ABILENE BOOSTERS COMING TODAY

Business Men of Abilene Will Here to Boost for Fair—Will Have Cowboy Band

One hundred and thirty-five Abilene business men and professional men will be the guests of Big Spring on Friday morning, August 24th.

The cowboy band accompanying them will treat you with their rattling good music while you are enjoying a get-acquainted campaign. A bunch of boosters carry a message of good fellowship and cooperation and their primary purpose is to get you acquainted with the West Texas Fair which will be held at Abilene, Sept. 29th.

They are touring the heart of Texas to inform West Texas people they are going to have "some" and they want you to be there. Moreover they want you to know your Fair if you are a West Texas man.

In addition to parade, band and introduction of Big Spring's boosters who will represent us at the old time get-acquainted party, many practical and popular gifts will be distributed.

They will be on hand and meet this afternoon at the fair grounds. Abilene builders are traveling in a special train of seven cars and bringing many West Texas cities news in their four-day trip.

Chamber of Commerce is going to take the Abileners for a scenic drive from 6 to 7 a. m. and everyone who provides an automobile to take guests on this trip are requested to meet the special train at the depot at 6 a. m. At 7 a. m. the train will be brought back to the city and carry out their program of giving our folks and visiting business houses of our city.

They will be requested to give a concert at the corner of Third and Third street about seven o'clock so all our folks can be present and enjoy same.

Remember these are real folks, not in force to greet them and don't know them get acquainted. There should be no "Hello Abilene" in the past. Friday morning. Let's show the five wires that we appreciate their visit to our city.

Abilene Special will spend ten days at Coahoma from 8:25 to 10:30 a. m. Friday morning.

Tractor Demonstration

Wednesday, August 29th, a tractor demonstration will be held at the Coahoma tract in the Cole and Coahoma addition, under the auspices of the Stokes Motor Co. The demonstration will be held from 10 to 12 p. m. Free lunch on the grounds will be in order at the noon hour. Automobiles will convey all guests to attend, free of charge. Cars will operate from the Stokes Motor Co.'s building on Main street.

The purpose of this demonstration is to show what a Fordson tractor can do to lighten the labor on the farm. It will demonstrate the use of the tractor in every phase of farming, from plowing to hoeing. It will show how it can be utilized in the garden, binders and feed mills. It will show all work on the farm done by power, and it is the most simple and easy it is to operate. This demonstration is an invitation to attend this demonstration. You are the loser if you fail to come. Remember the date—Wednesday, August 29th.

Arledge-O'Keefe

A quiet home wedding was solemnized Monday evening, August 20 at 6 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan O'Keefe in this city at which time their daughter Miss Mary Eileen O'Keefe and G. B. Arledge were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock. Father S. Kistner performed the solemn and impressive ceremony, and only the immediate relatives were in attendance.

The happy couple left on the evening passenger train for their future home at Burk Burnett.

The bride has made her home in Big Spring for many years and is loved and esteemed by everyone who knows her. She is an accomplished young lady possessing many lovable traits of character and will make a true helpmeet to the man she has honored with her heart and hand. The groom is a young man of sterling worth, a popular employe of the Gulf Production Company and has a bright future in store.

We join a host of friends in extending to this worthy couple best wishes for a life of usefulness and happiness.

First Bale of Cotton Received

The first bale of cotton of the 1923-24 season was brought to Big Spring Tuesday, August 21st, being a week or ten days earlier than last year's first bale.

Marcanello Gonzales, a renter on the J. T. McNew farm northwest of Big Spring, brought in this bale. It weighed 457 pounds and was purchased by Dell Hatch for twenty-five cents per pound. A premium of $69.75 was raised; $46.50 for the first bale, and $23.25 for the second bale. Price Bros. ginned the first bale free of charge. With the value of the seed to be added the first bale will net the owner over $175.

Ladies Serve Chicken Barbecue

The Ladies of the Baptist Church gave a chicken barbecue at noon Tuesday for their husbands, for Brothers Winsett and Hiatt, who are conducting the revival, and for the ministers of this city and the occasion was one that will long be remembered with pleasure.

The City Federation's new park just east of Big Spring was the place selected, and a more attractive site could not be desired.

In addition to the barbecued chicken, the ladies had prepared salads, cake, ice cream and ice tea, and it was a feast indeed and enjoyed to the limit.

Lubbock Jubilee August 28th

Lubbock is going to stage one of the biggest entertainments ever given in West Texas when they celebrate the securing of the Texas Technological College on August 28. They are planning to entertain 30,000 people. One hundred and thirty beavers are to be barbecued for the big feast.

It is impossible to determine at this time how many Big Spring folks will go to Lubbock to join in the "Tech" Jubilee but we feel certain that quite a few will be there to represent our city.

Pugh-Fletcher

On August 18th at the home of the bride's parents at Coahoma, there was performed the ceremony by Rev. W. E. Smith which united in marriage Miss Jewell Fletcher and C. G. Pugh. Both are popular young people of Coahoma. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Pugh left Sunday for a wedding trip in Dallas, Fort Worth and other points east.

Like West Texas

The mother, brother and sister of W. A. Morris of Knott were here from Comanche County to visit him Monday and Tuesday.

They were delighted with Howard County and decided Mr. Morris had made a wise selection when he picked Knott as a growing town in which to establish his grocery business.

Fryar-Daniel

Clarence A. Fryar and Miss Venna Mae Daniel, two popular young people of the Salem community, were united in marriage at Coahoma, Texas on the 19th of August, by Rev. W. E. Smith. Their many friends wish for these a happy voyage together through life.

OIL DEVELOPMENT IN THIS SECTION

Better Wells Being Secured in the Mitchell County Field—McDowell No. 4 at Interesting Stage

At McDowell No. 4
All interest now centers on McDowell well No. 4 and the outcome of present operations will determine whether or not an extensive development campaign will be launched in that district.

A socket was secured this week to be used in drilling for a string of tools, and the work of recovering these tools is now underway. When these tools are recovered the well is to be cased and a thorough test made to determine whether or not a real oil sand had been encountered. The drillers say it has and have been working the past three months without pay to prove their assertion. The General Petroleum Company officials agreed to start drilling another test well immediately if the drillers prove the existence of the oil sand. H. D. Conley of Abilene and M. McDonald of Houston, trustees of the General Petroleum Company are here this week to watch developments. Within the next two weeks it will be determined whether a real oil field is to be opened on the McDowell ranch. That they have oil there is known—as the McDowell well No. 1 has produced same regularly the past three years or more—but it will require the bringing of a big well to start intensive development. Those who have been keeping a close tab on this well are most optimistic over the outlook.

The meeting is to continue thru Sunday, September 2nd. All are invited to attend every service. Come and be benefitted.

Lindner-Oxley
In this city on Saturday, August 18, Rev. W. L. Shepherd, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony which united in marriage of Ben J. Lindner and Miss Hildegard Oxley.

The happy couple left on the T. & P. Sunshine Special, Saturday night for a few days' visit in El Paso. The bride, known to her many friends here as Hilda Majors is the adopted daughter of Mrs. Lee Majors, is one of our best known and most highly esteemed young ladies, and has won a wide circle of friends during the years she has made her home in this city. She possesses all the attributes of true womanhood which endear her to everyone with whom she comes in contact, and she is a favorite with young and old. Mrs. Lindner who has been a popular member of the sales force of the Albert M. Fisher Co. in this city will continue in such position for the present.

The groom is one of our substantial and respected citizens whose friends are numbered by his acquaintances. He is a popular employe of the Texas & Pacific railway company, serving as locomotive engineer for many years.

We join a host of friends in extending to this popular couple all good wishes for a long, happy and prosperous journey along life's pathway.

Shows Visit County
This section of the state has been treated to showers quite frequently the past week but a good old general rain is yet to make its appearance. At some points, but covering a limited territory, a rainfall amounting to an inch or more has been reported during the week but in many places only a light sprinkle has been received.

Ever since last Friday showers appeared regularly each afternoon up to Wednesday of this week, and some sections were greatly benefited as sufficient moisture was dispensed as to greatly boost growing crops.

It appeared that we were in for a rainy spell Wednesday as a good shower fell early in the morning and this was followed by a cold drizzly spell which held on practically thru-out the day. It was the coolest spell for August that any of our old timers can remember.

It is to be regretted that we didn't get plenty of rain while the cloudy weather prevailed as the crops, in most instances need a good rain and the danger from leaf worms would have been no greater since the cloudy weather of the week is the kind that boosts these pests. The drop in temperature may prove beneficial to the crops which were beginning to suffer as a result of the hot weather.

Eclipse of Sun and Moon
A partial eclipse of the moon is scheduled for Sunday, August 26th. An eclipse of the sun will be visible September 10th. The eclipse of the sun will be best seen from points in Mexico and astronomers are planning to be there in bunches to make observations.

Scurry County Oil News
Lou-Tex Moore No. 1 encountered another showing of oil in lime pay at 2310 to 2390; now drilling below 2650 feet.

Camp Springs Oil & Gas Co.'s W. R. Quinn, drilling 1-70 feet.

Mitchell Co. Well Making 300 Bbls.
The H. C. Miller well No. 1 of the Sloan Oil Company on section 22, block 28, is said to be producing 300 barrels of oil daily through the bridge.

The crew is drilling out the bridge, following a shot of 180 quarts of nitro glycerine. The well is standing full of oil and making regular head flows. Oil men believe the well will flow regularly when cleaned out and tubed.

Underwriters Company: E. Morrison No. 5, fishing for tools at 1245 feet. T. & P. No. 3, drilling below 2600 feet. T. & P. No. 4, swabbing 200 barrels daily, after being given 100-quart show from 2995 to 3080.

New Well Down 1070 Feet
The first offset, 800 feet due west of the Santa Rita, is down 1070 feet, according to Carl G. Cromwell, driller for the Texon Oil & Land Co.

The second offset which is 800 feet due north of the first offset will be spudded in the middle of next week. Several cars of oil were shipped last week via Alpine to the Rio Grande Refining Company and more is to be shipped next week.

The contract with Baker & McCamey, drilling contractors, provides that No. 2 be drilled to 1100 feet; from this depth the Texon Company will take the well over and use a core-drill and take cores every few feet making a thorough test of Potash, then the well will be turned over to Baker & McCamey and completed as an oil well.—Big Lake News.

Underwriters Company: E. Morrison No. 5, fishing for tools at 1245 feet. T. & P. No. 3, drilling below 2600 feet. T. & P. No. 4, swabbing 200 barrels daily, after being given 100-quart show from 2995 to 3080.

Baptist Revival

The Baptist Revival at the tabernacle, at the corner of West Third and Scurry street, is growing in attendance and interest. Rev. Winsett is delivering sermons that hit home. Bro. Hiatt is in charge of the song service which is a strong feature of the meeting.

Rev. Winsett is handling sin, wherever found, without gloves, and he stresses the fact that the members of the church must live a pure life, if they are to be effective in influencing others to lead a righteous life.

He calls attention to some of the things which are causing so much mourning in this county such as slackness on the part of parents with boys and girls of the teen age, the immature movies, pictures, riding in automobiles on the country roads at night, the familiarity of the sexes and the modern dance.

He urges parents to keep their eyes open so as to know what is going on and to help save their children from ruin. You cannot but be impressed by his earnestness and it will do you good to hear these sermons.

The meeting is to continue thru Sunday, September 2nd. All are invited to attend every service. Come and be benefitted.

BASKET PICNIC AT PARK TODAY

To Mark the Opening of the City Federation's New Park East of Big Spring

Everyone is cordially invited to bring a well filled basket and join in the Community Picnic which is to mark the formal opening of the New Park which the City Federation is presenting for use, pleasure and benefit of our entire citizenship.

This picnic will be held at the grove formerly known as the Parrish Grove, just east of Big Spring, at 5:30 o'clock, Friday evening.

The members of the City Federation have secured a lease from Mr. Parrish and expect to make this an ideal park, adding improvements just as rapidly as funds are available. They have arranged to have the electric light service extended to the park, and will add benches, playground equipment, etc., from time to time. They, of course, will be glad to accept donations from any who wish to aid in equipping this community park.

Join the crowd Friday afternoon and inspect the fine little park the City Federation has secured for our folks and maybe you will become enthused and help them make it a park we can indeed be proud of.

Remember everyone is cordially invited, so fill up a basket and if you have an automobile, invite some friends to accompany you.

Tech Location

Mr. Hamilton Wright, staff correspondent of the Fort Worth Record, is authority for the report that at least three West Texas towns, dissatisfied with the action of the Texas Tech locating board in choosing Lubbock, will take action to have the board's decision set aside.

This is probably no idle rumor. Mr. Wright is a careful and conscientious purveyor of news, and evidently his statement has a credible foundation.

But for the peace of mind, and continued prosperity of West Texas the Reporter hopes this rumor never becomes anything more than rumor.

It was the same sort of irresponsible agitation that stole the college away from Abilene when it had been "fairly and squarely" located here.

If Abilene enters no protest against the selection of Lubbock, then certainly the other losers ought to be satisfied.

The Reporter has very grave doubts about the wisdom of putting the college at Lubbock. These doubts are based on many good and sufficient reasons. But Lubbock has the college, and there is no way in the world to take it away from her—at least not without tearing West Texas asunder.

Let Lubbock alone and help her develop the college into one of the best institutions in the state, should be the watchword. This in spite of the widespread and unshakable belief in the minds of many West Texans that the college was placed at Lubbock primarily to protect the other state schools—three of which are headed by members of the locating commission.

The college is located, wisely or unwisely. Its relocation could not be brought about without months and years of unprofitable agitation. If politics located the school at Lubbock, what difference does it make whether the board's mind was made up before it ever started on its tour of inspection? The other competing towns which spent thousands and thousands of dollars preparing for the coming of the board on its inspection trip did not lose anything thereby.

Mr. Wright says some of the dissatisfied towns will not send delegations to the Lubbock celebration on the 28th of this month. Abilene hoped to have its trade trippers there when the celebration is staged, but the date for the jubilee was changed and the trippers will visit Lubbock several days in advance of the 28th. However, the Reporter hopes Abilene is well represented at the jubilee.

As the Reporter sees it, nothing is to be gained by raising a row over the college's location. If time proves the unwisdom of the board in selecting Lubbock, it will be time enough then for the rest of West Texas to go before the legislature and demand recognition.—Abilene Reporter.

Motorists Must Obey the Law

Every known means has been used to persuade drivers of motor cars to obey the law and since some absolutely refuse, the officers are going to strictly enforce the law insofar as they are able. If you want to eliminate those wilful law breakers, cooperate with the officers. You can render valuable assistance as it is absolutely impossible for the officers to be witnesses to each and every violation. You are rendering these thoughtless drivers a real service when you report them as they will kill themselves or others if they are not cured.

If you are unfamiliar with the law regulating traffic on streets in the city and public highways you had better study the law and avoid payment of a fine.

Speeding must stop. The law states that automobiles must not be driven at a faster rate than 35 miles per hour on a public highway outside of the limits of a city. Within the city of Big Spring an auto must not be driven faster than 15 miles per hour.

Be sure the headlights and tail light of your car are burning when you are using the streets or highways after nightfall.

Anyone driving a car while under the influence of liquor is guilty of a felony.

The county and city officials are to cooperate in a campaign to eliminate speeding and other violation of the law relative to the operation of motor driven vehicles on our streets and highways. If you want the lives of you and yours protected, cooperate with the officers and help make the streets and highways safe for those who obey the law.

Warnings have gone unheeded and now the law is to be enforced to the limit. It is up to you to back up the officers. Show them that you appreciate their efforts to protect you.

Fine Elberta Peaches Raised Here.
Just to show what kind of fruit, peach trees in Big Spring will produce, Mrs. R. E. Lloyd brought to the Herald office Monday a dozen fine big Elberta peaches raised at their home at 512 Ayford street. These peaches averaged ten and one-half inches in circumference, and they were just as good as they were big. These were the finest peaches we have been treated to this year and we certainly did appreciate the gift.

H. Hamilton of Stanton was a business visitor here Wednesday.

William G. McAdoo

Only by strictest attention to detail and utmost care in calculation was the young engineer McAdoo moved up and up until his great triumph came in building the famous underground tubes for passenger trains into New York.

McAdoo stands today as one of America's successful men and a Presidential possibility in the 1924 election.

Your success may be in hedging the thoughts he expressed recently, which were, in part:

"The character of citizenship is in the exercise of self-control. Thrift is one of the highest types of self-control, because in practicing thrift one has to be master of self at virtually every point of attack. Thrift may be in wise expenditure of funds—or in sound investment—maybe in conceding a temporary loss to realize a permanent gain. Thrift is successful business—no matter whether you be farm hand or bank president."

To achieve success—associate with success. This organization is successful. Its officers can assist you in numerous ways if you will make this your bank and permit them to help you.

Success A Building Job

As the Editor Sees It
Some of us have queer ways of looking at things at times. We focus one eye on an object and close the other lest it discovers something else.

Instead of cultivating our intellects by allowing them to branch out in many ways we hobble them into becoming single track minds. And a single track mind sees but one thing at a time.

As we stroll along the street we see refuse here and there. It is unsightly, and our mind dwells upon that point.

A few minutes later we may be tossing a discarded newspaper into a corner, unmindful of the fact that we are doing the very things that we condemn in others.

We see where an improvement is needed and proceed to roast our local authorities for not having it made.

We grate glowingly to our friends and cronies upon what ought to be done.

We even intimate that if we were the official in question it would be thus and so.

But do we trouble to go to a board meeting and point out these things to the proper authorities, in order that suitable action may be taken.

A single track mind seldom reaches that far.

We wander around town and size up the various homes and their surroundings.

If a fence needs repairing, or a hedge needs trimming, or some rubbish needs removing, we are quick to take it all in. Such conditions are not pleasant, and should be corrected.

But it doesn't occur to us to compare those conditions with the conditions that exist around our own home.

That heap of decaying refuse in our yard is our business. Others should not see it.

We note that our neighbor's dog is afraid of him. Therefore, our neighbor is a cruel man. He should mend his ways.

Our own cat gets under our feet and we kick it out.
But what's that to you? It's our cat. Let it keep out of the way.

Little Miss So and So spends too much time on the streets for a child of her age.

We can not understand what her mother is thinking about. The child will surely come to a bad end. Some mothers are blind to the faults of their own children.

Our child running around too much, you say? How dare you intimate such a thing! Genevieve is perfection personified, the dearest and sweetest child in the world.

What would you have us do? Keep her penned up in a dark room, where she can never see the light of day?

The idea! Some women are just natural born busybodies!

Too Much and Too Little

Too much law—too little respect for it. That seems to be one of the greatest problems with which officials are confronted today.

Congress, state legislatures, city councils, village boards, all seem obsessed with a mania for passing laws—more laws—and still more laws.

The result is, there are so many laws in this country, of one kind or another, the people haven't even a conception of what the majority of them are.

The average citizen knows that he is breaking some kind of a law almost daily without realizing it. He knows also, that nothing is done about it. They are dead letters, never enforced.

This in time leads him to look upon all laws with more or less contempt, or at least with indifference, and especially so with those that interfere with his business or pleasure.

What we need in this country is less laws and more rigid enforcement, with a drastic punishment for the law enforcement officer who neglects to perform his duty.

One-third of the laws we have would be ample, if they were obeyed.

But they will never be obeyed as they should so long as multiplicity creates contempt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Thixton returned last Friday from a several months auto tour, visiting California and points in South Texas. They are glad to be back home once more and state that Texas is the best state in the Union. Mr. Thixton states that Howard County has the best crops, to be noted, except those near the Gulf Coast.

Perhaps you are right, but would you want the other fellow to hand you the same kind of a deal?

A. C. Brigrance and family visited the latter part of last week a visit in Fort Worth and Dallas along the Fort Worth & Dallas to Bowie, and in conversation the Herald man he stated that his place on his four to five mile trip did he see as good as are to be found in Howard County. He also remarked that he had home better pleased than any other in this section of the state.

Scire Facias to Revive a Judgment.

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Howard County—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears from the records of the District Court of Howard County, Texas that John B. Littler recovered a judgment in said Court on the 5th day of September A. D. 1916, against E. T. Tarpley, G. L. Allen, and wife, Ethel Allen, Oattie Estes, Mamie Estes and Marie Estes for the sum of $1400.00 with interest thereon from date till paid at the rate of eight per cent per annum, and cost of suit, in an action on four Vendor Lien Notes in the sum of $196.66, each, signed by E. T. Tarpley, the said judgment also providing for a foreclosure of Vendor's Lien on and against The South East 1-4 of Section No. 10 in Block No. 34, Tsp. 1 North, Certificate No. 2156, T. & P. Ry. Company Survey, in Howard County, Texas, and provided for an Order of Sale to be issued directed to the Sheriff or any Constable of Howard County directing said officer to levy on said land and sell same and apply the proceeds to the payment of said judgment;

And whereas, it appears from the records of said court that said Judgment remains wholly unsatisfied and that an Order of Sale and Execution has not issued thereon within twelve months after the rendition thereof; and whereas the records of said court show that Grace Hollis Price is now the owner of said Judgment as shown by written transfer filed with the papers of said cause and the said Grace Hollis Price has applied to this court praying that said judgment be revived and that same have the same force and effect as it had when originally rendered and that an Order of Sale on and against said land be issued on said Judgment, that is now dormant—

Now, therefore, you are hereby commanded to summon E. T. Tarpley, G. L. Allen, and his wife, Ethel Allen, Oattie Estes, Marie Estes and Mamie Estes, and their unknown heirs, if any, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Howard County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof in Big Spring, Texas, on the First Monday in September A. D. 1923, same being the 3rd day of September A. D. 1923, then and there to show cause, if any they have, why the said Judgment should not be revived and show why an Order of Sale should not issue thereon, authorizing the sale of said land to satisfy said Judgment as same is of record in this court in Vol. 3, Pages 432, 433 and 434 Minutes of this Court according to the force, form and effect of said Judgment as originally rendered; and further, to do and receive what our said court shall then and there consider of them in this behalf.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness J. I. Prichard, Clerk of The District Court of Howard County, Texas.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, in the City of Big Spring, this the 30th day of July A. D. 1923.

the sudden removal of Mr. Harding thrown a monkey wrench into the republican machinery—like the democratic works. Each would-be president of both is working and scheming separately to be the one to pull out the wrench and start the machinery working again—his way. The republicans are up in the air all bets are off. And because they are unable to forecast the probable actions of the republicans, the democrats are also floundering in the sea of political uncertainty.

Brown Items

The parties at Mr. Fitts' and Mr. Jefferson's last week were both well attended and enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shortes lent their presence to Lamesa last Friday during the barbecue. They report a big crowd and lots of eats, although Mr. Shortes says there was so much salt on the barbecue that he could eat only eleven sandwiches.

A week's meeting began Sunday at eleven, with Bro. C. B. Thompson of the Methodist Church, as leader. There has been several conversions already, and we are expecting great things before the meeting closes. Everybody is invited to come and be with us.

We held our weekly singing at the school house Sunday, at three o'clock. Quite a nice crowd of folks were there and had a jolly time.

J. D. Owens arrived Saturday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Brown. He was accompanied by his mother, J. D., who will remain here for three months.

Other familiar faces at the Lamesa table were Miss Anderson Epps and children. Also we noticed Miss Orlan Shortes, Miss Ethel Brown and Orlan Shortes. We know they all had a good time. We would have.

We have had heavy showers the last day or two and all the crops are showing the good effects, already, and the more it rains the bigger crops we have at church, which is as it should be. XXX

Surprise Birthday Party

Miss Margaret Happel delightfully entertained a number of young friends last Friday evening, with a surprise birthday party in honor of her sister, Mary Happel, who returned that evening from a month's visit in Pecos.

Games and dancing were the pastime of the evening and at a late hour delicious refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, olives, ice tea, ice cream and cake, were served.

Those enjoying Miss Happel's hospitality were: Allan Bunker, Dona Carter, Elizabeth Northington, Virginia Whitney, Mamie Hair, Elizabeth and Patti Burns, Dorothy and Louise Jordan, Frances McNew, Marva Carter, Edith Dow Cordill, Joe Ward Jr., Jack Hodges Jr., Alfred Lacey, Tom Jordan Jr., and Harold Blue.

Spirit of Texas

If you go to Boston they will ask you "What do you know?" Go to New York and they will ask you, "How much you got?" Go to the southern states and they will ask you, "Who was your grandfather?" Go to the northwestern states and they ask you, "Where did you come from?" But come to the southwest, and, in extending the hand of welcome, you are asked, "What can you do?" This is the typical spirit of the west. It is what is making for the "winning of the west." And few are the people coming west who do not catch that spirit and lend their energy toward this great consummation.—Littlefield Leader.

It Pays to Advertise—But!

A lion met a tiger
As they drank beside a pool.
Said the tiger, "Tell me why
You're roaring like a fool."
"That's not foolish," said the lion.
With a twinkle in his eyes,
"They call me king of all the beasts.
Because I advertise."
A rabbit heard them talking
And ran home like a streak.
He thought he'd try the lion's plan
But his roar was a squeak.
A fox came to investigate—
Had luncheon in the woods.
So when you advertise, my friend,
Be sure you've got the goods.

Gosh, That's Fine

It doesn't make any difference whether we agree about our religion, politics or lodges or not, that does not license us to be enemies or even unfriendly. It is part of the unalienable right of Americans to disagree over these matters, but that does not mean that we must slice each other in the dark. Let us learn from the examples of Christ that while we may hate sin, we must love even the sinner.—Brownfield Herald.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablets Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Advertisement 41-18t).

Presbyterian Auxiliary Meeting

A business meeting of the Presbyterian Auxiliary will be held at the church next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

This is an important meeting and every member is urged to be present.

A. G. Barkowsky after a few days visit at his ranch near Sparenberg left Monday for a business trip to Runnels County. He is assisting his brother-in-law in the sale of his farm in Runnels County so he can move to the Sparenberg country. Mr. Barkowsky states that the drought and crop pests have certainly cut down the yield of cotton and feed in Runnels County.

Jim Robinson in Munday from his farm north of town states that he has some cotton waist high and as fine looking cotton as you would care to see. He states it is hard to tell how much it is going to make as cotton pests are in that section and they may do much damage.

A new grocery and meat market is to be opened on the highway, in the north part of the city by A. H. Bugg and Joe Davis. A new building has been erected and a stock of goods is now being purchased so they can open for business at once.

Geo. J. Ruth, minister of the First Christian Church, with Mrs. Ruth and Mrs. Mary E. Russell will leave Tuesday for Colorado Springs to attend the International convention of the Disciples of Christ. They expect to return about Sept. 12th.

Of course, our neighbors may be as full of faults as we are of prunes, but talking about them won't correct them.

Time to Sell Cows: It Is Time to Buy Cows

There have developed in the weeks not altogether to the concern of the farmer so far as concerned. Thousands of farmers have anticipated returns from their cotton crop that now are impossible for them to realize. When periods of this kind come there are always a lot of people that resort to milking cows for cream for a livelihood, a situation in Texas at this time is no exception. The farmer is at a loss as to what to do with his cows. Some of the farmers in the west belt. Many people that would sell their cows that do not have any money to finance them. If they can finance them they will buy. However there are farmers that will find it in position that they will not sell their cows until they have the proper course to pursue. They will sell their cows and at a price they will be cutting off a revenue they can use in milking and selling cream. It is a mistake to sell cows to a dealer because under present conditions they will be sold at a sacrifice. A part of their worth, but a small part of their worth, and not only a loss in selling but the possible revenue thru cream will be destroyed.

Why Home Industries Should be Patronized

The people as a whole in every community should stand together and help each other if they desire the greatest possible prosperity. All the money in any one community should so far as practical be spent in that community. Residents of Pecos claim the merchants are "holding them up" on prices, and send to the mail order house for their goods. The merchants of Pecos can get printing a wee bit cheaper from the mail order house and sends the greater portion of their orders there. Everyone is crying "hard times" and "poor collections." Even under more favorable circumstances this would be the case. If our town is to grow bigger and better our people must be prosperous and they can never do this so long as they send their money to the mail order houses for goods which our merchants and printers can furnish. Of course every business is entitled to a reasonable profit on his wares and this he must have if he prospers. The public say that they can save money by buying from the mail order house; the merchant sends his orders for printing away for the same reason; and the town is "blowed up," so to speak. There is one way to better conditions now even in these distressing times, and that is for every mother's son of us to patronize home industries and so far as possible keep the little money we have in circulation in our home town.

Along this line of thought the following editorial which was awarded first prize by the Colorado Editorial Association is worth reading:

The prize was offered by the Dry Climate Ink and Roller Co. Do manufacturers generally appreciate what the local newspapers do for the community in their efforts to encourage industrial development and make a better market for the factory output? Read what editor Byrnes says in the Pueblo, Colorado Indicator:

"When a resident of any city, town or community makes the casual remark that he cannot see why he should buy of home merchants or show a preference for home manufactured goods he sets the more thoughtful individual to thinking, and he is apt to think along straight lines. He has heard a strange sentiment expressed that wakes him up, and he is apt to reflect somewhat after this fashion:

"Now, if all the citizens in this town talked and felt as this man does we could not and would not have much of a town, and neither community nor state would be getting just returns for the expense and trouble it has gone to in building up the community, and for the civil government it has established for safeguarding the lives and property and other interests of its citizens. It would not be receiving just compensation for providing schools and parks and jobs for the wage earners and business for the merchants to enable them to make a good living. Such a man is not giving the value received for what he gets out of the community of common interests.

"On the other hand the home-patronage and home-industry proposition works something like this: If the local merchant neglects or refuses to reciprocate in patronizing those who patronize him he is not doing his fair share, either. If he does not buy his boxes, brooms and mattresses, for instance, of the home manufacturer, and sends his orders away for such goods he gets the goods, to be sure, but the out-of-state firm gets the money, and thus it is taken out of the home circulation market and it lessens the wealth of the community by just that much.

"And, moreover, the box and broom makers, the mattress makers, and the proverbial butcher, the baker and the candle stick maker is deprived of so much needed employment, and it hurts, for the local laborer and salaried person in town has less money to spend with the grocer, the clothier, the dry goods man and everyone else in business; and so because a link in the chain of natural trade has been broken the entire chain of economics is made weaker and less efficient.

"It works the same when a family sends its orders off to Squeers, Saw-buck & Co., or other big mail catalogue houses in Chicago for household supplies, the struggling home merchant, or jobber, and the state manufacturer or jobber is deprived of his legitimate trade, but he is called upon just the same to contribute to a multitude of small benevolences and enterprises, and he must submit without protest to being plucked about every so often and occasionally in between times.

"So let it be understood that the business man is a very useful and necessary adjunct to any community, for he not only affords employment to others but he is among the heaviest of taxpayers of the home government for offensive and defensive purposes, so that he is entitled to consideration and support. It is thus seen that home patronage has its selfish side and its loyal side that appeal to us both going and coming.

poses, so that he is entitled to consideration and support. It is thus seen that home patronage has its selfish side and its loyal side that appeal to us both going and coming.

"Reciprocity is a grand and noble institution when made to work both ways. It then falls upon the community like manna from heaven. It radiates a sustaining and soothing influence upon all persons and interests alike. It is a human sort of sentiment that needs to be more generally as well as more generously applied. It is the Golden Rule applied to home building and business affairs. It relates to everybody and everything.

"If the rule were more universally observed there would be bigger and better home and state mercantile, manufacturing and jobbing concerns, more employment and lower taxes, and there would be fewer voluminous dog-eared catalogues of the big out-of-state mail order houses in use." Pecos Enterprise.

Dangers in the Dark

Did you ever observe the anxiety and solicitude of a flockmaster when a lamb fails to come to the bedding grounds with the flock at night? Did you ever see him and his friends search every nook and cranny in the hills and valleys for that stray lamb and on the morrow find a few bones and some bloody grass to tell him that a murderous minded coyote had met his lamb and destroyed it?

There is mounting in hot haste, and the cry of the hounds awakes the echoes of the hills on the trail of the murderer. Traps are set, poison scattered, rewards offered and everything is done to destroy the coyote and avenge the murder of an innocent lamb.

Did you ever observe the carelessness and lack of solicitude and parental admonition on the part of a mother and father when their daughter who is just budding into young womanhood goes out of the door of the home and enters an automobile with a man and vanishes away in the dark to where God and they only know? When girls fail to return at the proper time, is there mounting in hot haste, and does the cry of the pursuer awake the echoes? When that girl is dropped down at the doors of the parental home, bedraggled and bereft of all that life holds sacred, is there poison distributed and are there traps set to destroy the coyote which murdered their lamb?

When that coyote comes again and again to feast upon that which remains of that once pure lamb which he has destroyed during the dark hours of the night, does mother and father raise a protesting finger against his coming?

But if that girl was a little ewe lamb, and they saw her stray out into the dark among the coyotes is it not a fact that they would drive her back and if she refused to stay they would hogle her and force her to stay away from the destroyers? Is it not a fact that if that coyote came again they would shoot him dead?

Then tell me why is it that people are so careful with their sheep and so careless with their girls? Why will they take no chances to lose a sheep and take all kinds of chances to lose their girls? Why is it that they will kill the four-legged coyote and let the two-legged ones go free?

One mother will say, "Oh, my girls are all right, they are able to take care of themselves. I don't believe in keeping girls penned up at night, besides, it is not stylish, and they might as well be dead as out of style." My sister, did it ever occur to you that your girl is flesh and blood—warm blood? That instead of warm blood, coursing through their veins, ice water took its place, and she was as passionless as a marble statue, that no man would seek her companionship? In that case, she would be safe, but as long as she is a normal human creature, endowed with human desire, she needs your restraint and admonition which experience has taught, you should be exercised by the mother of every girl!

I know this is a delicate subject my sister on which to write, but my dear, it is not right to give the coyote the opportunity to destroy your girl. It is no more right to allow your daughter to go out alone with a man in the night unrestrained, than it is for the flockmaster to allow a lamb to stray at night among the coyotes. In either case, the girl and the lamb ought to be restrained to keep them safe.

God put this girl in your keeping. Like the lamb, she may want to leave the flock and roam, but it is your holy duty to see that she is safe in the fold at night, and if thru your neglect of duty you allow the coyotes to destroy her her blood will be on your soul.—Sterling City News-Record.

The National Bonfire

Fire loss in Kansas for 1922 was $9.17 per capita, nearly twice national average of $4.75 per capita. Great Britain's loss per capita was 72 cents.

The question is often raised as to the reason for higher or lower fire insurance rates in different cities and in the foregoing figures we have the answer.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has for years been collecting data on every fire loss reported by a stock fire insurance company in the United States.

The National Board has nothing to do with making rates or in any way operating the affairs of insurance companies. It simply collects and compiles irrefutable facts on fires and makes this information available for any person in the country.

The result is that the making of fire insurance rates is not a matter of guess work. If Kansas City permits greater fire hazards within its borders than does Omaha or Chicago, its insurance rates will be higher than cities which eliminate to the greatest extent the possibility of fires.

No fire is too small to escape the records of the National Board office if an insurance loss is paid on it. The result is that every town in the United States has its fire history recorded. Not only that, but the National Board surveys every city of any size, makes a chart of the city showing the possibilities for fire, provisions for fighting fire, including water systems, fire departments, etc.

This work is done gratis to the city and every assistance offered fire departments of city officials in pointing out how to better protect the city with the idea of eliminating fires and reducing rates.

With such assistance offered, it is a marvel that so many cities fail to avail themselves of it and continue year after year to pile up staggering fire losses.

As the Editor Sees It

Here is something for President Coolidge to look into, if he desires to do the country a signal service.

When wheat and corn are ripe and ready for market the price is forced down by the board of trade gamblers in foodstuffs.

When the farmer has sold his wheat and his corn, and the gamblers are in control of it, the price goes up again.

Somebody makes a mint of money out of the fluctuations in price, but it isn't the farmer who raises the wheat and the corn. The profits go into the pockets of the gamblers who manipulate the prices.

Mr. Coolidge can do nothing better during his term of office to launch and conduct a campaign to put an end to gambling in the necessities of life.

Those grasping oil refiners who adopted a "dog in the manger" and voted to close down their refineries for a month rather than reduce the price of gasoline have started something—something they would now like to stop, but apparently can not.

The governors of several states have entered the game and are arranging to sell gasoline at greatly reduced prices, securing the gas from independent refineries.

The governors would do well to go to even greater lengths. They should establish state filling stations as permanent institutions, thereby protecting the consumers from gasoline pirates who know only the law of gouge.

Sometimes we hear people complain bitterly over conditions that prevail in this country. But complaining is all that a majority of them ever do.

Conditions are just what we make them, or allow them to be made.

Complaining does no good, because no attention is paid to it.

Action would do good, because action produces results.

People who are unwilling to act should not complain.

Of late people have been endeavoring to accomplish the feat of swimming the English channel. A few have succeeded.

But what have they gained? Of what good is it to humanity?

True, they received a few lines in the newspapers for a day. They may also strut around and be stared at by the morbidly curious. Or perhaps they will be able to get a job in a dime museum or in a third-rate side show.

Beyond that their splendid strength and endurance has been wasted.

If God had intended men to swim the ocean He would have provided humanity with fins.

Occasionally we hear of men who never use harsh words to their families.

They never deny their wives anything the latter desire.

They never dictate, or seek to control their actions in any way.

They are not stingy, neither are they spendthrifts.

They are model husbands.

They are also dead.

Are You Willing to Pay the Price of Success?

Somebody has said, "Success comes in cans; failures in cant's." I have a clipping on my desk—I don't know who is the author—which reads as follows:

"Success is sold in the open market. You can buy it—I can buy it—any man can buy it who is willing to pay the price for it. Are you willing to pay the price? How much discouragement can you stand? How much bruising can you take? How long can you hang on in the face of obstacles? Have you the nerve to attempt things that the average man would never dream of tackling? Have you the persistence to keep on trying after repeated failures? Can you cut out luxuries? Can you do without things that others consider necessities? Can you keep your mind steadily on the single object you are pursuing, resisting all temptations to divide your attention? Are you strong on the finish as well as quick at the start?"

And all this reminds me of twelve rules of success that I read in a church paper nearly thirty years ago, copied down on an old sheet of foolscap at the time, and have kept ever since. The heading is simply "Twelve Rules from the President of the London Chamber of Commerce." Who that "President of the London Chamber of Commerce" was I don't know, but of course he was a business man of distinguished success or he would not have occupied that position. Here are his twelve rules which I have never seen published in any book or paper for about thirty years now, but which I think exceedingly good:

1. Have a definite aim.
2. Go straight for it.
3. Master all details.
4. Always know more than you are expected to know.
5. Remember that difficulties are only made to be overcome.
6. Treat failures as stepping-stones to further efforts.
7. Never put your hand out farther than you can draw it back.
8. At times be bold: always prudent.
9. 'Men say.' What do they say? Let them say.
10. Make good use of other men's brains.
11. Listen well, answer cautiously, decide promptly.
12. Preserve by all means your power: 'A sound mind in a sound body.'—Clarence Poe, in The Progressive Farmer.

What Will Your Boys and Girls Make of Themselves?

"Are you going to college?"

This question was recently asked a young man who had just completed his high school course with a good record and who is prepared to enter either his state university or his state college of agriculture with full credits for the freshman class. Without a moment's hesitation he replied: "No, sir! I'm going to work. It takes a lot of money for a fellow to get on these days. I can't afford to spend four years in college."

"What work will you do?" he was asked.

"I don't know. You see, I'm looking for a job now."

"What kind of a job are you looking for?" was the next question.

He had become more serious but was not prepared for the next question.

"Why, anything I can get, if it pays enough."

"What can you do? What experience, what training, have you had?"

Further questions brought out the fact that this boy's parents had not asked or encouraged him to prepare for any definite lifework, and that only in the most vague way did he himself have any predilection or leaning toward any specific occupation, vocation, business, or profession. His one ambition is to "get a job." Without an engine, sail, rudder, or compass, he is chafing to embark upon the sea of life with no chart and no chosen port.

And so it is with thousands of young men and women from one to the other end of our Southland. Their greatest life problem, if they but knew it, is to find themselves, to have a definite purpose in life, and to prepare for its attainment. When boys or girls can be brought to the point of seriously considering their future and decide upon some definite lifework, they are preparing to solve their greatest problem, that of deciding what they will make of themselves.—The Progressive Farmer.

Cotton Leaf Worm
Cotton foliage is attacked by many insects, some of which are of small importance, while others, such as the leaf worm, "beetles," and grasshoppers often become a serious menace to the crop.
At this season of the year the leaf worm, commonly known as the cotton army worm, is making its appearance. The worms are of various colors, some being yellowish green, without any prominent stripes, others have a black stripe down the back with a fine yellow stripe in the center. When full grown the larvae web together one or two leaves to form a cocoon. These worms attack only cotton and do not enter the ground to pupate, hence cultivation and destruction of weeds are useless as a control measure.
When the worms appear late in the season, the resulting defoliation is often beneficial, as it causes the fruit to ripen more quickly and cuts off the food supply of the weevil.
The leaf worms are appearing early enough this season to inflict serious damage, especially to the late cotton. It will probably be advisable in a majority of cases to dust the cotton with powdered arsenate of lead at the rate of from four to six pounds per acre, depending upon the size of the plants. The poison should be applied early in the morning while the leaves are still wet with dew. Application may be made by the pole and bag method or by the use of one of the numerous dusting machines now on the market. This poison will be effective against any other leaf eating insects of cotton.
Calcium arsenate (arsenate of lime) has been used with success as a poison for leaf worms. It is hard to get this poison locally, but if it can be obtained it will be much cheaper than the arsenate of lead. It is of such texture that it is almost impossible to make it dust through a bag and can only be applied efficiently with a dusting machine. Under no circumstances should Lon-

We still contend that Howard County should have agricultural exhibits at the Fairs in the north and east as well as at the Fairs that are to be held in Texas this fall. Sunday the Christian Endeavor of the Christian Church met to have their meeting but I am sorry to say we did not have the crowd we should have had.

Some of the Endeavorers say they came but no one was there so they did not stay. If you happen to get there a few minutes ahead of time don't leave, stay some one will come in a short time. I know the weather is not as we would like for it to be but don't let that keep you away. The hot weather won't hurt you if you shine for Jesus.

Sunday we will meet at our regular time. When? Seven o'clock sharp. Don't forget where. First Christian Church. Who is our leader? Miss Dorothy Brown. I assure you she has a good program. For me being around when she made it out, I know. The topic is lesson in school prayers.

If you don't know how to pray, come and find out. If you do know how to pray, come and help those that don't. There is nothing like helping someone else.

Come at seven Sunday evening and bring someone with you. You will get something good out of the program, so come and be on time.

Reporter.

Sees Progress in Farm Ads

"I am interested in one development as I look over the papers, and that is the increasing number of advertisements from the farmers. Half page and even page announcements of farm public sales are replacing the poster so long used. I dare say the results are more satisfactory."

"Farmers advertising is a field that is just being opened. I have known of farmers driving ten miles to market his seed corn when his neighbor wanted it and would have bought it had he known it."

"The farmer will find that he can sell his goods through advertising as profitably as any other business man. Each farm should have its name, its brand of goods and its own stationery. Think it over."—A progressive farmer in Lake Wilson Point.

Burying the Hatchet

Minneapolis and St. Paul are famous rivals. They decided to end animosities by getting together at a great dinner, according to Forbes Magazine. A prominent citizen of Minneapolis in a very forcible manner emphasized the twin cities and urged that they become a united city.

When he had finished, a gentleman from St. Paul arose and stated that there was just one question he wanted to ask. "What shall we name the united city?"

The gentleman from Minneapolis arose and after considerable thinking, said, "I would name it Minnehaha—'Minne' for Minneapolis and 'Ha' Ha' for St. Paul."—The Christian Register (Boston).

Oh, Wonderful Horse

O, horse, you are a wonderful thing; no buttons to push, no horn to honk; you start yourself, no clutch to slip, no spark to miss; no gears to strip; no license buying every year, with plates to screw on front and rear; no gas bills climbing up each day; no speed cop chugging in your rear, yelling summons in your ear. "Your inner tubes are all O. K. and thank the Lord they'll stay that way; your spark plugs never miss and fuss; your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile, your body never changes style. Your wants are few and easy met; you've something on the auto yet."—Literary Digest.

Sergeant, Do Your Duty

He was on sentry duty for the first time. An officer approached. "Halt, who goes there?" he shouted.

"Officer of the day." And the officer continued his round. But he hadn't gone far when the sentry shouted again, "Halt, who goes there?"

The officer halted and looked back furiously.

"What's the idea," he snarled, "halting me twice like this? What's the idea?"

"Never you mind about the idea?" said the sentry. "My orders is to call 'Halt' three times, and then shoot."—Tit-Bits.

Tolerance de Luxe

The wit or wag who got away with the following bit of humor gives our idea of tolerance de luxe, ne plus ultra, ad infinitum, and e pluribus unum.

Says the aforesaid wag: "My idea of tolerance is a baseball game between the Ku Klux and the Knights of Columbus with a degro umpire, and the proceeds of the game for the benefit of the Jewish Relief Fund." Texas Highway Magazine.

"It Is Time To Milk"
It is of record that once upon a time an Irishman stole a watch and a Dutchman stole a cow. Both were caught and lodged in jail in adjoining cells. Time passed slowly and became tiresome under the conditions.

To break the monotony and to twit the Irishman, the Dutchman said, "Pat, vat time it is," and, characteristic of his nationality, Pat replied, "It is toime to milk."

It is legend that there came a time in the history of Denmark when, as a nation, poverty and seemingly insurmountable indebtedness started her in the face when the one great problem was that of restoring national solvency.

Then it was that Denmark decided it was time to milk, and from that day to this Denmark has advanced in prosperity until she ranks among the richest countries per capita and as the most noted producer of dairy products.

Such is the significance of Pat's reply, "It is toime to milk," applied to nations.

It is no secret that in the early days of Wisconsin wheat was grown continuously year after year until wheat would no longer grow profitably, nor would any other farm crop.

The question of what to do arose and the reply was, "It is time to milk."

Recently, in an address to bankers, the head of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Northwest made the statement that in Wisconsin there was not one of the 990 banks delinquent, and that they had sent more than $50,000,000 into the Chicago district during the year past; and this during a period when states that were practicing other forms of agriculture almost to the exclusion of dairying were clamoring for credit.

Such is the significance of Pat's reply, "It is toime to milk," applied to states.

A community in North Dakota recently experienced its sixth consecutive crop failure. One crop failure would ordinarily suffice to discourage most sections, but not the stout-hearted men of this community, because:

In the early days of crop failures, when the inevitable question of what to do was propounded, some one said, "It is time to milk," and in the year just referred to the average gross income from 17 farms in the crop failure district was $2,325.83.

Strange as it may seem, these men, under the worst farming conditions, enjoyed greater prosperity than their fellow farmers in sections of the State that had bumper farm crops.

Such is the significance of Pat's reply, "It is toime to milk," as it applies to communities.

John W. Newman, former Commissioner of Agriculture of Kentucky, has eight farms operated by tenants. During the war the price of tobacco was high and these tenants specialized to the extreme in growing the weed. Mr. Newman says they profited to the extent that each of them became worth from $4,000 to $5,000. But, a little later, when the price of tobacco dropped, they lost all they had made and began borrowing money from him.

After loaning them a total of $3,000, Mr. Newman called them together and said, "Not another cent will I loan you. I will place on each of your farms 10 cows, 8 sows and 100 chickens, and, if you can't make money off the farms, you can't make it."

In other words, he told them, "It is time to milk."

Continuing, Mr. Newman says, "Since that time those tenants are coming to me with money instead of for money."

Such is the significance of Pat's reply, "It is toime to milk," as it applies to individuals.

From every section of the United States has been coming the cry that farm crops are selling below cost of production and yet the individual, the community, the state or the nation that is milking good cows, breeding up productive herds and caring for them well is prospering.

Compared with prices of all other farm commodities and on the basis of cost of production, the prices of dairy products have been nearly as high since the war as they were at any time during the war.

Further arguments are unnecessary to carry the conviction that of all times within the memory of the present generation the hour has arrived when to every man who farms there is much significance in Pat's reply, "It is toime to milk."

What Is Success?
What is success? And whenever I am asked this question, I always think of Canon Farrar's declaration: "There is only one failure possible in life and that is not to be true to the best one knows."
Conversely we may say, the only true success consists in being true to the best we know—the best we know in our work and in our conduct. This sort of success is within the reach of everybody. It doesn't depend on genius or natural ability. It is just a matter of resolutely, persistently, and unceasingly making the best of our opportunities as they come to us. The only real success, like the only real failure, is inside a man. "He who fails bravely has not truly failed but is himself also a conqueror."
To be true to the best we know in our work and in our conduct—that, in short, is the one ever-open road to success that anybody can travel, regardless of wealth or health or talent or race or creed or color. Somebody once tried to sell a farmer a book on modern agriculture. "I don't need it," answered the farmer, "I already know how to do a great deal better than I do do." That is the trouble with most of us. It is not lack of opportunity so much as failure to use the opportunities that are really ours.—Clarence Poe, in The Progressive Farmer.

Do you know what the teachers say of us behind our backs? I'll tell you. They say, 'It's pretty hopeless trying to educate children when the people who need the education are their parents.' "But let me whisper something in your ears. The teachers need educating, too! Parents need educating up to this idea, that the more a parent is a teacher, the better the child's education will be. And teachers need education up to the idea that the more a teacher is a parent, the better the education given in the school. And that is why both parents and teachers are meeting together today." And so in Texas. We parents and teachers are getting together.

Consolidation of Railroads

Article 4—Texas and the Consolidation of Railways.

The tentative plan which was put out by the Interstate Commerce Commission about two years ago in order to provoke criticism and to encourage the roads and the public to come before the Commission and give testimony, or as the lawyers would say, to make a record, upon which the Commission could base its findings, proposes that Texas should be served by four systems, the Santa Fe, the Southern Pacific-Rock Island, the Missouri-Pacific, and the Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt. The people of Texas, both those favoring consolidation and those opposed, have objected to these proposed systems. It is felt that if the Rock Island be merged with the Southern Pacific that the Southern Pacific may lose interest in Texas ports upon the Atlantic seaboard and that we may not have in Texas water compelled rates as in the past. Communities like Port Arthur object to the proposed Missouri-Pacific combination because the Missouri-Pacific is financially interested in New Orleans, and since the Kansas City Southern is given in the tentative plan to the Missouri Pacific, Port Arthur fears that the Missouri Pacific would route its tonnage to New Orleans and would not be as much interested in developing Texas ports. The tentative plan of consolidation proposes to give the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway to the Santa Fe. This is objectionable to most of the people served in Northwest Texas by these properties. Heretofore, as new counties and areas have developed on the Plains in the Northwest part of the State, the Santa Fe and the Denver, each has constructed a feeder or short line to protect its interest in the territory. If the Denver should be given to the Santa Fe, there would no longer be any incentive to build these short lines for all of the freight whether it should go east or west by truck would have to go out, or be brought in on the Santa Fe, if the Santa Fe owned the Denver. The Denver is now owned by the Burlington interests, which also own a half interest in the Trinity & Brazos Valley. The Burlington interests want to come into and across Texas to the Gulf and they strenuously object to being deprived of the Denver and losing their outlet to the Gulf of Mexico. It would certainly be of advantage to Texas to have a strong system like the Burlington come into the state as a competitor to such properties as the Santa Fe.

The Frisco, the Katy and the Cotton Belt are parallel and competing lines out of St. Louis and Kansas City into Texas points. The consolidation of these roads will eliminate competition that has long existed and will not constitute a system strong enough to stand up by the side of the Union Pacific, the Burlington, or the Southern Pacific, or Santa Fe. That is to say, such a system would merely perpetuate the problem of the weak road, for rates that would be sufficient to sustain the Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt would bring upon the prosperity to the strong systems of the West and rates that would bring a fair return to the strong systems would bankrupt the weaker Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt system.

The people in the Southwest part of Texas are also strenuously opposed to the consolidation of the San Antonio & Aransas Pass with the Southern Pacific.

Since Congress has commanded that the Interstate Commerce Commission prepare this plan for consolidation, and since there are powerful financial interests and political interests that are opposing any modification of the law, and since we do not know what the Courts will finally hold with reference to its constitutionality, it is necessary that we in Texas play safe, that is, we must get from the Interstate Commerce Commission as favorable a plan as possible, for the plan put out by the Interstate Commerce Commission may possibly be sustained and under it the railroads may consolidate in spite of all that the opponents of consolidation may do. That being true, Texas is demanding of the Interstate Commerce Commission very radical changes in its tentative proposal. For example, it is asking that whatever great systems are created west of the Mississippi river that they shall be brought into and across Texas; that the proposed Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt consolidation be abandoned and that these properties be used to bring such roads as the Union Pacific and the Burlington into Texas.

In that way existing competition would be preserved and the great systems would be interested in Texas and would seek to develop their Texas properties, and would encourage the agricultural, commercial, and industrial development of the State. That would be an infinitely better plan than the tentative one which would fix upon the Southwest two relatively weak systems that give no promise during this generation of being able to compete with the strong systems. In fact, we might have to look forward to bankruptcies, receiverships, and the unsatisfactory service attending the financial failure of railroad companies. Moreover, modifications such as requested in the plan would bring across Texas much heavier tonnage than would be possible under the tentative plan, and this would encourage the rapid improvement of roadbeds, of equipment, and of service.

The Schemes for Leveling Possessions

Schemes for taking property out of the hands of the rich usually are prompted by the idea that they have more than they need while other people have less than they need. The property which is available for distribution, however, for the most part, is productive property, i. e., property whose value consists in the production of a stream of goods entering into general consumption. It is an abundance of these consumptive goods that is of real importance, and that depends upon the skill, knowledge and ability with which the productive properties are managed. Under the existing competitive system property tends to increase in the hands of the people most competent to manage it and make it productive, and this is desirable from the standpoint of the less competent, as well as of the more competent, because it increases the general supply of consumable goods. It would be very satisfactory to have a more equal distribution of wealth, provided it signified that the masses of the people were rising to the intelligence and capabilities of the leaders, but otherwise it would be unfortunate, because production would be diminished.

It has been shown over and over again, by calculations which cannot be disputed, that an equal distribution of the national income would not give every head of a family as much as the average skilled worker now receives. There must be some premium for superior service, and when this principle is conceded the theories for improving the common welfare by levelling individual possessions are all found to be illusory.—Texas Outlook.

Advertising Thoughts

In a recent issue of the Gulf Coast Lumberman some keen advertising thoughts were presented and they were so good that we cannot help but reprint a few of them:

"Advertising in a newspaper is merely the delivering of the advertiser's message to the readers of the paper. If you were to telegraph some person for fifty dollars and you did not get it, you wouldn't blame the Western Union would you? Yet the telegraph wire and service is very much like the newspaper. It is a vehicle for delivering the message and that is all that can be expected of it, and the opportunity and the service is what the advertising pays for."

"The advertiser buys an opportunity to tell his story to the readers of the paper. If the readers do not answer, it is because his name or proposition does not appeal to them, or because they have NOT faith in the advertiser. The great benefit that comes from advertising is the moulding of favorable public opinion about the advertiser. Ask any man, woman or child in New York City which is the best jewelry store in town and the reply will be—'Tiffany's.' And what has Tiffany done to gain this favorable opinion? It has built a business along lines that met with the respect of the public, and then sent the public a message so continuously covering a period of years in accord with the ideas that Tiffany stands for. It is the confidence and respect of the public backed by continuous advertising that has made Tiffany famous."

"When an advertiser tries a paper of established character and reputation, the paper is not on trial. All it has to do is carry the message. The entire burden is on the advertiser."

"Automobiles are supplied nowadays with everything except intelligence, and the buyer and driver must furnish that. An advertising medium, also, is simply the perfectly equipped vehicle, and the man who advertises in it must furnish the intelligence for his own advertising."

"Advertising is like a college. Colleges cannot make successes of every man who goes to them. The success of the student does not rest on the college he goes to, but on the student himself. And advertising cannot make a success of every boob merchant."

Some mighty fine advertising thoughts in the above line-up.

In Europe

Denison Herald: About the only thing that prevents war in Europe now is the fact that the nations can not afford it. Nine years of blood and gunpowder, though, does not seem to be enough to extract the greed and selfishness from the continent's people.

Let us be gentle with the Europeans. Let us in our security not forget that the people of Europe are semihysterical. Their nerves are unstrung, they are assailed by a thousand nameless dreads and fears. The great war unsettled their mental habits as well as their economic foundations. Texas is a great and self-reliant commonwealth, but if our State were surrounded by States whose people spoke a different language from ours, whose interests seemed antagonistic to ours, whose soldiers had invaded our soil or whose soils had been invaded by our soldiers, many times in years past—if we believed our State surrounded by actual or potential enemies, would we be as secure in our minds as we happen to be as things are? It is certain that no European nation wants war, but when trade, industry and geography are in flux, when no man knows what startling development a day may bring forth, it is not unreasonable that doubts and suspicions and misgivings should be the rule. What our mighty country, our secure and self-contained country, has failed lamentably in its having declined to assume a responsibility toward Europe which our position and prestige made morally obligatory. By helping others we might have helped ourselves. By isolating ourselves we have seen our best outlet for surplus crops shrivel gradually until we now begin to see that, despite the assurances of misinformed politicians we can not prosperously live to ourselves alone.—State Press in Dallas News.

Railways or Toll Ways

Twice in interviews recently, Henry Ford has declared that there should be a single national railroad system in place of the network of jerkwater financial corporations which take toll along the nation's highways.

Ford says in Colliers Weekly that the government seems to be the one agency in his opinion with powers to establish such a system. Also that it looks as tho the government would do so presently. Ford takes the attitude that the government may not know that it is going to take over the railroads, but that in doing so, it will be fulfilling merely the prophecy in the handwriting on the wall.

Which is very interesting.

In a country so large as ours, with so great a population depending for its very life upon the railroads, it takes but the simplest kind of economics to see the folly of running the railroads as a hundred or more separate units, each fighting for profits for itself and nothing more.

It is plain that it is waste to keep cars idle on sidings in the east when they are needed to carry food from the west, and idle in the south when they are needed to carry fuel in the north, and so on, merely because the cars are supposed to be enroute back to the roads that own them.

Railroad executives who believe so devoutly in private ownership and management may denounce government management as inefficient until their last pound of steam is blown off, but they will find nothing in the much misrepresented inefficiency of the U. S. railroad administration during the war which can compare to the economic waste of private management which actually works the average boxcar but a few months or so out of each year.

What the single national system of railroads could and would do with rolling stock—locomotives, freight cars and passenger coaches alike—would be to shunt equipment around wherever it is most needed by reason of seasons, just as the Pullman company keeps its sleeping cars on the move to places where they are most certain to find passengers.

It is a pretty safe guess that the American people, no matter how much they realize the need of this unified railroad system, will not consent to its formation by private individuals without great restraint. To do so would mean a trust with a strangle hold on the nation such as Wall street in its palmy days never conceived.

It is an equally safe guess that the unified railroad system is coming sooner or later. Henry Ford, himself a railroad owner, realizes that, and says sooner. Shippers, generally tired of paying tolls to the railroad exploiters, understand that it will come and hope sooner. Likewise more than half of the public. And the other half will see more clearly when the smoke screen of propaganda set up by the private railroad exploiters has blown away.

Then we will have railways instead of toll ways.—Fort Worth Press

The High Cost of Justice

Members of the bar associations throughout the country are showing interest in the demands of laymen for a more simplified and less expensive set of rules governing the operation of our courts. Many lawyers have long realized the necessity for reform, and at a bar association meeting held recently in Beaumont, some very timely, and apparently sensible suggestions were offered. Just what will come of these suggestions no one can foretell, but there is encouragement in the fact that it is generally recognized that a reform is greatly needed.

The courts of our land were originally based on the courts of England, the mother country, but we have not made the progress that has been made in that country. Instead of constantly striving to make justice more sure and certain, and to shorten the time taken to dispose of a case, it seems that we have gone just in the opposite direction. Cases that would be disposed of within a very few weeks in England are dragged through a series of new trials, appeals, etc., until years elapse before they are marked off the docket. Only those having influence, or better yet, both influence and money, can afford to seek justice in our courts. Not that our courts can be influenced or that they can be bought, but because they are hopelessly entangled in such a mass of precedent, red tape and rules of procedure that they are forced to witness attorneys apply the wearing out process in order to win their case. No one should seek justice in a Texas court who is unprepared financially to fight through all of the courts of the State and to suffer loss of time because of the various postponements and delays demanded by the attorneys and granted by the courts who fear another reversal at the hands of the higher courts if they take any chances.

It is to be hoped that the bar associations of the land will not only devise means to save time for themselves, but that they will recommend a revision of the rules of procedure and bring about other reforms which will make the courts of this State a poor man's refuge as well as the rich man's haven. When this is brought about there will be more respect for our courts and fewer infractions of the law.—Farm and Ranch.

The Bootlegger

Nearly everybody has it in for the bootlegger. He is regarded as a criminal too far beneath contempt to slander. Yet, in spite of what can be said of him, he has his patrons and his customers. They sustain him, maintain him, succor him, protect him, defend him and become particeps criminis with him by refusing to betray him. They stand by him even to perjury. He gets them into trouble by the stuff he sells them. They get sick for him, they pay fines for him, they die for him. No king ever had subjects with the aggregate of loyalty displayed by those who come under the spell of the bootlegger, the blind pigger. Except for them, he could not exist a week. Except for them, he would have to work for a living. Except for them, their government would save a million a year it now spends trying to catch him. Who, then is the worst sinner against law, the government and society, the bootlegger, or he who buys from him?—Gazett Times.

How fashions do change! A few years ago, it was the fashion for those who wielded vitriolic pens to inveigh against the barkeeper. We painted him as a viceregent of hell, who came to earth with Pandora's box crammed full of all the miseries known to mankind to scatter and destroy the joy and happiness of humanity. We prodded him and bound him and cast him among the things that were.

When he was no more, then came the bootlegger—the legitimate son of Volstead's pipedream which took men as they should be and not what they really are. We prod this poor devil with red hot steel pens. We lay for him and take his last drop. We spend hundreds of millions trying to trap him and make him go to work. There are enough of us who are publicly dry and privately wet to buy his hell broth to make it exceedingly profitable to stay in the game. We cuss him, we pass counterfeit money on him, but—well is the bootlegger anymore a gentleman than the barkeeper? Are we getting a run for our money?—Sterling City News-Record.

Comment

"The Tech is located, but the demand of West Texas for an educational institution to meet the needs of West Texas as a whole is yet to be answered," said a citizen of Abilene Friday, in discussing the location of the Tech.

"Mind you, I'm not kicking particularly because Lubbock got the school. Lubbock's a fine little city. But it is as inaccessible and as far away from the heart of West Texas as are Denton and Austin.

"Texas seems to have a mania for placing its schools around the rim of this great state. Let us see how they're lined up.

"There's the Alpine normal, 75 miles from Mexico; there's Canyon normal, 60 miles from New Mexico; there's Denton Normal and C. I. A. 40 miles from Oklahoma; there's the Commerce normal, 40 miles from Oklahoma; there's the Huntville and Nacodoches normals, over near Louisiana; there's San Marcos normal, 125 miles from the gulf; there are Texas A. & M. and University of Texas, each approximately 125 miles from the Gulf; there's the school of Mines at El Paso, right on the Mexican and New Mexican borders; there's the medical school at Galveston and normal at Kingville, both on the Gulf; and finally, there's the Tech at Lubbock, 75 miles from New Mexico—and we hundred miles from Abilene.

"And what has the great heart of Texas got? Nothing but the John Tarleton College at Stephenville. There is a stretch of territory approximately three hundred and fifty miles each way without a single solitary state educational institution of any sort.

"Yes, sir, I figure we haven't heard the last of West Texas educational affairs yet. The problem remains unsolved, and sooner or later the politicians will have to give us what we want."—Abilene Reporter.

Building

Editorially, the San Angelo Standard suggests using a $125,000 fund raised to bring the cost of their Tech College site within the sum prescribed by the state to build a junior college of their own.

In the Scurry County Times there is a suggestion that a similar fund raised for a similar purpose be used in extension of the Katy railroad from Rotan west.

Similar projects long under consideration are suggested in each of the defeated contestants for the Tech location.

The enthusiasm aroused in West Texas over the Tech competition will not be idly dissipated. Rather, having its original purpose defeated, there will come such a revival of civic enterprise as to make the west more than ever the liveliest portion of the state.

Very commendable was the enterprise displayed in Sweetwater to get the Tech. More commendable still is the attitude displayed since the announcement of the location of the college. The spirit aroused by that competition will result in this city reaching heights never attained under other circumstances. We are sure getting up and going from here. — Sweetwater Daily Reporter.

Out of the Tech agitation there will come great good to West Texas. Now that the question of the location of same has been definitely and forever settled West Texas towns will settle down to real constructive work. West Texas towns will get new visions. West Texas towns have already seen a new vision. All clouds have their silver lining. Everything will work to the good of mankind if he builds right himself. The Lord helps those who help themselves. The Tech agitation is ended—West Texas towns will turn to things more enduring, more steadfast. They will rely on their own resources, and build towns and communities more lasting and upon foundations that will defy time and politics. The Times Editor sees nothing but good to come to West Texas towns. There is no good to come from the standpoint of grumbling about the location of this school. It has been done—let it be forever settled, and the sooner West Texas people forget the incident the better. Speaking for Snyder people they are not one bit downcast over losing the school, but on the other hand determined to do something for themselves. They are a united people—with one purpose.

one thought—to go forward. Sweetwater is the same. Angelo is determined. Abilene is united and her future is already made. Stamford has seen a new vision.

The Times editor is a fatalist in some respects. He is a strong believer in the fitness of things Eternal. We believe that everything works together for good for them that Love and Serve the Lord. Why should not we believe this? The Bible says so. The towns spoken of are Christian towns. They are peopled by God-fearing and God-loving folks. God will lead them—like he will lead and shape the destinies of the Plains country, and all other sections of this grand State and Nation. He is Grand Architect and is continually and eternally shaping the destinies of man and nation. His handiwork is reflected in the splendid West Texas citizenship. His Eternal wisdom and goodness is made manifest when men can become good losers and conquer and put away from them selfishness.

We see great futures for West Texas towns. A new era has dawned upon the people. They are going forward and will reap a great temporal blessing out of the recent agitation and preparation through which they have just passed. — Scurry County Times, Snyder.
