Von Bromberg Back As BSAC Main Eventer

Count To Meet Andy Tremaine; Davis Returns

Hurdling Buzz Reynolds with repugnance to his classification as a special eventer last week, Count Von Bromberg jumps all the way to the main event on Tuesday's card at the Big Spring Athletic club where he will oppose Andrew Tremaine, the amiable Arizonian, in a two-hour limit go.

That the nazl will no doubt test the ex-footballer to the best of his ability is assured since the titled one had a very successful indoor season here last winter.

Tremaine, however, appears to be "fit as a fiddle." He looked fine in his triumph over Soldier Thomas in last week's hot spot, tossing a flurry of new holds as the Washingtonian.

Bromberg will have a slight weight advantage and boasts a few more months experience than does the Tucsonite but otherwise everything is in Tremaine's favor.

Although Yates didn't go out front until the 17th hole, it never seemed that Ewing could best him.

In the moment of his triumph, Yates remembered his Walker cup to Ewing, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, who he beat on a stroke at the 19th in the first round.

Four Former Champs Due To Line Up

Harry Miller's Cars Fall To Make The Grade

INDIANAPOLIS, May 28 (AP)—A full field of 33 cars was completed here today for Monday's 500-mile Indianapolis motor speedway race.

Six cars were qualified this afternoon, but one of them, driven by Charles Crawford of Indianapolis, was crowded out of the starting lineup.

Drivers who joined the starting field today were Billy Devore of St. John, Kas., at 116.539 miles an hour; Henry Banks of Royal Oak, Mich., 115.779; George Bailey of Detroit, 115.821; Duke Nelson of Chicago, 113.556; and Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Calif., 114.464.

Hard-luck honors of the year went to Harry Miller, veteran builder of race cars, who brought three brand-new speedsters to the track and didn't get one into the race.

The week of qualifying trials was completed without a single serious accident. Several players had run into minor difficulties but no one was injured.

Four former winners of the Indianapolis classic will be in the field Monday. They are Shaw of Indianapolis, last year's victor; Louis Meyer of Huntington Park, Calif., winner in 1928, 1923 and 1926; Earl Cummings of Indianapolis, 1923 winner; and Kelly Pettilo of Los Angeles, first in 1925.

Donaldson Is Still Tops In WT-NM

Hobbs Slugger More Than 100 Points Ahead Of Field

The continued heavy hitting of outfielder George Donaldson of Hobbs continued to feature the league hitting as teams entered the fourth week of play.

Donaldson hit .366, almost 150 points higher than any other regular. Carr of Lubbock is leading the home run hitters with 11.

Stevens of Lubbock is leading the RBI column with 30, Gedzius and Miller of Lubbock have 14 doubles each to head that division and Taylor of Lubbock is pacing the field with six triples.

For Womack, it will be the chance to redeem himself with the young Mexican. Valdes managed to get an unpopular decision in a meeting with the local redhead a month ago and Womack has expressed a desire to try and even the count.

Philadelphia, May 28 (AP)—The Athletics bombarded Spud Chandler and Johnny Murphy for seven runs in a big fourth inning today and coasted in with a 10 to 4 victory over the New York Yankees.

LOCAL GOLFERS HAVE TODAY TO QUALIFY FOR TOURNEY

Eleven amateur players had posted their qualifying scores through Saturday and another had played nine of the required 18 holes.

Frank Morgan, Sand Belt league player, was leading thus far with an 80, three strokes better than Charlie Watson's second best tally.

Others who had qualified with the scores were E. D. McDowell, 87; M. K. House, Sr., 89; Ray McMahon, 96; Tom Ashley, 96; Doug Watson, 99; Mark Simmons, 114; Granville Glenn, 102; W. S. Fleetwood, 107; and W. W. Pendleton, 106.

Sam McCombs had fired a 45 over nine holes. Match play will begin Monday.

RACE RESULTS

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—Splashing through mud and rain, Gov. Chandler, three-year-old son of Reigh Count-Saucy Sue, captured the $12,000 added Illinois derby today before a drenched crowd of 15,000 spectators, who backed the winner down to an 8 to 5 favorite.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 28 (AP)—Giving an exhibition of speed and stamina, which reminded of her more illustrious sire, Hal Price Hendley's Flying Lee, a bay daughter of Pennant, won the $44,000 running of the Kentucky Oaks $5,000 added, at Churchill Downs here today.

NEW YORK, May 28 (AP)—Snark, a horse sired by a sprinter and a failure in previous attempts at shorter distances, changed his racing style and came from behind with the second fastest performance in Suburban Handicap history today to win the classic mile and a quarter at Belmont park. Pompoon was second.

AGAWAM, Mass., May 28 (AP)—A mighty stretch drive by Gay Balko, owned by F. Andolina, enabled that New England favorite to shake off Bright and Early and Wolf and win the Agawam Handicap by five lengths today before an opening day crowd of 15,000.

Bright and Early and Wolf continued neck and neck to the wire and the photo of their finish revealed that the former placed by inches.

Farmer Attitude On New Deal To Be Tested In Iowa Primaries

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—More than a senatorial nomination in the Iowa primaries a week from Monday.

The 1933 drift of farmer sentiment regarding the New Deal will show up for the first time in the Iowa returns, as the farm vote is dominant in Iowa.

Due to administration action, Iowa democrats will go to the primaries under no doubt that they have been invited to judge between the president and the party opponents in congress.

Importance of Iowa outcome for the effect it may have elsewhere in later midwestern primaries appears to have outweighed, to Hopkins and other administration lieutenants, non-intervention sentiment.

Yet to Hopkins, and those administration insiders who shared his indicated belief that the Iowa democratic senatorial primaries have a special place in New Deal political maneuvering, warranting intervention, this much was clear:

A Gillette victory would have been interpreted widely as a White House defeat, even had there been no open administration endorsement of Wearin. The issue was still ready made in Iowa by the nature of Wearin's campaign against Gillette's renomination.

Certain solid facts of recent Iowa campaigns tend to support the theory, which underlies Hopkins' action, that Roosevelt popularity is still a major factor there.

Support Representative Wearin, running as an out-and-out New Dealer against Senator Gillette, White House opponent on the court bill issue.

Although he might have been a little too close for comfort, Charles Dempsey of Foran was close enough to this tornado to get an excellent camera view of the twister as it "piled up" Howard county soil. nothing minor traffic violations such as running red lights on right turns, double parking, etc., and sending offenders courtesy cards, pointing out the offense. The idea is splendid, but perhaps a little of this "educational publicity" on simple traffic rules would be in order before the courtesy card campaign.

Things can go wrong at graduation exercises. The public doesn't always know about them, although they are humorous as well as sometimes vexing. A fair example was the seventh grade exercises last week. Ushers were given and passed out the programs on the senior commencement, set for the following evening.

But there were serious moments and Judge James T. Brown used them well to drive home a good thought—that honest labor is worthy of anyone. It's refreshing to hear this in a day of high-pressure methods.

Extension of the free delivery service to include almost every portion of the town now served is up to the people who would profit by it. When 85 per cent of the people who would be touched by the new service comply with simple demands of a mail box at the curb and a number on the house, and let the postman know about it, then the routes will be put into effect. But not until then.

This week a committee from five cities will push the case of an Amarillo-Big Spring-San Antonio airline before Washington authorities. While the work may be successful, too immediate results should not be expected. Incidentally, J. H. Partners in the enterprise were named as being Sam U. Arnett and George S. Benson, president and vice president respectively of Citizens National Bank, and Dr. J. J. Hunsicker and Dr. J. T. Drummer Boy

Mr. Brooks entered the Confederate service before he turned 14, joining the Gray forces as a drummer boy.

"A drummer boy didn't have enough privileges and I didn't like the job," he said. After a few months he quit as drummer boy and enlisted in the army. A native of Alabama, he did not do duty in that section. He and many other members of his company were captured in 1864 and he was retained as a prisoner at Ship Island. Transferred to Vicksburg, he was exchanged. Tramping to Jackson, Miss., with other released prisoners, he found Union forces had taken that city. He was taken prisoner again. General Lee already had surrendered and all the prisoners were released shortly on their oath that they would not take up arms again.

GAINES, YOAKUM PRODUCTION IN SPOTLIGHT

Four-Mile Extension Of Seminole Pool Indicated; Magnolia-Webb Wildcat May Open New Territory

SAN ANGELO, May 28—Indicated extension of the Seminole pool in central Gaines county four miles northwest by J. L. Frick and Osage Drilling Co.'s No. 1 T. S. Riley and promise of the opening of a new producing area in central Yoakum county by Magnolia No. 1 J. D. Webb, wildcat two miles southwest of Plains, were highlights of West Texas oil developments this week.

The Frick-Osage well in Gaines on an Atlantic farmout flowed an estimated 150 to 200 barrels of 30.8 gravity oil into the pits in 24 hours following treatment with 1,500 gallons of acid. It was bottomed at 5,098 feet in lime with 2-inch tubing set at 5,093. Gas was estimated between one-quarter and one-half million cubic feet daily. The well was shut in for erection of storage.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north, 660 feet from the west line of section 29-4-G-WRRR, about 10 miles southwest of the Wasson field in Gaines county.

Eastland No. 1 Dunbar, southwestern Gaines county wildcat, in the southwest quarter of section 24-A12-pal, was testing at 4,640 feet after treating with 1,000 gallons of acid.

Swabs 100 Barrels
Magnolia No. 1 Webb in Yoakum county swabbed 100 barrels of oil, with four per cent basic sediment and acid water, in 18 hours after being treated with 2,000 gallons of acid at a plugged back depth of 5,400 feet, and continued testing. It is 2,300 feet from the north and east lines of section 287-D-John H. Gibson, four miles north and slightly east of Bond and Bohago No. 1 M. M. West, a small discovery well eight miles north of the Denver pool opener.

Shell started No. 2 Dora Roberts in southwestern Yoakum a quarter mile north and 660 feet east of the No. 1 Roberts, recent opener of a new pool or 1 1/4 mile northwest extension from The Texas Co. No. 1 Walker. No. 1 Roberts was completed at 5,100 feet for a flow of 566 barrels of oil in 24 hours after treatment with 6,000 gallons of acid. No. 2 Roberts will be 1,650 feet from the north, 2,310 feet from the east line of section 793-D-John H. Gibson.

Well Plugged Back
Plugged back to 5,034 feet, Gulf No. 1 Mallett, two miles southwest of the Slaughter pool in southwestern Hockley county, swabbed only eight barrels of oil and 22 barrels of water in four hours and prepared to pump. It is in the northeast corner of section 6-X-psl.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Mallett appeared more definitely the opener of Cochran county's second pool, by swabbing oil at the rate of six barrels hourly after treatment with 6,000 gallons of acid in two stages at a plugged back depth of 5,058 feet. It is in the northeast corner of section 7-G-psl, five miles southeast of the Duggan pool in Cochran and six miles west of the Slaughter field in Hockley county.

A Yates sand top higher than in the small Emma Cowden pool to the southwest was credited to Ray Rhodes and others' No. 1 Cowden, southern Andrews county wildcat. The marker was at 2,620 feet, 546 feet above sea level. Drilling continued below 2,820 in anhydrite. The test is in the northwest quarter of section 1-42-2n-T&P.

Magnolia staked location for No. 1-15 University 1 1/2 miles southeast of its No. 1 University, a discovery well 3 1/2 miles northwest of the Church-Fields pool in eastern Crane county, and 330 feet out of the southwest corner of section 15-30-U. The pool opener was completed at 3,325 feet, pumping 52.02 barrels of oil in 24 hours but set back to around 14 barrels.

Humble No. 1-B Tubb, almost a mile southeast extension to the Tubb deep Permian lime pool in western Crane county, flowed 236 barrels of oil in six hours after treatment with 2,000 gallons of acid with the total depth 4,430 feet. It is in the northwest corner of section 19-32-pal.

WOMAN CONFESSES PART IN ROBBERIES

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., May 28 (AP)—County officers said today a woman arrested after two men and a woman looted a Dewey filling station and exchanged shots with the owner had admitted taking part in the robbery and in robberies at Adair and Vinita.

Officers quoted the woman as saying she drove here from Leaworth, Kan., with two men, robbing at least three filling stations en route. They said she had served a sentence in the Missouri state penitentiary.

Earl Parker, Dewey, owner of the station, pursued the trio and fired a shot from a pistol. He said the woman returned the fire. The woman and a man later were arrested. The man still is in custody.

Southwestern Pool Limits Defined

2 Failures In Snyder Area Throw Light On Trend

Failure of the Moore Bros. No. 1-D TXL outpost test in the northeast corner of section 41-30-1a, T&P, and light shows by another half a mile northeast further defined the southwestern limits of the Snyder pool in southeastern Howard county the past week.

The Moore Bros. No. 1-O TXL was abandoned without being shot and had even lighter shows than the recently abandoned Austin Taylor (Jno. Moore, Agt.) No. 1 W. P. Edwards, a mile southwest. At the same time Moore Bros. No. 1-B TXL, half a mile northeast in section 33, was shut down for orders at 2,900 feet and had a show estimated at less than five barrels. It is located 1,650 feet from the west and 2,310 feet from the south lines of the section.

In proven territory on the southern edge of the pool, the Moore Bros. No. 5-A TXL cleaned out 68 feet off bottom following a 600 quart shot at 2,650-2,800 feet. It was making a strong head every three hours. Location is 1,850 feet from the east and 330 feet from the north lines of section 33-30-1a, T&P.

Scott Well to Test
Between the Snyder and the Chalk extension pools, the Lockhart No. 1 Scott (Hyman) had completed cleaning out and was preparing to test. The well is in the northeast corner of section 86-29, W&NW. Magnolia No. 2 Scott, a direct east offset in the northwest corner of section 87-29, W&NW, set eight inch at 1,700 feet and moved in for a direct north offset to the test, located in the southeast corner of section 86-29, W&NW, which in turn is a direct east offset to the Lockhart No. 1 Heusinger, in the southeast corner of section 67, and was completed for 983 barrels. Lockhart No. 2 Heusinger, one location west of the No. 1 well, drilled to 1,400 feet.

Other developments in the Snyder area included Moore Bros. No. 6-A TXL, south offset to the No. 5-A well, drilling ahead at 1,797 feet. Moore Bros. No. 5-A Snyder, 1,650 feet from the west and 330 feet from the south lines of section 33-30-1a, T&P, cemented seven inch at 2,480 feet while the Moore Bros. No. 4-A Snyder, 2,310 feet from the south and west lines of the section, set eight inch at 1,645 feet.

Eastland No. 1-B TXL, 2,310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the east lines of section 33-30-1a, T&P, drilled below 1,820 feet and the Moore Bros. No. 2-A O'Daniel, two locations east in section 34, drilled to 2,115 after logging show of oil at 2,075-55 feet.

Drill Plugs
Magnolia No. 5 O'Daniel, 2,310 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of section 33, was repairing boiler at 2,378 feet.

To the east and north, the Magnolia No. 4 O'Daniel, west offset to the Cosden-Kahn No. 1 O'Daniel, half mile eastern extension to the pool, still was attempting to clean out, this time trying to run a five inch liner. Moore Bros. No. 1-B O'Daniel, east offset to the Cosden test, supplanted rotary with spudder at 2,568 feet where plugs were to be drilled from the seven-inch string.

Cellar and pits were dug for a location south of the Moore Bros. No. 1-B O'Daniel and will be spudded as soon as the No. 1-B is completed. Ajax dug cellar and pits for its No. 1 O'Daniel as a north offset to the Cosden well in section 34.

corner of section 33-30-5a, T&P, in the extreme northwest corner of Howard county. Twelve-inch string is to be set at a slightly lower depth.

Meanwhile, the area west of Big Spring, quiet after abandonment of the Texas Co. No. 1 Wilkinson, was ready to get back into the news. Pits and cellars were reported going down in two separated areas, northwest and north of the test which had free oil before plugging without production. One was the T. G. Elshaw No. 1 Wilkinson in section 45-A B&C, just over the Martin county line and eight miles northwest of the Texas No. 1 Wilkinson in section 29-24-1a, T&P. The other, five miles west of the Texas test, was on the Gular ranch lands in section 17-A, B&C. Rumors will persist Texas Co. will drill another test in section 14-34-1a, T&P.

Gay Romantic Comedy, Featuring Ginger Rogers And James Stewart, Opens Today At The Ritz

IN CRIME DRAMA AT QUEEN

Lloyd Nolan and Mary Carlisle appear together again in a story of gangsterism and its defeat, booked as the Queen theatre's feature for today and Monday. Called "Hunted Men," the photo-play has to do with the reformation of a tough guy.

'Hurricane' Is Back On The Lyric Screen

Goldwyn's South Sea Spectacle Plays Today, Monday

Samuel Goldwyn's "The Hurricane," a distinct hit when it made its first appearance here several weeks ago, pays a return visit to Big Spring Sunday and Monday, this time appearing at the Lyric Theatre.

Climaxed by an amazing spectacle that rivals the earthquake scenes in "San Francisco," the glamorous tale has been called one of the topflight films of the current season.

In this dramatic saga of the South Seas, written by the authors of "Mutiny On The Bounty," Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, are featured such players as Dorothy Lamour, Jon Hall, making his first picture, a starring one, Thomas Mitchell, C. Aubrey Smith, Mary Astor, Jerome Cowan, John Carradine, Raymond Massey and others.

Proceedings are initiated by a view of a marriage on the island of Manafutu, which lies south of Tahiti, of two native sweethearts, portrayed by Miss Lamour and Jon Hall. Their happiness is shattered when, upon the man's return to his duties as chief mate on a sailing vessel, he is imprisoned for striking a white man.

For five years he tries to escape from the ghastly prison, finally succeeding and returning to his wife. The happiness is brief, however, for Tahiti's governor (Massey) orders his return.

The search for him is at its height when the great hurricane begins to blow. Unmindful of his own safety, the fugitive goes to Manafutu to warn the inhabitants. In the fury that follows, he plays a heroic part, and the hurricane scenes provide a fitting finish to his troubles.

"The Hurricane" was released through United Artists.

Gilbert Gibbs, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Gibbs, left Sunday morning for Lewisville, where they will visit relatives and friends. Mr. Gibbs will attend the Southwestern Retailers' Shoe convention, to be held in Dallas this week.

As diverting a piece of film entertainment as has sparkled across the local screen in a blue moon is that sprightly, thoroughly laughable bit called "Vivacious Lady," which is the chief entree on the Ritz menu for today and Monday.

The picture stars Ginger Rogers, the Texas girl who went to Hollywood by way of Charleston contests, remained to become a top box-office star in dancing vehicles with Fred Astaire, proved her dramatic ability in the recent "Stage Door," and now emerges in a gay role ideally suited to her looks, talent and temperament. It stars also James Stewart, the lad who has wowed 'em with only a few pictures like "Navy Blue and Gold" and "Seventh Heaven," and who wins new friends with his detached, slightly-distracted manner as the wandering college professor.

"Vivacious Lady" is light in plot, the proper kind of picture for hot weather enjoyment. And enjoyable it is, as a group of Big Spring people who recently saw a Ritz preview can testify.

Trouble At College

Bolled down to essentials, the story is that of the difficulties encountered by a pair of newlyweds—he a respected instructor in a small college, she a night club entertainer from New York—in establishing themselves as a wedded couple in the college town, where his stern parents are unaware of the marriage. Take such a case and garnish it with situations and rapid-fire dialogue such as Director George Stevens garnished it, and you have something to amuse you in a delightful manner.

Miss Rogers and Stewart have help from an excellent supporting cast. James Ellison is Stewart's playboy cousin; Charles Coburn and Beulah Bondi his parents; Frances Mercer is the "other woman" in the professor's life; and Phyllis Kennedy and Grady Sutton have comic roles.

The stormy love affair takes place after the wedding. Stewart, a sober-minded, ambitious young professor of botany, goes to New York to retrieve his playboy cousin, enters the night club where Ginger is singing, finds himself struck by love-lightning and marries the girl after a whirlwind, weekend courtship. She agrees to return to the campus with him.

Love In Botany Class

Their troubles start on the train home, where one of the big laugh moments of the picture occur as the two enter the wrong stateroom. These difficulties pick up when Ginger learns, on arrival at the college, that James is not only engaged to a determined miss who doesn't want to lose him, but also that James' papa is the straight-faced president of the college, and will have no truck with blondes from New York. The young professor puts off breaking the news of his marriage, and Ginger enrolls as a student. When she makes love to him during his botany lecture, you have another scene which adds to the gaiety of the occasion.

The love-making goes on behind-the-scenes, with each situation making things more amusingly complex. The obstacles reach a new high when Ginger and her love rival engage in a knock-down, drag-out fight with all the vigor that only two jealous women can exhibit. The slapping and kicking and half-pulling make quite a scene. Ginger's growing impatience over her husband's delay finally leads to a romantic crisis which brings the picture to a thoroughly entertaining and satisfying conclusion.

Ginger doesn't dance in "Vivacious Lady," but she sings one song, "You'll Be Reminded of Me," and she turns on all the Rogers charm. Stewart is pleasantly at ease in his role.

CORN-ON-COB COMRADES

Nothing dignified in this scene, wherein lovely Ginger Rogers and personable James Stewart taste the delights of corn on the cob. Neither is there anything dignified in their new picture, "Vivacious Lady." But there's plenty of fun and romance and pure delight in the film co-starring these two, which plays today and Monday at the Ritz.

Park Project Shut Down

WPA Funds Gone, New Application To Be Made

Operations on the city park WPA project, centering on the construction of an amphitheatre, have been shut down temporarily, it was announced Friday.

Cessation of the work was necessitated by exhaustion of WPA funds allotted to the project. A new project, covering the completion of the amphitheatre, construction of several new picnic units and replacement of wooden ones is being drafted and will be submitted soon. It was estimated that it would be August before operations are resumed since the project must be given approval at Washington.

The small amount of work needed to complete the two restroom structures in the city park will be pushed until the structures are ready for use.

Work on the amphitheatre has progressed to the point that the retaining walls around the big outdoor auditorium are up and some of the multiple seat arrangement executed. The amphitheatre, when completed, will accommodate more than 6,000 people.

ROAD PROJECTS ARE ADVANCED A YEAR

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—A plan to shift into the current work schedule 11 federal aid road construction projects, totaling $1,707,000 and originally slated for the 1939 program, was announced today by the highway commission.

The commission said it had appropriated funds for constructing roads between highways and the Normangee state park in Leon county, Mission San Sabá in Menard county and the American Legion cemetery in Kerr county.

MONEY READY FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—The state auditor announced today payments of $763,962 in salary and $965,559 in transportation aid were ready for distribution to rural schools pending approval by the state board of education at its meeting June 6.

The salary aid payment brought the total in that division to $2,112,147 or 69 per cent of claims filed by school superintendents. The funds were prorated.

Transportation monies with the payment amounted to $1,714,123 or 94.5 per cent of applications which Fladger Tanner, assistant auditor, said was the highest percentage ever paid.

Crime Drama Is Booked At The Queen

Lloyd Nolan, Mary Carlisle In 'Hunted Men'

A story of gangster's last stand against law and order comes to the Queen theatre today and Monday when Paramount's "Hunted Men" makes its first appearance here.

Lloyd Nolan is seen in the starring role of the new film, as a hunted gangster who takes refuge in a small suburban household to escape police and who stays there long enough to see how the other half of the world lives. When an unsuspecting girl confesses her love to him, he realizes what a mistake he has made of his life. The realization leads him to make the first really heroic gesture in an un-heroic career.

Lynne Overman plays a semi-comic role as the father of Miss Mary Carlisle, who falls in love with Nolan.

Others in the cast are twelve-year old Delmar Watson, the youth who helps to change Nolan's outlook on life, and J. Carrol Nash, one of the screen's best "bad men."

BARROW'S

The Organisation And Early History Of Howard County

Most of the counties of Texas are named in honor of men who were prominent in state or civic affairs during the period of the revolution or soon thereafter. Howard county was named for Volney Erskine Howard who was born in Oxford county, Maine, in 1809. In young manhood he came to Mississippi where he studied law and became actively engaged in politics. In 1844 he came to San Antonio, Texas, and the following year was made a member of the State Constitutional Committee which framed the first constitution for the state. He later represented his adopted state two terms in Congress. At the expiration of his second term he was appointed to a federal position in the state of California by President Franklin Pierce. He was a member of the commission that framed the first constitution for the state of California. Later he was appointed to a position on the supreme bench of the state, but declined the offer on account of his advanced age and ill health. He died in 1889.

Howard county, before its organization, was connected with Mitchell county for judicial purposes. That the town of Big Spring, then generally called Big Springs, grew rapidly is readily seen when it is remembered that the election that officially created Howard county was held within a year after the first passenger train entered the town. Permission to hold the election was granted by the commissioners' court of Mitchell county. The officers elected at that time were: county judge, R. B. Anderson; county and district clerk, J. M. Anderson; sheriff and tax collector, R. M. Morrow; treasurer, W. P. Lawson; hide and animal inspector, A. S. Robinson; assessor, J. S. Reed; justice of the peace, precinct No. 1, I. D. Eddins; constable, John Moore; commissioners; of precinct No. 1, William Howerton; of precinct No. 2, J. J. Meek; of precinct No. 3, P. T. Blake; of precinct No. 4, D. M. DeVitt. On July 1, R. B. D. Boydston was appointed the first county surveyor, and on the seventh of the same month T. G. Andrews was appointed the first county attorney. During the formative period of the west, where so many of the personal difficulties were settled by the individuals involved at the muzzle of a sixshooter, there was little demand for a county attorney. Since the statutes required that the man filling this office should be a licensed lawyer, in many instances the man with the qualifications was missing.

Our County In The Making

The above officers elected at the time of the organization of the county served till the regular November election following which time the following change took place in the list: George Hogg was elected county judge; F. W. Heyne, county treasurer; W. T. Baze and A. C. Denmark, county commissioners.

In the Texas frontier counties law administration was not a profession of many elected to office. One of the first acts of the commissioners' court was "to adopt" the status of the State of Texas with the "exceptions" mentioned in a former article. Neither was the remuneration over-enticing. An order of August 19, 1882 shows that the county judge and commissioners alike were paid $3 a day for actual service. It is evident that county judges spent much time at other vocations. An order dated August 12, 1882 by the commissioners declared, "that it is therefore ordered, adjudged, and decreed by the court" that the county judgeship was vacant by the absence of Judge Anderson from the county for more than twenty days. D. Y. Portis was appointed in his stead. The same procedure happened to Portis soon thereafter. William Kennedy was made county judge and his salary was set at $100 a month. Since Big Spring at that time was largely a town of tents, the court had difficulty finding housing room. A monthly appropriation of $20 was allowed to rent a house for the court and county officers. Succeeding records show that I. D. Eddins was the owner of the house secured. Prisoners were kept in the Mitchell county jail, when not "guarded" by the local officers. Several entries indicated that the sheriff was paid designated amounts for the "board and guarding" of prisoners. On December 2, 1882, Sheriff Morrow was paid $20.80 for "boarding and guarding one G. W. Smith." That the use of the Mitchell county jail was an expensive procedure to the county is indicated by the amounts that were required to transport prisoners to and from Colorado. It was equally expensive both ways. On the above date the court ordered J. R. Hilburn paid $19.50 for conveying G. W. Pierce from Colorado to Big Spring for trial. It is evident that even after the construction of the calaboose dangerous prisoners were not trusted within its walls.

But everything had to have its beginning. It was a good day when Judge George Hogg, on December 2, in the name of the county, accepted the gift of the whole of Block 21 in Big Spring from W. H. Abrams, land commissioner of the Texas and Pacific railway, for a court house site. On February 12 following, the court ordered the construction of a court house and jail not to exceed $40,000 in cost, and instructed the county to advertise in the Dallas Herald and the Galveston News for bids for same. In April following the court accepted the bid of J. H. Milliken and Co. of $33,700 for the erection of a courthouse and jail combined. This building, constructed of native limestone, is referred to by the old settlers as "the old courthouse." At the time of the above order the assessor was asked to assess a fifty cent tax on taxable property in the county to take care of the bond issue. The scarcity of court house furnishings may be ascertained from an order at the same time instructing the clerk to have some shelves made to take care of "the book." That "book" doubtless is the one in which these records are found.

That courthouse, which stood in the middle of the block, went the way of most of the court houses of early construction in the West. It was built with but little view of future development, and its inadequacy and poor construction led to its condemnation thereafter. The stone was used in the erection of the present Douglas hotel building.

On August 17, 1907, the commissioners' court, composed of Judge L. A. Dale, Commissioners Pete Johnson, Joe W. Barnett, I. B. Cauble, and J. O. Hartzog, canvassed the returns of an election that had been held on June 29 for the purpose of voting $46,000 in jail and courthouse bonds. The election carried by a vote of 155 to eighty-two. The new court house and jail, which had been let at a contract price of $34,406 to L. B. Westerman, was accepted by the court, James T. Brooks, county judge, on January 18, 1909. As magnificent and adequate as the building seemed at that time, it has already proven too small for the demands of the county.

Going back a bit, we find that on August 20, 1882, the commissioners' court ordered, "Whereas it appears to the satisfaction of this court that none of the boundaries of Howard county, Texas, are sufficiently specified and well ascertained, it is therefore ordered by the court that B. Boydston, county surveyor of Howard county, is hereby appointed to ascertain survey and make the said boundaries." Tom Green and Mitchell counties were requested to send surveyors to cooperate with Boydston. "Monuments" made of hewed or cedar posts not less than eight inches in diameter were to be placed every mile to mark the boundary.

On May 14, 1883 the commissioners' court ordered the county to be divided into commissioner precincts. The beginning point in the four precincts was on the southeast corner of the square on "Parker" street.

The order of the court on May 14, 1883, throws some light on the tent school referred to by Mrs. M. E. Barrett. The order had to do with the location of a public road and it reads as follows: "it is ordered that a public road be opened from Big Spring to the head of the Concho river in Tom Green county, beginning at the public square in Big Spring, thence out Scurry street three blocks, thence west to the head of a hollow, near where the school tent stood, thence southwest, passing between two peaks, thence south crossing Big Spring creek." The Tahoka road, now highway No. 9, also began on Scurry and extended to "Front street," South First, thence west and north along the present road across the railroad. But these roads were mere designated paths. For some time thereafter but little or nothing was done to make them passable. By nature the country was not difficult of access, and with the mode of transportation of the day, they were very accessible. The main artery between the town and the outside world was the Texas and Pacific railway.

Every county in Texas organized within specified dates were granted four leagues of land for public school purposes. As surveys were rarely regular, these tracts ran around 17,500 acres. The first reference made to the Howard county lands is made in the minutes of the court of April 6, 1883. The land was rented, the grass, to George Bauer and to F. M. Cockerel for eight cents an acre. The money received from that rental, $680, was applied to paying teachers' salaries and repair on the school building. The land was later sold for a dollar an acre and the returns constitute the basis for the county permanent fund of today which amounts to $17,595.

It is interesting that Howard county has had only five other county clerks. The second clerk, J. M. Walker, was a brother of our present townsman, A. C. Walker, who worked under his brother as deputy. A. C. Walker was the third clerk and was followed by W. F. Dent who served only one term. The late J. I. Prichard was at the time of his death serving his sixteenth consecutive term in office. He was followed by the present county clerk, R. Lee Warren.

Violations In Tax Law Cited

Levies On Admissions, Prizes Are Pointed Out

Two provisions of the state tax law are being openly violated in this area, largely through lack of information or misunderstanding, Charles Watson, district supervisor for the cigarette tax division, said Saturday.

He referred to the admission tax law and the tax on prizes and awards.

Watson pointed to Article 707a-19 of the state statutes concerning admission tax requirements. A tax of one cent on each 10 cents or each fractional part thereof paid as admission to theatres, motion pictures, plays, horse racing, rodeos, dog racing, motorcycle racing, dance halls, night clubs, skating rinks and any other like or similar amusements is due the state. Only exception is where the entire proceeds of the amusement goes to the benefit of a state, religious, educational or charitable institution, society or organization.

Several affairs are held with admission charges in excess of 51 cents and with the management unmindful of the tax obligation to the state, Watson indicated.

Under terms of Article 7047, a 20 per cent tax of the value of money, prizes and awards given in connection with the operation of each and all amusement and business enterprises is levied by the state. The tax is on the actual amount or value given. There are no exceptions, even for schools, churches, clubs, etc. Prizes and awards and all prize money such as in rodeos are under provisions of the law, said Watson.

Full information on the law and proper forms to be used in making returns may be had at room 406 in the Petroleum building.

TWO KILLED AND FIVE HURT IN CRASHES

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—Two persons were killed and five injured today in two automobile crashes near Austin.

The dead were Eric Swenson, 55, and Grover H. Griffith, 45, both of Austin.

Swenson died instantly in a collision on the Fredericksburg road, an accident which injured Miss Adele Rush, 32; Mrs. James H. Moore, 37, and Mrs. W. W. Mueller, 63, of Kerrville, and Curtis Barnhill of Austin.

Griffith died in a hospital after an arm amputation. He was in a car-truck crash last night which also critically injured Albert Brown, 52, of Garfield.

Colorado Group To Visit Here Monday

On a combination pleasure and advertising jaunt, members of the Colorado school band and a group of Colorado citizens will be in Big Spring Monday morning, making a brief stop en route to the Carlsbad caverns. The delegation is expected here shortly after 9 o'clock, and the band will play a concert at a downtown location.

The Coloradans will advertise their Frontier Roundup, scheduled for September, 8, 9 and 10, with stops here, and at Midland, Odessa and Pecos, while members of the band will be looking forward to a trip through the caverns.

The motorcade is expected to include 10 or 15 cars. H. B. Speece, manager of the Colorado chamber of commerce, and R. F. Rose, band director, will head the party.

"My Feet Are Near Killing Me"

Observe the hurried and harried shopper, her spirits down and her arches following. Right after breakfast this morning, she slipped on another dress, powdered her nose, tucked her handbag under her arm and swung down-town to do the stores.

She has traversed miles of aisles, picking up this, turning over that, not finding precisely what she wanted here, trying again over there. It was warm in the stores, in that winter coat. There were crowds.

She is more tired and discouraged than she might have been. Right there at home was the daily newspaper... a veritable catalog of commodities, telling What, Who, Where and How Much. An hour spent with the advertisements would have saved two or three in town.

Merchants Cooperate To Make Public 'Cotton Conscious'

Price Of Staple In Economic Scheme To Be Stressed

Merchandise Offerings, Special Programs To Be Featured During Special Week In B'Spring

Big Spring merchants, particularly the clothiers and dry goods dealers, are primed for National Cotton week opening Monday by offering generous bargains in cotton goods.

From piece goods to pants, from socks to sheets, prices are being lowered by merchants in an effort to make the public cotton conscious.

Many unique cotton products will be displayed to the buyers and the widest range of choice may be satisfied from the big stocks of local concerns.

Even food concerns have been boosting National Cotton week in their advertisements, and in these same food stores there will be opportunity to purchase more cotton products in the form of vegetable oils, compounds, etc.

Several service clubs are planning programs centered around cotton, its production, marketing, manufacture and multiple products. The further idea of its vital importance to Howard county and all of West Texas and the south will be carried out in the programs.

Throughout the week the public is to be reminded through news stories and radio announcements that it is National Cotton week and that this is the time to buy cotton goods.

The celebration is to be pushed vigorously in Big Spring, the center of an industry that has averaged more than a million and a half dollars in Howard county alone for the past 15 years.

More Security Funds In Sight

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The social security board will be able to grant an additional $3,500,000 to the states for administration of state unemployment compensation up to June 30, under a bill signed today by President Roosevelt.

The board had informed congress extra funds were necessary to prevent a break-down in the administration of unemployment compensation systems in the states, which had felt an unexpected impact of extensive lay-offs since January 1.

MAILING OF FARM CHECKS DELAYED

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is running about $115,000,000 behind schedule in mailing checks to farmers who cooperated with last year's crop programs.

Payments during the January-April period totaled $168,000,000 compared with $282,000,000 the AAA hoped to make, officials said today.

Cotton Fabrics Prove Advantages, Gain In Popularity With Women

Attractive Cotton Hosiery Is Yet To Come

By JEANE SUITS
Just as Jamestown settlers, who wore petticoats and dresses on wheels and looms, knew the importance of cotton, so does the modern woman who utilizes more materials combined for wearing apparel because it is durable—it can take the suds and scrub of a good rub without ill effects—it is cool and refreshing for summer and comfortable for winter.

Cotton has been spun, woven and dyed from prehistoric times but never so extensively as today. Our forefathers probably thought the top had been reached in textiles when calicoes, muslins, dimities and ginghams were made, but they ought to be here today when 90 percent of clothing material is not of cotton but produced in innumerable forms—voles, alpaca, pique, batiste, various prints, crash and lace.

Believe It Or Not, There's Drama And Suspense In Cotton Grower's Yearly Wagering With Nature

There's a romance to cotton, although those who toil with and are dependent upon it can seldom see anything but drudgery, uncertainty and existence out of its planting, cultivation and harvest.

Perhaps it is this uncertainty that makes each year's crop a gripping romance in a queer sort of way. From the time farmers lay their land by in mid-winter until the time the first killing frost bites the cotton stalks, doubt and suspense surround the outcome.

The first problem is always rain. Sometimes the winter season is plentiful, but planting rains fail to fall. Spotted showers may come, leaving this farmer ready to sow his seed while his neighbor helplessly scans the skies for promising clouds.

The Wind And The Weeds
Or maybe the rains come. Then there is wind to be reckoned with. Tiny plants up to a perfect stand can be burned and shredded to the ground in a few hours time. Sometimes feverish work with plows can stop the raking, sands, and more often nothing can keep the stinging blast from leveling all before it.

Then come the weeds. Fields kept clear in the winter are comparatively safe, but others require plenty of work with the "go-devil" and hoe. All cotton must be methodically hoed or thinned so that the spacing will be right and the thrifty plants left with a better chance for life.

If hail and washing rains fail to damage the cotton, the sun has its fling. In the hot summer months, it can literally pour down on the drooping stalks, day after day. Winds blow again, this time like a breath of a furnace—drying and searing.

In the niche of time, another rain falls. Plants, resilient beyond all understanding, take new life and spring up in a miraculous recovery.

Campaign For Cotton Means About A Million And Half A Year To Howard Co.

The King' Always Has Contributed Steadily To This Area's Income

National Cotton week should mean something to Howard county—for in the past cotton has been the principal resource of the county, with the exception of oil in late years.

Plugging away at the average of about a million and a half dollars annually for the past 14 years, the cotton resources of the county have shown no signs of drastic loss and perhaps when the oil is gone cotton will still be bringing in an annual return to Howard county.

In the 14 year period from 1924-37 Howard county's cotton has produced 323,425 bales, the largest single year being that of 1927 when 47,714 bales were turned out in the county's 15 gins. Estimated value of the cotton over the same span is pegged at $21,295,598.

Millions for Seed
These figures do not include the value of seed, figured at around seven millions for the period. This amount, in turn, is around twice as much as has been paid out to ginners for handling the cotton.

The 14 year span, over which values and production totals have been figured, by no means represents the cotton history of the county. There are no production records immediately available back of 1924. Thus values are not cast in Howard county's staple brought as high as 43.75 cents per pound and averaged 28 cents for the entire season.

5,000 People
According to farm census returns, around 5,000 people are directly dependent upon cotton production in Howard county. This number includes around 4,000 on farms and an extra thousand gin labor, compress hire, and others who have a part in the collection and distribution of cotton and seeds.

Production, average price per pound and estimated list value for the years 1924-37 follow:

Year	Production	Price	Value
1924	21,080	24.20	$ 2,611,440
1925	18,524	20.60	1,907,972

OUR PART IS TO USE COTTON

Regardless of the special "promotions" which individuals, business concerns and municipalities will undertake this week in an effort to impress on the people the importance of Cotton Week, there should be realistic demands made in this nation of the need for wider markets for cotton and cotton manufactured products.

Buying cotton materials should not be confined to one week, but should be carried on every week. It is a fundamental in economics that the more cotton materials we consume, the more demand there will be for raw cotton which is the mainstay of trade in practically all sections of Texas and the South.

Cotton production is being depressed under a program of the federal government, but even under that policy there will be a larger production than can be consumed unless there be more general use of materials made from it.

Merchants everywhere, including those in Big Spring, have made preparations to supply an enlarged demand, and most of them this week will be offering cotton fabrics and garments made of cotton at as attractive prices as possible.

There is no need to stress the importance of cotton to this immediate section, not counting our oil, industrial and other resources, this city and county still count heavily each year on the cotton income.

HOME BUILDING EASIER THAN EVER

Many people, in discussion of means to break the jam that has restricted housing development in Big Spring, have pointed out as the chief obstacle to building the lack of capital available here for FHA loans.

RELECTION RATHER THAN RECOVERY OR REFORM In the light of what Congress is now doing about labor legislation and the so-called pump-priming bill (it would seem that the prime objective at the moment is not recovery, not reform, not relection. The political strategists are in charge of the Administration.

LIPPMANN moves on the general interest of the public, they are making no important mistakes about the measures best calculated to carry the primaries against rebellious Democrats and to carry the November elections against the Republicans.

There are now two contradictory and irreconcilable versions of the wages and hours bill. One is the measure passed by the Senate last August which provides for the gradual fixing of minimum wages and maximum hours, industry by industry, and with regard for the differences in the cost of living in different sections of the country.

A person sincerely concerned with labor legislation might feel depressed at the conflict between the two bills. But not a master-mind engaged in political strategy in an election year. These two contradictory measures have enabled the Democrats of all sections to make the record which suits their particular situation.

On the new spending-lending bill the Administration fears have resolutely taken a very clear line. They will yield on no point which in any way diminishes the President's power to give and to withhold funds throughout the United States.

Thus we are being instructed as to how by control of the Treasury and of the national credit a political machine perpetuates itself.

Sights And Sounds by ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—It was some time before the question of "poison stars" had been thrust into the limelight by some undisciplined eastern exhibitors, so Michael Curtis couldn't have meant anything personal by it.

His theme was new faces. Pictures were going to get into trouble for lack of them. Studios were clinging to established stars too long. It was too tempting just to cast some player with a big name, even when the big name was getting a little old, or stiff, or swell-headed, or temperamental.

Some time later, on the set of "Sister Act," Mike seemed to have done something about his previous theme song. He had 27-year-old Jeffrey Lynn on tap as a new star. He said in Mike's way:

Names Pay And wouldn't it be funny—he, ha!—if Jeffrey Lynn clicked colorfully, became an exhibitor's darling for a while, got into the big salary class—and then, one fine day, found himself called "poison" because he'd had the misfortune to be cast in several poor pictures?

Formal Opening Of WTCC Headquarters Slated June 15

Abilene Event Will Feature Radio Hookup

Organization Leaders To Present New Museum Institute

ABILENE, May 28—Gathered from all the 130 counties and 130 towns in the broad domain of the West Texas chamber of commerce, local directors and other officials of the regional organization will, on an all West Texas radio hookup, take a 30-minute tour of their huge territory next month.

They will be here for the gala formal opening and dedication of the WTCC headquarters on June 15. Offices, resource and museum institute and are exhibits of the organization's 10 districts.

Over Seven Stations

Designed for broadcast over seven prominent West Texas radio stations, the "West Texas at a Glance" tour tops the afternoon program. It will be followed by formal presentation and acceptance of the property.

Mayor W. W. Hair of Abilene will welcome the WTCC executives and present the building. Acceptances will be made by Milburn McCarty of Eastland, immediate past president of the WTCC; receiving the property as a regional headquarters; Ray Nichols of Vernon, as a home for the West Texas chamber of commerce resource and museum institute; Gene Howe of Amarillo, as a structure for publishing West Texas.

"Abilene Dedicates a New Institution" will be the subject for a short talk by J. C. Hunter, president of the Abilene chamber of

Woman Of The Week

Sadie Orr Dunbar

Sees Women As Social Force

By the AP Feature Service

PORTLAND, Ore.—Sadie Orr Dunbar believes organized womanhood should solve the social problems of the United States. Because she worked to put this belief into practice, Mrs. Dunbar has just been elected president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The new head of the world's foremost organization of women is a large woman with soft, brown hair—slightly gray and unobbed. She has blue eyes and a ready smile. Friends say she has a comforting personality, and that one's first impression on meeting her is that "you could sit down and talk to her anytime."

But 57-year-old Mrs. Dunbar is considerably more than a confidante. Missouri-born, she came to Oregon as a child, was graduated from Portland university, and started her club work in 1908, three years after her marriage. (Her husband died in 1928; they had two children.)

Interested primarily in public health, she was chairman of public health for the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, and in 1915 became executive secretary of the Oregon Tuberculosis Association. She held that post until her recent election.

Oregonians say she made the tuberculosis association one of the state's most vital organizations. Her work won her an honorary degree of doctor of humane letters association, she was an instructor in community organizations in the University of Oregon's department of nursing education.

In 1935, elected first vice-president of the General Federation, she expressed her creed this way: "Women must 'plumb' to the very depths their own potential force as organized women for the definite solution of some of our unsolved social problems."

Tech Studes Making Some Hasty Repairs Before Final Year-End Inspection Of Dormitory Rooms

By NANCY PHILLIPS

LUBBOCK, May 28—The final social activities of the year have come to a reluctant end and dreaded Dead Week has set in at Tech. The dormitory halls are supposed to be as quiet as underground tombs, but, as expected, they fall to measure up and are more like subway stations. We are grasping at the brief bit of fun and companionship that is left us before school is out. We may never see some of our closest cronies again or swear and laugh at the same things—whereas lies the tragedy of school's end but there's always the rosy, exciting future and we haven't time to look back. Besides, it's a sure sign of getting old.

Everybody is feverishly preparing for the last day inspection of rooms. The school is determined to use every cent of the breakage deposit so niches in the stucco walls are being filled with face powder, dented spots in desks leveled off with fingernail polish, scratches covered with a corresponding color of shoe polish, worn places in the rugs hidden under

READING AND WRITING

SUNDAY: If you have friends, as we do, who are forever saying, "now what instrument played that melody?" while listening to a concert, give them H. W. Schrawitz's "The Story of Musical Instruments." This will identify any instrument for any listener, and it will also tell how the instrument came to be what it is today, and what its capabilities are. It's a reference work in a sense, but could be read straight through with pleasure. (Doubleday, Doran: $3.50.)

Monday: Norman Moore has done one of the neater tricks of the week in "How to Draw What You See." He has separated the problem of drawing from the artist; his book does not tell how to interpret life through drawing, but merely how anybody with eyes and a pencil can learn the simple rules of the proceeding. Hillman-Curl: $1.50.)

Tuesday: "Television: A Struggle for Power," is not precisely a book about an art. It is the story of radio and television to date, and an outline of the momentous changes (dangers sometimes) which are on the way. Frank Waldrop and Joseph Borkin have made a good job of it. (Morrow: $2.75.)

Wednesday: Being no actor, this writer can form no estimate of the practical features of Miriam A. Franklin's "Rehearsal: The Principles and Practice of Acting." But the book reads sensibly, is reasonably brief, and is not overloaded with arty cliches. (Prentice-Hall: $3.50.)

Thursday: Claire Reis' "Composers in America" is purely a reference work. She covers the period from 1912 to 1937, giving a brief biography of each composer, some facts about the performances he has had, and a list of his works with their playing time, publisher if any, and date of composition. (Macmillan: $3.50.)

Friday: A practical guide to intelligent play directing was aimed at by Allen Crafton in his "Play Directing." (Prentice-Hall: $3.50.)

Saturday: And finally there is a new edition of "Allen's Synonyms and Antonyms," revised, somewhat enlarged and just as valuable as ever. Roge's Thesaurus and Al-bewildered beds, dejected lamps with spilt throats are rejuvenated with a bit of string and a lot of hope, and when the checker does come the occupants will drape themselves languidly over objects that defied their constructive efforts and attempt to hide the rebel defects.

A peculiar thing happened the other night—a bed folded up and stubbornly refused to come down. The victim of this erratic decision emitted screams of distress, gathered herself together and shakily climbed to the floor, believing herself to be in the throes of a nightmare. She confronted the upright semblance of a bed, changed her mind and summoned aid. That five girls could not budge the bed was ridiculous but it seemed to rally its forces at each savage onslaught. Finally one girl deftly began to take the bed apart which met with the natural objection of the owner. At 1 o'clock in the morning the bed was still up and we all were asleep from exhaustion. I don't know where the homeless survivor slept.
