Tech Team Captures First In NIRA Rodeo Competition

Edd Workman, selected as the All-Round Cowboy, led the Tech Rodeo Team to the overall team championship of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Assn. rodeo in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum Saturday night.

The victory moved Tech into first place in team standings in the Southwest Region ahead of Sul Ross, runner-up in Saturday's competition.

Workman, national intercollegiate all-round cowboy for two years, won the saddle bronc riding, placed second in the bareback bronc riding and placed third in the first round of ribbon roping to score 210 points and beat out Pete Lewis of Sul Ross for the all-round cowboy award. Lewis scored 150 points. Workman was awarded a $250 saddle.

H. C. Zachry and Susie Couch were chosen as the winners of the annual Dub Parks Award at the Tech Rodeo Thursday night. The award is given to the outstanding male and female of the Tech Rodeo Club each year.

Tech scored 480 points to Sul Ross's 370 in the team race. Benton Wardlow and H. C. Zachry placed second and third respectively in steer wrestling. Clyde Ford placed second in the ribbon roping and Harold Williams placed second behind Workman in saddle bronc riding.

A third place went to Bill Barrett in bull riding and Jerry Carson won fourth in ribbon roping. Wardlow also placed second in the second round of the calf riding.

Prizes, including $50 belt buckles, $40 boots, $20 hats and $10 shirts, were awarded to the first six places in each event. Sul Ross won the girls' team trophy.

Should Tech continue its winning ways and be named the top team in the Southwest Region, its members will receive an expense paid trip to Denver to compete in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Assn. Finals for the World Championship June 19-24.

The team will go to Hardin-Simmons next week to pit its skill against the members of the 14 other schools in this region. Following that they will go to Silver City, N. M.

PLAYING SOLDIER — Four Army ROTC sweethearts — Betty Mosher, Jane Loughmiller, Mary Jo Garrett and Joy Hamilton — aim for a win in the race for Sweetheart of the annual Military Ball. Not pictured is the fifth finalist, Lois Kullenberg. Army cadets will cast penny votes this week to decide which of the five will be named Army Sweetheart at the Ball Friday night.

Junior Council Taps Members In Early Morning Ceremonies

At 6:30 a.m. today 20 sophomore girls were awakened and named as members of next year's Junior Council, Tech's women's honorary service organization.

They were chosen to the honor by outgoing Council members on the basis of outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership and service to Tech.

"Responsibility, high character and dependability are the other qualities considered in selecting members for Junior Council," Jo Anne Caldwell, president, said.

After the girls had been tapped for membership they were honored at a breakfast followed by pledging ceremonies.

Initiation ceremonies are set for Woman's Day, May 1, in the Tower Room of the Chemistry Bldg. At this time the initiates will be presented the red blazers worn by Council members.

Those tapped today were Karen Anderson, Jan Barton, Karla Dickson, Karen Fickert, Mary Gaskin, Cathy Gordon, Hazael Hale, Judy Hawkins and Myla Henderson.

Other new Council pledges are Linda Hill, Annette Inmon, Nancy Jones, Jan Justice, Carolyn Kelley, Betty McFarren, Ann Orrick, Judy Price, Anita Queen, Glen Reid and Carolyn Wood.

The women's honorary performs various services for Tech and the projects are selected each year by the new Council. This year's Junior Council activities included counting ballots, hosting, fun books for hospitalized patients and work with the academic and athletic recruiting committees.

Awards Dinner Honors Top Language Students

Foreign language students and faculty members will attend the department's annual awards dinner at 6:30 p.m. today in the upstairs Ballroom of the Tech Union.

Featured speaker for the evening is Dr. Marshall Nason, formerly a special consultant to the Peace Corps. Dr. Nason will discuss "The New Dimension in Foreign Service: Accent on Youth."

Outstanding French students will be given medals, supplied by the French embassy, and books, donated by the French consulate.

Certificates of merit, given by the American Association of Teachers of German, will be awarded to outstanding German students. In addition two cups will be presented. The first, the Dr. W. F. Anderson Cup, will go to the outstanding pre-med student in German. The Lucian Thomas Leadership Cup will go to a student who has made outstanding contributions to the German Club activities.

The Latin division will give books to the best student in each of the three years of study.

Awards will go to the best student of Portuguese at the first and second year level.

The best students in the first and second years of Russian will receive a certificate of merit, donated by a Russian newspaper in New York, Novoye Russkoye Slovo.

In the Spanish division the best student from each of the three third-year classes will be recognized. An award will be presented to the outstanding senior prospective Spanish teacher.

The Spanish honorary, Sigma Delta Pi, will give an award to the best student in a 400 course. It will also present a medal — the Order of Don Quixote — to a member of the Spanish staff.

A feature of the evening will be the announcement of the recipient of the Roscoe Wilson Memorial Scholarship in Foreign Languages, which will go to an undergraduate major in the department.

Music Department Rehearses For Contemporary Symposium

The Tech Symphony Orchestra, Opera Theater, Madrigal singers and Concert Band are staging rehearsals for the music departments Annual Symposium of Contemporary Music. The Symposium will be presented in three evening concerts Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Wednesday night concert at 8:15 in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium will be given jointly by the orchestra and the opera theater. The orchestra, directed by Paul Ellsworth, will perform four works beginning with the premiere of a work by Mary Helen McCarty, instructor of theory and piano at Tech.

Second on the program will be the Lubbock premiere of "Elegy," a piece by Ramon Zupko, resident composer in Lubbock working under a Ford Foundation grant. "Elegy" received the Benjamin Prize in Composition at the Julliard School of Music in 1957. The last two works to be performed by the orchestra are "The Winter's Past," by Ernst Toch. The opera is under the direction of Charles Lawrie, who revised this operatic setting of the familiar children's tale, "Once Upon a Mattress."

The Tech Concert Band, Stage Band and brass groups will present the second concert of the Symposium Thursday evening at 8:15 in the Instrumental Room of the Music Bldg. The two bands are under the direction of Dean Killion and the brass groups are directed by Richard Tolly.

The final concert of the 11th Annual Symposium will be given Friday evening in the Recital Hall of the Music Bldg. The Opera Theater, directed by Charles Lawrie, will present "The Telephone," a one-act opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

Tech Orchestra Performs Various Activities, Tours

By TOMMIE ALLEN
Toreador Staff Writer

The Tech Symphony Orchestra earned another feather for Tech's cap last week. The musical group played five concerts in the Amarillo schools on a two-day tour, receiving praise for all five performances.

Clad in black and directed by Paul Ellsworth, the group received encore after encore as they played pieces ranging in style from classical to contemporary.

"The school, the music department, and I are all proud of your fine tour performances," Ellsworth told the group. "This is a growing organization in which we can all take pride."

The Tech Orchestra is composed of over 60 students, many of whom are music majors. However, a surprising number of students majoring in everything from chemistry to home economics, enjoy playing in the orchestra for pleasure.

Ellsworth schedules a tour for his group each year.

"It helps to build the reputation of Tech and the orchestra," he said, "in addition to giving the students experience in professional type performances."

He also commented that he feels the annual tour brings high school and junior high students in contact with a different kind of music and cultivates their interest in it.

The orchestra performed its annual Christmas concert to a packed house last December and presented an opening program for the Fine Arts Festival.

Two more concerts are scheduled for the orchestra this semester. Wednesday night they will present a program of contemporary music in conjunction with the Tech Opera Theater. A commencement concert is scheduled for May.

Students Highlight Poetry Hour

Thursday's Poetry Hour will all depend on the student this week. It is a do-it-yourself Poetry Hour at 4 p.m. on the Tech Union Sun Porch.

Students will be featured reading and discussing favorite poems. All students who would like to read poems they have written or poems by someone else are invited by the Tech Union Ideas and Issues Committee to attend Thursday's Poetry Hour.

Tech Officials Win Decorating Contest

Tech's academic officials went back to their childhood this Easter by dyeing and decorating Easter eggs for the Eggs That Made the Dean's List Contest, sponsored by Tech Union's Public Relations Council.

The most beautiful egg was decorated by Florence Phillips, dean of women. Honorable mention went to Dr. W. M. Pearce, academic vice president.

Dr. John Ross Bradford, dean of Engineering School, won first place for the most original egg. Dean Willa Vaughn Tinsley, professor and dean of Home Economics, received honorable mention.

In the most humorous division, S. M. Kennedy, dean of Arts and Sciences, won first and Bob Hilliard, assistant dean of men, received honorable mention.

New Handbook Features Departmental Information

A 49-page handbook giving information about every department at Tech — along with facts about the special services offered on campus — has recently been released by the President's Hostesses.

Copies have been distributed to department heads, various administrative officials and members of President's Hostesses, a committee of the Association of Women Students.

"The basic purpose of the booklet was to collect interesting information about each department so that the Hostesses could tell campus visitors facts about Tech," said M. L. Pennington, vice president and comptroller of Tech.

"It is a top notch handbook and the only one of its kind on campus," Pennington continued. "It provides information on the academic departments that has never been available before."

The booklet was written by members of the Hostess group who visited the departments and interviewed department heads. Information such as the size of departments, number of majors, location on campus, programs offered and departmental clubs is included in the booklet.

"It gets to the grass roots of the schools," declared Cathy Gordon, chairman of the Hostess committee. "The publication differs from a catalogue in that there is a description of departments, as a whole, in relation to Tech.

"Booklets are available to department members through department heads," she concluded.

Fraternity Elects 1962-63 Officers

Alpha Epsilon Delta, national pre-med fraternity, elected officers for the 1962-63 school year at a business meeting last week. They are George Privett Jr., president; Hunter Heath III, vice president; Rosemary Laramore, secretary; John Knight, treasurer; Randy Frederiksen, historian; and Franklin Ashdown, reporter.

AFROTC CADET WIVES RECEIVING CERTIFICATES

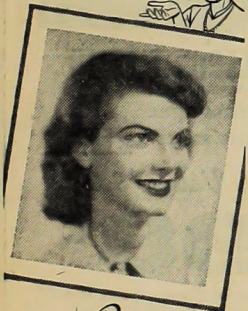

... at a tea in Tech Union are Mrs. Danny Williams, left, and Mrs. Tony Benson, right. Presenting the diplomas is Mrs. Wayne Harrison, president of AFROTC Cadet Wives' Club. The husbands of Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Benson expect to go on active duty with the Air Force following commissioning exercises in May.

Tech's AFROTC detachment of officers' wives entertained AFROTC Cadet Wives' Club members at a tea in the Anniversary Room of Tech Union Monday evening.

The Cadet Wives' Club has met regularly throughout the school year. Its primary purpose is to acquaint cadets' wives with life in the Air Force.

Activities for the year will be concluded with a dinner-dance May 5 in the Officers' Club at Reese AFB.

Toreador Mail Call...

Dear Editor:

There has been a lot of talk going around the campus about the new Southwest Conference magazine, THE BACCHANAL. I have a few comments to make about this publication and your column in the Toreador seems to be the best place for them.

Fortunately, I missed the first issue of this "fine publication." Unfortunately, I had the opportunity to scan (I was too repulsed to read it thoroughly) through the contents. I would like to congratulate the editorial staff of the Bacchanal for choosing such interesting topics to expound upon such as Hemorrhoids, The Will Rogers Statue on the Tech Campus (I am referring, of course to the statement that Mr. Rogers will climb down from his horse should a virgin pass by), and JFK's refusal to correspond with the Bacchanal. Frankly, I can't see how anybody could blame the president for refusing to answer any letters he might receive from the "Southwest Conference Humor Magazine." I would refuse to be a part of it too, were I in an office so important.

Granted, some of the material in the Bacchanal is amusing, interesting, and extremely funny. I do not, however, condone the use of such words as hell, damn, bitch . . . and a few others that I did not look closely enough to read. It seems to me that the staff of the Bacchanal would be a little more careful in the words they select to publish. (I am referring to an incident which cost the same staff their jobs on the staff of a publication at the U. of Texas.) Also, you may notice a very sacrilegious cartoon on the back inside cover of the current issue. I found this joke about as funny as a snakebite.

These people are making ridicule of one of America's most prized possessions . . . FREEDOM OF THE PRESS. A magazine of this nature could serve a constructive purpose. But, unfortunately, the opportunity has fallen into the hands of ostensible high society juvenile delinquents . . . such a waste.

Sincerely yours,
David Day

Dear Sir,

We, as Tech Exes, are opposed to changing the name of Texas Tech to Texas State University.

We feel a name should be chosen with Texas Tech in it so the college won't lose its identity.

Sincerely,
Mary Frances Werhan
(Mrs. Glenn Werhan)
(Editor's Note: I'm sorry. The college has already lost its identity — it's now a university.)

STRAIGHT MATTER

by Nolan Porterfield

(Editor's note: Opinions expressed by Toreador column writers do not necessarily reflect the opinion of the outgoing Toreador editor. The following column is not an exception.)

TWENTY YEARS FROM NOW, WHO WILL REMEMBER: The twist? . . . strangely best-selling books like "Little Me," "Chairman of the Bored," "The Carpetbaggers," "My Saber is Bent," and "Calories Don't Count"? . . . Ben Casey? . . . The John Birch Society? . . . the grade you made in English 231? . . . Billie Sol Estes? . . . that a hot, hard and heavy battle was once fought, and lost, to change the name of Texas Technological College? . . . the girls who wore Liz blouses? . . . Liz blouses? . . . Liz?

One day last week, while tediously and tiresomely extracting myself and the old family chariot from the C&O parking lot, I was happily surprised to find some new landscaping on the campus. I refer to the area just north of the Power Plant, which has just been cleared of a motley assortment of shacks, drooping fences and weed jungles. The result not only enhances appearances considerably, but it allows drivers exiting from the C&O and West Engineering parking lots to enter 8th Street without upping periscope or sending out an expedition to see what's coming.

Nice going there, Administration, maintenance crews, Planning Committee, construction companies, Traffic Committee and all you other swell folks who may or may not have had a hand in the affair.

While we at Texas Tech do have our parking and traffic problems, perhaps we shouldn't complain too much: students at California Polytech last week were protesting an exorbitant $9-per-quarter parking fee. (However, it should be noted that tuition is free in all state-supported schools in California.)

This week marks an epoch at the Toreador, with a new staff assuming duties from the editorship on down. The old Clan, of course, will remain in nominal control until the end of the semester, but I think Techsians will be seeing some significant changes in the paper as a result of incoming Editor Bill McGee's influence. One indication of this is the new lineup of columnists which, beginning this week, will offer "equal time" to conservative and liberal viewpoints. With Kip Glascock speaking for conservative elements and Grover Lewis presenting liberalist opinion, the series promises to be a lively and informative one; and it will certainly help dispel the old criticism that the Toreador is consistently one-sided.

Somewhat more of a problem exists in trying to apply this principle of equalization to other, more local dichotomies, involving such apolitical items as the school name change, the parking problem and the fraternity meet-drink-and-get-blasted question. However, I'm sure one and all will get full and fair play from the new Toreador management, and I hope that Bill and his co-workers will be able to accomplish one vital function that most of their predecessors seem to have found difficult almost to point of impossibility: consistent and comprehensive coverage of campus events, including everything from directors' meetings to the weekly get-together of the Melvin T. Zilch Society for the Care and Feeding of Appalachian Night Crawlers.

Dr. Nason Will Speak On Peace Corps Today

Dr. Marshall Nason, former consultant to the Peace Corps, will be on the Tech campus today conducting informal conferences on the Peace Corps.

Dr. Nason is here as speaker for today's annual foreign languages award dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the upstairs Ballroom of Tech Union. He will speak on "The New Dimension in Foreign Service: Accent on Youth."

Interested students and faculty members may consult with Dr. Nason at 10 and 11 a.m. and 2 and 3 p.m. in the Union Workshop. In conjunction with the meetings, a 50-minute documentary on the Peace Corps Tanganyika project will be shown in Rm. 11 of Tech Library.

Dr. Nason will also interview persons interested in teaching in Ecuador schools at the ninth and tenth grade levels. To be considered, the applicant must offer Spanish as his native language.

At 12:15 Dr. Nason will be honored by the foreign languages department with a luncheon in the Anniversary Room of the Union. The rest of his day will be spent in conference and touring the campus.

Dr. Nason worked with the Peace Corps in Washington as special consultant to the director. He was also engaged in project exploration in Venezuela and was regional director for Argentina, Chile and Uruguay. He is now director of the foreign studies division at the University of New Mexico.

A native of Canada, Dr. Nason has a B.A. and M.A. Degree from Louisiana State University. He received his Ph.D. at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Nason is co-author of a Spanish textbook used in Tech's foreign language department and has written many other articles and books on Spanish literature and teaching methods.

SIE Chooses New Officers

Texas Tech's Sigma Iota Epsilon, national honorary professional management fraternity, has elected new officers for 1962-63.

Those elected were Mel Mefford, Borger, president; Jesse Holloway, Amarillo, vice president; Burl Hubbard, Lubbock, secretary-treasurer; and David Swaringin, Rotan, personnel manager.

Professional members include Dr. F. L. Mize, Dr. William Cain, Dr. John Ryan, Mrs. Vincent Luchsinger, Burl Hubbard and Harry Walker, members of Tech's faculty.

The monthly meeting of SIE will be tonight at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Luchsinger, 4830 24th St., Lubbock.

KTXT Begins Series Of Student Programs

Student interviews, poetry and music will be programmed by KTXT-FM each evening at 10 p.m. beginning Wednesday.

The program series was produced by students for class assignments. The best tapes have been selected to play on the Tech radio station.

Poetry read by Tech faculty members is featured on three 15 minute programs produced by Marilyn Garrard, Jimmy Kay Norman and Tye Hillger. Faculty members featured on the programs are Dr. P. Merville Larson, head of the speech department; Dr. Kline A. Nall, professor of English; and Annah Pendleton, speech instructor.

Gayle Teter and Alayne Kornbluh recorded several concerts of the Tech band. The students have made the music into three 15 minute programs.

Sanatra tone poems and student interviews were produced in two 30 minute programs by Jan Barton and Billy Vaughn.

Phone Call Implies Tech Is 'Big Time'

Another sign of spring:

The Toreador received an anonymous phone call Saturday morning from a gentleman with a deep, dignified voice.

"I thought you might be interested in a story about Tech getting into the railroad industry and big business.

"We have the C&O Bldg., and that could be the C&O. Line. The new Library Bldg. looks like a radiator, so that could be General Motors. The new women's dormitory could be American Telephone & Telegraph."

Pi Beta Phi Cops First At Fiji Olympics Meet

Pi Beta Phi flexed its muscles at points and third place winner Kap-Drane Hall Saturday afternoon and walked off with the team in at least one of the seven events. The events and the winners are: sack race, Pi Phi; three-legged race, Sigma Kappa; baseball throw, Kappa Alpha Theta; wheelchair race, Kappa Alpha Theta; tug-of-war, Chi Omega; silt race, Pi Phi; and egg throw, Phi Mu.

The victory gave the Pi Phi's permanent possession of the traveling trophy awarded to the winning team each year.

Delta Delta Delta had the largest turnout and won the sportsmanship trophy.

Pi Phi scored two firsts, two seconds and a third for 30 points to beat runner-up Chi Omega with 20 points and third place winner Kap-Drane Hall Saturday afternoon and walked off with the team in at least one of the seven events. The events and the winners are: sack race, Pi Phi; three-legged race, Sigma Kappa; baseball throw, Kappa Alpha Theta; wheelchair race, Kappa Alpha Theta; tug-of-war, Chi Omega; silt race, Pi Phi; and egg throw, Phi Mu.

All sororities were represented in at least one of the seven events. The events and the winners are: sack race, Pi Phi; three-legged race, Sigma Kappa; baseball throw, Kappa Alpha Theta; wheelchair race, Kappa Alpha Theta; tug-of-war, Chi Omega; silt race, Pi Phi; and egg throw, Phi Mu.

Chi Omega won one first, one second and two thirds for second place and Kappa Alpha Theta scored two firsts and a second for third place in the team championship.

Race Renews Annual Event

The annual Memorial Circle Bike Race returns to campus Saturday when some 20 boys and a still undetermined number of girls will attempt to peddle their respective organizations to victory.

Since the women's race will begin at 1 p.m. around Memorial Circle and the men's race will follow at 2 p.m., the Circle will be closed to traffic from 12:00 p.m. until the races are over.

Women's orientation for the race will be Wednesday at 5 p.m. in Chemistry 101. This time will also be the deadline for women's applications and fees. Any applications to be turned in before that time can be given in the Student Council Office.

Men's orientation will be Thursday at 5 p.m. in Chemistry 101. Each team entered in the race should send a representative to its respective orientation.

Trophies will be given for first, second and third places as well as two traveling trophies.

But Don't Forget Their Stamps The Womenfolk Reign In Modern Supermarkets

By FRED BARNES
Toreador Staff Writer

In these days of modern conveniences there is one convenience that the "womenfolk" can't do without. It's the large supermarket.

The supermarket provides so many features that are completely necessary to modern living. Where else can a shopper find a bank, groceries, helpful little hints on how to cook anything from turkeys to cakes, and a place to clean out her garage and dump all those odd bottles?

When a shopper walks through the wrong automatic door at the supermarket she becomes a queen. Her wish is the second best thing to a command which must instantly be obeyed. She will ask for anything: from a carload of boxes — often she insists on carrying out so many that they will not fit into her car and thus must be returned — to $10 worth of quarters and nickels "for the children's lunch, you know."

She wants most of all an item stocked four years ago that has long since been discontinued. She will leave the peanut butter section to come half way across the store to ask the clerk where the peanut butter is located. "Tee Hee—if it had'uv been a snake—tee hee—it would'uv bit me—tee hee." The clerk's eyes light up and he thinks, "Oh, if only—"

The shopper is the only person who can hold up twelve customers and three paid employees for ten minutes while she hunts for the items she forgot. She is the only person who will say to a clerk, "I was in here last week and bought two dollars worth of meat. Did you give me my stamps?"

Out of 4,247 customers he checked last week, he should remember her?

They mash the tomatoes, pick out all the best strawberries for their box, must spend 50 cents more so they can have double stamps and can never find their checkbook, pen, coin purse or trunk key.

The manager knows — as he smiles at the lady who just broke two bottles of prune juice and whose little boy is demolishing the candy display he just put up—that the business cannot survive without her and that she is probably nice more times than she is annoying.

In these days of modern conveniences, there is one convenience that cannot survive with the "womenfolk" — the large supermarket.

Tech, ACC Meet Here Today

Hog Golfers Down Tech 5-1, In SWC Action Here Monday

Texas Tech's Charles Bishop was the lone Red Raider golfer to win a match Monday, and the University of Arkansas defeated the Raiders in a Southwest Conference golf match, 5-1.

The matches were played at Meadowbrook Golf Course in Mackenzie Park, and Bishop's 3-2 win over Dick Murphy was the only thing that kept the Red Raiders from being whitewashed.

The Razorbacks were led by the play of R. H. Sikes, 1961 national public links champion, and Gary Gross with three-under-par 69s. With only two matches left, Arkansas now has a 16½-13½ mark, just behind Southern Methodist's 17-13. The Red Raiders are in sixth place with a 10-20 record.

Sikes beat Tech's Houstie Brewer 5-4 and Gross trimmed Rick Jennings 6-5. In the only match of the day to go the entire 18-hole round, Arkansas' Tommy Fuqua came from behind to edge Tech's Mack Tubb, 1 up.

In four-ball play, Murphy and Sikes defeated Bishop and Brewer 4-3, and the team of Gross and Fuqua defeated Jennings and Tubb 3-1.

Tubb was one-up on Fuqua with two holes to go, but with a little help from Lady Luck Fuqua evened the match on 17, then won with a birdie on 18.

Tubb reached the green in two on No. 17, a 482-yard, par 5. Fuqua hit his ball too hard, and it appeared certain to hit on the green and roll past. But on the first bounce, his ball hit the center of the pin and bounced back, just 15 feet away.

Tubb's putt for a birdie rimmed the cup, and Fuqua got down in two to set the stage for his winning putt on the final hole.

Day's Action Includes Baseball, Tennis Play Both Raider Teams Seek Repeat Of Last Month's Wins Over Cats

When two teams meet, they should do it in a big way.

And that's what Texas Tech and Abilene Christian have in mind today when they meet here for competition in two sports.

The Wildcats' baseballers will meet Tech's Red Raiders in a doubleheader at Mackenzie Park beginning at 1 p.m., and the tennis teams from the two schools will meet on the Tech courts for a match scheduled for 2 p.m.

The two teams have previous encounters with each other in both sports. Coach Bert Huffman's team split a doubleheader with ACC on the Abilene diamond on a spring vacation tour, and Coach George Philbricks netters blanked ACC there a month ago 6-0.

In baseball, Tech will be after its 15th and 16th win. They're 14-9 now after taking two of three from New Mexico last weekend.

A young tennis team — three sophomores and a junior — will be out to increase a win streak that is already impressive. They have a five-match streak going, and the last four have been shutouts.

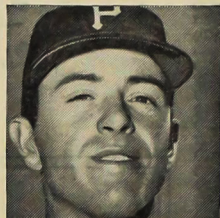

Playing on the Tech tennis team will be junior Daryl Allison of Lubbock and three sophomores — Benny Lawrence of Amarillo, Don Draper of Houston and Beau Sutherland of Kerrville.

HOW'S IT LOOK?

... Texas Tech golfer Mack Tubb seems to be asking his caddy, cager Del Ray Mounts. Tubb lost on the last hole, 1-up, Monday as Arkansas beat Tech, 5-1.
