

Soviets Say Flight Basis For Longer Trips

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians said Tuesday the 24-hour, 17-minute orbital flight of three men in the space ship Voskhod—sunrise—laid "a firm foundation for lasting trips in cosmic space."

Speculation that the world's first flight of a multi-seat space vehicle may have ended sooner than originally planned was officially ignored.

The Soviet government paper Izvestia said, however, the astronauts asked permission to remain in space another day and were refused.

Premier Khrushchev's Cabinet, the Presidium of Parliament and the Communist party's Central Committee joined in a statement of praise for the pioneering feat.

Craft Lands

The craft came down through dense clouds at 10:57 a.m. to what was called its preassigned spot on Soviet soil. Izvestia said it landed with the aid of parachutes. All aboard it were reported feeling well.

The space ship had completed 16 orbits when Col.

Vladimir Komarov, 37, a former fighter pilot and the flight commander, was ordered to switch on braking devices, Moscow said.

A dispatch by the Soviet news agency datelined Petropavlovsk said the capsule landed on a field of a state farm in the virgin land development area and the farm's workers were the first to greet them.

Soviet Leads

Touching by implication that the United States is running two years or so behind in the manned space race, the Kremlin statement said: "Every victory of the Soviet people in space shows convincingly that Soviet science is in the van of world scientific thought."

The United States hopes to launch a two-man capsule to begin its Gemini series early next year, then put up in 1967 or nearly 1968 a manned laboratory that apparently would more nearly compare with the Veskhod.

Rocket 'Powerful'

Development of more powerful and perfect rockets was called by the Russians a prime factor in the exploit that sent Komarov, scientists Konstantin Feokristov and Dr. Boris Yegorov around the earth 16 times in a capsule fitted to give them shirtsleeve working conditions.

The trip, in a cigar-shaped orbit ranging from 110 miles to 255 miles from the earth, totaled about 435,000 miles, the Russians said.

Program A Success

"The program of scientific research, designed for 24 hours of flight, was accomplished in full," an official announcement said.

The proclamation of a 24-hour design seemed to be a switch from references to plans for research on "a long flight" after the capsule was blasted from its launching pad Monday near Baykonur, in the Kazah Republic, 1,250 miles southeast of Moscow.

Various sources had expected the vehicle to stay up from two to five days, though the highly elliptical orbit caused wonder as to whether it could long stay on course.

Weather

The weather will be fair and warmer today, with the high temperatures from 75-80. Winds will be moderate from the east and southeast.

Truman Hurt In Fall

Suffers Cut In Bath Fall

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman was rushed by ambulance to Research Hospital late Tuesday afternoon.

He was taken to the emergency room at 4:18 p.m.

A hospital spokesman, Bill Wittman, said the former president apparently suffered a fall "which resulted in a laceration to his head."

He said Truman was admitted after emergency treatment.

The attending physician was Dr. Wallace Graham who has been his doctor since Truman entered the White House.

HST Conscious

Wittman said Truman was carried in on a stretcher. The former president was conscious, he said.

Truman was 80 years old last May 8.

Last May, the former president suffered a stomach upset that kept him away from his office for several days. He was forced to cancel a trip to Lexington, Va., for the dedication of the General Marshall Memorial Library.

Prior to that he had been making speeches and attending birthday dinners in his honor.

Falls Taking Bath

Arletta Brown, maid in the Truman home at Independence, Mo., said Truman had fallen in the bathtub on the second floor.

"I heard something, and I found him in the bathtub," she said. "I could not lift him, so I had to call the police." She said a cut on his head was bleeding but she said she was unable to tell how he had suffered the cut.

Mrs. Truman was not at home at the time.

Truman had been in his office earlier in the day, leaving at 2:30 p.m. Members of his staff said he had returned after lunch, as is his custom, to sign letters and clean up other office work. Staff members said he appeared to be feeling well.

His last major public appearance was late last month when he dined with the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey here. He appeared on the platform with Humphrey at a rally but did not speak. He appeared in good health then and joked with friends.

BSU Speaker Terms Demos 'Progressive'

The Democratic party is better able to deal with labor and is the progressive party, said Mrs. Charles L. Cobb at a Wednesday meeting at the Baptist Student Union.

Mrs. Cobb, district chairman of the women's division of the Johnson-Humphrey Organization in the State of Texas, made her remarks while discussing the Democratic party platform as a part of a series sponsored by the BSU to supplement the Christian's involvement in political issues.

Continuing her talk, Mrs. Cobb said that President Lyndon Johnson is well known for his casual manner in dealing with adverse situations and could simply say to labor, "... come on in boys and let's talk this thing over," while his opponent, Barry Goldwater, would tend to overlook the human side of labor-management controversies.

Speaking of the Democratic party as the progressive party, she said, "This is the party that has in the past moved ahead with unprecedented speed and conciseness in the affairs of the nation, and, if Lyndon Johnson is elected, will continue to move forward in the future."

She continued, "On the other hand, Republicans are living in the days of covered-wagons." She said she had nothing personal against covered-wagons, but felt in today's fast-moving economy, they belonged in museums.

Touching on the civil rights issue, she said it has been, "... knocking on our door for some time now and the Democratic party intends to try to follow through with present legislation." She said, "The Republicans feel the Civil Rights Bill won't work."

Moving to the Viet Nam crisis, Mrs. Cobb said, "Attempting to answer the difficult question of what to do is one of the prices you pay for being a leader."

She said Goldwater must be disqualified from dealing with matters of war and peace because of his ignorance of history and his lack of formal education.

Wesley Butler of Tech's government department will discuss key issues of the campaign and the part of the news media in the campaign and election today at 6:30 p.m. at the Baptist Student Center, 2401 13th. The program is open to the public.

Fish Class Officers Decided In Run-off

During run-off elections Monday, freshmen selected Johnny Walker class president and Eldon Shirey vice president.

Walker polled a total of 526 votes to defeat his opponent Mike Malcik, with 377. In the vice presidential election, Shirey had 505 votes compared to Joe Ince's 391. Janie Kinney, with 532, defeated Exa Richardson, with 366 for freshman secretary. Freshman AWS representative will be Suzy Crain, with 295 votes. Her contender was Judy Haworth, with 253 votes.

In the race for School of Business Administration representative, Tommy Craddick, 168, and Don Foster, 203, defeated Bill Bueck, 156, and Walter "Sonny-" Henderson, 138.

Freshman Council-at-large representatives will be Gwen Connally, 501; Brian Lemmons, 438; Gretchen Strief, 438, and Kay Hubbard 402.

Avalon Studios reminds Tech students who want their pictures taken for the 1964-65 La Ventana to bring their appointment cards with them to the studio.

Those who missed their appointments may make them up any time, and are asked to bring their appointment cards also.

Persons who have no appointments may come in anytime Monday through Friday, but be prepared to wait.

Mike Goldwater Plans To Visit Tech Campus

Plans are now definite that Mike Goldwater will be on the Tech campus Friday as a guest of the Texas Tech Young Republicans.

Goldwater, the 24-year-old son of presidential hopeful Barry Goldwater, is a graduate of Staunton Military Academy and of the University of Arizona in Tucson.

Member Of Phi Delta

While at the university, Mike was an active member and president of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and he holds membership in the Blue Key honorary society.

He will arrive, as scheduled, at 10 a.m. the morning of the 16th, and be greeted by a reception committee headed by Alice Cram. Any Tech group desiring to participate in the reception and motorcade, which will immediately follow, should contact Dub Johnson, who is in charge of the motorcade.

Luncheon Scheduled

Following the airport reception will be a luncheon at 12 a.m. This luncheon will be held at the Koko Inn at 50th and Avenue Q. Tickets for the luncheon are $2.05, and may be purchased by calling the following extentions: 3545, 2264, 6341, 3323, 5179, or 5837. These tickets should be purchased no later than Thursday, Oct. 15, 1964.

Goldwater will leave to attend afternoon rallies at Amarillo Junior College and West Texas State University at 1:30 p.m., but will return to the Hub City in time for a mixer for Tech Young Republicans at 7 p.m.

GOP Hootenanny

In the Union Ballroom at 7:30 Goldwater will be present for a Young Republican Hootenanny. The Cumberland Trio and the David Durham Folk Singers will highlight the event. Refreshments will be served and the public is cordially invited.

On Saturday, Oct. 17 at 7 a.m. Goldwater will be present for a breakfast at Furr's Cafeteria at Town and Country Shopping Center. All Young Republicans and dedicated Tech students are invited. The meal will be dutch-treat.

Tech students are urged by Bill Dennis, President of Texas Tech Young Republicans, to attend as many of the above events as possible. Dennis feels that Mike Goldwater's two day visit to the Tech campus "will be the highlight of the Political Campaign on the Tech campus."

Campus Briefs

Tech Union Program Council is accepting applications for assistant chairmanship for the Special Events and Hospitality committees. Today is the deadline.

The Newman Club will stage a make-up initiation today at 7 p.m. at the Newman Center.

Peace Corps To End Student Recruiting

Approximately 75 students will have taken the Peace Corps' two-hour aptitude and placement test when the last test is given at 8 a.m. today.

Norman Brierley, recruiter from the Dominican Republic said, "I and the other seven representatives from the Peace Corps very much enjoyed our stay at Tech. We have received the fullest co-operation from the students and university." He termed the drive at Tech as "very successful."

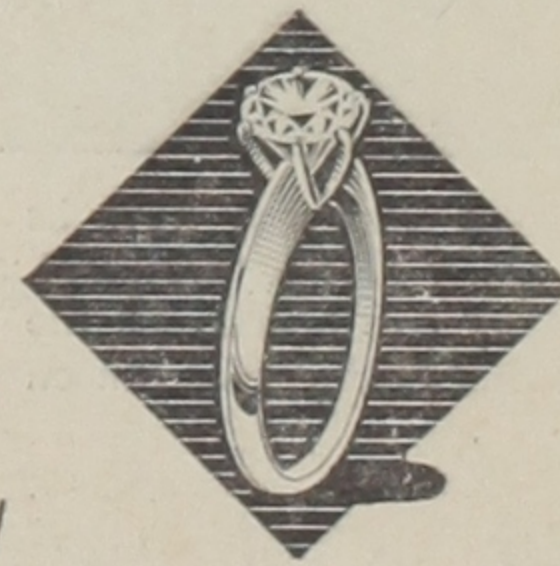

Students unable to take the final 8 a.m. test can do so later at a local post office. Another recruiting group will probably visit the campus six to twelve months from now.

The majority of students taking the test were seniors. Many of them will be notified of acceptance before graduation next June.

Other Peace Corps representatives participating in the week's drive are Mr. and Mrs. Bob McAndrews, West African volunteers; Miss Cappie Crystal, worker from Central America and Mexico; Miss Claudette Sarsfield; Jim Gibson of the Washington, D.C. office; and Dr. and Mrs. Bascom Story, Corps training directors.

25,000 EUROPEAN JOBS

Grand Duchy of Luxembourg — 25,000 jobs in Europe are available to students desiring to spend a summer abroad but could not otherwise afford it. Monthly wages range to $300 and jobs include resort, office, child care, factory, farm and shipboard work. $250 travel grants will be given to the first 5000 applicants. Job and travel grant applications and full details are available in a 36-page illustrated booklet which students may obtain by sending $2 (for the booklet and airmail postage) to Dept. O, American Student Information Service, 23 Ave. de la Liberte, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

Tech To Host Experts For Annual Tax Institute

Tech will host approximately 200 experts from throughout Texas Thursday for the annual Tax Institute.

The two-day program will feature discussions of the Revenue Act of 1964; the tax court; attempts at major tax reforms; and other current tax developments, according to Ben F. Robertson, local accountant and president of the Institute.

Leonard R. Hassell, Dallas CPA, will discuss the Revenue Act of 1964. Judge Morton P. Fisher of the United States Tax Court will talk on "Adventures in the Tax Courts," and "Current Tax Developments, Non-Legislative," will be the topic of J. W. Bullion, Dallas attorney.

Friday morning, participants will reassemble for a discussion.

Charles O. Galvin, dean of SMU Law School, will talk on "Reflections of Efforts of Accomplished—Major Tax Reform." Godfrey Welsch, another Dallas CPA, will discuss "Family Planning—Oil and Gas Matters."

"Personal Holding Provisions of the 1964 Income Tax Act" is the subject of C. Andrew Dostrzewa, CPA from Detroit

The Institute will close with a discussion of "Oil and Gas Taxation, Current Developments."

SNOWBOUND — Dr. Wade, Tech Geosciences department head, will leave for Antarctic Sunday along with a group of other scientists following up research started in the International Geophysical Year. The double-T flag in the background was made by Dr. Wade and used in a 1962-63 expedition.

Techsans To Depart On South Pole Trip

Dr. F. A. Wade, head of the geosciences department, and four associates leave Sunday for the Antarctic where they will participate in an expedition seeking to complete the picture of the world.

The five-man group, part of a larger 200-man expedition, headed by Dr. Wade, will travel to the Shackleton Glacier area of the Queen Maud Mts., a section of the Antarctic continent approximately 200 miles from the South Pole.

Wade No Stranger

Dr. Wade, no stranger to the Antarctic, was a member of the Byrd expedition in 1933 and 1941.

Members of the Wade party are Tech geology instructor V. L. Yeats and graduate students Kerby Laprade, Ron Everett, and John Shenk.

The expedition, sponsored by the National Science Foundation, is a follow-up to the International Geophysical Year projects concluded in 1958. Most of the survey work in this year's expedition is carried on by scientists from the University of Minnesota, Ohio State University, and the University of Wisconsin, in addition to Texas Tech.

Party To Travel To New Zealand

The Wade party will travel first to New Zealand where they will be fitted for their polar clothing. They will journey next to expedition headquarters at McMurdo Sound from whence they will be airlifted to their survey point in the Queen Maud Mts.

Dr. Wade and his party will live in tents on the glacial ice during all but 24 days of their stay. They are due to return January 2.

HELP YOUR FRIENDS SHAKE THE CIGARETTE HABIT THE EAGLE WAY: WEAR A TROMBLEE!

ONE school of motivational theory holds that the popularity of button-down collars stems from fear that somebody will steal your necktie. If that is so, what better way to keep friends from snitching your cigarettes than a button-down pocket, too? ★ So don't delay; "A Tromblee in time saves nine," and occasionally the whole pack. ★ If you yourself are still trying to stop or cut down, try a Tromblee. It beats the hell out of will-power. ★ The first step is to buy a triple* button-down Tromblee, for about $7.00; in white and various conservative colors and stripes. ★ As to the name, it is to honor Mr. Douglas Tromblee of Baytown, Texas, where it is no-coat weather oftener than not. Over the years he has become an authority on using shirt pockets to carry things in. We therefore sought his opinion on button-down flap pockets. He thought it was the worst idea he had ever heard of. Having decided to fly in the face of his judgment the least we can do is name it for him. So there's a Tromblee in your future if not in Tromblee's.

BSU Presents Good Idea

THE CURRENT PROGRAM sponsored by the Baptist Student Union emphasizing the presidential election campaign deserves our praise.

The well-planned program is of particular significance at this time when students here seem less interested in the political campaign than do students in other parts of the country.

As part of the BSU program, there are speakers from the Republican and Democrat parties supplemented with debates and discussions. The program begins daily at 6:30 p.m. in the Baptist Student Center.

Programs of this nature which focus on the social, political, religious, economic issues of our times are needed and welcomed at this university.

Stop The Smear Business

REMEMBER THE ADVANTAGES a Goldwater-Johnson contest was going to have? For the first time in many years there would be a solid, fundamental discussion of the issues, between candidates who genuinely differed.

What happened?

The Democrats are calling Goldwater "demagogue" and "radical" and "extremist." Some even term him "fascist." Republicans refer to Johnson as "corrupt," "experient" and a liar. They refer to Humphrey as "radical," "far-left" and "soft on Communism."

It is useless to discuss which side, if either, is the more guilty. Both parties have abandoned their pledges to give the voters a responsible campaign.

There is still time to get back on the road to relevance. Bits and pieces have emerged enough to indicate that a solid discussion is possible. But Democrats have to get over the idea that Goldwater is below rational discussion. Sen. Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.), who has always been an extra-ordinarily fair man, commented just yesterday that he didn't think Goldwater "would be nearly as irresponsible as President as some people believe."

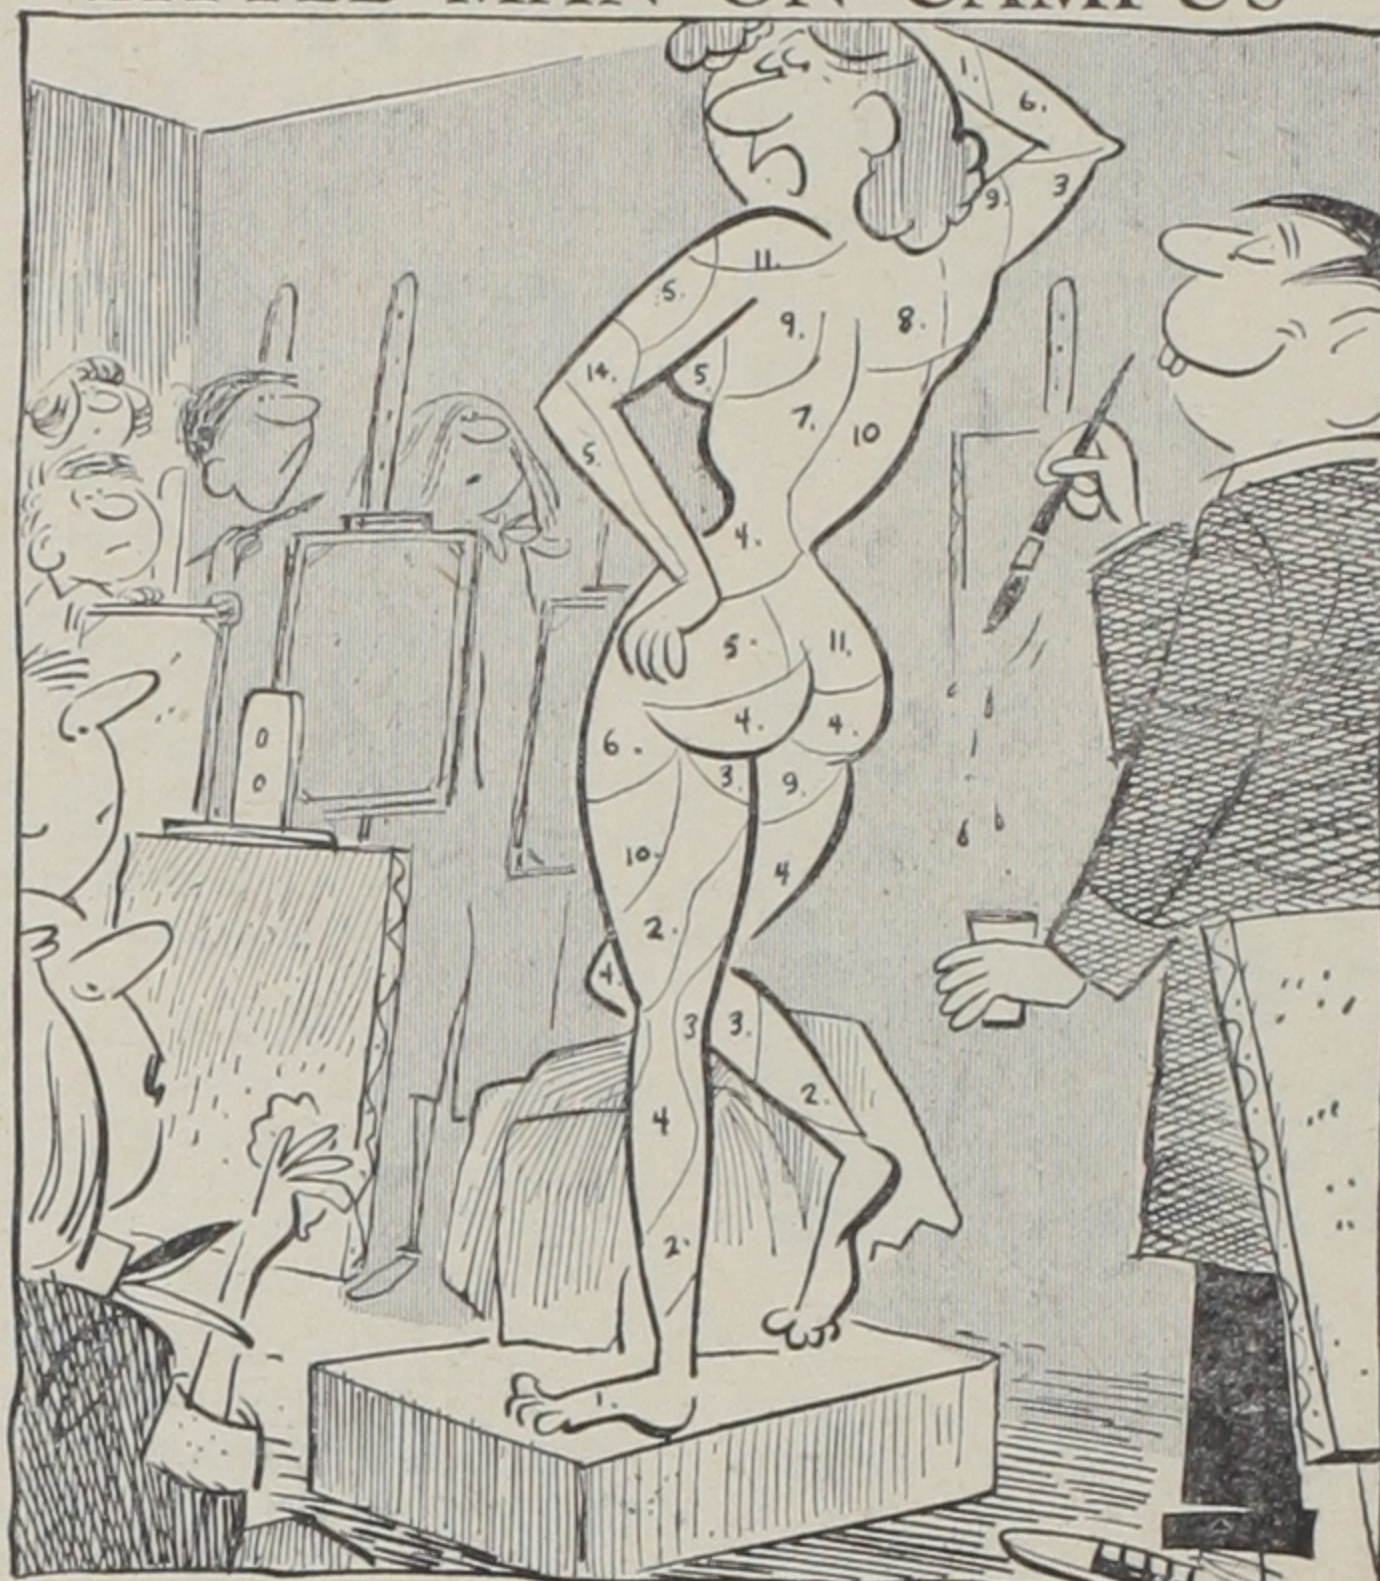

Republicans have some need to get over the messianism which makes them condescend to Democrats and treat them as heretics. Mutual vilification accomplishes nothing and recriminations are a waste of time.

So the Daily has a proposal. Let each of the candidates for public office in this election think of something good to say publicly about his opponent. Let each candidate find something he has in common with his opponent and exploit it into a dialog. Let them comfort the voters jointly whenever possible.

This election is neither the last chance to save America from the onslaught of creeping conspiracy, nor one in which we risk changing to a fascist or military government. Let us—please—stop the smears and vilification and get down to the very serious matter of governing these United States.

—THE MINNESOTA DAILY

Students Oppose Tuition Increase

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to an article which appeared in the Lubbock Avalanche Journal Oct. 13. The Texas Commission on Higher Education has officially recommended a $50 increase in tuition for state-supported schools. I am against this increase.

Many students, such as myself, pay all or nearly all of their college expenses. I actually know of few students who don't work part-time somewhere. With the present system, the total cost of tuition and fees range from sixty-seven to one hundred dollars (this does not include books).

An additional fifty dollars could mean the difference between a college education for some or more or all. This raise in tuition is especially inopportune when adequate off-campus parking costs up to forty dollars per year.

It can be demonstrated quite convincingly that money is no absolute barrier for the bright student, but there are few who fall into this class. The trend seems to be away from self-help.

According to Columbia University's Eli Ginsburg, most students today earn some of their college expenses, but they earn a smaller percentage of the total cost than they did in former years. Apparently "working my way through college" is becoming more and more a figure of speech.

Dr. Ginsburg also pointed out that a trend is underway in which "more and more of the costs of a college education are assessed against the student." These conclusions were reached as a result of a 1959 study.

Today the situation has become more acute, and we are witnessing such a trend in Texas higher education.

My question is, what can the student do about this situation, also; does the Daily Toreador have an opinion on this issue?

Respectfully,
ANDREW L. WOOD
BILLY WOX TRIPLETT

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The story on the proposed tuition increase as reported by the Associated Press in Tuesday's Daily Toreador is not a simple one. This especially is true in light of the multi-million dollar proposal before the Legislature to improve higher education in Texas. The big question, "Who's going to foot the bill?" poses formidable problems. The Toreador will soon publish an editorial on the tuition proposal. Right now we are thinking.)

'Bonanza' Star Will Drop Out

HOLLYWOOD (P) — On, or about Feb. 25, Adam Cartwright is going to get plugged by an outlaw and be buried in Boot Hill.

No cowpoke will have gone to his grave happier than Adam, or rather Pernell Roberts, who has played the role on television's "Bonanza" for five years.

The announcement that Pernell was departing came last week. Along with many other things concerning the show, he took exception to it.

"The release made it sound as if they were dropping me," he commented. "That's not true. They held me to a contract for six years. I'm getting out as soon as it is contractually possible, which is next February.

Pernell has long been the outsider of the "Bonanza" quartet. The others are Lorne Green, Michael Landon and Dan Blocker. Roberts is a self-made man, an ex-Marine and a maverick. Even though the series has earned him more money than he had ever known as an actor, he considered its plots and character development shallow and formula.

Does he have any plans following his liberation?

"Not as yet," he replied. "You can't plan very far ahead in show business. I suppose I will want to get back to the stage, and that means Broadway ultimately. I might try out a play or tour the country before that."

Poet Stephen Spender Lectures Here Oct. 28

Distinguished British poet Stephen Spender will appear on campus as visiting lecturer Oct. 28.

Besides his distinction as a major poet, Spender is also well-known as a literary critic and editor of the review "Encounter."

Since 1947, when he taught for a year at Sarah Lawrence College, Spender frequently has visited the U.S. He was Ellison Professor at the University of Cincinnati in 1953 and was Beckmann Professor at the University of California in 1959.

In 1962 he gave three public lectures at the Library of Congress on the Modern Imagination. Since the winter of 1963, he has been visiting lecturer in a course in modern poetry at Northwestern University.

In 1962 he was made Commander of the British Empire in the Honours' List on the Queen's birthday. He also holds an honorary doctorate in literature at the University of Montpellier.

Spender was educated at the University College School, London, and University College, Oxford.

At Oxford, he became friends with W. H. Auden, who was also an undergraduate student at that time. Later Auden, Cecil Day Lewis and Spender all published volumes of verse within a few years of each other, and their names and works became associated in the public mind.

In the 1930's, all three took up strongly anti-Fascist attitudes.

Spender went to Spain on the side of the Spanish Republic in the Civil War. He also traveled in Germany, Austria and other countries where the events of that decade made illustrious history.

During the war, Spender was a fire fighter in the London National Fire Service. He also co-edited the review "Horizon" with Cyril Connolly from 1939 until 1945. After the war, he traveled in Germany as a civilian military officer and later became Counsellor in the section of letters in UNESCO.

Spender's lecture topics include a discussion of the 1930's, in which he explores the poetry of W. H. Auden, politics of anti-Fascism and Communism. He also lectures on the modern aspects of modern art, comparing Shaw, Wells, Lewis and Dreiser with Joyce, Faulkner and Eliot. His third lecture topic deals with the younger English playwrights and poets, including Osborne, John Arden and others conspicuous in the new English theatre.

Spender will lecture at 7:30 a.m. Oct. 28 in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union. Admission is free.

'Candy' Sweet As Sugar, But Still Gets In Trouble

By LIZ LYNE
Fine Arts Editor

What happens to a sweet young thing who suffers from a bad case of good-samaritanism?

If she is Candy, title-character of the riotous new best-seller by Terry Southern and Mason Hoffenburg, she romps through a wild series of misadventures and remains dewy-eyed to the end.

Candy is appallingly dumb, but nevertheless she has good intentions. She seduces her father's Mexican gardener, who in turn gives Candy's father a lobotomy operation with a garden tool.

From that point, the story threatens to push the reader farther than he may be able to endure. The sequences are almost too wild and incredible, and yet they smack every so slightly of reality.

Candy becomes involved with a wacky crew of characters, each a little more ridiculous and bizarre than the one before. In college, she is drawn to her philosophy professor, who never should have been running around loose in the first place.

She gets involved with her father's twin brother, and we won't delve into the psychological indications of that particular situation. In Greenwich Village, she falls madly in love with a retarded hunchback whom she meets on a street corner.

She somehow makes it to a Pennsylvania coal-mining camp run by a religious cult, and she gets mixed up with the leader of the sect, who is really some kind of extra-special nut.

Candy ends up in Tibet, where she gets involved (naturally) with a sackcloth-and-ashes beggar.

Through it all, Candy is the perfect picture of innocence led astray, and she always sums up her chagrin in one concise expression:

"Good grief! It was all my fault, anyway."

The book is the brainchild of a particularly lethal satirist named Terry Southern, who also wrote "The Magic Christian" and "Dr. Strangelove" or "How I Learned To Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb." However, "Candy" takes the honors for all-round repercussions.

The book was intended by Southern and Hoffenburg to be a take-off on pornography, and yet it passes quite creditably for the real thing. Its off-color passages, as a matter of fact, blink like frantic neon signs.

"Candy" is salvaged from the trash heap by the fact that it has been constructed with deliberate exaggeration. Southern and Hoffenburg have seized every unsuspecting illusion of American life and have twisted them into caricatures of their former selves. Or maybe it was caricatures which were twisted into shapes nearer actuality, or at least, easier to laugh at.

"Candy" may never be made into a movie, but still, it is good, if not necessarily clean, fun.

Demo Employee Claims $1,000 Payoff From GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Democratic National Committee employee to John Grenier, executive director of the Republican National Committee, said he received a $1,000 payoff after delivering copies of private Democratic messages and schedules to Grenier, executive director of the Republican National Committee.

The charge was made in an affidavit dated Oct. 12 and signed by Louis Flax, a teletype operator working for the Democratic National Committee. He said he acted with approval of Democratic party officials, after reporting to them he had been contacted.

Grenier, after reading the affidavit, declined comment.

Earlier newsmen, called to the Democratic National Committee news and information offices by assistant publicity director Wayne Phillips, listed in as Flax — using the alias of "Mr. Lewis" — called Grenier's office.

He was told by a woman who answered the phone that "we have been receiving the things if that was what you wanted to know."

Great Men, Ideas Foster Inspiration

By JOHN ARMISTEAD
Staff Writer

The inscriptions on the Texas Tech Administration Building, built in 1924, serve a purpose — that purpose being to give students who daily go to and from the building a sense of awareness of the great men and institutions of our country and society. They are not there purely as decorations.

Did you ever notice the sculptured heads of great Americans on the north side of the building? On the right side of the entrance are sculptured heads of five great men in Texas history — Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, David Crockett, Albert Sidney Johnston, and James Stephen Hogg.

The five busts on the left are those of outstanding men in American history — Christopher Columbus, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee, and Woodrow Wilson.

First In Texas

According to the Dallas News of Nov. 28, 1924, these were the first public memorials in Texas to any of these great men except Robert E. Lee.

What could better adorn the administration building of any institution of higher learning than memorials to men who helped make America great and able to have educational facilities for its citizens.

The dignified old building has yet more to catch the student's eye, inscriptions and plaques that describe the foundations of the American society and the purposes for which Tech was instituted.

These words of Mirabeau B. Lamar, a great Texan and educator, are found to the left of the main entrance: "Cultivated mind is the guardian genius of democracy; It is the only dictator that freemen acknowledge, the only security freeman desire."

Words from Solomon adorn the right side of the main entrance: "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people."

These same words are inscribed over the altar in the chapel of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Six Flags Inscribed

Also inscribed on the north face of the building are the six flags under which Texas has been governed, the seal of the college, and four revered institutions of the American society — home, state, church, and school.

Other inscriptions that add to the character and magnificence of the building are those of the seven subjects that Texas Tech was designed to teach — agriculture, science, manufacturing, democracy, homemaking, art, and literature.

Found on the front are the seven educational products which Texas Tech is designed to bring forth — patriotism, religion, industry, virtue, wealth, enlightenment, and citizenship.

Names Of Great Men

At the rear of the building over the arches that form the cloisters are found names of great men of all times and all nations who were leaders in the world of arts and sciences.

Here are the names of Beethoven, Paul, Hippocrates, Shakespeare, Homer, Aristotle, Pestalozzi, Newton, Pasteur, Gladstone, Franklin, Edison, Plato, Burbank, and Michael Angelo.

More Than Stone

The Tech administration building is more than just a structure of stone and concrete. The planners of the first buildings felt that such inscriptions and memorials would add to the character of the knowledge-hungry men and women who would see them every day.

On the afternoon of Nov. 11, 1924, the cornerstone of the administration building was laid, and Texas Technological College became a reality. Remember the inscriptions, plaques, and memorials on this building, on any building, are there for a purpose.

Isbell Nears U. S. Coast

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Isbell increased to near-hurricane force and neared the Cuban coast on a course that threatened Florida with a third damaging blow of the season.

A Weather Bureau bulletin said top winds were up to 70 miles an hour, just short of hurricane velocity.

Reports from Cuba indicated that Isbell may already have exceeded 75-miles-an-hour hurricane force.

Anderson In SWC Lead Goldwater Says LBJ

Part Time President

Donny Anderson, who leads Texas Tech's Red Raiders in just about everything, had the best rushing performance of his collegiate career last Saturday in Fort Worth and swept into SWC lead.

The Stinnett halfback led the Raiders to their 25-10 win over TCU with 164 yards, 90 coming on a spectacular touchdown gallop, to up his season's total to 370 for four games. That's a 5.1 average per carry.

Jim Fauver of the Frogs, who had led the rushers until Saturday, is second with a 281-yard net gain for a 4.8 mark. Arkansas' Jackie Brasuell is third with 264.

Tech's Jim Zanios is sixth with 218 (4.6) and Raider halfback John Agan stands eighth at 182 and 4.6.

A&M's Dan McIlhane is ahead in passing with 34 completions in 79 attempts, followed by Terry Southall of Baylor, Kent Nix of Texas Christian, and Tommy Wilson of Tech.

Southall, despite a total rushing loss of 34 yards, leads in total offense with 429. TCU end Sonny Campbell has caught 15 passes for 224 yards to lead in that category.

Ernie Koy of Texas is the conference's leading scorer with six touchdowns and 36 points to his credit. Koy is followed by two place kickers, Texas' David Conway and Tom McKnelly of Arkansas, who have 19 apiece.

Team totals are dominated by national champion Texas.

The Longhorns, 4-0 and ranked first in the country, have averaged 294.5 yards of total offense per contests to lead Baylor, who hasn't won yet but passes a lot. The Bears are throwing for 247.7 yards a game, running for only 41.7 and averaging 289.3.

Arkansas (288.0) and Tech (263.3) challenge the leaders, but the pace falls off after that. TCU, in fifth place, has a 217.7 offense.

Incidentally, the 385 yards Tech amassed against the Frogs last week stands as the best in the conference so far.

Defensively, Texas is again on top, allowing only 176 yards a game to the opposition. The Steers have scored the most points, 99, and allowed the least, 13.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater accused President Johnson of becoming a "part-time president" to go "full-time politicking."

Stumping the Midwest that traditionally has been counted the heartland of the GOP, the Arizona senator came out Tuesday with a swinging attack on the political campaigning of his Democratic foe.

He teed off at his first stop of the day in Topeka, Kan., rapping Johnson for turning Sunday "into campaign chaos."

This was a reference to the President's activities of last Sunday which brought him to Goldwater's own home town of Phoenix, Ariz.

Red Raiders To Meet Winless Baylor Bears

By DAVID SNYDER
Toreador Sports Staff

Texas Tech's Red Raiders, sporting an impressive 3-1 season record, shoot for a clean sweep of their three-game road trip this Saturday night in Waco when they meet the Baylor Bears.

The Raiders have an added incentive to defeat Baylor, for a win will practically insure them of their first winning season in loop competition in their short Southwest Conference history. With only one road game remaining after the Baylor contest, Tech has the home field advantage in four more games. Two are conference matches, against SMU and Arkansas.

The Bears will be out for blood also, as a loss will all but eliminate them from the race for the conference title. In fact, either team that loses will fade out of the championship picture with two losses. Tech's present SWC record is 2-1 and Baylor has an 0-1 mark.

The Red Raiders have never won a game at Waco in a series that dates back to 1929. They have lost eight there, and have won only one time in the teams' last fourteen meetings. That came in 1961 by a 19-17 count here in Lubbock. The overall series between the two teams stands at 16-5-1 in Baylor's favor.

Tech will be trying to avenge a heart-breaking 21-17 loss at the hands of the Bears last year. They held a 17-9 lead with only seven minutes remaining, but then QB Don Trull uncased his throwing arm to toss two scoring bombs and pull out the victory.

The Bears have lost Trull, but they still are expected to fill the air with footballs. Tech's strategy will be to play ball control in an effort to keep the pigskin out of quarterback Terry Southall's hands.

Southall's inexperience has been a major factor in the Bear's winless season thus far, but the Baylor field general has been improving with each game. His favorite target is end Larry Elkins. The combination has clicked for an average of one TD per game so far this year.

The Bears return 18 lettermen from last year's SWC runner-up team. They tacked the Bluebonnet Bowl title onto their 7-3 regular season, and lost only to Texas in conference play. A sweep of their remaining seven games would only tie last year's record.

Baylor's 0-3 record is slightly deceiving, however. They have played three top-notch teams in Washington, Oregon State and Arkansas, losing 35-14, 13-6 and 17-6. The Arkansas game wasn't as close as the score indicates, though, as the Razorbacks had several touchdowns called back.

Tech's three victories have come over Mississippi State, Texas A&M and Texas Christian. The lone setback was at the hands of top-ranked Texas.

SWC Notes

"I'm sure," says Paul Dietzel, Army head coach, "that in 15 years or so when Darrell Royal is retired and counting his oil certificates, people are going to look back and know that he is one of our greatest coaches of all time."

Donny Anderson can do it all, says TCU scout Buster Brannon: "He could put out grass fires at the half, too."

Returning the compliment, Tech coach J T King says that Sonny Campbell, TCU's sophomore end, "Has moves that would fool a hula dancer."

A&M head coach Hank Foldburg rates Tech's running backfield (Anderson, Jim Zanios, John Agan) "as fine a group as we've seen in a long time."
