Mr. Croslin graduated from Texas Tech in the late summer of 1930 with a B. A. degree. After graduation he taught two years in Post High school and then went to Colorado to teach in the public schools.

During the summer he was associated with Mr. Mahon in his primary campaign, handling much of the business and making many trips over the entire district. Although Mr. Croslin's appointment will be effective soon, he has virtually begun his duties at this time.

Mr. Mahon stated "I am fortunate to have such a splendid West Texas man to assist me in Washington. I know Mr. Croslin intimately. He was associated actively with me during my campaign for congress and accompanied me on many occasions, going into every county in the district. I do not know of a man that I feel would be more loyal to the people of the district than Lloyd Croslin."

Welcome The Exes

TECH celebrates its ninth annual homecoming for its alumni and exes beginning this evening with a student parade and pep rally and culminating tomorrow in an intersectional football game with DePaul university of Chicago in the afternoon, and an alumni-student dance in the evening.

There will be several hundred Tech graduates and exes on the campus tomorrow. Many of them were leaders in Tech last year, year before last and back to the opening of the college. They are the ones that started Tech on its upward path in good-will and reputation for the college among the citizenship of Texas. These exes are the ones that laid the foundations for this college and first saw the vision of Tech, and had enough confidence in its future to remain loyal to it. These leaders began Tech traditions, organized the student body and created clubs for the college. They were the pioneers.

Many of these were class presidents, club presidents, Double T lettermen, Student Council members and Toreador and La Ventana staff members. They were the leaders in Tech a few years ago just as there are present leaders in the institution today. These old students feel like the college is still a part of them, and they continue to feel loyal to its principles. Students, meet them, and welcome them back, and let them know Tech is better for their having been here.

Many of these alumni and exes have made names for themselves in the world of business since leaving Tech. They have responsible positions with corporations, governmental agencies and private enterprises. Students, go out of your way to welcome back the old leaders of Tech; learn their names, and let them know they have not been forgotten.

Welcome back, alumni and exes.

Poor Telephone Service

WITH the addition of the dormitories to our campus, many problems present themselves. One of the most glaring is the inefficient telephone service.

There is an urgent need for more telephone lines into the two dormitories. The service is slow, undependable and unsatisfactory to say the least. There are only two telephones on each floor in the dormitories, making it almost impossible to get calls through during certain hours of the day or night. When one is fortunate enough to find the line open, it is still doubtful if the party sought can be contacted.

Not only is the telephone service below par in the dormitories but the same holds true all over the campus. Confusion and delay in getting correct numbers is common. Frequently one calls the library and is given the dairy barn and vice versa. Six phones in each dormitory are totally inadequate to care for the needs of more than 300 students. In case of an emergency call chances are that it would take from one to two hours to get the call through during certain periods of the day.

Steps should be taken to remedy this matter at once. The dormitories need more telephone lines and the college as a whole would benefit from a more efficient telephone service.

ONE WORD MORE

BY JAMES ETHRIDGE

LAST Friday night several members of the board of trustees ate at the boys' dormitory. They did not sit together but each of them sat at a different table in the dining-room. At one table the boys got a case of jitters when they saw one of the notables coming to eat with them. They doubted the correctness of their manners. After grace was said the students and their guest sat down; the trustee pulled his napkin out from under his fork, tucked it in his vest and calmly began eating. It was very disarming.

At last we understand why Tech fumbles so much. They intentionally drop the ball for the first two or three quarters, and as this is contagious the other team soon starts fumbling. Then during the last of the game they play their own inimitable style of football and win a glorious victory. Very clever of Mr. Cavthon, don't you think? It seems that the Matadors became a bit confused Friday and forgot when they were supposed to stop fumbling.

From an aesthetic view-point we should have all of our football games at night. Lubbock doesn't look so bad from the grandstands when you can't see anything but the hotel signs and the outline of the water tower.

Several months ago a vacancy occurred in one of the departments of the college, and the school was flooded with applications. One of the men had an excellent record and was invited to come to Lubbock and meet the officials of the college personally. When he got off the train he didn't stop to clean up or to have his wrinkled suit pressed, but came directly to the college. When he entered the room to meet some of the officials, he awkwardly dropped into a chair without removing his hat. He needed a shave and it's possible that the authorities told him that they didn't need him. It relieved us to hear this; we had suspected that our school often appointed teachers who had nothing to boast of but their eccentricities.

One of our faculty members made a very gracious refusal when she was offered a cigarette: "No, thanks," she said, "I don't smoke that brand."

During a recent student election one of our would-be leaders campaigned vigorously for one of the two candidates. He spent two days doing little but soliciting votes for the person whom he said was "a good friend of mine." His candidate won the race but after the election he found that he had gotten the names confused and had worked for the person he had hoped would be defeated.

Perhaps some of you experienced ones might like these lines of Tennyson, from "Fatima."
"Once he drew
With one long kiss my whole soul thro
My lips, as sunlight drinketh dew."

STUDENT FORUM

COMMENTS ON WAR PROFITEERS

To the Editor:
I am always inspired by Armistice Day programs, usually nothing but demonstrations that we are perfectly confident that we could win the next war, too; not an observance dedicated to memory of soldiers who gave their lives for J. P. Morgan and company. We watch the parade of healthy, contented young men who are soldiers, symbols of patriotism, courage and stupidity. How are they to show their love for the Fatherland? By offering to sacrifice their lives for a cause that no one quite understands until about ten years after the war has ended.
Would our war profiteers feel hurt if every newspaper in the United States denounced them, if every minister exposed them? Why certainly not, they know that as soon as the news reaches our near-sighted masses that a foreign country limited one of our citizens, and they hear the snappy marches of our military bands, thousands of men will be ready to fight to save democracy to keep up the quality of five-cent cigars or some other meaningless idea. I think that General Smedley Butler was right when he said: "I love soldiers, but they're the dumbest people on earth."
For no reason at all,
James Ethridge.

DENIES AUTHORSHIP OF ARTICLE

To the Editor:
In my candid judgment, any article appearing in this column, especially one of adverse criticism, should bear the full name of the author. I did not write the article which appeared in this space in the issue of November 2 under the caption, "Finds Student Grading System"—yet I have been the recipient of much applause and derision for its message. Although I do believe that student graders should have a most careful examination—both ethically and intellectually—before they are selected, I have no comment to make on the ones in use at present. If I should, however, I assure you the article would have attached my signature in full and not the initials, "L. F."

One reason why we are groping so blindly upon the old trails of life is that in politics and economics, and alas, even in religion and the church, we are self-seekers.—Dr. William Hiram Foulkes.

Prexy's Paragraphs

BY BRADFORD KNAPP

IN HARPER'S magazine for October will be found two articles which everyone ought to read. The first one is by Ludwig Lewisohn. The title of the article is "An American Comes Home". From reading it I take it that Mr. Lewisohn was, before his twelve years residence in Europe, something of a radical. Apparently, he has not yet satisfied himself regarding many social and economic problems. Be that as it may, I was very much attracted by his presentation of the real fundamentals of American spirit and life, which we might sum up as the soul of America embodied in the thoughts of its great mass of liberty-loving, God fearing, work-a-day people.

One of our troubles in America is that it is not news and attracts no front page notice when a family is living a decent, orderly, self-contained life, meeting their problems and overcoming their difficulties by a lot of cooperation and self-sacrifices and a tremendous fund of courage. Many millions of families in America have met the issues of the day with just that spirit. This article is, indeed, refreshing.

IN looking over the figures of the enrollment of students at Tech this fall I find one very interesting and encouraging fact. The increase in enrollment was not all in freshmen. Comparing the figures for the fall of 1934 with the fall of 1933 the percentage of increase is as follows:

Freshmen	20%
Sophomores	12%
Juniors	42%
Seniors	41%
Graduate Students over 100%
Total net increase, 25%

The significant thing about these figures is that they are distributed throughout the four years of the college course rather than being confined solely to new students in the freshman classes. We have 1091 freshmen, 624 Sophomores, 372 juniors, 235 seniors and 103 graduate students.

Each of us is responsible for our own influence upon those with whom we come in contact. That influence can be made one of the most worthwhile experiences of a college career. The greatest thing which a young man or woman can learn is the enjoyment and profit, happiness and satisfaction which can come from an association with persons of good character and participation in the right kind of social and intellectual contacts. I wish I had the power to influence young life to get the best out of their opportunities.

DePaul Meets Matadors In Homecoming Feature Tomorrow

Chicagoans Arrive Here Today For Contest With Tech Men On Local Field

By JIM LINDSEY
Toreador Sports Editor

Having put aside their traditional rivals, Hardin-Simmons Cowboys, the Matadors are ready to entertain the DePaul Demons of Chicago in the Homecoming battle tomorrow. Since the start of the season the Catholics have shown improvement with every game and the locals are due to have their hands full when the Chicagoans line up on Matador field.

Leading the invaders is Phil Krause. He performs at the left flank position and his smashing play closely resembles the work of his brother Ed Krause, all-American at Notre Dame. Phil formerly played alongside of his more famous brother in their prep days and will use some of the tricks of the once great Notre Dame tackle against the Bullfighters. The DePaul captain, in addition to his outstanding play at a wing post, is a brilliant pass snatcher. His catches have been instrumental in at least two victories for his team this year.

Many different nationalities are found among the charges of Jim Kelly. The captain of the visitors is a Lithuanian. Players of Swedish descent as well as Scotch-Irish, Italians, Poles, and Germans are on the DePaul roster.

Here are our guesses for the week. The teams in caps loom as winners in our estimation: TEXAS TECH vs. DePaul, RICE vs. Texas A. and M., SMU vs. Arkansas, CENTENARY vs. Baylor, TEXAS vs. Texas Christian.

This department is receiving much criticism about the lack of intramural basketball "info" on the sports page. We realize that the chase is gradually drawing to a finish. Time after time we have confronted those in charge of the interclass play only to be told "we have nothing." It seems even the results aren't being kept. We have asked for box scores and results but they do not seem to be available. Box scores cannot be formulated without names and figures. A dozen Grantland Rice's, or a score of Collier Parrises could not write a story from the information received by this desk.

Opinions about the playing of the Matadors from far-flung sections are in our possession through the medium of exchange. A conflict of opinion occurs between various sports scribblers.

Mack Machen, sports scribe of the Simmons Brand, says in his column, "Sports Slants," prior to the Tech-Simmons game: "Said game will be with Texas Tech's Red Raiders, Lubbock's terrible bone-crushing dirt work boys... The Double T is still up to its old tricks; go to Lubbock when they meet the Cowhands if you relish a game featuring roughhouse tactics and some fist slinging from the hip." That is that.

But out in Arizona, another picture of an entirely different hue is painted by Victor Thornton, scribbler for the University of Arizona publication. Vic says: "Tech is making time; they are awaiting developments in the Southwestern circles where they belong, and apparently using the Border conference as a build up. THEY PLAY GOOD CLEAN FOOTBALL, and it is a pleasure to compete with them."

Horne And McRee Are In Golf Finals

Cecil Horne and F. L. McRee meet Saturday to determine the winner of the Texas Tech faculty golf tournament held at Meadowbrook. Horne is the defending champion. McRee defeated Charles Galbraith, 1 up, 19 holes, in a semifinal match of the championship match. The winner was medalist in the qualifying round. James Atcheson won over W. L. Stangel, 4 and 2, this week to win the first flight championship.

Tech Regulars Will Start Against Visiting Squad Friday Afternoon

Coaches Cawthon's and Smith's Texas Tech Matadors will be hosts to DePaul university of Chicago at Tech field tomorrow in the feature event of the homecoming program. The kickoff is slated for 3:15.

Coaches Jim Kelly and Ben Conners with 25 of their proteges arrive in Lubbock this afternoon at one o'clock. The Demons will work out at Matador field immediately after their arrival. The Chicagoans left the "Windy City" Tuesday night.

Although its line has been severely handicapped by injuries this season, DePaul will have its best set of forwards available for the clash this afternoon. The line has shown great improvement in blocking and charging during drills this week.

Ends Are Strong
The Demons are well supplied with ends. Their captain, Phil Krause, performs at the left flank. He is a brother to "Moose" Krause, all-American tackle at Notre Dame last year. Fred Brainard, Joe Sullivan and Ray Adams are the three other wingmen who will no doubt see action tomorrow. Brainard has turned in some great defensive games while Sullivan is rated as one of the smartest offensive men on the squad. Adams, a basketball star, is naturally a gifted pass snatcher.

Two six footers hold down the tackle posts for the Blue Demons. In Maurice Washburne, 192 pounds, and Harold Carlson, a brawny 205 pound giant, Line Coach Conners has two fine performers. Carlson, slowed up by injuries, is due to hit his full stride when the DePaul eleven lines up against the locals. Washburne has been the iron man of the whole midwest machine, playing practically the whole of every game.

Four Good Guards
John Reid, Norman Mertes, Joe Wask and George Schwartz give the Demons four light but scrapping guards. Mertes and Reid are probably the best. At center Gene Cowhey and Marvin Casey will appear. Cowhey weighs 189 pounds and excels in pass defense.

DePaul registered three victories at the start of the season, winning by wide margins. Then the Demons met their first defeat in nearly three years when they were humbled by Western State. The following week the Catholics lost to Valparaiso. Both of these setbacks were due to a muddy field. Last Saturday in their homecoming game, Kelly's charges rolled over Niagara university of New York 18-7.

On a dry gridiron the Blue Demons will be leader to stop with their deadly passing attack and powerful backfield.

Raiders in Fine Fettle
With the exception of McElroy and Neill, the Raiders came out of the Simmons combat in fine fettle. McElroy is out with a broken collar bone and Neill has a broken nose and thumb. The latter, however, may see action in the game tomorrow.

The Tech mentors are going to be on the safe side and guard against slip-ups by starting their first stringers. Coach Cawthon plans to shoot the works against the Demons from the North.

Cowboys Lose To Raiders In Annual Battle

Bullfighters Tie All-Time Record By Taking Ninth Traditional Game

Coach Les Cranfill's Hardin-Simmons Cowboys upheld their reputation of spilling the dope bucket by holding Texas Tech's Matadors 13-0 in their ninth annual clash Friday afternoon.

The Mata entered the game as top-heavy favorites but a scrapping band of Cowhands fought a stubborn battle to stop the locals with two touchdowns before 3,500 spectators.

After the shockers had played the opening quarter, the regulars threatened twice after entering the game at the second period. An intercepted pass put an end to a drive that took the victors deep into Simmons territory, and so there was no scoring in the first half.

Scored In Third
But the Bullfighters came back in the third stanza to cross the last stripe two times. Penalized 15 yards to their own 5-yard line after Harris' punt had gone over the goal line, the Cowboys attempted to kick out of danger. Pete Tyler standing behind the last marker, fumbled the ball from center and "Moon" Martin of Tech recovered for a touchdown. Winters blocked Davis' boot for point.

Winford Baze returned the kick-off to the Tech 32. The Matadors drove to the one-yard line. Here Tech fumbled with Garner recovering for the Baptists. And a third threat for Cawthon's boys failed.

Pete Tyler got off a good kick from this position with Beauchamp returning to the H-S 22. Dowell made four yards in two plays before little Beauchamp heaved the oval to Dowell, standing over the goal line, for the second counter. Davis kicked the extra point.

Tech was penalized twice for roughing and the visiting machine once. The losers were penalized 40 yards and the Matadors lost 65 yards via the penalty route.

Play after play by the Matadors was broken up and the backs thrown for losses by a charging Abiene forward wall. Although they registered 16 first downs to Hardin-Simmons' five, and gained 225 yards to the Cowboys' 75, the Raiders lost 27 yards to 12 for the Baptists.

With this win, the Matadors evaded the all-time count with the Ranchers. Each has won four now, their first skirmish ending in a scoreless tie. Still the Techsters are behind in the number of points registered in the meetings of the two clubs.

Fish Journey To Roswell For Tilt With New Mexico Cadets

Tech's rampaging Picadors, 25 strong, journey to Roswell Saturday to renew grid relations with the Cadets of New Mexico Military Institute.

In every contest between the two teams, the Institute has emerged the victor. Coaches Ballard's and Baker's green-clad frosh are determined to break the string of defeats and are primed for the contest.

Beginning the season with a large number of unseasoned players, the Cadets have developed into a strong eleven. They have distinguished themselves in games with W. S. T. C., the Texas Muckers and the New Mexico Aggies.

Outstanding on the Institute roster are Captain Maxwell, 185 pound pivot man; "Wop" Chairmonte, boxer of note, who plays guard; and St. John, shifty quarter and chief ground gainer.

Having won two out of three starts, the Fish are headed for a successful season. The Picadors have defeated the W. S. T. C. Calves, Decatur Baptist college and lost only to the powerful Amarillo Junior college Badgers.

Tech's first year men are entering the game as underdogs and are outweighed several pounds to the man.

MONTGOMERY WARD

AMUSEMENTS

By WAYNE SELLERS
CURRENT cinema offerings here include Charles Dickens' story, "Great Expectations" with Phillips Holmes and Jane Wyatt showing today only at the Palace.

One Night of Love
At the Palace Friday and Saturday is Grace Moore in "One Night of Love." This picture has been widely heralded as Miss Moore's first triumph and has as the supporting members of the cast "Tullo" Carminali, Lyle Talbot and Mona Barrie.

Beginning Sunday at the Palace is the much talked of Cecile B. DeMille spectacle, "Cleopatra," with Claudette Colbert in the title role. The picture is up to the usual DeMille standard and is full of mob scenes and of the bath tub scene which has become a trademark of DeMille's "super-spectacles" as they have been termed by press agents.

O'Brien Plays at Lindsey
The Lindsey departs from its usual custom and offers George O'Brien in the Zane Grey story, "The Dude Ranger."

Will Rogers is brought back to Lubbock at the Texas Sunday and Monday in "Handy Andy." In this picture Will portrays the role of a small-town druggist and when persuaded by his wife to sell his drug store to one of the modern drug chains that sell everything from wheel barrows to plow shares, goes to New Orleans to the Mardi Gras, and his actions there make up the main part of the story.

Spencer Tracy and Ketti Gallian are the stars in "Marie Galante" which comes to the Palace next Wednesday and Thursday. Other cast members include wise-cracking Ned Sparks and Stepin Fetchit. Miss Gallian is a new French star who makes her American debut in the picture.

Against The Law
Next Wednesday and Thursday at the Lindsey, John Mack Brown has the principal role in "Against the Law" with Sally Blaine and Arthur Hohl. Charlie Chan comes to the screen in the most exciting of all Earl Derr Biggers' stories, "Charlie Chan's Courage," next Tuesday and Wednesday. Drue Leyton and Donald Woods support Warner Oland in the cast.

The cards were designed and blocked by Rena Penn Britain, who was Mary Rena Penn before her marriage, and who taught here the summer of 1930 in the applied arts department. Since then she has been teaching at Oklahoma A. and M. in Stillwater. Prices range from three for ten cents up to thirty cents. Orders may be placed at the home ec building.

Embalmed Cow Is Object Of Study For Aggie Studes

Believe it or not, but there is an embalmed cow on the campus! Each year students taking veterinary anatomy and physiology embalm a cow for laboratory instruction. This is a junior course in the department of animal husbandry and is taught by Dr. F. G. Harbaugh, assistant professor of animal husbandry. The animal is tied in an upright position, as near normal as possible. After a few days the muscles and joints will become stiff so that the cow will stand alone. Anatomical and physiological conditions may be studied as if the cow was alive and in normal position. No contents of the abdominal cavity are removed and remain in a perfect state of preservation until later on in the semester. All muscles, tissues, bones, and joints appear normal and may be moved or worked at will. The dissection of the animal will continue until January.

ALL STUDENTS!

wishing to get their pictures in LA VENTANA in first semester section must have their pictures made at Brown's studio before December 1st.

Frosh Reveals Dating Economy

According to one professor, students this year are not as economical as they have been in previous years. An assignment was given in orientation to bring in a schedule showing how every hour of the student's day was used. One student made a very careful analysis of how he spent each day. On Saturday night, his schedule showed the following information: 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.—date; 9 p. m. to 10 p. m.—driving; 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.—parking. The professor's only comment was that he thought perhaps the student was spending too much money on gas.

Tech International Relations Club Receives Several Books Recently

Tech International Relations club has recently received seven new books from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Any student interested in this phase of study may obtain these books at Mr. Ogden's office, room 309 in the administration building.

In this book, "Crisis Government," Lindsey Rogers, professor of public law at Columbia university, gives an account of the way the post-war crises have been met by various forms of government, and asks the question: "Can democracy survive?"

"Changes in Government," "New Government in Europe," by Raymond Leslie Buell, discusses the changes in government to be found in Italy, Russia, Germany, Spain and the Baltic states. Both the background and present status of these new governments are presented, and the author attempts to answer the question: "Is the trend toward dictatorship a permanent change?"

"Between Two Worlds," by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of essays interpreting the age in which Columbia university, is a series of we live. Mr. Butler feels that a new world is being born and that the formation of this new world lies in the hands of the men and women of today and tomorrow. He thinks that youth can do the job, but only if it be an instructed, educated and reflective youth.

"Proposes Abolition of War" In her book, "The Menace and the Answer," Mrs. Elvira Fradkin discusses the rapid development of airplanes and poison gas, and points out that the future development of these instruments of warfare is practically uncontrollable. The author proposes the immediate and absolute abolition of all war.

Other books received are: "The European War Debts and Their Settlement," by Wildon Lody; "The Soviet State," by Bertram Maxwell; and "The Heritage of Freedom," by James T. Shotwell.

will be judged by a group selected by the Administrative Council. Results will be announced during the half of the Tech-DePaul game tomorrow. The Student Council is offering a trophy with the name of the winner engraved on it. The trophy, which has not yet been selected, is to be kept for one year by the victor. Trucks for the floats were furnished by local business men.

Townpeople Invited
All floats are to be at the starting place by 6 o'clock this evening. All students in school should begin assembling by 8:30. Townpeople are invited to attend the celebration. It is hoped that this parade will become a Tech tradition. The pep rally following the judging will consist of exhibitions, introduction of prominent alumni, former football players and yell leaders, coaches, songs and pep talks. Sophomore and freshmen boys will stage a sand-bag exhibition as the last feature on the program.

Slips That Pass

"One hundred people were arrested at a harvest supper...."
A feature story which was describing the making of a harvest of Texas, said that old tornadoes were ground through a food chopper and mixed with some sort of paste. The original sentence read Toreadors instead of tornadoes. But the Toreador staff is still laughing about a headline which appeared at the top of a front page two years ago. It read: "Raw Cotton Is Woven into Linen." That was all right as far as it went. But the linen was, of course, handkerchief linen.

Fair enough

WE tell you that Chesterfield Cigarettes are made of mild, ripe tobaccos. We've told you about the paper—that it's pure and burns right, without taste or odor. We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into shreds the right width and length to smoke right. These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.
