

A pep rally to boost spirits for the Tech-TCU football game Saturday in Fort Worth will begin at 7 p.m. today at Southwest Conference Circle. A 45-minute program, including a skit, is planned.

Deadline is 5 p.m. today for candidates for the Student Council from the Engineering School to pay their fee and get a petition. Election is Friday.

Big Turnout Casts Ballot For Tech Class Officers

By CHARLEY RICHARDS
Toreador Managing Editor

Texas Tech students swarmed nine voting boxes over the campus Wednesday in one of the largest turnouts ever for a school election here.

And of 14 races, only one was decided without a runoff. That was the junior class vice president race, where James Perry ran unopposed. The runoff will come Friday.

In the senior class president race, where much of the interest lies, Lee Pfluger polled 221 votes for the lead. Sonny Sosnowy got 127 votes to gain a runoff berth, with Robert Tinney and Joe Barlow trailing with 126 and 104 votes respectively.

For senior class vice president, Larry Maddox and John Wehrle won the right to be in the runoff. Maddox led with 236, followed closely by Wehrle's 207. The only other aspirant, Dale Bennett, had 123.

Ann Morrow received 180 votes and Kay Keltner 128 to gain runoff berths in the competition for senior secretary. Betty Jane Aston was next with 119, followed by Linda Ryno with 95 and Julie Mingus with 54.

In other class presidential races, Doug Gibbins and David Wight made the runoff for the junior class; James Ellis and Mike Horridge gained the runoff in the sophomore race; and Joe Murfee and Russ Wilkinson were the top two in freshman voting.

Gibbins polled 245 votes, a 52-vote margin over Wight's 193. Tony Levatino received 142 votes.

Ellis and Horridge had 274 and 194 totals, respectively. Other candidates in the race and their totals were Bob Wood 152, and Bill Lamb 119 and Sam Weaver 72.

Murfee had 411 votes to gain his lead. Wilkinson's 324 was ahead of Clark Pfluger, who had 281.

Christie Brown had 202 votes to lead junior secretary totals. Sue Ring had 120 and made the runoff. Sharon Jones, 99; Hazael Hale, 92; and Susan Knight, 87 were other candidates.

Dick Otstott and Pat Donley waged a hot campaign in the sophomore vice president race. Their final total was only seven votes apart, Otstott leading 321 to 314.

Another close race was the freshman vice president contest where Craig Sutton collected 154 votes to 146 for Sherry Wynn in a seven-candidate affair.

The lead in the sophomore secretary race went to Lynn McElroy who picked up 146 votes. She led her runoff opponent Mary Ann Gleason by 23 votes. Just missing the runoff was Gay Gillespie who had 120 ballots, just three behind Miss Gleason.

Mira Taylor compiled 144 votes and Vala Dawn Taylor (no relationship) polled 133 to lead balloting for freshman class secretary. They were tops in a 11-girl field.

One of the closer contests of the day came in the senior A.W.S. voting where Barbara McMurry and Susan Rogers received 44 and 40 votes respectively. Pat Purcell was one vote away with 39.

Mary Alice Hill led junior A.W.S. voting with 80 votes. The total gave her a slim margin over her runoff opponent, Carolyn Wood, who polled 68.

Tommie Allen was far ahead in the sophomore A.W.S. race. She had 106 votes, while the second-place candidate, Susan Wood, had 63.

In the runoff for the freshman A.W.S. spot are Darlene Hunter, 85 votes, and Kitty Mayo, 76 votes. June Wyche finished with 74.

Garland Weeks with 101 votes will meet Bob Whitson, 37 votes, in a runoff to decide who fills a vacant spot from the school of Agriculture on the student council.

In a similar situation in the school of Business Administration, Ken Ballard polled 86 votes and will meet Bob Tate in the runoff. Tate polled 60.

Gaining runoff berths for 11 spots on the freshman council from a field of 82 are the following:

Betty Bitterman, Gail Bitterman, Jim Crawford, Brenda Dooley, Mary Ann Duckworth, Gloria Duke, Priscilla Jane Dyer, Kay Farrell, Carol Fritz, James "Bucky" Greer, Donna Heath.

Tech Awaits State Action On Budget

By CAROLENE ENGLISH
Toreador Staff Writer

Tech and 19 other state colleges won't know until Oct. 23 how much money the Texas Commission of Higher Education will recommend for their 1964 and 1965 biennial budget.

Action was postponed in Austin this week after the commission's staff recommended a $20.2 million cut in funds requested by the 20 state supported schools.

Tech's $17.4 million request for the coming two-year budget period will be cut $3.2 million if the commission approves the staff recommendations.

THE STAFF has advised the TCHE to appropriate only $148.6 in general revenue funds instead of the $178.8 million asked by the colleges for the budgets in the coming biennium.

Despite the cut in Tech fund requests, the school will receive a $3.1 million increase over the $11.2 appropriations for the present biennium budget.

The commission's recommendation is not final however. Budget requests by the colleges and the recommendations from the commission will also be considered by two more state finance groups—the executive budget office and the legislative budget board.

REPORTS FROM all three groups will be submitted to the state legislature in January for final action.

Major reductions in the Tech budget were made in six divisions, with department operating expenses receiving the greatest cut.

The staff also advised the reductions be made in allowances for 1) major repairs and rehabilitation of buildings and facilities, 2) overall physical plants, 3) organizational research, 4) general institutional expenses and 5) general administrations.

ONLY IN library fund allotments and the building maintenance division of the physical plant allocations did the staff agree with Tech college requests, according to the figures released by the commission.

Similar cuts were made to the other college budgets. The University of Texas, with the largest budget, asked $37.1 million in funds and the staff recommended a $4.4 million cut.

The University of Houston, to become a state supported school Sept. 1, 1963, has been included in the state college allotments for the first time.

TCU School Trip Deadline Today

All Techsians planning to ride a bus to Fort Worth and Dallas for the TCU school trip must sign up for a bus at the Student Council office by 5 p.m. today.

Charlie Aycock, student association president, reported that four buses for the trip have been filled.

Take Your Medicine, Froggie!

Mary Ellen Olson, freshman from Houston, is making a horned frog take its medicine, just like the Texas Tech Red Raiders hope to make the Texas Christian Horned Frogs do in their Southwest Conference football clash in Fort Worth Saturday night.

New Tests Set
WASHINGTON — The United States announced Wednesday it has scheduled a high-altitude nuclear test for next Sunday or Monday in the Johnston Island test area of the Pacific.

The announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission said the device to be detonated will be of "submegaton range" — that is with an explosive force of less than one million tons of TNT.

Bevo A Sooner?

AUSTIN — The State Parks Board let the secret out Wednesday: Bevo, the University of Texas mascot steer, is half Oklahoma.

Bevo will be a sideline attraction at the Texas-Oklahoma football game in Dallas Saturday.

Triplets Born

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. — Mrs. Maxine Castillo, 40, wife of a city parks department employe, gave birth to triplets Wednesday.

The babies, all boys, and the mother, were reported in good condition at Brownsville's Mercy Hospital.

The boys weighed 4 pounds, 3 pounds 5 ounces and 4 pounds 1 ounce.

The parents also have seven other children including twins. Mrs. Castillo told doctors she had previously given birth to triplets but they did not survive.

Nominations For Queen Due By Noon Today

Correction: The story in the Tuesday Toreador concerning the deadline for entries in the Homecoming Queen contest was incorrect. Deadline is at noon today.

Candidates may be nominated by any campus organization, and these entries must be submitted to the Ex-Students office on the first floor of Tech Union. Primary balloting in the election will take place Oct. 17, and the finalists will be selected in voting Oct. 24.

By midafternoon Wednesday, 20 girls had been entered in the contest. They are Jeannie Bookout, Karen Anderson, Myla Henderson, Carolyn Buxton, Pam White, Carolyn Davis, Kappy Johnson, Judy McKennon, Polly Dahl and Karla Dickson.

Also Judy Jackson, Jeanie Gratton, Jennie Mathers, Diana Harbert, Pat Wade, Cindy Parker, Sandy Sellers, Marilyn Tinny, Christie Brown and Carolyn Horchler.

OAS OFFICIALS AT FAIR

DALLAS (AP)—Key figures in the Organization of American States and ambassadors to the United States from throughout the Western Hemisphere arrived in Dallas Wednesday on a whirlwind tour of the city and State Fair.

A score of top officials from Latin and South American nations planned five days in Texas with visits in Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Home-Ec School Offers Tech Coeds Charm Clinic

Texas Tech coeds will be offered an opportunity to attend a professional charm school on the campus from Oct. 30 through Nov. 15.

The Robert Spence School, one of Lubbock's finishing schools for modeling and self-improvement, will conduct the clinic. The clinic is sponsored by the School of Home Economics.

Registration for the courses will be Oct. 22 through Oct. 26. Tech women may register in the morning or afternoon in the Home Economic Bldg. They may also mail their registration forms to the Home Economics Club box in the Home Ec Bldg.

Registration forms will be found on posters advertising the clinic.

Six demonstrated lectures covering different areas of social manners and personal appearance will be conducted by the instructors from the Robert Spence School.

The mechanics of voice and diction will be taught. Tips on visual poise, posture, and walking will be given.

Attention will be focused on how to apply make-up, how to take care of the skin, what styles of hair-does to wear, and how to make the most of the hair cut.

Tech Profs Travel To Conference

Two members of the Tech history department will attend historical association meetings this weekend.

Dr. Earnest Wallace and Dr. Mitchell Smith will travel to their respective meetings.

Dr. Wallace, professor of history, will attend the second Conference of Western History Thursday through Saturday in Denver, Colo. Wallace participated in the first conference in Santa Fe, N.M., last year.

Dr. Smith, associate professor in history, will attend a meeting of the African Studies Association also this weekend in Washington, D.C.

After each session of the clinic, the instructors will conduct a question-and-answer period.

Aiding the functioning of the charm clinic are the Home Economics Club and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Sherrell Bell, finance chairman of the Home Economics Club, said, "I think it is a wonderful service to the girls on Tech campus, and it gives us an excellent opportunity to improve ourselves."

The clinic will be conducted in Home Ec 105 and 106 Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Purpose of the clinic, in addition to helping Tech women, is to further the Foreign Fellowship Fund in the School of Home Economics.

Ag Club Slates Wiener Roast

The Tech Agriculture Economics Club will have its annual faculty-student wiener roast Tuesday, Oct. 16.

It will begin at 6 p.m. on the farm of Mr. Archie Leonard which is located at the intersection of Slide Road and 162th St.

The wiener roast is an annual function of the club and sponsored by the faculty in the agriculture economics department. "It provides a means for the faculty and students to become better acquainted," said Jody Bezner, club president.

Dislikes Intolerance

Dear Editor:

Three cheers! Good sense prevails in number of proponents if not in fact; I refer to the recent "Sounding Board" in which five out of nine Tech students interviewed showed at least some semblance of intelligence with regard to the Ole Miss crisis, while the remaining four demonstrated varying degrees of bigotry, ignorance and/or stupidity.

The following are excerpts from the four offensive viewpoints and my (hopefully) elucidating remarks.

Miss Helbing's statement: "I do not think the federal government has the right to use force in getting James Meredith into the University of Mississippi . . . I do feel that it should be the individual's choice as to where he should go to school." Comment: This is the inherent contradiction of these two statements apparent to you now, Miss? To be fair, perhaps the interviewer didn't give you time to think before you spoke; at any rate, you obviously didn't think.

Miss Damron's statement: ". . . I do not think that he should have been admitted to the University . . ." because "I do not think that he wanted in just for an education but rather to start integration at the University . . ." Comment: So?

Mr. Linn's statement No. 1: "I do not think that James Meredith should be enrolled . . ." because I think that there is a social conflict." Comment: Good God! The understatement of the year!

Mr. Linn's statement No. 2: "I commend Gov. Ross Barnett for standing up for what he believes is right. I have just completed a letter to Gov. Barnett commending him on his intestinal fortitude." Comment: I suppose that Mr. Linn also wrote a letter of commendation to M. Nehru on the occasion of the invasion of Goa—"for standing up for what he believes is right."

Mr. Harrison's statement: "I think that Meredith has the right to register at the University . . . but not against the will of the school." Comment: Hmmp. Think (as opposed to the process which all too often passes for thinking around here) that one over carefully, Mr. Harrison.

Thus become apparent some of the contradictions and inanities of the fascist philosophy which has really caused the crisis in the south; it is with heavy heart that I recognize the existence of such sentiments in college students. May the remaining years of school help to ease the doubtless agonizing intellectual vacuum which seems to exist in the minds of the above quoted misguided malaprops.

Liberte, fraternite, egalite!
Hunter Heath III

(Editor's Note — Sorry your letter is late in appearing. The TOREADOR is doing its best to publish every letter it receives. As to yours, while this desk certainly agrees with everything you said, it reminds you that "bigotry, ignorance, stupidity" and intolerance exist at both extremes of the question. Is intolerance worse than intolerance of intolerance? Thanks for writing.)

Seeks Biggest

Dear Editor:

In last Tuesday's TOREADOR I noticed that one of the articles stated that Tech had the second largest campus in the world. I would like some clarification of this point. Does this include the agricultural experimental facilities or is this only the immediate area of the classrooms, offices, dorms, etc.? Also, as of interest to me as well as to many others who attend Tech, where and how large is the largest campus in the world?

Ira D. Robinson
(Editor's Note — As understood by this desk, the term "campus" applies also to land adjacent to that occupied by college buildings. Tech started with 1806 acres but College Ave. and Nineteenth Street have carved the total below the 1800 mark. Encyclopaedia Britannica says ". . . the main unit of Duke University (is) a 4,000-acre woodland campus . . ." Thanks for writing.)

Promotes Spirit

Dear Editor:

Please let it be understood at the beginning that this letter is written in the spirit of friendly (and I hope, helpful) criticism, and is not intended to be derogatory in any way whatsoever. I have been a Texas Tech booster for more than thirteen years, and have not missed a home football game in the last eight years nor a home basketball game in the last five years. We now have a daughter and a son attending Texas Tech, and we will probably continue to support Tech from now. "no matter what." Therefore, I feel completely justified in making the following remarks.

We have a basketball team that has already proven itself a champion twice in a pretty tough league. We have a football team that is improving rapidly, shows lots of hustle and ability; and will no doubt take its place among the top teams in the SWC before many more seasons have passed. Our other athletic teams have distinguished themselves in various ways both in and out of the conference. We have a band that is great, and on a par with any in the Big Ten or any other section of the country. Week after week they put on a tremendous half-time show. The Saddle Tramps do a good job of ushering the football team onto the field and the basketball team onto the court, and they are colorful in their red shirts. The ROTC drill teams are outstanding, and certainly add to the overall atmosphere at the football games and parades. We have a mascot that is as colorful as any in the country and a fine group of cheer leaders and twirlers as cute and pretty as you will find anywhere. The students of Texas Tech are second to none in the United States when it comes to sportsmanship, friendliness, and other good characteristics of college students everywhere. In short, we have many, many things of which to be proud at Texas Tech.

Why, Oh! Why, then do we have a second class display of school spirit on the Tech campus and at the football games? Maybe I haven't been to the right places at the right times; but in driving through the campus during the week preceding any big game such as the one played Saturday night against the University of Texas, I have been unable to see any indication that a football game was to be played. No signs reading "Raiders Beat So-and-So" or any other items which normally are seen on college campuses during football season. The only exception to this observation is during Homecoming Week. At the football games you sound as if you are afraid you will embarrass someone by yelling. At the last two games the visiting students each time made more noise than all the Tech students, and in each case they were greatly outnumbered. (Not that school spirit is measured in noise alone, but that is at least one indication at a football game.) The two visiting bands this season have played many times more often than the Tech band. Maybe that was intended as a courteous gesture, but all of us parents and townspeople like the Tech band. And, incidentally, what is the matter with the Matador Song? Are you ashamed of it, or something? I think it is beautiful. It is a very distinctive melody, not borrowed from some other college, and not patterned after some barroom ditty. Why not play it at the beginning and the end of each game instead of at the end only? Also, why don't you sing it with the Tech Band like the University of Texas students (and exes everywhere) sing "The Eyes of Texas"? Maybe it is because you don't know the words? Seems like that would be a good thing for a freshman to learn during his first day on the campus. During basketball season the only time we hear the alma mater is when it is played by other bands in the conference when the Raiders are the visiting team, and the Tech Band is not present.

You do a real good job of boosting the Red Raider basketball teams; but surely the Raider football teams are more deserving of a little more visible support than you are giving them now. I can't help but believe it might make a little difference in the way those guys respond if they know all the students really want them to win, and are pulling for them all the way, and are still pulling for them even if they lose. Saturday afternoon I heard a sports announcer interviewing Coach Darrell Royal of the University of Texas. Coach Royal made the statement that he realized that the game that night for his team would be considerably different for his team than the game the week before when they played in Austin. This time, he said, the home crowd would be pulling for their opponents (Tech), and making all the noise for them. But he needn't have worried — if he did. The noises the Tech students made very unlikely were heard by Coach Royal and the players on the Texas bench, much less the players on the field. We

● Monkey Shines In Monkeyshines

There's a hole—not in the bucket—but in the ceiling of the psychology animal lab.

One of the monkeys being trained there recently went on a rampage. He jumped from his cage, ran down the hall, shinned up a plumbing fixture and disappeared into the attic of X-14.

In hot pursuit were Monnie Hedges, graduate student in psychology and Willie Houston, animal caretaker.

They scrambled up into the attic with the monkey.

Hedges lost the game as a misstep sent him plunging feet-first through the attic flooring.

The hole is still there. It's alright—the psychology department will soon have a new building.

The monk? He's back home in his cage.

And he probably smiles quietly to himself now and then.

Tech Math Professor Combines Teaching And Folk Dancing Hobby

By ANDEE STRONG
Toreador Staff Writer

When Dr. Charlie Riggs of the math department goes across campus he doesn't walk, he dances.

It's a sure bet that through his head are running bits of "Sheepskin Hay" or "Picking-Up-Sticks." These are dances, not Aggie homework assignments.

"Dr. Charlie" has folk-danced his way across the nation and in half the states of the Union. In fact, he met his wife, Jenny, an instructor in the biology dept., at a folk dance camp in Cleveland.

He admits his first love is for English dance, performed in light tripping movements and intricate patterns. He describes the Scottish sword dances as being fiery "good exhibition" types. Irish jigs, such as "Irish Washerwoman" are jolly and rollicking, requiring fast footwork and a fine sense of both rhythm and balance.

Dr. and Mrs. Riggs head a local folk dance group called the Polka Dot International Folk Dance Club. Once a week the club meets to perform some of the 90 dances of their repertoire. A favorite is the Kolo or peasant line dance.

"Ersko" Kolo from the Balkans is an example. The dance is performed without partners. The tempo changes swiftly from slow, plodding steps to a brisk, flashing crescendo.

The music from "Never-On-Sunday" is a Greek line-dance taken from the Greek classic, Miserlou. The Polka Dots perform this dance in traditional line form—hands on shoulders, as it was done in the movie.

All those who folk dance admit they are drawn by the cultural experience of performing to music and forms sometimes centuries old. The styling of the dance indicates whether it is a form from a court function, such as the stately "Francisc" or a wild, Russian muzurka such as the peasant-oriented, "Karpvet."

Among members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Foreman. Foreman is a professor in the civil engineering department at Tech. His wife, Maxine, is an instructor in the biology department. They began folk dancing when the group was formed five years ago.

Dr. Pat Strong of the psychology department and his wife, Andee, a journalism student at Tech, are also members of the group, which numbers 20.

Strong remarked, "Folk dancing is like running a maze. One wrong turn and you're out—only mazes don't have piped-in music."

The Polka Dots will give an exhibition of folk dancing in the Coliseum at 9:30 Friday night. It will be part of the West Texas Square Dance Festival, sponsored by the Lubbock City Park and Recreation Dept.

Elton and Charleen Terrel, members of Polka Dots International, are chairmen for the event. Terrel conducts a square dance class twice Riggs issued an invitation to all couples interested in folk dancing to visit the Polka Dots.

They meet Tuesday nights at Hodges Community Center. Contact Riggs or Andee Strong, SW5-3012, for more details.

A NECESSITY, THEN?

GROSSE POINTE PARK, Mich. (AP) — An attractive housewife here says the telephone is neither a luxury nor a sin and shouldn't be taxed as such by the state of Michigan.

Footnotes

by Miller

SPICE OF LIFE DEPT. — Telephones in the rooms seem to have added a new and interesting dimension to life these days. Sadists who used to get their kicks from harassing switchboard operators now have a new kick going — that of answering the phone with greetings such as, "It's your dime, buddy, shoot."

One of the chief attractions of this little game is the dead silence that follows one of these greetings. The effectiveness of the greeting can be measured by the length of the silence which follows while the caller collects himself. One of the current favorites, "Barge on the Nile, Cleopatra," (Mark Anthony speaking) has produced silences up to five minutes in length. This week's sure-fire shakerup: "Speak!"

STATE OF THE UNION — The Union is now offering a record rental program under which records ranging from Bach to Brubeck can be rented for a dime a week. The selection includes selections such as George Gershwin's, "An American in Paris," Mendelssohn's, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and current show tunes from "West Side Story" to "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Folk music and Jazz can also be rented by inquiring in the Program Office.

THE PLAY'S THE THING Theater in the Lubbock area is better than ever. The Tech Speech Dept., under the direction of new associate professor Ronald Schulz, has an impressive lineup scheduled for this year. Currently in the production stage is Lope de Vega's, "A Dog in the Manger," a cloak-and-dagger-type play by the great Spanish playwright. Following will be Lillian Hellman's "Toys in the Attic;" "Waltz of the Toreadors" by Jean Anouilh; and "The American Dream" by Albee.

Civic Lubbock, Inc. is also bringing such greats as, "Mary Mary," "Carnival," "The Sound of Music" and "A Leonard Bernstein Gala" to the Lubbock area.

SOUNDS AROUND TOWN

—Martin Denny's "A Taste of Honey" mixes smooth jazz and exotic Latin tempo in such favorites as "Route 66," "Walk on the Wild Side" and "Take Five." The new Brothers Four single, "Twenty-Five Minutes To Go," a ballad of a man about to hang, leaves the listener confused as to whether to laugh or cry. And for sheer nonsense, turn on one of the local rock and roll stations and listen for the "Monster Mash."

Textile Fraternity Reactivates Here

Kappa chapter of Phi Psi, national textile professional fraternity, is being reactivated on the Tech campus.

Phi Psi has not been active the past three years, but was one of the first professional organizations chartered on the campus, according to L. E. Parsons, textile department head.

Officers for the current year are Don Compton, president; Joe Stevens Jr., vice president; Marc Burkes, secretary-treasurer; and James Brown, reporter.

The organization will meet the first and third Tuesday nights each month in the Textile Engineering Bldg.

Tech, LHS Host English Workshop

Texas Tech and Lubbock High School will be the hosts on Saturday for the District 13 English workshop, to more than three hundred English teachers.

The principal speaker will be Dr. Kenneth L. Knickerbocker, dean of liberal arts at the University of Tennessee, who will address the luncheon meeting on Saturday.

Dr. Knickerbocker will also conduct an open lecture Oct. 12 on "Science and Humanism" in the Agriculture Engineering Auditorium.

The morning session, to be held at Lubbock High School, will begin at 8:30 a.m.

Phone Problems Plague Other Texas Institutions

Tech isn't the only Texas institution with telephone problems. Texas Christian University has its share also, according to articles in recent issues of the TCU paper "The Skiff."

At Tech the telephone problem is time—at TCU it's money. Linda Pilcher, TCU Student Congress member, stated in one of the articles that the cost of telephones were not made clear to TCU students and that some dorm residents received more expensive equipment than they had ordered.

"Several students were charged installation fees for bell chimes and colored phones that they didn't even order," Miss Pilcher was quoted as saying.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company officials said that students "probably" would have to pay installation charges on any phones they ordered and accepted, the article stated.

Some dorm residents at the Fort Worth school, said they misunderstood the costs and were giving up their phones because of the high price. In addition to the regular installation charge of $7, a colored or Princess phone is an added $10 and basic monthly service rate is $5.50. For a Princess telephone, 75 cents a month is added. Chimes cost six cents more per month, and taxes are added to these fees.

The complaints have not reduced the number of phone installations. More than 600 phones were in use at TCU when the articles were written. Phone company executives told "The Skiff" that the percentage of complaints was below average.

Mariner 2 To Complete Venus Probe

By JAMES D. CARY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mariner 2 will miss Venus by 20,900 miles instead of the earlier announced 9,000, but its scientific equipment will still be able to scan the planet thoroughly as it passes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announcing this Wednesday, said the added distance resulted from an over-correction in Mariner's speed when signals were transmitted to it Sept. 4 to aim it more accurately for the cloud-shrouded planet.

The velocity was increased by 47 miles an hour instead of the intended 45. This will put it 20,900 miles from Venus — plus or minus 3,000 miles — when it passes by Dec. 14.

But despite the error NASA emphasized the new path still lies well within the pie-shaped target area of 5,000 to 40,000 miles from Venus.

It is "well within the region where the scientific planetary experiments are expected to be very effective," NASA said.

Mariner 2 was launched on its long space voyage from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Aug. 27, aimed 10,000 miles from the surface of Venus. The planned Sept. 4 correction in its flight path followed and by Wednesday it had hurtled more than 7 1/2 million miles from the earth.

It is traveling at a speed of 7-500 miles an hour with relation to the earth, or 65,000 miles an hour with relation to the sun. This is faster than the earth rotates around the sun.

NASA scientists, in their first report on information gathered en route by Mariner, disclosed that:

—Particle radiation from the sun appears to be steady and strong like a solar wind, and of sufficient force to stretch out and distort solar magnetic fields.

—Not only are there magnetic fields radiating outward from the sun, there are transverse magnetic fields at right angles to those from the sun which may impede solar radiation.

—There apparently is always some plasma or atmospheric gas flowing in interplanetary space. At least there has been so far during the Mariner sampling.

Pall Mall Presents - GIRL WATCHER'S GUIDE

BATON-TWIRLING

CAMPUS TYPE I

The High-Stepper is an ideal choice for Campus Type #1 for two reasons. First, she is a fairly common species—and second, she is easy to identify.

Just as the bird-watching beginner should concentrate on the Robin, Sparrow and Cardinal before moving on to more exotic species, the girl watching beginner should master the observation and identification of types such as the High-Stepper before progressing to rarer (and usually more difficult to identify) types.

As in all fine arts, the mastery of fundamentals is the key to girl watching success. This mastery of fundamentals is just as important in the art of cigarette making. Taste Pall Mall and see what we mean!

Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!

So smooth, so satisfying,
so downright smokeable!

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Tom Tresh ruined a stout pitching effort by Jack Sanford with a three-run homer in the eighth inning Wednesday for a 5-3 New York Yankee victory over the San Francisco Giants in the fifth game of the 1962 World Series.

The triumph gave the American League champs a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series.

Until young Tresh hammered Sanford's pitch into the lower deck in right field, about 360 feet away, following singles by Tony Kubek and Bobby Richardson, the Yanks vaulted power had consisted of runs scored on a wild pitch and a passed ball.

Sanford, a three-hit shutout winner in the second game, had just struck out his 10th man, his pitching opponent, Ralph Terry, when the Yanks struck without warning.

Kubek singled sharply to right field and Richardson lined a single to left. Al Dark, manager of the Giants, bounced out of the dugout to confer with Sanford but decided to let him continue.

The broad-shouldered right-hander threw one ball to Tresh, the 24-year-old son of a former major league catcher. The next sailed into the lower deck. It was Tresh's first series homer in his fifth series game and his father, Mike, was in the stands to beam with pride and accept congratulations.

Terry, the man who threw the decisive home run ball to Pittsburgh's Bill Mazeroski in 1960 and the loser of the second game of this series, finally broke his string of four series defeats with an eight-hit effort. He had the added incentive of winning for his new son, born during the series.

Thursday is an open date for travel with the sixth game scheduled for Candlestick Park in San Francisco on Friday. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played on the same site on Saturday.

Billy Pierce (16-6), loser of Sunday's third game is the pitching choice for the Giants in Friday's encounter with either Whitey Ford (17-8) or Bill Stafford (14-9) going for the Yankees.

Texas Tech's Picadors officially open the 1962 freshman football season when they meet the Arkansas Shoats in Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium at 8 p.m. tonight.

The Tech freshman squad left Lubbock for Little Rock by chartered plane this morning, and will return to the campus at 7 a.m. Friday.

Coach Berl Huffman's Picadors will be pitted against a Shoat team that has lost its only start, bowing to the SMU freshmen 7-0. The only game action seen this fall by the Picadors has been last Thursday's intrasquad game that ended with the Reds outscoring the Whites 34-32. Although the Picadors showed a great deal of offensive ability in the intrasquad clash, the always-tough Arkansas defense should be a trial-by-fire for the Tech frosh.

Thus far, the record for the Tech-Arkansas freshman grid series is even, with each school holding two victories. In the series inaugural in Little Rock in 1958, Lance Alworth led the Shoats to a 33-0 win. The 1959 encounter in Lubbock saw Tech take a 26-6 win, with Arkansas receiving a 34-27 licking in 1960. Last year, the Shoats stopped the Picadors 14-7.

Texas Tech's probable starting lineup:

LE—Jerry Shipley, 180 Lubbock Monterey
 LT—Roy Brown, 226, Carlsbad, N.M.
 LG—Hardy Burke, 187, Denton
 C—Eddie Miller, 200, Jacksboro
 RG—Ray Garrett, 195, Odessa
 RT—John Porter, 210, Lamesa
 RE—Phil Brown, 205, Abilene
 QB—Danny Scarbrough, 185, Quanah
 LH—John Agan, 180, Albany
 RH—Harold Hudson, 180, Springlake
 FB—Bobby Carbone, 215, Albuquerque, N.M.

WILDCATS LEAD BIG TEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Northwestern's wide-open offense, which has accounted for two victories in as many games, has given the Big Ten's Wildcats the lead in both total offense and forward passing offense according to statistics released Wednesday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Profs Attend OAS Meet

Dr. S. M. Kennedy and Dr. Harley D. Oberhelman will attend the Organization of American States educational conference Friday and Saturday.

Kennedy, dean of Arts and Sciences, and Oberhelman, associate professor of foreign languages will travel to Trinity University, San Antonio, for the OAS meeting. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will deliver the major address Friday at the first OAS meeting in Texas.

Johnson is expected to discuss the ways and means to greater understanding among OAS member nations.

Attending the conference will be the Latin American ambassadors to the OAS and invited conference delegates from educational institutions and organizations in the southwest.

Key state and Texas civic leaders are also expected to attend the conference and dinner.

Featured speakers for the morning educational conference include Dr. William S. Stokes, visiting professor at the National War College, Washington, D.C.
