Local Voters Avoid Polls In Drove

Like the rest of Texas, Howard county considered its important voting was over with in August. This was the indication early Tuesday afternoon, when a survey of local precincts showed that balloting was extremely light.

There had been no more than 12 ballots cast in precinct No. 1; No. 2 reported 42, No. 3 had 38 and No. 4 showed 29 votes in all. At that rate, it was conceded that clerks won't be overworked in tabulating the final count.

Not even five constitutional amendment proposals could bring out the voters, most of whom were content with the democratic state they picked in the primaries.

Absentee balloting in the county finally reached a total of 12. This included a lone war ballot—only one Howard man in the armed forces taking advantage of his newly-granted right to participate in the elections.

Knox Cautions That Japanese Will Be Back

Announces New Sinkings But Warns Against Optimism

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Navy Secretary Knox warned today against "growing too optimistic" about the Solomon Islands operations and said there was no doubt that the Japanese fleet would return.

Knox made his statement at a press conference at which he also reported the sinking of two additional enemy cruisers by a United States task force in a battle of Savo Island on the night of October 11-12.

Ballots in 47 states contained the names of more than 1,600 candidates for 33 seats in the new senate and two 60-day terms in the present; 432 House memberships, 32 governorships, and 205 other state offices, exclusive of state legislative posts.

Voting was expected to be light even for an "off-year" election. With millions in war factories and in the fighting forces, only about 65 per cent of those eligible were likely to vote or some 33,000,000 compared with nearly 50,000,000 in 1940 and 57,000,000 in 1938.

Polling booths opened early and closed late to accommodate war workers in many states. Voters marked ballots in more than 129,000 precincts or districts.

President Roosevelt had asked employees to give war workers reasonable time off to vote, without pay deductions, and to stagger working hours to avoid waste motion in the gigantic war production drive.

Men and women in the uniformed services were free to cast absentee ballots wherever possible but only a small percentage were expected to do so.

With thousands of fighting men in far-off corners of the world, women were expected to cast a proportionately larger vote than in former elections. Some forecast a 50 to 65 per cent feminine vote.

Some close contests may not be decided for several days because of delay in receiving and counting mailed ballots. California, for example, does not complete its absentee ballot count until next Monday.

Eyes were on the New York gubernatorial race because of its possible 1944 presidential implications. Thomas E. Dewey, republican candidate, with an eleventh-hour endorsement by Wendell Willkie, was in a close contest with Democrat John J. Bennett, Jr., endorsed by President Roosevelt and piloted through the campaign by State Chairman James A. Farley. A third candidate was Dean Alfange, American-Labor.

Republicans claimed victories not only in New York, but in the gubernatorial contests in California, Michigan and Connecticut, all now having Democratic governors, and in Ohio, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania now republican.

The republicans also forecast a net gain of from five to eight seats in the senate where the present line-up is 65 democrats, 29 republicans, one progressive and one independent, with 48 a majority.

They said their chances were best in Nevada, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa, Michigan, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Delaware.

Democrats said their present strength in the senate would not be lessened. They also stood on their earlier statement that there would be no substantial change in their House majority.

Japs Now Try To Bomb The Bombers

HEADQUARTERS OF U. S. FORCES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Oct. 28. (Delayed) (AP)—Unable to down a single flying fortress with their machineguns and cannon in two months of aerial warfare in the Solomons, the Japs are trying a new technique—bombing the bombers.

Jap Zero float (pontoon-equipped) planes have been flying about 1,000 feet above the fortresses over Guadalcanal and trying to drop bombs on them in the air. So far, not a hit has been scored, and American gunners, wise to the trick, have found the Zeros easy targets at that distance.

Rationing To Cut Auto Liability Insurance Rates

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 3 (AP)—Texas automobile owners will receive lower liability insurance rates under the gasoline rationing program, J. P. Gibbs, state casualty insurance commissioner, said today in announcing a rate reduction order of the board of insurance commissioners.

Gibbs said the lower rate adjustments on bodily injury liability insurance rates will become effective Nov. 22, the date when gasoline rationing will be made effective.

A statewide hearing of insurance company representatives will be held here Nov. 22 to discuss automobile rate matters, Gibbs said.

Gibbs announced establishment of the following territories in Texas for the purpose of making automobile rates.

Great Tank Battle Starts As Brits Push On Rommel

Nips Last Sleep—A U. S. Marine mortar shell caught these Jap soldiers, entrenched behind a log on the banks of the Tenaru river, Guadalcanal Island, as they attempted to attack the flank of U. S. troops depending Henderson air field. In story from the island, AP's Olen Clements says Marines now have problem of disposing of Japanese dead.

Ground Troops Gain 16 Miles Against Axis

One Report Says Allies Using 500 Armored Vehicles

By EDWARD KENNEDY CAIRO, Nov. 3 (AP)—British tanks in force have clashed with Field Marshal Rommel's vaunted African corps in the biggest tank battle of the 11-day Allied drive in Egypt with fighting swirling around Tel El Akahir—the hill of wicked men—where the British infantry assault has knifed 16 miles deep into the axis defense zone.

(Reuters reported that a Berlin broadcast attributed to DNB said Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery had thrown some 800 tanks into "the greatest tank battle of the whole African campaign.")

The British 8th army announced that many of the enemy surrendered in one sector following a fierce bombardment of axis positions by American and British planes.

The scene is one of the highest points along the center of the present tight-hemmed battlezone between the Mediterranean and the Qatarra salt marshes.

It is 16 miles beyond the long-stabilized defense line through the ridges southwest of El Alamein, and represented a gain of several miles by British infantry which slashed forward under their own artillery barrage during the hours just before the tank clash developed yesterday at dawn.

The infantry won a position which partly pocketed a considerable axis force.

That was when Rommel sent his long-revered armor into action—and that was the moment for which the British had prepared. Their own tanks scooped into the fight, and the first big scale test of armored might was underway.

The Australians who spearheaded the initial British thrust along the coastal rail line where axis forward forces were hemmed in against the sea bore the brunt of Rommel's desperate tank assault for the relief of his trapped troops.

The British tank onslaught, in turn, eased the pressure on the Australians and permitted the imperial land forces to continue their mop up.

Battlefront dispatches said numerous German tanks were knocked out in the clash of steel, while elsewhere the battlezone was strewn in places with the bodies of Germans who tried in vain to escape the trap.

This pocket, formed by Australian infantry of Montgomery's British eighth army was believed to be about eight miles long, between Tel El Elia and Sidi Abd El Rahman, about 18 miles west of El Alamein.

Today's communique said the new wedge was driven in the axis positions, near the center of the line, by infantry early yesterday. It was termed "an importance advance," in which many prisoners were taken.

OCD Office To Open Monday

Office of Civilian Defense quarters in the city hall will be opened next Monday, according to City Manager Boyd McDaniel, and Mrs. Douglas Orme, chairman of the committee securing voluntary help, will be in charge temporarily.

By establishing the office, the Council hopes to concentrate all civilian defense activities at the one center for the convenience of officials and citizens alike.

The new quarters, furnished with the necessary desks, typewriters and other office equipment by the city management, are located on the second floor.

Mayor Grover Dunham and Walter Morrison are co-ordinators of local defense activities.

Dismantling Of T&P Branch Asked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Texas and Pacific Railway company asked the interstate commerce commission today for authority to dismantle its T&P branch line between Texarkana, Tex., and Shreveport, La.

The company said that there would be a net salvage value of $299,984. It said that the abandonment would release critical material for use in operating and maintaining its other lines and also make available many tons of scrap steel and other material for war use.

Second Girl Appears In Flynn Case

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl, having told how Errol Flynn allegedly raped her at a recent gay party in a fashionable Bel-Air home, stopped aside today to permit another 17-year-old girl to testify how the 33-year-old film actor also assertedly committed two statutory offenses against her while on a yachting trip in 1941.

First to testify at a preliminary hearing was blonde Betty Hansen, a soda jerk. She testified Flynn took her into an upstairs bedroom, removed her clothes and all of his, except his shoes. He raped her, she declared, then the two rejoined others in the party downstairs where a girl entertainer was putting on an oriental dance.

Waiting to testify tomorrow, following a recess today, is Peggy La Rue Satterle, daughter of a hotel chef. Recently a Hollywood nightclub entertainer, she charges that Flynn twice raped her while on a yachting trip to Catalina Island in 1941 when she was but 15.

Thus within a week, the fortunes of war had changed that threat of a gathering Japanese naval and land offensive in the southwestern Pacific to strengthened American domination over the Solomon Islands prize.

Assignment Of Doctors Opposed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the public health service, told a senate labor subcommittee today he was "not prepared to recommend compulsory assignment of doctors 'to private practice without a general national service act."

The senate group is considering means to halt the heavy flow of physicians from private practice to the army and navy but Dr. Parran said he thought the approximately 115,000 M.D.'s left for civilian practice after sparing 25,000 to the armed forces would be adequate.

"It is a great responsibility to say to a doctor, 'You can't bear arms for your country,'" he said, conceding that "we may come to that."

Dr. Parran said that while an increase in tuberculosis was to be expected in wartime and had made its appearance, the public health was "much better than in the last war."

"The general health conditions in the country are not bad," he said.

Instructor Killed In Plane Crash

VERNON, Nov. 3 (AP)—An air crash yesterday took the life of Vaughn Wesley McAllister, 30, instructor at the Victory Field primary flight school near here, and injured Cadet Ralph F. Travis of Sidney, Iowa.

McAllister was from Lovington, N. M. Survivors include his widow and small daughter. Travis was expected to recover.

Jap Base At Koda In New Guinea Is Taken By Allies

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Nov. 3 (AP)—Allied ground forces captured the Japanese base at Kokoda, inland New Guinea, yesterday after a grueling drive over the Owen Stanley mountains and were shoving the Japanese troops toward their coastal base at Buna today after medium and heavy allied bombers drove off an enemy convoy and set fire to a transport attempting to approach Buna with reinforcements.

The recapture of Kokoda highlighted a sharp turn in the fighting in southeastern New Guinea, where within 33 miles of Port Moresby, the key Allied position on the island.

The Japanese, aware of the precarious position of their troops, attempted to send two transports with an estimated 7,000 soldiers to Buna to bolster their retreating forces, an Allied communique said today.

Allied heavy bombers sighted the transports escorted by a light cruiser, a destroyer and nine fighter planes and attacked as they were approaching Buna. Many near misses were scored in the first raid and five of the Japanese fighters were shot down.

Medium bombers then attacked yesterday afternoon and dropped bombs which missed the transport only narrowly. The convoy withdrew.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—A Japanese convoy headed for New Guinea was forced to turn back today by flying fortresses and B-29's which attacked in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire and enemy aerial resistance.

(The repulse of the Japanese convoy off Buna was reported in a communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters which said 7,000 Japanese soldiers aboard the ships had been intended to reinforce the enemy's New Guinea positions.)

Maj. J. William G. Benn, of Washington, Pa., said one large transport was damaged and another possibly damaged, by the hard-hitting bombers. Five Japanese zero fighters which tried to intercept the attack were knocked out of the sky.

Sunday, Nov. 1, Davis said he believed the navy did not receive word of the actual sinking of the carrier until after he had made his statement on the previous Wednesday. He explained this was probably due to difficulties and restrictions on naval communications arising from battle conditions.

China's Foreign Minister Reassured By US Visit

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3 (AP)—Foreign Minister T. V. Soong said today at his first press conference since arriving from Washington that he had left the United States with "a full and complete assurance of victory in the not distant future."

He said he had come back to China with the impression that "the greatest difficulties are overcome and we are left with a feeling of restrained optimism."

Explaining his feeling in part, he said he was struck by the tremendous energies of the United States.

"America is building a great army, a tough army, an unbeatable army," he declared. "America is not fighting the last Briton or the last Russian. She's in the war and means to spare nothing."

Announcing that he would go to Moscow in the near future and would pay a visit to Russia as soon as he had the opportunity, Soong emphasized that China has no territorial ambitions but wants to recover her own territory "such as Manchuria and Formosa."

The question of increased aid to China's armies, he continued was "mainly a question of transport routes—a question of logistics. There is no question of America's desire to give every aid to China."

At the start of the present war, he added, he was "impressed by President Roosevelt who mobilized manpower and resources of the United States in a democratic way x x x he had the strength of a giant but didn't use it like a giant."

Canada, he said, was "conducting a wonderful war effort which is proportion to her population surpasses that of any other southern

Christian Council Votes To Buy Vases For Bombardier Chapel

Miss Laneous Notes

Thoughts when we should be working...

On a trip to Camp Bowie, Brownwood, to visit our only brother, the outstanding impression we got first was his shoes.

Those G. I. foot coverings were never built for dancing pumps and his were two sizes too big one width too wide. We thought he looked like the weatherbird until we saw the rest of the boys, then he looked all right.

The curls we used to envy him have gone the way of all unnecessary trappings in the army. Little brother says they have two bowl cuts, high and higher. He rated the higher cut.

We learned that mail call will make or break a soldier's day and the disappointed looking soldiers who came away without a letter or box were hard to look at.

The girls who give their time and sacrifice their feet to count every Saturday night at the USO have a special part of every soldier's affections, we found. They think the USO is what makes all the jolts of changing from civilian habits to army life bearable.

In the town where a military secret number of soldiers swarm the downtown section every night, the boys feel a little sorry for the officers who go home with spee arms from saluting.

From the newest recruit on up to the men who saw service in world war one, they each try to outdo the other and the next better in performance. They think their outfit is the toughest and slated for the most responsibility. They also think they can whip the (censored) Nazis and twice (censored) Japs in any engagement.

Tips on How to Improve Your Lighting

Use One Large Bulb

There is one time when 2 + 2 doesn't equal 4, and that's when you add lamp bulbs. One 150-watt bulb gives more light than three 50-watt bulbs, so where practical, use one or two large bulbs instead of three or five smaller bulbs.

Keep Spare Fuses On Hand

About Units At The BSAAFBS Presenting The 817th School Sqdn., Under New Commanding Officer

CAPT. A. H. SPRINGER

MAJ. WM. R. BOUTZ

CAPT. DWAIN A. ROOKIE

This is the first of a series of features about different units that go to make up the Army Air Forces Bombarrier School in Big Spring. This story is longer than will be subsequent ones in order to picture the workings of a squadron, which is composed of personnel and equipment necessary to train bombardiers in the air. The 817 School Squadron is picked at random.—Ed.

The 817th School Squadron of the Big Spring Army Air Forces Bombarrier School can boast of one thing without fear of challenge—it has the newest commanding officer of any outfit in the school.

Major William R. Boutz has just turned over the command to Capt. Dwain A. Rookie. Major Boutz goes to the important post of executive officer of the 1st Provisional Training Group.

Capt. Rookie was born in Jewell county, Kansas, but his family moved to Pullman, Wash., when he was a young lad. He graduated from high school there and studied electrical engineering at Washington State College and took ROTC training, which set him up for his subsequent training at Kelly Field as a flying cadet. Graduating there in July 1940, he served for a time as flying instructor at Randolph Field and now has around 1,400 hours to his credit.

Another captain, very popular with the men, is Capt. Allen M. Springer, squadron adjutant, who is charged with efficient operation of the squadron. He was commissioned a 2nd lieutenant as an aircraft observer during the 1st World War and in 1918 entered the Army Air Corps Reserve, from which he came back into service the first of this year. Recruits see him up to be hardboiled but as one from Brooklyn said to one from the Bronx, "He's a right guy—dat bold!"

RECREATION
Although his main job is squadron pilot, Lieut. Lum Twillinger is doing a good job as recreation officer, supervising sports, parties, dances, and other entertainment for the outfit.

For instance, take the squadron party the other evening. Each man got a big fat steak out of the deal with plenty of cold Coca Cola or draft beer to wash it down. There was music to go along and Cpl. Nick Bragg came up with some good tricks from the land of legerdemain, such as putting an egg in an empty wooden box and pulling out two baby chicks. Sgt. Johnny Reda's song and dance act went over big. These parties are financed by each man's kicking $3 into the fund when he gets promoted—which is better than the old method of his giving everybody a four-for-a-nickie cigar.

Line chief of the 817th is M/Sgt. Albert Lessard, a native of Canada who spent 22 years around Quebec, who toured all 48 of the United States on his motorcycle before enlisting in the field artillery at Fort Sam Houston back in 1942. He transferred to the air forces in 1927 and his job now is to see that bombing planes are kept in perfect shape for night and day flying. His background in automobile mechanics plus his experience makes him a good man

Plane Builder

A versatile man is M/Sgt. Albert Lessard, line chief of the 817th School Squadron at the Big Spring Army Air Forces Bombarrier School.

During his spare time at Randolph Field back in 1931, Sgt. Lessard built a glider and learned to fly it. Later he built an airplane which he flew for more than eight years before he figured maybe not even he could hold it together longer.

Since then he has been building model airplanes, and has 40 to his credit, all powered by tiny gasoline motors. One of his first models, still in flying condition, is on display at Carnetti's store in Big Spring. It has 403 successful flights to its credit and once attained an altitude of 3,400 feet before it was brought down by another plane seven miles from starting point.

for the place. M/Sgt. Lessard married a Seguin girl and they have two children, a boy and a girl.

M/Sgt. Reuben Buss has the responsible position of assistant line chief, a sort of executive officer for the chief, whose place he takes when the chief is absent. He is a veteran of six years and is a first class aviation mechanic, being a graduate of the air mechanics school at Randolph Field.

Flight Chief
Two more important members of the line are Flight Chief T/Sgt. Anderson J. Childers, a veteran of almost five years who spent one year in the cavalry before transferring to the air corps to graduate from Randolph Field mechanics school, and his assistant, T/Sgt. Joseph Browning, who has three years in the army and who is a graduate of both the radio and mechanics school at Randolph.

Technical inspector is T/Sgt. Curtis K. Campbell, whose job it is to check records, reports and files pertaining to airplanes, their maintenance, servicing, etc. He has five and a half years in the army and knows all the ropes in his department.

The fellows who stand there breathing right on the necks of mechanics any time a part is removed or replaced are S/Sgts. McClendon, Bridges, Annin, Gleason and Reda, who comprise the squadron inspection department. These men are fussy because their OK carries with it the responsibility for safety of plane crews.

Because a plane can't take off or land without permission from the radio control tower, the communication chief is a mighty important man. Multiple flights, changing weather, etc., make the radio vital and it's up to T/Sgt. Robert Moss, graduate of Chanute Field technical radio school and who has spent three years in the army, to see that radios are working.

There may be some as vital along the line, but none more so than the Technical line supply sergeant, who handles thousands of nuts, bolts, screws and parts of all sizes and descriptions. Crew chiefs must go to him whenever they needed the smallest item—and he must make sure it's the right one. T. Sgt. Leslie A. Baldwin has the tough job here.

Line office is in charge of S/Sgt. Ivan H. Peth, chief clerk of engineering and operations, who, in addition to line records must submit daily and monthly reports on condition of all airplanes for flying and bombing.

Supply Problems
A patient guy is Supply Sergeant Bill McConaughy, who might easily grow haggard from pleas to issue bedding, clothing, shovels, pails, tools, etc. He even has to listen to plaintive pleas from guys who got a pair of pants with 40-inch waist and to birds who can't even keep up with shoe laces.

Don't forget the patient man who suffers in silence—the first sergeant, or top kick. His is just about the toughest spot in the army, for he is go-between for the CO and his men. From yard birds to the highest ranking enlisted men all take their beefing and bellyaching to the top kick—and he listens. Everything dealing with the health, equipment, activities, work and play of the men come within the jurisdiction of the top sergeant—but Herman L. Wooten seems to keep fat and happy in spite of it. Three years in the army may have hardened him.

Crawford Coffee Shop Improvements Prove Popular

A re-arrangement of equipment, including installation of many new items, has resulted in increased popularity with the public of the Crawford Coffee Shop, which is busier than ever these days in dispensing food to a heavy local and transient patronage.

Recent additions to the coffee shop were a horse-shoe counter and booths which line the sides of the spacious room and are in addition to the customary tables. With facilities for serving thus improved, the Crawford has stressed high quality in its food also, and the result is a fine response by the public.

Harry Dulker, a food man of considerable experience with Texas hotels, is in charge of the coffee shop. Under his management, the establishment has steadily improved its cuisine and service.

Yes, We Have No Bananas Is Still Right With Monkeys

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Even the monkeys at the Audubon Park zoo are making their contribution to the total war effort.

It's two yams a day for each monkey now.

Night Blooming Flower Breaks 42-Year Record

CLEVELAND (UP)—Old Faithful had nothing on Edward Volk's night blooming cereus—until this year.

For 42 years the flower has opened, once a year, approximately at midnight, and closed its bloom at sunrise. The 1942 edition, however, skipped the nocturnal blooming and opened in broad daylight.

Family Here Cheered By Dispatch From Java, Where Son Is Missing

Word that American and other allied prisoners in Java are, despite poor fare and other hardships, maintaining a fine spirit in cheering news to the J. L. Ballock family of 706 Nolan street.

For a son, Earl F. Ballock is among those listed as missing in the Netherlands East Indies. Young Ballock, a member of the 131st Field Artillery, a national guard unit that early was mustered into service, was in an anti-tank unit, and participated in the first battles of the Pacific war.

His father recently received a clipping from a Boston paper which contained a dispatch from Special Correspondent George Weller who had been in Java and made his escape to Australia. Weller mentioned the 131st field artillery as coming in for special citation for stamina in battle.

Weller also recounted some of the activities of guerilla forces in Java—forces that had not yet been overcome by the Japanese—and this was encouraging news to the Ballocks, also, because they are not convinced that their son might not be one of those who eluded capture.

The Boston newspaper account of Java defenses was sent to the Ballocks here by another son who is here in the service, stationed now at Camp Edwards, Mass.

Axis Losses In Desert Heavy

ROME (From Italian Broadcast), Nov. 3 (AP)—Axis losses have been heavy in a violent desert battle in Egypt which still is continuing, the Italian high command reported today, but it said the British losses also have been severe, including more than 90 armored cars destroyed.

The communique said an "imposing" allied armored force struck with renewed pressure yesterday on the North African desert and that axis troops not only stopped it but also "with great valor several times counter-attacked."

"Enemy losses are heavy, especially in armored cars of which more than 90 have been destroyed," it said. "Our losses, too, are high. "Fierce combats are still taking place."

FLASH PREVIEW

"Eyes In The Night"

This exciting mystery tale from MGM stars Edward Arnold, with Ann Harding, Donna Reed, Reginald Denny.

Ann Harding enlists the aid of Edward Arnold, a blind detective, when she becomes involved in the murder of a former fiancée.

Ann's stepdaughter, Donna Reed, who was in love with the man, believes Ann was jealous and that she is guilty of the crime.

But Arnold finds that the victim was killed by Ann's servants, who are Axis spies trying to steal her husband's invention.

At this point the inventor, Reginald Denny, unexpectedly returns from a trip. The gang seizes him, attempts to learn his secret.

The detective outsmarts the gang, however, rescues Denny, and sends his seeing-eye dog, with a note on its collar, for help.

ON THE SETS With Luis Rosado

The "Call Sheet" read: Picture — "Thank Your Lucky Stars." Set — Exterior Hollywood and Vine — Broadcasting Station — Newstand. Location — New York Street. (Weather Permitting.)

Confusing — isn't it? The picture, "Thank Your Lucky Stars," is a piece of make-believe which brings to the screen every important star as well as featured player on the Warner Brothers roster. As an extra added attraction, Mark Hellinger, who is producing the picture, and Dave Butler, who is directing it, appear on the screen as themselves.

Portraying fictitious characters are Eddie Cantor, Dennis Morgan and Joan Leslie. Here we are on New York Street. Not much like New York, is it? Why should it be? The street is supposed to have been remodeled to look like Hollywood. Come on closer and let's see who's working.

Hm, just in time to see Mark Hellinger and Dave Butler do their "bit" before the camera. There's Dennis Morgan giving Hellinger some before the camera, and should the present conflict continue to take leading men away from the studios, the producer could lose a few pounds and become as dashing as any of the well-known screen lovers.

With Dave Butler it's a different story. A few years back, Dave used to be an actor and was quite successful in the field. As a matter of fact Dave is still acting. You never see him before the camera, but he acts every piece of business for his actors while directing. So, this is no effort on his part.

The scene shows Hellinger and Butler talking after seeing Eddie Cantor work. Hellinger's dialogue: "That little guy is clever. He would be good as an imitator of Eddie Cantor."

Butler's dialogue: "Uh-uh—we tried him once but he got sobs where he was supposed to get laughs."

That's Eddie Cantor directing the sequence. This is something every actor dreams of — to be able to direct his producer and director. You guessed it. Eddie is dissatisfied with the delivery of the boys. That's why he is sending old-timer Hank Mann, once a Mack Bennett star, to show them how to do it.

Well, that's that. Director Eddie Cantor has okayed the "take." By the way did you hear what that extra girl said? No. She said: "At that they are better than most actors." She may have something there.

What's that you say? Well, I'll be darned. You are right. That doesn't look like Hollywood and Vine. Oh, well, I told you it was kind of complicated. But then, the "weather" is permitting.

Fashion Scene

By Margaret McKay

Winter colors are more subtle this year than heretofore. They are dramatic and play a multitude of chords on the color scale. You don't wear red—nothing so dull as that—you wear cranberry red or hibiscus red or some other intriguing variation. It's that way with all the colors. For instance, Orry-Kelly, the Warner Bros. designer, predicts the brown family will be very glamorous all season with cherry brown, amber and champagne—the off tones—most popular. In greens it will be bronze green and smoky jade. He also names for evening colors such delicious sounding shades as sky coral, tangerine and bittersweet.

Grey, as a color, is exceedingly important on the fashion front now and used in combination with brown or black or citron yellow.

Ginger Rogers wears a dove grey afternoon crepe frock in her current picture, "Once Upon a Honeymoon," and combines it with sable brown. Sleeves of the frock are brief shoulder caps so Ginger wears long gloves in matching grey. Her tiny grey hat is draped with yards of grey veiling and she carries a string of saffles, a sable brown handbag with matching slippers.

Maria Montez also advocates the wearing of grey. At the Hollywood Canteen the other night (where the stars entertain the servicemen) she wore a grey wool suit with the jacket pockets trimmed in criss-cross bands of black wool. Her jacket came to a point in the back and flared into a peplum.

THE NEW GREENS are also stunning, such as Olivia de Havilland's new frock in asbrite green moire. Styled with short sleeves, a cross-over bodice forms a deep V neckline and features a draped fullness at the front. A belt of self material ties in a bow and her peplum has unpressed pleats. She adds short gauntlets of matching moire and a calot hat with standing bows ends to complete her outfit.

Betty Grable contrasts two luscious colors in her suit of winter blue (a deep, rich blue) with narrow bands of cyclamen wool inserted vertically at the sleeve seams. Even her hat, which is one of the Cosack shapes, was made of the suit fabric and had a stripe of cyclamen down one side.

Annabella is wearing a lovely cousin of purple—a shade called hyacinth. It is a crepe afternoon frock with a chemise draw-string looping into a bow at the back. The deeper shade of amethyst gives the frock an added verve when she pins her amethyst and diamond sunburst pin at the waistline in front.

BEST DRESSED GIRL OF THE WEEK: Glenda Farrell, dining at the Ambassador Hotel, with her husband, Major Henry Ross, in a brown silk gabardine suit with that vivid fur called ocelot for trimming. The buttons of the suit were covered with the fur as were the lapels of her jacket cut in mess jacket fashion. The pom-poms on her tiny hat repeated the fur motif again. Pumps and bag and gloves were all in congo capekin.

AROUND TOWN: Bonita Granville, dining at the Hollywood Brown Derby, in one of the decorative vests that are catching on so well. Her vest was in black velveteen and worn over a fable black dress. Irene Manning in a romantic gown of moonlight grey she wears in "The Desert Song."

A Football Special modeled by MGM's Jean Rogers, who is in "The War Against Mrs. Hadley." Her pancake braid of muskrat matches the lining. Alligator belt and bag match, and the moss green wool dress has side buttoning and double hem-line.

"THE ROAD TO MOROCCO," the new Paramount picture teaming Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour, is even somewhat wackier—if that is possible—than their previous co-starring comedies, "The Road to Mandalay" and "The Road to Singapore."

To give you an example, the cast includes a couple of talking camels whose actual lip movements, through an intricate technical process, are made to simulate exactly the articulation of human beings.

Bing Crosby sells Bob Hope to a slave trader in this hilarious scene from Paramount's "Road to Morocco."

"This is the screwiest picture I ever worked in," one of the camels declares and watches Hope and Crosby give the hot-foot to a tableful of banquetting Moroccan warriors. And when the lady quadruped views with disdain the antics of these two specimens of mankind, and opines that she is glad she is a camel, her camel boy friend gives her a meaningful look and replies: "I'm glad you are a camel, too, Mabel."

The plot begins when Crosby sells Hope into slavery for two hundred bucks. Crosby is somewhat remorseful about the deal when he learns that the "slave" is to be wine, dined, clad in silken raiment and married off to La Belle Lamour, the Moroccan princess. Anthony Quinn, as a ferocious desert chieftain who isn't carrying that sword to trim his toenails with, complicates the situation. By the time our heroes have escaped to sea again, and the Statue of Liberty is on view in New York Harbor, Crosby has claimed Lamour, and Hope is taking consolation with a pert and shapely runaway harem girl played by Dena Drake.

But don't leave yet, folks. The picture isn't over, and the tag line will crack your ribs.

Love and adventure in Technicolor on the Spanish Main are the ingredients of 20th Century-Fox's new film, "THE BLACK SWAN," in which Tyrone Power, Lala Cregar and George Sanders all are cast as more or less bloodthirsty pirates.

The scenes of the fighting among them will be equalled in popular appeal only the scenes of Power's provocative love-making with the redheaded Maureen O'Hara, whose rare loveliness is vividly enhanced by the Technicolor camera portraiture.

The story begins when Pirate Henry Morgan, played by Cregar, is pardoned by the king instead and made governor of Jamaica on his pledge that he will rid the Caribbean of pirates and privateers. Morgan's task is made difficult by the desertion, by political scheming, and by the headstrong passion of one of his youthful followers for the ex-governor's daughter.

"There goes the Spanish Main," Pirate Cregar sighs as, at the conclusion, Pirate Power is led peacefully away to a ship's cabin by the beautiful heroine.

Power, wearing a horseshoe mustache of the type once popularized by the notorious Captain Kidd, does well as the cutlass-swinging young firebrand. Thomas Mitchell, as a fellow pirate, is good too, but the best performance of all is that given by Sanders as the red-bearded and villainous Captain Leech.

Meet the Stars

With Joe Fisher

Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd, who for the past eight years has portrayed the famous western sleuth, is an actor, not a cowboy, and refrains from wearing his cowboy suit outside of the studio. Furthermore, he refuses to sing in his pictures, as he feels that his numerous fans prefer action. Bill gained first-hand knowledge of the range when as a youngster, in his teens he worked his way from Oklahoma to California by taking jobs on ranches. Other work which he did along the way included orange picking and coal mining.

Bill attributes his fine physique to this healthy, outdoor life in his early years.

"My experience with the boys on the range taught me they're just ordinary down-to-earth human beings who go in for the simple life. That's why I insist Hoppy be kept that way," says Bill.

His early movie career, while very successful, made him nervous and unhappy. Although featured in hundreds of motion pictures, including "The Volga Boatman," he tired of being the romantic lover and longed for the open country. So he quit the screen.

About the time he decided to come out of retirement, Harry Sherman acquired the movie rights to the Clarence E. Mulford stories, and was looking for someone to portray the celebrated character of Hopalong Cassidy. Boyd went to Sherman and was signed immediately. Bill has since made the Mulford character one of the most popular ever brought to the screen.

Boyd has so identified himself with the role that today much of his fan mail comes to the studio addressed to "Hopalong Cassidy."

He claims to be the most happily married man in Hollywood. Wed to Grace Bradley, screen actress and former Broadway star, he lives 46 miles out of Hollywood on a thriving ranch which he works himself. They have no phone there and anyone wanting to reach the Boyds must come in person or send a messenger. Bill also keeps his famous snow white horse "Topper" on the ranch with him, where he, too, can rest up between pictures. Both Bill and Grace ride snow white horses with identical silver trappings. And they're seldom seen in night clubs, preferring their country life.

Bill is 47 years old and his current picture, "Colt Comrades," is said to be his 47th in the Hoppy series.

The Hoppies, for years released through Paramount Pictures Inc., were recently bought by United Artists, further proof of the tremendous success enjoyed by these pictures.

Bill's infectious chuckle will continue to be heard on the screen for a good many years to come as the beloved Hopalong Cassidy.

QUIZ BOX

Q. From Miss Georgia Pless, Gallup, New Mexico: Can you give me a list of Olivia de Havilland's pictures?

A. It is quite an impressive list. She started right out with a big part in the star-laden Warner Bros. picture "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and has played the feminine leads in "Alibi," "The Irish in Us," "Captain Blood," "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "Call It A Day," "It's Love I'm After," "The Great Garrick," "Gold Is Where You Find It," "The Adventures of Robin Hood," "Four's a Crowd," "Hard To Get," "Wings of the Navy," "Dodge City," "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," "Gone With the Wind," "My Love Came Back," "Santa Fe Trail," "Strawberry Blonde," "They Died With Their Boots On" and "The Male Animal."

Q. From Max Salas, Albuquerque, New Mexico: Will you please tell me Anne Gwynne's real name and where she is from? Also what pictures she has played in?

A. She's a Texas lass, born in Waco and educated in San Antonio, and her real name is Marguerite Gwynne Trice. Her pictures include: "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," "Framed," "The Green Hdrnet," "Oklahoma Frontier," "Unexpected Father," "Bad Man from Hed Butte," "Sandy is a Lady," "Flash Gordon Conquers the Universe," "Honeymoon Deferred," "Black Friday," "Spring Parade," "Give Us Wings," "Nice Girl," "The Black Cat," "Eight Shoes," "Job Town," "Road Agent," "Hedy Lane," "Washington Melodrama," "Don't Get Personal," "Jail House Blues," "Ride 'Em Cowboy," "The Strange Case of Dr. X," "Broadway."

Quite some time ago the boys at Fort Devens, Mass., all chipped in and made a long-distance phone call to Rita Hayworth in Hollywood. Now Rita makes a call to the fort once every two weeks, and talks to fifteen of the boys each time — and she's paying the damages . . . We all know what super swell work Brian Donlevy has been doing in dramatic film like "Wake Island," "Beau Geste" and many more. But now I hear he's about to be starred in a rip-roaring comedy titled, "Hi, Diddle Diddle" . . . Dorothy Lamour's new romance has all Washington agog — but can't tell you who it is!

Of all the Hollywood stars, none has been more aloof to co-workers and particularly the press than Joan Arthur. And many's the time she's been unmercifully picked on in print for this attitude. But believe me, she's a changed gal these days. On the set of "Merry Go Round" where she's now toiling, they'll tell you that she's warmed up plenty to associates and newspaper folk alike. But what's warming up the gang most of all, is that mere strip of bathing suit that Joan has been working in. Revealing a gorgeous shape—and just about the best looking legs in town!

Dolores Del Rio, still down in Mexico City, is dying to get back to Hollywood. But so far, I'm told, her agent has not been able to stir up any picture offers . . . Carl Brisson (who just became an American citizen) up and socked a feller in a nite spot, because he was knocking the WAACS and the WAVES — well, good for Carl—who used to be a big star—remember? His son is wed to Rosalind Russell . . . And Rox is having some troubles lately—arguing hard with her producer David Hempstead over scenes for "Stand by to Die." So much so, that production is behind schedule . . . Hedy Lamarr, Greer Garson, Kay Kyser and his band, were among the Hollywood celebs who came to the Hollywood Canteen in the past few evenings and thrilled the service boys so much . . . and you should have seen lovable old character actor Harry Davenport (close to 80) acting as a bus boy, and giving younger blades like Anthony Quinn, Ronald Colman and others, a "lesson" in how to juggle trays laden with dirty dishes . . .

Here's a giggle: Over at the Warner studio all employees suddenly received an order to go to the photographic department and have their pictures taken, for identification cards. Alan Hale, working hard (in costume) anxious to comply immediately, rushed from his set, to get his picture snapped. He got photographed all right — wearing a NAZI uniform!

Bob Hope isn't busy enough, what with bond-selling, camp shows, rehearsing his radio-shows between stops (usually up in a plane)—so on his way back to Hollywood from Alaska where he'd been entertaining the soldiers, he stopped off in San Francisco to play a charity golf-match with Bing Crosby! And right soon, Bob is going to Ireland to brighten things up for the boys. But first he'll "stop off" at Paramount to be in "Let's Face It." Really—merely making a movie must seem like a vacation for Bob!

Anne Rutherford and Jack Converse are sharing the moonlight . . . Sue Carol and Alan Ladd, after denying those baby rumors—now admit they expect Mr. Stork . . . and that goes for the John Beals too . . . Saw Geraldine Fitzgerald, wearing a gingham dress, topped by one of those spanky, glamorous hair-dos. Couldn't tell whether she was coming home from market—or on her way to a dance!

Where there are reeds there must be water, and Jane Randolph has evidently just emerged from a pool somewhere in the vicinity. She's in RKO's "The Cat People."

Steers Have To Be Shown That Angelo Can Beat 'Em

Dibrell Boys At Work For Nov. 11 Tilt

Rested in the first line and more experienced in the second by reason of the Colorado City game here Friday, the Big Spring Steers are swinging into some serious and determined practice sessions in anticipation of entertaining their old and bitter rivals, the San Angelo Bobcats, here Nov. 11.

Once again the Steers will be cast in their familiar role of underdogs, but even rabid San Angelo fans will admit that doesn't mean too much when it comes to a game with Big Spring. In years when ostensibly there was no reason to hope for close games, one team or the other has held or even upset the favorite.

That's what the young charges of John Dibrell are aiming at now. Last Friday Odessa beat San Angelo by a 14-6 count, but earlier Odessa had polished off the befuddled Steers 33-0. San Angelo scored on a pass interception which indicated no perceptible offense for the Bobcats. Big Spring made its score against Odessa the hard way, but then gave the Ector county boys two touchdowns in the first battle out of the box to look every bit as inexperienced as they were.

San Angelo's forte until last Friday was simply to overwhelm the opposition. Rocky Rundell, Angelo coach, is hardly one to call his Bobcats off, and once he got the opposition going, he saw to it that things kept in the groove. Victims were not only beaten, but demoralized by the procedure.

But in the Steers Rundell may find a team of youngsters that don't even know the word "demoralized" is in the dictionary. Take the Lamesa game for instance — the charges of John Dibrell started off fumbling as usual and had given away two touchdowns before they realized it. Apparently that was enough to whip them, but the lads struck back with stinging blows and with the use of veterans to gain a 14-14 tie out of the traps. The very next week at Midland they fumbled at the start (this has been going on almost all season) and the Bulldogs were over for a tally in the twinkling of an eye.

Early in the third period the Steers scored to tie the count and then went ahead. But Midland roared back with a long pass to score, and the Steers refused to get rattled. Instead, they went out and got another tally before the game was over and won.

Last week against Colorado City the reserves played practically all the game — and looked pretty good, too. The first string, resting from bruises, got in for a few minutes and pushed over two tallies quickly. If they look that good against the Bobcats, some San Angelo money may stay here to be invested in war bonds and stamps.

Sunday Grid Games Banned At Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The board of trustees of the University of Tulsa has said no to any more Sunday football.

The unbeaten, unscathed on Hurricane played two Sunday games with service teams this year. Two weeks ago the Oklahoma synod of the Presbyterian church criticized the Sunday contests.

The university formerly was a Presbyterian school, and retains a constitutional relationship with the church's board of education.

S'west Clubs Rehearse For Title Battles

By The Associated Press
Light workouts for four of the Southwest conference's seven grid teams opened preparation yesterday for three championship games and one non-conference contest this weekend.

Reading his club for a game that will be all temporarily decide the loop leader, Coach Frank Kimbrough sent the Baylor Bears through a light workout for their game in Austin with Dana Bible's Texas Longhorns. Most of the afternoon was spent in skull session, with the players studying scout reports of the Texas-SMU game of the last week.

At Austin, the Longhorns brewed aerial surprises for the Bears after Coach Bible warned the team that Baylor probably would send eight stalwart linemen against the deceptive, speedy Longhorn running attack. The Steers came out of the SMU game in good physical shape.

Coach Homer Norton's Texas Aggies, braced by their 41-0 win over Arkansas, went through a short workout in preparation for their clash in Dallas with Southern Methodist's Mustangs.

Norton said he was pleased with last week's play by Hank Foidberg, sophomore who tried out at tackle, and Barney Welch, Leo Daniel's understudy at fullback.

SMU's first and second teams went through their hardest Monday drills of the year as Jimmy Stewart's Ponies got ready for the Aggies. The team worked overtime on their passing attack.

Co-Capt. Orville (Bull) Johnson, first-string pony guard, is probably out for the season with an injured knee and Carroll Parker, promising sophomore, is also out with an injury. Otherwise the squad is in good shape.

Dutch Meyer's Texas Christian Horned Frogs, upset last week by Baylor, took a light drill yesterday preparing for the Texas Tech game at Lubbock this week, the only nonconference tilt on tap. The squad came out of the Baylor fray in good shape.

At Houston, Rice Institute's gridder's started work for Saturday's conference game against Arkansas by devoting much time to passing and running. The boys did not wear heavy pads for the practice.

Owl mentor Jess Neely plans one more home workout before the team leaves tomorrow night for Fayetteville. The Owls will spend tomorrow night in Dallas and make a day trip to Fayetteville, arriving there Thursday night.

Arkansas Coach George Cole sent the Razorbacks through a lengthy scrimmage yesterday as the club prepared for their homecoming battle with Rice. Barring player injuries during the week, the team will be in good shape for the game.

Georgia Moves To Top In Grid Ratings

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Georgia not only defeated Alabama Saturday but it convinced the nation's sports writers that it is the best college football team in the land.

The undefeated Dixie Bulldogs snared 84 5-8 first place votes out of a possible 127 today and bounded into first place in the weekly Associated Press poll, replacing Ohio State. The Buckeyes, leaders for three straight weeks, sank to sixth following their defeat by Wisconsin, 17 to 7. Wisconsin also participated in the shake up, one of the most violent in the seven-year history of the poll, by vaulting from sixth to second, just 138 points below Georgia.

Georgia Tech, another undefeated power, moved from fifth to third while Notre Dame retained its grasp on fourth place. Boston College moved from seventh to fifth on the strength of the 47 to 0 thrashing it administered to a good Georgetown squad. Alabama slid to eighth from the third place spot it held a week ago but Minnesota climbed from tenth to seventh. Pennsylvania, which whipped the previously unbeaten army team, 17 to 0, replaced the cadets in the listing. The Quakers jumped from fourteenth to ninth while Army dropped from eighth to 19 as a result of the defeat.

The top ten was completed by University of California at Los Angeles, winner of three Pacific coast tussles in a row. The Bruins were eleventh a week ago and took over the spot vacated by Texas Christian which was upset by Baylor and sank to the also-ran classification.

The Georgians, coached by Wallace Butts and sparked by all-American Halfback Frank Sinkwich, were second on all three of the previous polls this season and had 25 votes for first last week, compared with the 84 5-8 this week. The standings of the teams (first place votes in parenthesis, points figured on 10-9-8-7 etc. basis):

Georgia (84 5-8)	1189 1-3
Wisconsin (20 1-3)	1081
Georgia Tech (15 5-8)	801 3-2
Notre Dame (11)	524 8-54
Boston College (13)	510
Ohio State (12)	495 5-15
Minnesota (1)	372 5-15
Alabama (1)	337 5-15
Pennsylvania (1)	228 5-15
UCLA (1)	209 5-15

Second ten:
11—Michigan 279 5-16; 12—Tulsa 60 5-16; 13—Tennessee 47 5-16; 14—Texas 37 5-16; 15—Santa Clara 34 5-16; 16—Baylor 30 5-16; 17—William and Mary 24; 18—Pryor State (1) 17; 19—Army 12 5-16; 20—Illinois 10.

Also ran—Texas Christian 9 5-16; Mississippi State and Texas A & M 6 each; Williams 4; Syracuse 3 5-16; Washington State 3; Hardin-Simmons 2; Iowa 1 5-16; Marquette, Kentucky, Fordham, Virginia Polytech and Missouri 1 point each.

Keith Evans Of Odessa Tops As Pass Snagger

ODESSA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—If the big guy suddenly runs three steps and jumps into the air with his right arm extended it's not because there's a bee in his pants leg.

That would be Keith Evans, who had to learn how to jump before he could become the mightiest pass catcher of Texas football.

Evans plays end on the Odessa high school team and to date he has taken 33 out of 39 passes for 495 yards, which is gaining ground if anybody's league.

He has caught at least a third of those passes with one hand — the right.

Evans had a bit of trouble learning to get his six feet four off the ground. So Coach Bob Harrell got an idea on how to make him "jump conscious." He had Keith bouncing around like a Mexican bean—always emphasizing that "right arm foremost."

Because of his unusual height Evans can grab passes up in safe territory, well out of reach of opposing backs — making interceptions rare indeed.

Jimmy McCracken, star Odessa backfielder who has completed more than half the passes he has thrown this season, always shoots them high to Evans and the youngster goes up to get them. That's one reason the big boy catches so many with one hand.

Evans weighs 204 pounds and his teammates say he never has been knocked down by a blocker. What makes his pass-catching more remarkable is the fact that four of the seven games in which he has played have been in the rain.

'Old' Notre Dame Had The Gipper, 1942 Notre Dame Has The Dipper

Wide World Features
SOUTH BEND, Ind.—A variety of nicknames usually indicates popularity. Frederick Owen Evans, Jr., Notre Dame senior halfback, must really rate with his teammates who call him Owen, Dippy, Dip, The Dipper, Fearless Fred, and a few other more or less flattering endearments.

Dippy, who led the undefeated 1941 Notre Dame squad in rushing and in scoring, is the apple of Coach Frank Leahy's eye. Ed Keever, backfield mentor, calls him the greatest back he's ever seen. Leahy is almost equally high in his praise of the South Bend boy with the light brown curly hair, blue eyes, and winning smile. They like Evans particularly because he is not interested in making himself popular with anyone on the other side of the line of scrimmage.

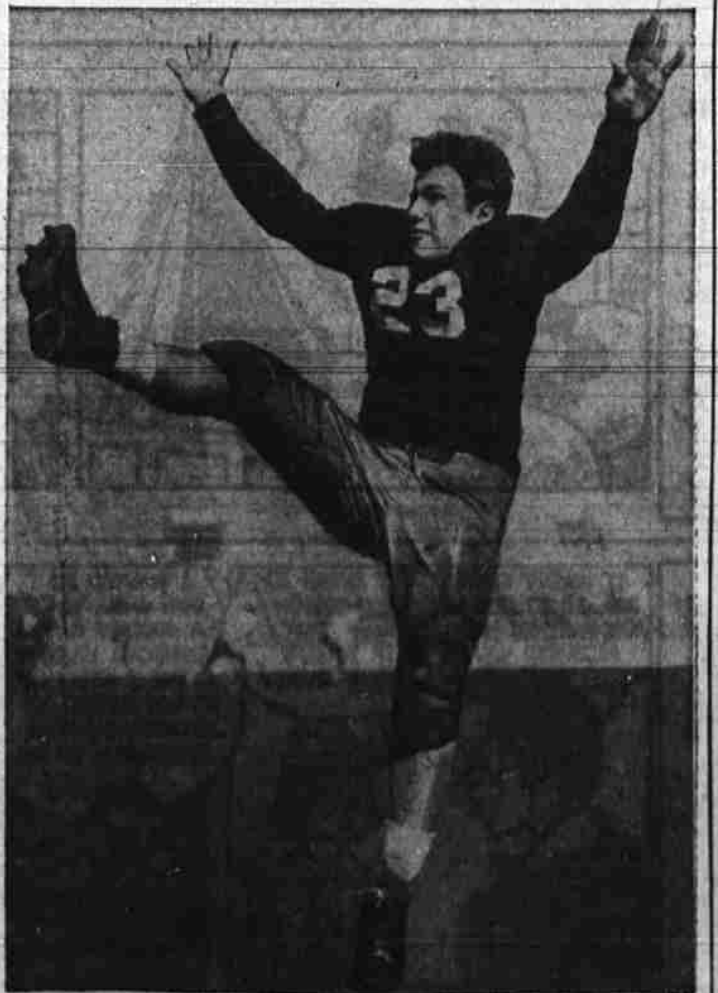

Tough Guy
The Dipper—an appellation derived from some combination of George Gipp's "The Gipper" and Evan's own "Dippy"—has one obsession. He wants to be regarded as the toughest man on the Notre Dame football squad. Meeting him, you'd never know it, for he is almost shy in his manner. The boys on the squad know him better.

They know that he and Bill Riordan, senior guard, spent all last season trying to out-do each other in displays of fortitude. It remained for Bill to set the stage for Evan's winning thrust, however. Some Friday night shenanigans in their dormitory before the Southern California game, the last of the season, wound up with Riordan dumping a pail of water on Evans. Dippy started after Bill, but hit the wet tile and crashed into a wall, splitting his knee to the extent that 11 stitches had to be taken in it.

... after the game. Evans wouldn't permit stitches to be put in it before for fear that the joint would stiffen. He concealed the mishap from Coach Leahy until after the game.

It will be recalled that with Notre Dame leading, 20 to 18, and time running out, Notre Dame held the ball for seven minutes, using running plays exclusively, with Evans in control of the ball and preventing the Trojans from getting possession. It was the best land march the Irish made all season. Dippy ran harder and out more sharply than he had all season. And it marked the fourth straight game in which he had played practically 60 minutes.

He's the kind of boy who rises above injury," says Leahy. "He takes coaching beautifully. He'll do anything we tell him to, and will do it right. He knew we had to keep that ball. He was just tough enough to keep driving into that big Trojan line time after time so that we could keep it, even though his knee was extremely painful."

FREDERICK OWEN (DIPPY) EVANS

Evans started as a left halfback as a sophomore. Leahy, wanting to utilize Angelo Bertelli's passing at left half, and having scouted the squad unsuccessfully for a fullback, moved Dippy to the power spot last fall. In spite of his mere 175 pounds, he made 11 touchdowns in nine games.

Touchdown Speed
He used the speed that made him Indiana's state prep champion from Riley high school of South Bend on a 78-yard dash against Arizona, and on pass receptions against Illinois for 39 yards and against Southern California for 18 yards.

Now, with Notre Dame using the T-formation, Evans is back at left halfback where his speed and ability to cut back sharply should make him extremely valuable. Dippy will soon be a member of the Army Air Corps. The Notre Dame senior has been accepted by this branch of service, to report following his graduation a few

From where I sit....
by Joe Marsh

THAD PHIBBS' house got struck by lightning a couple of nights ago. The kitchen chimney was knocked off and the roof set on fire, and Thad found things pretty lively and exciting for a spell.

The fire was soon out though, thanks to the prompt and efficient work of the local fire department, as the paper says... and I never seen a man so grateful as Thad.

Chief Ed Carey was sort of embarrassed, I guess, by the thanks that was being heaped on him.

"That's all right, Mr. Phibbs," he says. "That's all right, sir—that's what you pay taxes for."

From where I sit, I'd say Chief Ed's remark seems to have a lesson in it... a lesson on the way that taxes come back in mighty real benefits to the people.

Take the taxes on beer, for instance—more than 2½ billion dollars, I hear, figure in federal, state and local, in the nine years since beer's been back.

There was a time—remember—when a lot of that money went into the pockets of bootleggers and blind pigs. But today it's coming right back to the treasuries of the nation, the states and the local communities... for the benefit of everybody.

Some goes, for example, to pay for the things Uncle Sam needs to fight the war with... for tanks and ships and bombers.

Quite a lot goes for things like public health, and education, and good roads and the like.

And some of it, I surmise, has gone to support the fire company that gave Thad such good service the other night.

To moderate folks, who like a friendly glass of beer now and then, there's a sort of satisfaction in knowing that right now this beverage of moderation is furnishing the public treasuries well over a million dollars every single day.

That's quite a lot of money—especially nowadays when Uncle Sam needs every cent he can get hold of.

Washington Must See Need Of Manpower Legislation

Trouble with the manpower commission's plan to freeze dairy, livestock and poultry farmers in their work is that it comes too late to be effective. It's locking the stable door after the horse has absconded. And it won't help the general farm picture appreciably because it touches only the three classifications—dairy, livestock, poultry.

Plan is to have local draft boards grant occupational deferment to necessary men on essential farms of these three types and withdraw it if they cease to perform the work for which it was granted. Chief drawback: It's optional with the board; no compulsion.

In addition, the army and navy would cease to enlist these men, and industry would cease to entice them away. Same objection: no compulsion.

The agriculture department would undertake to stabilize farm wages in the three groups affected, "with a view to assisting those farmers in securing and maintaining an adequate supply of labor." Still no compulsion—and how can a farmer afford to compete with war industries in the matter of wages? He can't, particularly when prices of commodities are frozen.

Theoretically, manpower control is an ideal which depends for success entirely on some form of compulsion. To be practical the government needs the power to say to this man, "You work here," and to that man, "Here's your uniform." It can say "Here's your uniform" to millions, but it can't say to a single individual, "You work here."

That is not under present laws—and apparently not under the manpower commission's proposed "solution."

A solution that doesn't solve anything won't get anywhere. Meantime, dairy, livestock, poultry and just plain farms are drying up all over the map for want of adequate manpower.

Apparently Washington is not yet fully aware of that fact.

We can expect no workable solution until Washington does become aware.

Man About Manhattan— Army Induction Stories Revived After 25 Years

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — I've been hearing such a raft of stories about Army inductions and medical examinations that I can't think of a better way to start today's communication than by relating a few. It's said they are old stories, revived in every war, but if that's true, you wouldn't have heard them for 25 years.

One told by Leonard Lyons of the New York Post concerns an armless man. Much to his surprise, the armless man was accepted after his physical examination. Explained the Army doctor: "We've got a blind man filling gasoline tanks, and you can tell him when to quit."

Isa Kabbille of Kay Kyser's band says: "The way they examine you now, one doctor looks into your left ear and another doctor looks into your right ear, and if they can't see each other, you're in."

Frank Fay: "If you can see lightning and hear thunder, you're in."

Ed Gardner: ("Archy" of "Duffy's Tavern"): "If they feel of you and you're warm, you're in."

Eddie Jaffe, self-styled ugliest press agent on Broadway: "When I got rejected I asked the doctor if it was because of my eyes. He said: 'No, not exactly, but next time you're examined you'd better bring around a Seeing-Eye dog that hasn't got flat feet.'"

Ice-Skaters Just Don't Care For Each Other

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It may be the frigid air of the ice rink stages, but I've yet to meet in pictures a single ice star, feminine, who had a genuinely kind word to say for another ice star, feminine.

The love lost among them, if frozen over as it generally is, wouldn't make a postage-stamp rink of the type generally found in night clubs.

Actresses, many of them sincerely, will rave over the work of their rival actresses. Athletes, generally sporting, will mean it when they shake hands with their winning or losing contestants. Ice queens, when rival names are mentioned, will freeze over, or say coldly "She's very nice, period," or "Yes, I know her, period." They will thaw, when the talk is turned again to their own excellence and brilliance.

Bella, the latest of these charms, is obligingly definite about it. "Ice-skaters," she said, "don't like each other."

Bella is a genuinely charming and pretty addition to the blonde queens of Hollywood. She is only 18, tall, blonde and pleasantly curved. However, lest rival queens be tempted to resort to physical violence in any future encounter, it should be recorded here also that Bella packs a wallop. And, on occasion, a temper.

"I am English, of course," she said. "Granny is practically Argentine and Italian in descent, granddaddy the same. They met in the Argentine, where granny still has many estates. Daddy's blood was Spanish and Scotch. I'm sure we all have some French in us, too. That's why I've such a cool English temperament!"

"I've been really mad only about four times in my life. When I'm mad I generally bash my fists against doors. Once when I was 11 I was fighting with my brother, Dick, he jumped behind a glass door and I bashed it with my fist and went through it. I was so cut up they didn't think I'd live—that's where I got my scar." It's a nice one, right beside her left eye.

Today her wrath rises "when I am double-crossed, or people are unnecessarily mean, or somebody steals a number of mine and does it ahead of me in a show."

Bella, who is starring in "Silver Skates," took to the ice at four years of age, primarily as an aid to dancing. Her mother thought all sports of value to rhythm, and Bella played all the sports with brothers Dick and Bill. She still considers herself primarily a dancer but likes skating money.

Her full name is Bella Gladys Olive Lynne Jenson-Turner, but when she's 25, she says, she's going to change it—"quite the whole thing and get married and have three children."

So if the other ice queens will just be nice for seven years more, Bella's wallop shouldn't bother them.

Washington Daybook— Income Tax Is Going To Hit The 'Little People'

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Come time to pay it, the new federal tax bill is going to knock the noggin off so many people that that old word "complacency" will be lost to the language.

This country is as much of a hodge-podge economically as it is geographically so nobody is going to be able to set up any tables and say: "Here, brother, is just what you are up against."

There is, however, one little group here in Washington that is a pretty fair example of what some of us are going to be up against. That's the $1,440-a-year, or minimum pay, government clerks. Many of them are girls.

Not many months ago, the Department of Labor went into the "minimum costs of a decent living standard" for the government girls pretty thoroughly. If the Department of Labor statisticians had any ax to grind, try and find it. They weren't after getting wages up or down. They were only trying to set up a minimum budget by which government girls, at starting salaries could exist. The total, according to this estimate, was $1,318.08.

To itemize it here would take more space than I have, but just to give you an idea of how ungenerous the DL was being with its estimates, it allowed only $13 for "miscellaneous" and only $29 for the year for savings.

Since then, times have changed considerably. There's that 5 per cent for the federal retirement fund, $72 a year, on which Miss G. Girl will realize when she arrives at the ripe age of 60.

Then there's 10 per cent for War Savings bonds. This isn't compulsory, of course, but the pressure can be pretty terrific when every one around you is doing his or her bit in that direction. That means $144 more.

Now comes the tax—the spanking new federal tax. That will be added to it. The G-Girl who used to hit that minimum budget on the nose and come out with $100 or so to the good for a trip home or some other luxury, now is going to come out $100 to $250 minus, depending on how patriotic she

Chapter 13
IN STIB

Susan followed a guard through a long stone corridor and into the visitors' room at the end. A moment later Duke Malone came out of a door. The guard motioned to him and then stepped aside, indicating that Susan should sit down at one of the benches before the rail. Then the guard sat down about ten feet away.

There was a questioning look on Malone's face.

"Mr. Malone," Susan began, "my name is Susan Drake." Then she held her breath for an instant.

He nodded politely. "And this pleasure—" he asked softly.

"I'm a friend of Todd's," she continued. "I'm looking for him. He—well, he's been missing for two days. He hasn't even been to football practice and everyone's

Life's Darkest Moment

For a moment she wasn't going to tell him, then she felt a sag in her spirit. She told him everything, briefly, to the point.

When she had finished his lips were in a straight line, his face set.

"I'm surprised I didn't hear about this through the grapevine," he said, half to himself. "Very surprised, but I think I know why."

"Todd's at the Royal Inn in town. Get him and take him back to school," he said grimly. "Don't take no for an answer." "Don't take no for an answer," he said simply. "Help me take care of Todd, will you? I'm—er, sort of hampered, as it were."

Susan smiled then. "I'll help," she said and as she turned to leave he called after her. "Give my regards to Lieutenant Drake." Susan half froze in her tracks. He knew who she was. Todd must have told him. And Duke Malone still liked her.

Centerville as a town had little more than the state penitentiary and a couple of small factories. Its business section was small and the Royal Inn was the leading hotel.

Susan noted it was five-thirty as she entered the lobby, too early for Todd to be out to dinner.

She went to the desk clerk and asked if Todd were in. Glancing up he nodded over her shoulder. "He's just coming out of the elevator now."

Susan turned. Todd was walking across the lobby floor. She thanked the clerk hurriedly and started after Todd.

Army Promotions Listed By President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—President Roosevelt nominated ten army officers today for promotion to major general and at the same time asked the promotion of 45 others to brigadier general.

The chief executive sent to the senate also the nomination of Major General Frank M. Andrews, Caribbean defense commander, to be advanced to temporary lieutenant general. Andrews, a native of Nashville, Tenn., already holds the rank by virtue of his present post.

Those nominated to be major generals and their home addresses included James Kerr Orsain, Cuero, Texas.

Must Save Gas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Householders were warned today that because of the demands of war plants, coupled with the shortage of oil and coal, domestic consumption of gas must be sharply curtailed this winter.

this next road to the right. Want to take me there?"

"Sure," she said. Susan swung into a side road. Three miles down they came to the entrance to the country club. She drove up the long winding drive but stopped before she got to the huge clubhouse. "I'm letting you off here," she said. "I don't want anyone to see who brought you back. It's nobody's business. Let me suggest you go see Coach first. Talk to him and nobody else."

He opened the door and got out. He held out his hand. "Thanks," he said. She took his hand and he pulled her gently toward him. "I need a little extra courage," he said. It was her cue. She leaned forward and kissed him lightly on the mouth.

Doctor Scarcity Delays Health Unit

The scarcity of available doctors is delaying the establishment of the proposed city-county health unit here under plans devised by the state health department, it was learned from city officials today.

Directors of the units must be licensed physicians but the state department has been unable to secure enough doctors to fill the requirements.

The new unit, part of a statewide set-up, will displace the present city health department, but Mike Leeper, city sanitary inspector, will be taken into the new system.

Must Control Etex Fields

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP)—Railroad Commissioner Beauford Jester asserted today that the federal government would take over the gigantic East Texas oil field if the commission failed to halt excessive salt water production.

"I have just returned from Washington where I was told in no uncertain terms that the government will take the field over and settle with the property owners later if the commission does not stop salt water production," he said.

Production of salt water in East Texas threatens to dissipate the pressure of the field, Jester said in a statement, and the army and navy are demanding that the source of oil for the big East Texas to Illinois pipeline be safeguarded.

Jester declared that the commission would incorporate in an order the lease transfer plan of Joe Zeppa of Tyler, independent operator.

Zeppa proposed that the commission permit transfer of the allowable wells producing excessive water to other wells on the same lease for a period not exceeding 18 months. No well would be permitted to produce more than six barrels daily of the transferred allowable nor could the allowable be assigned to a well flowing more than 25 per cent water.

Barkley Urged For Place On High Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—A round robin urging President Roosevelt to appoint Democratic leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky to the Supreme Court was in circulation among members of the senate today with the prospect that it soon would be signed by a bi-partisan majority.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), who addressed the letter to the President, told reporters he was convinced no more suitable man than Barkley could be found to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Associate Justice James F. Byrnes to become economic stabilization director.

Few politically-minded legislators gave Barkley much more than an outside chance for the appointment. A move vacating the senate majority leadership would be almost certain to be followed by a hot contest which might find the administration hard pressed to keep this highly important position in entirely friendly hands.

Barkley, now home in Kentucky, has made no statement himself but was known to be in a receptive mood.

A half dozen senators have been mentioned in cloakroom discussion as a possible successor to Barkley, if he were elevated to the court, including Senators Connally (D-Tex.), George (D-Ga.), Hill (D-Ala.), Hayden (D-Ariz.), McKellar and Brown (D-Mich.), the latter with reelection in today's balloting.

Price Statements Due By Thursday

If you operate a service trade establishment, such as a laundry, dry cleaning shop, garage, shoe repair shop or photography shop, note the date, November 5th, which is Thursday. On that day, unless you have already filed a statement of prices on services with the local War Price and Ration Board, your name will be reported to the OPA in Washington.

The reports on ceiling prices for services were to have been filed by the board by September 10th. The OPA now requires the board to report by November 5th the list of those who have filed their ceiling price reports and a list of all trade service establishments in the county which have not reported to the board.

Services Held For Colorado Woman

COLORADO CITY, Nov. 3—Funeral services were held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Abbie Lena Bell, 27, who died early Monday at her home in Colorado City. The Rev. Frank Lee officiated, Kiker and Son had charge of arrangements. Services were held at the Assembly of God church.

She is survived by her husband, D. M. Bell, to whom she was married in Colorado City in 1933; three children Dewey Lee, Elgie, and Betty Ruth; one sister, Mrs. Ollie Bell of Colorado City; and three brothers, J. B. Ward and Doyle Ward of Colorado City, and Lloyd Ward of Lamesa.

West Ward Defeats North Ward, 14-0

With a nest egg lead to start on, West Ward finished out nicely Monday by defeating North Ward 14-0 in a make-up elementary school football game.

West Ward had a 7-0 lead last Thursday when rain forced postponement at the half. Outstanding players were Matlock, a younger brother of the "football twins," Davis and Turner.

Next round of the elementary school league will be Thursday afternoon.

Man Is Slain In Restaurant Holdup

Physical Training Directors Named At Air School

Two appointments in the field of physical training were announced today by the Big Spring Bombardier school public relations office.

Second Lieut. James W. Tolbert has been named to the post of director of physical training for the field. He formerly was with the physical training department for the aviation cadet detachment.

Second Lieut. Alvin H. Diamond has been appointed to the post of assistant director of physical training and formerly was with the department of training as ground school instructor.

Dawson School Supt. Made Principal At Lamesa

LAMESA, Nov. 3.—The resignation of F. T. McCollum as principal of Lamesa high school and the appointment of J. Henry Norris, Dawson county superintendent of schools, has been announced by V. Z. Rogers, high school superintendent. McCollum has been with the Lamesa Public Schools for more than 15 years, and he resigned to assume direct management of his farming and ranching interests in Andrews county.

Norris was serving his second term as county superintendent. He was re-elected last July. His successor probably will be named this week by the Commissioners court.

District Official At IOOF Meeting

District Deputy Grand Master E. C. Standford, Stanton, was honor guest at the regular weekly meeting of the Mullin (L.O.O.F.) lodge here Monday evening.

Three men from the Stanton lodge accompanied him here for the meeting and there were two present from the Knott lodge.

Noble Grand A. F. Gilliland presided over the session in which several nominations for new officers were heard. Election of officers will be held in December.

Cotton Fire Breaks Out Second Time

The fire department answered a call at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon to the Big Spring Compress Company, where a blaze which partially destroyed 75 bales of cotton Sunday afternoon had broken out again. The fire was quickly extinguished without further damage.

R. F. Shoemaker, owner of the establishment, was out of town and no exact estimate of the damage could be obtained. However, employees of the company said about a third of the cotton in 75 bales was a complete loss.

Search Underway For Two Missing Girls

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 3 (AP)—Police began an intensive search today for two 14-year-old girls who disappeared on separate days about three weeks ago—a search spurred by a third girl's story to police that a man in an automobile accosted her a few days after their disappearance and told her "You're next."

Another factor was that one of the missing girls, Bette Andrews of Lynn lived less than two miles from the thicket where slain Frances M. Cochran's body was found a year ago last July. The 17-year-old Cochran girl's slayer never was apprehended.

The Andrews girl last was seen on the evening of Oct. 18 when she left her home for a three-minute walk to a store for an ice cream cone. She never reached the store.

The other missing 14-year-old is Phyllis Taylor, of Dracont, who last was seen on the afternoon of Oct. 12—the day prior to the Andrews girls' disappearance.

On Oct. 15, a third girl told police, she was accosted by the man who said "You're next." She fled and was unharmed.

Camp Construction Labor In Demand

The demand for construction workers for army camps, air fields and other cantonments in Texas far exceeds the supply, O. R. Rodden of the United States Employment Service has announced, adding that his office was seeking all types of construction labor for jobs paying 55 cents an hour regular and 75 cents overtime.

Here 'n There

Off to Fort Hill, Okla., Tuesday were Bobby R. Williams, Casullo F. Chacon and Leonel G. Morales to begin army life at the reception center along with another group of selectees sent Monday. All were inducted at Lubbock two weeks ago and had been on furlough as enlisted reservists.

Out of the file of "missing men" on the mailing list for supplementary questionnaires has come the names of Alvis Charles Ingram and Gregorio Bonilla, who have finally made contact with the selective service board and received official papers.

A total of $67.75 in prize money was turned over to city schools yesterday for distribution to winners in the city-wide fire prevention poster and theme contest.

Donated by the city, the prizes went to Jeannie Dickerson, a $35 war bond, Lillie Belle Little, $9 in war stamps and to several other students who received smaller cash prizes.

City police force was short two men today following the resignation yesterday of H. B. Davis and M. H. Grimes. The problem of maintaining an adequate police force in spite of the manpower shortage was further complicated when a former patrolman, who applied for re-appointment to the department and was accepted, was unable to obtain his release from duty at the Lamesa glider school.

Bruce Frazier had tough luck with 23 acres of sod land planted to cotton. So late in August he plowed the cotton under and when showers came, he decided to plant pinto beans in the belief that if they didn't make he wouldn't be any worse off. But they have made and today the 28 acre tract is covered with bean bushes loaded with trifolios. Frazier has no idea how many to the acre they will make for he's selling them green.

Irby Cox, formerly educational director for the First Baptist church, was here Tuesday to visit with friends. He has been in coast guard training, but is contemplating transfer to the army chaplain service. He may visit relatives in Vernon for a few days and return here to spend the week end.

Most of the club boy feeding of livestock will be done by 4-H club boys in Howard county this year. O. P. Griffin, county agent, said his club boys were feeding out better than 30 head of calves and several other youngsters were feeding brood sows. Difficulty in getting the VA program going at Knott has virtually precluded any FFA feeding in that area this winter, but Cochama may have a few head fed out by its FFA chapter.

Navy Ships 4 More Recruits

Four men were shipped Monday by the U. S. Navy recruiting station here to Dallas to complete their enlistment.

Heading the list was Robert Ross McKinney, Big Spring, who re-enlisted as an ex-service man to take up his naval training where he left off in World War I. He went in for V-6, subject to classification.

Virgil Menzo Elliott, Colorado City, signed as apprentice seaman, V-6, while Marvin Aubrey Armstrong, Odessa, and James Ruppert Kaderli, Comanche, both went in for V-6, construction.

In addition to a large number including about new openings in the construction battalions, S. L. Cooke, recruiter in charge, said that the station was having a growing number of inquiries from men 18 and 19 years of age.

Still resting up from a mighty drive that netted 315 air corps specialists last month, the U. S. Army recruiting station Tuesday reported recruiting activities at a standstill. Several have inquired about the possibilities of specialist enlistment despite widespread publicity that the deadline was last Saturday.

Prophecy Series Will Be Concluded Tonight

How Near Are We to the Great Judgment Day will be the subject of the third and last of a series of related subjects on the prophecy of Daniel 8 and 9 to be given at the Voice of Prophecy auditorium 409 East Third street, tonight by Evangelist R.
