Bremen Falls, Yanks Press Near Austria

Third May Make Czechoslovakia Gigantic Trap

WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, April 26 (AP) — The 11th armored division drove nine miles farther southeastward today to the vicinity of Furhoh, only eight and a half miles from the Austrian frontier.

PARIS, April 26 (AP) — The British Second army captured Bremen today, clearing all the great port except the dock area and Burger Park north of the center of the city.

Far to the south, the American Third army closed within 11 miles of Austria and 41 of Munich. Gen. Patton's tanks were within 100 miles of a junction with the Russians west of Vienna, a union which would encircle Czechoslovakia and create a pocket larger than the Ruhr.

The Third army was last reported 72 miles from Hitler's roost at Berchtesgaden, but encountering harder opposition at the fringe of the Alpine redoubt.

The British Lowland (52nd) and Iron Thun divisions captured 5,000 Germans since entering Bremen yesterday. Rigid opposition gave way suddenly and almost disappeared by mid-afternoon.

On the Elbe to the north, a meeting of the Ninth army and the Russians who encircled Berlin appeared very close for Red army shells were falling near that river in the Arneburg area, 48 miles northwest of the dying capital of Nazidom.

The British captured half of Bremen, largest German submarine center.

Gen. Patton's Third army was closest to Austria and across the Danube at a point 41 miles north of Munich beyond hopelessly outflanked and bypassed Regensburg.

Hitler's ruined roost at Berchtesgaden was barely 72 miles from Third army troops in the Danube valley. The three-armed assault upon the Nazis' Alpine redoubt in the south was up to or across the Danube on a 180-mile front.

German resistance, however, was stiffening. Pilots saw German troops and machines massing at Passau on the Austrian border for a supreme defense of that Danubian road center, 11 miles from Patton's tanks.

Just south of Hamburg, the Germans counterattacked the Desert Rats (7th armored) division, but were thrown back.

All roads and rails from the Pilsen-Prague area to the Bavarian redoubt were cut except a circuitous route through Linz, and the Third army was advancing down the last 32 miles to that Austrian frontier city of 131,423.

The Seventh army moved south and southeast upon Munich along a 60-mile front against hardened German resistance. Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's troops were threatening to curl around that third largest German city from the south in a plunge toward the Austrian border.

Berchtesgaden was indeed threatened from all sides. The Russians were reported beating in from the east, some 80 miles away. The Allies in Italy were closing across the Po from the south. The Seventh army and the French were moving down from the northwest and west, and the Third army was striking frontally from the north.

Other officers elected were: Bishop Titus Lowe, Indianapolis, Ind., vice president; Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, New York City, secretary, and Bishops James H. Straughn of Pittsburgh and Wilbur E. Hamaker of Denver, members of the executive committee.

Truck Bill Passed By Legislature

AUSTIN, April 26 (AP) — Final house approval of a senate bill raising the maximum gross truck load limit in Texas from 38,000 pounds to 48,000 pounds today sent the measure to the governor's desk.

The house vote on final passage was 73 to 65. The bill was passed on second reading yesterday, 74 to 61.

Sponsors of the truck load bill hinged their fight on the theory a larger limit was needed to adequately serve industry, commerce, agriculture and the war effort.

The bill does not change the present formula upon which the top load of an individual truck can be determined nor does it change length, height or other limitation. It simply put an absolute maximum top of 48,000 pounds on a truck.

The senate took up a controversial old age assistance legislation, a committee substitute for the original house approved measure constitutional amendment and immediately hit a snag on a point of order.

James Taylor of Kerens, sponsor of the senate substitute which places a $30,000,000 annual ceiling on old age, needy blind and dependent children benefits, raised a point of order when opposition forces headed by T. C. Chadwick of Quitman sought to amend the committee substitute by substituting the original house measure which raised state matching funds from $15 to $20 per month for old age assistance grants.

The circumstances suggested that Premier Stalin had sent a message to the president concerning Big Three issues for action at San Francisco.

Grew then walked across the street with a folded sheet of paper to the White House where he went at once into President Truman's office. When he came out he declined to make any statement.

The agency said it received its information from "reliable sources."

Earlier, dispatches from Switzerland said Mussolini had arrived at Como, on the Italian-Swiss border some distance east of Lake Maggiore and was trying to enter Switzerland.

Clean-Up Drive Slow Starting

The 1945 clean-up campaign has gone very slowly with little response, it was revealed Thursday by drive chairman B. J. McDaniel.

The chairman warned that after the collections have been made no special calls can be answered due to labor shortages. He advised that homeowners clean off their lots promptly and place the rubbish near their trash cans.

Patriots Said Seizing North Italian Cities

Allied Forces Nearing Approaches To Famed Brenner Pass

ROME, April 26 (AP) — Fifth army troops captured Verona, on the approaches to the Brenner Pass, today.

ROME, April 26 (AP) — Radio broadcast monitored in Rome indicated today that Italian patriot forces were seizing control of all major cities in northern Italy, with the German and Italian fascist garrisons either fleeing or surrendering.

The reports came as the Fifth army, plunging over the Lombard Plain to less than 25 miles from Verona in the foothill approaches to the Brenner Pass, threatened to cut off the last main exit from northwestern Italy.

From Milan, a station identifying itself as being operated by patriots, reported that Benito Mussolini had offered to surrender the city to the committee of national liberation, but fled without carrying out the offer.

This station said Mussolini had escaped into Switzerland under a false name.

(Swiss dispatches said Mussolini, in disguise had arrived at Como in Italy on the Swiss border.

(Another report said Como itself was in the hands of Partisans.)

A Genoa station, describing itself as the "voice of the committee of national liberation," announced that the Nazi commander there surrendered to the patriots.

The broadcasts said half of Turin was in the hands of the revolting patriots.

Near the east coast the British Eighth army poured across the Po river to strike at the Adige river line 30 miles from Venice, where the Germans are digging in for a last ditch fight before the Dolomite Alps.

The last reported positions of the American forces, which burst from the Apennine mountains, were 25 miles from Verona, in the foothill approaches to the Brenner Pass.

(Radio reports from Switzerland and London said Verona had fallen into Partisan hands, as well as the industrial cities of Turin and Piacenza.)

The enemy hastily evacuated his last foothold on the south side of the Po river east of Ferrara, "leaving behind him so much equipment and motor transport that we are unable to count it," Allied headquarters reported.

Stalin Sends Truman Message

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Soviet Charge d'Affaires Nikolai Novikov today called at the state department with a diplomatic communication and acting Secretary of State Grew conferred immediately afterward with President Truman.

The circumstances suggested that Premier Stalin had sent a message to the president concerning Big Three issues for action at San Francisco.

Grew then walked across the street with a folded sheet of paper to the White House where he went at once into President Truman's office. When he came out he declined to make any statement.

The agency said it received its information from "reliable sources."

Earlier, dispatches from Switzerland said Mussolini had arrived at Como, on the Italian-Swiss border some distance east of Lake Maggiore and was trying to enter Switzerland.

STORY OF EARL RESURRECTED IN SUIT FOR MINERAL RIGHTS

The historical and unusual story of the wealthy and famous Heneage Finch, Earl of Aylesford, who came to Big Spring from England in 1683, was resurrected in 70th district court Wednesday in the suit of H. S. Miller versus Jane Wightwick, et al, trespass to try title.

Judge Cecil Collins instructed a verdict in favor of the defendant since a similar case tried several years ago went to the supreme court and was given a similar verdict.

Red Army Shells Falling Within Sight Of Yanks

By WES GALLAGHER

ARNESBURG, Germany, April 26 (AP) — Red army shells now are falling occasionally a mile or two east of the Elbe river in the area of Arneburg, 48 miles northwest of Berlin, where the west bank is held by U. S. Ninth army troops awaiting a juncture.

Red bursts of the Russian shells are part of a great drama of the war which can be seen from the top of a bluff here at Arneburg.

Berlin's death throes are speeding a tide of panic-stricken humanity to the Elbe in front of the Russians moving westward. Except for the occasional Soviet shell, fired from no one knows where, the river is quiet.

(This dispatch suggests that a union of Russian and American forces northwest of Berlin might be made simultaneously or even before expected junctures in the Barby and Dresden areas south-west of the capital. Just how many miles away the Russian artillery might be, however, was problematical.)

The Americans stopped cross-river shelling when Germans appeared with white flags in this sector and begged to be taken prisoner.

On the opposite bank of the Elbe, are long lines of men and women as far as I can see.

There are German soldiers who have thrown away their guns while fleeing in the hope of surrendering to the U. S. Ninth army rather than fall into the hands of the Red army troops.

There are American soldiers captured in Africa and Italy. There are British soldiers captured at Dunkerque, Belgium, French, Russians, Poles, Czechs representing every phase of the war. A few hours ago they were in prison camps. Now their captors are begging them for help.

Then there is the debris of Hitler's empire, rich Nazis, poor farmers, and officers trying to hide their shame in civilian clothes.

These refugees tell of German

Russia Takes Vote Bids Before General Session

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Diplomatic News Editor

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP) — Russia's bid for three Soviet votes in a world assembly based on "sovereign equality" among nations today goes before the first business session of the United Nations conference.

Word of this plan ended hopes of some United States delegates that Russia might not raise the troublesome three-vote issue.

Foreign Commissar Molotov notified the chief delegates of the 45 other United Nations here, after yesterday's first meeting, that the proposal would be presented to the organization session of the steering committee.

The specific proposal is that the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics should get conference seats and become thereby charter members of the assembly of the proposed world organization.

Two other top developments ushered the conference into its second day after delegates heard President Truman declare that the world's future is a choice between chaos and the organized enforcement of peace. They were:

1. It was reported that Molotov had received a reply from Premier Marshal Stalin to his report on talks with Secretary of State Stettinius and British Foreign Minister Eden on the Big-Three deadlock over Poland. The reply apparently had not been communicated to either Stettinius or Eden.

2. The sponsoring powers agreed on a conference executive committee of delegates of 11 nations and there was speculation that these 11 may form the membership of the proposed organization's all-powerful security council. The 11 are the council's five permanent members—United States, Britain, Russia, China and France—and six smaller nations—Iran, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Canada, Brazil and Mexico.

The program this evening calls for speeches by Foreign Minister T. V. Soong of China, Molotov and Eden. Afterward, at subsequent sessions the chief delegates of other nations will speak in the alphabetical order of their countries.

First Jap Defense On Okinawa Is Smashed

By LEONARD MILLMAN

Associated Press War Editor

Notable infantry gains on three Pacific battlefronts, including the smashing of the first Japanese defense line on southern Okinawa were reported today as superforts bombed the Japanese home island of Shikoku for the first time.

The U. S. 24th corps breakthrough on Okinawa, 325 miles south of Japan, was no sweeping advance. But it was general along the entire line and gave Yanks control of the skyline stretching across the island and overlooking the secondary defense before the capital city of Naha.

A third of the Japanese garrison has been killed, leaving perhaps 40,000 to be eliminated before the battle is won.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced 21,269 enemy soldiers have been killed in the Okinawa operation, including more than a dozen neighboring islands. Comparable American casualties, in three fewer days of fighting, were 7,424, including 146 dead.

Filipino guerrillas topped reports from the southwest Pacific with the capture of Vigan, its airfield, and nearby Bantay on northwestern Luzon.

In the southern islands the 24th division swept 16 miles down highway number one one Mindanao to within 45 air miles of Davao. British and Indian troops captured Toungou, tenth largest city in Burma and an important enemy base roughly 140 miles from Rangoon. Nearby airfields were seized.

The defenders of Okinawa are a higher caliber than Nipponese troops Americans have encountered heretofore. Maj. Gen John R. Hodge, 24th corps commander, said they were intelligent soldiers fighting from excellent fortifications.

A force of more than 200 superforts raided 11 bases of Japanese suicide planes on Kyushu and Shikoku islands this morning for only two hours. Hokkaido is the only major Nippon island the B-29s have not attacked.

Chinese headquarters reported three Japanese columns were unable to make any progress toward Chikiang, former American airbase 250 miles southeast of Chungking, despite heavy fighting.

City Encircled As New Towns Fall To Soviets

LONDON, April 26 (AP)

Russian troops battled against weakening Nazi resistance in the center of flaming Berlin today as the German high command announced that a Soviet wing west of the capital had driven to Rathenow, 14 1/2 miles from American positions on the west bank of the Elbe. Another captured the port of Stettin on the Oder.

The advance to Rathenow, an optical instrument manufacturing center on the Havel river, represented a 23 1-2 mile gain westward for the Russians from Nauen. It widened farther on the west the encircling belt thrown tightly around Berlin.

The inner edge of this ring gripping the capital now extends roughly 15 miles from east to west and from seven to eight miles from north to south.

As Russian artillery concentrated a withering fire on the heart of Berlin, blasting targets northward from the Tempelhof airport through the famous Tiergarten to the Reichstag sector, the Hamburg radio said that young German girls had joined in the bitter street fighting.

Under the headline "Berlin," a Soviet Tass news agency dispatch said: "Men of the Red army today are fighting in the heart of the German capital."

The dispatch gave no details, but probably referred to the vicinity of the Alexanderplatz, the center of the capital's business district.

The German high command reported heavy fighting inside Berlin at the Goerlitzer and Schelesischer railway station in the southeast, the Tempelhof air-drome and Zehlendorf in the south, and Charlottenburg in the west.

Russian eye witness accounts said that Nazis disguised as priests, grocers, and school teachers were sitting into sections of Berlin held by the Red army.

One Russian dispatch said that the Germans were bombing their own capital.

Two mighty Soviet armies had completed the encirclement of the city and Russian elements were closing in from the west, in the rear of the hard pressed defenders. Continuing to promise reinforcements, Nazi propagandists still had not admitted to Berliners that their city was completely ringed.

Pressing close to walls, some German civilians crawled toward the Russian lines, believing they would be safer there than in the cauldron of the encircled area.

Russian storm units were making the conquest of the capital the world's greatest manhunt, Moscow dispatches said. Fighting over and under the streets the Russians had been ordered to take Adolf Hitler alive if he still is in the capital as Nazi propagandists have declared. The Russians were not too optimistic about finding the fuhrer in Berlin, however.

Possibly 500,000 Germans were caught in the capital. The Hamburg radio asserted that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels still was in Berlin and that Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel also was in or near the city.

Redoubt Area Bombed Again

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—Italy based RAF Lancasters struck the German redoubt city of Freilassing last night in an explosive follow-up to the historic bombardment of Hitler's eagle nest refuge and his chalet near Berchtesgaden.

American and British airmen were jubilant over the coordinated strike at Hitler's hideouts yesterday. The sumptuous chalet was destroyed by a direct hit from a six-ton bomb. Heavy, deep-penetrating explosives were hurled upon his Kehstein mountain fortress with unannounced results.

It was disclosed today that 350 RAF Lancasters were used in the strike at Hitler's properties, rather than 200 as originally reported.

Two RAF planes were lost. Sixteen Eighth Air Force bombers, including several in an attack upon the Skoda armament works at Pilsen, were shot down by anti-aircraft fire. The 15th Air Force lost 15 heavy bombers from all operations yesterday.

Aerial photographs show that a large number of bombs, specially fused to bore deep underground before exploding, burst in the area of the fuhrer's chalet and nearby barracks where 10,000 hand-picked SS bodyguards had been reported house.

PARLEY DELEGATES MISTAKE LOVE TUNE FOR SOME NATIONAL ANTHEM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP)

After 300 years as the "language of diplomacy," French is giving place to English.

Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov combines an apparent ignorance of English, by the way, with a determination to keep quiet.

"Have you any statement, Mr. Molotov?" asked a newsmen as the Russian walked through a hotel lobby.

"Yes," said Molotov distinctly, never stopping in his stride and not saying another word.

The scene at the opening session, arranged with the care of a Broadway producer bent on serious business, was one of grave solemnity against a background of vivid color.

Four golden pillars, interspersed with the bright colors of the flags of 46 nations, were taken by some to symbolize the four freedoms. Others viewed them as dramatizing the dominant position of the four big powers at the conference.

The ban is on any preliminary practice tunes by military bands awaiting a formal session of the

Roosevelt The Man—

Reporters Worked FDR Into Poetical Reply

(Fourth of Six Articles) By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL (Associated Press staff writer who "covered" Mr. Roosevelt for 10 years) WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)— Franklin D. Roosevelt was a poet. This story revolves around an eight-line, hitherto unpublished opus. It is necessary to sketch in some rather extensive background. Immediately after Pearl Harbor, a security blackout was imposed on movements of the chief executive. Gradually it was lifted, but for a long time when he scooted up to his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., reporters were not permitted to go along nor to record the fact that he had been there. Representative of the Associated Press and the other two major wire services kept battling for the right to go along on a "protective" basis even if they could write nothing about the trips. Mr. Roosevelt called us "The Three Ghouls," we were told. But, after all, the president belonged to the people, and if anything happened to him the news services wanted to be on the spot. Eventually we won our point. But we continued to miss out on minor trips. In March, 1943, we got wind of another big journey that would take Mr. Roosevelt to Mexico to meet President Manuel Avila Camacho. We feared we might be left out again. We didn't want to disclose how much we knew of the plans, since the whole thing was supposed to be hush-hush. Then we hit on an idea. We knew there was to be a stop at Warm Springs, so we decided to base an appeal on the idea that we hadn't been riding on an expense account for a long time. We thought that might work because the President always was ribbing us on the subject. So we drew what was intended to be a picture of a train rolling along a track and typed a poem entitled "Ode to the Spring," or "Expense Account, Oh, How I Miss You": "As we wish for sectors vernal, "Warm (like hope) Springs eternal. "There we'd bask in liquid pleasure "While piling up a modest treasure. "The problem's simple, answer same—

"Let's jump to Georgia, once again." We took it in to Presidential Secretary Marvin McIntyre. "I'll show it to the boss," he volunteered. A few hours later, Mac called us into his office and handed us this reply, scribbled in the President's own hand on a memo pad: "Mar. 19, '43 "Your touching, deep desire "Arouses in me fire "To send a hasty wire "To Warm Springs in the mire "To scrape the roads, "Break out the corn, "The gals is waiting "Sho's yo born." At the bottom he penciled: "To the 3 press associations ONLY. None others need apply."

Brother-in-Law Of Himmler Captured WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY, Germany, April 24 (Delayed) (AP)— A captured Nazi general who said peace and that only an Allied proclamation could end the war in Europe. The captive is Brig. Gen. Heinz Kokott, commanding the 28th Volksgrenadier division. He was taken three days ago in the Harz mountains. An extreme Nazi type, he said Himmler himself had been in the Harz mountains April 10, but escaped. We made the trip, but half a dozen other reporters also were taken along on the first half.

Texas Today— Short On Shorts, Hillsboro Man Has Difficulties Having Few Tailor-Made

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff
Short short story:

It has become difficult for men to buy such items as shorts. When a person is around the going is really rugged.

You can take the word of Joe Fields Merrow of Hillsboro for it. Mr. Merrow says he is "short and fat and measures 51 inches around the waist."

He also points out that that is no way to be when clothing comes in standard sizes.

But Mr. Merrow is an ingenious gentleman. He has solved his problem.

He explains, and we quote: "The last underwear I was able to buy was some winter underwear. It was long underwear, and it is getting pretty warm now."

"Everywhere I went to try to buy some summer underwear, or shorts, they said, 'Sorry, but the largest size we have is 42.' I got very tired of hearing those words."

"An elderly lady friend finally suggested that I go to a dressmaker and have some shorts made."

"The dressmaker said the biggest pattern she had was a size 44, but thought she could ad lib and agreed to do the job.

"The next step was to get some cloth. A saleslady friend was taken into our confidence. The purchase was made—six whole yards at 25 cents a yard.

"Within a few days the shorts were ready. In the meantime, though, the story got around. A neighbor told me his wife had gone so far as to visit the dressmaker and try on my shorts, just for the heck of it. He said they went around her twice.

"Well, they are a little too big even for me. But I've got three pairs of something to wear."

"And they say the shorts will shrink. Until they do, I'm using a safety pin to take up the slack."

Dallas PM Speeds Prisoner Mail

GOOD TURN MULTIPLIES—Mrs. M. R. David (left) of Dallas receives a special delivery letter from her son, S-Sgt. James W. David, saying he is safe in a prison camp after being shot down over Germany. It was the 1,000th such letter to be sent by special delivery in Dallas. Postmaster J. Howard Payne started a fund to expedite such mail after J. T. Holland (center) put a special delivery stamp on a letter from Payne's son from a German prison down over enemy territory.

An alert clerk, J. T. Holland, had spotted the letter at the post office and expedited its delivery by putting a special stamp on it.

"We were so happy that I decided to pay for sending all prisoner-of-war letters by special delivery during the Christmas holidays," Payne said. He paid for sending 126 letters during the two-week period.

Expressions of gratitude poured in. One mother asked to reimburse him. Payne suggested to her and to others that they instead contribute to a fund set up at the post office for expediting letters to other parents.

Since then more than a thousand have been handled in this manner, and the postmaster has a backlog of more than a thousand stamps contributed for future use on such mail.

Today On Home Front— People All Confused About What San Francisco Conference Is For

By JAMES MARLOW
SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP)—A slight fog—the mental kind—has settled down around the United Nations conference.

The conference's first session was a tremendous turnout of diplomats, cops, soldiers and just plain citizens. The neighborhood had been roped off for days.

Right after that first session I went out and asked people closest to the meeting place—people living nearby—the street or working nearby—this question:

"Do you know what the conference is about?"

"Sure," a red-faced traffic cop said, chewing thoughtfully. "It's a peace conference and you gotta have a ticket to get in."

Is it a conference to settle the peace terms of this war?

"That's right," the cop said. Well, it isn't. It's a conference to prevent future wars.

"Is that so?" the cop said. "Well, all I know is that a buncha delegates get together to thrash things out and I hope they hit a happy medium. Whatcha wanna know all this for?"

I told him: "I just want to find out whether people living or working as close as you are to the conference have it clear in their minds what the conference means or whether they're confused about it."

"People ain't confused. But this is deep stuff," the cop replied.

So I tried a soldier. I asked him the same questions.

Like the cop, the soldier thought the conference was to settle peace terms and national boundaries arising from this war. But he thought it would try to prevent future wars, too.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a youngster— Now her backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Pennsylvania Demos Backing President

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—A delegation of Pennsylvania democrats, headed by Senators Guffey and Myers, endorsed President Truman for a second term in a call at the White House today.

David L. Lawrence, national committeeman for Pennsylvania, reported that the president made no comment when the subject was raised.

In the first open discussion by political leaders of the possibility Mr. Truman would be asked to run for another term in 1948, Lawrence told reporters: "We told him we were solidly in back of him."

"Does that mean in 1948?" he was asked.

"Any time," he said.

Dick Newcomb Goes Fishing by Proxy

Bob Newcomb used to be the best fly caster in the county. Never missed a Saturday at Seward's Creek. But come the war, and Bob's son going off in uniform, he just lost interest in things like fishing.

So Bob spent his next day off exactly as Dick dreamed of his doing—flashed Seward's Creek again, and cooked the trout, and kept the beer cool in the stream. And you know he was doing it for Dick.

But the other day Bob got a letter from the South Pacific . . . kind of a homesick letter: "I'm thinking of you, Dad, fishing in Seward's Creek; cooking trout over an open fire; and keeping the beer cool in the stream. Keep on extra bottle cool for me."

From where I sit, it's what the men overseas would have us do—keep alive the little customs, the small pleasures, they remember—keep them alive till they come home to share them.

Lucky For Us, Fish To Be Plentiful This Season And Listed Recipes Are Tasty

NEW ENGLAND FISH PIE... For a point-free meal...

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
 Associated Press Food Editor

Our fishermen are due to bring in a larger catch this season than in many years. This is a lucky thing for us, in view of the meat shortage. Lots of people announce firmly that they don't like fish. That could very well be because they've never had it properly cooked. It isn't hard to lean to treat fish right in the pan. Here are a few suggestions.

New England Fish Pie
 4 tablespoons butter or vitaminized margarine
 2 pounds smoked haddock
 2 cups milk
 6 tablespoons flour
 Dash of pepper
 6 slices bread

Cover fish with milk and soak 1 hour. Bring slowly to boiling point, cool, drain, and flake fish with a fork. Melt butter or margarine over low heat, add flour and pepper and stir until smooth. Drain milk from fish and add it to the roux gradually, stirring constantly, and cook until smooth and thickened. Add fish. Pour into a well-greased baking dish. Top with bread cut in fancy shapes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20-25 minutes, or until bread is toasted. Serve with braised potato balls.

lean fish. Because it is so well-supplied with fat, mackerel is best broiled or broiled.

Broiled Mackerel
 Have mackerel split for broiling. Place, skin side down, in broiler pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and a few mixed herbs (if desired). Dot with butter or margarine. Broil five inches from flame for about 12-15 minutes, depending upon the thickness of the fish. If you wish, you may now turn the fish and broil the skin side until it is crisp. I prefer to serve it after the flesh side is well browned and the time of cooking I have suggested. Overcooking dries broiled fish and that is the great thing to avoid. Furthermore, mackerel has tender flesh and does not need much cooking. This same principle holds good for shad.

Chihuahua Chamber Opposes Water Pact

MEXICO CITY, April 26 (AP)—Opposition to the U.S.-Mexico water treaty has been expressed by the Chihuahua chamber of commerce, which contends the arid northern Mexico state needs more water for irrigation than is provided under the pact.

"Sixty per cent of the waters of the Rio Grande will be ceded to the United States," the Chihuahua organization said in a letter to President Manuel Avila Camacho.

"This is manifestly unjust and is contrary to every natural right, because the 24 Mexican streams that flow into the river provide more than 70 per cent of its waters."

Senate Votes To Give Mitchell Top Medal

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The senate voted Wednesday to grant posthumously to the late Col. William (Billy) Mitchell the Congressional Medal of Honor and a promotion to major general. The house must consider the proposal.

Decorated for bravery in the first world war, Mitchell died in 1936 after being stripped of his rank and command a decade earlier by court martial for accusing army and navy chiefs of failing to develop the nation's air power.

Mitchell had frequently warned that lack of air strength left our Pacific possessions open to "a surprise attack from Japan" and, according to the court martial verdict, publicly accused superiors of being "incompetent, criminally negligent and almost treasonable."

WINS CITIZENSHIP

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP)—German-born Mrs. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wife of World I's most publicized draft dodger, was granted American citizenship Wednesday by U.S. District Judge George A. Welsh.

KEATING URGES PUBLIC TO SEE CALVES BEFORE FEED TESTS END

Fifty-three fat steers, nearing the end of the third in the current cycle of feeding tests at the US Experiment Farm, will be shipped to market on May 2, Fred Keating, superintendent, said today.

He urged those interested to inspect the calves at any convenient time between now and next Wednesday.

"We are particularly anxious for farmers and ranchers and interested business men to view the results," he said.

Based on figures at the end of 168 days of feeding, it appears to be pretty much the same story on gains of maize as against corn. For the first time, corn likely will show a slight edge in gains, but for economy of gain there will be no comparison.

The cornfed lot of calves have averaged 2.45 pounds gain per day. The lot fed maize with bone meal supplement has averaged 2.41 pounds per day. Average total gain of the cornfed steers is 411, of the maize lot with bone meal 405.

With corn costing around $3 cwt. here against $1.50 for maize, economy of the maize gain across the board will be better.

The lot fed maize with one ounce of limestone flour supplement averaged 2.34 pounds daily, a total average of 393; the lot with maize and two ounces limestone flour averaged 2.27 (this has been the top lot in two previous tests) per day or 383 for the period. The lot with maize and no mineral supplement averaged 2.39 per day or 401 for the 168 days and that with ground heads averaged 2.23 per day and 375 for the period.

Curiously, a pen of five, held in reserve for replacement and fed ground threshed maize in self feeders, averaged 245 pounds per day gain, the equal of the corn lot.

W. H. Black, chief of the livestock feeding division for the US department of agriculture experiment stations, and J. M. Jones, animal husbandman for Texas experiment stations, will be here Wednesday to assist Keating in weighing and grading the calves for shipment.

Gardens Among Most Satisfying Hobbies

By DURWARD LEWTER
County Agent

Of all hobbies gardening is one of the simplest, most satisfying and most salutary. Nature has a way of beckoning us but its simplicity may fall to impress us in our hasty and superficial search for happiness. The very simplicity of gardening is one of its chief assets. Burroughs in "Fresh Fields," referred to gardening as a means of play for both the rich and poor. The expert gardener can never explore the wonders of nature completely. The novice is rewarded speedily for his mundane efforts. With the growth that he fosters there develops within himself a mental growth, a feeling of power and satisfaction. Certainly we should hardly expect to discover that very fountain of health in our own back-yard.

Gardening, like any constructive hobby tends to grow and new interests are added rapidly. What was at first a mere means of occupying a few hours gradually unfolds into a world of new wonders. As Cabot has so well stated, play should serve as recreation and recreation. This above all is true of gardening. Some hobbies demand much time, special training and financial outlay, all of which tend to frighten and discourage the beginner. Start the garden with simple plans and modest tastes.

Gardening offers one a delightful method of daily exercise. The muscles are made firm, the digestion improves and the nerves become relaxed. In this new and expanding world of fresh air and sunshine, one's entire outlook on life seems to broaden. One gradually develops a philosophy of tranquility. For a vicious life cycle one substitutes a healthy pattern of life. Work becomes a pleasure and the resulting wholesome fatigue serves as a tonic to body and soul.

As the gardener's interests take root the leisure moments of the day and the trouble hours of the night are turned to constructive thinking. Healthy thoughts gradually replace melancholy thoughts. The evil spirits of anxiety, worry and fear find it more and more difficult to intrude themselves on us. In place of wakeful nights spent in worrying about things we cannot help, it becomes possible to plan the work for the morrow enjoyably and fall asleep dreaming of roses rather than stubborn sheep.

Some Ways To Get Around Milk Odor

By RHEBA MERLE BOYLES

This time of year when weeds are abundant, often milk and butter have an unpleasant odor and a bitter taste. But you can't blame all this on weeds. The trouble may be caused by one or more of four reasons.

These unpleasant odors and flavors result mainly from, first, the physical condition of the cow. Second, highly flavored feeds and weeds. Third, odors absorbed by milk in containers. And fourth, biological changes in the milk.

Feed flavors and odors in milk are most frequently caused by succulent feeds and the way to get around this is to feed the cow after milking. That way the milk won't be affected by the odor and taste of silage, green alfalfa, turnips or some similar succulent feed.

Now about weed flavors. These aren't so easy to combat. Either you'll have to get rid of bitter weed or wild garlic or whatever is giving you trouble, or else you'll have to take the cows off that pasture as long as possible before milking. If your pasture is infected with wild garlic, as many are this spring, you ought to remove the cow from four to seven hours before milking time.

The milk absorbs odors from the air to which it's exposed only if these odors are quite strong. The feed smell in the barn for instance, may have some effect on your milk. Off-flavors and odors also may develop if u'ersilk for handling milk are not kept clean. These changes may not show up immediately, but as the bacteria get to work off-flavors and odors will develop and grow worse as time goes by. Cleanliness in handling milk can't be emphasized too much.

In Central Australia some bushmen believe they can help perpetuate themselves by anointing themselves with the fat of the kangaroo.

KILLED: Pfc. Burt Chandler, 31, was reported killed in action somewhere in Germany on March 28, according to word received here by his family. Pfc. Chandler served with the 78th Division of General George S. Patton's Third Army and had been in the army two years.

Navy Asks For More Qualified Machinists

The acute need of machinists, electricians and sheet metal workers for civilian employment in west coast navy yards was emphasized this week by Commander Dan Henry in announcing that the Dallas and North Texas navy recruiting district will lend its facilities and personnel in support of that essential program.

Interested persons, not already in essential industry, may secure complete information by visiting a representative of the program. The representative for this area is David Hendrix, Abilene and San Angelo. Other representatives may be reached through navy recruiting stations or Employment Service offices, or interested persons may write direct to A. J. Leach, regional director of the 10th civil service region, 210 South Harwood, Dallas.

Passeau In Fine Form, Beats Reds

Cholly Grimm strummed a happy tune on his banjo today with his Chicago Cubs in second place and winning form by Claude Passeau and Paul Derringer easing his pitching worries.

Passeau relieved Hank Wyse Friday against Pittsburgh but worked only one-third inning so Grimm waited until yesterday's first starting effort, a 4-0 shut-out of Cincinnati, before counting on him too heavily.

Cincinnati hit safely only five times, all singles. Passeau didn't confine his efforts to pitching, hitting his first home run since 1942. All other big league games were postponed, leaving the field open to discussion of new Commissioner Albert B. (Happy) Chandler and naming of 10 new members to the hall of fame.

Emphasis On Comfort For This Year's Straw Hats

Comfort is to be the keynote of men's straw hats this year, a survey of stocks on the eve of Straw Hat Day, set for Saturday, revealed today.

There are no great departures from previous years, and brims and bands appear to offer the greatest chances for variety.

The eternal Panama is still a popular number along with similar close weave white straws, but the time-honored stiff brim numbers appear to be about as plentiful as the auk this year.

Some brims are noticeably narrower this year and depths of crowns vary. Even in the wider brims, the once timid venture toward the zoot hat has vaporized in the face of war-time economy (and more common sense, we hope).

Hatters have done tricks with bands this year, gaining effects comparable to narrowing or widening brims. Width of the band controls much of this, but then the judicious use of colors and horizontal stripes adds a sly touch.

Most prevalent type of straws this year are in the snap brim fashions. Aside from the soft weaves, there are an abundant number of coarser straws (which doesn't mean they are necessarily inferior in quality) such as the so-called coconut. Hats come in a variety of colors and shades to suit any taste.

Emphasis seems to be on making them fit firmly but not too awfully snug, of making them what they are intended to be—a cool, comfortable headpiece.

Extremists Of Both Factions May Be Out Under New Administration

By PAUL BOLTON
WASHINGTON, April 28 (SpI) — Where Texans gather in Washington, one of the current topics of discussion is what effect the accession of Mr. Truman may have upon the Texas political situation.

In Texas politics, the democratic party was split. This split was loosely designated—for want of a more exact description—as between the "conservatives" on one hand and the "liberals" on the other. They called each other harsher names. In any event, the liberals or pro-Rooseveltian branch won out at the polls in a fight which had national attention and national repercussions.

The first blush reaction in Washington was that the conservative faction might now be in a much better position. Sober second thought indicates that political lineups are in fact very little changed by the change in administration.

The veteran Washington correspondents say, without respect to the Texas situation, that Mr. Truman will not retreat from any of the New Deal principles as now embodied in law—the TVA, the SEC, the Missouri Valley Authority which is pending, and all the others. They doubt that Mr. Truman will initiate other "New Dealish" legislation, but they insist that he will defend that already on the books.

The news reporters in Washington—as distinguished from the weighty commentators—belittle the predictions of a general purging of the "liberals" now in places of power. There will be, they say, three or possibly four replacements in the cabinet. But the men left in power will be men who have subscribed to Rooseveltian doctrines.

The president will have to deal with these blocs or factions within his party. First, the party organization headed by Bob Hannegan. Hannegan is one of the busiest men in Washington. Hannegan is a party man. President Truman is a party man. No one questions that Hannegan's voice will be powerful. Then there are the extremely conservative elements. Jesse Jones might be considered symbolic of this group. The betting in Washington, as of now, is that Jesse Jones' status has not changed materially.

Francis Biddle could be considered symbolic of the ultra-liberal group. The consensus is that this group is on the way out.

Then there are the liberal-minded "middle of the roaders", typified by Speaker Sam Rayburn; Fred Vinson; Tom Connally; Justice Bill Douglas; and others of their stripe. They are committed to much the same course as Truman. As a matter of cold fact, they might be considered somewhat more conservative than Truman. An instance is the negro question.

So the wise boys in Washington are guessing that the new president is going to follow the New Deal signposts, with modifications; that he will stick by his party organization so long as that organization refers good men to him; and that the extremists on both sides are going to be on the outside looking in. In terms of Texas, it means that the radically conservative in the Lone Star State are going to stand hitched outside the portals.

Mayor Sets Aside A Straw Hat Day

Saturday was set aside as "Straw Hat Day in Big Spring" in a pronouncement from Mayor R. L. Cook today.

Taking cognizance of the cooperative efforts of merchants to lift the bar on straw hat sales, as has been the custom for a number of years, the mayor designated Saturday as the special day.

"Even in West Texas," he observed, "we may be safe in assuming that at last spring is here. Everything else is budding in new finery, and there is no good reason why men's headgear should be excluded."

"Moreover, records show that it is not infrequent that some of the hottest days of the year occur in May and no man wants to be caught with a sweltering felt on his head when the thermometer flirts with 100 degrees."

Virtually all men's clothiers and department stores are joining in the day with special window displays of straw hats, although some stocks are not yet complete. At any rate, after Saturday, any local man can feel free to sport a colorful, cool straw with impunity.

No General Homecoming

The War Today

by Dewitt Mackenzie
Associated Press War Analyst

Destruction of Hitler's Berchtesgaden home with a 12,000 pound earthquake bomb has provided a happy departure from the general war-practice of not gunning for heads of states, although unfortunately the chances seem small that the barbarian was in his house.

The dictator's death might easily end the war immediately, making it unnecessary to sacrifice more Allied lives to clean up the last pockets of German forces. That is, it probably would end the war if his death became generally known to his scattered forces, since loyalty to him provides the main reason for continued resistance of the Nazi fanatics.

The fuhrer's death "in action" also would be a boon to the post-war world, because his capture and punishment after trial most certainly will make a martyr of him in the eyes of his followers and thus add to the Allied difficulties in the reformation of Germany. Perhaps luck will be with us in this respect, since he apparently is moving about in the danger zone.

Under normal circumstances it has been the practice for bombing expeditions—both in this war and the last one—to avoid the residences of rulers and other chiefs of state, who fall in the category of civilians. The case of Hitler the Hun, however,

An article written by Quintin Reynolds in the current issue of Colliers will make interesting if not altogether pleasant reading for most American families. In it, Mr. Reynolds, quite a noted war correspondent, makes the point that expectations of mass home comings after V-E day are delusions.

It is true that a large number will come home, he says, but in the main everything will point to a transfer of European forces to the Pacific theatre for the all-out blow against Japan. He quotes high army authorities to the effect that it will take six months or so to really start the movement of troops on a wholesale basis and that once in the Pacific these troops must be retrained—this time in the peculiarities of tropical fighting.

In all it will mean about eight or nine months after V-E day before the full weight of European forces can be thrown into the fight against the Japs, hence the final day of reckoning for the wily Jap must be delayed.

Mr. Reynolds, it should be remembered, is quoting high military authorities. Naturally, they are looking at it realistically and not under-estimating. But even if the developments should take a better turn than anticipated, the writer's conclusion of "no electric refrigerators or bicycles or vacuum cleaners for civilians for a long time to come" is as pertinent as the "no homecoming."

is unique in that he not only is the actual military commander but, more to the point, his hands are wet with the blood of hundreds of thousands whom he has murdered, and he is a fugitive from justice. During the last war even the Germans followed the code of not molesting rulers.

Ernie Pyle Reports—

Marines Flit About In Kimonos

Editor's Note: In addition to the story which appears here today, we will print several others which we have just received from Ernie on Okinawa. We believe he would have wanted us to. As a great reporter, a great newspaperman and a great person, he would have wanted his stories to go through, despite his tragic death.

By ERNIE PYLE
OKINAWA (By Navy Radio)—

It's marvelous to see a bunch of American troops go about making themselves at home wherever they get a chance to settle down for a few days.

My company of First Division marines dug in at the edge of a bomb-shattered village. The village was quaint and not without charm. I was astonished at the similarity with the villages of Sicily and Italy.

The town didn't really seem Oriental. The houses were wooden one-story buildings, surrounded by little vegetable gardens. Instead of fences, each lot was divided by rows of shrubs or trees. The cobblestoned streets were just wide enough for a jeep. They were winding and walled on both sides by head-high stone walls.

A good part of the town lay shattered. Scores of the houses had burned and only ashes and red roofing tile were left. Wandering around, I counted the bodies of four Okinawans still in the streets. Otherwise the town was deserted.

The people had fled to their caves in the hillsides, taking most of their personal belongings with them. There is almost no furniture in Japanese houses, so they didn't have to worry about that.

After a few days the grapevine carried the word to them that we were treating them well so they began to come out in droves and give themselves up. I heard one story about a hundred Okinawa civilians who had a Jap soldier among them, and when they realized the atrocity stories he had told them about the Americans were untrue, our MPs had to step in to keep them from beating him. Our company commander picked out a nice little house on a rise at the edge of town for his command post.

The house was very light, fairly clean, and the floors were covered with woven straw mats. A couple of officers and a dozen men moved into the house and slept on the floor and we cooked our rations over an open stone cookstove in the rear.

Then the word went around for the men of the company to dig in for several days. Two platoons were assigned to dig in along the outer sides of the nearby hills for perimeter defense.

The boys were told they could keep the horses they had commandeered, that they could carry wooden panels out of the houses to make little doghouses for themselves, but not to take anything else, and that they could have fires, except during air alerts.

They weren't to start their daily mop-up patrols in the brush until the next day, so they had the afternoon off to clean themselves up and fix up their little houses.

Different men did different things. Some built elaborate houses about the size of chicken houses, with floor mats and chairs and even kerosene lanterns hanging from the roof.

One Mexican boy dug a hole, covered it with boards, and then camouflaged it so perfectly with brush you really couldn't see it.

Some spent the afternoon taking baths and washing clothes in the river. Some rode bicycles around town. Some rode their horses up and down. Some foraged around town through the deserted houses. Some went looking for chickens to cook. Some sat in groups and talked. Some just slept.

An order went out against wearing Jap clothing or eating any of the local vegetables, pork, goat, beef or fowl. But this was before the order came out.

The marines had dug up lots of Japanese kimonos out of the smashed houses and put them on while washing their one set of clothes. If you ever want to see a funny sight, just take a look at a few dozen dirty and unshaven marines walking around in pink and blue women's kimonos.

A typical example was Pvt. Raymond Adams of Ft. Meade, Tenn. He had fixed himself a dugout right on the edge of a bluff above the river. He had a grand view and a nice little grassy yard. Out there he had driven stakes and built a fire. He hung his helmet over the fire like a kettle and was stewing chicken. He had taken off his clothes and put on a beautiful pink and white kimono.

Later a friend came along with a Jap bicycle with one pedal, and Adams tried without much success to ride it up and down a nearby lane.

If there ever is a war play about marines I hope they include one tough-looking private in a pink-and-white kimono, stewing chicken and trying to ride a one pedaled bicycle through a shattered Japanese village.

Private Adams is married and has a boy eight-months old he has never seen. If the baby could have seen his father that day he would probably have got the colic from laughing so much.

How To Torture Your Wife

With The AEF: This Kid Makes You Proud You're An American

By HAL BOYLE

WITH THE U. S. FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION. (AP)—A small, pig-tailed German girl stood frightened in the middle of a shell-swept street, and to a New Jersey corporal she was just a kid in danger and he risked his life to save her.

Because he was wounded his name may not yet be used. The girl was one of a group playing in a Lichtenberg street just after 16th regiment doughboys had captured the town.

Headless that the town was filled with German civilians the Nazis pasted it with a savage barrage of mortar and artillery shells. From a vantage point just outside, a self-propelled gun raked the street with shells and machine gun fire.

The screaming children ran to cellars. Al, except the little girl who stood helpless with terror. A German mortar shell hit a few yards from her. Steel fragments ripped through her legs and the youngster fell to the ground, her screams drowned out by the blasts of shells falling nearby.

The young corporal saw her fall. He could hear the deadly machine gun bullets ringing down the street. Without hesitation he dashed out to the child.

As he ran from the shelter of a building, another shell burst near the girl and fragments struck the American in the face and chest.

He fell, but slowly regained his feet, blood streaming into his eyes and blinding him so he had to grope to reach the child.

She was unconscious when he reached a combat first aid station, carrying her in his arms as he staggered through the bullet plowed street. Then he collapsed from shock and loss of blood.

"Those dirty Nazis, shelling their own kids!" exclaimed the medical corps attendant. "This fellow makes you proud you're an American."

Record "Tree Census" Underway

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Not many persons outside the trade know it, but about the biggest "tree census" ever undertaken is being conducted in the United States now.

Basis of the "census" is the continuing survey of the U. S. Forest Service. State by state, the U. S. foresters have reduced the nation's standing timber to board feet and in subsequent years revised estimates in view of cutting, new growths, fires, etc.

But at least a portion of the industry apparently wants a check and double-check on government figures. More than 400 individuals, firms and organizations have contributed to a tree "re-census" being conducted under direction of the American Forestry Association.

The association survey already has covered eight states. The survey is nearing completion in ten more and has been started in another eight. The association has 16 expert foresters in the field and federal and state foresters are cooperating.

Everything from pine saplings in the farm woodlot in the South to giant redwoods in the West are being tallied. All facts pertinent to cutting, production and consumption of forests for the next decade are being included.

When it's all over no other wood-producing country in the world will have such a statistical bird's-eye view of its forests on which to base new conservation laws or amend old ones. More important perhaps, the statistics will provide our negotiators with a solid foundation in dickering for any international commitments in a post-war world.

It was this last, plus the dizzy expansion of the demand for wood and wood products that spurred the industry to make its own survey.

Actually the association survey grew out of the United Nations' food conference at Hot Springs, Va., in 1943. When the late President Roosevelt sent the report of the interim food commission to Congress, he emphasized that forests (and fisheries) are an essential part of the nation's agriculture and food production.

It became apparent immediately to backers of the survey that if we are going into any international agreements on wood or by-products, it would be well

Today And Tomorrow—

The Simpler The Better

By WALTER LIPPMANN
En Route To San Francisco

There are, I believe, good reasons for thinking that the best charter which can be written at San Francisco would be strictly a constitution or fundamental law. So it would contain nothing which is not essential in order to establish the international organization. The charter would make no attempt to lay down the law about or to determine matters that the international organization itself could much better deal with.

What is vitally important is to bring into being at the earliest possible moment an international organization which shall have as its declared purpose the maintenance of just and equitable peace among the United Nations. There has to be a general assembly of all the members. There has to be a security council in which the great military powers are always present. The creation of this framework is the fundamental part of union; it will bind the nations to meet regularly in order to reach agreements to carry out the purposes of the organization.

For the San Francisco meeting is a meeting of the United Nations; the international organization will provide for a continuing series of meetings of these same United Nations. These nations are no wiser or better because they are meeting in San Francisco in April, 1945, than they will be when next they meet wherever the international organization meets.

There will be, I believe, a great advantage in remembering that the San Francisco meeting need decide no question which the subsequent meetings of the same United Nations could not decide at least as well—and perhaps better—because the issues will have become clearer and there will have been more time to examine them. Thus it is very doubtful, it seems to me, whether the charter needs to prescribe exactly how votes are to be counted in the assembly and in the council.

Why not let them determine their own voting procedure? The attempt to determine it for them has led to bitter feeling over a series of intricate formulae designed to cover a few imaginary cases that the handful of men who have worked on these questions happen to have thought of. The attempt to say now that on this question the vote shall be unanimous, on that one by majority, on another by two-thirds, is to try to foresee and foreclose what no one now can foresee and no one should foreclose.

Mechanical contraptions of this sort will work only when it does not matter whether they work or not. On the hard and important questions the governments will always consult diplomatically and confidentially before they argue publicly. One of the first things they will have to agree upon in these confidential discussions is whether they will put the issue to a vote, and if they decide to vote on it, how they will define the issue. They may use the Dumbarton Oaks and Yalta formula if in the practical situation they find that it fits the needs of the case. And if they do not think this formula fits the case, they will avoid a vote or they will devise some other formula which does fit the case.

Therefore, the less sharply defined the voting formula is in the charter, the more it will correspond with the realities, and the less we shall now be involved in issues of prestige and in odious distinctions between first, second, and third class states which arise from being unnecessarily specific in advance.

I venture to think that it is equally impossible to write into the charter an effective commitment to use force. The charter can, and should, authorize the use of force. But the commitment which binds each particular government to take forcible action can be made effective in advance only by specific military conventions which have been negotiated and ratified. The enforcement of peace will have to be arranged through specific conventions for definite purposes: for example to police Germany, to police Japan, to make secure the American republics, to police the Pacific Ocean, the Atlantic Ocean, the Mediterranean, and so forth. All this will need to be implied in the charter. But obviously the charter can only authorize it and the charter cannot define it.

If the powers agree when they meet that they will use force to maintain peace, they will use it. If they do not agree when they meet, then no formula of words adopted at San Francisco in 1945 can mobilize armies in 1955.

Our Constitution, let us remember, authorizes Congress to declare war. It does not presume to say that Congress must declare war, or to say when, how, and for what precise reason Congress must declare war. All that this charter, since it is a fundamental law, should do is to authorize the general organization to use collective force.

A good constitution creates institutions designed for an accepted purpose; these institutions then write their own statutes and make their policies, render their judgments, and create laws, precedents, and usages.

The document that comes out of San Francisco should be very short, very simple, and concerned only with establishing a framework, declaring a purpose, and authorizing the means to fulfill it. All the rest should be developed by the organization itself.

By adhering to this broad principle—which is to differentiate between a constitution and a body of laws—we can create a living organism that will itself grow and develop. But if we make a mechanical system of rigid pre-conceived rules which attempt to foresee and foreclose the future, we shall surely regret it.

Bob Overboard For 'Diamond Horseshoe'

By BOB THOMAS

"Diamond Horseshoe," a 20th Century-Fox picture starring Betty Grable and Dick Haymes, with Phil Silvers, William Gaxton, Beatrice Kay and Carmen Cavallaro. Running time: 106 minutes.

HOLLYWOOD — Wheel! This picture should please everyone, even congenial sour-pusses. It is a bright, brash, breezy musical with plenty of gags and gals.

It also has Betty Grable, who is becoming a phenomenon worthy of scientific study. In no way outstanding as an actress, Miss Grable has become the epitome of a musical comedy star. Perhaps her figure has something to do with it. Most servicemen will agree that she can play in such things as "Diamond Horseshoe" until the rows come home. And I hope they're long a-coming.

If you don't demand too much of a musical comedy plot, you won't be dissatisfied with "Diamond Horseshoe." It is one of those things about a song and dance man who wants his son to be a doctor. But the son wants to get into show business, meets a dancer, etc., etc. As you may suspect, everything turns out all right so all of the principals can join for a rousing finale.

The picture is distinguished by the smart direction of George Seaton, who also wrote the screen play. Among his amusing touches: the crammed patrons of a four-by-five night club; performers quarreling and then flashing a smile when the spotlight turns on them; Dick Haymes singing and trying to sneak his arm around Betty; a hilarious dream sequence.

The musical numbers are fast and lavish, sometimes laughingly so. Of the tunes, "I Wish I Knew" will probably be remembered longest.

Haymes is in fine voice and is improving as an actor. You couldn't find two more capable utility men than William Gaxton and Phil Silvers.

"Salome, Where She Danced," a Walter Wanger production for Universal, with Yvonne De Carlo, Rod Cameron, David Bruce, Walter Slezak and Albert Dekker. Running time: 96 minutes.

The locales of this picture include a Civil War battlefield, Berlin, a European battlefield, Vienna, a Western city called Salome, where she danced, and San Francisco. In fact, the picture covers too much ground to remain coherent.

About the only touch of imagination is an ancient Chinese who speaks with a Scottish burr.

Mr. Truman, speaking by radio from Washington, told the hushed thousands in the opera house yesterday: "We still have a choice between x x x the continuation of international chaos—or the establishment of a world organization for the enforcement of peace."

He declared differences between nations would always remain and "if held within reasonable limits, such disagreements are actually wholesome."

"All progress," the president added, "begins with differences of opinion and moves onward as the differences are adjusted through reason and mutual understanding."

Stettinius, with floodlights beaming on, told the delegates that "no one of the large nations, no one of the small nations, can afford anything less than success in this endeavor. Each of them knows too well what the consequences of failure would be."

Families Of One Man Get All Tangled Up

One Latin-American woman was charged in justice court with simple assault Thursday following a family scrap that involved two families of one Mexican man.

The man, who had previously married, was trying to take the children of that marriage and bring them to live with his present common law wife and their children.

Latin-American women sporting black eyes, bitten fingers and general scratches and bruises, attempted to thrash out the troubles with county law officials Wednesday and Thursday.

Jack Reese Gives Address To Lions

Jack Reese gave Lions a good example Wednesday of his declaiming ability which has carried him already through district and regional championships.

He gave his reading of a Yugoslav partisan's letter to his unborn son—a letter that has become a message to unborn generations of that land.

Accompanied by Mrs. Wiley Curry, the girls trio composed of Mabel Smith, Helen Blount and Betty Jo Pool, favored the club with three numbers.

Dan Conley, president, announced committees for the club's forthcoming home talent play, projected for May 15. He also called the nominating committee to meet Monday to submit a list of prospective officers to the club for consideration.

This Guy Was Truly In Need Of A Smoke

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Patrolman George Miller played his flashlight on a Brooklyn candy store at 3 a. m. today and saw a man at the soda counter calmly smoking a cigarette.

He tried the door, found it locked and called "come on out." The man took a final puff and obeyed.

In the police lineup today on a burglary charge, the defendant, Steve Lazio, 28, said, "I was dying for a smoke and I didn't want any money or anything else."

Miller said there were 12 butts on the floor and Lazio was smoking his 13th cigarette.

Women Sought As WAVE Quota Hiked

Qualified women in the Big Spring area can now be taken into service with the women's corps of the US navy because of an increase in induction quota, it was announced Thursday by L. N. Brashears, assistant recruiter, who was in Big Spring Thursday.

The recruiter emphasized the special need for more hospital corpsmen in the WAVES, but pointed out that other branches of naval service are also open.

Women between the ages of 20-36 are qualified to enlist provided they have had two years of high school education.

Those interested are urged to contact the navy recruiter in the basement of the post office Thursday morning of each week.

Petain Arrives Back In France

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

VALLORBE, Switzerland, April 26 (AP)—Marshal Petain arrived at this Swiss border station at 4:37 p. m. today to await arrest by French officers on a charge of high treason, a crime punishable by death.

The marshal alighted from his car following a journey from Weesen in eastern Switzerland, and walked with his wife into the railway station's restaurant to take coffee while waiting.

The 89-year-old marshal, his wife and others of his party travelled in a four-car caravan led by motorcycle escort.

Members of his entourage meanwhile made public a letter the aged former Vichy chief of state wrote April 5 to Adolf Hitler announcing his decision to return voluntarily to France.

Twenty Training Programs Set Up

Approximately 20 apprentice training programs have been set up in Big Spring, it was disclosed Thursday at the U. S. Employment Service.

H. A. Clark, manager, stated that although that number has not been completely arranged, that amount is in the process of organization.

The problem of setting up apprentice training programs does not lie in finding shops suitable for training apprentices but rather in finding persons suitable and willing to make use of the services offered, it was explained by Roy Barton, of the area USES office in Abilene.

Further information regarding setting up of apprentice training programs may be obtained at the local USES offices.

Barton reminded returning veterans that there is no better way to insure their future than by enrolling in apprentice-training.

German Flotilla Runs To Swiss

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—A German naval flotilla on Lake Constance has surrendered to Swiss authorities and will "remain in Swiss ports until the entire Lake Constance shore has been occupied by the Allies," the Swiss radio announced today.

The broadcast said that the fleet of nine vessels and patrol ships belonging to the German state railway had been ordered scuttled by the Nazi government, but that the state railway management "had objected to this and reached a surrender agreement with the Swiss government."

Nazis Learned Of Texas--Too Late

By KENNETH L. DIXON

U. S. NINTH ARMY FRONT, April 25 (AP)—Apparently the Germans were not told how to deal with Fighting Texans — Never ambush a range rider unless you can get his sidekick too.

When Maj. John M. Aylor of San Angelo led a reconnaissance party north of Hannover recently, his jeep was immobilized by the first blast when ambushed by a German antitank gun, his gunner was killed and driver wounded.

The Germans gloated when they captured Aylor and the wounded driver after their ammunition gave out. They didn't know that Aylor was executive officer of the 11th cavalry group and that his friend and commander was Col. Andrew A. Frierson, another Texan, from Dallas.

Frierson's temper burned when he heard of Aylor's plight and legend has it he swore he would rescue John if he had to chase the Krauts clear to Berlin.

Anyway, during an ensuing attack Frierson's cavalry group showed a spearhead 20 miles into German territory, took 12 towns and killed, wounded or captured innumerable Germans.

But while Frierson's fighters headed east, Aylor and his driver had been taken north to Hanigsen. Despite this, the Texans triumphed — again because of tenderfoot German tactics.

Aylor refused to give information to a German naval captain at Hanigsen and was taken on a 10-mile hike as a persuader.

Anybody knows Texans are used to the saddle so, after 10 miles, Aylor's feet were killing him. But his mind was sharp.

He noted the German captain seemed somewhat footsore, too, so he started talking about how well American medics treated sore feet. In short order he persuaded the naval captain to surrender.

Then the Burgmeister of Hanigsen agreed to surrender the town if no harm came to it.

And now the Germans know about Texans—but too late.
