Prexy's Paragraphs

By BRADFORD KNAPP

In the "Atlantic Monthly" will be found a series of articles by Mr. Charles Adam Jones, the father of Hon. Clifford B. Jones, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Texas Technological College. The writer has had a chance to read only sketchily, but they are profoundly interesting. He writes of the old frontier life. The story in the July issue about the Spur Ranch in its early days is quite fascinating. Those of us who know the author will appreciate them even more than the casual reader. His sterling worth and wonderful character as a man, and the great things he did in developing Northwest Texas, are perfectly apparent in the delightful, simple, straightforward style of these stories. No one should miss reading them. Don't fail to read his account of the story of "Pink Higgins, the Good Bad Man." I wish I could picture to each of you the delight there is in knowing Mr. C. A. Jones.

If you are interested in a short sketch of the New Deal, there is a little book which Dr. Jackson handed me the other day entitled, "The Future Comes: A Study of the New Deal," by Charles A. Beard and George H. E. Smith, published by the Macmillan Company, 1934. A more complete economic study of America based upon a knowledge of the facts of the present is coming out in a series of books published by the Brookings Institute at Washington, D. C. The first of these four books is entitled "America's Capacity to Produce." It contains over 600 pages. The second volume is now on the press—"America's Capacity to Consume." The third to be published a little later is entitled "The Formation of Capital," and the fourth volume, "Income and Economic Progress," is to be published before the end of the year. The whole thesis of these volumes is a study of whether and by what means the economic activities of our people might be organized on a sustaining level which would provide ample food, adequate clothing comfortable housing, and a reasonable minimum of education and recreation for all members of society. That is a very challenging thesis. For lighter reading and quick surveys, read the articles which are constantly appearing, especially the one this week in the "Saturday Evening Post," "The Background of NRA," by General Hugh S. Johnson. If you did not hear it, read, if possible, a release of General Johnson's NRA Anniversary Celebration address at Charleston, W. Va., on June 18th, and the radio address by Edward A. Filene of Boston on June 22 entitled, "A Merchant Surveys the New Deal." It is not a question of whether we

Survey Of Wheat Acreage Employs Two Tech Parties

Two parties of Tech engineers are employed by the department of agriculture in surveying the wheat acreage of the plains, and are stationed at Plainview. Robert Sparks is the chief of one party composed of John Lindsey, Noble James, and Jean Jeffus; the other was headed by William Luce, before he was employed by the State highway department in Hereford. Those who were in his party are Preston Conner, J. Frank Potts, and John S. Ball.

White Hussars Will Present Five Soloists

Musical Program Second Artists Course Number To Be Held In The H. S. Auditorium July 5, 8:30 P. M.

Versatile Musicians Receive Praise Of Many Audiences; Thirteen Instruments Used

Herbert Petrie and his White Hussars will be presented at the Lubbock High school auditorium in Tech's second artists course number. The all-star organization of instrumentalists will be featured Thursday night, July 5, at 8:30 o'clock. All holders of recreational tickets may use them for admittance. The company is headed by Herbert Petrie, well known trumpet soloist, and who was solo cornetist in the famous Naval Battalion band, which was directed by John Phillip Sousa during the world war. He was also solo cornetist with Dunbar's White Hussars and Al Sweet's Slinging band. Petrie began the study of music at an early age, was a student at the American Conservatory of Music and also a private pupil of Edward Llewellyn, first trumpeter of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. For four years he had charge of the band and teaching various band instruments at North Central College, Naperville, Illinois.

Five members compose the White Hussars and use 13 different instruments in their versatile and interesting programs. The ensemble work is remarkable; the result is of many years of constant playing together and careful application. Each member is a soloist of distinction.

The program moves with snap and military precision. There is not a dull moment. Different man-

Waghorne, O'Hair Arrive In France

Max Waghorne and Rob O'Hair, who received their E. A. degrees from Tech "in absentia" last June, and who sailed from Houston on May 15 for France have notified the "folks back home" that they are broussing around Europe. After docking in Harve, France, the two journeyed to Paris for three days, then from Harve to Antwerp. They sailed down the river through Belgium to Ghent. Waghorne wrote that "it was the most beautiful thing I have ever seen." They plan to go to Rotterdam next.

Waghorne and O'Hair worked their passage across by swabbing decks and work in the mechanical room. Waghorne had the good fortune of getting to use some of his mechanical engineering and was hired as assistant engineer with a raise in pay from one dollar a month to $57.50.

The two plan to return to Lubbock via New Orleans or Galveston in the latter part of July.

While attending Tech, O'Hair was president of the Inter-club council, the Centaur club, and a pre-law student. Waghorne was advertising manager of the 1934 La Ventana, and a business administration student.

Maddox Employed By Tennessee Firm

Don Maddox, graduate of this year in textile engineering, has been employed by the Dixie Mercantile Company of Chattanooga, Tennessee. Maddox was formerly employed at the College Bookstore from 1929 until 1933, and was elected president of the student council in 1931. While here he has also been president of the Tech Chamber of Commerce, Phi Psi Textile fraternity, and an officer in the engineering society. Maddox is from Menard.

Ramblings, Rumblings

Yesterday I entered the library feeling gay and perhaps somewhat garrulous, not realizing how much noise leather heels can make on tile flooring. Instantly I felt-penetrating eyes turning resentfully at my presence, and others were volubly sympathetic. The room was crowded with people. Some turned to their tabletoftens, whispering; others tip-toed about and then noiselessly took their places; and few with down cast eyes were apparently studying the convoluting designs of the floor.

Where was I? How similar to a morgue or a mausoleum—its atmosphere, dusty smell, and shelves—was this place. It gave you the feeling of seeing the unburied dead. Those books. There lay Voltaire and Dante side by side, Unset was rubbing covers with Garland, Shakespeare and McIntyre were waiting to be slid into their niches. Sinclair Lewis and H. L. Mencken were cooling their feet after having been carefully tagged, Boccaccio and O'Neill had exchanged places and continued to lie. H. G. Wells was pressed closer to "Chick" Sale.

How safe and secure they rested after having been sorted and shelved in their biers. Sleeping as well as ever Caesar, or Jezebel, or Nebuchadnezzar. One hundred and fifty to each hole, hiding their time and waiting their turn, they were packed.

I opened a book and began to read the thoughts of the dead, and breathed the breath of the breathless dead. Yet I kept looking up and wondering if someone that I knew was not hidden under his epitaph. Why there was "Black April" over there, and seeming to move each time someone placed his hat on the table or opened his umbrella before leaving the room. And they had given him the man size box. Paul Horgan's "The Fault of the Angels" was assigned a

Requirements For Teachers Are Lowered

Dr. A. W. Evans Reports Actions Of State Committee; Held June 22 And 23

Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the education department of Texas Tech met with a group of 150 public school teachers, principals and superintendents Tuesday afternoon, June 26, gave a detailed report of the meeting of the State committee on classified and accredited high schools, which was held in Austin Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23. Dr. Evans is a member of that committee.

Teacher qualification was the biggest single item considered by the committee and the following changes were adopted: Beginning June 1, 1934 teachers in first class high school systems not having

Activity Ticket Holders To Be Admitted Free; Names Must Be Filed In Information Office Horne In Charge

Reservations For Hotel Rooms Should Be Made At Once; Fare By Bus Is Only $4.00

Saturday, July 7, is Tech day at the eight wonder of the world, Carlsbad Caverns. The annual Tech party of students and faculty members will leave Lubbock around 10 o'clock Friday morning, July 6, and arrive at Carlsbad that afternoon in time for those who wish to swim may take advantage of the beach and pool.

A record breaking number is expected to make the trip because of the enrolment of this term which is the largest in the history of summer sessions, and due to the exceedingly low bus rate of $4 for the round trip. All holders of recreational tickets will be admitted free to the caverns. All students who do not own a ticket may still buy one at the business office, as the entrance fee to the cavern is $1.50.

Everyone planning to join the Tech party must register at once in the information office, room 101 of the administration building Cecil Horne, who is in general charge of the party stressed the fact that in order for arrangements to be made in Carlsbad all students must register promptly and early.

Joe W. Bowman, the owner of the South Plains Bus lines, has purchased five new Buick coaches for those who plan to go but do not care to make the trip in their own cars. "Each bus has a capacity of 17 passengers," according to Bowman, "and each bus has individual upholstered seats with linen seat covers." Tickets can be obtained from the information office.

Mr. Horne has received the hotel rates from Carlsbad which are $1, $1.25, and $1.50 per month. The stated, "that reservations for hotel rooms should be made at once."

W. R. Waghorne To Be Presented In An Organ Program

Prof. W. R. Waghorne, head of the department of music, will be presented in an organ program at the First Methodist church, July 3, at 8:15 o'clock. This will be Prof. Waghorne's last appearance in Lubbock.

This program will be a part of the recreational activities of summer school.

Overture, Poet and Peasant—Von Suppe.

Two Songs (Ave Maria, Serenade)—Frank Schubert.

Two Opera Arias (Elysian Star, Tannhauser)—R. Wagner; (Habenera, Carmen)—G. Bizet.

Original Compositions (March in G) (Sunset at Sea) (Toccato in C Major)—W. R. Waghorne.

Two Old Favorites (Traumeri)—R. Schumann; (Largo)—Handel.

Extensification on a theme from the audience. Overture, Summers' Night in South Texas—W. R. Waghorne.

place by "Is That in the Bible?" And "The Way of All Flesh" happened to fall alongside "The Confessions of a Young Man."

My attention was focused on the opening door. Who were they bringing in now? The pall-bearers wearily and sleepily approached the altar. A slight heave and the burden was deposited, then one whispered, "We would like to turn in 'The Man Nobody Knows.'"

I watched and he received the same attention and treatment as each of the others, even to that of "A Certain Rich Man."

I ate the hall and then out of the building I strolled. How tired that poor old man seemed as he uncertainly placed the right foot in front of the left, and the left in front of the right. Not once did he raise his head. I wondered whether he was pondering on the worm he was or is to be.

I forced my way past the sandwich eaters in the Bookstore and over to the magazine stand. Staring into my face from the covers of several magazines were beautiful young girls, and either smoking or holding a cigarette. A shrill giggle and I faced two ladies seated at one of the tables, and what callisthenics they were putting their cigarettes through. One had her's gripped in the vertex of her fore and second finger so tightly that it was emitting small puffs of smoke exactly like the breath of a small calf, on a winters day, that has been tied to slightly to the corner post of the lot fence. The other made for her's like a small child hunting it's milk bottle and when finding it, inhaled as a thirsty camel taking on water after a nine day trip across the desert. And then with jaws puffed remarkably in contour likeness of a toad frog feasting on the flies around an overturned carbage can.

Mark Twain's habit of swearing was revolting to his wife who tried her best to cure him of it. One day while shaving he cut himself. When Carter Glass first began to make himself heard, in 1913, in caucuses of his party in the Senate, he talked rather ponderously and frigidly. On one such occasion, the subject seemed to warm him up and soon he was not only emphatic but pugnacious. At this point one of his partisans in the caucus shouted: "Give them hell, Carter!"

Mr. Glass's reply has become historic. It was: "Hell? Why use dynamite when insect powder will do?"

saunders are executed on the stage to emphasize the various phases of the numbers as they are specially arranged. Enough novelty and comedy is introduced to lend constant interest and surprises. For instance, a trombone duet is played with each operating his partner's slide. At another time, each member of the company plays two instruments simultaneously. Four popular tunes are blended into one, is another distinctive novelty. Although vocal work is not featured, the company members make up a pleasing singing quintet, and one member, Mr. Greenup, is a concert baritone of splendid ability.

E. Ritzenthaler has been a member of the Petrie organization for six years. Before joining the company, he taught reed instruments at North Central college for two years; he has also been saxophone soloist for Al Sweet's Singing Band and Johnson's Chicago Cadets. Mr. Morrissey has been with the Hussars for more than three years playing the trombone and piano. He was formerly with the Chicago Business Men's Symphony Orchestra. Another star member of the company is Jesse Greenup, who plays the trumpet and mellophone, and also baritone soloist. Mr. Greenup was featured artist with the Heidelberg Student Chorus, Gilbert's band, and the Philharmonic ensemble.

This organization has received many favorable comments, including, "It is an outstanding program. This company has a repertoire that includes everything from classical grand opera to modern jazz numbers effectively rendered". From Ottawa, Canada, Alex Vollmer, president of the Kiwanis club of Atlantic City, New Jersey, writes: "We have had a wide variety of programs at our meetings, but I can truthfully say that the Petries program was the best ever."

bachelors degrees will be allowed four years in which to do twelve semester hours work toward their degrees in lieu of eighteen semester hours in three years as provided in last year's regulations. Principals and superintendents of such school, under the new ruling, are required to have, in addition to bachelors degrees, at least twelve semester hours of junior or higher rank in the field of educational administration and at least six semester hours of junior or higher rank in the field of methods of teaching. The regulations on superintendents and principals last year's specified eighteen semester hours in administrative education.

agree with these things instantly, or accepting every doctrine that is propounded unquestioningly. But the real task which you and I have is the task of trying to understand. And while I am giving you references, let me admonish you that a diligent reading of "The Texas Weekly," published by Peter Molyneux, is not only refreshing and stimulating, but you will find in every issue matters of great importance affecting the State of Texas. Peter Molyneux is thinking of the future development not only of America but of the South. In particular, he is one of the ablest writers on the future of cotton growing in our Southland and the relationship of that problem to the prosperity of her people, and the international problems which are so closely tied up with the whole of our Southland.

The more I read and study these problems the more I am convinced that about nine-tenths of the problem is pure education coupled with a sincere desire on the part of the average individual to do the right thing, and to accommodate his own actions not to his peculiarly selfish desires but to the higher ideal. We realize that our own selfish desires may be, in a measure, subordinated to the larger thought of the good of our fellow-men. I am optimistic; I think that the vast majority of our people are law-abiding, kind and considerate, and that about nine-tenths of our troubles come from the ten percent or less who are reckless and inconsiderate of their fellow-men, not only in common, everyday affairs, but in these larger matters also.

This leads me to make one last statement about the parking of automobiles on the campus. More than ninety percent of the automobiles which come on the campus of Texas Technological College today are driven by people who are considerate and kind and who honestly cooperate with all of us in trying to bring order out of chaos. However, there is a small percentage still who insist on parking their cars in such a way that it is impossible for others to go through. These people are a few in number, but they are the type of people who are going to prevent the success of the recovery program, selfish in the extreme and totally lacking in consideration. I do not want to single them out. I have watched from the window of my office. They are much less than ten percent of the people who drive automobiles on the campus. Now this is the last time I am going to mention this subject publicly. I think that if we had beds of beautiful flowers in the parkways these people would still park their cars on the flowers. Apparently, they won't give us a chance to grow a tree or to do anything towards the beautifying of the campus at Texas Technological College. Please understand that ninety-odd percent of you are just as fine as you can be, thoughtful, considerate, and cooperative as anyone can be. I am sure these others forget or fail to realize just what they are doing. If I have offended anyone, I hope you will come to my office and let's talk it over.

Two exceptions were made to the above rulings. All teachers now in service who on September 1, 1934, will have taught for 15 years or more are exempt from the above requirements. The same exemption applies to superintendents and principals who have held such positions for 15 years.

It was recommended, however, that local school boards adopt rules seeking to keep such teachers reasonably progressive through occasional col- (e. g., three or four semester hours every three years), or adequate travel, or appropriate activity.

Further activity of the committee will be reported in next week's Toreador.
