Arabs protest plans of Jew settlements

HEBRON, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Palestinian Arabs staged a general strike Tuesday throughout the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River to protest Israel's plan to settle Jews here, and there were signs the already-strained Israeli-Egyptian Palestinian autonomy negotiations faced new trouble.

Special U.S. Ambassador Sol Linowitz called the Israeli decision to establish two live-in schools in Hebron "disturbing" and added: "I found it, as a negotiator in the autonomy talks, a cause of some concern. I conveyed this to the prime minister. We are regretful the decision was made."

The decision prompted an almost total shutdown of businesses and schools Tuesday in the Israeli-occupied Arab cities of Hebron, Nablus, Ramallah, Bethlehem, Jericho and Halhoul on the West Bank. Partial strikes were reported in Jenin and smaller West Bank towns.

Israeli spokesmen said the only violent outbreak was in the town of Bir

Zeit, 15 miles north of Jerusalem, where youngsters threw stones at Israeli vehicles. The Army Radio station reported that troops fired into the air to disperse the group.

On Monday, Hebron Mayor Fahah Qawasmeh had urged Arabs to resist the Israeli move into Hebron "by all means at our disposal."

During a meeting in Jerusalem, their third in three days, Linowitz failed to win a pledge from Begin to stop settlement activity in occupied Arab territories during the weeks leading up to the May 26 deadline for an Israeli-Egyptian agreement on the Palestinian issue.

"I discussed...the possibility of a freeze and received no favorable response," he said, adding, "on the other hand no rejection, so perhaps this is still being considered."

After the meeting, Sadat said, "I have agreed with Sol that we shall meet after the Alexandria session to reassess the whole situation."

Kennedy wins second primary

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy defeated President Carter in the Connecticut primary election Tuesday night, and sought to match the victory with an upset in New York, revitalizing his challenge for the White House.

George Bush led Ronald Reagan in a close Republican contest in Connecticut. NBC News and CBS News said their projections showed that Bush would upset the former California governor there.

An Associated Press-NBC News voter poll of about 2,000 voters pointed to a substantial Kennedy lead in New York. Kennedy had trailed in pre-primary polls, which showed him narrowing the gap in the final days of the campaign.

Connecticut delivered Kennedy his second primary victory. Carter had won seven primaries. Kennedy's only previous win was in his home Massachusetts primary.

This was the picture in Connecticut: Democrats, with 92 percent of the towns counted:

Kennedy 88,174 or 47 percent, for 29 national convention delegates.

Carter 78,156 votes or 42 percent, for 25 delegates.

On the Republican side, with 90 percent of the vote counted, it was:

Bush 61,082 or 39 percent, for 17 delegates.

Reagan 53,018 or 34 percent, for 12 delegates.

Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois 34,931 or 22 percent for 6 delegates.

Minor and dropout candidates on both ballots accounted for the rest, along with uncommitted.

Threats of trials repeated

By The Associated Press

Tens of thousands of Iranians chanting "The shah must come back!" rallied Tuesday at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran in a show of support for the militants inside. The Moslem clergymen leading them threatened to put the embassy hostages on trial if the exiled monarch is not returned to Iran.

It was the second straight day that Iranian religious leaders warned of hostage trials, after weeks of near-silence on the subject. It apparently pointed to bitter frustration on the part of the Iranians because the shah, by going to Egypt, may have eluded their grasp for good.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told reporters, however, that there are no plans to try the hostages and such demands are made by "irresponsible people." But he did say an Iranian Parliament angered by the shah's move might now decide not to free the 50 American hostages as U.S. officials have hoped.

Ghotbzadeh said the crisis might be eased if the U.N. investigative commission on Iran released its findings about the alleged crimes of shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi during his three decades as Iran's ruler.

But U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said after the five-man commission ended its mission in Tehran earlier this month that the report "cannot be issued... until the hostage problem is solved."

The hostages have been held for 143 days.

The shah's new protector, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, visited the ailing exile at a Cairo hospital Tuesday and said Pahlavi was running a high fever and would be undergoing X-ray tests preliminary to a planned operation for an enlarged spleen. A date for the operation has not been announced.

The shah and his wife, Farah Diba, arrived in Cairo Monday after a flight from Panama, where lawyers for Iran were about to file documents requesting his extradition back to his homeland for alleged mass murder and corruption.

The Iranians said the shah's move was the result of a "treacherous plot" among President Carter, the shah and Sadat. A crowd estimated by observers to number 30,000 to 50,000 spilled into the streets around the occupied embassy Tuesday to protest the shah's transfer.

On Monday, Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, a leading revolutionary and former chief judge of the Islamic courts, said hostages accused of being spies — believed to number only a few — would be put on trial after the new Parliament convenes. The Parliament is expected to convene no earlier than mid-April.

Law school

Interim dean to be selected

By PETE McNABB
UD Reporter

When Lauro Cavazos assumes his role as Tech President Tuesday, one of his first official duties will be to select an interim law school dean to replace Frank Elliott, according to Interim Tech President Lawrence Graves.

A search committee consisting of law school faculty members will probably be formed soon by Vice President for Academic Affairs Charles Hardwick to select a permanent replacement for Elliott, Graves said.

Elliott will assume his newly elected position as president of The Southwestern Legal Foundation in early June.

Graves said he was not sure how long any selection committee may take before selecting a permanent dean.

"It might come very quickly or it might take some time," Graves said. "But it will be a thorough search."

Graves said he would not speculate on who might be considered for the interim position, but he said it would definitely be someone from the Tech Law School.

Graves said he thought the burden of selecting a new Law School dean would not put any additional strain on Cavazos. He added that "the selection committee process works very well."

Graves will be giving up his post to Cavazos Tuesday after serving as interim president for nine months.

The announcement that Elliott was elected president of the Legal Foundation was made Monday in Dallas, headquarters for the Legal Foundation.

Elliott was attending an unrelated meeting in Washington Monday and Tuesday, but he spoke with The University Daily Sunday regarding his election.

"The decision to leave Tech was extremely hard," he said. "If there had been any negative aspects to consider at Tech, it would have been easier to leave."

One possible problem Elliott encountered recently at Tech concerned a committee formed by the Faculty Senate to investigate compliance of the Tech Athletic Council with Southwest Athletic Conference Rules.

Elliott is chairman of the Athletic Council.

However, Faculty Senate President Gary Elbow told The University Daily Tuesday that any conflict Elliott may have encountered with the Faculty Senate was negligible.

"The fact that this particular issue has anything to do with his (Elliott's) leaving Tech is purely coincidental," Elbow added.

Elliott has been dean of the 12-year-old Law School for three years.

Before assuming the deanship, Elliott was the Fullbright and Jaworski professor of Law at The University of Texas Law school from 1958 to 1977.

Light voter turnout expected in today's run-off election

By JOEL BRANDENBERGER
UD Reporter

A light turnout is expected for today's run-off election between John Collins and Mark Reid for Student Association President.

SA officials are expecting a maximum of 2,000 people to vote in the election. Last year, 1,391 students voted in a run-off election between Gary Hanson and Greg Spruill.

"A lot of things can happen to change a turnout," Jim Halpert, SA internal vice president, said. "For instance, both of the candidates last year were in fraternities, while neither of this year's candidates are. Plus, in run-off elections, it's often only the friends of the candidates who bother to vote."

Students voting in the election will need to present both a valid picture ID in addition to their Tech Certificate of Enrollment before they will be allowed to vote, according to Janice Juneau, chairperson of the SA Election Commission.

Juneau said that the picture ID's were to help insure that there were no discrepancies in the election results. Both of the candidates running in the election are basing their campaigns on lobbying in Austin with the state legislature as a primary objective for the coming year.

Among the things they want to concentrate on are the probable increase in tuition for Tech students and funding for various campus groups from the state legislature.

"The tuition increase is inevitable," Collins said in an earlier interview with The University Daily. "The major goal for the coming year is to insure that the increase isn't too high."

Besides lobbying, Reid has also emphasized the need for better communication on campus.

"When you look at the problems the SA has had in the past, it is often linked back to communication problems," Reid said. "There is a lack of effective communication between the senate and the students, between the SA and the administration, and between the students and the administration," Reid added.

Forum participants for national insurance

By REAGAN WHITE
UD Reporter

By a vote of 19 to 10, participants in Tuesday's University Forum voted in favor of the motion that the United States should have national health insurance for all citizens.

Speaking in favor of the motion was Sister Regina Foppe of Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters. Sr. Foppe is also Director of the Social Action Service of the Diocese of Amarillo.

Speaking against the resolution was Dr. C. L. Montgomery of the Lubbock-Crosby-Garza Medical Society. Dr. Montgomery has his doctorate in Family Practice.

Foppe opened the discussion by saying of America's 224 million people, 60 million are at or below the poverty level. These people do not have enough money to pay for adequate medical care, she said.

"We do not need a plan to cover catastrophic accidents, the situation is already catastrophic for these 60 million Americans," Sr. Foppe said.

Foppe said reform of current health care programs, such as Medicare and Medicaid, is needed, as well as reform in the admission and acceptance procedures of hospitals.

Hospitals will be assured of payment for their services, and therefore, this will eliminate long quizzes of sick or injured patients, Foppe said.

Foppe maintained most people are not eager to go to a doctor or dentist, and thus they would not abuse the availability of care with unnecessary visits.

Montgomery opened his remarks by stating no crisis exists in the medical profession as national health insurance advocates would claim.

Any crisis that exists is a crisis created by the need of perpetual health care programs to occupy politicians and bureaucrats, Montgomery said.

Montgomery said Americans are healthier than they have ever been before, according to a statement recently made by the U.S. Attorney General.

Life expectancy has steadily risen during the last two decades until it currently stands at more than 73 years, and infant mortality has steadily declined at a rate of five percent a year since 1965, Montgomery said.

There is not a crisis in availability of care, since there has been a 26 percent increase of medical doctors in Texas in the last five years, Montgomery said. The cost of care has not increased beyond reasonable levels, since prices of the consumer index have increased more rapidly than prices charged by doctors, he said.

Montgomery said a voluntary cost control program has been in effect for the last two years among doctors across America.

The crisis is not in health services, but in politicians playing "fast and loose with taxpayer's money," Dr. Montgomery said.

NEWS BRIEFS

UD awarded first place

For the third consecutive year the University Daily has won first place honors in the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors' Contest.

Pete Sasser, chairman of the mass communications department at the University of South Florida, judged the contest.

In a UD interview, Sasser said that he judged the five Texas entries for general excellence, which includes criteria such as layout, photography, news coverage and editorials.

Sasser said that he was impressed with the papers he judged, which included daily papers from Tech, Houston, North Texas State and Texas Women's University.

Reagan campaigns in Texas

LONGVIEW (AP) — Armed with a fresh endorsement from former presidential opponent John Connally, Republican contender Ronald Reagan brought his campaign to the conservative strongholds of East Texas Tuesday night.

During an earlier campaign stop at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, Connally announced he has thrown his support to Reagan, calling him "the second best man I can think of."

Reagan predicted he would do well in Tuesday's New York primary, but said he expected to fair less well in Connecticut where "I never considered myself going into it a winner because that is George Bush's territory."

Clements pushes birthday party

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "Steam ahead!" Gov. Bill Clements — a self-avowed "history nut" — told a commission Tuesday that is in charge of Texas' 150th birthday celebrations.

The Texas Sesquicentennial Commission got a six-year head start on planning for the 1986 celebration of the state's 150th anniversary of its independence from Mexico.

It was the first meeting for the 24-member commission, nine of whom were appointed by Clements.

The governor's interest in Texas is underscored by a Texana collection he has been building for 30 years. Commission Chairman Chris Semos, a House member and Dallas restaurant owner, said Clements has probably one of the largest private collections of Texas books.

Clements says Shah welcome

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday he would have no objections if the shah of Iran's search for medical care brought the deposed monarch back to Texas instead of to Egypt.

"If he wanted to come back to Texas that would suit me fine," Clements told reporters. "But I wasn't asked before and there's no reason I'd be asked now."

The shah flew to Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio after his release from a New York hospital in December. He quietly left for Panama Dec. 15 and remained there until flying to Cairo this week.

Guerrillas release three hostages

BOGATA, Colombia (AP) — Leftist guerrillas who have occupied the Dominican Republic Embassy for 28 days released three of their 32 hostages Tuesday. All three are Colombian civilians.

The men walked out of the embassy at 3:35 p.m., carrying small bundles that appeared to be clothing.

Military sources outside the embassy identified the men as Jorge Caicedo, Jorge Cendales and Fernando Betancur, Colombian citizens who are not diplomats but were attending the diplomatic reception at the embassy when it was seized Feb. 27. U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio is among the 29 hostages remaining, who include 19 diplomats of ambassadorial rank.

Crisis action, not politics, will aid economy

Tom Wicker

(c) 1980 N.Y. Times News Service

President Carter has at last conceded that the economy has "reached a crisis stage" but nothing suggests that he either knows what to do about it or is willing to do it. His hand will have to be forced politically, if at all.

Carter continues to insist, for example, that quick passage of his energy program will help "resolve the issues." Probably so, over a long period of time, but none of the three bills in question would do anything immediate to level off prices or interest rates or to reduce dependence on imported oil, the rising cost of which has been the major factor in double-digit inflation.

MEANWHILE, 43 senators have signed a resolution to cut federal spending in the next fiscal year and to hold it thereafter to a fixed percentage of the gross national product. Both might be useful steps but neither is the kind of crisis action so clearly needed.

For his part, Chairman Paul A. Volcker of the Federal Reserve Board has pledged that the Fed will "make every reasonable effort" to slow the rate of growth of money and credit. But that, too, deals only with part of the problem; and, in fact, the higher interest rates forced by Fed policies are in themselves inflationary, particularly in housing.

So, even at crisis stage, no one in authority has as yet been willing to propose crisis action, or to recognize that nothing less can cope with 18 percent inflation (annual rate), a collapsing dollar, chaotic credit markets, and the prospect of shipping nearly $100 billion to OPEC for oil imports in 1980, and maybe more thereafter.

OUTSIDE THE government, however, more and more serious people are coming to the conclusion that effective action will have to include some form of wage-price freeze. They include Barry Bosworth and Bruce McLaury of the Brookings Institution and Henry Kaufman of the Salomon Brothers investment banking firm—and, more prominently, Sen. Edward Kennedy, who credits "the economic issue" with his better-than-expected finish in the New Hampshire primary.

For more than a year now, another advocate of crisis action that would include a wage-price freeze has been Felix Rohatyn, the New York investment banker who was the architect of the city's financial redemption after it slid near bankruptcy in 1975. Drawing a parallel to the New York experience, he told the Conference Board Thursday that "we are headed for a national bankruptcy, in this case called runaway inflation."

His proposals, in brief, are for a wage-price freeze, "harsh budgetary restraint," the imposition of a 50 cent-per-gallon gasoline tax and the creation of a National Economic Commission. These actions, Rohatyn argued, would dampen inflationary expectations, show the world that the anti-inflationary and oil conservation programs are serious, provide a "breathing spell" for the development of long-term economic policies, strengthen the dollar, and permit a decline in interest rates.

BEYOND THAT, Rohatyn would strike a "bargain" with OPEC, under which the oil-producing nations would make long-term commitments to the West's oil supply and to price stability; and the United States, aided by Western Europe and Japan, would undertake (1) the military protection of exposed OPEC nations (such as Saudi Arabia), and (2) both to reduce oil consumption and to increase alternate sources of energy. The wage-price freeze would be only a temporary measure, useful for shock effect and to stop the upward spiral of prices and wages; it would be followed by a less stringent wage-price policy ultimately leading back to a free market.

But the real centerpiece of the program would be the gasoline tax.

At 50 cents a gallon, it would cut consumption by 10 percent and bring in $50 billion annually, part of which could be used to fund the military spending made necessary by the bargain with OPEC. The tax also would strengthen the dollar and make it possible to ease the energy burden on low-income persons.

BUT DON'T LOOK FOR such action from the Carter White House, where opposition to wage-price controls is all but ritualistic, and where no inclination has ever been shown to propose anything so unpopular as a stiff gasoline tax. The president's energy proposals of last summer were notable for demanding hardly any sacrifice from rank-and-file citizenry, and Jody Powell ludicrously interpreted the New Hampshire primary as an ENDORSEMENT of the President's economic policies!

In fact, the combined Brown-Kennedy anti-Carter vote in New Hampshire was 48 percent to the president's 49. And New Hampshire advanced the likelihood that the Republicans ultimately will turn to Gerald Ford—the one candidate best able to demand that Carter explain what he has done with the economy Ford turned over to him in 1977.

In that event, or if Kennedy stages a comeback by hammering on the inflation issue, of if the Middle East crisis abates, Carter might be driven to stronger action. Until then, he probably will continue to act as if there is nothing to be done.

Equality

To the Editor:

It has been said we are enjoying a happy fallacy these days. The assumption is that women students have attained equality, both rights and responsibilities. The facts do not support the assumption.

For the past three years the request for funding for softball as an addition to the women's athletic program at Tech has been denied citing lack of funding as the reason. The rumor is that it will be rejected again this year because of the possible merger of the men's and women's athletic departments.

Title IX of the Educational Opportunity Act of 1972 requires that a university offer comparable sports for women, i.e., softball as baseball is an intercollegiate sport for men. Tech is clearly in violation of this law.

Using lack of funding as a reason for not adding softball at this time simply does not make good financial sense. How much money will be used by Tech administration to fight the lawsuits which the present course of discrimination against women will lead to?

How much money will be lost in federal funds when the discriminatory practices of the athletic program are brought to the attention of H.E.W.?

Merging the men's and women's athletic departments is not going to eliminate this problem. Mr. Tamburo's proposed plan for this merger would negate any progress which has been made in the last few years. This plan clearly puts women's athletics in an inferior position.

Depriving the women of even having their own athletic director appears to be affirmative action practiced in reverse.

I ask the administration of Tech to take an honest look at the real problem and take positive moves to eliminate the flagrant discriminatory practices in the athletic program, not increase them.

I ask the Board of Regents to carefully consider the rights of the female athletes at Tech when the question of reorganizing the structure of the athletic program comes up. Please, do not force these young women to go to the courts to get what should be available to them as citizens and students of a tax supported university.

Consequences

To the Editor:

In response to a recent letter on homosexuality, I would like to commend David Morrow for speaking out for what he believes regardless of the consequences. This is what I'm into also.

His letter was a fair one and I hope it will be received fairly and not with malice. But to his remark that homosexuality is not a matter of choice, I feel I must point out what God says about this so that you cannot plead ignorance when you stand before Him.

You should read all of Romans 1:18-32 to get the full effect because I will be putting verses together out of context. But the main theme for our purposes is:

"The wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all men who suppress the truth for even though they knew God, they did not honor Him as God, or give thanks. For this reason God gave them over to degrading passions; for their women exchanged the natural function for that which is unnatural, and in the same way also the men abandoned the unnatural function of the woman and burned in their desire towards one another."

Of course homosexuality will seem natural to some people. So will getting drunk, having pre-marital sex and all other kinds of immorality. There's no reason it shouldn't. You have no control over it—it has control over you.

But God loves you dearly and if you will confess your sinful state and ask Jesus into your heart as I have, He will forgive you completely and release you from the power of sin. The Spirit of God will be placed in your heart for the purpose of helping you to obey God as you should.

"For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord."

No 'approval'

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the administration's old-new policy of requiring campus organizations to register off-campus speakers and have them subject to the administration's approval.

The Concerned and Political Students steadfastly refuse to comply with such a regulation and urge all other student organizations to do the same. Such a regulation is blatantly unconstitutional. It is a direct violation of the First Amendment.

One would have thought that Tech, after losing so many lawsuits over constitutional grounds would have developed enough brains to ask someone who knows a little about constitutional law.

It is indeed sad to behold the current situation in which Tech students must fight the basic battles for free speech and assembly that the rest of the universities fought some 15 years ago, and that the country as a whole fought for 200 plus years ago.

The Board of Regents, Tech administration and all others who support this fascist act may collectively use that regulation as toilet paper. If they continue to use the constitution in the same manner then who knows, it just might be time to overthrow the existing governing body of Tech by whatever means necessary.

So, we of the Concerned and Political Students demand that the Administration revoke such an archaic and Fascist regulation.

Frisbee club

To the Editor:

I am hoping to organize a Frisbee club (As you know, Frisbee is a brand name and a registered trademark of Wham-O Manufacturing Company).

Tech has 14 sport clubs that compete intercollegiate, and as popular as Frisbee is becoming as a sport, one wonders why a club cannot be started here.

The purpose of a sport club is to organize interested individuals who wish to refine their skills and then to employ them in competition.

The major events in Frisbee are ultimate, golf, guts, freestyle, and various individual throwing events. There are, of course, innumerable games and events that can be designed or adapted for the Frisbee.

If you are interested in Frisbee as a sport, then please go by the Recreational Sports building (the new office is on the second level at the north end) and leave your name, address, and phone number, or call me at 742-5840.

Tech student elected TSEA state president

Challenging and time-consuming describe the job of Texas Student Education Association (TSEA) State President, according to Janie L. Johnson, a Tech student recently elected to the position.

A junior from Lamesa, Johnson is the first Tech student to hold the state presidency in more than 15 years. She is majoring in elementary education with a specialization in speech communications.

TSEA is the student affiliate of Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA). There are about 8,000 TSEA members, at most major universities and junior colleges in Texas, Johnson said.

Johnson will work closely with TSTA and its lobbyists in Austin, she said. She will live in Austin from August through December, 1980.

Johnson is also a member of Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity, as well as the speech team and Swing Choir.

Lions Club offers camps for handicapped

By CARMON McCAIN
UD Reporter

James (not his real name) stepped out of the large swimming pool. As the water beaded on his back, he asked where his towel was.

"It's four paces ahead, then eight paces to your right," replied a small voice near the pool bench.

James walked off the paces then bent to reach the towel. "It's next to your left foot," the child said.

James found the white towel and began drying himself off. As he did so, his blindness prevented him from seeing the child putting the leg braces on.

Such scenes with blind, diabetic or handicapped children assisting each other is not uncommon at the Texas Lions Camp.

The Texas Lions League for Crippled Children, Inc., a non-profit charitable organization funded by Lions Clubs and others interested in serving the handicapped, operates three programs from the campsite at Kerrville.

Since its inception in 1953, the Camp has provided free summer fun for about 19,000 blind, deaf, mute and orthopedically handicapped children.

Supervised recreation for the handicapped and diabetic camp sessions includes swimming, camp-outs, crafts and nature lore as well as individual and team sports.

Rounding out the camper's evening activities are dances, picnics, movies and contests.

According to Glenn Crawford, executive director of the camp, the second largest number of children in the Camp's 28-year history attended the 1979 session.

"The lives of 1,056 children were touched—giving these children an opportunity to seek out individual feelings of their handicap in an atmosphere of true acceptance. To allow these children to mature and accept responsibility while having fun at camp is one of the greatest gifts given," Crawford said.

The League also sponsors the Texas Camp for Diabetic Children, supervised by the Department of Pediatrics of the University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston.

This summer, the League will use leased facilities at Camp Rio Vista at Hunt and the Kerrville camp for the diabetic sessions.

Crawford said space at the two diabetic camps is limited. "We can accommodate 170 campers at the Kerrville camp and 150 at Camp Rio Vista," he said.

Children who are between 6 and 16 and who are insulin dependent also are eligible to attend the two two-week sessions. New campers have priority over former campers, Crawford said. All applications are screened by a Medical Advisory Committee.

Children age 7-16 who are deaf, blind or physically handicapped are eligible for the handicapped sessions.

According to Crawford, children must have an IQ of 70 or above to be assigned to a camp session. He also adds children must have normal bowel or kidney control. Children should also have some degree of self-help skills in eating and dressing, he said.

Camper applications are submitted to the Lions Camp by individual Lions Clubs in the state.

Applications for the handicapped or diabetic camps are available from the Texas Lions Camp, Box 247, Kerrville 78028 or from local Lions Club members.

On record: The Beatles live in the Sam Houston Coliseum

THE LATE GREAT LOST RECORD REVIEW
(OR... ALBUMS YOU MIGHT HAVE MISSED)

BY M.W. CLARK

to find rare recordings regardless of quality, simply because they exist. Imperfections are graciously overlooked. Up until now, nearly all live Beatle bootlegs (recordings released without the band's permission) from this period were of inferior quality. "Beatles... Sam Houston Colosseum" is a welcome exception.

Only the Capitol release, "The Beatles at the Hollywood Bowl," can boast better fidelity and mixes than "Sam Houston Colosseum." But this is because George Martin, the Beatles' producer, oversaw the project.

But "Sam Houston

Colosseum" is better in other respects. It gives a full perspective of what a Beatles' concert was like. The "Hollywood Bowl" album actually only offers the better half of their 1964 and 1965 shows.

The packaging of "Sam Houston Colosseum" is also superior. Capitol has a strange idea that they need to make their recent Beatle releases nostalgic, instead of relying simply on the music. Thus Capital splashed Beatle memorabilia all over the inset of the "Hollywood Bowl" album.

"Sam Houston Colosseum" features on the cover a rare alternate photo from the infamous "butcher cover" photo session. If there is any nostalgia, "Sam Houston Colosseum" gives the owner of the record the chance to enjoy the nostalgia in his head where it exists in the first place. If it isn't there it cannot be created.

"Keep your seats, please... Quiet! Quiet! Quiet! Ladies and Gentlemen, for the first time in Houston, the Beatles!!!"

The Beatles take the stage, check guitars and mikes and drive right into the old Isley Brothers' hit "Twist and Shout" followed by its own, "She's a Woman."

During the show, John and Paul take turns on most of the song introductions. Paul, being in Texas, is amused by his newly acquired Texas vocabulary which consists of "howdy y'all."

The Beatles didn't play long sets then, and shows at the Coliseum consisted of only 12 songs. One of those 12, "Dizzy Miss Lizzie," gives credibility to the Beatles' title as being the world's greatest rock 'n' roll band.

Considering that the band members didn't have monitors to hear themselves over all the screaming, the Beatles played amazingly tight. "I Feel Fine" demonstrates that ability with its innerwoven guitar licks as does the synchronization in "Ticket to Ride."

Other songs performed in each show included "Can't Buy Me Love," "Baby's in Black," "A Hard Day's Night," "I Wanna Be Your Man," and the band's newest hit single, "Help." The group ended each show with a Little Richard-Styled rocker, "I'm Down."

The two shows, the afternoon concert and the evening concert, are nearly identical. Captured, however, in the first show is the crowd rushing the stage, and the emcee interrupting the show, trying to retain some kind of order and sanity. This reflects a certain part of history that could not really be understood in today's music industry.

In both shows the vocals sound strained, which is understandable considering the pressures and time schedules the Beatles faced. The scratchy vocals, however, do not in the least detract from the performances, and in an unusual way perhaps add to the excitement.

"The Beatles Live from the Sam Houston Colosseum" needs to be heard if only to realize that it really did happen and wasn't just a dream.

There are those who do not understand the personal magnetism of the Beatles in performance. To them, the music sounds crude, and the screaming is distracting and annoying. I feel sorry for these people.

The Beatles created an electricity the world had never known before. Even with the limitations of musical sound reinforcement (public address systems and amplification) in the mid-'60's, the Beatles could control an audience with a nod of the head or by lifting a foot. Their music, themselves, and their fans created an amazing bond of power that never has been reproduced. This excitement can be relived only on recordings.

Houston, Texas, August 19, 1965 — the Beatles played two shows before sellout crowds in the Sam Houston Coliseum. Remotely-recorded recordings were made by KILT (Radio). Finally 13 years later, these recordings were released on the double album set, "The Beatles Live from the Sam Houston Colosseum." (Note: they misspelled Coliseum). Collectors usually are happy

Author to speak

By KIM LEMONS
UD Staff

Joseph Heller, best-selling author of "Catch-22," "Something Happened," and most recently, "Good as Gold," will be speaking at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the UC Theatre.

Described by critics as a "chronicler of our chaos and insanities" (Writer's Digest) and "the first major American writer to deal with unrelieved misery at novel length," (NY Times), Heller has acquired almost a cult following for his books, especially "Catch-22."

"Catch-22," with over 10 million copies in print, has been described as the biggest-selling "serious" novel in American publishing history. However, Heller describes his current novel, "Good as Gold," as "a comedy about a serious subject" and claims, "it's very close to a conventional novel."

Although he describes his writing as "a kind of directed daydreaming, a directed reverie" the process is actually much more complicated.

Heller will appear on campus through a co-sponsorship of UC Cultural Events and the English Department. Tickets are $2 for Tech students, $2.50 for faculty and $3 for others, and are available at the UC Ticket Booth.

Tech, HSU split doubleheader

by JEFF REMBERT
UD Sports Writer

Jimmy Zachry slammed two home runs and drove in seven runs to power Tech to an 18-5 second game win and a split of Tuesday's doubleheader against Hardin-Simmons.

Zachry's homers were supported by Dan Hejl's blast as the 11-15 Raiders rebounded from a 3-1 first game loss to the 15-13 Cowboys.

Terry Willis (3-2) benefited from Tech's offensive effort in the second game. He allowed one run in two innings while relieving starter Matt Dean. Dean pitched the first three innings, but he allowed three unearned runs.

Both teams scored single runs in the first inning of the second contest, and the Cowboys added another run in the second.

Tech, however, tallied four runs in the second and third innings to take a commanding 9-3 lead.

Zachry first unloaded in the fourth inning for his second home run of the season. The two-run shot over the 340 sign in left field scored teammate Dee Law who was making his first start ever as a Raider.

After Hardin-Simmons scored one run in the fifth inning to close the gap to 12-4, Tech exploded for six runs to put the game out of sight.

Jeff Harp started the on-slaught with a single to left. Hejl followed with his second homer of the season over the

Jamie Miller and Mark Johnston pitched the last two innings for Tech as the Raiders snapped an eight-game losing streak. Tech's last win came during the first game of the Houston series March 14. Also knocking in runs for the Raiders in the second game were Steve Elder, Johnny Grimes, Brooks Wallace, Hejl and Farmer with two apiece. Law knocked in one run.

"I've got three more years, because I'm a freshman," Zachry said. "I needed today, especially after the A&M series where I had problems with errors."

Zachry, a Midland product, didn't see any action in the first game when the Raiders' offensive attack was shut down by the Cowboys' Mike Richard (2-1).

Hardin-Simmons scored single runs in the third, sixth and seventh innings to subdue Tech 3-1. The Cowboys collected seven hits off of three Raider pitchers. The Raiders only collected four hits against Richard.

Tech's only run came in the bottom of the seventh inning when Grimes, pinch-hitting for Jimmy Jones, hit a double 419 feet to the base of the center field wall to score Wallace.

Wallace walked to open the inning, and he advanced to second on Gene Segrest's pinch-hit single to center. A sacrifice fly to center by Kevin Rucker moved Wallace to third.

Tech Head Coach Kal Segrist attributed Tech's poor offensive showing to the players trying to pull the ball to left field too much.

Basketball courts

Tech students wishing to play basketball will no longer have to endure waiting for a court or suffer crowded conditions. The newly opened Recreational Center will have 35,000 square feet which will accommodate five basketball courts, six volleyball courts, 12 badminton courts, and five tennis courts. The floor is a special synthetic multi-purpose surface designed for low maintenance, low cost and quietness.

Arizona State, who won the tourney, finished with an 894.

The Raiders began the tournament with a 319 first-round score, tying for 13th place with New Mexico. Mary DeLong had a 78 despite bogeys on the last three holes. Linda Hunt and Liz Remy fired 80s and Robin Wohlman had 81. Jane Naylor shot an 83, her collegiate best.

Women netters triumph; Men thrashed

While the Tech women netters won its 26th dual match of the year in sweeping West Texas State, 7-0, the Houston Cougars gave the Tech men's tennis team a rather rude welcome to 1980 SWC play Tuesday at the Lubbock Racquet Club. The 14th ranked Cougars notched an 8-1 win over the Raiders.

In women's action only number one seed Regina Revello had much of a struggle in the singles match.

getting ready for the University of Texas Team Tournament and the State Team Tournament which are our two biggest challenges in the next month," said Coach Mickey Bowes.

Tech, now 26-12-1 and 12-6 during the spring, will send four players to the Abilene Easter Tournament that begins Saturday.

For the men the loss leaves Tech with a 15-9 season mark, a 9-8 spring slate, and an 0-1 SWC record. The Raiders will visit Rice at 2 p.m. Thursday in Houston.

by a 9-0 margin.

Houston swept the Raiders 6-0 in singles and registered two wins in doubles play. Tech's lone victory came in doubles, a 6-3, 7-6 win by Gregg Davis and Jose Rivera over Juan Ayala and Mike Livschitz.

Iowa State hires Orr

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa State Athletic Council, without a dissenting vote from the 10 members present, voted Tuesday to hire Michigan's Johnny Orr as the new ISU basketball coach.

"Johnny Orr is one of the finest coaches in the country," said ISU Athletic Director Lou McCullough at the conclusion of the council voting.

Orr was flown to Ames Tuesday to be present for interviews by the news media following the council session.

Orr replaces Lynn Nance, who resigned with a month left to go in the season.

"It's the toughest decision I've ever made," Orr said in an interview before he left Michigan. "I love Ann Arbor and I love Michigan and I hate to leave. But I feel this is a new challenge and it's a great opportunity. I want to see if I can build this Iowa State's program."

Orr, a 12-year Michigan coaching veteran, said the six-year contract ISU offered by a major consideration.

He said the contract includes a $45,000 annual starting salary. He is now paid $33,665 at Michigan.

The council decision ends weeks of speculation and searching for a successor to Nance, who was immediately replaced by assistant coaches Reggie Warford and Rik Samuels.

Women's Super Stars begins

Entries are due by 5 p.m. today in the Rec Sports Office for the women's version of Super Stars. The competition begins Friday and continues through April 3.

Each contestant will choose eight of the following 10 activities in which to participate: bowling, tennis, basketball free throw, badminton, swimming, innertube race, softball throw, miniature golf, 880-yard run, and 100-yard dash.

Varsity team members may compete in all events except the one or ones they already compete in during the 1979-80 school year.

Scoring will be on a 10-point scale for each activity. Activity areas will be open for warmup or practice 30 minutes prior to competition. The winner of Super Stars will be the individual who accumulates the highest number of points for eight activities.

Each contestant is responsible for paying her own fees for bowling and miniature golf. Missing an event will result in disqualification from Super Stars.

A schedule of the events appears below:

BOWLING—3:30 p.m. Friday at Brunswick Bowl. The cost will be 85 cents.

TENNIS—1 p.m. April 7 at the Women's Gym tennis courts. The single elimination process will be used.

BASKETBALL FREE THROW—9 p.m. Tuesday at the new Rec Center. Each contestant will shoot 25 free throws.

BADMINTON—9:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Rec Center. The winner of the match will be the one who wins two out of three games.

SWIMMING—8 p.m. April 2 at the Aquatic Center. Participants will swim 50 yards freestyle.

INNERTUBE RACE—7 p.m. April 2 at the Aquatic Center. Each contestant will sit in an innertube and paddle or kick two lengths of the pool.

SOFTBALL THROW—5:30 p.m. April 3 at the field adjacent to the Tech Baseball Diamond. Each participant will receive three throws. Winners will be determined by the farthest throw of each contestant.

MINIATURE GOLF—2 p.m. April 3 at the Putt-Putt golf course. The cost will be $1.25. The Putt-Putt course will give each contestant a free coke.

880-YARD RUN—5:30 p.m. April 3 at Fuller Track Field. Participants will run around the track twice.

100-YARD DASH—5:30 p.m. April 3 at Fuller Track Field. There will be no exceptions on the dates or times because of the setup of the tournament. Each event will start promptly at the scheduled time. Rescheduling for postponements because of bad weather will be announced by the Rec Sports Office.

Contestants must sign up in the Rec Sports Office. For more information, call 742-3351.

The tournament will get under way March 28 and continue through April 4. The games will be played in the Men's Gym, Women's Gym, and the new Recreational Center Gym.

The champions of each division will be awarded embossed nylon jackets. The runners-up will get golf shirts, and the third place finishers will be awarded trophies.
