Techsans To Attend Fort Worth Seminar

Two Tech students will represent the Tech student government at the Human Relations Seminar at Texas Christian University Feb. 8-9 when Southwest Conference schools are scheduled to study desegregation.

The Student Council has elected Kent Hance, B.A. representative to the council, and Bronson Havard, Treador assistant news editor, to attend the seminar and speak on desegregation at Tech and take part in discussions on desegregation at other SWC schools.

The theme of the seminar will be "Southwestern Schools . . . Prospects and Problems of Desegregation." The TCU seminar committee proposed the meeting of student leaders in order that they and other SWC representatives will have a broader outlook and first hand knowledge of practical effects of actual and anticipated problems involved in desegregation.

THE COMMITTEE, IN A LETTER to Charlie Aycock, president of the student association at Tech, said, "It is our hope to present resource material of particular freshness and new stimulation so that the discussions do not take a philosophical trend toward attitudes about the problem, but are geared to the level of actual practical effects that will have to be handled at this school when undergraduate desegregation comes about."

Speaking about the seminar, Hance said, "I believe the conference is going to be very beneficial not only to Tech but to the other SWC schools also. The problem of integration is something that we have to deal with everyday and some of the students in other schools have not been able to adapt to the change."

HAVARD COMMENTED, "If Tech can, by its participation in this seminar, show the other SWC schools how they can desegregate without causing appalling incidences, then we shall achieve a great deal in improving man's relationship with his fellow man."

In preparation for the seminar, Hance and Havard said that they will study the history of desegregation at Tech and interview administrators and students. On their return from TCU, they will present a formal report to the Student Council.

HANCE IS A SOPHOMORE pre-law major from Dimmitt. He is the Delta Tau Delta representative to the Interfraternity Council and chairman of the Special Projects Committee of the Student Council. He is also a Saddle Tramp pledge.

Havard, also a sophomore, is a journalism major from Clute. He is pledging Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society and is a member of the Newman Club and Tech's honors program. He helped organize the Student Honors Council and was active last year as a member of the Treador staff in which he worked with student government leaders.

'SOUND OF MUSIC' SLATED TONIGHT

Ticket Sales For Musical Booming

By BILL MCGEE
Treador Editor

Student ticket sales for tonight's performance of "The Sound of Music" are so extensive that their seating section has been enlarged, according to Civic Lubbock Inc.

The Rogers and Hammerstein favorite will play in Municipal Auditorium today and Saturday at 8 p.m.

Normally, a 200-seat section of the balcony is reserved for students, but manager Carl Gandy pledged to expand student seating to "whatever extent necessary." The $2 student ticket is for an area which would normally cost $4 or $4.50.

HEADING A CAST of 50 in the production is Jeannie Carson, veteran of dramatic, ballet, film and variety theatre. Miss Carson starred in a television series appropriately entitled "Hey Jeannie!" which was a favorite both in this country and her native England. Her debut in "Finian's Rainbow" was termed a "smashing success."

She will sing hits from the score — telling the story of the musically famous von Trapp family—including the title song, "My Favorite Things" and "Do, Re, Mi."

JOHN VAN DREELEN heads the touring company as the male star, Baron von Trapp. The son of a successful Dutch actor and a French countess, his background is almost as colorful as that of the dashing baron he portrays.

Fluent in five languages, van Dreelen was a victim of Nazi concentration camps during the war after which he received wide acclaim on leading European stages. He has been cast in the roles of Petruchio in "Taming of the Shrew," of Gaston in the German-language version of "Gigi," and has appeared in "77 Sunset Strip," "Kiss Me Kate," and with Audrey Hepburn in the film "Monte Carlo Baby."

THE PROGRAM lists Rogers-Hammerstein favorite "Edelweiss" and "No Way to Stop It" before van Dreelen's name.

Acclaimed by world-wide audiences since its New York opening in 1959, "Sound of Music" tells in song the romantic story of a nun who falls in love with the father of seven children for whom she is caring. High dramatic tension accompanies conflict between love of the baron and love of the Church.

A popular movie version of the story emphasized the Trapp family's immigration to this country and discouraging efforts toward a musical stage career.

PLAYING 125 CITIES across the nation, the musical's touring company numbers over 70, including a 16-piece orchestra and eight stage specialists.

Casting for the road company was supervised by composer Richard Rogers who worked closely with producer Henry Guettel on all phases of the touring production.

Starring Mary Martin and Theodore Bikel, the Broadway version played almost three years at the Lunt-Fonbonne Theatre.

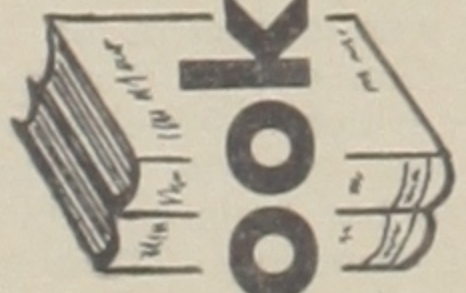

THAT WONDERFUL SOUND—John van Dreelen as Captain von Trapp sings the famous 'Edelweiss' song from the new Rodgers and Hammerstein hit. Jeannie Carson plays the role of Maria Augusta von Trapp and surrounding are the young Trapps.

Five Students Win Honors In French Recitation Contest

Tech French professors selected winners of the French Recitation Contest at the regular meeting of "Le Cercle Francais," Tech French Club, Wednesday.

The contest, under the sponsorship of Le Cercle Francais, was organized by Georges Planel, visiting French professor from France.

Winners from the first year French classes were Jeanne Cook, Longview, first place; John Gross, San Antonio, second place; and Carol Appell, Waco, third.

William Clark, Lubbock; and George Stanley, Lubbock; took first and second place respectively for second year students.

The contest was open to the 531 students of sections 141 and 231 of French. The students had been memorizing and reciting French poems in the classrooms as well as in the language laboratories a month prior to the contest.

The six French professors who were judges for the contest gave 40 points for intonation, 40 for pronunciation and 20 for gestures, for a total of 100 points.

Prizes were awarded the winners.

Coed Debators Take On Wayland

Tech debators will once again take the stand as they challenge students from Wayland Baptist College in Plainview today.

Karen Day, Houston, and Ann Moore, Lubbock, will debate before an all-school convocation.

CONGRESS ELECTS

WASHINGTON (P) — Texas Democrats in Congress elected Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen today their chairman.

Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth was elected vice chairman and Rep. Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls secretary-treasurer.

AN INSIDER'S REPORT says that the period between semesters, cut down from a week last year to three days this year, will be cut still more — to two days next year. The actual days designated for registering were cut down from three last year to two this year and will probably be cut to one and a half next year. And what happened to the between-the-semesters vacation? Tech administrators say Tech needs more class days, and it is better to shorten this vacation than the spring vacation.

ANOTHER SOURCE reveals that after the spring semester begins, Tech will get an unusual glimpse at a potentially explosive political situation on the world scene when a central figure involved comes to speak here. Look for the story to break in Saturday's TOREADOR.

SOME MEMBERS of the faculty said that Tech students are the sorriest scholars in the world and were quoted in a recent editorial. One even said, "If only you didn't have to see them (the students) in class."

Speaking as a student and just as subjectively, I would like to say the same thing but not be so general as to include all the faculty members. Many times here, it's the students themselves who are taking the initiative in trying to attain an environment more conducive to scholarly achievement. They're not always finding the support they deserve or need. Students are not beyond criticism, but the faculty "ain't" either. Does it not seem plausible that when students enter into a scholarly environment created by a scholarly faculty they will be naturally influenced; and if the environment is hostile to good scholarship, then the students will not be good scholars? If there should be an "examination of conscience," some faculty members should participate as well as some students.

TECH PROFS THAT deserve praise. In Tech's struggle for national and state recognition, three of our professors were on their toes and seized the opportunity to be leaders rather than followers.

E. L. URBANOVSKY, head of horticulture and park management, brought statewide attention to Tech when Gov.-elect John Connally came here to see the results of a state parks renovation study that Urbanovsky directed. GENE HEMMLE, head of the music department, was responsible for Tech's marching band and choir being asked to participate in the governor's inauguration Jan. 15. J. W. DAVIS, head of the government department, has managed to get the SWC schools to stop "kidnapping" athletes through his "Letter of Intent" proposals. Now he is in Los Angeles trying to get all schools in the nation to agree not to entice a high school athlete to come to their school after he has signed a letter saying he wanted to go to another.

A NEW ROTC PLAN may be approved by the federal government that will end freshman and sophomore participation in the ROTC program next fall. Students entering the advance program in the junior year will, upon signing a contract, receive an attractive $1,100 a year scholarship.

IN A VOTE ON college preference at Spring Branch High School in Houston, 400 out of 700 students chose Tech as their first choice when asked where they would like to go to college.

AN APPEALS BOARD for traffic violations may be realized soon. It was one of the major recommendations of the Special Student Traffic Committee last year. The committee said that such a board was needed because (1) The agency which enforces traffic regulations should not have the sole responsibility to evaluate infractions (2) Student representation should be utilized in the enforcement of traffic regulations on campus. The Student Council is working on the proposal.

Mary Watson, a junior, is engaged to George Adams, a senior. Mary is from Lubbock and a business education major. George is from Rockwall and majoring in marketing. They became engaged over the Christmas holidays.

As I see it . . .

by Johnnie Lu Raborn

It is that time of the year. When I said in my column last week there should have been some engagements over the holidays, I was sorely under-estimating the force of Mister Cupid.

Since that time, I have received many such announcements. It's interesting for people on the society side of the news media to note the trends that develop in these matters. Right now there is a ton of information on engagements. Right after Christmas, there usually is. The holidays seem to be a good time for bringing a relationship to a more stable basis. If you will watch, June and July will bring the society pages into the spotlight with all the weddings. It goes in cycles.

Some of the newly engaged are a bit shy about putting the news in the paper. Others overcome this shyness and call me to tell me the news. It is news, though, and good news at that.

The problems connected with putting this in the paper are hectic. First of all, some don't consider it proper to put the announcement in themselves. Etiquette dictates that only a girl's parents can do this. My argument is that we live in an informal atmosphere that allows some of these strict customs to be foregone. Another argument is the impracticality of getting an announcement from each set of parents. It is hard enough to get correct information while living on the same campus with the couples.

This brings up another problem. Students are naturally fun loving. It would be funny to put an engagement in the paper that didn't exist. I try to keep away from this by personally phoning one of the parties and checking the information.

When I do reach them (usually the girl), it is lovely to hear the reactions I get. The voices come over in honey-thick tones, especially when the boy's name is mentioned. Since time limits my conversation on the phone, I will say congratulations now to all those I have talked with and the ones I will talk with in the future.

AS I SEE IT

With Dead Week hanging over our heads, activities are coming to a grinding halt. This weekend, Kappa Alpha Order is having one last go round before finals with its annual dinner dance. It will be at 7:30 p.m. at Holiday Inn East. Music will be provided by the "Merry Makers." Friday night, Alpha Tau Omega will have a "Roaring 20's" dance at 8th and Ave. H. Also that night is the Phi Psi's "Mexican Twist" costume dance. It will be at 8 p.m. at the Palm Room.

AS I SEE IT

Again with finals approaching, the sororities are making plans for next semester. Pi Beta Phi pledges are planning their presentation in February. Gamma Phi Beta actives and pledges are planning a retreat for the second week of the next semester.

Brown Says Move Put Him 'On Shelf'

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I'm on the shelf now . . . a vice president in charge of I-don't-know-what."

So said Paul Brown Thursday, ending his silence after the startling announcement that he had been removed as head coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns.

Arthur B. Modell, 39-year-old club president who knocked the 54-year-old leader of the Browns out of the coaching picture for the first time since 1930, said he hoped Brown would continue to serve the Cleveland club.

Modell said Wednesday that Brown would remain with the club he founded in 1946 as a vice president and would take on other duties, not specified. Brown had agreed to serve out the six years remaining on his contract at the same pay, believed to be in excess of $50,000 a year, and would retain his small stock share in the club, Modell said.

As fans continued to talk about the sudden removal and speculate about a successor to the "master," proud Paul Brown told interviewers:

"I know this happens to other people, but I never thought of it in my own regard. It's all part of the game, though . . . Art Modell had a legal right to do what he did. It did come as a shock and surprise to me, however."

Freshmen Swim Slate Announced

A meet with Wichita Falls and Midland High schools Saturday launches Texas Tech's freshman swimming schedule for 1963.

Coach Jim McNally's Picadors also compete against New Mexico Military Institute here Jan. 26 and at Roswell, March 8.

Picador captains are Harman Harper of San Angelo and Dan Street of Amarillo.

Other Picador tankmen are Don Davis of Lubbock, Clif Gillespie of Fort Worth, Jerry Graves of Midland, Truett Holt of Lubbock, Dave Kovac of Houston, George Laivins of Dallas, Kurt Lemon of Fort Worth, Gene Nuckum of Midland, Charles Midkiff of Midland, James Morphis of Georgetown, Alan Prendergast of Dallas, Randon Porter of Houston, Richard Riley of Houston and Brian Weaver of Hobbs, N.M.

Admission to the Texas Tech Natatorium Saturday is free. The meet starts at 3 pm.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Consider the problem of Arkansas' Glen Rose. He's got eight players who have scored in the double figures this season — yet any one of them might draw a blank in the next league game. The problem of inconsistency is the greatest Glen has ever seen—by his own admission.

"I've looked at the scorebook and it doesn't look like the same ball club from one night to the next," he commented. "Even the best players I've ever seen have had an off night—but everyone on our team seems to be affected by up-and-down play. It's not only in shooting but in rebounds as well."

If you could pool the talent on this 1962-63 Razorback team and maintain some consistency — it would rate as a strong conference contender. Last Thursday's 73-71 win over SMU at Dallas proved that. But — 48 hours later the Porkers saw their three-game winning streak end at home, 69-63, to Texas. Two starters went scoreless!

The pattern of inconsistency started with the season-opener. Jim Magness went scoreless against Kansas, then pumped in 13 points against Missouri. Larry Hogue had 15 in the Jayhawk contest and three against the Tigers, and Jim Wilson hit for 11 in the opener and followed it with two against Missouri.

After two modest starts, Larry Wofford's scoring (and rebounding) went into a deep-freeze. He scored six points in four games and failed to get a rebound against OSU (he was the No. 2 rebounder last year). Now Wofford has recovered to become one of the top threats in league play.

High-scoring Tommy Boyer has been a part of the inconsistency too. For example—he scored 35 points against LSU (one point shy of the all-time Arkansas record), then got two points in his next contest against Loyola of Chicago in the All College tourney. His two SWC games have been strong — with 29 and 17 points against SMU and Texas.

Looking at team play in general, this 1962-63 Razorback squad is stronger defensively but is not getting the job done on the backboard. Eleven opponents have been limited to an average of 64.9 points a game (the season average was 69.4 last year). The Porkers grabbed better than 51 per cent of the rebounds a year ago but are now pulling in only 49 per cent (with just as much height).

Rose figured he'd need a 3-1 conference record before the mid-term exam period if he was to make a serious challenge for the crown in February. "Road wins are hard to come by," he stated.

Boyer's defense of a new NCAA free throw mark has slipped just a little. He missed two out of 13 against SMU and it dropped him below the .900 mark for the first time since his sophomore season.

The rebounding race continues between Wilson and Wofford—the 1-2 men last season. Wilson has 78, Wofford, 76.

NEW CONTRACT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Buddy Parker, the likeable but unpredictable Texan, agreed to a new contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday and said he'll be shooting for a National Football League championship next season.

JOB RETRAINING

WASHINGTON (AP) — A job retraining program in Laredo will enable about 600 unemployed to take job opportunities in the area, the Area Redevelopment Administration said Thursday.
