Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

... I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

The Short Cut
An ambitious young man went to a university professor and said: "Sir, I desire a course of training which will fit me to become the superintendent of a great railway system. How much will such a course cost, and how long will it take?"
"Young man," replied the professor, "such a course would cost you $20,000 and require twenty years of your time. But, on the other hand, by spending $500 of your money and three months of your time you may be elected to Congress. Once there you will feel yourself competent to direct not one but all the great railroad systems of our country."—New York Evening Post.

Political

Cuero Record: Senator Reed Smoot is out with a bit of cheering news, he probably thinks, when he tells us we are to have higher taxes instead of lower. We rock-ribbed Democrats expected it all along, but it would have been more becoming in the Senator if he knew this, for him to have told it last fall when the campaign was on, instead of now when the voting is over.

Those who expected "a business-like administration" by the Republican party were merely deceiving themselves with a shibboleth exploded a dozen times by Republican victories. Republicans are not notably successful political administrators. They held power in the Nation and most of the States for thirty years without making any visible advance in political administration, while the rest of the world, particularly Europe, was progressing at a prodigious rate. The Wilson administration took the country out of the bog where it had floundered for so many years and started it on a course of progressive improvement. We got in four years more intelligent legislation at Washington and more genuine assistance to business under the Wilson regime than we had in all the Republican experience since Grover Cleveland. Most of the big business men, as well as most wage earners, vote the Republican ticket. But this does not mean that business capacity or industry is carried into Republican political administration. Republicans have always been favorable to giving the offices to good party men. Good business men do not fare so well in their aspirations. At the present writing the new administration has been in power for three months, supposedly under a full head of steam, and certainly with an enormous majority of the American people behind it, but so far it has accomplished not one solitary reform, procured not one single relief, executed not one brilliant maneuver for the people. What we are now hearing is that we must not expect miracles. And State Press, for one, doesn't. He never did.—State Press in Dallas News.

Peace is Hell for John Bull

Representatives of the coal industry in England, miners and mine operators, have reopened negotiations. Not a wheel is turning in what was once England's busiest industrial section. There are groups of unemployed men and women everywhere. All sidings are filled with empty cars. Blast furnaces are deserted. Train service is demoralized. Electric and gas service has ceased to exist. Trains are not operated on Sunday. More than 2,000,000 men in England are receiving unemployment dues. Another 2,000,000 idle men are to be found among the coal, cotton and transport strikers. The London Daily Herald says there are 2,126,800 registered unemployed in England and 1,194,200 registered workers engaged only on short time. On June 1, the government unemployment insurance fund totaled $150,000,000. Now there is a deficit in the fund of $50,000,000. War was hell. Fighting for peace is hell. It is hell all around for John Bull and his government.

Clarendon News: Just because a person is doing business in a town that isn't classed as a large city shouldn't hinder him from running his business on a metropolitan basis. You big city competitor and the mail order houses are spending 5 to 6 per cent for business publicity, while you try to get along with one-tenth this amount or none at all. The thing that has you gagged and bound is the hardshelled idea that advertising may be good for them but not for yourself. The thing that obstructs your commercial vision is the little old stinkin' dollar that you are afraid to turn loose in payment for space. You work on the scared-to-death policy that you would rather have the one dollar than to invest it in what you call a suspicious operation and get back three times the amount in additional profits. Fortunes and business superiority were never established on such a dwarfed conservatism and the quicker found out the better. You'll thank us later if you will lay aside the old mose-covered, antiquated ideas you may have entertained in the past about newspaper advertising and brighten up your entire business existence spending 3 per cent of your gross income on advertising.

When one scatters a feeding of corn to a chicken would it be reasonable to expect that chicken to get fat and grow because of that one feeding? Yet many, so called, businessmen expect returns from one advertisement. Is it reasonable?—It is the advertising which you do that brings success, not that which is neglected or left undone.

MICKIE SAYS—

A New Germany

George Cautfield of McLennan county is home from a three months' tour of Germany, where he went to make arrangements for disposing of McLennan county cotton. He says the Germans are using American raised cotton and will buy more of it later on. They are also purchasing wheat, meat and hides in the United States. Germans are workers. They are not afraid of long hours. They are frugal. They live cheaply and grow fat. There are 70,000,000 of these gluttons for labor. Their mills and factories and mines and shops came out of the war unscathed. They have accepted the indemnity fixed by the reparations commission. They have made the first payment. They are going to buy raw materials and what is more to the point they are going to work, they are going to economize, they are going to save, they are going to delve, they are going to develop their resources and make one huge effort to win economically where they lost by the employment of the sword—Fort Worth Record.

Homemakers Meeting
One of the most enjoyable social meetings that the "homemakers" class of First Baptist church have had since their organization was held at the home of Mrs. Homer McNew, Friday afternoon with Mesdames McNew, Nat Shick and Joe Copeland as hostesses. Mrs. Ford, the president presided giving a talk on the various class activities. She then called upon the teacher Mrs. B. Hagan for a talk which we enjoyed very much as she told of her recent visit to the First Baptist Sunday school in Fort Worth. She visited the mothers' class which is conducted in a similar manner to her class, and in a most interesting way detailed the many things she observed about the S. S. which made the "homemakers", feel as if they had personally been there.

Mrs. Henley, 1st vice president, then made a short talk, urging the cooperation of the members in the work of class enlargement. Everyone promised to respond to her request.

Mrs. McNew, 3rd vice president, gave a talk, in which she asked the members to offer a daily prayer at a given hour.

An interesting contest was the first number on the social program. The guests were given paper and pencils and fifteen minutes in time to test their skill in forming as many small words from the class name "homemakers" as possible, which resulted in Mrs. F. F. Gary being the winner with 37 words to her credit.

The guests were then ushered into a room where an improvised clothes-line laden with parcels awaited them. They were requested to draw one, each, and make use of whatever the contents happened to be. Merry laughter was heard on all sides as the wrappings were removed and the contents turned out to be garments and trinkets of "Auld Lang Syne," which appeared so ridiculous in comparison to our present day styles.

Mrs. K. S. Beckett recited very beautifully "The Children's Hour" by Longfellow. Delicious refreshments were served, after which the guests registered before departing with sincere expressions of an afternoon delightfully spent.

A good meal certainly does appeal to a fellow and to none more so than to that bunch of good fellows known as knights of the grip. Once again they are able to secure good "eats" in Big Spring and you will notice they are making this city their "lay over" place every chance they get. Our city is now receiving some worthwhile advertising by these acouts as a result of their being well fed while here.

It's at least encouraging to hear folks who have traveled extensively over Texas as well as other states make the statement that they consider conditions in the Big Spring section above the average. They state we have less cause for complaint than most any section they have visited.

Put away your hammer if you are not engaged in constructive work and join in to make the big 4th of July celebration a hummer.

Red Cross Health Information
THE MOSQUITO
Few communities and localities are fortunate enough to be free from the mosquito, which announces his advent by his peculiarly unpleasant "song" with the opening of early summer and continues his career until far into the fall in many places.

Mosquitos are disease spreaders and those maladies known to be carried by this insect are malaria, yellow fever, dengue fever, and filariasis. Breeding places, especially for the domestic mosquito, are in any small collection of water that may be present in tin cans, bottles, flowerpots, pools, gutters, sewers, etc. The malaria mosquito usually prefers the margins of ditches and lakes, swamps and low bottom lands.

All buildings in localities infested with mosquitos should be screened. No water should be allowed to stand in containers around the house. The grass should be kept cut short so it will not serve as a hiding place for mosquitos. Low places should be drained by ditches. Oil may be used as a measure to prevent breeding. It should be placed in a fine film over the surface of the water, a light oil being best adapted for the purpose. It requires an ounce of oil for each 15 square feet of surface and must be renewed several times a month.

Itching and irritation from mosquito bites can be relieved by a lotion of carbolic acid. To make this lotion add a level tablespoon of borie acid powder and 20 drops of pure carbolic acid to a half pint of hot water. Stir well and shake until the borie acid is dissolved. Cool before using and apply by dabbing on with a wad of cotton or spraying on the surface with an atomizer.

In going thru his desk this week R. C. Sanderson encountered a statement from a firm of wool buyers in Boston, Mass., which showed he was paid for wool sold to them in 1882. The statement showed they had received 6900 pounds of wool for which they paid 24 cents per pound, deducting $2.88 for 12 pounds of black wool. At that time Mr. Sanderson was associated with Chas. Clinton in the sheep business and they had a big streak of hard luck as a starter. They lost one thousand head of sheep due to a blizzard shortly after they were unloaded here and of 4000 shipped in here from California in the winter they had only 2400 left the following spring. The statement was made out with pen and ink, as typewriters and new fangled book-keeping devices were not in style when this statement was made out some thirty-nine years ago.

He stated that the streets of the townsite would be graded at once and that he would soon commence erection of an office building on the property, from which the sale of lots would be directed.

Oil City is located on the Texas & Pacific railway, four miles east of Iatan. C. W. Arnold, oil operator, was with Mr. Nance in Colorado on Wednesday and expressed the belief that further drilling in Western Mitchell County would result in the bringing in of a big commercial field.—Colorado Record.

Burkett's Election Conceded

Eastland, Texas, June 9.—Complete unofficial returns in the election in the Twenty-eighth district for the Texas Senate at noon today show Representative Joe Burkett of Eastland elected by a comfortable majority. The election of Burkett was conceded this morning by Judge J. D. Barker, his opponent.

Representative Burkett wired his resignation to Governor Neff yesterday at 6 p. m. and requested that he call a special election within the next few days. He also suggested that the election be held by July 9 in order that a representative may be chosen from his district in time for him to take his seat at the opening of the State Legislature on July 11.

Following the announcement that Burkett had wired his resignation Judge Jim Gresham of Eastland announced as a candidate for the place relinquished by Burkett. Gresham is an attorney here and was mayor of Sweetwater for a number of years.

Honor a Departed Comrade

Judge James T. Brooks, Yuell Robb, Joe Butts, Pitt Gardner and Leland Stone went to Colorado Thursday to attend the funeral services of Oran Hooker who died in France December 18, 1917, while serving with Uncle Sam's forces.

Mr. Hooker was a member of Company D of the 117 Supply Train of the 42nd Division, or Rainbow Division. This company was organized at Big Spring and was composed mainly of young men of this immediate vicinity who volunteered for service. Mr. Hooker was the only one of the original members enrolled here who was called upon to give his life for his country while serving on foreign soil.

The American Legion had charge of the funeral services and deceased was laid to rest with military honors. Leland Stone of this city served as bugler and sounded "taps" at the graveside. Judge Brooks who was captain of Company D in France, paid a high tribute to the noble young man who made the supreme sacrifice for his country.

Funds for Cattle Loans

A bill by Representative Hudspeth of El Paso, which went before the House Banking and Currency Committee yesterday, is of importance to this entire section. It provides for the placing of $50,000,000 at the disposal of the War Finance Committee for temporary accommodation of long-time cattle paper. The bill puts into effect the suggestion of the Federal Reserve Board and the fund would be made available out of payments to the Government on July 1 by the Federal Reserve Banks under the law. Under the provisions of the bill the Federal Reserve Banks would act as fiscal agents of the War Finance Corporation and in due time the loans would be liquidated and the money repaid to the Treasury. The bill has the approval of the Administration, and if passed promptly and put into effect will greatly relieve the pressure upon banks in the producing sections of the West and Southwest.

In this connection, B. A. McKinney of Dallas, in discussing the coming visit of Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board to Texas, makes direct reference to the importance of this measure. "While the country as a whole is rapidly returning to a state of normalcy," he said, "the cattle industry probably more than any other is lagging and needs encouragement and assistance as no other productive interest does. The making available of this $50,000,000 will tide over hundreds of worthy cattle raisers and will give firmness and certainty to the cattle market, which now are so painfully absent."

It is to be hoped that the measure will be passed without needless delay.

Until we show some life,
Stop making gestures formal
And jump into the strife.
Come, can the walls unhappy,
Forget your tale of woe,
Buck up and make it snappy!
Let's go!
What ails this well known nation?
It's plain to one who reads;
There's too much conversation,
And not enough of deeds!
Prosperity's arrival
Won't be so blooming slow
If we start the revival;
Let's go!

Predicting Short Cotton Crop
Men who have traveled over the state give it as their opinion that the Texas cotton crop is going to be cut short due to the ravages of the boll weevils at present, and it looks like a slim year from the stand point of cotton production.

The assistant county agent of Dallas county states that Dallas county will probably not get a single bale of cotton this season because of the ravages of this pest.

He states that the weevils were bad last year and the mild winter of 1920-21 was just the kind of weather on which weevils thrive. For that reason the lands of Dallas county are infested with them, and he expects them to destroy the entire crop. His advice to the farmers is to abandon their cotton as soon as they see traces of the weevil in it; and to devote their entire attention to the raising of feed crops.

Five thousand immigrants from Italy, are on ships in New York harbor. The race against time to get them into the United States before the graduation restrictions become effective June 3rd.

Sharp warning that the coal operators by Secretary of the Interior, B. Fall, Tuesday.

And The Blame—Where Shall It Be Fixed?

(From the Louisville Courier-Journal)
"My prescription is silence and slow time," said Dr. Edward Anderson Alderman, at that time president of Tulane university and more recently president of the University of Virginia, in discussing the race problem in the southern states at a moment when public sentiment had reason for keen and deep resentment and human passion ran high and strong.

Vividly these words of this man of light and leading in American life as right-thinking Americans soberly reflect upon the depressive intelligence from the town of Tulsa in the state of Oklahoma.

Law there has been defied. Constituted authority has been scouted. Property has been ruthlessly destroyed. Human life has been wantonly snuffed out.

Indignation will be expressed and recorded. Explanations will be made. Causes will be assigned. Danger signals will be hoisted. Warnings will be issued. Crimination and recrimination will be interchanged.

When all this is done with, the subject will be not greatly affected. The patient will be anaesthetized. The malady will remain uncured.

Very seriously may be asked the question: Is there soon to be a solution of the problem presented by incidents in American life like that at Tulsa?

By the uninformed, by persons who feel deeply but think shallowly as well as by persons who think deeply and feel lightly, ready-made solutions will be promptly offered which will be promptly ignored.

Grover Cleveland saw things as they are. He had courage of high order—the courage that refuses to blink a fact.

"I think I see the solution of almost every problem that confronts our people," said this bravely sincere man a few years before his death. "Plutocracy will be checked. Warfare between capital and labor will cease. Other questions will be discussed, compromised and settled. But there is one problem in American life for which I foresee no solution. It is the race problem—the negro question."

Cleveland's words may seem to be unduly pessimistic. But are they so? Has real progress been made, since Cleveland spoke these words, in solving the problem he had in mind?

East St. Louis, Springfield, Elaine, Chicago, Tulsa—are not all these in one direct line? Do these incidents indicate progress? Is the evil illustrated by them decreasing?

Henry W. Grady knew the white man and knew the black man. "Rascals have cheated him and politicians have befuddled him" said Grady to a company of New Englanders, "but Cuffy's heart has been true." Grady had in mind the negro of thirty or forty years ago.

The black man's heart is still true unless contaminated and corrupted by men who mislead him, befuddle him, and do both that they may "cheat" and "rob" him.

Tulsa is the industrial metropolis of Oklahoma. Its negro population is large, including the vicious "cross" between the negro and Creek Indians. The combination is not a happy one. There as elsewhere the negro has become the victim of the dangerous propaganda that the negro needs to go armed, to escape injustice. He was armed at Tulsa. The result is now known.

"Politicians have befuddled him." Politicians were especially active among the negroes of Oklahoma in last year's campaign.

The end is not yet. To all this Chicago-Elaine-Springfield-East St. Louis-Tulsa business, with all its vicious elements, will there, indeed, ever be an end in these United States, in this free, educated, tolerant America?

Alderman, Cleveland, Grady—patience, pessimism, love—who of these wise counsellors may most surely be followed?

"Silence and slow time," would seem to be the course of prudence.

West-Texas proved that good crops could be produced last year and is going to do the same thing again in 1921. Quite a few folks back East are beginning to consider moving to West Texas to make their homes and already a few are beginning to drift in to give our section the "once over."

Conditions Not So Bad
 If anyone loses heart now because everything seems shot to pieces and property values are shrinking, he should come out of it. Most of us who have lived anytime in the West have been thru the same experience before—and that too when there were no war-reconstruction problems and wage disputes to cause unsettled conditions. And always have we noticed that prosperity returned and property values mounted to greater heights. Unlike most towns that are dependent on practically, but one busy period, the harvesting season, Big Spring is "on high" twelve months in the year and naturally a little slump in business seems to get the goat of our folks.
 Good crops are now practically assured; and with the reopening of the railroad shops everything would be lovely. Even the encountering of a commercial oil well would change conditions to a wonderful degree, and this is possible as long as drilling is in progress.
 So with conditions in this section as favorable as they are in any section of the U. S. we haven't much room to complain. True we cannot expect the free and easy money that was in evidence last year but by getting up and hustling we should be enabled to make it thru.
 Cut out your tale of woe and hand out a little encouragement if you wish to hasten the return of good times.

The Country Girl
 That the time worn story of the country girl who went to the big city to seek fame and fortune and found only loneliness and degradation is not a myth, is proven by the reports of the Salvation Army, which show that during the past three years more than five hundred girls with their babies were cared for in the organization's rescue home and hospital in San Antonio, Texas. A majority of the girls, the report stated, were from small towns.
 Every year an average of over one thousand nameless babies are born in the Army's maternity hospitals. They represent many classes, creeds and races. All are given the best medical care and nursery attention that can be provided.
 Hospitals are maintained in New York, Buffalo, Boston, Pittsburgh, Birmingham, Ala., Roanoke Va., Cincinnati (2), Cleveland, Covington, Ky., Detroit (2), Grand Rapids, Greenville, S. C., Louisville Ky., Philadelphia, Chicago, Des Moines, El Paso, Los Angeles, Oakland, Cal., Omaha, St. Paul, St. Louis, Spokane, Portland, San Antonio, Wichita Kan., Honolulu and San Francisco.
 Girls who enter are pledged to remain three months. They must agree not to desert their babies. Before leaving the hospital the Army finds suitable work and gives them encouragement and sympathy until they are well established on the road to right living. Records show that four out of five make good.
 The cost of maintaining its institutions for girls and unfortunate women exceeds half a million dollars a year. According to Commissioner William Peart this rescue work is of the most important branches of the manifold activities of the Salvation Army. Advisory Boards made up of prominent citizens in each community are aiding the organization in its nationwide work of regeneration.

Prices of Butterfat Advancing
 The price of butterfat is showing an inclination to advance; a one cent increase per pound being made this week. The price now offered by the Mistletoe Creameries Co. is nineteen cents per pound F. O. B. Big Spring.
 The slump in price from thirty-two cents per pound has caused quite a shrinkage in the amount of butter fat shipped out, which was averaging two tons per week, bringing in $1,250 cash weekly.
 Plans for the big picnic and 4th of July celebration are going forward and the members of the American Legion and the Big Spring band are going to leave nothing undone to make the occasion a big success.

Plain Talk for a Republican

Long before Mr. Harding was elected President of the United States this paper said that the Republican Senators aided by a few so-called Democrats were doing the world the greatest harm that a set of men could possibly do in fighting the Versailles treaty, that all of the talk about Mr. Wilson and the real Democrats was the rankiest sort of ward politics and that whether a Republican administration was brought face to face with the responsibility of leadership another story would be sung by the leaders.

That we were correct in our views is shown in following editorial comment which is taken from Leslie's Weekly, a Republican paper of National standing. The editor talks plain and uses argument that cannot be answered when he said:

On a Memorial Day made immortal by Lincoln's Gettysburg Address these words were spoken over the graves of Americans who had died for their country:

"It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work that they have thus far so nobly carried on."

Against the background of the proposal, passed by the Senate, for a separate peace with Germany, how will these words sound, quoted in countless declamations by school children and public orators on Memorial Day, 1921. Is a separate peace with Germany then "the unfinished work that they"—our dead of the World War—"have thus far so nobly carried on?"

Imagine, if you can, the cry that would have rent the heavens had this program for a separate peace been put forth while our boys were still sacrificing their lives on French battlefields—and the betrayal that it constitutes becomes evident. The new Administration, faced with the actual responsibilities of our foreign policy, is coming to understand this. But the Senate—

One is reminded of President Wilson's appeal to the senate a little more than four years ago for authority to arm American merchant ships against German submarines. On this occasion "a little group of wilful men" vetoed and brought into contempt the well-considered and urgently necessary program of the Government. The Senate still contains "a little group of wilful men."

Dallas News: "One of the hardest hit industries in all the commercial category in the present industrial crisis is the oil business," said K. M. Norrell of Shreveport at the Jefferson yesterday. "There have been many financial panics in America before, but there was never one in which the foreign market was so tightly closed, and that is hitting no line of business harder than the oil companies. Many of the biggest tankers in the foreign trade are lying along the Atlantic seaboard and they bid fair to stay there unless things open materially. If the European markets become stabilized there will be untold volumes of trade, but until they do the oil companies bid fair to have some very tiresome traveling."

Many are harboring the belief that booze will beat it back. Silly delusion. Business, regardless of the moral end, bigger than that of the brewers and distillers, demands that prohibition continue. Mighty few people outside brewing and distilling interests and politicians and others who were financially benefited want to see a new crop of drunkards produced.—Farm and Ranch.

Jackson, Wyoming is controlled entirely by the women. A woman for mayor and women councilment elected a year ago were re-elected by an overwhelming majority in May of this year. Many other towns and cities would be better managed if women were placed in charge.

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

The Price of the NEW EDISON

has increased less than 15% since 1914. Mr. Edison has sacrificed millions in order to keep his favorite invention within the reach of everyone..

Would you like to know Mr. Edison's Favorite Tunes?

YOU know Mr. Edison, the scientist—now meet Mr. Edison, the music lover. Almost every day, Mr. Edison sits close to his Official Laboratory Model, hand cupped to ear, and enjoys his favorite RE-CREATIONS.

Mr. Edison has his own private collection of RE-CREATIONS. He has built it up with the discrimination of a confirmed collector.

We have just received a booklet containing 25 of his favorite tunes. This booklet is entitled "What Edison Likes in Music", and interestingly describes Mr. Edison, the Music Lover.

If you would like a copy of this booklet, together with a 12" x 19" proof of Franklin Booth's etching of Mr. Edison, please fill out this ballot and mail or bring it to us.

What other well-known person's favorite tunes would you like to know? Please write his or her name on the ballot.

Mr. Edison's love of music has made the phonograph his favorite invention. He spent over three million dollars in research work to perfect the New Edison.

Then, to prove its perfect realism, he stood the New Edison side by side with the living artist and matched its performance with the actual performance of the living artist. No one was able to detect any difference between the two. This is the only true way to prove the realism of a phonograph or talking machine—and the New Edison is the only phonograph which sustains this acid-test of direct comparison.

The Innocent Bystanders

A spirited controversy is being conducted by the Kansas City Packer on one side and the Railway Age and various railway officials on the other, the subject being, "Who Gets the Money?" The money in question is that part of the price paid for fruits and vegetables by the consumer which the producer does not get. Just at this stage of the game the producer and consumer are acting the roll of innocent bystanders and are the only fellows getting hurt.

The commission houses and wholesalers, represented by the packer, insist that railway rates are excessive and enter largely into the cost of these commodities to consumers. To prove that wholesalers are making very little and oftentimes losing money, a large array of figures are presented. The railroad officials come back with another set of figures showing that the increase in rates adds but a few cents to each article and boldly quotes the price the producer gets plus transportation as compared with what the consumers pay. Neither one says anything about the retailer and the peddler. Perhaps that is the chip they will find the bug under. In the meantime the railroads continue to collect their freight and the wholesalers their usual toll, while both producers and consumers pay the bill.—Farm and Ranch.

Read The Herald for the oil news.

Austin Statesman:

The principal provisions of the motor truck license bill, which becomes effective on June 11 and which will be submitted for amendment by Governor Neff at the special session, are as follows: Annual license fees for trucks range from $30 to $120, according to size, starting at 2,000 pounds carrying capacity and ranging up to 10,000. Annual license fee for trailers, per 100 pounds of vehicle and rated load, is 15c if equipped with pneumatic tires, 25c solid tires, 35c hard tires. For tractors, 25c, 35c and 50c, respectively, but tractors used exclusively for agricultural purposes, fire engines, road rollers, steam shovels and other road building and agricultural machinery need not be registered, nor pay a fee. No vehicle with weight, exceeding 5,000 pounds per wheel or 500 pounds per inch width of tire shall operate on highways, but the state highway department can issue permits for exceptions. Owners, operators and drivers of any vehicle are made responsible for damages to highways and bridges. Owners of trucks having a net carrying capacity of more than one ton must keep a record of miles traveled, showing routes and counties within which they are located, and pay a mileage fee ranging from 1c to 8c, according to carrying capacity, which money shall be allotted to the counties on basis of wheelage. The speed of trucks is limited: Pneumatic tires, fifteen miles an hour for gross weight of 4,000 pounds, down to ten miles an hour for 8,000 pounds or more; solid tires, fourteen miles for 4,000 pounds and ten miles for 8,000 pounds or more. They must be equipped with a mechanical device or governor to prevent their exceeding the speed limits here named.

Cow Testing Paid This Man

"Cow testing associations are constantly proving their worth to their individual members from the standpoint of dollars and cents," says E. M. Harmon, dairy extension specialist for the Missouri College of Agriculture. "If a man will study his dairy herd and the results secured by the tester he can greatly increase his profits. A good illustration of this is the experience of John Blum, one of the enthusiastic members of the Pettis County Testing Association. A review of his average production and profit during the last two years shows that his cows during the first year averaged 7,720 pounds of milk and 280.1 pounds of fat, while this annual production had increased during the second year to 11,094 pounds of milk and 374.8 pounds of fat per cow. By giving careful heed to the facts revealed by the tester Blum had increased the average annual production of his dairy herd 3,284 pounds of milk and 94.7 pounds of fat per cow. His annual profit per cow has grown from $107.25 to $170.23.

"While this is really an abnormal increase in profit, yet we believe it can be said conservatively that any man can do as well if he will practice correct breeding and feeding methods and study his herd by means records on each individual cow. The cheapest and most accurate method of securing these records is through the cow testing association."

You Paid $61 in 1920 to Run The Government

Maybe you wonder why things cost so much. There are many reasons, and one of them is the expense of government. Chairman Good, of the house appropriations committee, has given out figures on the increased cost of government as an argument for disarmament. "The total annual cost of administering the government under Jefferson," he said, "was $1.52 per capita; in 1860, $2.58 per capita; during the four years of the civil war, $25 per capita; in 1916, $10.11 per capita; 1918 and 1919, $115.07, and for 1920 the cost to administer all the departments of the government was $61.88 for every person in the United States. The mere suggestion of this enormous growth in government expenditures calls for hard thinking and plain speaking on a question that vitally affects the nation's pocketbook. "The interest on our national debt is almost $1,000,000,000 a year, which is $250,000,000 more than the cost of administering the national government in 1907. Expenditures for the fiscal year 1918, $2,900,000,000, than for the fiscal year 1916. The increase is due almost wholly to participation in the war and the increased cost of our military and naval establishments.

Quality of Bored Potash Salts in Texas Similar to Those in Germany and Alsace

...of salts recently sent from Texas to the laboratories of the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, at Washington, D. C., and of the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology at Austin, Texas, contain percentages that suggest at least the same of the potash of Alsace and Germany. The samples were obtained from two borings about 80 miles apart by all companies in the "Red Beds" region of Texas, where salt, gypsum, and other minerals are associated in strata of the same geologic age and character as the potash-bearing beds of western Europe. The same of the potash-bearing beds represented by these samples shown, however, and the question remains to be determined whether the deposit is thick enough to be mined as a great amount and high a grade as those in Europe, whether it is of scientific interest and mainly important as showing potash-rich salts were actually found in this region and that borings in areas where similar occur may discover commercial quantities.

Several years the United States Geological Survey and the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology, working in cooperation, have trained in the field an examiner to be in touch with companies that are looking for water or oil in the great "Red Beds" region of western Texas, New Mexico, and western Oklahoma. So far as practicable the work has been followed by this cooperative representative, who has made enough field tests of drill cuttings to suggest in a search for evidence that the drill has struck beds of salts in potash and has sent samples to the laboratories to be analyzed to determine their composition.

Naturally both the United States Geological Survey and the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology are interested in any additional drilling that may be done in the region and will continue to cooperate with the drillers by making careful examination of cuttings and brines. Other wells drilled in the region of the "Red Beds" salt deposits in Texas may have passed through the same potash-rich bed or beds that are found in the Bryant and Lamesa wells, or even thicker beds without discovering them, owing to lack of contact of the drilling companies with the cooperative service maintained by the State and Federal bureaus.

Subsequent accurate determinations in the laboratories of the State University and of the Geological Survey in Washington showed that this sample, which was saved by the driller from cuttings taken at depths between 2,405 and 2,525 feet, contained about 9 per cent of potash (K₂O). The sample consisted of red salt, including polyhalite, white salt, crushed red shale, and mud, so that the fragments of red salt ground up in the cuttings probably represent a layer that is richer in potash even than the sample as a whole.

A small piece of red salt brought out from a depth of about 1,864 feet in the Burns No. 1 well of the Lamesa Oil Co., which is about 80 miles from the Bryant well, contained about 10 per cent of potash (K₂O).

Adequate information as to even the probable thickness of the bed represented by the samples of potash salt is lacking for both these wells. The drill records of the Lamesa well indicate that the bed struck at a depth of 1,864 feet may not be more than a foot thick; yet it may be thicker. On the other hand, the potash in the Bryant well in Midland county probably fills no more than a part of an interval of 20 feet covered by a single entry in the driller's log and by a single sample of cuttings. Consequently, though a potash salt as good as that in Europe was laid down in Texas under probably similar conditions and at about the same time, in association with rock salt and other saline deposits, the important points yet to be determined by the drill are whether the potash deposits of western Texas are thick enough to be mined at a profit, whether we have in our own country ample supplies of relatively cheap potash for use as a fertilizer, and whether these deposits possibly constitute a great potash reserve that will make the United States independent of foreign importations.

When you look in a mirror your mouth is nearly always closed....Are you good looking when you smile...Look at your teeth and then look over your tooth brushes...Cunningham & Phillips.

Thicker beds that contain potash salts may yet be found in other areas of the "Red Beds" salt basin of the Southwest, so that even if the deposits at these two wells are not commercially valuable richer deposits may be found elsewhere.

WORRYING

Worrying is a real and exceedingly injurious bad habit, a habit that is acquired and grows on the victim. Who hasn't seen or known dozens of women and some men who were chronic worryers, and most of them react in their physical health to the vice of worry.

A fit of anger or a spell of worry, envy, or jealousy,—which are forms of worry—often will cause more physical fatigue than a hard day's work, for the mind has a strong influence on the health of the body.

"Take It Easy" mentally, no matter if your problem is a hard one. When the pressure gets too much for you, drop the problem for a while and turn to something else.

"Forget It". It's hard to do but you can learn to do it just as you learned to read and write.

Hurry is worry. Start early enough to do what is before you without the strain and uncertainty of hurry and rush, if at all possible. You'll not be fagged out and can do better work all along the line.

Don't rush home in the evening after work. Take your time and you'll eat a better supper and sleep more soundly.

Above all for the sake of physical fitness don't brood over your problems and troubles. Don't indulge in self pity. When you feel this "coming on" get out in the open, take a walk or get in some game that will set the blood circulating, and your mind will be that much better off to solve the problems.

When you look in a mirror your mouth is nearly always closed....Are you good looking when you smile...Look at your teeth and then look over your tooth brushes...Cunningham & Phillips.

Musings of Elder Moses

"Elder," said Brother Biteitoff the other evening as we were walking home from prayer meeting, "I understand you are in favor of woman's rights. Now tell me, can you point to a single thing useful of necessary that a woman can do better than a man can?" I asked him how he would like to nurse his own baby? Then he began to talk about the weather.

Because it is cloudy today is no reason for you to be cast down. The clouds have always rolled away, and they will do it again.

For a good many years I have observed that Monday always comes the day following Sunday.

The worst sinner in the world is the church member who fails to set a good example before the world. I have oft noticed, too, that the outsider always comments on the shortcomings of the church member long before he notes the same mistep for the worldly one. The fact is, the world loves to see the consistent man or woman.

The crusaders against tobacco are working under a handicap—nowhere in the Bible is the weed mentioned.

"The present day styles of woman's apparel is simply a shock," a Chicago preacher told his congregation recently. True, but if the girl happens to be the right shape, she acts as a mighty good "shock absorber."

"Stop, look and listen" is good advice, but don't stop your automobile on the crossing to do it.

"The Lord never made a fool" said Bill Sunday in a recent sermon. Maybe not, Bill, but he gave a good many of them tongues after the devil made them.

Sister Sobeye called on me in my study the other day and after spending a half hour talking about the shortcomings of her neighbors, said she had been intending to speak to me about some things. "We have been discussing you at our sewing circle," she finally blurted out. "We like you in many ways, but you have some habits we do not think becomes you. You chew tobacco and smoke and it is rumored that you are not averse to taking a drink of grape juice and some other things you do that do not fit nicely with your calling. Don't you think you could give up these practices for the good of the cause?" I confess that I have some habits that do not conform to the general idea of "ministerial fitness." But brethren, hear me. Should I quit all these habits that annoy Sister Sobeye and others, think how I might acquire others and sink low in debauchery. I might take to the lecture platform; I might become a traveling evangelist and preach for the money instead of the love for humanity; I might take to knocking on the town and never let an opportunity pass to impress the stranger that the town was on the toboggan slide and the people all robbers; I might—O hellicadam, brethren, better let me alone with the little sins I have than force me into greater ones.

Some Talk

"I am not going to talk long this evening. I have been cured of that. The other night I was making a speech when a man who had been imbibing Bevo and raisins entered the hall and took a seat right in the front row. I had not been talking an hour when I noticed he was becoming fidgety. Finally he arose and asked: "Shay, how long have you been lecturing?"

"I smiled good-naturedly at the interruption and replied: "About four years, my friend."

"Well," he remarked, as he sat down, "I'll stick around—you must be d— near through."

Press Warned About Misrepresentation

Washington.—The War Department has issued a statement warning newspapers against accepting "misrepresentation made by men whose names are on the draft deserter list and who wish to clear themselves but are legally charged with desertion.

"Many cases will arise as men whose names are on the published lists will attempt to show by certain evidence which they may produce that their names should not have been listed," the statement said, "and, through misrepresentations made to those not familiar with the provisions of the selective service regulations, will succeed in inducing the newspapers to publish stories of their cases, so worded as to clear themselves in public estimation and at the same time put the War Department in the position of having published their names without just cause."

The Oil Man's Headache

"What has given the oil man the awful headache from which he is suffering today?" asked W. H. Gray in addressing the Southern Tariff Association's meeting yesterday. "It is Mexican oil. Few realize that 450,000 barrels of Mexican crude are imported daily. It can be produced for 10 cents a barrel while our own Legislature is busy placing new tax burdens on the American producer. This oil comes in absolutely free. Fully 98 per cent of it is brought in by twenty companies, whose offices are within a stone's throw of each other in New York."

Why should we continue to admit this enormous amount of petroleum free, when thousands of oil workers—reliable opinion places the number at 100,000—are walking the streets out of work? That is a question that concerns more than the oil man. Those who are looking for a restoration of the purchasing power of the American buying public will look in vain so long as such conditions are permitted to exist. And what is true of the oil industry is true of all of the basic industries of the South. It is to remedy this situation that the Southern Tariff Conference is striving and it should receive the united support of the people of this section, irrespective of party affiliation. This is not a political or a party question. It is a question of bread and butter. If the people of this section do not realize that, and make known the fact that they realize it, how can they expect Congress to realize it?—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Mrs. James Campbell of Big Spring passed thru Eden one day last week on her return from a pleasure trip to Galveston, Houston and other southeast Texas cities. Somewhere below Llano her party became separated by her car taking the wrong road. While waiting for repairs on her car she spent a night and part of a day in Eden. She said that she found the people here so nice and accommodating to strangers that she wanted to thank them all, through the columns of the Echo. As her traveling wardrobe for herself and baby was on her father's car, that went the other route, she said she recognized the Eden ladies as being "a friend in need" in that they supplied her needs during her stay in Eden.—The Echo, Eden Texas.

Fordson

TRADE MARK

$625 F. O. B. DETROIT

The Fordson saves from thirty to fifty per cent of the farmer's time.

The Fordson plows, harrows, drills as much ground in the same time as from four to six horses. (Many farmers say it does the work of eight horses.)

The Fordson does for the farmer just what machine power does for the manufacturer—it enables him to manufacture his product at less cost. And that is what the farmer wants to do; grow his crops more cheaply and make his margin of profit greater. And the Fordson will help him do it.

Let us prove this to you by a demonstration on your own farm. Just phone us or drop us a card.

Cor. 4th and Main St. Stokes Motor Co. Big Spring, Texas

Houston Post: One reason why the fluctuation of cotton prices is of such vital concern to Texas farmers is because such a large proportion of them fail to produce their own food, and must depend for their living upon what they can sell to others. To what extent they are neglecting to produce the necessities is indicated in a statement by A. L. Ward, swine specialist of the Texas Agricultural & Mechanical college, that on 200,000 out of the 450,000 farms in the state no hogs are produced, the farmers being compelled to buy their meats. He estimates that on each of these farms two hogs weighing 180 pounds can be produced annually on waste material, costing the farmer nothing, which will increase the production of pork products 72,000,000 pounds with an estimated value of $24,000,000. The saving of the waste alone to the extent of $24,000,000 a year is something well worth considering, while the extent to which it would aid the farmer in providing his own living would afford material relief from the pressure of the necessity to sell other products at any price. Diversified farming which includes stock raising, cuts with a two-edged sword. It not only provides the necessities of life for the farmer, but it creates for him a larger degree of independence in the markets of his staple crops, and gives him a better chance to exercise control over them. The Texas Chamber of Commerce has been doing some valuable work in the state in the interest of increasing raising of hogs for home consumption on farms. If it can induce every farmer to raise just two hogs a year, it will have given the farmers of the state a worth-while asset.

Keep Two Hens For Each Member Of Family

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs per hen per year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption. No backyard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Every backyard poultry keeper should try to get as much more as possible. To provide an egg a day for each person, two hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year.

 7847, Vernon Sayles Stat-requires the owner or op-any well constructed for section of petroleum oil, nat-
 or mineral water, before drill-
 the oil or gas bearing rock,
 by case the well in such man-exclude all surface or fresh penetrating the oil or gas rock. Article 7848 requires or operator when about a well, before drawing the therefrom, to securely fill the well with rock, sediment or with mortar, to a depth of at least two hundred feet above the top of the first oil or gas bearing rock and in such manner as shall prevent gas or oil from escaping therefrom. This article further provides, that if such owner or operator shall fail or inefficiently comply with same, the owner of the land on which the well is situated shall do so. It further provides that if the persons required to so condition a well,

 fail or inefficiently do so, any person, after written demand, may enter the premises, take possession thereof, and comply with the provision of the Article. The reasonable cost and expense of so doing is made a charge against the owner or operator of the well, and the owner of the land, and a lien is fixed on the fixtures and machinery and leasehold interest of the owner or operator of the well, as well as upon the title and interest of the land owner in the land, to secure the payment of such expenditure. Article 7854A authorizes adjacent lessee to enter the premises, upon certain conditions, plug the well and recover the cost and expenses incurred.
 "The rules and regulations of the Railroad Commission, promulgated under the authority of the Conservation Act, deals further with the subject of plugging.
 "It is, therefore, the opinion of this Department that when casing has been placed within a well by an operator,
 or by a contractor acting under an operator, that thereby the lien of the statute attaches to all such casing, as well as to the drilling outfit, and the land, until the well, if abandoned or if operations thereon cease, has been plugged so as to prevent the infiltration of water into oil or gas sands, and so as to prevent the escape from such well, of oil or gas or deleterious
 water.
 "The Railroad Commission does not undertake to settle disputes among parties with reference to the ownership of drilling outfits or casing. The public is charged with knowledge of the effect of the statute and deals at its peril when permitting a drilling rig to be erected and casing set upon real estate in Texas for the purpose of exploring for oil or gas or mineral
 water.
 "This Department has endeavored in every way possible, for the last six months to bring to the notice of the free owner, the oil operator and contractor, not only constructive notice, but actual notice of the provisions of law, governing the matter of plugging wells.
 "If, therefore, you have permitted your property to be used in drilling for oil, in the opinion of the Chief Supervisor of this Department, you have subjected such property to the pains and penalties of the statute.
 "It is further the opinion of this Department that where oil or gas, or salt water is being permitted to escape from a well, that in itself, constitutes all the evidence necessary to establish that the well has not been properly plugged, and that the statute has been ignored.
 "Deputy Supervisors have, therefore, been instructed that in all cases in which it is contended that an abandoned well has been plugged, if it is found that oil and gas, or oil or gas,

is escaping therefrom, to give notice
 to all parties concerned of the inefficient plugging and to request that the work be redone. Deputy Supervisors have also been instructed to advise all parties interested that where operations have ceased upon an oil or gas
 well, or the well has been abandoned, to notify all parties at interest, not to remove the drilling outfit or the casing from the premises until the well has been plugged in accordance with law and the rules and regulations of the Commission.
 "It, therefore, becomes necessary to say to you, that if any person has removed the drilling outfit or casing
 from a well that has been abandoned or upon which operations have ceased, without proper plugging, they have gone in direct opposition to the provisions of law and thereby subject themselves to such pains and penalties
 as the law prescribes.
 "The Railroad Commission and this Department have not undertaken to act arbitrarily nor hastily, but the public ought now to be sufficiently informed with regard to the statutory provisions and rules and regulations governing oil and gas production, to accord compliance therewith.
 "The time for leniency in matters of this character has passed, and an effort is now being put forth to enforce strict obedience to the law governing this subject."—San Angelo Standard.

 The West Texas Chamber of Com-

 reau in connection with its traffic department through which members may have their freight bills checked and collection made on loss and damage and over-charges in freight or express ship-bureau is for the convenience of the members of the organization who are shippers and Traffic Manager Byars reports that the bureau is now in work-

 outside of regular membership dues.
 All shippers in West Texas should list
 their names with Byars at once.

 made all nature smile—but white folks

 out of the woods and here's hoping that good crops and good prices will hold forth this year.

The Case of Wheat and the Tariff Concerning wheat, there are some facts and figures to be found sequestered in the market pages of the Chicago Tribune which seem to give a pretty effectual answer to the legend which the protectionist Tories have used to beguile the American farmer into the notion that he is in danger of being buried beneath an avalanche of Canadian wheat unless a barrier of tariff duties is reared.
 For example, we find in the issue of that most orthodox journal of Republicanism for May 21 a dispatch from Winnipeg, which reports that on the preceding day the prevailing price of wheat in that Canadian city was $1.02 a bushel. In close proximity to this dispatch there is to be found another from Minneapolis, which reports that on the same day the price of wheat in that city was $1.43 a bushel.
 The two seem to present a problem,
 the problem of finding the reason which makes it necessary, in the interest of the American grower, to levy
 a tariff duty against the importation of Canadian wheat. It is apt to occur to one who attempts the solution of that problem that American wheat is at a premium in Canada. We have heard much of the exchange rate as a war-made reason for erecting high tariff walls. And it is true that American money is at a premium in Canada. The same authority, the Chicago Tribune, reports that on May 20 it was at a premium of 10 1-2 per cent. Hence, bought with American money in Winnipeg on that day, wheat cost $1.72 a bushel, instead of $1.92,
 the quoted price in Canadian money.
 Still, with that deduction made,
 there remains a difference of 29c in favor of Canadian wheat; that is, it was on that day selling in Winnipeg that much above the quoted price of American wheat in Minneapolis.
 One must look for other obscure facts if one is to find a reason for protection of wheat.
 There are other obscure facts.
 There is, for example, the cost of transportation. And there are other charges such as those for insurance, commissions and war taxes. The cost of transportation is 14c a bushel, and the other charges mentioned are said to approximate 2c a bushel, making a total of 16c. But these charges, ought not to be necessary to say even for the enlightenment of the man fallen under the spell of protectionist sophis-try, do not work to the advantage of the man who would import Canadian wheat. They work against him. And so, figuring it all up, it will seem,
 after making allowance for the premium on American money, that, as matters stand now, the man who bought a bushel of Canadian wheat in Winnipeg and brought it to Minneapolis would find that it had cost him 45c more than he would have had to pay in Minneapolis for a bushel of American wheat.
 Hence one who starts to find out,
 under the prompting of facts alone,
 rather than under the guidance of a protectionist, the reason for a protective tariff duty, or any kind of duty
 on wheat, may come to the conclusion that no such reason exists.
 And that is the exact truth. Even when there is no tariff duty to pay, Canadian wheat will cost more delivered at a point so near the source of supply at Minneapolis than American wheat costs at the same place, except only when the American crop is abnormally small and the Canadian crop is abnormally big. Then only can free trade in wheat have any material effect on the price of American wheat, and that, it is hardly necessary to say, is a beneficent effect for those who have wheat to sell. If ordinarily Canadian wheat costs more at Minneapolis than American wheat, obviously the excess of its cost must increase as the distance toward the country's interior markets increases, because of the higher transportation charge.
 Of all the hoaxes that have been invented to gull the farmer into becoming a protectionist, the argument that is made for the levy of a duty on wheat is the one which probably pays highest tribute to the ingenuity of its authors and least tribute to the intelligence of those who accept it—

B. C. Forbes Discusses the Business Outlook

B. C. Forbes is an economist and writer and publisher. He is the man who makes the Forbes magazine and the Forbes magazine talks for business and business men. Forbes magazine for June makes this prediction: "Big development cannot fail to bring business betterment."

Forbes, the economist, is optimistic. Forbes, the spokesman for big business and big business men, has a most encouraging viewpoint. During the years of 1919 and 1920 there were American statesmen, American editors, American economists and American propagandists for certain interests who looked through smoked glasses and saw a red deluge of Russian Bolshevism engulfing the world. Some were sincere; others were paid for their dire prophecy.

Forbes never lost his head and if goes without saying that The Fort Worth Record stood with Forbes. The Record refused to see "red" then and it refuses to see "red" today. This illuminating review is taken from the June number of the magazine published by the economist and writer:

Business cannot long fail to respond more substantially to the remarkable succession of favorable developments here and abroad. Some of these developments have been of momentous importance. Let us glance at some of them: The world, we were constantly told, was awaiting the signing of the German reparations agreement before embarking upon a more confident and prosperous course. Well, the agreement has been signed, apparently in good faith, without a single reservation. Surely that is a historic milestone passed in our journey towards world recuperation. The darkest cloud hanging over the world not so long ago admittedly was Bolshevism. Instead of engulfing and ruining nation after nation, Bolshevism has been decidedly repudiated in every land outside of Russia, and even there it palpably is doomed. A year ago there was nation-wide shaking of heads over the arrogance and inefficiency of labor. Labor is now less arrogant and more efficient, and the indications are that the lowering of wages in the railroad and certain industries will be effected without precipitating any undue upheaval. Are we forgetting, in our discomfiture over falling prices, what a turmoil was raging a year ago against the high cost of living? Discontent then was intense, and justifiably so in many instances. Well, that is being cured. Wholesale prices have receded practically 50 per cent from last year's peak, and as considerable shaking down remains to be done in numbers of industries, the process will doubtless go appreciably farther, although there will be a counterbalancing factor in the form of some recovery in raw materials and commodities which have gone below the cost of production. Incidentally, the latest government crop reports, covering winter wheat, and hay, are distinctly encouraging and soil conditions are such that 1921 harvests give promise, at this early stage, of being abundant.

Dictator Lenin gave the acid test to his peculiar form of communistic control. Dictator Lenin is a very able man, one of the ablest on the world's stage of human action today. Having tested ultra communism and found it wanting, Dictator Lenin has announced a return to private, capitalistic control in the direction of the great industrial plants of his country. Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes gave the soviet director a hint two months ago that in order to resume trade relations with the United States it would be necessary for soviet Russia to do business in a business way. Being a very wise and very wily opportunist, the Russian dictator caught the hint and appears to be paving the way for a Russian return to "normalcy."

Indeed, it is said by European statesmen that Dictator Lenin has made a tacit agreement that soviet Russia shall guarantee the payment of the $4,000,000,000 loan to the Romanoff government by the French government or the investors of that republic. Should this happen the propagandists and publicity agents of the financial world will experience a change of heart with a change of eyesight and their "red" demon will disappear.

Perhaps the most sensational editorial carried by the Forbes magazine in its June number is a very pointed bit of advice given to the coal producers of America. Forbes magazine is a magazine of conservatism, speaking largely for big business and that large class of successful Americans who are fond of advertising that they are self-made men. Declaring that the coal producers are courting disaster, Editor Forbes says:

The coal people must either play ball or get off the field. Patience of the American public is rapidly reaching the bursting point. Senator Elkins and others who have made huge fortunes from coal are exhorting the people to "buy coal now, or—" What the coal overlords predict, as an alternative, is a coal famine and disaster for the public next winter. If there is to be any disaster, the disaster will fall on the obtuse heads of the coal magnates. What license have coal operators to adhere stubbornly to wartime prices for household coal when every other industry in the land has had to come off its perch? Steel prices have tumbled; so have prices of copper, leather, cotton, wool, wheat, rubber, clothing, automobiles, rugs, lumber—everything. The American public have long harbored a distrust and hatred of the "coal barons." Events during the last few years have not modified this distrust and the hatred. And now that the coal people are doing their worst to fan this hatred into an explosion, an explosion which threatens to demolish the coal industry of the country. Further interference with business by government is not desired, but unless the coal people mend their ways, and mend them promptly and decisively, congress will receive the sanction of the American people to take a hand in bringing the coal magnates to their senses by despoiling them of a power which they apparently haven't gumption enough to use in a way bearable by the American people.—Fort Worth Record.

Neglected Common Sense

Oakwood Oracle: Did you ever hear of the green bugs eating up the hog crop? Did you ever hear of the boll weevil destroying a lot of chickens? Do the rain and hail and high winds prevent the cows from paying their way?

State Press overheard a conversation in a bank not long ago. A colored man came and told the cashier he would simply have to have an additional five dollars with which to buy feed for his plow stock. "No," responded the banker. "I have let you have all I am going to; you will have to sell some chickens and eggs if you want stock feed." The would-be customer replied that he didn't have any chickens or eggs. No wonder he was in the condition of a beggar. A farmer, white or colored, who has no more independence of mind, who has no more idea of self-reliance, who has no more pride than to ignore the very first considerations of his business and thus to become dependent upon others for every mouthful of his food is almost a hopeless proposition. Food crops and meat animals grow as well in the South as in any other quarter of the country. To call oneself a farmer and yet lean against a grocery store for one's whole support is so contrary to reason that such a policy can not be harmonized with common sense. Without common sense there is no chance for success in any calling. Cotton is already moving to the gin in Southwest Texas. The first bale went to market several days ago and it is upon cotton rather than upon actual and practical and easily producible foodstuffs that one million Texas farm dwellers will depend for their breakfasts, dinners and suppers the coming year. What else but ruin could happen to any business conducted upon so negligent an attitude toward its own bottom-most principles? — State Press in Dallas News.

Tariff

Florence Vidette: The Vidette is a free trader from principle and will never support a tariff for any other purpose than to raise revenue. The old and unchangeable law of supply and demand is by far the best regulator of commerce. The old slogan of protecting infant industries was never anything but a scheme of the manufacturers to gain advantages they were not entitled to and now the protectionists are seeking to enlist the aid of the farmers by pretending to protect their interests with tariff laws.

Protective tariffs have always been opposed to the interest of American agriculture. Protective tariffs were designed, in this country, to exempt "infant industries" from foreign competition. Those industries which supplied the home market and made no effort to supply any foreign demand basked for many years in the sunlight of protection. The result was a prosperity which raised them to the status of gigantic combinations called trusts. Behind our tariff walls they got their own prices, without fear of competitors from abroad. Agriculture was compelled to pay protected prices for most of its manufactured necessities. That would not have been indefensible if agriculture had enjoyed a protected market. But it did not. It never has. It never can, so long as the export demand for agricultural products is the vital element in its existence. When manufacturers from abroad can not be sold to us, we can not sell agricultural products to those potential customers. We can not sell until we buy. The result is overproduction for our agricultural home market and a corresponding depression of price. Free trade is fair to everybody. All other systems are based on artificial and restrictive bases, and this invariably imposes injustice, inequality and impoverishment upon those classes which must contribute much and receive nothing. The South at this moment has several million bales of cotton to sell. Europe, Asia and Africa can buy this cotton only in proportion as they can sell their own products. The cotton quotations are every day evidences of the need of wider foreign markets.—State Press in Dallas News.
