Irish Tenor Well-Known As Soloist On NBC's 'The Voice Of Firestone'

Christopher Lynch, noted Irish tenor, will appear in concert at the Lubbock High school auditorium Thursday, Dec. 11 at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Tech Artist Course series.

Lynch, protégé of the late John McCormack, first became known to the American public through his RCA Victor Red Seal recordings of "Then You'll Remember Me," "Mother Machree," and other familiar Irish songs. He was signed, sight unseen, on the basis of test recordings from broadcasts for conductor Howard Barlow, as soloist of "The Voice of Firestone" over NBC.

Included in his Lubbock concert will be "Lungi dal caro bene," by Sarti; "Sailor's Song," Haydn;

JUDY'S TESTIMONY ALMOST GOT HIM, BUT—

King Freed Of Assault Charges By Pre-Law Club In Mock Trial

Conflicting testimony, and loud and boisterous argument by the prosecuting and defense attorneys marked Monday night's Pre-Law mock trial which led to the acquittal of Joe King, charged with assault with a motor vehicle. Prosecution charged that King had "run-down" Bill Nugent, Student association president.

Bill Stevens, prosecuting attorney, charged that King, jealous of a love affair between Judy Pollard and Nugent, had in a "fit of rage and jealousy" run-over Nugent.

King denies seeing Nugent. Defense attorney, Joe Gipson, countered that his client, King, and Mary Jane Hinchey were together at the time of the incident and that neither had seen Nugent the morning he was hit.

First witness for the prosecution, Judy Pollard, center of the alleged love triangle, stated that King had threatened Nugent's life when she told him that she was in love with Nugent. Both Nugent and Joe Meador later confirmed this on the witness stand.

Testimony Given

Lengthy discussion and argument centered around Meador, an alleged eyewitness to the incident. Testimony taken from court records went like this:

Q—Did you see the car that struck Bill Nugent?

A—Yes.

Q—How far was the car from the body when you saw it?

A—I'm not sure right now.

Q—Mr. Meador, it seems strange

Crop Judgers Take Top Honors

Patrick And Stoy High Point Men In KC, Chicago

Tech Crops Judging team won first place in the National Inter-Collegiate Grain Judging contest, Nov. 24, in Kansas City, and placed second in the International Crops Judging contest in Chicago last Friday. It needed only 622 more points to become the second school in the 24 year history of the contests to win both at Kansas City and Chicago.

In the Kansas City contest Walter Patrick was high point individual, winning first place in identification and seed judging and placing third in commercial grading. Arthur Stoy was fifth high point man, placing fourth in identification, eleventh in commercial grading and fourth in seed judging. John Lee was sixth high, placing 12th in identification, first in commercial grading and eighth in seed judging.

4,000 Exes Trek Back For Tech Homecoming

Guy Carter New Prexy Of Exes

Approximately 4,000 exes returned to Tech last week to make the Twenty-second Homecoming the biggest and most colorful in Tech's history.

Friday's pep rally officially opened Homecoming activities and was followed by the traditional bonfire. Pres. W. M. Whyburn, T. C. Root, assistant to the president, and Dr. S. S. McKay, professor of history, made predictions on the game.

President Whyburn made no definite prediction, but asked the students to wait for him so that he might take part in the victory parade. Hardin-Simmons was slated to beat Tech 16 points on paper, but T. C. Root assured the students that with a new $400,000 stadium, the game would not be played on paper. Dr. McKay reasoned as follows: The earth is at least 600 million years old and Hardin-Simmons had never won a game with Tech in a new stadium, therefore, the chances were 600 million to nothing that they wouldn't win Saturday.

Band Plans Trip To Sun Bowl Game

Texas Tech band is planning a trip to El Paso for the Sun Bowl football game Jan. 1, D. O. Wiley, band director, has announced. The band, consisting of from 96 to 100 pieces has begun work on a show to present at half time of the game.

Judy Pollard will represent Tech as Sun Bowl Princess and will take part in the parade. According to the athletic office, information concerning football tickets has not been received yet, but tickets are expected to arrive about Dec. 15.

High school musicians and band directors from all parts of West Texas and eastern New Mexico will be on Tech campus Dec. 12-13 for the fifth annual band clinic sponsored jointly by Texas Tech band, and Lubbock High school band.

Wiley, clinic director, stated that this educational meeting is a two-day intensive short course in band music, particularly the type used in contests.

New Flying Club Plans To Buy Cub

Tech's new flying club, the "Flying Ts" approved a constitution and made plans to purchase a 1946 two-place Piper Cub at Tuesday afternoon meeting. Don Anderson, newly-elected president, said.

A financial program was approved whereby each member would pay $15 for initial club membership, $3 monthly dues and $2 an hour for flying time. Anderson emphasized that should a member elect to resign from the club his $15 membership dues would be refunded.

The club, formed in units of 30 members, will have one plane to each unit, Anderson said. The first unit has been formed and other units will be added as members enroll.

Non-flyers will be given preference over flyers when accompanied by an instructor, he said. Thirty-five students have signed as charter members of the club.

'Who's Handsomest?' Asked At Club Scarlet

Selection of Tech's Handsomest Man from 10 nominees will be one of the featured attractions of Club Scarlet, mock nightclub sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary fraternity for women in journalism, from 7:30 to 11:30 tonight in the basement of the Press building. Voting in the handsome man contest will be by applause. President Hoppy Maas announced.

Bob Williams, junior journalism major, will be master of ceremonies at the two floor shows, 8:30 and 10 p. m., Mary King, program chairman announced. Admission is $1.20, stag or drag, and tickets will be on sale today in the first floor hall of the Press building—if there are any tickets left, Miss Maas announced.

Handsome Man contest will close the floor show.

Cold drinks and cigarettes will be sold, with Theta Sig members and pledges hopping tables, Miss Maas said.

Constituted Presented

Representatives of schools in the Texas-Oklahoma region will discuss the national organization's constitution and will accept, amend or reject the proposed constitution of the Texas-Oklahoma region. The two constitutions then will be taken back to the respective schools for ratification by the student governing bodies. Non-member schools, such as Tech, will be under no obligation to join or to accept any of the rules of the assembly, Nugent said.

After the assembly, the Student council will decide whether Tech will join the organization. Nugent pointed out that the Council wishes to learn more about the policies and work of the association before making this decision.

Sothern Methodist university will be host at the assembly and will furnish quarters for the delegates. Other expenses for the Tech delegates and observers will be paid out of the Student council fund.

Students Urged To See 'Henry V'

Several English instructors are urging that their students attend the motion picture version of William Shakespeare's "Henry V" which is showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Midway theater, Dr. T. W. Camp, head of the English department, said this week.

Laurence Olivier's production of the play stars Olivier as Henry V and Renee Asherson as the French Princess Katherine. The theme of the play is a young king's coming of age. To prove his worthiness for the crown by leading his army in war, Henry V invaded France, England's longtime enemy and with the English victory came Henry's courtship of Princess Katherine.

"This is the outstanding screen version of a Shakespearean play," Camp said. Students and faculty will be admitted on special rates.

Night Knights From Plainsland Defeat Wasteland Barbarians

By T. I. "AESOP" BROWN
Toreador Feature Editor

Once upon a time there was a great and mighty college which was located on the vast fertile plains of West Texas. Tech was its name. In the barbaric wastelands toward the winter sun, nestled the land of the six white horses. There were scars on the peoples of both lands from battles fought before.

One night a brave and swift knight from the western camp rose and gave a challenge to his fellow warriors to follow him to the camps of the Purple and Gold. With lusty shouts 200 accepted his challenge and with their 1,800 horses (18 cars), 70 Black and Red Knights rode out into the night with their lances flowing black and red.

form of huge red and black Double T's, painted on the paths and trails of the barbaric land. The huge idol near the entrance to this land was also painted.

Although there was great danger of being caught, these night Raiders took a statue from the camp as a trophy to be displayed in their king's temple. Then the knights hoisted their flag, mounted their steel steeds and proceeded homeward. One lone scout spotted and confronted the raiders and forced one of them to pay a fine across the disputed boundary with too much haste.

Retaliation Attempt Fails

Upon awakening, the barbarians were angered and planned retaliation, but their wise leader, Dr. R. N. Richardson, who was unable to remove the bright red from in front of his shelter, urged them to wait until the scheduled invasion. This quieted some of the unrest, but a few started for the hated plains. These barbarians were spotted on the trail and the knights of the plains were alerted by the

The Borderonian rulers proceeded with their scheduled invasion and were met by an enraged Red and Black tribe, who humbled the ruler by inflicting 14 brands of the conquerors upon them while receiving only six "Hook" scars upon themselves.

Peace now reigns in Borderonia with the Plainsmen ruling. King Richardson of the barbarians painted his entire pathway a brilliant red—a color of the conqueror.

From Where You Sit

SHRDLŪ

Dear Editor: We note with anxiety Miss Larabee's vibrant expose of the attempts which Moscow-dominated groups have made to establish a foothold for their subversive activities here on our own beloved campus.

It is difficult to understand where they have obtained the impression that they can succeed in such a plan since it is a well known fact that students over the world are notoriously conservative, and it is obvious that only a born Communist would ever dream of such un-American ideals as racial equality, progressive taxation and Eleanor Roosevelt.

How true it is that "No one can learn the underlying elements of an organization merely by listening to speeches at conventions" and it is equally true that the rank and file of the membership of such an organization is never informed of what heinous seditions they themselves are circulating!

Strictly Rumors

Rumors find their way to our campus of innocent freshmen at the University of Texas (a veritable hell-hole of Bolshevism at its worst) circulating copies of the writings of John Dos Passos under the misconception that they were handing autographed copies of Lloyd C. Douglas' The Robe, and hawking the works of Marx and Lenin before Austin churches, little dreaming that they were not distributing the standard family-sized edition of the poems of Eddie Guest!

Certain beach-heads have already, we fear, been established. The Saddle Tramps, the campus' most prominent athletic supporters, have been on numerous occasions wearing red shirts; a veritable army, aided and abetted by the Red-coated Matador band, waiting but for the Party's command to swoop down upon our loyal, if unsuspecting students, and carry them away to labor camps, deep down within the bowels of the old stadium.

One Red incursion has had even greater success than this little OGPU or organization. Many red textbooks have been used in the past, and unless drastic steps are taken immediately, will be used in the future; indeed, even some of the volumes in our library are read occasionally, although it must be admitted that the new reserve systems has done much to curtail this activity.

Local Daily Participants

Even the Aviators' publications, staunch supporters of the Texas way of life though they may be, have contributed to the campaign. Who knows how many of our finest college citizens may be attempting to emulate that RED-BLOODED (!) comic hero, Abner Yokum?

Avant, ye demagogic Marxists! However great the cost of our tardy awakening to this glorious struggle, Texas Tech will stand firm in protection of that path guarded by such glorious heroes as Hermann Talmadge, John Rankin and our own Wilbur Lee O'Daniel. Stand away from us, O, N.S.A.! Dare not provoke the wrath of our brave Student Council! Take no false confidence in the fact that many of their number are members of the Red Cross! Get thee behind us, Wallace! We will never yield!

But a few words on one other topic. Editor, staunch leader that you are... fear not for the completion of "The Shadow's" plans for a pajama parade. After reading "The Toreador's" "Request to the Council," many of us are convinced that he may retain the identity he himself has chosen, for Don Quixote is already with us.

Journalism May Add Photography Minor Next Year

Although photography is one of the newer courses offered at Tech, about 70 students registered for it last year—and limitations in equipment have necessitated limiting enrollment.

Photographic courses were established primarily from the viewpoint of newspaper work and are correlated with journalism, Miss Jane Watson, photography instructor, said. This year six hours of advanced work, with more specialized training, were added to the curriculum, making 12 hours of work available including the six hours in basic courses. The department will request another six hours of photography to begin next fall.

Cecil Horne, journalism department head, announced. Eighteen hours of work would be sufficient for a photography minor, Miss Watson said.

Five darkrooms are now available, two more than last year, and the rooms have been insulated and air conditioning is being installed, Miss Watson said.

The department now has a studio in J-211 which will be used for portraits, table top studies and exhibition lectures. Photography office, equipment and supplies have been moved to the studio, Miss Watson said.

Tech chartered last year, was one of eight schools to become affiliated with Kappa Alpha Mu, national photography fraternity. Tech and Texas State College for Women were the only Texas colleges receiving charters. Tech's Eta chapter was the only out-of-state delegation to the conference at the University of Missouri last spring.

The chapter plans to sponsor a department print show during the first week in March and hopes to include in the show both local prints and those from all colleges associated with KAM.

Preview Of Annual Shows Record Size

In a preview of 1948 La Ventana, Editor Bob Watson said that the annual would be the largest yearbook ever published at Tech, with approximately 450 pages. It will also have the largest circulation ever—4,500 subscriptions have been taken.

Full color will be used for the first time since 1943, with six full-color division pages, Watson said. Pictures of La Ventana beauties, of which there will be 18 rather than the usual 16, will be in blue, and the cover will be two shades of blue. Order of the sections will be changed, and the yearbook will not have a general theme as it has had in previous years, he said.

ROTC enrollment for the fall semester is 378.

Raiders Best HSU To Gain Sun Bowl Bid

Techsans Topple Cowboys 14-6 For Record Homecoming Crowd

Border conference champions and host team for the annual Sun bowl classic. That's our Red Raiders. We Love 'em

One of the most determined football squads which has ever worn the Red and Black completely outfought and out-generalized an outclassed Hardin-Simmons eleven to the delight of 20,000 Homecoming fans Saturday. Following the 14-6 victory the Raiders voted unanimously to participate in the Sun bowl game New Year's day.

The Raiders spotted the Cowboys six points and then settled down to play THE game they have been capable of playing all year.

Freddie Brown began tossing strikes first to his halfbacks and then a 32-yard pay-off pitch to End Joe Smith for the tally. Ralph Earhart failed to make the conversion.

Tech's last touchdown came on a determined sustained drive following the second half. Brown sneaked over from his quarterback position for the final touchdown of the day. Earhart failed to convert again. Dan Pursel blocked an Al Johnson punt in the fourth quarter. The ball bounced out of the end zone for an automatic safety to make the score 14-6.

The game marked the final conference appearance of a number of Raiders. Those donning the Tech colors for the last time before a hometown crowd were: Bernie Winkler, tackle and co-captain; Brown, quarterback and co-captain; Roland Nabors, center; Ralph Geddie, end; Ralph Earhart, halfback; Lee Jackson, fullback; Floyd Lawhorn, guard; Joe Smith, end; and George Zoller, tackle. If it were possible to select outstanding players from the Tech-HSU game those mentioned above would dominate such a list. Winkler played 60 minutes while Nabors, Smith, Zoller and Brown played almost the entire game.

Tech Cagers Open 24-Game Schedule

Tech's basketball squad opens its 1947-48 campaign this week with hopes of picking up where they left off last year. Tech's cagers, claiming only a fifth place tie with West Texas State last season, did all the good toward the end of the year when they developed a red hot organization that refused to be beaten.

Notably missing from the present squad, however, is Garland Head, a three year all-Border-conference guard and high scorer for the Tech quintet last year. Head was graduated to bigger game, and was a starter on the Oklahoma City professional team when the league collapsed two weeks ago.

Raiders saw their first action for the season in an exhibition game against the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys in the Tuesday night feature climax of a coaching school at Big Spring. In their second game, they pitted their cage art against the Hardin college Indians in Wichita Falls, Thursday.

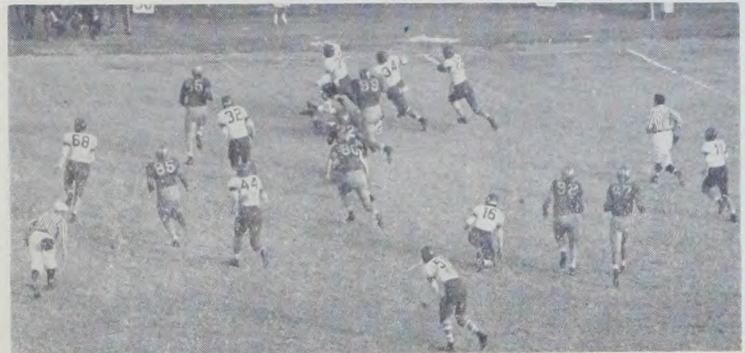

Lettermen composed most of the Tech starters and traveling squad. Filling the center slot was Don Grove, 6 feet, 5 inches from Monument, N. M., who lettered last year and in the '43-'44 season at Tech. Grove returned for mservice for the second semester last season and ran up 114 points in 12 games.

Opening at forward was Gene Gibson, 6 foot, 4 inch sophomore, and Jay Kerr, three year letterman from Odessa, who has been a high scorer. Guards were Ardis Barton, Spring Lake, letterman the past two seasons, and James Hill, Amarillo sophomore, also a letterman last year and 45-46 letterman at Leland Stanford, where he was a Naval assignee.

Accompanying the starters were: William Banks, Vernon junior;

(16) and Tuffy Nabors (51). The eleventh Techsman is Ralph Geddie (60). He is the white jersey just behind Clardy (80) of HSU. The play was run on first down from the Tech 32 yard line. Red Cleveland (55) HSU center got the tackle on the 34 yard line. (Photo by C. W. Ratliff)

STAFF SLANTS

Here is an observation we overheard that speaks for itself; Wray Clark of the International News Service All-America board commented on last Saturday's game as follows: "It was a personal battle between Nabors and Davis, and Tuffy won." He said, "Nabors played his customary brilliant game, reliable Bernie Winkler solidly plugged up holes in the line and Joe Smith was a sensation." He is recommending these three Techs and "Hook" Davis for All-American consideration.

Mr. Clark's comments expressed our sentiments of last week's game to a "T".

Several people were of the opinion that we erred when we stated that Quarterback Charlie Calhoun punted a muddy football 38 times for the Matadors with an average of 38 yards per kick against Centenary in 1939. To the best of our knowledge this a fact although it was a little before our time and we did not witness this feat, but our records are usually correct.

The Border conference footballs and equipment will be packed away for another year following two games tomorrow, excepting Tech's bowl appearance. Hardin-Simmons finishes off intra-conference games.

Texas Tech has 24 games and one tournament scheduled this season. They take on SMU and TCU in Ft. Worth today and tomorrow, with games following at Houston against Rice and Texas university Dec. 8 and 9. The home season opens Dec. 17 against the New Mexico Lobos.

Coach Polk Robison, rated as a specialist in backboard play and push-shot offense, has 16 Border conference titles before him. Indications are that he will use a man-to-man defense and driving, short pass offense throughout the season.

TOUCH FOOTBALL

Intramural touch football resumes play following the Thanksgiving holidays with three games Sunday. Socii meets Silver Keys, College Club tangles with the league leading Wranglers. Both games will be played at Tech stadium. Los Coms play the Centaurs on the practice field north of the gym.

Wranglers lead the intramural touch football league with two victories, College Club is second with two wins and one tie.

Wranglers play against Arizona State at Tempe while Arizona university plays Utah in Tucson.

Back patting is in order when referring to the intramural program that is getting into full swing on the campus. The man deserving the patting is George Philbrick, physical education lecturer, who is putting forth a great deal of time and effort in directing the program.

We want to pick an All-conference eleven before anyone can accuse us of not being original. Here it is and if it seems prejudiced for Techs just remember who won the title and deserves the lions share of honors.

Ends—Joe Smith, Tech; John Smith, Ariz.

Tackles—Bernie Winkler, Tech; Strawberry Rowan, HSU.

Guards—Frank Burke, New Mex. A&M; Dan Pursel, Tech.

Center—Roland "Tuffy" Nabors, Tech.

Halfbacks—Wilton Davis, HSU; Fred Enke, Ariz.

Quarterback—Freddie Brown, Tech.

Fullback—Rudy Krall, NMU.

Christmas Customs Are Theme Of H.E. Meeting

Interesting Christmas customs of Holland were discussed by Newell Reed, student assistant to the dean of men, at the meeting of the Home Economics club Nov. 25.

Christmas in Poland, Scotland, Japan and Russia, following a "Christmas in Other Lands" theme, were portrayed in pantomime by members of the club.

Tech has played 223 games in the 22 years they have fielded football teams, winning 128, losing 77 and tying 18. The Red Raiders have piled up 3,321 points to opponents' 1,959. Adding the seven games played in this, the 23rd season, the total read, won 131, lost 81, tied 18, scored 3,412 to opponents' 2,120.

Tech Girls' Team Duel TU Fencers In Match Dec. 13

Texas Tech women fencers will enter into real duels Dec. 13 at 2 p. m. when they play host to University of Texas female epee artists. Tech is sponsoring its first women fencing teams this season and Coach Keith Wells says his charges are getting very good in their thrusts and parries.

Two three-woman teams will work for Tech against the Longhorns: Patti Jo Musson, Lubbock sophomore; Ann Crawley, Lamesa junior; and Virginia Kennedy, College Station junior; consists of one team while Eula Starkley, Muleshoe junior; Polly Utz, Odessa senior; and Pat Sprague, Fort Worth freshman; compose the other team.

Attendance to the match is free. Everyone is invited to view this new competition as it is inaugurated at Tech.

Tech men fencers, defending champions in the southwest division of the Amateur Fencing League of America, open the season Jan. 10 against John Tarleton in Stephenville. George Beakley, who led the Techs to titles last season, is coach of the Tarleton team.

Four lettermen are back with the men's team this year: Keith Wells, coach; Jack Carnell, Lubbock sophomore; Harry Gunn, Crane junior; and Sammy Self, Lubbock junior. Other members of the two three-man teams will come from over 70 candidates being coached by Wells.

The schedule consists of six meets and one tournament next spring, which will determine the southwest division champions who will compete along with six Colorado winners for the national titles at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York next summer.

Jan. 10—John Tarleton at Stephenville.

Raiders Meet Miami University In El Paso Sun Bowl Classic

Undefeated and once tied Miami University of Oxford, Ohio has accepted a bid to oppose the Border conference champion Texas Tech Red Raiders at El Paso in the Sun bowl game Jan. 1, 1948.

The Ohio team, coached by Sid Gillman, has an impressive record of eight victories and one tie which enabled them to capture the Mid-American conference crown. They defeated Murray State Teachers college 28-12, Kent State 35-7, Bowling Green 33-19, Ohio university 21-0, Bradley Tech 32-27, Dayton 12-0, Wichita 22-7 and Cincinnati 33-7 with a 6-6 tie against Xavier.

Miami will be Tech's first Eastern opponent since the Raiders trounced Wake Forest 35-6 in 1941. The Ohio college had anticipated the bid and sent two scouts to view the Tech-HSU tilt. One of the scouts studied Tech's plays and the other spied on Hardin-Simmons.

"Miami university is happy to accept the invitation to participate in the 14th annual Sun bowl game Jan. 1, 1948. It is an honor to meet Texas Tech on this occasion," stated Dr. Ernest H. Hahne, president of Miami university, in a telegram to C. D. Belding, chairman of the Sun carnival team selection committee.

Texas Tech will be making its fourth bowl appearance when it treks to the border city. Previous New Year's classics have seen the Raiders fall before West Virginia 7-6 in the Sun bowl in 1937, St. Mary's 20-13 in the Cotton bowl in 1938 and to Tulsa 6-0 in the 1941 Sun bowl. Coach Dell Morgan was head coach when Tech played Tulsa in the Sun bowl in 1941.

A comparison of the two teams is impossible due to various conflicting scores of their respective opponents. The Raiders will be out to prove they are the champions they are supposed to be, and with nine men making their final appearance as Tech gridders; indications are that the Men in Red will be keyed up to the pitch which skyrocketed the mto their victory over HSU last week.

Coach Morgan told the Quarterback club Monday night that the Raiders will return to their daily workouts Dec. 10 and that they would probably leave for El Paso on Dec. 29.

Roland Nabors, Tech's great center, and Joe Smith, one of this area's outstanding ends, will participate in the Blue-Gray game in Birmingham on Dec. 27, but will fly to El Paso in time to play in the Sun bowl game. Morgan stated that they would workout with the squad until time to report for the Birmingham tussle and would be familiar enough with Tech plays that they could handle their duties against Miami successfully.

An Alpha Psi Omega reading will take place at 5 p. m. Sunday in the Aggie auditorium.

Tech enrollment is bigger this year than ever before with 6,228 students registered before.

A.—Four or five feet. (Then as the defense attorney sat down, he added in an undertone,) maybe six.

Bill Nugent, whose arm was still in a sling, testified he was positive that it was King who hit him.

King Pinned To Jo Winders

Defense attorney Gipson asserted that King did not see Nugent the morning of the accident and added that there was no motive involved since King was "pinned" to Jo Winders.

Documentary evidence was entered by Gipson stating that the highway department had conducted a sensitivity test on Kings car and that it could not hit a person without the drivers knowledge. Stevens, objected strenuously, stating that he had seen the "strip down jalopy" and that as far as he was concerned nothing could be sensitive about the car.

Mary Jane Hinchey and Jo Winders testified in Kings behalf, stating that he was of high character.

A jury of 12 men then returned a verdict of "not guilty."

A mock trial is held each semester by the Pre-Law club. Testimony and purported evidence are fictitious.

Bryan Lovelace, Pre-Law club judge, presided over the trial.

Both counselors proved adept throughout the trial Stevens presented a strong case and his argument was noticeably outstanding. Gipson proved good in cross-examination.
