Las Vivarachas Named Winner Of Trophy Given For Good Academic Work

Prexy's Paragraphs

BY BRADFORD KNAPP

In the last issue of the Toreador I said a few things regarding the fundamentals of an education. Let me now discuss these just a little bit further.

New college students appreciate the fact that they are getting their education in more ways than through the formal part of the work they do in college. By formal part, I mean the courses of study, laboratory work, library work, etc.

The intellectual side of education is of very great importance, but there is a social, moral and spiritual side to education which must not be neglected. Of necessity, there is an influence carried over from the formal side of education, which has its bearing upon the student's social development and his moral and spiritual education.

In the main, college students, especially in technical institutions, come out of college with pretty clean lives and good habits, and I believe that the record will show this. The college is not to be credited with all of this result; part of it is due to the family life, the democracy of the student life in such an institution, and in the fine atmosphere of the churches and social life of the student body.

As a student, you owe it to yourself to form habits in college which will be of distinct advantage to you when you come to buck up against every day work and every day life and every day living. A very prominent business man of a certain institution in this country, who is an "eight-year college," he said a man had to be four years in the college and four years out before he was any good. I think he meant by that that some college students have to get rid of the college atmosphere before they can get down to ordinary life and meet its problems squarely.

I am anxious that this should be a "four-year college" where men and women are not spoiled and where they form habits which will permit them to fit into the ordinary affairs of life as quickly as possible after they graduate. To do this, our attitude toward social life, toward religious life, toward establishing a character here in college which will be the kind of a character which we want to carry into the active life after graduation, are of most vital importance.

Hence, our social affairs in college must be always of a very high character. As college men and women, we cannot afford to be permanent students who get the ordinary life of our day and times may tolerate, but which we know to be wrong, radically

In an article in the Toreador for January 12, a statement was made to the effect that Dr. J. B. Reeside, Jr. of the U. S. Geological survey identified and completed descriptions on some new fossils which were found by Dr. Raymond Sidwell of Texas Tech. This state is incorrect.

It was Dr. Sidwell who identified the formations and all credits for the original research belongs to him,

Chetro Kettl Yields Secret Of Ancient Race As Modern Archaeologists Dig There

Dr. W. C. Holden And Party Examines Ruins As Indians And College Students Work To Discover Habits And Ideal Of A Vanished Civilization

BY ELIZABETH DRYDEN TOREADOR STAFF

In the state of New Mexico in the Chaco Canyons there is an old Indian ruin called Chetro Kettl, an ancient pueblo of 400 rooms and an acreage equal to ten modern city blocks. It is the product of an ancient people, a civilization now extinct, and the remaining structures are a key to the history of the section not likely to be under-valued by archeologists.

The past summer, as a part of the trip made through the North Texas Plains and eastern New Mexico, Dr. W. C. Holden and his party of students were taken through Chetro Kettl. Dr. E. L. Hewitt, University of New Mexico archeologist, was their guide, and led them through the newer ruins above ground down to an even older masonry upon which the present walls stand. He showed where his students, side by side with Navajo Indians, were digging, the same as the visitors had done at Tascosa. There were Sun temples, round rock-lined cellars in which were sacrificial altars and stone pillars concealing

Tech C Of C Makes Plans For Pictures

Members Must Have Photos Made By Next Monday; To Meet At Hilton Hotel On January 29

Members of the Tech Chamber of Commerce decided definitely to have individual pictures made for the 1933 La Ventana at a meeting held last Monday evening in room 220 of the ad building.

There has been some discussion as to the kind of picture that should be run in the year book. It was thought that the membership, 37 in all, was too large to have individual pictures, but Everett Fairchild, editor of La Ventana and member of the Tech C. of C. said that such a page could be arranged.

Deadline Is Monday According to Ray Moore, president of the group, all members who want their pictures to go in the annual must have them made before next Monday.

The Tech Chamber of Commerce meets twice a month. The first meeting is in the form of an banquet, the other is a regular business meeting held in room 220 of the ad building. The next meeting will be held at the Hilton Hotel at 6 o'clock Sunday, January 29. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Sammie Marie Hitt was elected head of the finance committee to replace Miss Artelle Appling, who also resigned a short time ago.

The resignation of Miss Howell to the presidency will necessitate the naming of a new publicity chairman, vice president, and sponsor of the freshmen commission. These officers, along with that of treasurer, will be chosen at the next cabinet meeting January 29.

He views all class "A" schools as being equal in the field of general medicine.

WALKING DATES

There seems to be an idea prevailing among the students that "having access to a car" is necessary before a "date" may be taken to an all college dance.

There are a multitude of women in school who would be glad to walk to dances. They understand that the average Tech man does not have a car and cannot get one.

The all college dances are put on for college students. They do not cater to any social group on the campus.

It is up to the men to take the initiative and ask for "walking dates". If the girl refuses, because it is a "walking date", it is all for the best.

INJUSTICE TO STUDENTS

The dance orchestras in Tech have been dreadfully abused. Last year, a college band played for the Matador dance free-of-charge solely because they felt that they could help the cause for which the dance was given in no better way.

The members of the Tech dance bands are students who are making their expenses in school by playing. They

There are many groups both on and off of the campus who are organized for special scholastic or social purposes to help build up Tech and make it better. Usually these groups do not have any need from other groups, but there are times when they must have outside aid.

We use in Chesterfield Cigarettes mild, ripe Domestic and Turkish tobaccos which have been aged and re-aged.

Under The Double "T"

BY GEORGE SPELVIN

Well, right now, the most important thing that comes to mind is how the Matadors came out in that fracas with Sul Ross. After searching through all the athletic department, and the local news sports columns it was finally decided that no reports have been received. It seems that some aspiring radio station would broadcast basketball games. I know of several hundred Tech boys who would be glad to sit before a loud-speaker for an hour to hear how these out-to-town games get along.

For no reason at all, I happened to think of a story in the Avalanche the other day by one of the famous men on the campus. Mr. Ed McKeever is making good in this sports-writing racket and I don't any of you laugh. It's the truth! This McKeever guy is turning some stories that would put an "old hand" to shame. If he keeps the same speed that he has now, it won't be long before he will be giving the Matadors some good publicity in the large newspapers of the country.

While mentioning accomplishments of the boys over at the "Cass" I think of this man Friddy. He is another one of them that crashed the honor roll for the fall term. Maybe if we have enough editions of the Toreador this year, all the men will be given the recognition that they deserve. We run one name and then right after the paper goes to press we hear about another. It's down-right provoking.

And have you seen that boxing class that Tribble is running? He's going to make some fighters out of these Tech men yet. Some of his "boys" put on an exhibition at the basketball game the other night. Looks like we are in for some good entertainment when "Fun Night" season starts.

It won't be long 'till intramural football will be in full swing. All four teams know they will win. That sounds like there will be some hot games going over there behind the Gym.

I nearly forgot to tell you, the sports editor broke down with something or other today and was too sick to write his copy for this column. Now if this don't turn out to be just what you think it should, don't get on him about it. Ole George never let another man suffer for wrong he didn't do. Now, if you think that you would rather read this than the stuff he has been putting out, you might drop around and tell the editor about it and maybe I'll get a regular job.

You know I'll bet that "Pete" isn't looking forward to this season of Formal Dances with much glee. Maybe he's right and then maybe he's wrong, but personally I don't see much harm in letting the boys have a good time while they can. They work plenty hard for it during the fall. But this isn't supposed to be an editorial column, at least that's what the news editor just told me.

Gosh, it looks like I've nearly written a book. Now if you don't like this, just let us know and maybe by next week the sports editor will be well enough to give you some real dope.

In Northern schools, whenever anyone starts to leave early from a basketball game, the remainder of the crowd begins yelling, "stick" and that is usually the end of the attempt. That idea would work at Tech very well. At the last few games, people have started to leave before the tils were over and it is not very encouraging to the players.

Better than a patent medicine for all ailments. It will be here soon. Don't miss it.

Eligibility Is Determined For Student Teams

Moffett Is General Manager Of Intramural Season; To Pick Stars For Varsity; Officials Named

With more than one hundred intramural gridders reporting for duty, the various coaches are sending their charges through intense training sessions in preparation for the first two games to be played Saturday week.

Harold Crites and Bill Teal are to coach the Liberal Arts, retarding champions. Whacker Barton and "Loping Lefty" Solis have charge of the Army eleven. Mentors Elva Baker and Yancy Price will direct the Engineers, while George Langford and Johnny Beauchamp will lead the Aggies through the intramural scramble.

Managers Named
Managers of the four clubs are Howard "Whattaman" Price, Army; Roy Pribble, Aggie; R. E. Johnson, Engineers and Rankin Goode, Liberal Arts. Milton Moffett, varsity quarterback, is general director of the intramural league, with "Bo" Williams acting as head manager.

This year's eligibility rules permit all varsity squadmen and freshmen footballers to participate if they were not out for these teams through Thanksgiving. By this rule, former varsity players are eligible to compete on an intramural basis, thereby strengthening the teams as a whole.

To Give Awards
A pennant will be awarded to the team winning the championship, silver footballs to those picked on the all-star team, and invitations for varsity football practice in the spring to the players showing the most promise.

The 1933 intramural aggregation appear to be more evenly matched than those of last year and competition is expected to be much keener. Last winter the Liberal Arts boasted of such stars as Bob Crawford, Demp Cannon, Mack Scoggins, Billy Bush, Mina Watkins, Johnny Beauchamp, Bert Williams, Colton Welch, and the coaches are none too optimistic as to their chances.

League officials approved are: Chapman and Huffman of Lubbock high school, Herschel Tadioc, "Mule" Davis, Ed Hambricht, Ben F. Condray, James Goodman, Carter, and "Dude" Lassiter. R. C. Pender is the official time keeper.

The complete schedule follows:
Saturday, Jan. 28.
2:00 p. m. Army vs. Liberal Arts.
4:00 p. m. Engineers vs. Aggies.
Saturday, Feb. 4.
2:00 p. m. Liberal Arts vs. Aggies.
4:00 p. m. Army vs. Engineers.
Saturday, Feb. 11.
2:00 p. m. Army vs. Aggies.
4:00 p. m. Engineers vs. Liberal Arts.

Former Professor Has Papers Published In Iomanic Review

Dr. Beck's paper is held as an example for future students of comparative literature history.

'SPEED' MOFFETT HALFBACK

At the recent meeting of intramural players, managers, coaches and other interested persons, "Speedy" Moffett, veteran quarterback and senior liberal arts student, was named as general manager of the intramural football season which is just now getting under way. Moffett urges all students who are athletically inclined, to come out for intramural football and to pit their skill against all comers.

IRC Group Has Debate Monday About Russia

Coker Urges Recognition Of Russia; Clements Presents Reasons Opposing; Pender Summarizes Ideas

"Resolved: That the United States Should Recognize Soviet Russia," was a subject debated at a meeting of the International Relations club last Monday evening from 7 to 8 o'clock, with Glynn Coker, representing the affirmative, and Cannon Clements upholding the negative.

Coker based his case on the contention that recognition of Russia is not inconsistent with our traditional policy of recognizing the government in control in a particular country, and that recognition would facilitate commerce between the two states, and open a new field for American capital.

Clements is Opponent
Clements objected to recognition on the grounds that Russia has not fulfilled her international obligations, in that she has refused to recognize the validity of debts owed to the United States and other governments, and has refused to recognize the principle of International Law, that diplomatic agents should not participate in the internal politics of another nation; but has continued to disseminate her propaganda in the other nations in an attempt to inflict her particular type of government on the rest of the world.

Clements stated "there is no connection between commerce and recognition, as there has been no increase in trade between the countries recognizing Russia since their recognition."

Pender Summarizes
Mr. H. C. Pender, in summing up the remarks made by the debaters, and in clarifying some points of the discussion, said that "although the Russian government has given evidence of stability, in that it had been in undisputed control for over ten years, I do not believe there would be any decided advantage in the United States recognizing them, as any government who refuses to assume the obligations of a member of the family of nations does not merit recognition."

The next meeting of the IRC will be February 6.

Watch for IT! It'll be here soon.

Matadors Rout Fliers 42-26 In Basketball Tilt

Randolph Field Players Defeated; Crews Starts The Scoring For Tech; Stecker, 1931 All-American, Plays

BY ED McKEEVER
Toreador Sports Staff
A well balanced Texas Tech basketball team sunk the highly touted Randolph Fliers 42-26. The Matadors have shown an improvement in each of their previous games, but they seem to have reached a peak in team play against the fliers.

Alvin Crews started the scoring for Tech just after the tip-off, when he worked the ball in for a crisp shot. Again Crews made a field goal, then a free throw. But Ray Stecker took things in hand and dropped two pretty one handed shots in succession from the side of the court. Will Gilmore hit one from the free throw line, and Polk Robison followed with a crisp shot. Stecker and Abell scored for the fliers. Harvey Dunn hit a long one for Tech. Henry Loter substituted for Crews and started hitting the basket from all angles of the court. The half ended 15-13 in favor of Tech. The fliers seemed to be effected by their three and one half hours in the air that afternoon, as they came out for the second period, and allowed the Matadors to work the ball in time after time for crisp shots. Gilmore, Loter, and Robison kept up the scoring for Tech; while Stecker and Abell tried to stave off defeat for the fliers.

All eyes were on Ray Stecker, who received All-American acclaim in both football and basketball while a member of the Army teams in 1931. And although not the great player of his college days, Stecker did flash brilliantly to ring up 13 points and handle his duties at forward perfectly. "Red" Carver, another ace of the 1930 Army football team, saw service during the second period. In fact, the entire Randolph team seemed to be made up of stars. Skridge was a former Citadel star, Earl played at the University of Omaha, Gibson hails from the University of Illinois, and Abell was a member of the University of Indiana team before entering West Point. The cadets are coached by Captain W. C. Goldsborough.

The work of Captain Harry Dunn and Larry Priddy at guards, Will Gilmore, Loter and Crews at forward was outstanding for Tech; while Stecker and Abell starred for Randolph.

More than enough paper to reach around the world is used to print Sunday edition of the New York Times. It was learned by Tech journalism students when they witnessed a moving picture of the making and publishing of that great daily paper last Wednesday evening in the engineering auditorium.

The lower ruin of Chetro Kettl is far better preserved than the upper one, and to explore its secrets, engineers have performed the dangerous feat of supporting the top rooms with steel rivets. Thus the excavators are protected from any sudden collapse. The process is expensive but the knowledge gained has more than justified the cost.

It's Fun to be Fooled... It's more fun to know

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising!

Let's look at one of its greatest illusions... that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "flavor."

The explanation: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring... the blending of various tobaccos... and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

The blending of several cheap, raw tobaccos cannot improve the flavor of any of them. A fine cigarette is a cigarette blended from costly, ripe tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled... why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"... of their rich, cool flavor... of their non-irritating mildness. It's the tobacco that counts.

All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh and rich for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs. Put a pack in your pocket today.
