

TECH TACKLES STATE ELEVEN

CHARLES HARRISON

LARRY MULLINS

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

The Texas Tech Red Raiders will make their 1961 debut at 8 p.m. today as underdogs, meeting Mississippi State University in the night game of a major football doubleheader.

In a nationally-televised afternoon contest, another member of the Southwest Conference, Arkansas University, will do battle with the pre-season choice of the Southeastern Conference, Mississippi University.

Both Mississippi schools have been tabbed with the favorite's role in the games, with Ole Miss picked to win by two touchdowns and the Bulldogs of Mississippi State by one.

Charlie Harrison, 185 lb., 5-10 junior from Abilene, and Larry Mullins, 205 lb., 6-3 senior from Snyder, have been chosen team captains for the Red Raiders in the first game.

Both will start for Texas Tech tonight, although Harrison will make his appearance in a new position.

He played at defensive fullback most of the season but was moved to center this year to take care of the vacancy left by the graduation of all-America E. J. Holub.

Mullins is back for his third year at tackle.

Mississippi State has 24 returning lettermen, along with several squad members who saw varsity duty a year ago. Sixteen graduates of the 1960 red-shirt group, plus a bevy of newcomers from the freshman ranks will also bolster the State cause.

The Red Raiders will have only 16 back, with several top graduates from the freshman squad expected to play a big part in the Red Raiders' decision.

The backfields of both Mississippi State and Texas Tech will be similar in that both schools boast quantity and quality in the positions.

An expected addition to the Red Raider strategy this season is an improved passing attack. Head Coach J. T. King has in David Parks, Jerry Garrison, Bake Turner and Bob Witucki four good receivers who will let returning letterman Johnny Lovelace and sophomore Doug Cannon exploit their throwing accuracy with more than average chances of success.

Parks, though just a sophomore, is expected to be in top consideration for all-conference honors by the season's end, and Tech's versatile back, Bake Turner, was in prime contention for conference recognition last season.

The Red Raiders also will have a good ground game. They have one of the best backs in the Southwest Conference charging at the Bulldogs in the person of fullback Coolidge Hunt.

Hunt led the SWC in rushing last year as a sophomore, averaging 4.1 yards per carry. Over the year, he scored 25 points for the Raiders.

To counteract the Red Raiders' strength at fullback, the Bulldogs have Mackie Weaver, a 5-11, 174 lb. fullback who is rated one of the top runners in the Southeast. He averaged 4.0 yards per carry last year.

Strongest point in the Mississippi State backfield will be at the quarterback position, where the Bulldogs have three capable men returning.

John Correro will probably get the starting nod in the opener against the Raiders, but Billy (Tootie) Hill and Charlie Furlow both have their strong points that assure them of seeing considerable action in the game.

In Howard Benton, Fred Perkins, Ray Osbourne and Bobby Garvin, biggest man on the squad at 230 lbs., the Bulldogs will have four experienced tacklers that will give the Mississippi State line a four pound advantage over the Texas Tech forward wall. The Bulldog line weighs in at 202 average and the Red Raiders will have a 198 lb. average.

The two schools have met only once previously. That was in 1953 with Texas Tech winning 27-0.

Rally Raises Spirit As Raiders Depart

"Give 'em hell, Raiders!"

This was the advice of hundreds of chanting Techsians as they turned out Thursday night to give the Red Raiders a booming sendoff to Jackson, Miss., where they will meet the Mississippi State Bulldogs Saturday in the first game of the season.

With a blazing bonfire and a record-breaking crowd, the football season at Texas Tech was officially opened. For weeks there had been a hint of fall and football in the air as the Red Raiders began work outs. The climax came as Tech students gathered at the Southwest Conference Circle to cheer the team on to victory using everything from cow bells and air horns to plenty of lung power.

Competition in yelling sparked the rally as various dorms, sororities and fraternities waved banners proclaiming "Crown 'em, Raiders!" and "Beat the Bulldogs." The combined effort showed that school spirit is high at Tech this year.

Bulldogs were led by the cheerleaders. Berl Huffman, freshman football coach, gave a pep talk, but Tech fans received the most encouragement from a humorous skit in which the Raiders, portrayed by members of the Alpha Chi Omega pledge class, swept to victory over the Mississippi State "Puppies," the freshman football players.

J. T. King, new head football coach, and the other members of his coaching staff were introduced. Captains Larry Mullins and Charles Harrison also gave pep talks, and the 1961 Texas Tech Red Raiders were recognized.

Another Record! 10,195 Enrollment!

Union Shows Puppet's Art Of Javanese

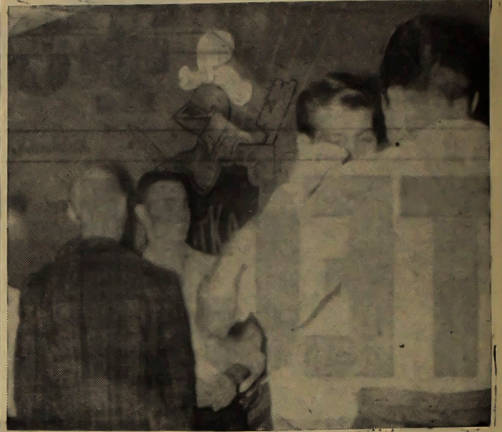

A Javanese Art Exhibit is currently on display at the Tech Union featuring Javanese puppets, masks and art work.

The delicate shadow puppets and character masks are made by hand. The puppets represent characters in Javanese myth and the masks are used in the primitive dance of the Javanese called the Topeng.

The coeds will be interested in the display of the Batik, a cloth the Javanese make by hand. It is a long and grueling process of weaving and dyeing the cloth until it reaches the right texture. The result is a beautiful and unusual garment.

Pictures on display represent some of the characters in the Wayang, the Javanese drama, which is an ancient rite invoking the Javanese ghosts. To aid the student, there are information bulletins explaining each display.

The exhibit, which began Sept. 16, will continue until Oct. 1. The next display the Union will provide will be on advertising and poster art and will run until Oct. 15. Also on the calendar for October is an exhibit on primitive music and musical instruments.

WITH THE SIGNING OF BIDS LESS THAN TWO WEEKS AWAY . . . men gather at the Pike Lodge for a typical rush party. Fall rushing ends Oct. 14.

Homecoming Council Limits Size Of Floats

The executive council of the Homecoming Committee met Friday afternoon and passed new rules regulating the size of floats to be entered in this year's Homecoming parade.

Bill Riley, homecoming chairman, announced that floats will be limited to 30 ft. in length and 15 ft. in width.

"We are trying to create more participation in the parade and give an equal chance to all of the entries this year," Riley said "these new rules will give all of the organizations a chance to enter a float without endangering the scholastic standing of their membership."

John Ward, parade committee chairman, said that a meeting to discuss all of the parade rules would be conducted Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the Tech Union.

Blackburn Quits

The Toreador learned late Friday that David Blackburn, manager of the Lubbock Auditorium-Colliseum, has resigned his position.

Reports indicate that Blackburn will join the Six Flags Over Texas exhibit near Fort Worth.

C'mon, Rich! You're rationalizing. Jockey support might never have secured you against the Emperor. But it certainly would have provided snug protection against the physical stresses and strains of your active life. Your armor never tailored a coat of mail more knowingly than Jockey tailors a brief—from 13 separate, body-conforming pieces.

Other "imitation" briefs (copies of the original Jockey brand) have no more Jockey support than a tuppé pair cloth.

Homecoming Parade

New Rules May Help

In a move designated to add interest and entries to this year's Homecoming parade, the homecoming committee has announced new rules concerning the length and width of the floats entered.

1. Each float is limited to one prime mover and the float shall not exceed 30 ft. in length. If the prime mover is decorated, it is considered in the overall float length.

2. The maximum width—15 ft.—this width is necessary in order for the floats to make all of the turns along the parade route.

Bill Riley, homecoming chairman, pointed out several reasons why the move was necessary:

- 1. To encourage more participation in the parade
- 2. To be sure that all of the floats are able to make the turns along the parade route
- 3. To allow equal competition among all entries and
- 4. To allow organizations to construct a winning float without possibly endangering the scholastic standing of their membership.

Taking into consideration the fact that Texas Tech needs a good Homecoming parade this year and every year, The Toreador fully supports the announced changes.

We believe the alumni of Tech look forward to the Homecoming parade each year. Anything that can be done to improve it is always welcome news.

Toreador Mail Call...

Dear Editor,

Our chief tormentor for the past several years, N. Khrushchev, has bragged that this fall his "trained communists will infiltrate 2000 American colleges and universities (sic). A nation such as ours, with all its magnificent heritage, should, I think, have enough pride to take that challenge to heart and to meet it with all the opposition it can muster. Yet, it appears that the American people have an unnatural desire to "die on the vine." Why?

Don't the citizens of this great land care? I think they must care. Perhaps people are concerned, but do not know what they can do to combat the insidious evil of communism.

I am taking time out from a very busy schedule to write this letter because, I am concerned about this situation, which, all too frequently appears to be getting out of control.

If the individual citizen is concerned, and does wish to do something useful, and is willing to be taught what he can do to help, then it is my opinion that those very institutions which were challenged, the American colleges and universities (sic) should take up the banner and lead the way to success. I used the word "lead" purposely since many of the leaders in our society are connected with these institutions.

I think a good place to start would be to increase national pride among the students of our educational institutions. And an excellent way to build this pride might be to place American flags in our lecture halls for the lectures, convocations, and other meetings. Also, the establishment of the custom of beginning such events with the "Pledge of Allegiance" to our flag and nation.

I cite an example of negligence in this respect which I observed yesterday at the SUB, where Mr. Skousen gave a lecture on Communism. (He was against it!) Not only was there no "Pledge of Allegiance," but there wasn't even a flag present. I personally feel that it is very appropriate that a flag should be displayed during lectures which enhance national pride.

I certainly hate to think of Tech's being infiltrated, but it seems like it would at least be very fertile soil for them to seed—it is also fertile soil for us to seed.

Sincerely yours,
Bruce Powell

Editor,

"I don't know much about the whole mess anyway" certainly summed up a statement made in the Tuesday, September 19, issue of the TOREADOR, concerning the death of the Secretary-General of the United Nations, Dag Hammarskjöld. What I don't understand is how anyone can make such a rational statement as "Hammarskjöld is too pro-communistic" and end it in that manner.

The reason Mr. Hammarskjöld was in Africa was to try to end the fighting between United Nation's troops and those of Katanga Province, a Province which, under the leadership of Moise Tshombe, has been leaning strongly toward communism.

The Soviet Union didn't recognize Mr. Hammarskjöld in death. Why should they? They didn't even recognize him when he was alive. For years the Soviets had been trying to oust Mr. Hammarskjöld from his position, but he braved the storms. When the United Nations entered the Congo situation, under the instigation of Mr. Hammarskjöld, the Soviet Union was infuriated. They had planned to move in and take over the country after the last Belgian had left.

During this time, under terrible strain and pressure from the Soviet Union and her satellites, Mr. Hammarskjöld contemplated resigning his position. But when the majority of the member-nations impressed upon him the need for remaining in his post, and what would happen if he resigned, he decided that he could not "throw the organization to the winds."

Mr. Hammarskjöld would probably not have been re-elected in 1963. The Soviet Union would have seen to that. They have made it clear to everyone that they want enough representation in the United Nations to get their own way in every matter. Mr. Hammarskjöld had not given them enough representation. What they were waiting for... what they would have had anyway in two years is now theirs. The Western Powers are stunned by the situation in which they now find themselves. We certainly cannot give the Soviet Union her way, and she definitely will not give us our way.

To me, Dag Hammarskjöld was like a moss-covered rock, to which a drowning person was clinging, in a very deep lake. We knew that eventually we would lose our grip and slide into the water, but still we held on... hoping, praying. Something now has happened that we didn't expect. The earth underneath the rock has given way.

Sincerely,
George Stanley,

Cleon Skousen, the anti-communist speaker who addressed a full house at the Union Thursday, seems to have gotten the commies' ideas and methods down pat.

I talked with him for a while before his speech Thursday and following are some of his impressions on happenings in the world today.

Education: "This has always been one of the prime objectives of the communists," Skousen said. "Many people who are definitely not communists may be teaching something that is straight from the communist line without realizing it."

"These people transmit the ideas in good faith because the Reds have colored the lines so effectively that they (the ideas) sound good."

"Colleges, as such, are not targets—the communists are out to infiltrate any kind of education."

Berlin: "This was a counter-movement to divert American attention from Laos, Cuba and the Congo."

The Congo: "Only a miracle can save the Congo now. When I tried to warn people about it a year ago, Cuba was in the news and no one was interested. Now, people are too interested in events in the Congo to listen about the Panama Canal."

War With Russia: The Communists are realists. They know that a total war would spell disaster for everyone.

"They are definitely convinced that they will achieve ultimate victory over us without war."

Co-existence Between Communism And Capitalism: "To me, this is just another way of saying that we should be patient while they take us over."

In outlining the "errors" made which gave the Reds countries such as China, Cuba, the "satellites," North Korea and other countries around the world, Skousen named names and laid the ther the Red cause through (although he didn't use the word, blame at the feet of the people who, in his opinion, helped fur-I'm sure he meant it) STUPIDITY.

If one stops and looks for a moment at the world situation, it is easy to see what Skousen means.

1.) Red China, a country that we fought in Korea and who still holds scores of American citizens prisoners, is fighting to gain recognition in the U.N. Our ambassador, Adlai Stevenson, who says that we will fight with everything we have to keep Red China out, also says that it may be more than we can do. We may have to let them into the organization.

2.) We Americans let the Commies back us into some of the most damnable positions and then have to go on the defensive.

I like being free. I like being able to sit down at a typewriter like this and say what I feel without any fear of government re- go as far as his ambition and energy will carry him.

prison. I like being a member of a society which allows a man There is no substitute for America.

What can be done—by you and me—to fight Communism? Skousen suggests that the best way is to learn the enemy and then defeat him at his own game. Where he must tell lies to color his way of life, we can tell the truth.

Bigger things—action on an international scale—that can be done, the ex-FBI agent suggests, are:

1.) Take a long look at the UN and reorganize it so that we will not be footing the bill for a tool that can be smoothly used by Russia or any warring nation.

2.) Treat Communists in the U.S. and elsewhere like the criminals that they are.

3.) Break diplomatic ties with Russia until it can come into a community of nations as an adult state, truthful and honorable.

4.) Hit them where they are the weakest—in the stomach. Quit sending food to communist countries.

If this has sounded like flag waving, I can't apologize. I've been free too long to ever live in a regimented society. I could happen.

Ten Buses Scheduled For Austin

About ten buses are being chartered for the all-school trip Sept. 30 to carry Techsians to Austin for the Tech-Texas University football game.

The caravan's lunch stop is Brownwood where the Adams Street Community Center has been reserved for the meal. Underwood's Barbecue will cater.

Arriving in Austin about 4:30 p.m., Techsians will stage a pep rally in front of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel in the 100-block of East 7th St. Cheerleaders will lead yells from the balcony of the building and the street will be blocked off for the students.

Immediately after the pep rally Austin and Houston chapters of Tech's Ex-Students Association plan a reception in the East room of the hotel. Following the reception the buses will be at the disposal of the students for transportation within the city.

The buses will leave the hotel around 7:30 p.m. for the game at 8 o'clock.

After the game Techsians are invited to attend a dance and reception given by representatives of the Texas U. student body, Student Union, and "The Daily Texan" at the Texas U. Student Union.

Concerning Saturday classes, Carlyle Smith, student body president, said, "We can't justify absences for the trip as being necessary, but professors have been very understanding in the past and if the students talk to them . . .?"

Monday, Sept. 25 students' receipts may be exchanged for bus seats and game tickets at the Student Council office. Tuesday Sept. 26 is the deadline for buying tickets for the trip.

Tickets are $14 and include the bus fare and a seat between the 30- and 40-yard lines at the game.

Engineers Meet, Elect Officers

New officers were elected by the American Institute of Chemical Engineering at its first meeting of the school year Monday.

New officers elected are Dale Joy, president; K. Vidourri, vice president; Kent Carlisle, secretary; Bailey Barton, treasurer; David Wilson, athletic director and reporter. Dr. A. G. Oberg is sponsor.

John W. Bradford, Dean of Engineering, and H. R. Heichelheim, engineering professor, were faculty members attending the meeting.

'Oklahoma' Thrills Crowd; Theater Season Begins

The last ingredient needed to produce opening-night magic for Oklahoma at the Lubbock Theater Center last evening was a good house.

And it was a good audience. The kind that could warm the heart of the most seasoned trouper.

Added to the weeks of preparation culminated when the curtain rose at 8:15, the enthusiastic crowd sary spark—to bring about the provided the catalyst—that necessary moments when performers surpass rehearsal standards.

Almost every song was a show-stopper.

The heroine was perfectly pure, the hero was gallant and the villain could only be described as dirty-dirty.

Laurey (Marilyn Campbell) of the pleasant soprano and milkmaid complexion is completely believable in the role.

Jud Fry (Barry Corbin) is sufficiently formidable to make kids cry in the next-to-the-last row.

The pleasant tenor of Curley (Ross Cass) and his ease in the role indicate still more casting know-how on the part of director S. Walker James.

Aunt Eller (Lou Keay) and Ado Annie (Carol O'Connell) turning out likewise brilliant performances. Ado's rendition of "I Can't Say No" received sustained applause.

More compliments to Director James for timing and line delivery. The laughs come when they are supposed to.

Choreographer Cherry Jones works wonders with a largely inexperienced dance troupe. Particularly in group dances does her ability and sense of fitness become apparent.

Good sets smoothly changed, crack musical coordination, and set of exceptional voices belie the so-called "non-professional" aspect of Oklahoma.

Summary: There's a world of difference between non-professional and un-professional.

Philip Morris Names Koons As Business Representative

As a part of its work scholarship program, Philip Morris Incorporated has announced that Ronny Koons has been selected campus business representative. The appointment is for the full school year.

The cigarette firm, which was first in the industry to support college-level education by this method, also makes grants for higher education to children of its employees and contributes to educational and research institutions in many areas of the country.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Koons, 5016 45th Street, Lubbock, Koons will serve as liaison between the campus and the company's New York offices and he will develop and work on advertising and promotion projects for Philip Morris, Parliament, Marlboro and Alpine brands.

ONCE MORE, UNTO THE BREACH

With this installment I begin my eighth year of writing columns for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, as fine a bunch of men as you would meet in a month of Sundays—loyal, true, robust, windswept, forthright, tattooed—in short, precisely the kind of men you would expect them to be if you were familiar with the cigarettes they make—and I hope you are—for Marlboro, like its makers, is loyal, true, robust, windswept, forthright, tattooed.

There is, however, one important difference between Marlboro and its makers. Marlboro has a filter and the makers do not—except of course for Windswept T. Sigafoos, Vice President in charge of Media Research. Mr. Sigafoos does have a filter. I don't mean that Mr. Sigafoos personally has a filter. What I mean is that he has a filter in his swimming pool at his home in Fairbanks, Alaska. You might think that Fairbanks is rather an odd place for Mr. Sigafoos to live, being such a long distance from the Marlboro home office in New York City. But it should be pointed out that Mr. Sigafoos is not required to be at work until 10 A.M.

But I digress. This column, I say, will take up questions of burning interest to the academic world—like "Should French conversation classes be conducted in English?" and "Should students be allowed to attend first hour classes in pajamas and robes?" and "Can a student of 18 find happiness with an economics professor of 90?"

Because many of you are new to college, especially freshmen, perhaps it would be well in this opening column to start with campus fundamentals. What, for example, does "Alma Mater" mean? Well, sir, "Alma Mater" is Latin for "send money".

What does "Dean" mean? Well, sir, "Dean" is Latin for "don't get caught".

What does "dormitory" mean? Well, sir, "dormitory" is Latin for "bed of pain".

Next, let us discuss student-teacher relationships. In college the keynote of the relationship between student and teacher is informality. When you meet a teacher on campus, you need not salute. Simply tug your forelock. If you are bald and have no forelock, a low curtsy will suffice. In no circumstances should you polish a teacher's car or sponge and press his suit. It is, however, permissible to worn his dog.

With the President of the University, of course, your relationship will be a bit more formal. When you encounter the President, fling yourself prone on the sidewalk and sing loudly:

*"Prexy is wise
Prexy is true
Prexy has eyes
Of Lake Louise blue."*

As you can see, the President of the University is called "Prexy". Similarly, Deans are called "Dixie". Professors are called "Proxie". Housemothers are called "Hoxie Moxie". Students are called "Amoebae".

This uncensored, free-wheeling column will be brought to you throughout the school year by the makers of Marlboro and Marlboro's partner in pleasure, the new, unfiltered, king-size Philip Morris Commander. If unfiltered cigarettes are your choice, try a Commander. You'll be welcome aboard.

Tickets Still Available For Raider - Aggie Tilt

Texas Tech's athletic ticket office will be open all day Saturday, Mrs. Mildred Graham, ticket manager, announced.

Tickets to all six home games—as well as the road contests—are available, she said. Most popular single game attraction here so far is the Oct. 7 contest with Texas A&M.

One hundred choice (section 118) tickets to the A&M-Tech game here Oct. 7 have been received from College Station by the Lubbock A&M Club, according to Don McTurff, president of the local group.

These tickets, he said, are being reserved for fans purchasing tickets to the barbecue honoring the Aggie Band before the game. By mailing $6.50 to box 504, Lubbock, a fan may buy a ticket to the barbecue and admission to the game.

79 Report for Picadors

Tech Turnout Is High

Future hopes for Texas Tech football teams looked bright this week, following the report to practice by 79 freshmen candidates—eight more than reported at Texas A&M and more than double the number showing at Texas University.

Texas Tech, A&M, Rice and Texas were rated evenly on the quality of recruiting last spring, but the Red Raiders seem to have an advantage now, since an additional 32 boys have shown up on their own to try for a position on the Picador squad.

The 38-man squad is the shortest in years at the University, but included on the team are several all-stars and eight players who played in last month's all-star game in San Antonio.

The Aggies boast eleven first or second team high school all-state selections, and Tech claims more all-stars than any other school in the conference. The Red Raiders signed up six who got that honor and six who played in the all-star game.

Texas Tech opens against University of Arkansas here Oct. 13,

Intramurals Break Record, Add Boxing As 21st Sport

By BROXTON HAVARD
Toreador Staff Writer

The number of intramural sports for men, already at a record high, soars to 21 different sports this fall with the addition of boxing to the program.

"We've tried to include it in previous years but did not have the space," stated Edsel Buchanan, director of the intramural program as he announced the first boxing intramural program at Tech.

"This is not a program for the experienced boxer who has had a large number of fights or participated in the Golden Gloves Championships," he said, stressing that the program is for beginners. "No varsity boxers will be allowed to take part in the program."

Concerning the problem that remains, Buchanan said the Intramural Committee has not yet agreed to a way of determining the eligibility of experienced boxers. Boxers with extensive experience will be invited into the program only as coaches.

To be eligible to participate beginning boxers must:

1. Sign up no later than Nov. 1.
2. Secure intramural forms for medical examinations.
3. Register for a workout schedule.

4. Condition himself through a scheduled two-month training program.

5. Successfully pass a physical fitness test upon request.

The schedule for the boxing program, Buchanan announces, calls for training, conditioning and practice for the fall semester with actual fights to be arranged in the early spring semester. The championship fight will be during Noche de Conquistadores.

First and second place trophies will be awarded in each of the 10 weight divisions. At present there are two training areas in and near the old women's gym. The construction of a regulation boxing ring should be completed by next semester, Buchanan said.

"We are going to furnish all necessary equipment except personal items," he concluded.

At present six men have signed up to participate and are getting regular workouts. Tech men who are interested in beginning boxing should sign up in the Intramural Office in the old men's gym.

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

Today is the day that Tech students have been looking forward to for many years.

In Jackson, Miss., tonight the Red Raiders will show, to a great extent, just what improvement the new coaching regime, headed by J T King, has made.

True, the Raiders will be minus a player on whom they've depended highly the past three years, but the overall team is expected to be better than in recent years.

It is accepted all over the Southwest Conference that the Red Raiders have a backfield that will compare favorably with that of any school. On the other hand, the line is one of the lightest and most inexperienced in the conference.

John Petty, news editor of the Toreador, has answered a challenge, and each week of the football season we will be trying to outdo each other in the prognostication department.

As some of you may know, Petty was associate sports editor of the Toreador two years ago. So we're both on familiar ground.

Here's the way the first week looks:

'Horns 'Move Out'

When the Texas Longhorns switch from offense to defense it's like a Chinese fire drill.

Tackles are playing guards. One guard and the fullback back up the line. And the center and other guard play tackle.

But Coach Darrell Royal, now in his fifth season at the University of Texas, has his reasons for shuffling.

"So far we've found that our centers play better defense in the 'down' position in the line rather than in the upright linebacking position," Royal explained. "But we're not married to this system and it could be some time that our personnel would be such that we would go back to the center-fullback linebacking."
