A Gift For Young And Old

By RUTH ORR

Pattern No. 423

These cozy Scotties are the most useful sort of slippers we've ever seen. You'll want them for every occasion you ever use slippers, and will be delighted to give them to friends, they're so nice. The stitches used are easy, and five sizes are described, fitting anyone from an infant to an adult.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, also what needles and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 423 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Inc., Needlework Department, P. O. Box 172, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Benefit 42 Party Is Slated Tonight At North Ward School

A benefit 42 party will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the North Ward school building under the sponsorship of the North Ward P.T.A.

Many prizes are being donated by local merchants for the affair, tickets for which are being sold for 25c by members of the organization. Parties wishing to reserve tables may do so by telephoning 559.

Mrs. Shelby Hall will be in charge of games for the children during the 42 session. Proceeds from the affair will go into a fund for furthering the Parent-Teacher work.

READING AND WRITING

By JOHN SELBY

"A REPORTER AT THE PAPAL COURT," by Thomas R. Morgan (Longmans; $3).

Thomas R. Morgan has, with peculiar success, reintroduced Pope Pius XI to the world. It is not, of course, that the world knew nothing of the Pope, or vice versa. The success of Mr. Morgan's "A Reporter at the Papal Court" lies in its objective faithfulness.

The author is not a Catholic. Since 1921 he has covered the Vatican when Benedict XV died, through the election of Cardinal Ratti as his successor, and through the very difficult years since that day. He knows intimately the intricate machinery of the Vatican. But being a first-rate reporter, he has assumed that his reader does not know these details, and that therefore these are material for a book.

Really there are two parts to the book. One concerns the life of a Pope, with its duties, ceremonies, penalties and so forth. The other concerns the life of a particular Pope—Pius XI. It is evident that Mr. Morgan, Catholic or no, has a respect for the reigning pontiff which almost reaches the bounds of love. Partly this is the result of his humanity. From Mr. Morgan's account, it would seem that few popes have reached their holy office less withdrawn from the ordinary concerns of life.

The book sketches Ratti's career from his boyhood in a room next to a silk mill, through seminary, through priesthood, his great service in the Austro-Slavian library, his keen intelligence in difficult war days, to the present. It also provides a multitude of incidents which are, most likely, more revealing than many historical facts.

Such an occurrence as the audience at which a group of Annapolis midshipmen were received in the Vatican, Pius XI was not shocked, but delighted. He asked for an encore, and since that day all midshipmen have given the Navy yell for the Pope as a matter of course. The story of the Pope's recent successful struggle to regain his health is likewise indicative, in fact, there is a wealth of such material, and little or none of it in padding of the sort writers often use.

made of felt circles and topped by a big felt bow. Louise Sanders designs it. A sparkling rhinestone button fastens the black rayon velvet dress.

Catholic Study Unit Has Session At Merrick Home

Mrs. M. M. Merrick has hosted to members of the St. Catherine unit of the Catholic church study club Monday evening when Father Joseph Dwan joined the group for the study of the first and second Acts of Apostles.

Each member present took part on the program and joined in the discussion following.

They were Mrs. K. Williams, Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Mrs. J. M. Morgan, Mrs. Edmund Berger, Mrs. W. D. Willbanks, Mrs. L. D. Jenkins, and Father Dwan.

Meeting next week will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the Berger home, 402 East Park.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Farmer of Temple are the guests of Mrs. Farmer's sister, Mrs. Ray Wilcox.

Delbert Rodgers of Lamesa is visiting friends here.

Mrs. Douglass Is Hostess To Baptist Group

Mrs. J. C. Douglass, superintendent of the intermediate department of the First Baptist church, entertained the officers and teachers of the group with a buffet supper in her suite at the Douglass hotel Monday evening.

During a business session the body planned the new study course on intermediate work and will use the text, "Working With Intermediates."

The supper was served from an attractively laid table on which Halloween decorations were predominate. The hostess was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Frances Douglass, and her guest, Miss Olive Jackson of Lincoln, Neb., and Misses Pearl Butler and Lois Carden.

Served were Mrs. C. W. Norman, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Mrs. C. E. Carter, Mrs. J. W. Alexander, Mrs. G. H. Hayward, Mrs. M. R. Gordon, Miss Mahle Robinson, Miss Lurline Paxton, Miss Charlene Estes, Miss Butler and Miss Carden.

Messrs. W. D. Cornelson, Wayne Matthews, W. C. Frye, G. F. Williams, and C. E. Lancaster.

Mrs. Paul Fuqua Is Honoree For Shower

Mrs. Paul Fuqua was honored for a gift shower Monday afternoon when members of the Wesley Memorial Methodist church and other friends gathered at the home of Mrs. W. W. Coleman for the complimentary affair.

The party rooms were decorated with large chollas which aided in carrying further the fall note throughout the appointments.

After the presentation of gifts numerous games were played. During the serving hour refreshment plates were passed to Mrs. W. R. Perry, Mrs. Zeb Womack, Mrs. W. G. Anderson, Mrs. Gordon Buchanan, Mrs. J. K. Whitaker, Mrs. Clyde Pearce, Mrs. Herbert Drake, Mrs. Bob Wren, Mrs. Elvia McCrary, Mrs. W. W. Coleman, Mrs. J. I. Law, Mrs. W. D. Lovelace, Mrs. Cecil Nabors, Mrs. J. D. Stebbins, Mrs. J. B. King, Mrs. Gully, Mrs. W. Witt, Mrs. J. W. Wood, Mrs. Homer Ward, and the honoree.

When the first census of the United States was taken in 1790, the population was 3,929,214.

The couple is at home on State street.

The bride is the daughter of T. C. Johnson of Texarkana, Arkansas, and received her education in the Texarkana high school from which she graduated in 1935.

Coots is the son of W. H. Coots of this city and was a member of the Big Spring High School Steer football team from 1931 to 1933. He was graduated with the class of '35. He is now employed with the Texas Electric Service company.

The couple is at home on State street.

Club To Send Delegate To Convention

Members present in addition to Forum, meeting in the Settles hotel Monday evening, made plans to send a delegate to the state federation convention and changed the future meeting day to Friday during the business discussion that followed the study hour.

The delegate will be named at a future meeting to attend the convention that is to be held on November 8 in the State Federation building in Austin.

Books reviews were given by Mrs. Ladonia Patrick, Mrs. Cecil Collings, and Miss Nellie Puckett. Members present in addition to those on the program were Misses Mildred Creath, Marjorie Taylor, Edith Gay, Roberta Gay, Mary Burns, and Mrs. W. J. McAdams, Mrs. Ira Driver, Mrs. Thomas J. Coffee, Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Mrs. R. A. Eubank, Mrs. W. T. Strange, and Mrs. I. S. McIntosh.

Presbyterian Women Announce Plans For Packing Gift Boxes

Plans for early Christmas work and other matters of business were discussed by the women of the First Presbyterian Auxiliary Monday afternoon when the monthly business session was held at the church with Mrs. Emory Duff, president, in charge.

Members interested in contributing to the Calley Creek Christmas box are asked to bring their articles to the circle meeting on November 8 where they will be received and packed to be sent. Women are also reminded that the orphans' box will be packed on Observational Day, November 15, at the church.

Mrs. T. S. Currie, secretary of education, has asked those who have toys for donation that are suitable for the nursery to bring them as soon as possible to the church.

W. G. Barnett gave the devotional that was followed by interesting reports of the various secretaries. Mrs. Currie gave a report of the district meeting held recently in Midland.

Registered were Mrs. Currie, Mrs. Duff, Mrs. Raymond Dunagan, Mrs. H. W. Taylor, Mrs. Barnett, Mrs. H. H. Moser, Mrs. N. J. Allison, Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Jr., Mrs. James Kamb, Mrs. G. D. Lee, Mrs. L. McConnell, and Mrs. J. E. Pritchett.

Mrs. Holmes Is Complimented With Shower

As a complimentary gesture to Mrs. James Holmes, who before her marriage Saturday evening was Miss Ruth Banks, Mrs. Emma Hurley, assisted by Miss Frances Hurley and Mrs. Pete Banks, entertained with a bridal shower at her home Monday evening.

The black and orange theme of the Halloween season was colorfully used in room trimmings and the refreshment plates. Games suggesting the season were also played.

Pie and coffee was served to Mrs. Viola Howie, Mrs. R. M. Alvis, Mrs. Jack Banks, Mrs. Dee Carter, Mrs. L. Q. Low, Mrs. A. W. Page, Mrs. W. R. Banks, Mrs. Wayne Seaborn, Mrs. R. C. Linnroth, Misses Naomi Alvis, Margaret Jackson, Mildred Low, Essie Halbrook, Addie Lee Cotton, Paula Davis, Marie Linnroth and Abbie L. Hurley.

ments that the A. F. of L. now has but would have far greater authority and independence. The other departments were organized by the building trades, metal trades, and railway trades to promote their common interests.

The proposal called for establishment of an "autonomous" department within the A. F. of L. to include industrial unions. Workers in these industries would be organized only on an industrial basis, as opposed to the traditional craft union organization policy of the A. F. of L.

The proposal also called for a national convention of all A. F. of L. and C.I.O. unions to ratify the agreement and to work out "necessary rules and regulations to effectuate" it.

All the national and local unions now affiliated with the C.I.O. would be affiliated with the new A. F. of L. department, under the plan.

These unions would adopt their own departmental constitutions and elect their own officers.

The department, to be known as the C.I.O., would have complete authority in handling the organization of workers in the industries named.

Spur Grading Will Start Wednesday

Will Be First Construction On Hospital Project

Grading for a railroad spur, the first actual construction work toward the raising of an $817,000 state institution here, will be started Wednesday morning.

County Judge Charles Sullivan said that at least two of the county's tractors and two blades were being brought here Tuesday afternoon for use on the project. Plans are to bring in an additional pair of tractors and blades in a few more days as work is organized.

As soon as the amount of grading and cutting to be done is ascertained, the county may arrange for additional equipment. It was indicated by one of the commissioners. The county is ready to push the work to conclusion as rapidly as possible.

C. F. Duval, T. & P. engineer, will supervise the grade work. He staked location for the spur which will run from the west end of the T. & P. yards northward to the hospital site location a mile north of town.

Efforts are being made to complete the spur in time for use when construction of the hospital buildings is begun since there will be much heavy material to be transported to the site.

COMMISSION MAY SAY SOMETHING ABOUT MARKET

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities commission said today the commission may have something to say "before long" on the stock market situation.

He made that statement, answering a newsmen's question, soon after a call on President Roosevelt at the chief executive's family estate here.

Douglas said, however, he did not discuss with the president the matter of the commission issuing such a statement.

Joseph H. Kennedy, former securities chairman and now maritime commission chairman, was another caller at the temporary White House.

Both Douglas and Kennedy said they had discussed general business conditions with Mr. Roosevelt and Douglas added he talked with the president about the stock market situation "in a very general way."

HAWAIIAN PRINCE

HONOLULU, Oct. 26 (AP)—Husky Prince David Kalakaua Kawapanao, 33-year-old member of the Hawaiian royal family, was charged today with second degree murder in connection with the death of his pretty 22-year-old half-caste companion during an all night party.

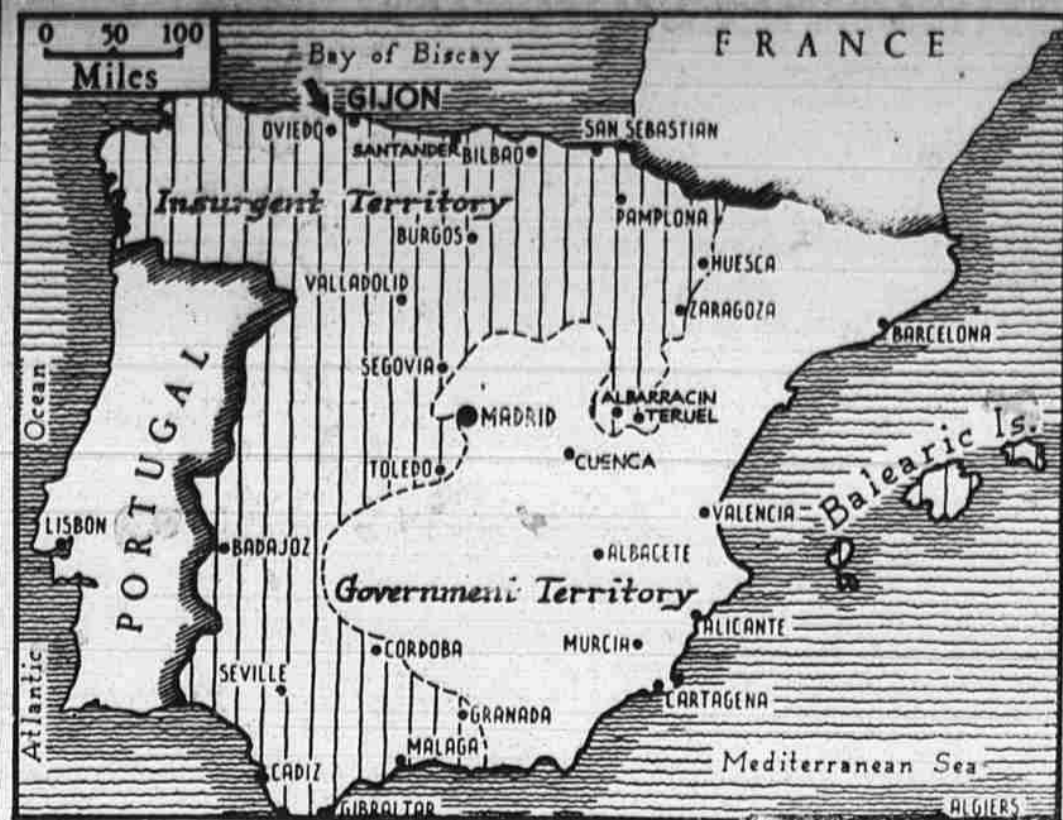

It was the second slaying charge in five years lodged against the 310-pound, six-foot-two descendant of Hawaii's monarchs.

The news charge accuses him of severing an artery in Arvilla Kinslea's neck with a broken plate during a fight with dishes snatched from the shelves of their cottage where they were giving an all-night party last week-end.

Land Vacancy Activities Debated

House Kills Resolution Answering Senate Criticism

AUSTIN, Oct. 26 (AP)—The house today overwhelmingly killed a resolution designed to answer senate floor criticism of Land Commissioner William H. McDonald and Attorney General William McCraw in connection with their land vacancy policies.

Debate bristling with personalities preceded the vote. Rep. Abe Mays of Atlanta accused Rep. George Davison of Eastland, author of the resolution, of wanting "to commend McDonald for being a landgrabber."

Davison asked for the death of his own resolution after the house voted, 85 to 24, for an amendment declaring the body in favor of a law fixing venue in vacancy suits in the county in which the land is situated. The vote on the resolution was 121 to 2.

Davison pleaded that he merely wanted to commend McCraw and McDonald for following the law in vacancy suits.

"If the law is wrong, we should change it," he said, "not criticize officials for doing their duty."

He claimed that whereas Senator Gordon M. Burns of Huntsville had argued land vacancy suits should be prosecuted in the counties in which the landowners resided, the Huntsville senator had urged action in this county of another kind of suit in which the state was interested.

Rep. B. E. Quinn of Beaumont claimed Davison had opened up a law office here and wanted to establish himself as a representative of the land grabbers." He said he understood the Eastland representative had relatives in the land commissioner's office.

SECOND RANSOM BILL

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Chicago Evening American said today a second ransom bill had been found.

It said a $10 bill—identified as part of the $50,000 in currency paid to the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross in a vain attempt to obtain his release—was reported by Frank H. Stremmel, an employe of the Association of American Railroads.

LUMBERMAN DIES

JASPER, Oct. 26 (AP)—Walter Aaron Latham, 35, prominent lumberman, died here today. Latham, who started his lumbering career at the age of 16 in Louisiana, was a civic leader of this section. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

DUKE OF TALLYRAND TAKEN BY DEATH

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP)—The death of the Duke of Tallyrand in his Paris home on Monday was announced today.

The duke, 78, was married to Anna Gould, daughter of the late Jay Gould, after her divorce from Count Boni De Castellane.

Servants said they found the head of the famous family dead in his bed on Monday morning. Physicians said death was caused by a heart attack.

Record Throng Expected At Final Session Of Cooking School

Grand Prizes Will Be Awarded At Close Of Wednesday Lecture

828 Women, Largest Number Ever To Assemble For Such An Event In City, Greet Miss Hogue

The Herald's free cooking school went into its second season at the city auditorium Tuesday afternoon, with even larger crowds appearing to hear Miss Jessie Hogue in another lecture on food planning and kitchen economy.

The school builds toward its big climax Wednesday, when, at the concluding session, a number of grand prizes, including a $137.50 Magic Chef gas range, will be given away.

Registered attendance at the opening session of the school Monday was 828—by far the largest crowd ever to assemble for cooking school demonstrations in Big Spring. So pleased with Miss Hogue's instruction were the housewives of Big Spring and the surrounding area that they were back Tuesday with their friends and neighbors, and today's crowd appeared to be even larger. Attendance at the final day is expected to set another record, and a capacity crowd at the auditorium is anticipated.

Miss Hogue's lively, entertaining and instructive talk of Monday brought a highly favorable response. This was indicated by the great throng of women who packed the stage of the auditorium after the lecture, going up to confer with the kitchen economist on individual problems of kitchen work, and to get first hand information on various items of food preparation and hints for making household tasks a bit easier.

Favorable Comment They remained for an hour or so after the conclusion of the formal program.

Comment at the end of the program was, practically without exception, very complimentary. Miss

Fourth Death Is Brought Out In Mrs. Hahn's Trial

CINCINNATI, Oct. 26 (AP)—The state today turned to a fourth death among elderly German acquaintances of Anna Marie Hahn, charged with fatally poisoning Jacob Wagner, 78-year-old gardener. Testimony already submitted in the deaths of Wagner, George Obendorfer, 67, and Albert Palmer, 72, Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt summoned to the stand German-American friends of George Gsellman, 67, who was found dead in bed July 6.

With completion of the Gsellman case, the prosecutor was expected to rest in his portrayals of death, and turn briefly to George Heis, whom he has termed "Mrs. Hahn's only living victim," and quoted him as saying he was crippled by poison after drinking beer with Mrs. Hahn.

Mrs. Hahn, her face drawn from days of testimony describing the illness and death of Wagner, Obendorfer and Palmer, appeared unmoved as the fourth fatality was introduced at a night session of her trial.

Gsellman's body was exhumed August 12 and Outcalt said a post mortem disclosed poison.

He recommended that women clip these recipes for future use.

Much interest was shown in the awarding of merchandise prizes at the close of the lectures. Twenty-eight gifts were distributed to as many women. As many more were to be awarded today, and there will be even more on Wednesday, when the grand prizes are awarded in addition to the daily list of gifts.

Urged To Register All women attending were reminded again to register each time they go to the auditorium.

Miss Hogue appeared on an attractively arranged stage. Products she recommends and uses, and the latest in kitchen equipment, including gas ranges, electric refrigerators, model kitchen units, etc., provided an attractive background for the culinary demonstrations.

Wednesday's program, as did those of the first two days, starts promptly at 2 o'clock. Women are urged to be prompt.

A $3,000 TRAIN RIDE

Just before she embarked from Louisville, Ky., on a special train for New York, Dolly Goering, Tommy Manville's shapely blonde secretary, checked over the engineer's instruments to make sure all was in order for a hasty trip back to Bon Repos, Manville's home in New York. The train was hired, Tommy said, at a cost of $3,000.

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—With the new street lighting system synchronized, it is possible for motorists traveling at approximately 15 miles per hour to pass entirely through Salem without stopping.

Recipes Prepared By Miss Jessie Hogue

VEAL LOAF
3 lbs ground veal.
2 tpsns salt.
1-8 tspn red pepper.
1 cup soft bread crumbs.
1 tspn dry mustard.
2 eggs.
4 bananas.
Mix meat, eggs, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, mustard, moistened with a little water. Place bananas in center of meat loaf. Bake 350 degrees 1-2 hours.

KC Blackberry Roly Poly
1 qt blackberries.
1-2 cup water.
1-2 cups sugar.
3 cups Gold Chain flour.
3 tpsns KC baking powder.
1-2 cup Crustene shortening.
Beaten yolk of 1 egg.
Milk or water as needed.
1 egg white—beaten.
Granulated sugar.
1-2 tspn salt.
Cook berries with water, then press through sieve to exclude seeds. To pulp add sugar and let simmer until well reduced. Keep a part hot for a sauce and cool the rest. Sift together, 3 times, flour, baking powder and salt. Work in shortening, then mix to a dough with milk or water, added to beat a yolk of egg. Knead slightly and roll into a sheet (14 inch thick, cut into 8 or 10 pieces—longer than wide, spread these with cold blackberry mixture and roll over and over. Brush top of each with white of egg, slightly beaten and dredge thickly with sugar. Bake about 1-2 hour. Serve hot with blackberry sauce.

Vanilla Opera Fudge
2 cups sugar.
1 cup heavy cream.
1-8 tspn cream of tartar.
1-2 tspn vanilla.
Put sugar and cream in pan, stir until boils, add cream of tartar and boil (stirring occasionally to prevent burning) to 234 degrees or until mixture forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Pour out and work like sour cream fudge. When creamy, cover with damp cloth 1-2 hour. Work in vanilla with hands and press into small box lined with wax paper. Cut in squares when hard. For variety, color and flavor

Macaroni en Quille
Boil in salted water, 2 cups macaroni.
Prepare a sauce by using 1-4 cup Gold Chain flour 2-3 cups milk add 1-2 cup American cheese (diced) Cook until sauce is smooth and cheese well blended. Then, add hard cooked eggs, 1-2 green pepper (if has been chopped, 1 tspn salt, 1-8 tspn red pepper. Fill baking shells with mixture and cover top with buttered crumbs, mixed with equal parts of grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven until tops are delicately browned.

Admiration Cake
3 cups Gold Chain flour 3 tpsns KC Baking Powder 1-4 tspn salt 2-3 cup Crustene shortening 1-2 cup sugar 1 egg yolk (well beaten) 1 cup milk 3 egg whites (beaten stiff) Cream shortening, add sugar gradually until very light and add egg yolks, milk and flour. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Fill 9 inch pan then to remaining mix- ture, add 1-2 tpsns cinnamon, 1-4 tspn cloves, 1-2 tspn mace, 1-2 tspn nutmeg, 2 tpsns black Admiration Coffee. Bake 2 dark layers with white layer in middle.

Pollo (Chicken) Valenciana
2 cups cooking oil or 1-2 cup Crustene shortening (hot) 1 cup onions (cut very fine) 1 cup green peppers (cut fine) 1 cup carrots (cut fine) 2 cups peas 2 cups rice Chicken cut for frying Heat shortening and put 1 chicken. Keep turning until lightly browned. Remove chicken and add chopped vegetables to which has been added several cloves of garlic finely minced, parsley, laurel and salt to taste, and 1 small can of tomatoes, 1 can of Spanish sweet peppers cut fine (reserve one red sweet pepper which you will cut to resemble a poinsettia) put on top of casserole when sending to table, as this is made in a earthenware casserole and is served in the same at the table.)

When vegetables are partly cooked, put in chicken and cook so the meat absorbs flavor of vegetables. In Spain, the cook puts the rice in with the chicken, vegetables, etc., but I prefer my rice cooked apart and mixed about 10 minutes before chicken is done as it is apt to stick to bottom of the casserole and this requires constant stirring so it will not stick. Just before putting in the rice, take a small amount of AZAFRAN (Spanish saffron which can be bought at the drug store) and soak it in half cup of warm water and put this in the casserole, as it gives the rice color and a certain flavor that this dish must have to be the REAL thing. You have to add water (hot) from time to time as you find it is being consumed by the chicken.

Slow cooking and careful attention makes this delicious but do not let it burn or stick. I add my rice, 33 I said above, just about 15 or 15 minutes before it is ready to serve, and thoroughly mix it with the whole casserole so it takes on the flavoring and color of the saffron. I use a large earthenware casserole and when sending this to the table place the prettiest pepper I saved on top of it all like a flower and several sprays of green parsley.

One-Dish Meal for Surface Dinner
Spanish Rice 1-3 cup butter or Crustene shortening 2 tpsns salt 1 bulb garlic (crush) 1 cup sliced onions 1 cup diced celery 1-2 cup sliced peppers 3-4 cup tomatoes 2 tpsns Worcestershire sauce 1 lb. ground meat (veal or beef) 1 cup rice Utensil with cover Wash rice thoroughly and allow rice to stand while preparing other ingredients. Melt shortening with switch on high, brown onions and garlic. Add ground meat and brown. When meat has browned add peppers, celery, tomatoes and seasoning. Carefully sprinkle rice over top. Cover. Cook until steaming (8 to 10 min.) Turn gas low and let simmer.

Deputies Are Released

Court Decides No Special Men Needed On Blanton Case

RAYMONDVILLE, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Wilacy county commissioners' court today had voted to accept resignations of three deputy constables after one of the commissioners said the court "wanted no special investigators working for it now" in the Blanton disappearance case.

One was Luis Lamadrid, an investigator in the disappearance of Luther and John Blanton, "Rio Grande farmers." The others were Walter Hale and M. K. Simmons. Commissioner Tom King, declaring the court "does not want any special investigators working for it now," said "we have all of the confidence in the world in Texas Ranger Ernest Best, and don't want anyone to interfere with him."

The commissioners' court met immediately after adjournment at San Perilla of the secret court of inquiry into the Blanton disappearance.

Ranger Best had dismissed Lamadrid, T. C. Anderson of Hartlingen and Don King of Lyford, whom he had said would testify, after Justice of the Peace Thomas Heath advised of the session opened: "No one having any information" will be expected to reveal it if it will interfere with his investigations in any way.

County Judge W. E. McCharen said he had advised Justice of the Peace Heath to recess the court of inquiry because, "it could hinder the solution of the case as much as aid it."

Wheat Export Total Small

But Experts Still Think U.S. To Sell 95 Million Bushels

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Federal farm economists are sticking by their forecast that the world will buy 95,000,000 bushels of wheat from the United States this year, although they said today that purchases during the first three and a half months of the season have been small.

With an estimated crop of 886,895,000 bushels, the United States is eager to sell wheat to the world after several seasons of importing.

The bureau of agricultural economics said 17,000,000 bushels of American wheat were exported from July 1 to the middle of this month, considerably less than had been expected.

They attributed the failure of the world to buy more to an "extreme shortage in shipping space which has resulted in the highest ocean freight rates in recent years," and offerings of cheaper wheat from other countries, especially Soviet Russia.

Recent price trends of wheat in this country and abroad should increase United States exports, even with the high freight rates, the economists said.

They reported wheat prices in the United States remained at about the same level from August to October, while prices rose at Liverpool, important world center. As a result, Kansas City wheat prices were 31 cents a bushel under Liverpool, for the widest spread this season.

PARLEY DELAYED BY BELGIAN CRISIS

BRUSSELS, Oct. 26 (AP)—The foreign office announced today the Brussels nine-power conference set for Oct. 30 to seek an end to the Chinese-Japanese conflict had been postponed until Nov. 3—because of the crisis created by resignation of the government of Premier Paul Van Zeeland.

Van Zeeland quit yesterday to defend himself, as a private citizen, against charges concerning administration of the Belgian National bank of which he once was vice governor.

King Leopold began consultations today to form a new cabinet.

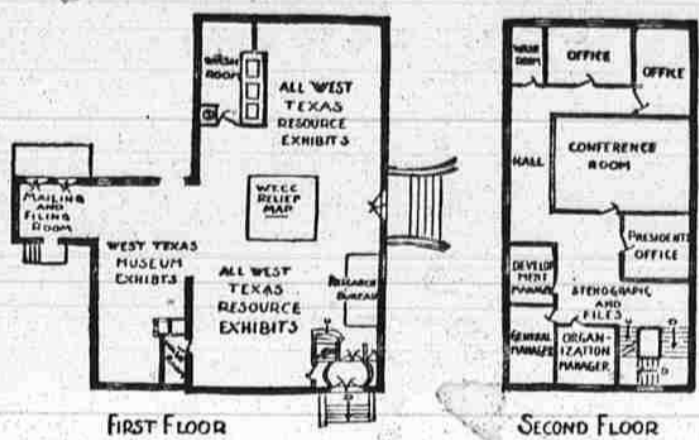

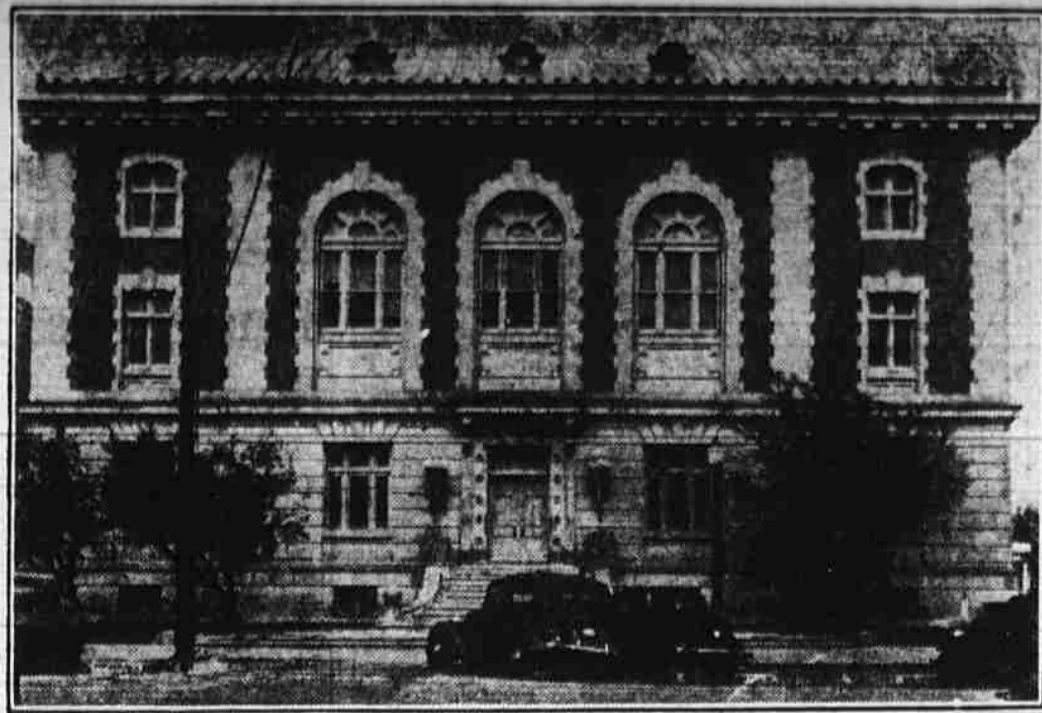

MIDLAND MAN DIES

ABILENE, Oct. 26 (AP)—Sam Parsons, 40, manager of truck and tractor company at Midland, died in a hospital here early today. He had been ill three months.

The body will be sent Wednesday to Spartanburg, S. C., his native city, for burial.

WILL THIS BE WTCC'S NEW HOME OFFICE?

What had been slated as the new home of the West Texas chamber of commerce is this building above, the former federal building at Abilene. Proposal to move WTCC headquarters from Stamford, has evoked controversy, however, and the move has been held up by a court order. If the move is made, this building will house the WTCC staff and all the organization's exhibits. The first floor will accommodate the All West Texas Natural Resource exhibit, West Texas Museum, Research department, mailing and files. The second floor will house the general manager and staff, with conference rooms, president's room and other offices.

He Knows How To Handle Bees And Is Willing To Demonstrate.

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—A mild appearing man named E. R. Root buzzed through the international beekeeping conference today looking for a bald-headed man and a flock of fighting bees.

"I want to prove," he said, "that I can pour the bees in a hat and slant the hat on the man's head with no discomfort to bees or the bald one."

This little trick, he hastened to add, is only one of his apian acrobatics. The rest is:

Act two—whipping off the hat which will leave the bees supported solely and serenely by baldness.

Act three—combing a part on either side or in the middle of this live bee toupee.

"I call it," he added, "the bee in the bonnet."

Root's trick is on the program as a highlight of the three-day meeting.

To preclude the possibility of the bee-man getting trained bees Root called on the government.

"I want mean, cross bees," he explained.

"You'll get them," said J. I. Hamilton of the agriculture department. "We've got some that wouldn't stop at trying to sting a battleship."

Root said that as an epilogue to his exhibition he will cover his cheeks—or somebody else's—with bees, and then shave them off.

He wants to show that bees when handled properly are no more harmful to man than are butterflies.

Root comes from Medina, Ohio which, as an observer remarked, "if his tricks don't work, isn't far enough."

Refrigeration Process Used To Fight Cancer

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (AP)—A new attack on cancer by use of refrigeration, on the principle that the wild growth of this disease may be curbed the same as the growth of plants and some animals is stunted by cold, was announced to the American College of Surgeons here today.

The experiments were all done on human beings. Among them one case of "hibernation" of a cancer was produced. Under refrigeration this particular cancer has disappeared although the patient had been pronounced "hopeless."

The refrigeration technique was announced as "a new point of view" by Temple Fay, M. D., professor and head of the department of neurology and neuro-surgery, and George C. Henny, M. D., director of the department of physics, Temple university school of medicine, at Philadelphia.

The type of cancer refrigerated is metastasizing carcinoma. It is the kind which spreads from one part of the body to another. It is one of the most dangerous.

The clue to the refrigeration idea came from noting that this kind of cancer was mostly confined to the warmer "segments" of the human body. The breast, for example, is warmer than the lower legs and also has more of this cancer.

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

At the present time the writer would rate the 12 strongest teams in the state thusly:

1. Longview.
2. Stephenville.
3. Breckenridge.
4. Port Arthur.
5. Highland Park.
6. Waco.
7. Abilene.
8. Pampa.
9. Lufkin.
10. Conroe.
11. Amarillo.
12. Corpus Christi.

Three of those teams have suffered one or more defeats in the race this year and Breckenridge has been beaten three times but, if Stephenville belongs up there the Buckies certainly deserve a place in the first dozen teams. They really have the best all-around team in the Oil Belt.

Port Arthur soundly spanked Amarillo and may be stronger at the present than Longview which defeated them, 12-6, but that victory alone warrants Longview's place at the top.

Stephenville has had three tough games thus far this season and came through with flying colors in all of them. Breckenridge deserved to beat the Jackets and have played close games with Paschal (Fort Worth) and Sweetwater.

Port Arthur, Highland Park and Waco look about even-Stephen with the Dean-smen given the edge because of their overwhelming victory over Amarillo. Highland Park's sting has been dulled somewhat during the past two weeks because of drab performances while Waco rolled over Paschal decisively.

Abilene gets no better than seventh place despite the fact that Dewey Mayhew's men are undefeated while Pampa trails due to their good showing against Port Arthur.

Lufkin is having a great season in East Texas and only last week beat out Palestine decisively while Conroe must be rated due to their record of not having been beaten, tied or scored upon. That kind of record demands respect no matter which teams the South Texans play.

Corpus is still figuring on the coast and, although El Paso or one of the Fort Worth teams might be as strong, they have not suffered a licking yet.

Following the exploits of Hardin-Simmons' landing candidate for all-American honors, Ed Cherry (who would probably make the little all-American team) is M. Weaver, who happens to be assistant county agent here. Weaver hasn't seen Ed perform in a long, long while but says from the press report that he guesses Ed is pretty good.

What is this play of Pittsburgh, university to revise their athletic policy and bring football down to a proper plane? Is that getting to be a habit with the major schools? Notre Dame only recently announced that hereafter football would not be greatly stressed at the South Bend university.

Athletic Director James Hagen announced that the Panthers in the future would play only nine games per year and each with a major opponent.

You can bet even that Jack Sutherland will still be looking for that Bill Daddio or Biggie Goldberg and don't think that the Panthers won't accept an invitation to the Rose Bowl.

Cleaning the cuff: Whatever happened to Benny Bass, the game little battler who used to fight in the front lines of the lightweight ranks? Following Agua Caliente's $100,000 race in 1931, the prize money was cut in half during the next year. Phar Lap, the great Australian stream-lined product, copped that one before his untimely death. If one man ever did make a football team, this Clint Frank really is the guy. In the two school's regatta races, Yale has won almost twice as many as has Harvard.

Reservations Being Made

All fans who intend to ride the special bus to Stephenville Saturday for the game between the Stephenville Yellow Jackets and the Big Spring Steers which takes place at 3 p. m. Saturday night are asked to contact Clarence Barnes, KBST radio announcer, at the local radio station. Barnes is handling reservations and must be assured of 20 passengers before he can charter a bus. Fare, which had not been learned here this morning, will be less than the average one way ticket for such a distance. KBST's telephone number is 1489.

PROFITS LOWER

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Lone Star Gas Corp., serving communities in Texas, Oklahoma, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Iowa, for the September quarter reported to net profit of $4,548,854 before the federal undistributed profits tax, equal to 82 cents a common share, against $4,361,603 or $1.79 a share in the like 1936 period.

GOAL LINE DEFENSE AMBUSH BALL HANDLING OCCUPIES STEERS' TIME

Murphy Seeks Way To Stop Moser Kicks

Longhorns Due For Heavier Work In Few Days

To combat the advantage the Stephenville Yellow Jackets are sure to have in the kicking department when the conference leaders and the Big Spring Steers meet next Saturday evening, Coach Pat Murphy put two safety men back on defense in the team's defensive drill Monday afternoon with instructions to attempt to handle all kicks in the air if possible.

Murphy's scheme of using two safety men is intended to work with DeRosa Moser, ace Jacket kicker, against booting the ball to the opposite sides of the field and out of bounds.

It is believed by Murphy that the advantage the loop pacers have gained thus far in the district race has been brought about by the tremendous kicks Moser has been able to get off. Moser boots a high wobbly ball and seemingly gets more altitude than it does distance but once it hits the ground it usually bounces some 30 yards down the field and is very hard to catch.

Both Charles Ray Settles, regular safety, and Raymond Leo Williams were placed back in position to receive some of Lefty Bethell's high boots and ran them to a good advantage.

The Longhorns did not scrimmage but took another long drill in perfection of plays, running a large part of them from pass formation.

The first team was tutored in penetrating inside the 10-yard line. The team will go back to work this afternoon with promise of heavier work later on.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIEZE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Don't look now, but southern and a midwestern college are flirting with Doug Dashiell, hustling young head coach of the U. of Nevada. Each offers a three-year contract. ...Yep, Doug is a-listening. ...Sports scribes in the deep south are beating loud tom-toms to land Frank (Bruiser) Kinnard, U. of Mississippi tackle; Walter Mayberry, Florida halfback; and Quinton Lumpkin, Georgia center, on the AP all-America. ...Rival coaches are lending a hand too, so the kids must be pretty near tops. ...This week's feed box special is Yale over Dartmouth. ...Take it or leave it.

Good luck and plenty of it to old Casey Stengel up there in Brooklyn. If you ask us, Prexy Bob Quinn made another of his shrewd moves. Baby Stripling, who once showed promise as a fighter, now is a high pressure and salesman at Hattiesburg, Miss. ...Pa is president of the firm and Ma is vice-pres. ...Business is booming. ...Henry Armstrong is a 2 to 3 favorite to hit Peay Sarron's featherweight crown Friday night when Mike Jacobs bows into the Garden. ...Al Johnson, the mammy singer (who only owns him), never has taken a cent of Armstrong's ring earnings.

Ralph Gold, the fight midget, is taking bows for going to England and snagging Ginger Foran, called the best featherweight in the empire. ...New York's Christmas, busy day. ...After talking the Aggies 12-0 here last year, the Raiders didn't win another of its remaining four games. It was a hard game, leaving players of both sides somewhat battered and bruised.

Azusa Tech expects a hard, tough game, and Coach Pete Caverton wishes it was the last one on the schedule. After it come Loyola at New Orleans, Duquesne here, Centenary at Shreveport and Creighton here.

Into the history of football come back to Texas Tech's experience after its desultory showing Oct. 9 against University of Detroit. Disappointed by two previous setbacks, although they outplayed the opposition in both instances, the Raiders went to Detroit with that tired feeling, and never got over it during the game.

Back To Lubbock: Back home, however, they got the old time football religion. They went to town against University of Arizona, considered one of the toughest teams on the schedule. A 20 to 0 victory was a surprise and a tonic. The boys kept up the stride to smear University of New Mexico last Saturday night, 27 to 0, to round out an undefeated conference season. If dope runs true and Arizona beats the so far undefeated New Mexico Aggies Saturday, the title comes to Texas Tech for the first time since 1934.

If there is such a person as an all-American prospect on the Tech team this year, he's Captain Herschel "Red" Ramsey, without a doubt the outstanding line performer in every game Tech has played, including the Detroit debacle when he and Elmer Tarbox, halfback, were Tech's only saving graces. Playing left end always, he was the best lineman on the field when Tech played Texas, by popular Texas box vote, and he has grown in importance and ability in each succeeding game, easily getting the call in the last two games when he took more than a personal hand in leading the club to victory.

Bears Accorded Spot In College Ratings

Wacoans Move To Position Behind Eli

California Bears Outrank Pitt For First Place

By ALAN GOULD
NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—California's Golden Bears, by a landslide vote of endorsement among the country's newspaper experts, remain the nation's No. 1 college football team for the second successive week.

Following their smashing victory over Southern California, the Bears were accorded top place in 48 of the 57 "first ten" selections contributed to this week's Associated Press national ranking roundup and tabulated today. Last week only 24 rated California at the head of the class, but the feeling now is pronounced that the Bears are moving rapidly toward Pacific coast honors, including the Rose Bowl nomination.

This week's poll was marked by a big shake-up in the lower brackets, but the "top five" remained the same, except for Pittsburgh's displacement of Alabama in the No. 2 spot. Here's the tabulation, scoring each list on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis, and with first place votes indicated in brackets:

Rank	Team	Score	First Place Votes
1.	California (48)	556	556
2.	Pittsburgh (3)	408	337
3.	Alabama	337	321
4.	Minnesota (2)	321	278
5.	Yale (2)	278	226
6.	Baylor (1)	226	167
7.	Vanderbilt (1)	167	146
8.	Ohio State	146	139
9.	Dartmouth	139	122
10.	Fordham	122	120

Second ten: 11. Nebraska, 121; 12. Auburn, 85; 13. Duke, 84; 14. Santa Clara, 33; 15. North Carolina, 19; 16. Villanova, 13; 17. Louisiana State, 12; 18. Holy Cross and DePaul, tied at 9 each; 20. Arkansas, 8. (Colorado and Army received three votes each, Texas Christian and Northwestern two votes each.) Four newcomers in the "top ten" are Baylor, Vanderbilt, Ohio State and Dartmouth, all of whom registered decisive sectional triumph Saturday. Vanderbilt, conqueror of previously unscathed Louisiana State, made the biggest jump, from a tie for 20th to seventh place. Baylor, sensation of the Southwestern conference, leaped from 15th to sixth, Dartmouth from 18th to ninth. Ohio State was rated 12th on the national list last week.

Raiders Play Oklahoma A&M

LUBBOCK, Oct. 26 (SP)—All in peace and amity at the Texas Tech football camp this week the spirit of "we ain't mad at nobody" prevailing after two consecutive victories over Border conference rivals that brought the tie, or at least a tie for it, to the Red Raider camp. There'll be no off days from practice this week, however. The Red Raiders bump into a club Saturday that has been exceedingly troublesome for the past two seasons—the Oklahoma Aggies. Tech plays Coach Ted Cox's team at 3:30 p. m. and it'll be anything but a water and feed. After talking the Aggies 12-0 here last year, the Raiders didn't win another of its remaining four games. It was a hard game, leaving players of both sides somewhat battered and bruised.

LOOK WHO'S HERE

Remember this 'ole' boy back on Thanksgiving Day, 1935. He stepped out that day to play the greatest game of his career against the Sweetwater Mustangs, leading the Big Spring Steers to a 44-0 victory over Ed Henning's crew. He picked himself a flock of other laurels besides. Well, now he's wearing different colors and playing for a different school but he's still the same 'kid. It's Olle Cordill, one of the greatest athletes in the history of the Big Spring high school, now at Rice Institute, Houston, who last week started against the Texas Longhorns and who Saturday is expected to give the Auburn Finnsmen plenty of trouble with a triple threat attack.

GATES CASHES IN, COSMOPOLITAN, RAMS COLLIDE

By the Associated Press
HANOVER, N. H. — Toughest way for a big league ball player to break in is as a pinch hitter with the bases full. Dartmouth's Harry Gates, a quarterback, broke in under the same sort of conditions in football. Inserted into the Brown game, Gates found the ball on the Dartmouth five-yard line with instructions to get the Big Green out of trouble. He did. He ran 15 yards from punt formation and the Indian fans' breathes easier.

DETROIT, Mich.—Eight nationalities are represented in the regular lineup of the Detroit team. One end is Norwegian, the other Hungarian. The tackles are Polish and German; a Syrian, an Englishman, a Frenchman and two Italians complete the league of nations.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—The Fordham team may seem an unusual mascot to fans but at least three other institutions have one trailing along behind the cheer leaders in parades North Carolina's Cameron IV will be on hand to welcome Fordham's Ramones VII, if the latter can be coaxed into a baggage car, when Fordham plays here. Texas Wesleyan and Rhode Island State also have the ram as their battle symbol.

SCORES TWICE
His first period dash through the entire Cornell team, after scattering a punt on Cornell's 45-yard line, upset the men from Ithaca. They never recovered. In the third period, after Syracuse had smashed through Cornell on a 45-yard drive, Glickman hurdled the line for the final yard and a score.

REAPPOINTED
WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 26 (AP)—Honus Wagner, high commissioner of semi-professional baseball, approved the reappointment of A. H. Kirtkey, Waco, as Texas state commissioner of 1938. It was announced here today by Raymond Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball congress.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle J. Currie of Ballinger have been the guests of her mother, Mrs. W. L. McClure.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gay, Mrs. Otto Farris and daughter, have been visiting with relatives here, including their daughter and sister, Edith Gay, a brother, R. E. Gay, and a son, W. S. Gay of Coahoma.

MORAN AND LUDWIG IN MAIN GO

Ordinarily there wouldn't be a mite of love lost if any or all opponents were to gently play handball with one Sailor Moran around and round the walls of the Big Spring Athletic club or toss him in the tub at the Big Spring Athletic club but tonight there's a special occasion for the hog caller's scalp will be riding with him to win. Why? His opponent certainly isn't feted as the Public Idol No. 1 or it isn't because the lad himself could run for mayor and assume office without need of voters. There's a body hulking in the background who is going to tear it to Moran if he should happen to dispose of tonight's opposition. That lad is none other than Jack Hagen, the acme of the bone twisting artists. That much has been promised the ring siders. Moran's opponent—Otto Ludwig—may have something to say about that. He usually does. He can get tough on occasions, especially with the referee, and he talks a good game. He may be scared to death when he walks out tonight but then again he didn't look so pale when he slipped away into the shadows a week ago. He added his best baritone to the chorus of howling gristle-ears and thus far, the echo from the rooftops is sounding better than they have at any time since Sailor Watkins evaporated. Moran will seek two falls somewhere after the timekeeper has opened the show. Hagen's fun will be limited to 20 minutes or less in the first bout of the evening when he greets Ace Freeman while Johnny Neiman and Gus Johnson use up about a half-hour as the semi-finalists. Scheduled time is 8 p. m., having gained 30 minutes during the past week.

No Terms Mentioned As Stengel Named

Ex-Dodger To Manage Bees During '38

Quinn Contacts One-Time Hero By Telephone In Texas

BOSTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Bees, picked up a telephone in his office, called Omaha, Tex., and presto! Casey Stengel was back in the major leagues.

"Listen, Case, want to come with us next year?" bellowed Quinn yesterday as a roomful of newspapermen listened in.

"Certainly, I'd be delighted, thank you very much," came the reply—and Stengel who received $15,000 last year for not managing the Brooklyn Dodgers while Burtleigh Grimes got only $7,500 for piloting them, again was a big league manager.

It was the second time Quinn lined up Casey as manager. The first was in 1934 when Quinn was with the Dodgers and was instrumental in obtaining Stengel to replace Max Carey.

One of the astonishing things about the talk was that Quinn never mentioned money or whether the job was for one year or five.

"We'll have no trouble with Casey about contracts," Quinn laughed. "He'll be up here after the first of next month to meet all of you, and we'll straighten out several matters then, including the coaches."

Quinn indicated Stengel would decide the fate of Hank Gowdy and Bob Smith, coaches under Manager Bill McKechnie, who resigned shortly after the world series to accept a better paying job with the Cincinnati Reds.

Stengel, no stranger to Boston, wound up his major league playing career with the Braves in 1924 after being the Giants' hero in the 1923 world series.

Before that, he performed for the Dodgers, Pirates and Phillies. His playing days over, Stengel became manager of Worcester, Meigs, and Toledo, O., minor league clubs, before going to Brooklyn as coach. A native of Kansas City, he's 46 years old.

Owners of stables passed him up. None wanted to take a chance on a contract with him. They could reconcile Johnny's packing case build with his potentialities.

So the squintiest of the Adams boys rode alone. Because nobody would have him, he had to hurdle the handicap of learning to ride without the apprentice allowance of five points permitted only to riders under contract. It applies for one year from the time the novice rides his first winner.

Turf men who passed him up then have since tried to get him under contract. But Johnny Adams prefers to free lance. He went in to lead for national honors at Riverside Park last spring. He's still out in front by a comfortable margin, trying for his 21th win today.

Devils Engage Sandstorms

The Big Spring Devils will be at home for the third time this season Thursday afternoon when they meet the Lomas reserves at 3:45 o'clock in Steer stadium. In two starts this far the local fresh eleven has won one and lost one, copping their last game from Ackerly, 24-12, after losing out to Coahoma, 20-6, in the opener.

The Lomasans will be overwhelming favorites to cop the decision, having defeated Coahoma earlier in the season, 25-0.

Routhmen Win

West Ward's grid team came through again in their game with North Ward Monday afternoon at Steer stadium, winning, 26-0.

The Routh charges had defeated the North Ward team two weeks ago.

King Farouk Pops The Question And Tilts The Moslem Apple Cart

CAIRO, (AP)—King Farouk of Egypt just up and popped the question. And Farida Zulfikar, 16-year-old daughter of an Egyptian nobleman, said, "Yes."

Sounds natural enough. But boy, oh boy, in Egypt that's news. And it's only the beginning.

What will Farida do about the veil, for instance. Will she wear it in public?

Look Out, Old Customs The betrothal bids fair to upset Moslem customs that are centuries old.

For example: In Egypt, until recently, a bridegroom never saw his fiancée until their wedding night.

If a young man wanted to marry, he approached a khatibeh, a woman whose business it was to help men seeking brides.

She visited families with daughters of marriageable age accompanied by the man's female relatives. Together they made their choice, and, if they approved, he made his decision entirely on their description of his future wife—arrangements were made with the girl's parents for payments of the dowry.

This was money or property given to the girl's parents by the bridegroom in exchange for their daughter.

This custom is being dropped gradually among educated classes in Egypt, but it never was observed better than at the court of the late King Fuad, Farouk's father.

Fuad Was A Stickler Fuad was a stickler in such matters. Queen Nazli, his widow, spent most of her life in the royal harem until Fuad died. On the rare occasions when she drove through the streets of Cairo she was heavily veiled.

And now Egypt is wondering what Farida will do about the veil. Farouk is known to have discussed the matter with Sheikh Moustapha el Maraghy, rector of

Farida Zulfikar She will be Queen of Egypt

Azhar university and head of all Moslems in Egypt. Sheikh Maraghy is progressive—recently he introduced courses in English and Japanese into his thousand-year-old university—but he is attached to certain customs.

Changes Come Fast Farida, accustomed to short-skirted sports dresses and shorts, will find a veil irksome if she has to wear one.

Farouk is in love with Farida. He takes her swimming and horseback riding, and together they play tennis and go on moonlight auto drives.

All this would have been impossible not so many months ago. But Farouk, as well as Farida, was educated on western lines. The young monarch had an English governess and European tutors. Farida went to a Catholic convent when she was eight and remained there until shortly before her engagement.

Farouk intends to bring court etiquette up-to-date. Only recently he gave a garden party for the princes of the Royal Family, and introduced Farida to them all.

In Fuad's day there would have been separate parties—one for men, the other for the women.

APPROVES DECREASE IN COTTON ACREAGE UNDER PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Secretary Wallace has approved formally a 2,000,000-acre decrease in the amount of land recommended for cotton production under the crop conservation program for 1938.

The program, in the main, carries the same limitations or acreage "goals" which Wallace suggested a month ago. The cotton figure, however, was changed to 27,000,000-29,000,000 acres from 29,000,000-31,000,000. The decrease was ordered, the agriculture department said, because of higher estimates on 1937 production.

The department also said that 82 per cent of potato growers in commercial producing areas have voted for inclusion of a potato acreage goal of from 3,100,000 to 3,300,000 acres, as set in September.

SECURITIES BOARD OFFICIALS CONFERENCE WITH ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt had an opportunity today to discuss the nation's budget in terms of business conditions.

White House aides said balancing of the treasury's books was uppermost in the president's mind and announced his calling list included William O. Douglas, securities commission chairman, and Joseph P. Kennedy, first chairman of that commission now head of the maritime commission.

The close inter-relationship of business, taxes and the budget suggested Mr. Roosevelt might be seeking the views of the two officials on the relation of the recent stock market zigzag to the prospects of accomplishing his announced aim to line up federal spending with income.

Crude Production Shows Increase

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 26 (AP)—Production of crude oil in the United States increased 1,298 barrels daily during the week ending Oct. 23 to a total of 3,622,798 barrels, the Oil & Gas Journal reported today.

Oklahoma was off 5,650 barrels to an average of 589,775. East Texas was down 2,438 to 486,000 and the total state of Texas increased 2,650 to 1,470,442. Louisiana dropped 1,150 to 241,000.

Eastern states including Michigan increased 1,243 barrels daily to 191,861. The Rocky Mountain states increased 810 to 84,380.

Story Of How Capone Was 'Sent Up' Told At Convention Of Bankers

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 26 (AP)—Dwight H. Green, former U. S. district attorney, told today "for the first time the inside story of Al Capone" and how a shabby loose-leaf ledger helped send him to Alcatraz.

Green, who prosecuted Capone in his 1931 tax evasion trial in Chicago, addressed the convention of the American Banker's association.

The loose-leaf book was one of the intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue had been using as a paperweight. It had been turned over to them by state's attorney's agents who seized it in a raid on a smoke shop.

"The loose-leaf sheets in the book contained a number of figures which appeared to be a record of daily receipts," Green related, "but there was nothing to indicate 'what business' or 'whose business.'"

"However, upon reflection it was decided to determine the connection, if any, with Capone."

A check with police revealed the smoke shop was gambling in place. Capone was reputed head of Chicago gambling. Later it was learned Capone himself appeared during the raid and identified himself as owner of the place.

It was not until a bank employee recalled that a man named Fred Rees was accustomed to cash checks at his bank that the U. S. agents found a foothold.

Rees, located in Los Angeles, directed the agents to a man named Shunway, who revealed that each column in the ledger represented daily net receipts of every game operated at the smoke shop.

With that and other links of evidence, the government haled Capone into court. Capone promptly tried to fix the jury, Green said.

"I learned Capone had a list of jurors," Green recalled, "and I informed Judge Wilkerson of this fact."

On the day of the trial, jurymen called for Judge Wilkerson's court were transferred and other veniremen were brought in.

"Need I say it was amusing," Green smiled, "to see the look of perplexity on the face of Capone?"

INSURGENTS TAKE WOODS SECTOR

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Spanish insurgents occupied Omar Woods in the Sabtanigo sector today, their daily communique reported, after a day of intermittent fighting on the northern Aragon front.

A Spanish government communique admitted the insurgents seized the woods yesterday but asserted "our resistance was most tenacious."

Reports from insurgent general headquarters at Salamanca said the insurgents captured a quantity of arms and ammunition and a field kitchen after the government troops retired, leaving more than 100 dead.

JAPAN APOLOGIZES

LONDON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Japanese Foreign Minister Koki Hirota handed an official apology to the British ambassador at Tokyo today for the machine gun death of a British soldier at Shanghai last Sunday.

Britain was informed that Japan would deal suitably with the responsible persons and offered to compensate for damage to the British post in which the soldier was killed. Japan termed the shooting "accidental."

Hoover And Landon Vie For Place In The Spotlight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—Both Herbert Hoover and Alf Landon, reported rivals for republican leadership, were in the political spotlight today.

Landon was conferring in Topeka, Kas., with John Hamilton republican national chairman Hoover will deliver a national wide radio speech from Boston at 8 p. m. Central Standard Time.

Political observers connected both events with the meeting of the republican national committee in Chicago next week to consider holding a 1938 republican convention.

The proposal has aroused widespread discussion within party ranks.

Hoover has been a leader in the movement for such a convention, which he suggested should adopt a "declaration of fundamental convictions."

Landon, publicly uncommitted, has been reported cool toward the idea, as have several of the party's congressional leaders.

TANKER ON FIRE

LANDS END, England, Oct. 26 (AP)—The Dutch motor tanker Niagara today sent an SOS saying she was on fire after an explosion, but later radioed that the fire had been extinguished.

The tanker, enroute to Hamble, England, from Houston, Tex., and Pauillac, France, gave her position as 18 miles northwest of the Ile d'Yeu, near the River Loire.

In the first hundred years of the United States, 653 treaties were made with 97 Indian tribes.

Americans Needn't Worry About Etiquette When Duke Arrives; He's Dropped All Ceremony

PARIS, Oct. 26 (AP)—Americans who meet the Duke of Windsor on his forthcoming trip to the United States need have no worries about royal ritual—the strict etiquette that once surrounded Great Britain's former monarch.

Since Edward of Windsor abandoned his crown and scepter to become a duke he also has dropped all semblance of the old court ceremony.

In his new life, free for the first time from official duties, there remains some stiff formality on the part of those who surround the duke, but it is entirely self-imposed.

Windsor himself has become completely informal.

A close friend of the duke who has been his traveling companion frequently said today that when Windsor pays a visit to an acquaintance, old or new, he leaves all arrangements to his host.

"The duke has perfect confidence in his host's good taste," he declared, "and does not ask that a list of other guests be submitted in advance for his approval, a procedure once customary. His host also is free to make any public announcement of his visit."

In place of the former court presentations, introductions usually are made now by the duke's equerry, youthful Dudley Forwood.

"May I be permitted, your royal highness, to introduce Mr. So-and-so," says his equerry.

The person presented usually takes the duke's extended hand and says, "your royal highness, it is a great honor to make your acquaintance."

Thereafter he addresses the duke simply as "sir."

In conversation the duke usually leads because his quick wit and his rapid-fire talk leave few lapses, but when others speak on a new subject the duke listens eagerly.

CHRISTMAS WEDDING

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 26 (AP)—It will be a Christmas wedding for Virginia Bruce, widow of John Gilbert, and J. Walter Ruben, who fell in love when he started directing her in a motion picture.

The blonde actress said today the ceremony would be performed in Hollywood sometime during the winter season.

TO SEEK DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., Oct. 26 (AP)—Attorney Harry Swanson said Elizabeth Eaton Guggenheim would file suit here today for divorce from Col. M. Robert Guggenheim of New York, youngest son of the late Daniel Guggenheim, who left a $289,000,000 mining fortune.

A financial settlement has been reached out of court, Swanson said. Its terms were not disclosed. Col. Guggenheim settled $1,000,000 each on his first and second wives when they won divorces. He married Elizabeth Eaton Guggenheim, his third wife, in Baltimore in May, 1928.

ASSOCIATED PRESS STORY TO BE MADE INTO PICTURES

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—Edward Chodorox, Hollywood film writer, went to work today on the story adaptation for the forthcoming motion picture "Freedom of the Press," based on the history of the Associated Press.

He was assigned by David O. Selznick, president of Selznick International Pictures, Inc., producer of the film. He also will serve as production assistant. A graduate of Brown university, Chodorox has had wide theatrical experience both on Broadway and in the movie capital.

Result Of Harmony

The oil industry in Texas is in such condition that the jury can announce what the verdict is going to be before the "trial" with nearly everybody substantially satisfied.

This favorable commentary on state oil proration was brought out when members of the Texas railroad commission clearly indicated several days before the last hearing on allowables...

An industry representing about one billion dollars a year of income for Texas, in producing crude oil and adding the value of its refined products...

This industry and the state which governs and supervises it have got along in remarkable harmony. The law, designed to prevent physical waste of oil, and keyed to a formula of market demand as a factor of proration...

By marvelous good fortune and coincidence, engineering evidence and sworn testimony uniformly support those shifts in proration that help stabilize the industry.

This is pointed out as perhaps the best illustration in the state's experience where the government is able to carry forward its own functions in harmony with the interests of the regulated industry.

Man About Manhattan

By BILLY ROSE
(Broadway's Little Napoleon does a stinct for George Tucker)

NEW YORK — So you are off on a vacation, are you, George, and you want me to write a column for you?

Do you remember the morning we were going fishing and you let me stand on the dock and freeze from 3 to 7 a. m.?

Do you remember that show I put on at the Old Hip and the nasty things you said about it?

Do you remember the time you — but, we won't bring that up. After all, this is just good clean fun.

Nevertheless, I think I ought to make it a little tough for you, because you Broadway reporters are supposed to get around and know what goes on.

And I think you've been asleep on the job. At least, I've noticed a few things in the five days I've been in New York this time, and not a word have I read in the newspapers.

You guys are supposed to have a nose for news. Well, a former picture star is running a buttermilk stand on the west side. I haven't noticed any of you interviewing her. The mate on one of the big liners docking in New York has a cork arm. He lost his real one at the battle of Joutland, during the war. On one of the rocks in Central Park is a crimson smear that won't wash away. It isn't paint, either. There's a corking story behind that smear. Do you know what it is?

There's an elevator operator on Broadway who captained a submarine during the war. One of the really famous explorers of modern times is in New York, but I haven't seen his name in the newspapers. Janet Fox, the actress, is the niece of a world famous novelist. Do you know her name?

What is the Five and Ten club? Jack Dempsey belongs to it. A lot of famous people are members. You'd really have something there if you went after it.

One of New York's most picturesque Irishmen left Broadway to operate a string of tourist camps on the west coast. I'll bet you two seats on the aisle to any show you name you can't tell me who it is.

What top flight illustrator used to play the pipe organ in a Chicago theater? He doesn't play the organ any more, but you see his pictures on the covers of Collier's and other magazines.

One of the loveliest dancers in New York was once hopelessly crippled. There is a guy on Broadway whose heart is as tough as a Sixth Avenue steak. That's what everybody thinks. But he is really a sentimentalist and this summer he picked up 25 kids off the street and sent them to summer camp, at his own expense. You never heard about that, did you? Yet, he is a well-known guy.

You see, George, you would really need a vacation if you dug out all the stories that are lying around and crying to be written.

But don't ask me to write them. I've troubles of my own. I'm too busy trying to find somebody to pinch hit for me while I go off on a vacation.

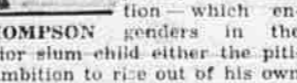

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

ASSIGNMENT IN UTOPIA

Of all the books on Russia written by Americans thus far this seems to me the most important and the most moving. It is important because it is a book written by a revolutionist, by one who has spent his entire life in rebellion against the existing social order.

THOMPSON ponders in the superior slum child either the pitiless ambition to rise out of his own surroundings, or the hard and luminous determination to change them, and with the change lift his entire class.

Eugene Lyons grew up on New York's East Side, in the poverty, insecurity, and humiliation—above all, perhaps, humiliation—which enervates the masses of the lower slum child either the pitiless ambition to rise out of his own surroundings, or the hard and luminous determination to change them...

This, then, is a judgment of Russian communism on its own terms. That is why the book is important. For this is, after all, the only ground on which the Russian experiment can justly be evaluated.

The American revolutionist goes, and sees. His opportunity to do the latter is superior. He is a person of great faith, and he is not a man of profound conviction who can occur without agony. He is not squeamish. This book is his record, and his judgment.

What the record is will not here be reviewed, lest any one should have an excuse not to read the book itself. It is a brilliant report of Russian life from many sides, many facets, and always internal; the report of one who reports from the side on which he believes that history is marching. Faith and desire struggle in these pages, with doubt, doubt grows, observation piling on observation. To sound remorselessly at the citadel of faith. The judgment must, finally, be made. And when Eugene Lyons makes it, he makes it definitely. This is not that for which we have suffered and fought. This is not, in any sense, the fulfillment of the dream. It was not for this that we all over the world, have tried at the price of danger and outlawry, to take history by the hand and turn it into another course. This is not revolution! It is counter-revolution! The whole of official communism is on the wrong path!

Why? That, after all, is the great question. Eugene Lyons wrestles with this question. Curiously, whimsically, across the world, in Swiss exile, the great German, Thomas Mann, wrestles, also, and comes to the same conclusion. Man is a moral animal and woe to the deniers! These are attributes of the human spirit transcending class, transcending economic systems. Revolution is made for man, not man for revolution. Means are not ends. Freedom, justice, order, reason—these are not words to be played with, cynically as instruments to move the masses, now in this direction, now in that. These are realities; these are the elements of life. Justice demands that men be free; freedom, that they be responsible. Revolution, not to be successful, but to be revolutionary, must be noble, its end and its justification are the enhancement of the dignity and responsibility of a world as remote as possible from...

HOLLYWOOD — William McGuire is a movie producer, now, but he must always have had the soul of one. Those stories of his from the days when he was writing Ziegfeld's shows...

There was the time he was being sued — one of the times — and was dodging process servers. One day he was trapped. A girl, a very pretty girl, stood on his doorstep in her hand the fatal papers.

McGuire thought fast, ventured: "My, my, you ought to be on the stage. Ever thought of it?"

"Well," and he cinched his case. "I'll make a bargain with you. You go in the next Ziegfeld show, and right now you forget that subpoena."

Proving that a McGuire keeps a bargain, she was a glorified girl for two years.

Butler Was Swamped The penthouse of the pretender to wealth, George Murphy (in the movie, "You're a Sweetheart"), is what Universal artist John Osterman, Jr., calls his first opportunity to splurge. He has splurged, effectively, through an elegant suite of five rooms and garden.

"This was the setting of a scene in which David Butler, from 20th Century, was directing Alice Faye also from 20th.

How come? "Well," said Dave, "I lent Alice Brady in return for Alice Faye, and swapped 3 story property for me. That makes me low man in the deal."

The story property, however, was "Danger Love at Work" and it may be a hit, which ought to elevate Butler's morale.

Ronald Got Socked "Throughbred" Dog City is the title of the movie in which Ronald Sinclair (formerly Ra Hould of Australia) has taken the role which normally would have been reserved for embattled Freddie Bartholomew. There was a scene in which it appeared that throughbreds might be socked, with or without tears.

Ronald had to get socked, ostensibly in the evening Mickey Rooney. Ronnie didn't know the technique of successful movie subject. He had to leave it entirely up to Rooney, who of course knows how to hit painlessly.

Even those critics who have dismissed Ra Hould as too much an imitation of Bartholomew would have cheered him then. He seemed to sense the tension the uncertainty, and finally volunteered to solve it in his own way.

"My Gosh," he piped, "I don't mind taking a bit of a bump you know."

A stop for the party was planned tonight at Lufkin. The tour will end at the state forest near Kirbyville.

Two's Company

By MARGARET GIBSON HERZOG

Chapter 23 DINNER AT GRACIE'S "I hope they like me," Nina said rather timidly, for her, and backed away from his enfolding rumples arms, in the nick of time.

The very first thing she noticed, when Jack Knight opened the door, was that the two girls behind him were in evening dress.

The taller one, in black, had all the earmarks of a model, so chic and sleek was she... and the shorter one, in flesh-colored crepe, must certainly be Gracie, from David's description of her.

Nina felt like a sophomore from Peoria, in her simple, little Hattie Carnegie creation. And she had tried to be so thoughtful!

"Hi, there, David! and Nina... hello! Gosh, I'm glad to meet you!" The shorter one, who was Gracie, came forward with a wide smile.

Nina relaxed a little. It was going to be easy. Gracie took her arm and whirled her off to the bedroom... a tiny apartment, very tattered and lacy. The bed was piled high with big dolls and little cushions.

Every chair had either a white fur cat, or a black fur scottie; and the dressing-table mirror was jammed with cards, clippings and snapshots.

It looked like the kind of room you see in the movies, where two pretty girls in black undies, plump themselves down on the bed, and "tell all."

From the moment she went in, Nina had the feeling they could have a lot of fun together. Gracie was undeniably attractive, in a dark, pert sort of way. She had hard, bright eyes, and a comical little nose, and curves that could not fail to be pleasing to the masculine eye.

Her flesh-colored evening-gown was not calculated to conceal them... but it was smart and perfectly all right.

Nina might have closed it herself, if it had been her type. It had cost $18.50, she found out later. Gracie stared at her, as she fixed her hair.

"You don't mind if I stare, do you, Nina? You've been so darty, curious about you. You know when David told us about going around with a new twist, I knew you must be good... the boy's got eyes in his head... But I had no idea you'd be this good!"

"Hey, hold on! You'd better wait till you know me better, Gracie." "Oh, we'll get along. I'm not worried about that. David's a great kid, isn't he, Nina?" Crazy about him?

"Umhmm. You bet I am!" "Come on in, you look great. Jack's an awful ass, but you'll like him... and Francine and Bill are swell, too."

"She models for a wholesale house, and they're that way about each other, like you and David." Nina felt sure she and Gracie were going to get on.

Jack, The Schoolboy Gracie shoved her into the living-room and disappeared.

The living-room didn't have as much definite character as her bedroom. There was a red lacquer secretary, and a black velvet hanging on the wall, with a statue and a fountain painted on it, in oils; and the most ingenious collection of cigarette boxes and ash-trays, that Nina had ever seen. The rest of the room was nondescript. Slinky chairs, chintz curtains... just a cozy, comfortable room.

The living-room looked out over the Hudson river, and that was the best thing of all.

The model, Francine, was languidly beautiful, and beautifully languid. Bill was just a nice young man; and Jack Knight... well, Nina knew that she was going to like him, too.

He was probably about 28, but remained—and would remain—the perennial schoolboy.

His thin blond hair receded in two great bays from his pink forehead. It came way down in a little pointed peninsula, in the middle. He was very thin, but for some reason, his neck and jaws were plump—extremely.

He wore a watch fob with strange gold insignia dangling from it, and a large seal ring.

The cut of his suit, and the selection of his shirt and tie indicated that he might fancy himself a bit of a playboy... but he wasn't. He was a schoolboy.

He was utterly natural and in love with life.

"How about a little panther sweat?" he suggested, after the introductions had been made; and the party was on.

The biggest surprise of the evening, was Gracie's perfectly delicious dinner... cooked and served by her own hand, from a kitchenette that made Nina's look like a ballroom.

They all huddled into an alcove and Gracie maneuvered back and forth with one scrumptious dish after another... unharried, at ease, keeping up a running fire of conversation all the while.

Nina marvelled at her. Fruit exp. Cream of mushrooms. Chicken Maryland.

"How do you do it, Gracie?"

Boy Ponders What To Do With Old Coin, Valuable If It's Genuine

MEXIA, Oct. 26 (UP)—Youthful Carrol Wade was undecided today whether to send the five-cent piece he retained on a "hunch," to the bureau of the mint in Washington to determine whether it was a rare liberty head nickel minted in 1913.

The 13-year-old boy said he thought he would send the coin but had not finally decided. He keeps it in the vault of a local bank.

Mexia bankers suggested the course after they were unable to determine whether the nickel was genuine.

W. L. Foreman, Mexia newspaperman, said the coin was badly worn, but a liberty head plainly visible. The date was blurred, he said, and he could not determine whether the last digit on the date number was a three.

Wade said he was offered $1,000 for the coin by a Los Angeles man if it was genuine, and $2,500 by an Austin, Texas, resident.

Leading numismatists were skeptical of the coin's authenticity. William Clark, assistant curator of the museum of the Numismatic Society of America, said in New York that only a total of six liberty head nickels were struck in 1913.

He said these were made without authority by treasury employees and none of the six coins was in general circulation.

The bureau of the mint said dies for 1913 liberty head nickels were made up in advance, but new dies substituted after the year began, and some mints, having both sets of dies on hand simultaneously, might have used the liberty form by mistake.

Warning Against 'Collectors' Of Security Funds

Department of Justice has issued a warning to the public against persons purporting to be collectors for old-age benefits and other financial agents.

"The social security board has no 'old-age benefit collectors,' 'old-age insurance collectors,' or any other kind of collectors of financial agents. It has authorized no one to collect any fees from participants in the old-age insurance program. We wish to caution everyone against making any payments whatever to persons representing themselves as agents of the board and who guarantee the payment of old age insurance," said a statement from the social security board.

Criminal prosecution has been promised by the department of justice for bogus collectors. In Big Spring there has been one such instance, the "collector" being arrested and given a federal prison term.

Fatal Elixir Is Taken Off The Market

Preparation Has Been Fatal To Forty-Six Persons

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (UP)—A government official said today virtually all of the elixir of sulfanilamide which caused 46 deaths in the nation has been removed from the market.

J. O. Clarke, chief of the central states division of the U. S. food and drug administration, said federal investigators had confiscated or accounted for all principal shipments of the preparation, 700 bottles, mostly pint size.

Several one-ounce sample bottles given to scientists and physicians and three ounces given to a St. Louis resident by his physician were being traced, Clarke said, adding he knew almost all of the elixir had been confiscated in 20 midwestern states and had been assured of its removal from the market elsewhere.

Five deaths in Georgia, and one each at Madisonville, Texas, Conroy, Ohio, Cady, Miss., Clayton, Ala. and St. Louis, Mo., were the latest reported to the American Medical association.

Dr. Morris Fishbein, the association's spokesman, said other deaths were being investigated to determine whether they were caused by the wine-colored preparation. Laboratory experiments disclosed diethylene glycol was the lethal agent in the mixture, he said.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26 (UP)—Police arrested an old man with a long beard last night and charged him with vagrancy. The desk sergeant asked him his name. The man, a Finlander, told him. No one understood. He wrote out twice: Mallilalgeyayayayay Edeyueayearayilo Anillylaylo.

In court the clerk looked at the name on the book, looked at the old man, and shouted "hey, mustache. Come here."

Mallilalgeyayayayay Edeyueayearayilo Anillylaylo came and was sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Thinks Output Of Meat Now Will Gain

Consequent Decline In Prices Forecast By Packer

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (AP)—Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, said today the decline in meat production, to which has been ascribed high prices, apparently has reached its low point.

Addressing the institute's annual convention, Woods said production, particularly that of pork should increase steadily during the next few years.

Most classes and grades of meat at wholesale are now from five to 31 per cent lower than mid-September, he said. Fresh pork prices, he added, have shown the greatest decline, from 23 to 31 per cent.

Woods said U. S. department of agriculture reports show the United States now is an importer of pork for the first time in history.

Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago chairman of the board of Wilson & Company, said in another address: decreased production of live stock in the United States during recent years has cut consumption per capita to approximately that of the citizens of Great Britain.

He said the per capita consumption of meat and lard in the United States in 1935 was estimated at 127 pounds. This year, he said, it would average a little higher than in 1935 but somewhat lower than in 1936.

"For its daily meat menu the American public requires an average of 45,000,000 pounds," he said. "Of this amount, about 44 per cent is pork, 43 per cent beef, seven per cent veal, and six per cent lamb."

Schools Teach Lip Reading
PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Free lessons in lip reading have been instituted in city schools here. The course is open to the hard of hearing and is given in afternoon and evening classes.

Turning back this ruthless enemy of human health before it has reformed its ranks as in 1918 and regained an appreciable amount of the ground from which it has been forced progressively to retreat since that date.

Hospital Notes

Big Spring Hospital
Miss Lilla Ashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ashley, and who is attending T. C. U. in Fort Worth, was brought home Monday evening suffering an attack of appendicitis. She was operated Tuesday morning at the hospital, and her condition was satisfactory.

Mrs. Jarita Corres of this city underwent major surgery Tuesday morning.

Miss Sylvia Smith, 208 North Nolan street, is in the hospital for treatment.

Mrs. M. M. Edwards, who underwent major surgery several days ago, was better Tuesday afternoon.

Joe Arocha, 6-year-old son of Antonio Arocha, cotton picker from San Angelo, sustained injuries to the pelvis and other body bruises when struck by a truck near Sparanberg Sunday afternoon. He is in the hospital for treatment.

Miss Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Goodson, 402 Abrams street, has returned to her home after receiving treatment at the hospital.

Jess Smith, 307 1-3 West Eighth street, employe at the post office, who underwent major surgery Sunday, is doing satisfactorily.

Wanda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Thompson of Stanton, is in the hospital for treatment.

DIST. CONFERENCE PROGRAM MAPPED

Half a dozen Christian pastors of this district conferred here Tuesday over the program for a district conference in Big Spring Nov. 9.

The pastors officially set the 9th as the conference date in their meeting Tuesday morning. The program, however, was not to be completed until Tuesday afternoon.

Here for the meeting were Rev. C. A. Johnson, Odessa, district president, Rev. J. E. Pickering, Midland, Rev. Elmer D. Henson, San Angelo, Rev. A. L. Haley, Colorado, and Rev. Tom Lennox, Sweetwater. Rev. G. C. Schurman, pastor of the local First Christian church, was host pastor. All the ministers' wives accompanied them and were guests of Mrs. Schurman.

Methodists Study 3rd Chapter Of Mission Texas At Meetings

Women's Missionary society Circles of the First Methodist church continued the study of "What Is This Moslem World?" when they met in groups Monday afternoon.

Groups two, three, and four held a joint meeting in the church parlors to study the third chapter of the text. Mrs. S. P. Jones led the devotional.

On the program were Mrs. Pascal Buckner who gave the chapter on "The Last of Mohammed," Mrs. Herbert Keaton spoke on the "Gripping Power of Islam," while Mrs. I. S. McIntosh reviewed "An Approval of Islam."

Present were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. Keaton, Mrs. Buckner, Mrs. S. R. Nobles, Mrs. Clem Radtiff, Mrs. Fox Stripling, Mrs. W. A. Ricker, Mrs. R. L. Warren, Mrs. M. L. Musgrove, Mrs. V. H. Flewellen, Mrs. M. E. Ooley, Mrs. D. F. Bigony and Mrs. F. V. Gates. Circle No. One

Mrs. H. M. Rowe was hostess to the first circle at her home when Mrs. Hayes Stripling led the study session for the afternoon. This group also worked on the third lesson.

Attending were Mrs. E. D. McDowell, Mrs. C. M. Watson, Mrs. Evelyn Williams, Mrs. W. E. Plunkett, Mrs. G. E. Fleeman, Mrs. Iva Honeycutt, Mrs. H. F. Taylor, Mrs. M. S. Wade, Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Mrs. Rowe and Mrs. Stripling.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day of about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

National Rise In Tubercular Deaths Shown

Higher Rate Attributed To Effect Of Lean Economic Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (UP)—Just as the post-war days of 1918 precipitated a decided increase in tuberculosis mortality in the United States, so has the recent years of economic depression brought about a climbing rate of deaths from the same malady in this country, in the opinion of Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis association.

After a careful survey of figures gleaned from the records of the state boards of health just submitted to the National Tuberculosis association, Dr. Emerson found that 24 states and the District of Columbia showed a higher death rate for last year than in 1935. The lowest mark was 0.2 per cent in New Jersey. Oklahoma topped the field with 22.7. Since the increase had been expected, according to Dr. Emerson, a great deal of emphasis has been placed on a health program to halt this spreading disease.

The death rate from tuberculosis was approximately only four per cent during the years 1925-1935.

Delaware's Record Best
The greatest headway made against tuberculosis was in Delaware, where the original Christmas Seals were sold 30 years ago. Nebraska and Wyoming follow close behind. Delaware reported a drop in deaths per 100,000 persons from 61.3 in 1935 to 48.3 in 1936, a decrease of 157 to 125 in the number of deaths. Nebraska had 253 deaths in 1936 as against 306 in 1935. Wyoming shows a drop from 22.4 to 15.0.

According to state statistics, the total tuberculosis death rate for the United States rose from 5.6 per cent in 1935 to 5.4 in 1936. A total of 69,471 persons, for the most part between the ages of 15 and 45, died of tuberculosis in 1935 in the United States, while the total rose to 70,907 in 1936. With the exception of New Hampshire, all other sections of the country showed increased death rates.

New York Toll 7,640
In New York state, 7,640 people died of tuberculosis in 1936 as compared with 7,427 in 1935, the death rate per 100,000 population increasing from 57.6 per cent to 59.1.

Hawaii and Puerto Rico reported increases for last year. In Hawaii, there were 336 deaths, with a rate of 87 per 100,000 population. In 1935, the rate was 75.8. In Puerto Rico, the rate jumped from 297.8 in 1935 to 300.8 the following year, the number of deaths going from 5,094 to 5,182.

"With the improvement in our technique for handling tuberculosis, it should be possible to prevent any material rise in the death rate," Dr. Emerson said. "By a concentration of effort we hope to start the annual mortality from this disease once more on the downward trend."

Must Anticipate Epidemics
"Epidemics vary with different seasons of the year and according to certain laws of periodicity. One of the many important duties of public health education is to anticipate such accidents and to be prepared to decrease their seriousness by speeding up known methods of prevention."

An aroused and intelligent public interest is the greatest aid in organized prevention of disease, in Dr. Emerson's opinion.

"A people alert to a threatened danger will cooperate to avert it," he said. "Though the rise in tuberculosis mortality is slight at the moment, it should be taken as a call to arms and the people of the country should rally around the public health service as a well-trained army of volunteers to aid

School Begins At 70 For Illinois Oldsters

By the AP Feature Service

ELGIN, Ill.—Fifty men and women, none less than 70 years old are going to school here to equip themselves for useful activity in the present-day scheme of things.

The school was started by Dr. Charles E. Sharp, 78-year-old retired Elgin physician, who says he wanted to show the world that "old dogs can learn new tricks."

To put his idea into practice, the physician utilized an empty 16-room house he owned. In less than a month, his original student body of 17 increased to 50.

Five days a week, from 2 to 4 p. m., the men and women attend classes in knitting, tailoring, chair caning, upholstery, rug making, the deaf-mute sign language, German and French. They hear lectures on religion, economics and psychology. Several are studying music and nearly all gather around the piano for community sings.

The school is free. Instruction is donated by individuals and by the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations.

Materials are provided by Elgin residents. The oldest pupil is 87, the youngest 70.

One 80-year-old expresses the enthusiasm of the student body: "We oldsters are fitting ourselves into the lives of our offspring—making ourselves useful so we won't be pushed around as if we were burdens."
