Peace Not At All Impossible

A week ago some 230,000 residents of Hiroshims, Japan, led by their mayor, Shinzo Hamsi, held a sort of ritual or memorial service on the anniversary of the day-and the moment-when the atom bomb fell.

Until that precise moment, few people outside of Japan knew there was a Hiroshima. Today any literate person knows about Hiroshime, and he knows that exaggeration has hardly been possible concerning the destruction wrought by that man-made catastrophe. First and last, as a result of that fearful blast and its destructive rays, some 100,000 persons died. The city was levelled.

"The fear and trembling we experienced are indeed quite beyond description," said Hamel. "There was nothing but ruin and disaster. No one can give a full account of the awful sufferings and grevious miseries this single bomb brought to the living as well as the dying."

Then almost wistfully, he repeated a thought harbored by many around the world: "If the same amount and effort spent on improving the weapons were devoted to promoting and preserving peace, realization of the dream of worldwide peace would not be impossible at all."

Indeed not, and it is some thing for national leaders to ponder more seriously. It might soften some nationalistic pride and suspicion and substitute for it a more sincere desire for understanding. There is not a nation in the world-and Russia least of allwhich can forever afford to pay for the past war and seriously prepare for another. Since war and seriously prepare for another. Since nations must live together, why, then, cannot Are Clumsy they face this problem realistically together?

U. S. FIRST ARMY REALLY RATES AS THE FIRST

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK, On- Cut a man in half, and he dies. Cut an army in half and it usually is destroyed.

But one army severed in combat during the last war is still alive and flourishing. That is the American First Army, 30 years old

It has traveled a long way and won many battles since it was formed in A La Forte-Sous-Juarre, France, by the late General of the Armies John J. Pershing in 1918. Armies, like men of merit, sometimes fail to get the recognition they deserve. This has been the case with the First Army, now based at Fort Jay on Governors Island in New York Harbor. In the public mind an army can really be glamorized only through a glamorous leader. And in the Second World War the flamboyant career of two-gun "Georgie" Patton, alternately America's favorite hero and bad boy of the top brass, insured renown for the Third Army he commanded. But it is doubtful if the Third Army ever quite measured up to the First Army at its peak. Because of its mobility, vast weight of arms, and high percentage of veteran troops the First Army is regarded by some military men as the mightiest single army in history.

A great army is measured by its reaction to potential disaster as well as by its victories. The First Army, trained and led to France by Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley and later guided by Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, stood up well under both of it, anyway, Look at what's happened in Canada, in this country and in Yugoslavia. Take Canada first. Igor Gouzenko, a lieutenant in the Red Army, received opecial training for work in Canada. He was sent there in 1943 as a cipher clerk in the Russian embassy at Ottawa.

He was assigned to the staff of the military attache. He worked in a secret room. His job was to code messages sent to Russia, uncode those from Russia,

Then he turned over the batch to the Canadian police. This broke the most sensational spy ring ever uncovered in North America. At least 11 of the Canadians pleaded

Speaker Martin Imitates Dictatorial Methods Of Joe Cannon In The House

By DREW PEARSON WASHINGTON - Uncle Joe Cannon of Danville, Ill., longtime GOP Speaker of the House of Representatives, was famous for two things: the straightest and longest aim of any tobaccochewer in Congress; and the iron-handed dictatorship which he imposed on the House of Rep-

Cannonism was back in the House of Representatives in all its shortsighted, mail-fisted glory. This time it probably should have been called Martinism; for Speaker Joe Martin, who, underneath his genial, easygoing smile, can be a tough and ruthless parliamentary dictator, was wielding, the gavel. And he refused to permit more than 20 minutes of debate for each side on a question affecting government credit and the savings of millions of people.

In the closing rush of Congress, the incident escaped much public attention. But it was one of the most significant things happening in the two years of the 80th Congress. Unexpectedly, the House Banking and Currency Committee had inserted a provision in the antiinflation bill increasing the gold certificate requirement of Federal Reserve Banks from 25 to 40 per cent. This was something which Wall Street has been lobbying for ever since the war.

What Wall Street has in mind. according to the Treasury Department, is to depreciate the value of government bonds-now at par or above-following which the banks and insurance compenies could buy them in again at lower prices and make a kill-

BOND DEBACLE OF 1ST WAR This is what happened after World War I. At that time a wave of government bond selling sent Liberty Bonds down to $80, despite the fact that interest rates were higher. Small bondholders, worried over the pricedrep, sold out wholesale, following which the insurance companies, banks and big estates bought them in. Ever since World War II, the Federal Reserve Board has kept the price of government bonds high by buying them in as fast as they were offered for sale. This was the issue at stake in the anti-inflation bill reported to the floor of the House by the Banking and Currency Committee and which was given only 20 minutes to each side for de-

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder had opposed this provision in the bill. Federal Reserve Chairman Tom McCabe had also opposed it.

MARTIN'S GAG RULE Vet despite this advice, and the fact this provision might have started a run on the bond market and shaken U. S. government credit, Speaker Martin insisted on a gag rule and limited debate.

At one time Democratic Leader John McCormack of Boston, Mass., rose to ask for an extension of time because of the importance of the subject. But Martin refused even to recognize him. Not only was debate from the floor limited, but no amendments from the floor were permitted. It was a travesty on the socalled parliamentary system.

But during that same afternoon, the Republicans consumed hours of time making political speeches for publication in the Congressional record and to be mailed back to the voters.

Thus ended one of the most shamful sessions of undemocratic debate in the recent history of Congress. Fortunately, Republican leaders in the Senate were wiser. Uninfluenced by the Wall Street lobby, they cut out the House provision raising the fold reserves for Federal Reserve PORTER'S RUPTURED DUCK

Bobbysoxer Trend Waning Says Frankie, Who Knows

HOLLYWOOD, UP - Is the frenzied, swooning bobbysoxer disappearing from the U. S. scene? Frank Sinatra thinks maybe so.

The crooner has been the No. 1 target of the frantic teen-age girls who have been so much in evidence during the war and postwar years. If anyone could see a trend in their behavior, it is he. "Of course, I haven't been out making theater appearances for a couple of years; I had five years of it and I'm getting too old for that grind," he remarked, "But from what I can determine, there is a definite trend among the bobbysoxers. 'They're growing up. Their outlook is more mature. They still have admiration for certain people in show business, but their admiration takes a more constructive form. They do it by means of mail and fan clubs."

Sinatra, who caused many a filly to totter from theater seats, denied that the bobbysoxer craze was a direct result of the war. "I saw it begin before the war in 1940." he related. "It started among the kids that followed the Tommy Dorsey and Glenn Miller bands. Then I saw it turn to me and the Pied Pipers." During the war years, the craze hit a shricking peak. So many listeners complained about the screaming audiences at Frank's air shows that he had to bar the girls from attendance. It seems they were vying with each other to see who could screech the loudest at his sliding notes. "We haven't' had much trouble during the past two years," Frank said.

TRUMAN PLAYED POLITICAL TRICK, Pattern For Us WRITER SAYS

By Walter Lippmenn

Mr. Truman called the special session in order to make the voters think that he would now be reducing retail prices if the Republicans would let him. The question is whether the voters will recognize the difference between a serious program to combat the inflation and a quite cynical political trick. For the special session was a trick. The Truman program was not meant to be enacted, or administered, or enforced. Had Mr. Truman wanted it enacted, he would have consulted the leaders of Congress before he amounced it. He would have rallied his own party and he would have conciliated the Republicans, and he would have negotiated with them. Had he expected to administer and enforce his program, he would have done something with the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board to make them ready to administer and enforce it. But what Mr. Truman wanted was not the hard and dangerous task of combating inflation. He wanted to be the candidate who stood for lower prices in the retail shops without having to do any of the disagreeable and unpopular things that would have to be done if retail prices are to be reduced.

That the program was quite insincere-that is to say, not intended for action-is evident. It proposed a return to rationing and price control. But the machinery of rationing and price control does not exist. It proposed a contraction of the money supply. But Mr. Snyder and Mr. Eccles, who would have to perform the operation, are scarcely on speaking terms.

The very program which was supposed to combat inflation contained a series of proposals to increase it-a big housing program, new expenditures for education, for old age insurance, and a higher minimum wage. The program did not contain proposals to reduce purchasing power by raising income taxes, by lowering the support of farm prices, and by reducing government expenditures.

Now that the special session is adjourned, one thing at least is settled conclusively. It is that right or wrong, for good reasons or bad, Mr. Truman is unable to work with Congress and to lead it. The Republicans are almost solidly against him. The Democrats are deeply divided behind him.

The remedy under our system of government for the Truman-Congressional deadlock is to elect a new President with a safe working majority of his own party in both houses of Congress

To elect Mr. Truman will not reunite the Democrats even if they obtained a nominal majority in both houses of Congress. With his own party divided, he has no chance whatever of getting enough Republican support to achieve a working majority for his measures. Another Truman administration, would, therefore, be hopelessly ineffective. To elect it would mean that the country was condemned to enter the critical period of the post-war era with its government

The Moscow radio laid aside its customary attacks on the democracies Tuesday and for a change urged closer collaboration between Russia and the United States to assure lasting peace.

The commentator declared that "just as it was collaboration of the great powers that made possible complete victory over the forces of Fascism and militarism, so collaboration can assure a lasting peace at the present time." Since all broadcasts in Russia are government controlled, we can be sure that this extraordinary statement had official approval.

Are the Muscovites talking "for the record," are they on a fishing expedition, or do they really mean business

There is just one way, as I see it, in which full collaboration can be secured with the United States. That is for Moscow to abandon its project of world revolution for the establishment of Communist governments by force.

America never has challenged Russia on what the latter was doing within Soviet borders. However, the United States has made it quite clear that she will not stand idly by while communism is thrust upon small nations which lack the strength to defend themselves. The United States will not collaborate with an ideology which says that the world isn't big enough to hold both "capitalism," and communism, and that "capitalistic" countries must be destroyed. She will not tolerate subversive activities by Communists within her own borders.

Therefore the only way in which Moscow can secure real collaboration is to abandon world revolu tion. That would mean calling of fall phases of the "cold war," including Bolshevist propaganda and the underground activities of Red agents. That gets us to our question of why Moscow suggests collaboration now. Judging from current developments the proposal was "for the record," and perhaps to encourage concessions by the democracles in the German crisis.

Canadians Set

After listening to U. S. politicians scream at the American public and at each other over postwar problems, it's refreshing to me to handle a story about the Canadian government quietly solving another of its problems. Maybe we Texans are so far away geographically from our friends beyond the 49 degree parallel and the Great Lakes that we just don't get wind of all their tribulations of state. On the other hand, maybe they are doing a better job along some lines than we are. There are evidences to support the latter

For instance, the Canadians last week unceremoniously abolished an "austerity" tax which had been just as unceremoniously imposed following the end of World War II. This levy was used as a curb to post-war inflation by soaking up "boom" money and an aid in abolishing the cost of the last conflict.

True, goods have been scarce in the Dominion just as they have in the U.S., but prices have been curbed by preventing the circulation of "easy money," and economy has been stable. Now the government feels that the tax has served its purpose, so it has abolished the levy.

I might also remind that the Canadians had war time price controls installed two years before the U. S. did-and without a bit of fuss. It took no arguing and name-calling from liberal and reactionary factions to put curbs in and keep them there as long as they were Another example of Canadian efficiency was its handling of Red spy cases. It conducted a private investigation. When ample evidence against the suspects was corraled, the case was simply placed in court and a verdict reached. Some innocent persons became involved in the probes but their names were never made public. It wasn't necessary.

Not so in the dear old U.S.A. Even after the evidence against communist espionage agents has been gathered, placed before a grand jury and tried, the whole thing is dragged out and rehashed with great fanfare on a pure publicity basis by politically minded congressional investigating committees, particularly the House Un-American Affairs com-

Names of people are being thrown right and left before they have been proved innocent or guilty. If they are blameless, harm will have been done to their name by the public mud splashing of immune lawmakers and nothing can be done to right matters.

Yes. I think the Canadian government deserves applause for the smoothly efficient handling of some of its affairs. We could do worse than study our northern meighbors" methods in this respect a little closer .-ADRIAN VAUGHAN

Brandon Back In His 'Streetcar'

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK (P Sidewalk superintendans having a field day all over town, latest contingent gawking to its heart's content at the excavation of the old Vanderbilt Mansion at 51st and Fifth ... Marlon Brando, newest of the matinee idols, making his fiendish fans deliriously happy again now that he's returned to "A Streetcar Named Desire".

Anthony Quinn, who replaced Brando while the latter was vacationing, and who will play the same part in the Chicago company, is taking to the summer theaters betimes...Odd choice of a play, however, "The Gentleman From Athens", a resounding flop when Tony played it here on Broadway last season. .. It's not the only Broadway failure going the rounds of the Citronella circuit, however...William McCleery's "Parlor Story", which was a dignified turkey a season or so ago, has been yanked out of mothballs for the strawhat season...Dean Jagger, who is trouping it about the haylofts, assures me it is getting lots of laughs..."I'd have said it was a sure pop for Broadway," Dean said, "which should explain why an actor should keep his mouth shut on such matters. I suppose I could be a wise guy and second guess it as a flop, but I think it's a success, at least for our purposes. It gives me a good role, and the audiences lots of laughs. That combination used to mean a hit on Broadway, but this is a new kind of show business. I don't get it."

One of the big headaches of a Broadway producer is the manner in which shows are produced and the various components pulled together almost miraculously... Sets are designed one place and erected elsewhere ... costumes are planned, executed and fitted sometimes in three different locations ... Furniture might come from a dozen or more shops, studios, antique stores, even from the producer's home...Monte Proser being of impatient mien, has eluded all this daffy mixup by giving one firm, the Kaj Velden Studios. contracts to get all his impedimenta together for "Heaven on Earth", the musical Monte is producing with another youngster, Ned C.

Summer theater business is nothing to sneeze at, except maybe for hay fever folk, in the hayloft theaters... "The Voice of the Turtle" amassed a nifty $15,000 for one week at Montclair, N. J., which would be a happy pile of cash for almost any of the current straight Broadway plays, not including "Mister Roberts" and "A Streetcar Names Desire". of course...One long run hit slipped to less than $5,000 in a recent week and still hopes. to span the summer. .. How is business on Broadway? Don't ask.

In a move to increase the opportunities for enlisted men to rise through the ranks on the basis of personal ability, the U. S. In the past, efficiency reports for enlisted men have been made only by officers and have consisted only of one-word ratings such as "satisfactory" or "excellent." The new system, soon to be placed in effect, provides for detailed evalu-ation of technical skill, leadership, and similar qualities.

Under this system, a soldier's efficiency rating will directly affect his chances for promotion, advancement to a more responsible job, or assignment to specialist

All enlisted men above the grade of private will be rated. The reports will be made by the direct superior of the man concernedin most cases a non-commissioned officer. The next higher superior, usually an officer or warrant officer, will check the rating and also indicate his own evaluation.

To Be A Feature Of Sterling Rodeo

Ted Powers, San Angelo, and Earl Teague, Camp Wood, have peen matched in a roping contest which will highlight the rodeo at Sterling City Thursday and Friday evenings.

Each man will rope four calves each night, the title peing decided on the aggregate, said Pete Ainsworth, director of the show.

Goats are being brought daily to the locker plant in preparation for the big free barbecue to be held at the city park at 5 p. m. Thursday. Finishing touches are being put on catch pens, chutes and other facilities, together with an new lighting system, for the rodeo at the school athletic plant. The grounds have been developed so that the pens will remain permanently, still leave the field for softball, football, etc. A dance, with Snuffy Smith and his orchestra furnishing music, is to be held each evening following the show. A parade is set for 4 p. m. and the Goodfellow Field air force band is to participate, according to Daryl Garrett, parade chairman.

Bryant Absorbs Loss Following Sterling Start

The Texas League hall of fame loors were wide open when the fouston hurier's own wildness and reveport doubles slammed

Bryant was two outs away from a no-nit game when he gave up two doubles in the ninth inning and three walks. That tied the count for Shreveport and Dick Mulligan took over mound duties for Houston. He faced just one man, Jack Richards, walked him and forced in the run that gave Shreveport a 3-2 victory.

Other results weren't as dramat ic last night, but they meant a lot in the standings.

Tulsa beat Dallas twice, 6-3, 2-1. to shove the Rebels into seventh place as Oklahoma City knocked off Fort Worth, 6-1. San Antonio lost a 3-2 decision to Beaumont and dropped to within half-game of fifth place Shreveport. Warren Hacker pitched a fine game for Shreveport to win his fifteenth of the season. He gave up three hits. Houston ended up only three hits. Houston ended up with two and scored runs in the fourth and sixth.

Tulsa came back in the last two nings of the short first game to score six runs. Charley Kress' homer in the sixth with two on erased a two-run Dallas lead and the Oliers were off. Dallas blew a one-run lead in the nightcap and Tulsa scored the winning run when Catcher Les Fussellman threw wild to Charley Sproull, covering the plate on a passed ball.

Bill Burgo's single scored Wayne Tucker from third to give Beaumont a 10-inning decision over San Antonio. The win snapped a fivegame shipper losing streak.

Oklahoma City knocked George Brown out of the box and the Fort Worth pitcher lost his first game after six straight victories. Tonight the same teams meet

With TOMMY HART

In a recent edition of the baseball Bible, The Sporting News, Ford Frick, the president of the National league, is quoted as saying he believes that night baseball is allright in its place but it can be over-

Mr. Frick points to the situation at Philadelphia, where the attendance on several occasions has dropped below 10,000 at American league games despite the fact that the A's have remained in the pennant fight.

Mr. Frick is belind the times. Night baseball is here to stay, both in the major and minor leagues. The bushers play at night six times a week and a day contest on Sunday. They do it for business reasons, pure and simple. The working man simply cannot take time off to see a ball game in daylight hours, whereas he usually looks forward to such entertainment in the evening, whether he lives in a place like Philadelphia or Big Spring.

The attendance at night games here varies and more than once the local outfit hasn't drawn enough to pay expenses but that doesn't undermine the faith of the promoters in playing at night,

The first game of the Ballinger series here last week drew around 1100 paid admissions. Due to a program that conflicted with another tion. And what did it attract? Something like 270 paid admissions.

DAY BALL WOULD NEVER PAY OFF IN LOCAL PARK

Last year, the Steeds were forced to play their first 15 or so games during the day time due to lack of arcs. Outside of opening day, they didn't play to enough paying customers all during that time to fill. the park and the grandstand was about half as big then as it is now.

The big league club owners who are planning long range on an exclusive night-ball program probably realize that it will take a while to convert the fans completely to night ball but once the supporters do become accustomed to it they will want nothing else.

MEADEN CAMPAIGNING TO GET IN PLAYOFFS

Claud McAden, the general manager of the San Angelo club, is still working like a beaver in efforts to strengthen his Colts and get them in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

He announced this week he had signed E. H. Moore, a pitcher from Vanderpool, Texas. The Colts have been short on durable hurlers all

GERRY RODRIQUEZ CAN GET CHANCE WITH ABILENE

If Gerry Rodriquez, the veteran righthander, departs the local club - and many think he might draw the pink slip because of his wildness - he can have a chance to show his wares in the WT-NM league.

Howard Green, general manager of the Abilene club, offered to take Roddy off the local club's hands while here a couple of

Not that it matters but Del Rio's Cowboys have already lost all mathematical chance to finish in first place in Longhorn league standings. That means the Steeds could finish no lower than seventh place, even if they lost all their remaining games.

Reed also has 22 acres of blackeyed peas on his farm to build up the land and add organic matter. He said the soil needed lots of organic matter in it.

"The best cotton I have this year is on land that had a good stubble of hegari turned back to the soil." Reed said.

Morris Patterson, district cooperator on his farm north of Elbow, has used peas for several years as a soil building crop. Patterson said he usually plants the peas in every third row of his cotton land. You can always tell where the peas have been because the cotton is larger and makes a third more, Patterson said. Good soil management measures including soil building crops and crop residue management are a part of the coordinated soil conservation program on Patterson's farm.

SHOVEL and HOE

A Garden Column by Virginia Scott. Presented by the Big Spring Garden Club.

SHOVEL and HOE It is amazing how quickly garden can be made to look full and have the effect of having been planted a long, long time, when large specimen plants are used.

We saw such a planting completed within two hours time. Ten plants did the trick. For years this garden, about thirty by forty, five feet in measurement, enclosed by a hedge, with terminal background of evergreens behind a concrete bench, had seemed quite empty. It wasn't such a good growing place anyway, so had been neglected. Finally, it was decided to improve the situation.

Two large Spiny Greek Junipers were used to accent the bench, one on each side. Pfitzer Junipers filled in the gaps between this and the hedge, and large Irish Junipers were placed in opposite corners at the other end of the garden which opened into a path leading into other parts of the grounds. Pfitzer Junipers were used to reinforce this side also.

It seemed as if a miracle had been performed. The garden is now compact, intimate and much more attractive. A few flowering plants would make it more colorful. This same planting could have been started small at less expense, but we doubt if it would have been more appreciated. Everybody likes the magic touch, now and then.

Mass planting of one color or variety has eye appeal much greater than we realize until we actually see a large planting in bloom. Where there is plenty of space, it should be no trouble to have other in season. Leland, Mississippi, has an example of this in Redbud Trees, for early spring bloom, followed by "thousands of Red Roses".

Weeding and hoeing go on. But it is well worth the trouble, as any gardener will say. If Deutzia pruning. This is done with a sharp spade a few feet out from the plant. Hedge roots can be cut back from flower borders in the same manner. Shearing of hedges can go on any time needed. Remember completed recently on the Howard to keep the tops narrower than
