doherty, the utilities magnate. Mr. Doherty considers most of the economic ideas advocated by Mrs. Owen's father and by her friend, P. D. Roosevelt, to be darkly scriegulous.

However, he gave his step-daughter a very handsome allowance as Mrs. Owen's secretary, and Helen Lee, in turn, got a much-prized diplomatic passport and the privilege of paying the entertainment bills.

All of this gave Mrs. Owen the reputation in Denmark of being a very wealthy woman. Miss Doherty's marriage, plus her father's lack of enthusiasm for F. D. Roosevelt's holding company bill, eventually lost Mrs. Owen her secretary. However, she continued to do fairly well.

Her friend, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, sent a coast guard cutter to take her from Denmark to Greenland. She wrote a book, some magazine articles, and delivered a series of lectures about the trip.

About this time love began to stir in the eyes of Capt. Boerge Rohde, aide to the king of Denmark. Because Mrs. Owen was single, he had been detailed by the Danish foreign ministry to accompany Mrs. Owen to official functions.

Captain Rohde is a very attractive and intelligent gentleman, but he is not wealthy. Moreover, his job is not glamorous, and corresponds to that of military aide to the White House. Danish officers are not overpaid, and his salary is about $2,500.

Therefore, Mrs. Owen had every intention of keeping her job and salary as minister to Denmark. But here, her old friends, the career boys at the state department, stepped in. Never enthusiastic about a lady diplomat in their ranks, they felt that Mrs. Rohde was enjoying dual nationality, that she could not serve two masters.

Legally and technically they were probably right. Anyway, all this was behind the cordial exchange of telegrams between Mrs. Rohde and the president. Whenever resignation telegrams are especially cordial, you know something is up.

The question now is what Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde will do next. Actually, the president does feel very cordial toward her, and if re-elected, undoubtedly he will do something for her.

Mrs. James F. Byrnes, wife of South Carolina's new deal senator who won such a smashing re-election victory last week, believes in taking no chances.

On election day Mrs. Byrnes and her husband went to the polling place together. As they were about to enter the voting booths she asked Jimmy to advise her in marking her ballot.

In the senatorial column Jimmy marked an X opposite the name of Thomas F. Stoney, former mayor of Charleston and Byrnes' chief opponent.

"Jimmy," Mrs. Byrnes demanded, "why are you doing that?" "Oh, it's the sporting thing to do," "Humph," was the retort. "It may be sporting, but a vote is a vote. I am casting my vote for Byrnes."

Harry Hopkins's WPA execs have been working on ways and means of carrying out the president's fire-side radio pledge of greater cooperation between WPA and private industry in re-employing men.

Even before the president went on the air, they had worked out one plan, tried it in Scott county, Illinois.

There Guy R. Gooding AP administrator, closed relief rolls temporarily for all able-bodied men. Each man was given a mimeographed list of prospective employers and told to go out and find a job.

Reports Made On Campaign
Demos Still Have Cash Balance Of Over 72 Thousand

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UP)—The democratic national committee today reported campaign receipts of $1,081,768.57 in the three months ending Aug. 31 and disbursements of $1,008,840.85.

The republican national committee reported yesterday that it spent $1,757,811 and received $509,854.

The reports were filed with the clerk of the house of representatives.

The democratic cash balance for the period was $72,927.62. Its report showed. The committee started the quarter with a balance of $299,074.49.

American Liberty League receipts for the three months were $167,128.50 and expenditures for the 973. They were: Irene Dupont, $39,875; Lamont Dupont, $5,000; Pierre S. Dupont, $5,000; S. Hallock Dupont, $5,000; William Dupont, $2,500; Henry Belin Dupont, $5,000; Mrs. Marian Dupont Somerville, $2,500.

Convicts Warned Not To Pay Money For Clemency Aid
AUSTIN, Sept. 14 (UP)—By instruction of Gov. James V. Allred today, Maj. O. J. S. Ellingson, state prison manager, will have notices posted in state prisons warning convicts against making contracts to pay anyone for aid in obtaining clemency.

Prisoners will be directed to furnish any such existing contracts. No clemency will be issued to a prisoner who has made such a contract, Governor Allred said, until the contract has expired.

The action was taken, Allred said, because he has learned of some contingent contracts being made in spite of the notice he issued at the beginning of his term that he would parole or pardon none who made such a contract.

"I consider such contracts a reflection upon the board of pardon advisers and the governor," Allred said. "They might lead to a belief that there is favoritism in issuing clemency—that some persons could obtain it when others could not. I want clemency to be strictly a matter of merit. None will be issued without a report from the board."

COUNTIES ADDED TO LIST IN DROUTH AREA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (UP)—Fourteen counties in Texas, Montana, Iowa and Illinois today were added to the list of emergency drouth counties, bringing to 1,121 counties in 24 states the total drouth territory.

The Texas counties were: Borden, Dickinson, Fisher, Haskell, Kent, King, Randall, Stonehall and Throckmorton.

Freight Volume on Rise
TOLEDO (UP)—Freight tonnage in Toledo, considered a measure of general business and industrial activity, has been running 40 per cent ahead of a similar period last year. Dollar volume of business has been about 25 per cent above last year, as seen in bank debits.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

Chapter 20 MESEING BLAKE

There were eight people at Ben's dinner party: Alice and Tom, Janet, Malone, Mildred Harbin and Carol, Blake Thornton and Ben and Andy Tyler. They had been called at the Tyler's, then drove to the country club for dinner.

Carol found herself remembering the September dance, and Denis. September was dim and unreal now, and Denis was a man she'd known once. She hadn't heard from him in two months, and the fit had been so inevitable that its existence scarcely mattered. She had made the break herself, in January.

"This has been too good to kill by inches, Denis," she wrote. "So I'm not going to write again. I could make you a pretty, tearful valdictory, but it was too good for that, too. Carry on, my darling..."

The letter had been so sweet, so vehement protest, because the prospect of farewell was an artificial stimulus to a fading affair, but she had kept her word. And Denis hadn't written again because he knew she was right.

Blake Thornton was saying: "You don't live here, do you, Miss Thornton?"

"She left Denis and came back to the party. No, Meredith. I'm teaching history and French in the high school."

She rather liked Blake Thornton, but he was hardly the type to "wangle" a job from: if he gave you a job it would be because he thought you could do it. He was thirty-three or four, she decided; thin and blond and not very tall and there were deep lines on either side of his mouth. His eyes were as cold and gray as slate, and his speech was crispier than that of most southern men.

"I didn't think I'd ever met you—or heard of you—and I've been here several times." He smiled, and his eyes warmed a little. "Teaching must call for innate tact."

"And patience. More of both than I possess, I'm afraid. I'm clearing out after this year; I've tempted Providence long enough."

"That's rather a pity, isn't it? After all, somebody has to pioneer."

She shook her head. "It takes sterner stuff than I'm made of. I've had one narrow escape already; next year I wouldn't be so lucky."

His eyes questioned the nature of her escape, but she ignored the question. He said, curiously: "And when you clear out, where do you go then?"

The talk was following the path she would have chosen, but instinct warned her against hurrying it.

"I wish I knew. I'm stopping in Atlanta on the way home, to talk to a friend in personal work. She may have something to suggest, although I doubt it." She changed the subject quickly, before he should think she was soliciting his help.

"Tell me about Atlanta—how it's making the grade. I haven't spent any time there in five years, and the place has rather grown beyond my recognition."

"He frowned, beginning to breathe again—whether from returning consciousness or artificial respiration, God alone knows."

"What do you think?"

"I think it's a little of both."

She saw his eyes considering and weighing her, and she looked calmly back at him. It was a relief to talk to an intelligent man and know that sexual attraction was outside the picture. There was nothing of that in Blake Thornton's quiet look and she was glad; she was still bruised and sore from her encounters with Denis and Mike, and she wanted to forget that side of existence until her spirit healed.

Alice cut into their talk from Blake Thornton's left.

"Blake, darling, you've ignored me all evening. I'm getting violently jealous."

Carol sighed with relief. After a round with Alice, she thought, I'll seem to him like Minerva herself! She turned to Ben, who was grinning inquiringly.

"Making any time?"

"Not yet. I think it's better strategy not to try too hard."

He nodded sympathetically. "He's a canny duck; his company is one of the few that hasn't folded up in the last three years."

She dismissed Blake to say: "What are we going to do when we finish eating?"

"Go back to the house, I guess, and have a round of bridge. Any objections?"

"None at all."

She drove to Ben's house with Alice and Tom and Blake Thornton. Alice had evidently counted on riding with Blake, but he helped Carol into the back seat as a matter of course, and Carol smiled in the darkness.

When the car was moving he said casually: "Tell me some more about this job you're looking for."

She held her breath, and tried to sound equally casual. "I can't—until I find it. I'll probably end up— if I land at all—selling hardware in a basement."

They were silent for a time, and then Thornton said, curiously: "Why Atlanta, Miss Thornton, and there was an overtone of weariness in his voice."

The question jerked her back. Evidently his mind had been following the path of their talk, which was, perhaps, an encouraging sign.

"I'm—not quite sure." She laughed parenthetically. "I wish you would not call me Miss Thornton. Nobody does, except pupils and faculty."

"Thanks; I won't."

She went back to his question: "Why not Atlanta? What would you suggest—Aashboro or Meredith?"

"Oh, no! But cities are so diabolically feverish. When I retire (funny how we all cherish the illusion of being rich enough some day to retire, isn't it?) I'm going to live on a farm and raise chickens and vegetables."

"Who wouldn't?" She said it wistfully. "But you'd have to own the farm. You wouldn't go and hire yourself out as a farm hand?"

"I've had an indifferent bridge for over an hour, until Tom said: 'Oh, heck, let's play black jack. Ten-cent limit!'"

The black jack game broke up at midnight, and Ben and Blake Thornton drove Carol and Janet home. At Mrs. O'Connor's Blake held out his hand.

"Good luck, Carol." He hesitated, then added carelessly: "If you come to town, give me a ring. I might have an idea between now and then."

She gave him her hand. "Thanks. I may do it. Ben. It was a grand party. 'Night, Janet..."

May, and a prelude of real summer. The final lap of school seemed interminable to Carol. Examinations occupied the first week, and substituted grinding desk work for the uphill battle of injecting knowledge. The brighter students were exempt and thus the load was lightened, but reports filled in the crevices of leisure.

Mr. Hudson spoke to Carol about returning, and the triumph in his eyes was for his own vindication as well as hers.

"He beamed and asked me to tell you, Miss Thornton, that they hope you'll re-apply."

She smiled at him. "I'm awfully glad—for your sake more than for my own. I hated having you tared with the same brush."

"Oh, pshaw..." he waved the tribute gallantly aside. "Then you will do it?"

"I'm afraid not. We wouldn't be as lucky next time, and there'd be sure to be a next time. I've got a positive genius for opening my mouth and putting my foot in it."

He argued it with her, but in the end he had to give in.

"I'm sorry. The hope of education is in young women like you."

"I'm sorry too. But I'm selfish enough to have an eye on my own future."

Ellen too had declined to commit herself at present. "I'm not quite sure yet," she confessed to Carol, "but I think I've got other plans for next year."

Carol smiled affectionately. "It wouldn't take a Philo Vance to guess what they are, would it?"

Ellen's answering smile was glowing and self-conscious. "Maybe not. But I haven't quite made up my mind..."

Carol snorted disdainfully. "Oh, no? Well, the best of everything to you, darling, and I know you'll have it."

What wouldn't I give, she thought desperately, for a destiny like that? Of for the temperament to fulfill it?

Ellen would take Aashboro to her heart because it held Mack Hudgins. And the turbid, tumultuous river of existence would rush past, while Ellen and her family lived serene and reasonably secure upon the higher bank.

Texas Crops Deteriorate

Weather Conditions During August Generally Unfavorable

AUSTIN, Sept. 14.—Marked deterioration in the condition of pastures, late feed crops and cotton during August is noted in the monthly crop report for Texas, issued today by the department of agriculture. The report said that weather conditions during August were mostly unfavorable for growing crops in Texas, especially in the northern half of the state. During the last few days in August and the first few days in September rains fell in many sections of the state, but this moisture came too late to be reflected materially in the reported conditions of crops on September 1.

280 Loans Closed In Howard County Through Land Bank

In Howard county 280 loans were closed in the amount of $662,700 by the federal land bank and the land bank commissioner, from May 1, 1933, through June 30, 1936, according to information received by H. P. Drought, national emergency council state director for Texas.

Of the loans closed in this county 101 for $402,300 were made by the federal land bank and 179 totaling $260,400 by the land bank commissioner.

A Three-Piece Set For Baby

By RUTH ORR
Pattern No. 360

If there's a new arrival due among your acquaintances, nothing could make a more acceptable gift of welcome than this most beautiful crocheted set for a baby.

The cap, sack and booties are crocheted of fine yarn that makes them delightfully soft and warm. The yoke of the jacket and the back of the cap are worked in stripes of pale pink and white yarn while the main portions are in just the pink with a border of white yarn and a tiny edge of pink silk. In the inset is shown, in actual size, a photograph of the pattern stitch, which is a cunningly combined arrangement of the very simplest of stitches. This also brings out the beauty of the border arrangement of white, with a pink bound edge to match the body of the garments.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand, illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hooks and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 360 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address: Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Works Money Is Released

Federal Construction Program Is Put Into Full Swing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. (UP)—President Roosevelt today put the government's new $300,000,000 public works program in full swing, releasing $7,816,116 in federal loans and grants to finance 127 heavy construction projects throughout the country.

The allotments announced by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, represented the first complete quota taken entirely from the money set aside by congress for PWA activities.

Projects approved today carried $7,721,116 in outright federal grants and $195,000 in government loans.

Altogether the 124 projects will release $17,140,000 in new construction counting the amounts the cities and counties will add to the government's allotments.

For example, PWA granted $3,600,000 to New Orleans for a new hospital, and the city will contribute $4,400,000 to finance a $8,000,000 project.

KING EDWARD GOES ON DIET TO KEEP HIS WAISTLINE DOWN

VIENNA, Sept. 14 (UP)—King Edward of Great Britain, long the world's leader in men's fashions, has "gone on a diet" to keep the royal waist-line down to its usual slenderness, close associates said today.

The king, vacationing in Austria, worked out the details of his diet himself.

Since following it, the king has told friends he has lost several pounds and his health and efficiency have improved 50 per cent.

The king's diet is:

Breakfast—Fruit, toast and tea with milk.

Lunch—Fruit (usually apples) and tea.

Dinner—Fish or meat and green vegetables.

His majesty has a new rule never to drink alcohol before evening. Then he usually takes whiskey and soda. He carries with him his own special blend tea.

"The cause of most ailments is overeating," the king reportedly told friends. "Most men eat too much."

SHEPPARD COMMENDS HOWARD COUNTY COLLECTION OF TAXES

George H. Sheppard, state comptroller, has commended the county on its record of collections on delinquent insolvent taxes, or personal taxes in arrears.

A report by Tax Collector-Assessor John F. Wolcott showed these collections: State insolvents $1,808.23, state poll $1,598, county insolvent $1,496.75, and county poll $708.30, or a total of $5,832.23.

Cop Uses Head

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—Patrolman John Richardson may possess psychic powers that will aid the law. To a mother's frantic plea for aid to find her lost daughter, Richardson replied that the 3-year-old child was probably in the back yard. She was found sleeping under a swing.

Galveston Regained Its Position as the Leading Texas port in the exporting of general cargo during the fiscal year ended July 31, according to a report issued by H. S. Ziegler, Inc., Galveston freight brokers.

Farm pastures were reported at 62 per cent of normal, or a drop of 20 points from the condition reported a month ago. This compares with the 10-year average (1923-32) September 1 condition of 83 per cent. Livestock ranges were somewhat below the 10-year (1926-35) average on September 1, but livestock were in good condition. Range and other feed supplies are ample for the major portion of the state, with good supplies in the southern half, and poor to fair supplies in the northern half.

A 1935 cotton crop of 3,036,000 bales of 500 lbs. gross weight is forecast for Texas, based upon condition as of September 1. This represents a decrease of 814,000 bales from the forecast made on August 1. The present forecast of production compares with 2,956,000 bales produced in 1935, 2,401,000 bales in 1934, and an average production for the 5-year period (1928-32) of 4,580,000 bales.

The Texas corn crop is now forecast at 66,061,000 bushels. The indicated yield per acre is 15.5 bushels. Production a year ago was 59,368,000 bushels, and the yield per acre was 19.5 bushels.

Rice condition, at 90 per cent of normal on September 1, indicates a forecast a month ago was forecast at 49,340,000 bushels. Last year the yield of 52 bushels per acre and forecasts a total production of 10,764,000 bushels for Texas. This compares with 8,840,000 bushels produced in 1935.

Prospects for grain sorghums are less favorable than was indicated on August 1, due to dry weather in the later producing areas of the state. A yield of 9.5 bushels per acre and a production of 33,820,000 bushels is now forecast. Production a month ago was forecast at 49,340,000 bushels. Last year the yield of 52 bushels per acre and forecasts a total production of 10,764,000 bushels for Texas. This compares with 8,840,000 bushels produced in 1935.

Bears Are Wild

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UP)—Visitors to the park may not believe it, but the bears in this area are NOT pets—they're wild. At least 17 persons this month have suffered hand injuries because they refused to believe the warnings of rangers not to feed the bears.

Business Better in THE SMALLER TOWNS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14. (UP)—Business is picking up at the country crossroads, the department of commerce reported today. The report said that daily average sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas during August were about 20 per cent higher in dollar volume than in August, 1935.

August sales increased about nine per cent from July. But this was less than the usual increase for the season, the department said.

Sales for the first eight months of the year were 13 per cent higher than for the same period in 1935 and 38 per cent above the same period in 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Shelton of Shreveport, La., are guests of the latter's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hurt.

being transplanted in advantageous locations.

Future Projects

It was pointed out to the judges and commissioners that other projects are now underway or will be started in the near future in city and county. Among them are a 5.6 mile section on the Chalk-highway No. 9 job which has base material practically down with drainage structures installed and topping expected by the middle of next month. Another 5.7 mile stretch will be worked up immediately thereafter.

Other road projects contemplated for the coming year in Howard county total 24.4 miles of grading, drainage, base and bituminous topping in farm-to-market roads including the Coahoma-Vincent road, the Gall-Coahoma cross road, a 6.4 extension on the paving previously done on the Big Spring-Gall road, the Knot-highway No. 9 road, and improvements west of Highway school and the Glascock county road.

Coahoma school grounds are due for beautification and more work is scheduled for the Big Spring city park extension. Approximately 25 blocks of paving and about 12 blocks of concrete curb and gutter are contemplated for the city.

A number of the visiting judges commented favorably upon the projects and viewed some of them as models and added that Big Spring and Howard county had shown conclusively that beneficial, permanent improvements were possible through cooperation with WPA.

Mexicans Plan Independence Day Program

Two-Day Celebration To Begin On Tuesday Afternoon

The 126th anniversary of the independence of Mexico will be celebrated by local Mexicans on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, according to an announcement by John R. Hutto. Programs which have been planned include a parade, songs, instrumental music, a dance, and patriotic speeches.

Tuesday's program will begin in the afternoon at which time a band concert under the direction of Francisco Marin will be held at the Kate Morrison school. There will also be songs, readings and patriotic speeches. In the evening a dance has been planned which will end early in the morning.

On Wednesday, festive day proper, a parade will be held soon after noon beginning from the courthouse lawn. During the remainder of the afternoon a musical program will be held. Climax of the celebration will take place Wednesday evening when the celebrators gather at the school for the principal program of patriotism. At this time they will pay homage to those ancestors who fought for liberation from Spain after many years of suffering from selfish and unwise ruling.

Americans are invited to attend these programs.

General program direction is in charge of Mrs. Beatrice G. Cerda. Other officers of the program committee are Jose B. Garcia, president; Hipolito C. Chavez, vice president; Eladio Mercado, secretary; Telesforo Fierro, treasurer.

Local Scouts Get Awards

One Eagle Badge And One Eagle Palm Presented At Honor Court

Awards ranging from second class rank to the highest in the Boy Scout order—the Eagle—were presented Sunday afternoon to boys from local troops.

Second class awards were presented by W. C. Blankenship, chairman of the court of honor, first class by Nat Shickel, merit badges by Rev. C. A. Bickley, and star badges by Dr. D. F. McConnell.

Alfred J. Stiles, area executive, presented Sam Atkins, Troop No. 1, with his Eagle gold palm for additional work after attaining the Eagle rank, commended George Miller, Troop No. 5, for having attained the Eagle rank and permitted his scoutmaster to present the badge.

The attendance award was won by Troop No. 5 for the fifth consecutive time. A special musical number was given by George Miller and Charles Tingle.

Those who had awards for presentation Sunday were Sammy Mellinger, Billy Welch, Ira Fuller, Jr., Jack Rice, Harry Blomsheld, John Blomsheld, Taber Rowe, Ray Wilson, J. L.
