A conversation with Skipper is likely to be on the gruesome side to one unaccustomed to hearing about black widow spiders hanging on rafters and harmless little garter snakes. Are You Guilty?

THE House Senate of Women's Dormitory No. 2 voted in a recent meeting to send letters to all girls seen courting in front of the hall. These letters are to be written on goldenrod stationery and are designed to teach students some of the things they should have known from childhood.

Now is the time for those who indulge in courting to begin to worry about keeping it strictly on the QT. The vivid, distinctive yellow paper will, without a doubt, call everyone's attention to the significance attached to the colorful little packets.

Of late there has been a great deal of necking around the dormitories just before closing time. In the past summer many of the girls made excuses for it because of house rules with regard to taking dates into the lounge. According to these regulations, one could not have company until after 4 o'clock in the afternoon and girls were not permitted to take their dates into the lounge after 9 o'clock. This, numerous people felt was an incentive in that direction. Recently, however, the lounge has been staying open until 11 and 12 o'clock at night. There are few excuses left, girls.

There has been much frowning disapproval from faculty members and many unfavorable remarks from townspeople. To illustrate, I quote a remark that a Lubbock business man recently made. "If you pass by the girls' dormitory a little before midnight, you begin to wonder whether we have a menagerie or an educational institution."

So much courting on the part of the students creates not only an unfavorable impression of our school but also an unwholesome situation. The House Senate is doing its best to correct it, but, when everything is taken into consideration, it can only be stopped at its source—the students.—V.M.

Here's To The Raiders

THERE are no consolation prizes in football. Few losing teams ride off the field on the shoulders of the multitude, yet this has not been an unknown thing at Tech in the past and should not be today.

Gridiron laurels rest not always upon the brow of the mighty nor statistics with the deserving. The breaks of the minute decide football games. In at least two games this year, Dell Morgan's Red Raiders have had all the breaks—but they were all bad breaks.

There was a time when heated debate raged pro and con concerning college football—to play or not to play for the duration. Other colleges, their athletic programs maimed by the loss of manpower, called it quits. Tech stuck it out. Football—even losing football—was the choice over no football at all. Of late, it has not been an unknown thing for the Raiders to taste the bitter gall of defeat, for which no matter how bravely borne, the loser receives no honors. Yet at the same time, it has been no disgrace for Tech to lose games. Even in defeat the Raiders have not lacked luster.

Fans, coaches and gridiron observers have tendered to Morgan's men the praise and respect due to gallant fighters who never give up, adding up to possibly more acclaim in losing than Tech could have gained in winning.

To this praise, Texas Tech's student body add their cheers. And to the Red Raiders we wish to say: "Our team, win or lose; may you ever triumph, but in defeat, continue to make us proud of you."—B.D.R.

Welcome To Tech

TWO area meetings of state home economics groups representing fifty-six counties are being held on Tech campus this weekend. The West Texas Home Economics association and the Area Nutrition conference are meeting in Lubbock for the first time and are scheduled close together so that county representatives will be able to attend both meetings.

These meetings will bring leaders in home economics to the campus including teachers in this field, home demonstration agents and people connected with the War Food administration. The state has been divided into five areas for these meetings because of the present difficulty of transportation.

We are glad Tech was selected as a meeting place for the home economics groups and hope the representatives will enjoy their stay with us.—KP

Brains Or Beauty?

BEAUTIES were chosen last week for both the yearbook and to represent Tech in a statewide contest. The man who will select the final eight girls will be inclined to judge Tech on the basis of these few girls.

Tech's educational standards were somewhat lowered when the amendments which stated that beauties and assistant yell leaders were to be excluded from retaining the required "C" average, were passed.

Beauty is a passing luxury, but knowledge is not. A college is the place to get an education, and those successfully attaining it should be the ones to hold the places of honor on Tech campus. No other student office is left open to a person not maintaining the "C" average qualification. The offices of president of the student body, of the classes, editors, associate editors and business managers of the publications, and all other officers in organizations on the campus must have this "C" average in order to be eligible for office. Even social clubs do not admit members who cannot make a "C" average. Why, then, should

Life With The Exes-

Gene Lunsford, former Techman, was in Lubbock Saturday. He is stationed at Carlisle, N. M. Henry Felts, Jr., graduate, was recently married to Reba Earle Smith. Felts is now employed by the Standard Oil company at Falfurrias. He and his bride will make their home in that city.

Lt. Nelson G. Mitchell, who was a student at Tech and later employed by General Motors Acceptance corporation in Dallas, has received his commission in the Air corps.

Visiting his sister this week was Larry Melcher, who is in the Navy, stationed at Louisiana Tech.

Frances Lou Dean of Sweetwater was recently married to Capt. J. D. Tankersley of Terrell, at the Post chapel of the Fort Worth Army Air base. Frances was a Sans Souci and a graduate in home economics in 1943. Tankersley was stationed at LAAF for two years. He was a journalism major and former member of the Silver Key club at Tech.

Lt. (j.g.) A. C. Lambert and wife, the former Elizabeth Leggit visited here recently. Lambert has been in four major battles in the Pacific.

Sgt. Cecil Joe Burton is home on furlough and is visiting his brothers, sisters and friends on the campus. Burton is a Marine and an ex-Techman, majoring in arts and sciences.

Editor's Mail-

Dear Editor: It seems to me that the students (some of them) do not realize that we have about 50 ex-service men on our campus or appreciate the experiences that many of them have gone through for us, both here in the States and overseas. Some of these boys have had very extended tours of duty.

Many of us feel that it would be only fair for The Toreador to publish, every week, a story about the boys, their duty and experiences. That way, the students body would get a clearer picture of our ex-service students.

This is only a suggestion, but we feel that it would be very helpful to the ex-service men concerned and very interesting to the student readers.

We hope that you give this idea your favorable consideration.

Yours very truly,
A Group of Students

Dear Students: We were very glad to receive your suggestion in regard to printing stories each week about ex-service boys on our campus. Also, we are pleased to know that this idea, which we started working on several weeks ago, meets with student approval as well as that of the staff. Within the next few issues we will start a series of feature stories on veterans who have returned to our campus.

Since The Toreador is printed by the students and for the students, we always welcome both criticism and new ideas for the improvement of the paper.

beauties and assistant yell leaders be privileged? If the student body is not more than careful, this first successful attempt to lower standards will be only the beginning of a number of retractions. With assistant yell leaders being excluded, the next probable statement will be:

"Why should the head yell leader be required to have a 'C' average? His assistants do not. Shouldn't he have the same advantage?"

Similarly other such situations will arise, and once something is started, it is usually very difficult to put an end to it. As the old saying goes—it's a lot easier to get into something than it is to get out.

Lesley college, a teacher-training school in Boston, has an unorthodox rule on admissions: girls have to be good-looking to get in. There they have brains as well as beauty. The first requirement is "looks," but one certainly does not stay there long if her brain will not function as well as her beauty. Numerous jobs are open to these girls after graduation because they are prepared. They have not relied chiefly upon beauty as their sole security.

This is not intended as a slam upon present nominees—it is merely an attempt to present a fair view of the situation. Beauties should not be given opportunities and advantages any more than candidates for other offices. Representing Tech as a beauty is an honor, just as being president of some worthwhile organization is, but the latter has to be qualified for his position, while the former does not, other than being attractive.

The student body has recently passed this amendment, with a very small number voting. It would perhaps seem foolish to advocate that this amendment be voted down, but we can see it that nothing of a similar nature occurs again, if at all possible, after this present situation before long. Tech has always ranked high with other colleges in educational measures, and with the inauguration of a new college president, whose chief aim is to emphasize scholarship, do you, as a Techman, honestly believe that we should begin lowering our standards now?—L.H.

and Sciences. Lt. John S. Teague, '42 graduate in dairy manufacturing, an officer of the US Marines, is now in rest camp after several major engagements in the South Pacific.

Lt. Lewis F. Price, '42 graduate in dairy manufacturing, is recuperating from a broken ankle which he received after being forced to bail out over Roumania.

Ens. John Boyles, Jr. has recently made a trip to New York city.

Bob Renner, son of Prof. Kenneth M. Renner, '43 graduate in dairy manufacturing, left in March as a flying radio operator. Renner was promoted to the rank of corporal.

Lt. Martin Van Sheid, '41 graduate of dairy manufactures, was killed in action in the South Pacific July 29. The confirmed report has just been received by K. M. Renner, head professor of dairy manufactures. Sheid, whose home is in Whitesboro, was an instructor at Michigan State university before entering the Marines.

Ray E. Halsey, petroleum engineering graduate in '40, spent a recent vacation visiting in Lubbock and his home in Plainview. Halsey is now employed by the Petty Geophysical company of Laurel, Miss.

Bill Jones, graduate of West Point and ex-Techman, has completed a paratrooper's training course and expects to go overseas soon.

Lt. Henry R. Hastings, engineering student from 1936-40, and two other officers were killed when their patrol bomber, engaged in routine flight training operations, crashed soon after a take-off, air base officials at Lake City, Fla. announced. Hastings had reported at Lake City training base Aug. 17 from the Aleutian islands, where he had been engaged in attacks against Japanese installations in the northern Kuriles. Recently he was presented with the Navy Air medal for his outstanding service in those attacks. He was active in track athletics while attending Tech. His wife, the former Betty Shyrlock, '42 journalism graduate, has been making her home in Lake City since her husband's return.

Lt. Claude E. Boren is writing letters home "from somewhere in Germany." Boren, who was with the D-day invasion forces June 6 in Normandy and early in the encircling action after St. Lo, salvaged an abandoned Nazi army automobile complete with a Nazi flag.

Ens. William H. Carter, son of Mrs. Olga M. Carter, instructor in English, and '48 graduate, is now stationed at Harvard university for specialized training in communications. Carter had been employed by the Magnolia Oil company as assistant geologist before entering the Navy.

ANN COX was keeping her cadet quite warm Saturday night — he was wearing a fur coat.

PAT SMITH from Amarillo is all excited about RAY DANIEL getting to fly from Arizona for the Ko Shari masquerade ball. We hope nothing happens to keep him from coming.

ANITA HALE, how do you always manage to have a good looking lieutenant come all the way from Hobbs to see you?

We'll bet "CHARLIE" TAYLOR talks about this past week for a long time—visiting HARRY, A last year's ASTU trainee now in Denver, would be something for anyone to talk about.

Seems to us it would be a very profitable business for the owners of the cars parked in front of Women's Dormitory No. 2 to rent out their cars, without the keys, to couples who want to sit in them and listen to the radios.

MRS. EIKEL, housemother of Women's Dormitory No. 2, is our nominee for one of the best liked and friendliest people on Tech campus.

Two recent additions to the Tech cheering section are precadets LARRY PECK and PAUL LAMB-RETH.

We wonder if OLIVER RAMSEY has seen the costume his date is going to wear to the dance Saturday—zowie!

BARBARA BLANKS seems to have had a good time over the weekend, what with sitting in a box at the football game with a colonel and other high-ups.

Are we going color blind, or are all of these boys really red-heads? MOREENE ROBERTS, what's the big attraction in Fort Worth? Could it be the eye specialist?

The question of the moment is what was the answer JEAN GIBBONS sent to the telegram she received while she was home last weekend. Some poor boy on the campus was "pink" his heart away.

CAROL CLEAVINGER went to Fort Worth again this weekend. It's only been three weeks since she saw her man and that's a long, long time.

JUANITA GIBBS received two long distance calls on the same day from A/C TOMMY RYAN, who is stationed at Monroe, La. She is going down for TOMMY'S graduation Oct. 28.

MARY MARGARET GRAHAM is the envy of many girls since she's been seen with HOMER LAWSON lately.

PAT DINGES went home to Colorado City with her roommate, SUE THOMPSON, last weekend. What's the attraction there, PAT? TOM ROGERS is the number one suspect of being the phantom in West hall.

SYLEE CARTER likes to munch peanuts while waiting in the bus station, even though she knows it's undignified.

Raiders Invade Amarillo To Battle Buffaloes Tonight

Matadors Hope For Seasons First Win

West Texas State College
Loses Two Of Three Games

FOR the first time in six games, Texas Tech's oft-defeated but ever-game Red Raiders will be favored to win by the pre-game dope on their tussle with the resurgent West Texas State Teachers college Buffaloes Friday night at Amarillo.

Uneasy stand the cleats which trod the favorite's end of a football field, but unaccustomed as the Raiders are to the position, they yet should not be extended too much by the Hustlin' Buffs, first let-up opponent in a steadily-tougher schedule.

Not that the Canyon aggregation has not shown strength this year, and let no football fan be impressed by the advertisement of the Buffs as a "breather" opponent. Idle in sports last year, the Buffaloes dropped a 39-0 game to the Raiders in 1942, and doubtless West Texas State Coach Gus Miller has hopes, perhaps unspoken but nevertheless there, of a victory over Tech in her year of hard luck and bad breaks, thereby gaining some measure of revenge he normally could not hope for in a normal year.

However, Tech's improvement has been steady, with never a let-down, and Coach Dell Morgan's biggest job this year seems to be to prevent a letdown from coming at a time when Tech is scheduled to meet a team heralded as weaker than the opposition so far, but which may be surprising.

West Texas has played only three games this year. The Buffs lost by top-heavy scores to powerful Amarillo Army Air field and Oklahoma A&M, which lucked out over Tech 14-7. But West Texas surprised New Mexico university by beating the strong Lobos by three touchdowns.

Against the Raiders, the Buffs will start two former Texas Tech freshmen lettermen. It's nothing new for Tech teams to meet ex-Techans playing a fine brand of ball for Tech's opponents: Example, Southwestern, Tulsa, Lubbock Army Air field.

The ex-Pleasers who will play for the Buffaloes are Dave Browder, playing left tackle for West Texas and who lettered on the Tech freshman team at guard, later transferring to Wyoming university, where he earned another numeral; and Dwayne Lyons, also a guard here in 1942 and running at the same position for the Buffs.

West Texas has only two lettermen on the squad, but they are good; both returned to the Canyon campus after receiving medical discharges from the armed forces.

One is sterling tailback Eddie Castleberry, 165-pound scabbard who sparks the team as a triple-threat. The other is powerhouse fullback Curtis Kelley, hard-driving back who backs up the line with all he's got.

Another standout who lettered at West Texas as a freshman in 1941 and who has a medical discharge from the Marine corps is 190-pound wingback Willard Hedges, fastest man on the squad who depends on hurling his heft at opponents so fast and so hard he can't be stopped.

Henry "Hoss" Bledsoe is a transfer from Hardin-Simmons, and he is the Buff's starting quarterback. The remainder of the squad is made up of a few transfers with college experience and the rest freshmen, like the majority of the Tech squad.

Against the Buffaloes, who probably will be pointing for an upset since their season could be successful on the basis of a win over Tech, the Raiders will throw a team of the game's fighters seen in Tech uniforms for a long time. A constantly-improving team paced by Walter Schlinkman will be out for its first victory of the season, and hurdling the Buffs successfully, might go on to bigger and better things, meaning Southern Methodist, Rice and Texas Christian later in the season. The Raiders will outweigh the Buffs, but the Raiders themselves have proved that weight in itself is no guarantee of victory.

Schlinkman gets better every game and seems to favor his injured leg not in the least. He was one of the outstanding backs on the field against Southwestern Saturday night, as he has been in all of Tech's games to date.

He averaged 6.5 yards in 13 carries against the Pirates and played a bigger, more experienced ball club than the team Tech started, composed of Schlinkman and 10 freshmen.

Only in first downs did the Pirates rack up an advantage in the statistics. Southwestern tallied 14 first downs to Tech's 9, but in yards gained rushing and yards gained passing, the Raiders held a slight advantage.

The game will start at 8:15 o'clock on Amarillo's Butler field, scene of many a heated battle between Amarillo high school's Golden Sandies and Lubbock high school's Weststers.

Probable starting lineups:
Texas Tech Pos. West Texas State
Thompson, 172 LE Glasgow, 175
Snodgrass, 268 LT Browder, 190

Billy Whitehead, Fullback

Billy Whitehead Sees Action As Raider Fullback

On almost any college football team which didn't boast a man like Wallop! Walter Schlinkman, Freshman Billy Joe Whitehead probably would be the starting fullback.

Schlinkman's experience and natural power tab him for the regular fullback slot on the Red Raider squad, but Billy Joe has seen action as Walt's reserve in every game this season except the Texas Aggie game and is coming along extremely fast.

It's hard to fill the shoes of a man like Schlinkman, which makes Whitehead's job doubly difficult, but how well he has performed that task is indicated by the fact that when Whitehead reports into the game for Schlinkman, the Raiders continue to roll, lacking only Walt's individual flash and brilliance.

Billy Joe has averaged about six yards gained every time he has lugged the pigskin this year, which for a 17-year-old fish isn't bad at all. Indeed, it's not bad for a ball-carrier on anybody's ball club. He's not the punter Schlinkman is, but then, in this neck of the woods, who is?

Whitehead had a little tough luck just before the Texas A&M tussle. Coach Dell Morgan only took two fullbacks to San Antonio for the contest with the Farmers—Whitehead and Schlinkman. In the light workout Friday before the game, Whitehead sprained his ankle and couldn't perform against the Aggies. That left Morgan with only one fullback, Schlinkman, who luckily was rugged enough

In Amarillo tonight the Red Raiders meet the West Texas State college Buffaloes. Wearing their new red jerseys, which they hope will break their losing jinx, the Tech boys will be a guest of the Buffaloes in Butler stadium. The Raiders have been downed five times to date, but have never failed to score. They have set an average of two touchdowns per game.

The Raiders and Buffs clashed for the first time way back in 1925, the first year Tech produced a team. At that time the Matadors, as they were then called, were coached by E. Y. Freeland and Grally Higginbotham. Tech came off victor by the very narrow margin of 13 to 12.

In 1926 the two teams met in Lubbock for the second clash! Hurley Carpenter, husky tackle, was captain for the Raiders that year. The Tech team nosed out the Buffaloes by another narrow margin, 7 to 2. Tech lost only one game that season, it was to TCU to the tune of 28 to 16.

The Buffaloes turned the tables the next year, 1927. Tech lost by a score of 9-12. The Raiders retaliated in '28, tumbling the Buffs by 11 points with a score of 18 to 7. Grally Higginbotham served as head coach that year, up to that time being assistant to Freeland.

The Buffaloes held the lead two consecutive years in '29 and '30. In the first they set their all-time record by defeating the Raiders 20 to 0. Pete Cawthon turned out his first Tech team the next year. This team held the Canyon boys to a 6 to 0 victory.

In 1931 the rivals played the last game of a series that had lasted seven consecutive years. The Buffaloes tasted bitter defeat at the hand of the Raiders, 21 to 0.

Raiders played host to the Buffs eleven years later at the Tech stadium to go the whole 60-minute route.

Whitehead has got in some time in all of the other games the Raiders have played this season, however, and he probably will see a lot more action as the year goes by. With Schlinkman nursing a bruised side suffered in the Southwestern game, Whitehead may possibly start against West Texas State in Amarillo Saturday night.

Billy Joe hails from Mason, where he won letters in 1942 and 1943 in football and also garnered two numerals in basketball, so winter may find him cavorting about the basketball court also. He stands 5 feet 11 inches from the turf and hits the scales at 185 pounds. He was named to the fullback post on the all-district grid team from Mason in 1943.

Film Library Adds Rewinding Machine And New Programs

Film library has added several new programs recently, Mrs. Janet F. McDonald, film librarian announces. They are: "Brazilian Quartz Goes to War"; "Atacam Desert", which shows quartz being mined; "The Bridge"; "Wealth of the Andes"; "Housing in Chile"; "Young Uruguay" and "Jungle Patrol and Double Duty Dollar". The first part of the latter film deals with scenes depicting actual fighting in the jungles somewhere in the South Pacific. The second half of the film is designed to promote the Sixth War Loan drive. These programs are donated free of charge to any interested person desiring to screen them at club meetings, parties or socials, Mrs. McDonald said.

A new Dunmore film rewinding machine has been installed in the projection room and newer equipment will be added as it becomes available, Mrs. McDonald announces.

November 25 when they meet the SMU Broncs. Several of the Marine from the Southwestern team have been transferred to SMU and will be on the field for the Broncs when they invade Lubbock. Among the transfers are Blodzinski and McFarland, guards, and George, center. Blodzinski gave the Raiders a lot of opposition in the game here last week. He was one of the topnotchers for the Pirates.

J. R. Callahan, 1942 Red Raider star fullback that played for Texas university last year as a Naval trainee, holds the second place in the Southwest Conference Leading Scorers of 1943. Callahan scored eight touchdowns and picked up four points with conversions for a total of 52 points. Nosing him out for first place was Park, also of Texas university, who scored eight touchdowns and twelve points by conversion for a total of 60 points. Another ex-Raider making a name for himself abroad is Buster Melton, halfback of last season. Buster is playing as a reserve left half for the Tulane Greenwolves. So far this season he has several passes completed against Notre Dame and a score against Rice to his credit. Buster was a Freshman at Tech only last year.

WRA Tournaments Well Underway

Basketball, Volleyball Games Attract Attention

The Women's Recreational association volleyball tournament has been running two weeks and the basketball tournament has played one week. Volleyball is played every Tuesday from 5 to 6 o'clock and basketball every Friday from 5 to 6 o'clock.

In volleyball the Turtles have pulled into the lead with two straight wins over the Rough and Readies and the Wolverines.

Squads with one loss and one win are the Wolverines and the Slap Happy Sots. The former socked the latter for a loss in the first inning but took a loss from the Turtles. The Slap Happy Sots beat the Rough and Readies this week. The Peppies dropped a game to the Ready and Waiting group, but topped the Coyotes on the second round. Byes were drawn by the Coyotes last week and the Ready and Waiting squad this week.

Four teams began the basketball tournament, although seven signed up to play.

Short snorts are Bobbie Bookman, captain, Helen Robin, Salle Fite, Juanita Williams, Ruth Eldridge, Dolores Goodwin, Evelyn Kilpatrick and Betty Jones.

Roustabouts are Helen McDonald, captain, Natalie Hale, Betty Nance, Nita Beth Lutrick, Juanita Wright, Jean McFarland and Mary Lynn Travis.

Sportettes are, captain, Vendell Guthrie, Jane Knowles, Mildred Shook, Ruth Caldwell, Ruth Griffin, Oleta Elkins and Tunny Lewis.

Roughnecks are Polly Cook, captain, Mary Carpenter, Jo Ann second round. Dorrace Propst, Betty Stevens, Veda Pierce and Louise Biffle.

Sportettes upset the Roughnecks and the Short Snorts dropped a game to the Roustabouts.
