Representative Election Today

Beer Named AROTC Brigade Commander

Jan D. Beer, a senior civil engineer from Waxahachie, Texas, has been selected to command the Army ROTC cadet brigade at Texas Tech during the Fall Semester, according to Colonel B. W. Paden, professor of military science.

Beer, 21, is also wing advisor in Wells Hall, a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and is active in First Baptist Church. This summer at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, he was first in his platoon of 33 men and second in his company of 139 men.

In recognition of his position as Cadet Brigade Commander of the slightly under 500 men in Army ROTC, Beer has been promoted to the rank of Cadet Colonel. He has been designated as a Distinguished Military Student and, following his college graduation, plans to take a regular commission in armor.

Beer gained experience as a commander last year when he commanded the Counter Guerilla Unit.

Beer is the son of Robert L. Beer of Waxahachie, Texas.

Brigade Executive Officer David K. Current, Amarillo also has the responsibility of leading the cadet corps. Assisting Beer and Current in their duties are Brigade staff officers Lee W. Williams, Post; Dwight B. Fullingim and Charles L. Hamilton, Lubbock; Harold L. Stephens, Fort Worth, and Earle H. Hamilton of Lubbock.

Three vacancies in the Student Senate will be filled and 34 representatives to the Freshman Council will be elected today from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Students from the School of Home Economics will elect one Student Senate representative while the School of Business Administration will elect two representatives at polls set up in their respective buildings.

Students in BA seeking election are Max Blakney, Tim Doreen, Gwen Henry, Marilyn McNeill, William Scott Murray, Vicki Nichols, Eddie Prichard, John E. Skearton, John Stevenson, Roger Thraikill, and Kenneth C. Todd.

Home Economics students running are Beverly Barlow, Generea Billings, Susan Flowers, Virginia Fry, Janet Lewis, Michal Martin, Lynn Snyder, and Janet Steigerwald.

Freshmen will vote for Council representatives at polls placed in 15 dorms housing freshmen. Off-campus freshmen will vote at boxes placed in the Union and Ad Building.

Seventeen Council members will be selected to represent off-campus students and 17 (two from Wall and Gates and one from each of the others) to represent the dorms.

Petitions for 142 candidates have been returned for the 34 positions.

IBM voting will be used during both elections. This is the first time it has been used for freshman elections according to Sara Cox, Student Association Secretary.

Mitchell Trio Tickets Remain

Approximately 1500 tickets remain for the Friday performance of the Mitchell Trio at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Tickets are $1.25 for students, $2 for faculty and $3 for the general public. They may be purchased in the Tech Union downstairs ticket booth from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. today through Friday.

One ID for every two student tickets is necessary.

All seats to the 8 p.m. show are reserved. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

Carmen Keith, assistant chairman of the Tech Union Special Events Committee said, "Because all seats are reserved, students should purchase tickets now in order to get better selection."

Name Omitted

The name of Ben Walker, a candidate for the Freshman Council, was inadvertently left out of a story in Tuesday's Daily Treador. Walker is an off-campus candidate.

14 Rooms Open In Men's Halls

Fourteen rooms are now available in five Men's Residence Halls. The rooms are located in Sneed, Bledsoe, Gordon, Gaston, and Mens No. 10.

Students wishing to get a vacant room should report to the Room Reservations Office between 8 a.m. and noon and 1 and 5 p.m. as soon as possible. Students who apply first will secure the rooms.

Hotel Life Has Advantages, Disadvantages

By JIM JONES
Staff Writer

College life in a hotel? This is the unusual problem encountered by 23 men students.

The men, who could not get housing on campus because of crowded conditions, are living in the Caprock and Pioneer Hotels.

The eleven men residing on the eleventh floor of the Caprock Hotel and the 12 on the fourth floor of the Pioneer Hotel have varying opinions on hotel life.

Doug Boone, graduate student from Lubbock and one of two wing advisors, says the main problem faced by Tech residents in the hotels is the cost of food.

"Most of the boys eat breakfast and lunch in the hotel coffee shop and then eat supper somewhere in town because the coffee shop closes at 3 p.m."

Although the hotel rooms are not as expensive as dorm rooms, eating every meal out makes the cost more than that of students living on campus.

One of the hotels has initiated an experiment where students may eat the evening meal at a reduced rate if they eat before a specified time. The continuation of the plan depends on the number of residents participating in the experiment.

One student added that dorm residents who complain of the food would not be so vehement in their complaints if they had to pay the increased price for "real food."

Henry Mora, League City freshman, says the greatest inconvenience is the distance from the campus. If the resident does not have a car, he must ride with someone who does or ride a city bus which adds another expense to the list.

Dating is also cut to a minimum since the men cannot walk to a women's dorm to escort their date to a ballgame or to the Union for a movie.

For those who do own a car, there is the added problem of parking space. Car owners may pay $10 a month for the privilege of parking in a downtown lot or, as one student does, play a frantic game of "hide and seek" with the local meter maids.

Telephone service presents another problem to the expense-laden men. In one hotel, all rooms have telephones, but the hotel charges fifteen cents for each call. The other hotel has one phone on the floor and it is a pay phone.

Most of the residents say it is easier to study in the hotel because there are fewer students living around them, although one, Greg Fifield, said it is louder than the dorm "because no one worries about bothering anyone else."

Residents of one of the hotels utilize the vacant rooms on their floor by studying.

Another complaint is the lack of space in the rooms. Most of the rooms are singles which means there is one small closet for each student. There are a few double rooms with two in a room.

One of the hotels has agreed to move in more clothes racks to remedy the problem, but as yet the portable closets have not been installed.

Since most of the residents are freshmen, they find it an advantage to have missed the dorm's freshman "orientation." As one freshman put it, "Slime caps and cow bells we did not have to endure."

Most men agree the most advantageous aspect of hotel living is the maid service. In one hotel, maids come twice a week and in the other hotel, maids change the linens and make-up the beds every day.

Added conveniences for the hotel residents are piped-in radios and air conditioning.

Although the students are off-campus, student antics are still a part of college life.

The manager of one of the hotels found it necessary to complain to the wing advisor when several of the college residents dropped a rope down the laundry chute from the top floor to the basement.

The men got their daily exercise by climbing down the rope 11 stories. After numerous complaints about strange noises in the laundry chute, the manager of the hotel put a stop to the student-initiated intramurals.

Ed Link, Palestine freshman, sums up the attitude of the students involved in the combination hotel-college life experiment. "The rooms are more comfortable and we have more freedom than in the dorms, but I feel as if we are missing part of the traditional college life since there are not as many other people to meet here as on the campus."

COLLEGE LIFE DOWNTOWN—Greg Fifield, left, freshman from Houston, and Mike Wright, freshman from Del Rio, leave the Pioneer Hotel in downtown Lubbock. The Techsans live on the fourth floor of the hotel as part of a new program to provide housing for wind, approximately 1,500 students jammed the Wells-Carpenter parking lot for the Saturday afternoon event. After stuffing themselves with fried chicken, the "picknickers" danced to the tunes of Tommy Hancock and his Road Side Playboys.

Tech's expanding enrollment. Eleven men students live in the Caprock Hotel and 12 live in the Pioneer. At right, Fifield studies in his small room for which he pays $50 per month.

Amid fluttering tablecloths, flying napkins, and unruly skirts, the picnic, sponsored by the Central Food Service, in association with Men's Residence Council was an apparent success—especially from the female point of view. The ratio of boys to girls was nearly five to one.

David McDougal thought the picnic was a good way to get acquainted with other students in a relaxed atmosphere. His only complaint was that the food was somewhat soggy, but after all he arrived late.

"Too much wind and dust," complained Charles Pape, "but the food was good."

Andy Tibbets felt it was an excellent idea—something new and unusual that added variety to the ordinary school routine.

Jim Perkins, office manager at Wells Hall, said he "enjoyed the picnic, but felt that certain aspects could be improved."

"It was a fun, different experience and I'd like to see us have another," said Nancy Fordtran, summing up what seemed to be the general consensus.

Horse Opera In Top 20, Western Season Trots On

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLYWOOD (AP) — "In a good western, you'll find the last vestige of the symbol of male virility," said actor Chuck Connors. "It's the lone man overcoming obstacles and it's always got a lot of people identifying with the hero."

Connors was talking at the opening of television's new season and as the star of a very healthy Western series called "Branded." But less than 10 months before, the Western as a popular television form had been pronounced dying, if not dead.

True, there were "Gunsmoke" and "Rawhide" on CBS, "Bonanza" and "The Virginian" on NBC and "Wagon Train" on ABC. But the diagnosticians were attributing their Nielsen ratings to attractive stars, good scripts and happy locations on the evening schedules—everything except that 1870 old West locale, the horses, gun play and saloon brawls that have become traditional ingredients since William S. Hart.

New Horse Opera

In January, NBC replaced a faltering comedy show in its Sunday night lineup with a riproaring horse opera in the old tradition. It was "Branded," a 30-minute adventure saga with Connors playing a roaming ex-cavalry officer cashiered, wrongly of course, for cowardice.

Hits Top 20

For Connors "Branded" means a return to the type of role in which he is most convincing. For several years, the former professional baseball player starred in "The Rifleman."

To the delight and surprise of many, "Branded" immediately caught the public fancy and jumped right on Nielsen's list of the top 20 shows.

Thus this season the Western is back, full of good health, and all over the three networks. There are, in fact, 13 shows occupying 11 hours a week of prime evening time.

Fancy Gets Car Back

BOSTON (AP)—Theresa Fancy's car finally is back in her own garage.

But she and the Massachusetts Parking Authority are still at war over who will pay the $200 parking bill at the garage where the car was found two months after it was stolen.

Mrs. Fancy bought the car last summer for $400. Two days later it was stolen from her Somerville home, and then abandoned in the Boston Common underground garage.

By the time she sat in the driver's seat again Monday, Massachusetts legislators, the Automobile Legal Association, newspaper editorial writers and the Boston Municipal Court had extended her a helping hand.

The parking authority had refused to return the car to her unless she paid the bill—which was mounting at the rate of $2.50 a day.

Several members of the Massachusetts House have filed bills to order the authority to drop the charge.

Lawrence Yont, a lawyer for the Automobile Legal Association which is providing Mrs. Fancy with counsel at no charge, said he was confident she would not have to pick up the tab.

Mrs. Fancy, Yont, and a legal association tow truck pulled up to the Boston Common garage Monday and a writ of replevin or release was presented to an attendant. The court issued the writ after the legal association posted an $800 bond.

usual magazine format was proposed by Garets in 1959. La Ventana was the first yearbook to use the magazine style.

Mag Format La Ventana Successful, Now Series?

By BARBARA WORLEY
Feature Editor

In 1954 an idea came to Wallace Garets for a new style of college yearbook.

In 1956 and '57 the editors of Texas Tech's La Ventana suffered a breakdown and a bad case of ulcers, respectively, and the book literally ran out of staff members.

The culmination of these events was the 1959 La Ventana, first example of the magazine format and beginning of the style that has made Tech's yearbook unique.

Garets, now head of the journalism department here, explained the need for a change in La Ventana's style.

Demoralized Staff

"Our staff was completely demoralized; we had a handful of students doing the job, consequently they were discouraged and there was little carry-over in the personnel. We had to do something to spark interest and gain support for the book.

"This idea did it."

The idea was taken to the Publications Committee for consideration and then to the Student Council as the voice of the students. It was okayed for a trial run in the '59 book.

Garets called in Ray Tibbets, a graphic arts specialist with experience as a printer, engraver and lithographer, whom he described as "A design man, an ideal person to help us implement this type of book."

In September 1959 the first magazine-style yearbook appeared.

Sales Doubled

Since the style came into use La Ventana sales have doubled, according to Phil Orman, Director of Student Publications.

But it wasn't only the circulation that increased with the advent of the magazine style. The number of staff members increased from 4 to 60 in just the one year's time.

The staffers found with this format they were not only putting out a record of the school year's events. They were working under conditions which would give them valuable experience in professional work on magazines.

"The standard yearbook has no counterpart in the professional world," Garets said. "There is no training for real work. With this style of book the students get actual training of benefit to them later on."

Work Load Lightened

De-centralization of responsibility and a lightening of the work load came about with the new style. Instead of having one editor handling the production of the book, the staff includes an editor for each magazine, along with the administrative co-editors.

There is also an associate editor, a copy editor and an art editor.

Original permission for the use of titles was obtained from the real magazines when the idea began to take shape, the only changes being Tyme, View and Future.

Time was changed to Tyme and Fortune to Future because of discrepancies with the magazine publishers. Look was changed to View because the original agreement would have limited the use of the title Look to every two years.

Viet Cong Centers Aim At Vietnamese Outposts

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese rangers and Viet Cong Guerrillas in battalion strength battled again Tuesday in Phu Cu Pass where the Communists had heavy losses in a fight last week, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

He described the fighting as heavy but said he had no details or estimates of casualties on either side.

The battle was 295 miles northeast of Saigon and 45 miles northwest of the coastal city of Qui Nhon.

Elsewhere on the ground, the Viet Cong concentrated attacks on Vietnamese outposts. In one raid, they overran a village and executed five Vietnamese, including the village chief whose body they dumped at the flagpole.

U.S. ground forces reported only patrol skirmishing but U.S. ships and planes pounded targets in South Viet Nam and other American aircraft blasted Communist positions in North Viet Nam.

In the new Phu Cu fight, a Vietnamese army ranger unit reported it engaged a large Viet Cong element, possibly one or two battalions.

The U.S. spokesman said tactical air strikes were launched to aid the government forces.

Losses Light

Since the Phu Cu fight last week, 260 Viet Cong bodies have been counted by U.S. officers. Vietnamese and U.S. military men, however, think the number of Viet Cong killed exceeded 700. Government losses were called moderate.

Episcopal Student Center Begins 'Community' Series

A Time To Participate

TODAY, FRESHMEN WILL participate in their first campus elections—that is, they will have an opportunity to participate in their first campus elections. Whether they vote or not will be left up to them, but those who don't vote will be forfeiting more than they realize.

Not only will they be participating in student government by selecting their own governmental representatives but they will be acquainting themselves with possible future college leaders.

The Freshman Council serves many purposes—one of which is to train freshmen to actively serve as student leaders throughout their college life. It is important to the college to get active, civic-minded workers on the Council. The only way to do this is for every freshman to vote and vote conscientiously.

Freshmen won't be the only ones voting today however. Students enrolled in the Schools of Business Administration and Home Economics will be electing senators for fill-in positions.

Far too often students have the attitude that fill-in elections are not important. They fail to realize that senators chosen during these elections will serve in the same capacity as those who were originally named during spring campus elections.

The Student Senate is an important part of student government; make sure it gets the best workers.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following article is the third in a series outlining various programs and activities offered to Tech students by churches and religious organizations in town.

By PAULINE EDWARDS

Editorial Assistant

Tech's Episcopal Student Center served the college in much the same capacity as the present Student Union during the first few years after its opening in 1932.

"In the early days, it was the only place where students could have dances," according to the Rev. Ralph E. Macy, Episcopal College Chaplain. Actually the Episcopal Center was the first such center to open up for Techsians. Because the college had no Student Union at that time, the Center provided Techsians a place for their dances and other social events as well as a place for religious association and worship.

Since its opening in 1932, the Episcopal Center has offered a number of programs to Techsians. One of its more recent undertakings is a new series—The Shape of Our Community. The series will run throughout the month of October and will consist of four programs.

The idea for the series developed during an informal talk this summer between some Tech students and Peace Corps volunteers who were attending the training program at Tech.

Some of the Peace Corps volunteers were asking what community service projects Tech students were participating in. "Although there are campuses where student bodies do take an active part in community service projects, this hasn't been the case here," the Rev. Mr. Macy said. "We decided there probably was an interest among students but that it had not been actively developed yet," he added.

Purpose of Series

"The purpose of this series is to let students know what is going on in a service nature, what is in store in an urban nation and to bring students into community service projects," he said.

The first of the series is scheduled Oct. 3 with Miss Mary Hamlin, U.S. Public Health Nurse speaking on "Migrants In our Midst." Miss Hamlin has done considerable work with migrant camps and has served as co-ordinator for the "Migrant Ministry Program."

Under the "Migrant Ministry Program," educational and recreational groups go out to the camps in the evenings and work with the people. The service they provide varies all the way from instruction in kindergarten to driver education.

Tech students participated in this program last year through the Episcopal Center and are planning to do so again this year. Last year, Techsians served as tutors at migrant camps and at Latin American kindergartens. The need for instruction among migrant workers is great in the cotton area around Lubbock since it is the third largest migrant center in the nation, according to the Rev. Mr. Macy.

For the second program of the series, Harry Stokely, administrator of Green Fair Manor (Negro urban renewal apartments) will speak on "Urban Renewal—What Prospects?" at a meeting Oct. 10.

New Housing Facilities

Green Fair Manor consists of 235 apartments in the Negro community—a partially subsidized form of housing designed to replace some of the poorer housing facilities which were previously used.

Techsians have already participated in this area of social service work by tutoring in all levels of the public schools in the Negro community. The Episcopal Student Center will continue sponsorship of the tutoring program this year. "In the past, work in this area has been good in quality although there have not been a great number of student volunteers," the Rev. Mr. Macy said.

Oct. 17, Mrs. Clarence Brazill, a teacher from last summer's "Project Head Start" will give an illustrated talk on the program. Four hundred Anglo-Latin and Negro children participated in the program at three Lubbock schools during the summer. The purpose of the program was to prepare these youngsters to begin school this fall.

Concluding the program, the Rev. Andrew Mild of Shepherd King Lutheran Church will speak on "The Church In the Inner City," Oct. 24. His speech will be based on his experience at the Urban Training Center in Chicago.

All of these programs will be at 7 p.m. at the Episcopal Student Center, 2407 16th St., and are open to all Techsians.

The Center is also currently sponsoring a Sunday morning class on the study of the church in a contemporary setting at 10 a.m. The Sunday evening prayer at 5 p.m. at St. Paul's Church is followed by a supper for Episcopal students at 6 p.m. at the Student Center. During the week, the Center has a regular mid-week service 7 a.m. Wednesday followed by a breakfast.

The Episcopal Student Center also offers college credit courses jointly with several other Student Centers through the United Bible Chair.

COME NOW DR. BREEDLOVE, JUST WHAT ARE THE RESULTS OF YOUR LATEST FRUIT-FLY EXPERIMENTS.

—david snyder—

A.M.E.N.

(assistant managing editor's notes)

WITH THIS ISSUE of the Daily Toreador begins a new experiment in journalism—namely this column. Hopefully, it will appear every week and will try to contain itself to Texas Technological College, not trying to solve the world's problems. Without a doubt, there are enough world problems to solve, but there seems to already be an abundance of people offering their unsuccessful solutions.

One of the first requirements of a newspaper column is an eye-catching title, something that had been causing worry for several days. Then, the other night as I lay me down to sleep I was hit by an inspiration, the results of which are shown above. It is certainly not intended to contain any hint of sacrilege, nor is it intended to be taken literally.

Webster says the above term means "It is so," which isn't so far as A.M.E.N. is concerned. One person's opinion is often no better than someone else's—it's mainly a matter of who has an opinion to express. It's not hoped that everyone will agree with what this column says, but it is hoped it will be read with an open mind as well as open eyes.

So much for the introductions and small talk; it's time to get down to factual opinion.

SUNDAY NIGHT the panel of KTXT radio station's Audio I, of which I was a member, came up with a couple of interesting observations. The first came from a sophomore who is back at Tech after an eight year's absence.

"The Union used to be crammed full every night," he said. "People were always dancing in the snack bar and the place was really swinging. Now it seems to be dead most of the time. Why, the other afternoon my date and I started to dance to the juke box and everybody stared at us as if we were idiots."

Someone who is willing to try something a little different, who is willing to break the boundaries of conformity, is im-

Hospitals Announce Papal Trip To U. S. Opens New Visiting Hours New Vistas of Diplomacy

New visiting procedures of six Lubbock and Slaton hospitals will take effect on October 1.

General visiting hours have been expanded from 2 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. daily, except for special care units. There will no longer be morning visiting hours.

There is to be a 15 minute limit of two visitors to a patient's room at any one time. Except for this limitation, visiting hours for the immediate family are unrestricted.

Age Limit Imposed

Visitors under age 14 will not be allowed on any patient floor.

Telephone calls to patients are encouraged during the new visiting hours only.

Obstetrics visitors will be asked to observe a new schedule of 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Infants will be shown only during these hours.

Intensive care unit visitation is allowed 10 minutes every four hours on an around-the-clock basis. This is limited to immediate family members.

Visiting hours in the psychiatric care unit are for immediate family only, from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Sunday time is from noon to 5 p.m.

Inaugurating new visiting hours on October 1 are Highland, Methodist, St. Mary's, University, and West Texas Hospitals in Lubbock and Mercy Hospital, Slaton.

2500 Year Old Remains Found

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—The skeletonized remains of a man about 40 and a boy of about 6 have been found, virtually intact, in two tombs dating from the early 6th Century B.C.

Prof. Bernardo Yohannowski, acting superintendent of antiquities, announced the latest find at the newly discovered necropolis at Vico Equense, near ancient Pompei. He estimated the dates of the tombs.

BEAR KILLED

VIRGINIA, Minn. (AP)—A 450-pound bear was shot and killed Monday night in the downtown business section of this city of 15,000 residents.

Virginia stores are open Monday night. Hundred of persons were downtown shopping when the unscheduled entertainment developed.

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI's trip to the United Nations Monday brings a new dimension to Vatican diplomacy and opens the way for further papal travels, even to the Communist East.

In New York the Roman Catholic pontiff will deliver a peace appeal in the U.N. General Assembly before the representatives of more than 100 nations.

By stepping on American soil—the first to do so as Pope—he will be making a visit to one of the great protagonists of the East-West struggle in today's world.

His next trip might be to the other side, to Communist Poland.

Such a trip has long been rumored. Some Vatican aides have been dismayed at the thought of his going to a Communist-ruled nation, but a trip to New York will supply the element of balance in advance.

Relishes Travel

Pope Paul, 68, relishes travel. Before his election to the papacy in 1963, he had made two visits to attaches such importance to his North America and an extensive appearance before the U.N. General Assembly that he is personally mediately branded as some kind of a nut and faces a mild form of public persecution.

Hence, the stereotyped college student of today—similar haircuts, similar ivy league clothing, similar actions. Three

THE SECOND IDEA discussed by the panel which caught my attention concerned something known as school spirit. The panel agreed unanimously Tech's was the best they had ever been associated with.

Now, there's no doubt spirit was sky-high last week. For possibly the first time, those who are supposed-to-know-about this-sort-of-thing conceded that Texas Technological College actually had a chance to beat that team from Austin.

Well, you know what happened.

cheers for the aggies and their hats and boots (provided they're not conforming to aggieism)!

After all, what's so terribly wrong with being different.

So much for the moralistic lecture; on to one more topic.

Bishops Urge Council To Use Freud's Ideas

VATICAN CITY (AP)—A group of Latin-American bishops urged today that the Roman Catholic Church make use of the psychological lessons of Freud.

They told the Vatican Ecumenical Council that "psychoanalysis can be useful in all fields of church activity."

The proposal came during a council debate on the document on modern world problems, which deals with subjects ranging from atheism to nuclear war and birth control to politics.

Some informants said the document is in "deep trouble" and that the council may not have time to fully act on it.

Bishop Sergio Mendez Arceo of Cuernavaca, Mexico, speaking for 10 Latin-American bishops, told the council the modern world document needed considerable revision.

He complained that it overlooked the anthropological and psychological factors of the individual man.

"It would be a mistake to ignore the conclusions of Freud," the bishop said.

Bishop Mendez Arceo is noted for his progressive views. Members of a monastery in his diocese have undergone psychoanalysis with what church authorities call beneficial results.

Most of the debate in St. Peter's Basilica today centered on atheism, according to council briefing officers.

Few of the council fathers who spoke found favor with the modern world schema's treatment of atheism. Most asked for an understanding approach to the individual atheist rather than condemnations of the phenomenon as such.

Diet-Mad World Blames Problems On Fat

Editor's Note: All that the foregoing nonsense about fat men boils down to is that Hal Boyle's wife has made him go on a diet again—after he jumped from 190 pounds to 210 in two months.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody is knocking fat today.

You are advised to keep it off your person and cut it off the meat you eat.

Fat is blamed for everything from early acne to early death. It seems to be public enemy No. 1.

Politicians probably would even blame the worldwide Communist conspiracy on fat except for one inescapable fact: Most Communists aren't fat, unless it is between the ears where it doesn't show. They generally tend to the lean and hungry look.

But in a diet-mad world, the critics of fat overlook one truth: It may have its perils, but it has its pleasures too. Yes, blubber hath its charms for the man or woman who owns it.

To paraphrase Abraham Lincoln, "The Lord must have loved fat people—he made so many of them."

Here are a few compensations for being overweight:

You never have to give the shirt off your back to help a buddy. It is too big to fit your buddy.

It isn't necessary to push your way through revolving doors. You merely lean against them—and they spin like crazy.

When a fat man sits down in a bus seat, he doesn't have to share it with anyone else. There simply isn't room for anyone else.

You don't have to learn new dances such as the Frug, the Monkey or the Jerk. No gal in her right mind would want to be seen going through such strenuous motions in public with a fat man.

Yet there are few sights more heartwarming than seeing a graceful fat man and a fat lady waltzing together. It is like watching two battleships sail through heavy seas while smaller craft scurry for safety.

As a matter of policy, life insurance agents rarely try to sell a really fat man a big new policy he can't afford.

Strange dogs bark less often at pudgy folk, realizing instinctively that they are more noble by nature than stringbean-shaped humans.

You don't fritter away your strength doing unnecessary exercises such as push-ups and pull-ups. A fat man gets all the exercise he needs bending down and tying his shoelaces each morning.

One of the profound joys of living is eating. The fat man wants what he eats and eats what he wants. Restaurant owners see that he gets the best table and the best service, because he is a good ad for their place. A restaurant patronized only by thin people soon goes out of business.

But the simplest and greatest blessing of blubber lies in its ability to create lasting friendships. The reason everybody loves a fat man is that everyone feels superior to him; if you give a fellow a reason to feel superior to you he can't help liking you.

Inside every thin man is a fat man trying to be big about it all.

Pop Brymer Recalls Past

BRYAN, Tex., Sept. 16 (AP)—Pop Brymer, 87-year-old Spanish-American war veteran, still plays a mean game of dominoes even though he suffered a stroke in May on his 57th wedding anniversary.

Born Joseph Coral Brymer, "on top of a sand hill" in the Liberty community near Caldwell Oct. 16, 1878, Pop has been known for years as the domino king of Burtleson County.

He's been in a Bryan Nursing Home since his stroke May 15, and says he's feeling chipper as he recalls his Army days.

Pop served with the First Texas Company for five months in the Spanish-American War occupation forces in Cuba.

"I was Number 2 in the rear ranks and refused to accept any responsibility," he told a visitor.

Taking out a yellow bone-handled, hog-sticking jack knife, Pop reached into his bedside table drawer for a fresh cigar.

Asked what he likes, he said: "The cheapest cigar that's built; nobody handles them but a beer joint."

He then unwrapped the cigar, whacked off about one inch and stuck it into his charred yellow corn-cob pipe.

He got his nickname "Pop" in a Caldwell barbershop at the turn of the century, the town he likes to call home.

A Dutch-Irishman who did his share of cotton chopping, Pop also spent time digging lignite near Rockdale in the "Big Lump" coal mine in the early 1900s.

"I gee-hawed a mule, too, and then went into the chicken business after marrying May 15, 1908."

"My mother had two boys and both of us were named after precious stone. My brother was named Onyx and my middle name is Coral.

"She named me right, because I turned out hard and rough, just like a coral stone." But Pop's friends in Caldwell and neighboring towns know him as a warm-hearted man who always has a good word and joke for everybody.

His joking, in fact his trademark and the best medical diagnosis that he's feeling fine.

He took a good puff on his cigar pipe and challenged the interviewer to a game of moon, a game with dominoes.

Trio Sing Their Minds' With Folk Song, Satire

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Fine Arts Editor

The Mitchell Trio "Sing Their Minds" with folk song and satire at 8 p.m. Friday at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

The trio, sponsored by Tech Union Special Events Committee, has created headlines across the country with its much praised and much banned recordings.

Among the trio's most controversial recordings are their renditions of a new graduation song for Ole Miss ("My girl was only seventeen, when she was chosen riot queen.")

Then there is their Neo-Nazi opus, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," which has been quietly blacklisted by the television industry. This and the Ole Miss Song are two of their most popular in-person numbers.

Their song, "The John Birch Society," was banned on most radio stations across the country while played continuously on a handful of others. The song, to say the least, spoofs John Birchers.

In their latest album, "Singin' Our Mind," the trio has a great deal of fun lyrically explaining the world around "Luci Baines." The boys are seriously satiric in their their retrospective look at recent Germanic history via "I Was Not a Nazi Polka." And they give a broad view of the lanky citizen from the enormous state, "Long Tall Texan."

It is not only in its satire, however, that the Trio—Mike Kobluk, Joe Frazier and former Tech student John Denver—"sing their minds." Pleas for peace, tolerance and good will shine through many of their more serious numbers.

Concert Pianist To Play

James Tocca, 21-year-old concert pianist, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Tech Union Ballroom.

Tocca won first prize in the Magda Tagliaferio Competition in 1964. He has also won first prize at the International Barcelona contest.

Tocca has been described by the Journal Musical Francais as being endowed by nature with hands made to play piano and as having a great musical sense.

The Journal continues, "He is not satisfied with translating texts with clarity, brilliance and strength. When necessary, he interprets as a musician, brings out relief where needed, brings out the accents, directs the phases and shades with sobriety."

The French critic, Maxime Beliard, describes Tocca's work as being natural, relaxed, with a deep feeling for the music to which a blinding technique yields.

Tech Union Fine Arts Committee is sponsoring the free event.

Isle Seared By Volcano

TAGAYTAY, Philippines (AP)—Smoke pulsed from the Taal Volcano Tuesday night as authorities sought to determine how many of the islands 2,000 residents perished in the fiery eruption before dawn. Police said 21 persons were known dead.

They were among 2,000 who farmed a scenic island within Lake Taal, 40 miles south of Manila, at the tip of Luzon Island. They raised rice, coconuts and livestock on and around the volcano's gentle slopes.

Some of the islanders—awakened by the yammering of dogs, cats and cattle—fled by boat before the initial explosion at 2:30 a.m.

How many got away remained to be determined by a check at refugee camps hastily organized by Luzon officials and a survey of the stricken island by rescue and relief teams.

The disaster developed on the 55th birthday of President Diosdado Macapagal. He flew in from Manila for a tour of inspection.

Hot lava, ash and steaming mud spewing from the 984-foot peak in the early morning darkness buried more than half of the island's 12½ square miles. Volcanic ash burned Luzon farmland 10 miles away.

Navy Orbits Spacecraft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy disclosed Tuesday night that it has placed two more navigation satellites in orbit.

The announcement by the Bureau of Naval Weapons said the two 135-pound, octagonal spacecraft are in orbit "to augment the now operational all-weather satellite navigation system and to allow for more frequent position fixes by ships at sea."

The satellites, powered by solar cells and batteries, were launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., June 24 and Aug. 13.

They are gravity-stabilized by means of a 100-foot-long silver-plated beryllium-copper boom which is extended after the satellite is in orbit.

Transmit Radio Signals

The two satellites are transmitting radio signals which are the source of the data used by shipboard navigation sets.

The Navy launched its first navigation satellite Sept. 17, 1959, but the spacecraft failed to function properly.

16 Satellites Launched

Altogether 16 satellites have been launched in the program thus far. In 1963, the program was classified secret. Little has been said publicly of the project since then.

One reason for secrecy has been the Navy's unwillingness to make known the high degree of accuracy in navigation through use of the satellites.

There are indications that this accuracy is aiding underwater research as well as surface navigation.

Texas Western College Sets NCAA Passing Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Texas Western's pitch-catch combination of quarterback Billy Stevens and flanker Chuck Hughes is keeping the statisticians busy at the NCAA Athletic Bureau.

Stevens has clicked for eight touchdowns and 797 yards by completing 37 of 68 passes in the first two games, according to figures released Tuesday. The best previous mark in major college ball was seven in the first two games by Bill Wade at Vanderbilt in 1950 and 611 yards by Stan Heath of Nevada in 1948. NCAA rankings by completions put Stevens in third place among passers.

Subtracting Stevens' 48 yards lost rushing, he still leads the nation by almost 300 yards in total offense.

Hughes has caught 17 pases for 513 yards, most in the nation. However, Howard Twilley of Tulsa, the receiver for Bill Anderson, the leading passer, has caught 23. Anderson's 49 completions is tops.

Mike Garrett of Southern California is the rushing leader with 300 yards on 57 attempts, followed by Vic Purvis of Southern Mississippi with 273.

Bill Jackson of Marshall is the top scorer with seven TDs and 42 points.

In total offense, Terry Southall of Baylor was sixth with 436 yards in 87 plays. He was fourth in forward passing with 476 yards, 36 connections in 65 tries and a .554 average.

Harlan Lane of Baylor was second in pass receiving, 19 for 219 yards. Chuck Hughes of Texas Western was third with 17 for 513 yards and six touchdowns.

Love of North Texas State was fourth with 16 completions for 228 yards and three touchdowns.

McLean of Texas A&M was eighth with 12 passes for 139 yards.

In scoring, Hughes of Texas Western was second with 36 points, Wallace of Texas Western fourth with 24 points and Love of North Texas ninth with 21 points.

NEW YORK (AP)—Darrell Royal thinks it's too early to rate Texas the No. 1 college football team in the nation and the supporters of Purdue, Nebraska and a host of others heartily agree.

Texas moved into the lead in the Weekly Associated Press vote of a panel of sports writers and sportcasters announced Tuesday but just barely ahead of Purdue and Nebraska. Teams like Arkansas, Louisiana State, Kentucky, Michigan, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Georgia are nipping at their cleats.

"The hardest possible way to win a national championship is to get the top spot early and have to play under that pressure all season," said Royal. "It's just too early to start talking about polls."

In 1961 Texas rolled along at the top until the Longhorns were beaten by Texas Christian in the next-to-last game. In 1962 they were No. 1 until Rice tied them. Texas went all the way in 1963 but last year Royal's team was on top until the fifth game when Arkansas knocked it off.

Texas has Indiana and Oklahoma directly ahead and then that big game with Arkansas, Oct. 16.

The first place ballots among the 47 voters were well distributed. Texas had 15, Purdue 14 and Nebraska 13 as they finished 1-2-3 in total points. Fourth-ranked Arkansas got three firsts, sixth-ranked Kentucky and unranked Illinois got one each.

Michigan State and Georgia were the new members of the Top Ten, replacing Florida and Syracuse, which were beaten Saturday. When Notre Dame lost to Purdue 25-21, the Irish dropped from first to eighth.

There is only one meeting of ranked teams this week.

Georgia No. 10 will be at Michigan No. 7. Texas will be at home to Indiana, Purdue at Southern Methodist, Nebraska will host Iowa State and Arkansas will meet Texas Christian at Little Rock.

LSU at Florida shapes up as a toughie. Kentucky will be at Auburn, Northwestern at Notre Dame and Illinois at Michigan State in other games involving the Top Ten teams.

The vote with points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis and first place votes in parentheses:

1. Texas 15 2-0	389
2. Purdue 14 2-0	381
3. Nebraska 13 2-0	363
4. Arkansas 3 2-0	264
5. Louisiana State 2-0	248
6. Kentucky 1 2-0	168
7. Michigan 2-0	166
8. Notre Dame 1-1	144
9. Michigan State 2-0	73
10. Georgia 2-0	69

Foaster Gets Ballots For Top Player

Wayne Foaster, Washington State tackle, made two key tackles that preserved the Cougars' 14-13 upset of Minnesota and brought him the Associated Press award as Lineman of the Week Tuesday.

The Gophers were threatening to pull the game out of the fire last Saturday when Foaster went to work. The 225-pound senior from Port Orchard, Wash., broke through on a third down and one situation and threw the runner for a four-yard loss.

On the next play he smeared the Minnesota ball carrier a yard short of a first down. The Cougars took over with time running out and held on for their second surprise victory in a row over a Big Ten outfit. A week earlier Washington State blanked Iowa 7-0.

Don Nelson, Missouri guard, and Jack Thornton, Auburn tackle, were high up in the weekly voting by sports writers and broadcasters.

Other linemen nominated included Llyod Phillips, Arkansas tackle, and Randy Behringer, Baylor center.

NEW YORK—Herb Adderley, Green Bay back, AP's Defensive Player of the Week in NFL.

NEW YORK—Wayne Foaster of Washington State, who made two key fumbles, named College Lineman of the Week.

Girl Drafted Into ROTC; Columbia Admits Meredith

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (CPS)—A 17-year-old Brown Deer, Wis., girl has been "drafted" into the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Frances M. Ullenberg received her orders along with her class schedule cards to the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. She enrolled there as a freshman this week.

Her first class, according to the schedule sent her, was to be at 8:30 a.m. in the fine arts building. The course? "ROTC Orientation"—a course required of all freshmen at the university.

Miss Ullenberg figures that someone in the university's scheduling office must have enrolled her in the course by mistake, having looked at her first name and figuring her to be a male.

She was planning to follow her schedule and report to that ROTC class. A World War II Italian army cap, borrowed from her father who brought it home as a souvenir, was perched atop her long brown locks as she marched off to college.

NEW YORK (CPS)—James Meredith, whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi three years ago set off long, bloody rioting, last week enrolled at Columbia University Law School.

Meredith, 32, registered at Columbia on a $2,000 scholarship he had received from the university.

He told a news conference that he didn't expect to have much time for civil rights activities because of the heavy load of classes he was taking.

Akers Discuss History Of Art

The history of literal and symbolic art will be discussed today at the Noon Forum in the Blue Room of Tech Union. Mr. and Mrs. Meredith E. Aker, 2515 30th St., will develop the topic historically, beginning with primitive man to modern times. They will explain the shift in taste of art from one period to the next. Possible definitions for literal and symbolic art will be given.

Teachers Lose Jobs Negro School Closes

Editor's note: Some Texans who worked for school integration are suffering most from their success. How does a Negro teacher feel when her job evaporates when all-Negro schools are consolidated with previously all-white schools? Here is one example.

HUTTO, Tex. (AP)—Integration closed this farm village's two-room Negro school. Mae Ollie David viewed the development with mixed emotions. She lost her job.

As a teacher of 16 years, she was disappointed and unhappy to be out of work.

A Negro mother of four, Mrs. Davis was glad to see school segregation wiped out.

Voluntarily Desegregated

Hutto, a town of 400 about 20 miles northwest of Austin, voluntarily desegregated.

Desegregation in Hutto meant closing the Negro school and absorbing its 40 to 60 children into the white school. The high school had been integrated earlier.

Trustees said Negroes could be assimilated without adding more teachers to the white school. So Mrs. Davis and the town's other Negro teacher lost their jobs.

Both Mrs. Davis and her husband now have jobs on the federal payroll.

Does Not Feel Bitter

"I don't feel bitter," Mrs. Davis says. "Integration is here. It was inevitable."

Mrs. Davis' plight is not uncommon in Texas and the rest of the South.

The Teachers State Association of Texas, composed of Negroes, has a list of 37 Negro teachers ousted by desegregation and looking for jobs. Vernon McDaniel, executive director, says the list has had up to 64 names.

The Negro teacher gets hurt particularly in small districts when segregation ends, McDaniel says, because it is the Negro school that gets closed.

"The local boards have ruled in some cases that since it is the Negro pupils who are transferring out, they will eliminate positions for Negro teachers," he said.

The Negro teachers' organization actively helps the displaced teachers to find new jobs. And it informs them that they may complain to the State Education Agency, the federal government or the courts if they feel their employment rights or civil rights have been violated.

"Our position is that placement of teachers should be without regard to race, creed or color," McDaniel says.

Supported by President

President Johnson, who instructed the U.S. Commissioner of education to "pay very special attention, in reviewing desegregation plans, to guard against any pattern of dismissal based on race."

McDaniel said three Port Neches teachers are appealing to the Texas Education Agency. Two others, he said, from Texas City and Munday, are complaining to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Schools in New York, Philadelphia and Washington state have asked for displaced Negro teachers, he said, but most placements have been in Texas. He said several Texas districts have asked the association to help recruit Negro counselors, and one school is looking for a Negro dietician.

Range Management Meet Scheduled Here For Friday

Plans are complete for a Ranch Management Conference at Texas Tech Oct. 1.

Dr. Thadis W. Box, professor of agronomy and range management, said the conference will be held in the Tech Union with registration scheduled for 9 a.m. Delivering the welcome, aims and objectives of the conference will be Tom Copeland of Levelland, chairman of the Range Management Conference planning committee.

A panel discussion at 10:30 a.m. will concern the integrating of dry-lot feeding into a ranching operation. Dr. J. L. Schuster, assistant professor of agronomy at Tech will direct the discussion.

During the afternoon sessions those attending will hear a talk on the management of range cattle by Dr. George F. Ellis, Jr. of the Tech animal husbandry dept.

Service To Ranchers

Dr. Box said the conference is a part of a continuing educational program to provide a service to ranchers over the area. The program is open to all who are interested.

The event will be sponsored jointly by Texas Tech and Texas Agriculture Experiment Station, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Soil Conservation Service, South Plains Chapter of Soil Conservation Society of America and the Texas Section of American Society of Range Management.

"We would also like to extend an invitation to those attending to visit the barbed wire and branding iron exhibit at the West Texas Museum," Box concluded.

B.A. School To Host Luncheon, Open House

In conjunction with Dad's Day and the celebration of Tech's 40th anniversary, the School of Business Administration faculty will host a luncheon and open house Oct. 16.

A special invitation is extended to Texas Tech mothers to attend the luncheon.

Reservations for the fashion show and luncheon must be made by Oct. 9. Tickets are priced at $2 and are on a first come basis.

The open house is set from 1-4p.m. Tours of the BA building and exhibits from the business field will be on display.

TECH STUDENTS: Please clip this invitation and send it to your mother.

FOR THE MOTHERS ON DAD'S DAY

The School of Business Administration invites you to attend a luncheon and style show October 16 from 11:30-2 o'clock. Limited reservations are available at $2 a person.

Each magazine staff works independently, the result being "as if there were 12 different yearbooks," co-editor Winston Odom said.

Garets' idea initially called for the magazines to be just that—12 books coming out in a series.

The Student Council, however, brought out the question of students' losing the magazines if they were distributed in this manner, and the hardback binding in use now was added as a compromise.

Garets still hopes for the realization of the series idea.

His theory is that the students' joy at receiving the yearbooks could be spread over the 12-issue period, besides giving the books a more authentic following of magazine styles and display of the individual covers.

"We don't want to tamper with success," he said, "but we've established one tradition here; why not another one?"

And it's a good question. Why not?

Broyles Comments On Texas' Rating

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Christian, staved off most questions top team in The Associated Press rankings. Tuesday about the Razorbacks' Oct. 16 battle with top-ranked Texas. "Of course, I'm glad Texas got Texas replaced Notre Dame as the No. 1," Broyles said. "They have a fine team and they deserve it, especially in view of their great win over Texas Tech."

Texas Coach Darrell Royal discounted the merit of a No. 1 ranking early in the season, and Broyles agreed.

"Early in the season the polls are not a true estimate of a team's strength," Broyles said. "To get a true test of teams you need to get a better cross section of the season."

"It's at the end of the year when you want to be No. 1 because then everybody's been through it all, and it means something," Broyles said.

While Texas claimed the top spot in the poll, Arkansas edged from fifth to fourth place.

Has this caused Broyles to worry any about the Longhorns?

"Heavens, no," he said. "We play TCU this week. Besides, what good would it do? Those are silly questions."

Texas was ranked No. 1 a year ago in Austin when the Razorbacks upset the defending national champions 14-13. Broyles said such a game as that one "has an effect for two or three years."

"Most of the good boys they've got back this year were on that team we beat," he said. "They remember. Sure, it makes them want to win more."

On the game in Little Rock with the Horned Frogs, Broyles said wingback Jim Lindsey, who has a cracked rib, will not play.

Angels Win As 461 Turn Out

BOSTON (AP) —The California Angels pushed across two runs on an error and a bases-loaded walk in the eighth inning to edge the Boston Red Sox 4-3 Tuesday before a chilled turnout of only 461 fans, the smallest crowd in the major leagues this year.

Boston right hander Dave Morehead allowed only four hits, including solo homers by Ed Kirkpatrick and Jim Fregosi, before his defense let him down in the eighth.

Dick Radatz relieved Morehead with the bases loaded and two out. He walked Kirkpatrick to force in the run that enabled the Angels to defeat the Boston starter for the fifth time this season and the 10th straight time in his career.

Chamberlain Heads Array Of Pros In 76ers-Hawks Game

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, basketball's greatest scorer, heads the list of stars who will see action when the Philadelphia 76ers go against the St. Louis Hawks at 3 p.m. Saturday in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

The local game will be the only West Texas appearance this year by clubs of the national Basketball Association. It marks the first time NBA teams have played here since 1960.

Chamberlain, of course, will be in the spotlight. He is the sport's dominant figure, having lead all NBA scorers for each of his six seasons in the pro circuit. He also has topped all rebounders for four of those six campaigns. His career scoring average is an amazing 40.6 points per game, and he once poured through 100 points in a single contest against the New York Knicks.

Chamberlain is one of the world's highest salaried athletes at a reported $100,000.00 per year. He recently signed a new three-year pact with the 76ers.

Coach Dolph Schayes of Philadelphia has indicated that he will start Lucious Jackson, the NBA's "rookie of the year" last season, at a forward position Saturday. The other starting forward will be Dave Gambie, while the guards will be Hall Greer and Al Bianchi.

St. Louis will unveil the new fast-break offense that is being installed this season by Player-Coach Richie Guerin. The Hawks boast a balanced scoring attack that seven players average in double figures last season.

Guerin will start at one guard slot, with Speedy Len Wilkens at the other. Big Zelma Beaty will open at center, with Bill Bridges and Cliff Hagan at forwards.

Tickets for the pro cage game, priced at $3.00, $2.50 and $2.00, will be on sale Saturday at the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum boxoffice from noon until game time.
