WHO — TEXAS TECH VS. OREGON STATE

WHERE — JONES STADIUM

WHEN — 8 P.M.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders are only a few hours away from tackling their second and perhaps toughest opponent of the young season — Oregon State's Beavers.

A crowd of 20,000 is expected for the 8 p.m. tilt. Southerly winds 10-15 m.p.h., partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 70's are predicted for the game that marks the first venture of the Beavers to Texas.

Oregon, 35 strong, arrived in Lubbock at 3:35 p.m. Friday and conducted a short drill in Jones Stadium under the watchful eye of Coach Tommy Prothro.

The Raiders will take a 1-0 record into the game while the Oregon State crew dropped its opener 27-6 to Southern California, a perennial West Coast toughie.

Last week the Techsans faced the Aggies of A&M as an underdog but utilizing Coach DeWitt Weaver's new multiple offense they sprang an upset and marched off with a 20-14 victory.

Oregon State is not hailed to be the team this year that it has been in the past but according to Coaches Beattie Feathers and Red Phillips report, "They may be the toughest team we will face this year."

Coach Weaver, from Tennessee's famed school of single wing attacks, fears the Beavers power offense. "They will probably try to ram the football right down our throats," he said.

The Raiders plan only one line-up change for tonight's game. Junior Dick Stafford, the third stringer from Temple who returned an Aggie aerial 54 yards, will start at fullback.

Texas Techsans:

Best of luck in your forthcoming game with Oregon State. The Owls are behind you all the way.
Rice Institute Student Body

Oregon coach, Prothro, lost plenty when All-American tackle Ted Bates graduated along with All-Coast selections Jim Brackins and Nub Beamer. The Beavers lost 14 experienced lettermen but will have 9 seniors in their starting unit.

FOR FRESHMAN COUNCIL

26 in Fish Run-Off

Over 600 freshmen cast ballots in the Freshman Council election Friday which saw three positions filled, with twenty-six students going into the run-off election Tuesday.

ELECTED TO positions on the Council were John Compere, Sneed Hall; John Winters, Men's Dorm 6 and Carolyn Freeman, Horn Hall.

Ballot boxes for the run-off election will be in the dorms during the noon hour Tuesday. Off-campus students must vote in the Tech Union at any time during the day.

ALL STUDENTS not winning in this election will automatically go on the ballot for the All-Campus Freshman Council election Oct. 7.

A total of 679 students cast votes in the election Friday, with Knapp Hall leading in number with 178 ballots, followed by Drane with 86, Men's Dorm 8 with 82, Sneed with 57, Bledsoe with 55, off-campus with 52, Men's Dorm 5 with 51, Men's Dorm 7 with 49, Gordon with 42, Men's Dorm 6 with 18 and Horn with 9.

IN THE RUN-OFF election Tuesday are Robert B. Green and Steve Guynes of Bledsoe, Bill Nevius and George W. Wynn of Gordon, Don Jones and Pern Rocap of Men's Dorm 5.

Also in the run-off are Hugh Lewis and Doug Gibbons of Men's Dorm 7, John Brutsche and Jimmy Strawn of Men's Dorm 8, and Pris Nichols, Jackie Curry, Polly Dahl, Betty Becker and Ann Mason of Knapp.

FROM DRANE are the following: Anne Weaver, Marty Bradt, Cindy Richards, Mary Jane Gordon, Barbara McMurray and Susan Ziegler.

Off-campus students in the run-off are Jerry Parsons, Sharon Cox, Carolyn Zarchy, Kenneth Lokey and Mary DeShazo.

Pep Rally Boosts Spirits for Game

"Even though we are small in numbers and short in weight, we are big in heart," said L. N. Jones, dean of men.

DEAN JONES expressed the importance of "heart" at the Raiders pep rally last night at the Saddle Tramp Circle.

"It does a lot of good to see all the backing we are receiving," Tech Coach DeWitt Weaver said as he looked over the crowd around the circle.

"Although we are proud of our victory over Texas A&M," Weaver said, "we aren't thinking of that game now."

"YOU'LL BE proud of the Raiders when tomorrow's game is over, and I certainly believe that we'll beat Oregon State," Weaver said.

The victory fire blazed highest when co-captains Ken Talkington and Jerry Selfridge talked into the microphone.

"We're going to give everything we have and win tomorrow night," Selfridge said.

"WE'RE CERTAINLY going to do everything possible to give Tech another victory tomorrow night," Ken Talkington told the sign-bearing Techsans.

Preceding the speeches made by the rally's speakers were two skits.

LARRY DEHAY and Bob Fielding presented the first skit which illustrated a Sunday drive in the Bronx. This skit depicted a happy fellow who was having some trouble with his girl.

The second skit, featuring the Kappa Kappa Gamma pledges, showed the ideal Tech football player by mixing fortitude, speed, pep and energy, strength and brains.

THESE RAIDER qualities are supposed to make a "really, really big Red Raider."

With the bonfire and spirits blazing high, the Raider rally ended.

ANYONE FOR RUSSIAN?

A non-credit course in Russian is being offered at Tech this fall as a continuation of a course begun last spring. Dr. Elaine Boney, assistant professor of foreign languages, announced yesterday.

Anyone who has had at least a semester of Russian may attend the meetings in Room 267 of the Administration Bldg. from 6-7:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

Dr. Boney also related that next year Russian will be offered for credit in the foreign language dept.

1959 South Plains Fair Offers Varied Exhibits

A yearly diversion from usual Tech and Lubbock amusements is the annual Panhandle South Plains Fair which will open Monday and run through Oct. 3. Some of the attractions of the fair include a "Summary of Atomic Energy" exhibit, Hugh Castle's 3-Ring Circus and the usual cotton candy, snow cones and amusement rides. The Tech animal husbandry department will exhibit college animals in a "Children's Barnyard," including Tech Beauty and her two month colt. A glass incubator with a hundred eggs hatching each day can be found in the Livestock Pavilion.

LLT Opens Season

"Inherit the Wind" Cast Includes Several Tech Speech Students

by CAROLYN JENKINS
Amusements Editor

An audience almost void of Tech students witnessed the opening of "Inherit the Wind," first production of the season by the Lubbock Little Theater.

THE CONTROVERSIAL play of religious beliefs vs. scientific theories, while offering a challenge to the company, proved a worthwhile effort under the direction of George Schwimmer. First full-time director of LLT, Schwimmer also designed the sets, using two plateaus to create the image of the two different scenes—courtroom and street.

THE JEROME Lawrence and Robert E. Lee play, taken from the famous Scopes Trial, is the story of a small town high school teacher's trial for discussing in his classes the evolution of man.

Cast as Bert Cates, the accused, is A. Dudley Thompson. He is defended by capable, aged, Chicago attorney, Henry Drummond, played by Kent Waggoner. In the lengthy role, Waggoner seemed at times the actor, then only the reciter of lines.

PRESENTING THE most forceful role was Tommy Hancock as the Bible-bearing prosecuting attorney who held the town of Hillsboro in the palm of his hand. Hancock is a former Tech graduate student.

Colorful newspaperman, Hornbeck, portrayed by James Hennigan, who has been a student in the Tech speech department, was on and off stage constantly stirring up the Ladies Aide.

Always in character, Hennigan provided the audience with the laughs of the night.

THE PRAYER meeting in the second act was one of the stronger scenes in the play. Amid "amens" and hallelujahs, Rev. Brown, played by Tech student B. W. Helms, spoke-sang of hell-fire and brimstone, stilling the audience. After a weak beginning in a courtroom pseudo-love scene, the characters grew stronger. Street scenes were especially good, with a large cast adding to the impression.

JO FIELDS as Rachel, daughter of Rev. Brown and girl friend of the accused, was torn between fear of one and love for the other. For awhile we wondered if she knew which was which, but the resulting performance was commendable.

Other Tech speech students or former speech students in the cast include Chris Johnson, Liz Hoyer, Larry Van Cleave, Dwayne Cox, Diane Benham, Carl Darwin, Barry Corbin, and Arch M. March. Dr. P. Merville Larson, speech department head, was also a member of the cast.

MOST discouraging aspect of the show was the smattering of Tech people attending. Along with a few teachers, seven or eight students, give or take a couple, out of more than 8,800 enrolled indicate that Techsians are either in the dark or else they are the illiterate bunch they've been said to be. I hope the latter isn't true.

Last scheduled performance of "Inherit the Wind" is at 8:15 tonight. Tickets are available at the LLT Playhouse box office, 2508 Ave. P, from 11 a. m. until certain time.

USAF Concert Band Performs In Lubbock

The United States Air Force Band brought back memories for old and young, native and foreign Friday afternoon and night as they completed a two-concert stand in the Lubbock Auditorium.

The Band, sponsored by Civic Lubbock, Inc., was conducted by Colonel George S. Howard.

Opening with the Star Spangled Banner, the organization quickly moved into a couple of French numbers, "Marche Francaise from Algerian Suite" and "Czardas d'Amour, an arrangement by a Band member.

Adding interest for children, S. Sgt. Armand McClane, a baritone soloist, sang "Old Mother Hubbard." "Die Meistersanger" and "Carnival Variations," a trumpet trio, followed.

The band, adding a touch of the orient, then played "Pictures at an Exhibition," which included

"The Hut of Baba Yaga" and "The Great Gate of Kiev."

Another highlight of the presentation was a series of numbers by The Singing Sergeants under direction of Captain Robert L. Landers.

The sergeants, with a theme "The Hills, The Fields and The Frontier," brought back early days for many old timers with selections "Skip to My Lou," "Song of the Ox Drivers," and "Pecos Bill."

The band then concluded with "A Salute to the Armed Services of the United States."

THE TECH ALPHA PHIS, boarding their bus on College Ave., are "raring to go" to the Quartz Mountain Lodge in Oklahoma for a weekend of fun and sorority workshops.

Soft Drinks

This fall one of the more noticeable changes at Texas Tech is the cost of Cokes and Dr. Peppers in the campus machines.

A raise in price from a nickel to six cents was negotiated with the college by the bottling companies. The raise was later approved by the Tech board of directors at its August 22 meeting.

Prices Held Down

A spokesman for Coca Cola explained that because of the volume of their business, "we held the prices down as long as we could."

The Coca Cola Co. also made the following statement: "Since 1905 the Coca Cola Bottling Co. has produced and sold its product at a price that enabled the consumer to purchase a bottle of Coca Cola for a nickel. Efficient production and volume sales made this possible."

Cost Pressured Hike

"Today, however, the constant pressure of increased costs made it mandatory that we raise our wholesale price."

Both the Coca Cola and Dr. Pepper representatives commented that efforts by the college and the board of directors have kept the price of the drinks down to five cents until now.

Ingredients Are Higher

A spokesman for Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. related that the raise to six cents was caused by "a cost increase of everything that goes into a Dr. Pepper."

Increased costs of labor, glass, crowns and cartons were listed as reasons behind the price raise. He also commented that the campus machines would cost almost twice as much to replace now as when they were installed.

Raise Long Overdue

Expressing the opinion that the raise was "long overdue," he stated that Lubbock was one of the few areas not already under a six cent or 10 cent price for soft drinks.

Both spokesmen stated that the raise was necessary in the retailing of the soft drinks due to the increase of wholesale prices from 80 cents to $1.

Letter of Thanks

Boy Appreciates Honor

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ed Conner Hickman of Dallas, 10-year-old victim of cerebral palsy, is an avid fan of the Texas Tech Red Raiders. Last Saturday in Dallas, Tech students and ex-students honored Ed, who lives near Dallas, at a pre-game reception and gave him a sideline pass to the game. That night, sitting by the Raider players, he watched Tech chalk up a 20-14 victory over Texas A&M. The following is a letter of thanks from a printer on the Dallas News, a man very close to the little boy.

To All Students and Ex-Students of Texas Tech:

Ladies and Gentlemen of Tech, you cannot imagine what you have done! Good that is. You will never know what it meant to Ed Conner Hickman, the little palsy victim, that you honored at the reception and the wonderful football game last Saturday night. Never, and I mean never, has he had so much done for him. Although this is several days after the game and reception, he is still thrilled beyond belief! He still cannot cope with the thrill of being your guest and the wonderful way in which you received him. His family and all of us that know him wish to thank you in every way possible. Your kindness and friendship will be one of our fondest memories for the rest of our lives.

TO E. J. HOLUB, the All-American Center, you are truly All-American, both as a football player and as a man. Surely you will be richly rewarded for showing such an interest in this boy. It meant so much to him to have the honor of shaking hands with you.

To Ronnie Rice who is also All-American in all of our books let me say to you thanks time was valuable that day and yet you gave for all you did for Ed and myself. I know your it so unselfishly.

TO DEWITT WEAVER the wonderful coach who was such a busy person on that night, let us say thanks for taking time to tell Ed, "I wish you could get out there and put on a suit, and be one of us in body as well as spirit!" Thanks! Thanks! to all of you for everything. It was a fine victory over a fine team but it was also a moral victory for all of you fine boys since you not only won the game but you put a niche in the heart of Ed, and I am sure that in some way you will be rewarded for your wonderful efforts!

Sincerely yours,
J. L. McBride

Beanies, Ballgame --- Match

We could talk about school spirit, but that subject has been so overworked in recent years, we hate to do so. Or we could urge large attendance at the Texas Tech — Oregon State football game tonight. In fact, we think we will.

Raider footballers, fresh from a 20 to 14 victory over Texas A&M in the Cotton Bowl last Saturday, enter their own home grounds tonight for the first home game of the season.

At this time, there are about 3,000 freshmen who have never seen the Red Raiders play football and almost as many who have never been inside the football stadium.

And right now, there are about 6,000 upperclassmen who have never seen as impressive a Raider team take the field as this one proposes to do.

Sum it up. There is good reason that every Techsan should want to watch the Raiders in action tonight — especially since they are playing a Pacific Coast Conference foe for the first time in the history of this school.

Naturally, we urge large attendance. But, also, we urge proper attendance. By this, we mean we would like to see all 3,000 fish turn out sporting the green slime caps that are just as much a part of the school as the football team.

Little else, if anything, would do more to impress the players than to look up in the stands and see a spacious sea of green among the Tech fans — a sea of green beanies, that is.

Freshmen should not feel self-conscious or persecuted when wearing these caps. They should be proud, for the beanies represent their first year in college and a year full of memories they could never obtain any other way.

A large attendance by everyone would be wonderful, but a large number of freshmen — dressed as such — would give a certain symbolic quality that would be missing otherwise.

IN COUNCIL MEETING

Trip Plans Detailed

Progress of plans for the out-of-town trip to the Tech-Southern Methodist game Oct. 24 topped the agenda for the first Student Council meeting of the year, Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Anniversary Room of the Tech Union.

Bill Pilger, Student Council president, outlined responsibilities and duties of members, stressing that members must represent the best interests of the student body and its viewpoints.

PLANS FOR the trip to Dallas were presented by Dub Heffington, vice president and chairman of the Out-of-Town Trip Committee. A minimum of 375 students is necessary for having the train available.

The trip is set for the last weekend of the State Fair of Texas, with the train scheduled to leave at 10 p.m. Friday and arrive at 8 a.m. Saturday.

ABOUT 600 tickets are also available for "Star Light! Star Bright!", a State Fair Musical production. These tickets are limited to students going on the train and must be bought separately from the train tickets. The musical tickets are $4.95, $4.40 or $3.30. A deadline of Oct. 10 has been set for sale of these tickets.

Plans are also underway for an after-game party with SMU students, similar to the party with TCU students last year, although nothing definite has been arranged yet.

EFFORTS TO bring an outstanding speaker to Tech sometime in the fall term were also outlined by Mike Montgomery, chairman of the Speaker Committee.

An Allocations Committee report was given by Bob Dyer, business manager and committee chairman. Seventeen requests have been made thus far for allocations from the funds provided by the Student Services Fee.

INTERVIEWS BEGAN Friday and continue through next Friday with representatives of organizations making requests for funds. Allocating of funds will be made from information given in the interviews and on the forms.

Dr. Robert L. Rouse, professor of economics and finance, was elected sponsor of the Student Council for this year.

Oregon Sports Director Tells of Job Rewards

"If you like athletic events and have a knack for writing, then you might have the background for becoming a sports publicity man."

THIS IS WHAT John Eggers, sports publicity director for the Oregon State athletic department had to say about students interested in this field.

Eggers then added that "of course, you have to like travel and most of all, know how to meet and get along with people."

Stressing this last point Eggers told what the situation is like for a publicity man before a home game.

"ABOUT THE MIDDLE of the week the sports writers start coming in and the telephone starts ringing. You have to keep the writers happy and this involves doing several things at once all day long.

"But when I go out of town the pressure is then on the other fellow." A reference was then made to Tech's own publicity director Bill Holmes, "who is probably a very busy man about now."

"THIS IS MORE than a full time job," Eggers explained. "You have got to stay with it 24 hours a day — ordering pictures, answering requests and writing sports."

On the subject of travel, Eggers commented on his present itinerary which involves a month away from home.

Wilt To Play Here

Pro basketball comes to Lubbock October 3 when the St. Louis Hawks meet the Philadelphia Warriors in a pre-season battle in the Lubbock Coliseum.

GRABBING THE spotlight from these nationally televised quintets, Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, 7-2 center for the Warriors, will possibly mean the difference between victory and death for the Philadelphia club.

BOB PETTIT, and a supporting cast of top stars will try bottling Chamberlain, and pave the way for another Western Division Chamampionship over stalwart pre-season and seasonal foes. In four seasons, the Hawks have won the world's championship, and three divisional titles.

Tickets for the game may be obtained at the Sports Center, 1613 13th, Monday, through Friday. Price of admission will be $2., $2.50, and $3.

ALSO THERE will be a ticket concession in the East Foyer of the Lubbock Coliseum immediately prior to and after the student convocation to be held there Wednesday morning.

FASTER, FASTER!

College enrollment continues to spiral upward. The need for more classrooms and more teachers grows more desperate daily. But classrooms, alas, do not spring up like mushrooms—nor teachers like May flies. So what must we do while we build more classrooms and train more teachers? We must get better use out of the classrooms and teachers we now have. That's what we must do.

This column, normally a vehicle of good-humored foolery, will today forsake laughter to examine the crisis in higher education. My sponsors, the makers of Philip Morris Cigarettes, as bonny a bunch of tycoons as you will see in a month of Sundays, have given cheerful consent to this departure. Oh, splendid chaps they are—the makers of Philip Morris, fond of home, mother, porridge, the Constitution and country fiddling! Twinkly and engaging they are, as full of joy, as brimming with goodness, as loaded with felicity as the cigarettes they bring you in two handy packages—the traditional soft pack and the crushproof flip-top box.

How can we make better use of existing campus facilities? The answer can be given in one word—speedup! Speed up the educational process—streamline courses. Eliminate frills. Sharpen. Shorten. Quicken.

Following is a list of courses with suggested methods to speed up each one.

- PHYSICS—Eliminate slow neutrons.
- PSYCHOLOGY LAB—Tilt the mazes downhill. The white mice will run much faster.
- ENGINEERING—Make slide rules half as long.
- MUSIC—Change all tempos to allegro. (An added benefit to be gained from this suggestion is that once you speed up waltz time, campus proms will all be over by ten p.m. With students going home so early, romance will languish and marriage counsellors can be transferred to the Buildings and Grounds Department. Also, houses now used for married students can be returned to the School of Animal Husbandry.)
- ALGEBRA—If X always equals twenty-four, much time-consuming computation can be eliminated.
- DENTISTRY—Skip baby teeth—they fall out anyhow.
- POETRY—Amalgamate the classics. Like this:
*Hail to thee blithe spirit
 Shoot if you must this old gray head
 You ain't nothin' but a hound dog
 Smiling, the boy fell dead*

You see how simple it is? Perhaps you have some speedup ideas of your own. If so, I'll thank you to keep them to yourselves.

The Philip Morris Company, makers of Philip Morris, Marlboros and Alpine, have no interest in speedup. We age our fine tobaccos slow and easy. And that's the way they smoke—slow and easy and full of natural tobacco goodness.

RALPH'S RAMBLINGS

The Raiders' game with Oregon State here Saturday night could go a long way toward answering the two questions uppermost in the minds of Tech followers.

Does the Big Red have the stuff with which to go on to a good season after their A&M victory?

Will the Raiders continue to battle their foes all season as they did against the Farmers at Dallas?

A win over the Beavers could give Tech great impetus for their later battles with teams like SMU and TCU during one of the hardest schedules in Tech history.

Oregon will be no pushover. The Beavers boast a good defensive wall are big and tough. They rate well in the speed department too. Operating from a "true" single wing attack with two or three good tailbacks to move the ball the Beavers will probably try to "cram" the ball right down the Raider's throat.

If they realize they can't move the ball on the ground the Oregon club will probably hit the airlines and pass, pass, pass. They are not noted for their aerial power but they do have a passer in tailback Paulson.

It promises to be an interesting night for football fans.

I hope you are saving the afternoon of Oct. 3 for Professional basketball. It would be well worth your time to drop out to the Coliseum that day and see the St. Louis Hawks and Philadelphia Warriors in action.

With the Yankees out of the American League race and several wagers on them unpaid, I find it hard to venture out on a limb and predict football games.

Here's a try anyway:

TEXAS TECH 20, Oregon State 14—Raiders win for homefolks.

LSU 14, Texas Christian 7—Shot down with a cannon.

SMU 21, Georgia Tech 7—Without Meredith, a different tale.

TEXAS 19, Maryland 8—The Steers hard to bulldoze this time.

MICHIGAN STATE 20, Texas A&M 7—Aggies weak in spots.

ARKANSAS 26, Oklahoma State 14—The Porkers are coming under Broyles.

When the Red Raiders take the field for their first home game this season tonight, several "Beavers" will see considerable action. AMONG THEM will be a versatile athlete from Alpine, Bake Turner, who plays left halfback. Turner, who plays left halfback, is expected to get a good chance to demonstrate his ruggedness when the Beavers invade Jones Stadium.

"BOY AM I glad I did decide to come to Tech," said the 175-pound Turner. "I expect great things from Tech's athletic program. When we enter Southwest Conference football competition next year, we should do all right, and I'm glad to be a part of the Tech team." Bake was one of the outstanding athletes in Texas his senior year in high school, participating in football, basketball, and track. He was named to the AAA All-State football team his last year at Alpine. He earned four basketball letters and three in football.

"I THINK OUR new offensive will be the key to the team's success this season," Turner said. "It's new to everyone and, of course, we will make costly mistakes in the first few games, but everyone on the team is really putting everything into workouts."

Bake Says Beavers Will Test Raiders Tech Faces Tough Tilt

of the team, the 19-year-old education major said, "Captains Ken Talkington and Jerry Selfridge are really doing a fine job in leading the team. They hold frequent team meetings to discuss problems and iron out difficulties. This type leadership is appreciated. They are doing an outstanding job in guiding the team."

When asked about the game tonight, Turner said, "The Beavers will surely give us a rough time. We will have to be clicking on all cylinders every second of the game to win it."

OSC will use the balanced line single wing attack, with fullback spinners, flashy reverse plays and an adequate defense. Key man will be tailback Paulson. He does practically all of the passing, much of the leather-lugging, some of the blocking and will punt on occasion.

The Beavers top lineman will not play tonight. Ed Kaohelaui, a giant Hawaiian tackle is out with an injury. Both starting guards, Sonny Sanchez and George Enderle, have lots of playing experience behind them. The Oregon center, Bruce Hake is also

The Raider backfield will again be guided by quarterbacks Ken Talkington and Glen Amerson. They are expected to share duties as they did against the Aggies last week. Soapy Sudbury will be available at the man-under spot if necessary.
