

Elections—Something New, Something Wonderful

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

No matter how many times you have seen it there is always something new and wonderful about it.

Millions of men and women marking little pieces of paper or pulling levers in curtained polling booths.

Dropping by the polling places casually on their way to or from work. Asking no man's yea or nay, secure in their right to govern themselves.

Maybe it isn't really a national election.

Maybe it's just a district or state election. Maybe many of them don't know how they'll vote until they see a familiar name on the list, or a party label. Maybe most of them don't even stop to think of the vast implications of their act.

But they know that on this day they exercise an individual right. As the majority agrees, so will their representatives be chosen. No political cabal will nullify their reaction on the morrow.

They walk in freedom, and forever their faith in the efficacy of their vote is a testimonial to the American way.

11-Member Committee Visits, Evaluates Tech Self-Study

By EUGENE YOUNG
Toreador Staff Writer

An 11-member visitation committee representing the Commission on Colleges, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools arrived in Lubbock Sunday to conduct a three-day evaluation of the completeness and thoroughness of Tech's recently established self-study.

The committee began Monday by meeting briefly with Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president. The remainder of the day was spent in interviews, visits and meetings with faculty, staff and students.

The committee will continue their study today and will have a final conference with Dr. Goodwin Wednesday. At the conclusion of the visit, the committee will prepare a report on its findings and recommendations. A draft of the report will be sent to Dr. Goodwin.

Special headquarters for the visiting committee have been set up in the Tech Union Bldg., room 203.

Tech faculty and staff members are invited to have coffee with the committee at an informal "get-acquainted" session at 10:30 a.m. in the Faculty Club quarters.

According to M. L. Pennington, Tech vice president and controller, the members of the committee rank high in the academic field. They take time off from their regular jobs to extend a helping hand to colleges and the Southern Association in order to produce higher education, Pennington said.

Members of the visitation committee are: chairman, Dr. J. Paul Reynolds, arts and sciences dean at Florida State University; Dr. John Allen, president of the University of South Florida; Dr. N.

M. Caffee, vice president and dean of academic affairs at Louisiana State University; Dean Cecil C. Carpenter, College of Commerce, University of Kentucky; President D. W. Colvard, Mississippi State University and Dr. A. T. Granger, dean of engineering, University of Tennessee.

Other members are Dr. Gerald

Huff, dean of graduate school, University of Georgia; Dr. R. R. Oglesby, dean of students, Florida State University; Dr. John Shirley, vice president and provost at the University of Delaware; Dean Louis Shores, the library school, Florida State University; and Dean Mary Speirs, school of home economics, University of Georgia.

Most Handsome Techsans Choose Malone

Ronnie Malone, a senior marketing major from Wichita Falls, was chosen Most Handsome Man Saturday night at Club Scarlet. Ronnie was sponsored in the contest by Chi Omega Social sorority. Kappa Sigma is Ronnie's social fraternity.

Club Scarlet was sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism society for women. Proceeds from the event are used to provide a speaker for its Founder's Day Banquet, to send delegates to conventions and to sponsor a freshman open house.

Entertainment at Club Scarlet was provided by skits performed by many campus organizations. The winner of the skit contest for the third year in a row was Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, with a skit entitled "Tech Life." The skit pictured why, of all the schools in the Southwest Conference, incoming students should choose Texas Tech.

Delta Gamma social sorority was second in the contest with their entry entitled "Cinderella—Cathy Coed." Cinderella in their skit chose from seven types of men the one man she felt was the most handsome.

Third place was awarded to Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority for their skit, a take-off on the Broadway musical Camelot.

Carter Changes Name

FORT WORTH (AP)—The name of Carter Field was officially changed yesterday to Greater Southwest International Airport-Dallas-Fort Worth.

The action was taken at a meeting of the city council, acting on a recommendation of the city aviation board.

Councilman Bayard Friedman made the motion to approve the change. Councilman Gene Cagle seconded the motion and it was passed without discussion. City officials have believed that changing the name of the airport might make it easier for Dallas to accept it as a regional field serving the North Texas area.

58 Days Equal 6 Hours

See Europe - Earn Credit

By GRETCHEN POLLARD
Toreador Staff Writer

Fifty-eight days equal six hours. Sound impossible? Maybe so, mathematically, but not academically. Students will have the opportunity to receive six hours college credit while touring the cultural points of Europe.

Plans are now underway for the fifth biennial European Tour under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Strout, assistant professor of English at Tech.

The tour, arranged through the Transmarine Tours, Inc., New York, consists of 58 days of study and sightseeing through 11 countries of Europe.

Countries included in the tour are England, Scotland, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Liechtenstein, Italy, Monaco and France. For the first time in several years, the tour also will include Norway and Denmark.

Space is provided for 34 students. The six hours English credit is available, but not required, according to Mrs. Strout.

Price of the tour includes transportation to and from New York, N.Y., meals, hotels and special theatre tickets. Round-trip tickets by steamer cost $1228, or round trip by jet, economy class, totals $1293. Mrs. Strout said students often leave by boat and return by plane.

"No one has any idea of the fun one has on a boat," said Mrs. Strout. "The whole program on the ship is designed for young people."

Students will sail on the SS Aurelia, an Italian steamer chartered by the Council on Student Travel. The shipboard program includes movies, sports, swimming, language classes, dances and other types of entertainment.

"Everything on the boat is free," stressed Mrs. Strout.

Mrs. Strout, who has toured Europe eight times, said the SS Aurelia is a ship designed primarily for transporting young people in the summer.

"Many groups sail on the SS Aurelia each summer and many students touring Europe individually — International Experiment, Fullbright scholarship winners, exchange students and students going over to summer work camps," Mrs. Strout said.

The ship sails from New York June 8. England is the first stop after nine days at sea—for five days of visiting in London, Oxford, Stratford and York. A visit to the Old Vic Theatre, Buckingham Palace, Westminster Abbey and Parliament are included.

Four days will be spent in Scotland, sightseeing in Edinburgh and New Castle. Students will then board the SS Venus and sail across the North Sea to Norway. Among the list of famous sights, top attractions will be Bergen, Hardangerjord, Sognefjord, and Oslo. Activities will include folk dancing and snow skiing.

It is expected that a train heading for Copenhagen, the famous capital of Denmark, will provide three days of fun for the tourists.

By express train, the tourists will find themselves in Frankfurt, Germany. Further travel by bus will take the students to Heidelberg and Black Forest.

Continuing travel via the Rhine Falls will bring the group to Lucerne, Switzerland — land of the superb Alpine mountains for a two-day excursion.

On the way to Italy, one day will be spent in Liechtenstein. There an evening is planned at the Tyrolean dances.

By July 12, travelers should find themselves in the heart of Venice. Accommodations at the Lido, overlooking the beach, are booked.

Rome will be a highlight on the agenda, via Rimini, an Adriatic seashore resort. Once in Rome, a day and a half of sightseeing will include St. Peter's Basilica, the Roman Forum, the Colosseum, the Catacombs and an evening at outdoor Caracalla Opera.

From Rome to Florence in only one day will provide an historic tour of Florence, "Cradle of the Renaissance." And then to Pisa to see the famous Leaning Tower before continuing the trip to Rapallo, a Mediterranean seashore resort.

For the last round of sightseeing, Monaco and France conclude the educational, culture and — it is hoped — enjoyable trip. Touring along the Italian Riviera to Monte Carlo, with its Palace, Oceanographic Museum and noted Casino will give the travelers a taste of the days of "princes and princesses." Nice and Lyon will be visited before arriving at the elegant capital of France, "gay Paris."

Two full days of sightseeing include excursions to the Eiffel Tower, Napoleon's Tomb, the Sorbonne, Notre Dame Cathedral and Montartre. A day of leisure is planned in Paris for those who wish to visit other famous places.

The tour is tentatively scheduled to end July 31, when students will once again board the SS Aurelia bound for home. The ship will dock in the New York harbor Aug. 6.

Those interested should contact Mrs. Strout in the English department. Reservations must be made and the $200 registration fee paid before Christmas in order to insure space on the ship or plane and accommodations abroad.

"We cover an awful lot of geography," said Mrs. Strout, "and have an awful lot of fun."

Air Force Cadets Set Field Day

Air Force ROTC cadets will assemble at Mackenzie Park Thursday to participate in their annual field day.

Field day activities will be during the regular two-hour drill period. Flights will compete for a designated number of points given to the winner of each event.

This year an extra feature has been added. Sealed bids will be submitted by cadets to have a member of the Angel Flight as a "flight date" for the field day. The flight with the highest bid will have an "Angel" to cheer it to victory. Proceeds from the bids will be used by the Angel Flight and Arnold Air Society for their annual Christmas party for the Lubbock Children's Home.

The field day is financed by AFROTC dues.

A barbecue dinner will round out the day's activities.

Royal Ferguson Speaking of Tech...

(Another in a series of outstanding student leaders on the Texas Tech campus.)

By JODY ALLEN
Toreador Copy Editor

On almost any given day of the school year, a person seated in a chair in the spacious hallway on the first floor of the Ad Bldg. would, sooner or later, hear the sound of a great deal of activity and noise proceeding along that hallway.

In the middle of that activity is likely to be a rather tall, blond, usually smiling individual by the name of Royal Ferguson.

Perhaps all the activity should not be described as "noise" so much as enthusiasm. In fact, "enthusiasm" might be the best word to describe this Tech junior.

It may well be Royal's interest in people which has involved him in so many of Tech's activities. He is head of the Student Council athletic recruiting committee, a member of the student publications committee and the Southwest Conference sportsmanship committee, a participant in the ROTC program, a representative to the Interfraternity Council, chaplain for the social fraternity Phi Delta Theta and a Saddle Tramp pledge.

"I think one of the greatest things about college is that a person gets a chance to be anything he wants to be. I could respect a guy's desire to be a bum as much as anything else he would want to do."

This sort of thinking leads one into thoughts about Royal as a leader. He is admittedly idealistic.

"I believe that a real leader should stimulate a confidence which will inspire others. There is a thin line between a leader's subordination of his own will to the popular majority and his ability to disagree with the majority if it advocates a course of action contrary to his basic belief of what is right."

Royal shuns the idea of himself as an outstanding leader. He is particularly interested in hearing many person's views on subjects ranging from politics to religion. In this way, he practices his belief in the worth of each person's ideas and considers everyone to be a "leader."

It is hard to believe that Royal would be willing to be idle in any type of life. As he himself has said, "A person has to try to make a contribution to society as he works with whatever he has at hand. If a person gets certain basic principles and goals straight in his own mind, he will then be able to influence society in a positive manner."

Post Office Sets Rules

Those "Happy Turkey Day" greetings some Tech students may have planned to send through the campus mail are doomed to the incinerator.

A release from the office of the vice president and comptroller indicates campus mail regulations have been expanded and will be vigorously enforced.

Magazines or newspapers that do not fit into the No. 10 size envelope specified by postal regulations may be rolled or folded if a readable address is on it, according to the postal directive.

An estimated 726,550 letters were delivered last year, omitting the U.S. Post Office deliveries.

The post office has asked that no more valentines, Christmas cards or invitations to parties be sent through campus facilities.

Organization To Promote Tech Spirit

By A. J. SHAW
Toreador Staff Writer

A committee to help alleviate the lack of motivation and promote spirit among students at Tech has been formed by Charlie Aycock, Student Organization president.

The group is to be called "class committee" and headed by Gary Strickland, Amarillo, Student Council engineering representative.

The main objective of the committee is to promote activities between the classes and induce spirit into the everyday life of the Tech student.

Strickland stated the committee will "solicit ideas from colleges and universities all over the country in an effort to get the new program working."

In its effort to create interest in the classes the committee will work to promote major class projects. These projects will usually be in the form of a sponsored event by one of the classes: senior, junior, sophomore, or freshman.

These activities will be aimed at creating more student participation in school-wide events. One of the most prominent programs in the future of this new organization is the program to promote interest in athletic activities—intramural or otherwise.

Strickland feels competition between the classes will stimulate class activity and spur some of the individual councils to greater heights.

Strickland stated he first realized the need for more class officers' duties while serving as sophomore class president.

"The dormancy of the class officer has ceased under this new program. However, success of the program depends on the participation of the individual members of each class," Strickland said.

James Perry, junior class vice president, said class officers in the past have not taken the initiative of getting their jobs done.

Strickland urges all students to support the class committee.

"You elected them," he said, "now let's support them."

'Big Play'

"I think the Rice game was the best Tech showing since Texas A&M—maybe even better."

That was the consensus in the athletic department Monday after the Raiders' latest venture on the gridiron. J T King voiced this opinion, although he was not satisfied with the 14-0 loss to the Owls.

"I'll never be satisfied with a loss," King said. "But the squad looked better than it had since the Aggie loss."

We believe the failure to come up with the "big play" is one of Tech's biggest problems this year. Most Raider yardage at Houston was accumulated on short gains during long drives. The longest yard-gainer for the Raiders all afternoon was a run of just more than 20 yards. In contrast, Rice managed to execute a few key plays (the 70-plus second half kickoff return) which earned the Owls their first conference win of the season. A good example of the "big play" payoff was the Picadors' 21-14 win over the Owlets that same afternoon. The Rice frosh scored first, then saw the Picadors pull into a 7-7 tie. Rice took the lead again and then managed to keep ahead of Tech by one, 14-13.

Now, both of the Picadors' touchdowns at that point were direct results of "big plays." The first was a 20-plus-yard TD pass from quarterback Danny Scarborough to Johnny Agan. The second was a 60-plus-yard TD pass from Ben Elledge to Billy Wiese. Tech's final score was tallied on a steady drive in the fourth quarter. But still, it was those two big pass plays that made the difference.

Next year, with more speed in the backfield and more depth in the line, the Raiders should be able to spring those long scoring plays that make the difference between a narrow loss and a narrow win.

Berl Huffman was pleased with the Picadors' showing Saturday.

"I thought the line identified itself in a big way against the Owlets," said Huffman. "We do have a lot of fast backs, but that line really came through in a big way." Statistics prove that Huffman's praise of the line is merited. Rice netted only 52 yards all afternoon in the rushing department. The Owlets' touted Mike Dossett, voted outstanding player of the high school all-star game in Lubbock last summer, finished the contest with a minus 22-yard rushing total. The final figures showed the Tech freshmen with 341 yards total and Rice with 238.
