Iraq tightens grip on Kuwait

By The Associated Press

Western governments reacted with outrage Thursday to Iraq's threat to execute diplomats who shelter foreigners, but Baghdad sought to portray it as a misunderstanding, saying the warning was aimed at its own citizens.

Eight weeks to the day after Iraq overran Kuwait, its exiled emir addressed the United Nations General Assembly, decrying the "rape, destruction and terror" inflicted by Saddam Hussein's armies and appealing for a withdrawal of Iraqi troops.

But Iraq tightened its grip on the conquered emirate, ordering Kuwaiti nationals to apply for Iraqi citizenship.

Oil prices rose again Thursday, briefly breaking the $40-a-barrel mark, a day after President Bush ordered the sale of a fraction of the oil from the U.S. Strategic Petroleum Reserve to try to dampen soaring prices. High oil prices helped drive down stocks again, with the Dow Jones industrial average closing off 32.17 points at 2,427.48.

International finance officials expressed new concerns about long-term financial consequences of the Persian Gulf crisis. The head of the World Bank said he might be forced to call on wealthy nations to boost their support for the lending institution by early next year.

Britain, in a surprise move, announced the restoration of diplomatic ties with Iran, which were severed after the Ayatollah Khomeini's death decree against author Salman Rushdie for his book "The Satanic Verses."

Neither side publicly linked the move to the current Gulf crisis, but Iran's relations with the West have been improving, and it has said it is cooperating with the U.N.'s economic boycott against Iraq. Iran has a 700-mile-long border with Iraq, and its cooperation with the U.N. sanctions is seen as crucial.

Enforcement of the embargo led to a flareup of tensions Thursday in the Red Sea, where the Pentagon said a U.S. frigate fired warning shots at an Iraqi tanker after it ignored an order to halt. A team from the USS Elmer Montgomery boarded the tanker Tadmur and inspected it, but it was empty, and was allowed to proceed.

Censorship battle

Michael Kelly speaks to the LISD school board Thursday night in an emotional appeal on the new dress code that the board recently imposed. The dress code would require Kelly's son Tico, seated in the front row in a striped shirt, a native American, to cut his hair. A standing-room-only crowd attended the board meeting.

Lubbock board unanimously rejects request of parent to review dress code

By COURTNEY CHRISTIAN
The University Daily

The Lubbock Independent School District Board of Trustees on Thursday rejected an emotional plea from a parent requesting a review of the school dress code.

Michael Kelley, who appeared on behalf of his son, addressed the board concerning his son being sent home in August because of the length of his hair. School administrators told Yacatico he could not return until he cut his hair.

Kelley said the basis of his request was that his son is native American and Kelley wanted the board to allow Yacatico to maintain his expression of his cultural identity. Yacatico's mother is a member of the Yaqui tribe. "My wife and I have always taught him to be proud of his ancestors. One way he identifies with his culture, having no reservation or tribal (interests) near-by, is by wearing his hair long in the traditional style of many North American tribes," Kelley said.

Kelley cited the Congressional Education Amendment of 1972, Title Nine Act which forbids schools to treat the students of one sex differently from others. Bob Craig, president of the board of trustees, said the board was encouraged to look at the dress code last. "This particular policy has received a great deal of discussion, and it is our desire to create a wholesome environment for young people," Craig said.

"I informed Mr. Kelley that I was appreciative of him teaching his son about his culture, and he is entitled to a vote by the board," he said.

"Last spring the school board began relocation for our policy manual. We pulled for maximum interest," said Carmyn Neely, assistant to the superintendent. "The principals were asked by the superintendent to gather information from students, parents, teachers and staff. Some did it in informal meetings, some took random samples, others did surveys," Neely said.

"We then formed a committee, along with parent representation, to represent all three levels of our educational system including elementary, junior high, and high school," she said. "The present dress code is a reflection of the consensus."

Ann Manning, the board of trustee's attorney, said that the dress code was perfectly legal because the school board has the right to decide an appropriate dress code by law.

Souter nomination Judiciary committee approves by 13-1

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the nomination of New Hampshire jurist David H. Souter to the Supreme Court on Thursday with but one dissenting vote. The full Senate is expected to confirm him easily but not before the court begins its fall term on Monday.

Democrats as well as Republicans on the committee said they saw in President Bush's nominee a brilliant legal scholar and a man of good temperament and integrity. In the 13-1 vote, only Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., opposed him, saying he feared Souter would "solidify a 5-4 anti-civil-rights, anti-privacy majority."

Howell Heflin, a conservative Alabama Democrat whose opposition helped kill the 1987 Supreme Court nomination of Robert Bork, said he liked Souter's "clearheaded approach" and lack of an ideological agenda.

Added Howard Metzbaum, D-Ohio: "My sense is that David Souter is a fair and open-minded jurist who knows well the weight of the responsibilities which will be placed upon him."

Bush hailed the committee action and repeated his request that the Senate "act as quickly as possible to confirm this man" so he could be seated when the court begins its new session.

A vote was unlikely before next week, however, officials and others close to the situation indicated.

One factor was the Jewish holiday Yom Kippur which was interrupting Congress' schedule Friday. And Biden and other Democrats were loathe to waive rules that give senators time before voting to review a committee's findings.

Souter, 51, in a statement released in New Hampshire, thanked committee leaders and members "for their courtesy and consideration. I am gratified by their action. I await the decision of the full Senate."

Earlier, Tom Rath, like Souter a former New Hampshire attorney general, said Souter heard of the panel's action on a radio in Rath's law office.

"To get this kind of overwhelming support makes us feel very good," Rath said, adding that Souter would

"Judge Souter is not the sort of judge I would nominate if I were president," said committee chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., a supporter of abortion rights.

Souter "just barely" met his criteria, Biden said. "But I think that he is about the best we can expect" from Bush, who opposes abortion rights, he said.

"Aspects of Judge Souter's testimony were of little comfort to legal conservatives including this senator," said Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H.

Anonymous caller claims SA president biased in homecoming queen election

By CHRIS BOBBITT
The University Daily

An anonymous person placed calls Thursday to the election commission and the Student Association complaining that Student Association President Ross Crabtree, a member of the Homecoming Interview Committee, will show bias in favor of homecoming queen candidate Melinda Wilson.

The caller stated her concern that Crabtree and Wilson plan to attend Saturday's football game together. Election commission adviser Liz Toombs said because the caller did not properly identify herself, no formal complaint has been filed.

"There have been phone calls and rumors, but no one has spoken to an election commission official," Toombs said. "The only usable information the caller left was that she was an alumni adviser."

Toombs said Crabtree told the commission he will abstain his vote and leave the room when Wilson is interviewed. Crabtree contacted the commission with his decision when he discovered Wilson was nominated for homecoming queen.

"I did not volunteer for the position on the interview committee, I was appointed," Crabtree said. "The student bill clearly designated the Senate Association president as a member of the interview committee."

Crabtree said he is disappointed in the complaints and is taking them personally. He also said he believes Wilson is the victim.

"It is very frustrating having my personal life drug through all of this, my honesty and integrity have never been questioned," he said. "I represent 25,530 students. I want to be as completely fair as possible. I would never score the other candidates on anything other than the questions."

Because Crabtree decided in advance to abstain from the vote, Toombs said the complaint holds no ground.

"What is to say (Crabtree) isn't going to be biased against (Wilson) in trying to over-compensate," Toombs said. "I'm not saying that is going to happen; I'm saying he will be objective and as unbiased as human nature allows."

"He is there not as a date, but as the Student Association president." "Everyone is talking about fair.

We've been notified that some sororities required their members to vote or they will be fined. Is that fair?"

Toombs agreed with Crabtree's remark about Wilson being the victim.

"The complaint is as detrimental to the interviewee as it is to the interviewer," she said. "Melinda is an innocent bystander in this and she is the one being victimized by the claims being made by anonymous phone callers."

"The people who are complaining are obviously not willing to solve the problem," she said. "They are trying to create problems by not going through the proper channels."

The interview committee met with the election commission to go through a process to assure fairness to all of the interviewees, Toombs said.

"Anyone on the committee can have affiliations with the candidates," she said. "You can always try to have a committee where the interviewers don't know anyone. Do you want an individual who is not active and does not know the campus put in the position like that?"

Bonfire slated for Friday night

By CHRIS BOBBITT
The University Daily

After a slight disagreement with the Lubbock Fire Marshall on the size of this year's bonfire (50 ft. base, 45 ft height), the Saddle Tramps have received permission to continue building through the night said Mike Marshall, homecoming chairman for the Saddle Tramps.

"This year's fire is the biggest we have ever had," Marshall said. "We had a few problems with the fire marsh on the size, but the bonfire will be lit as long as winds do not exceed 15 mph."

Each year, the Saddle Tramps have tried to increase the size of the bonfire five feet over the previous year's fire. A change of site may be necessary if the increase continues, Marshall said.

"If we want to keep building, we will have to find another location," he said. "We hope to ultimately find a permanent place for the fire."

The traditional bonfire started at the Southwest Conference Circle in front of the stadium. However, the circle was not constructed out of fire proof brick and the area around did not allow for Tech's growing population.

The current site of the bonfire, the south field of the University Medical Center, only allows for a limited growth in the fire and the students who attend the bonfire and pep rally, Marshall said.

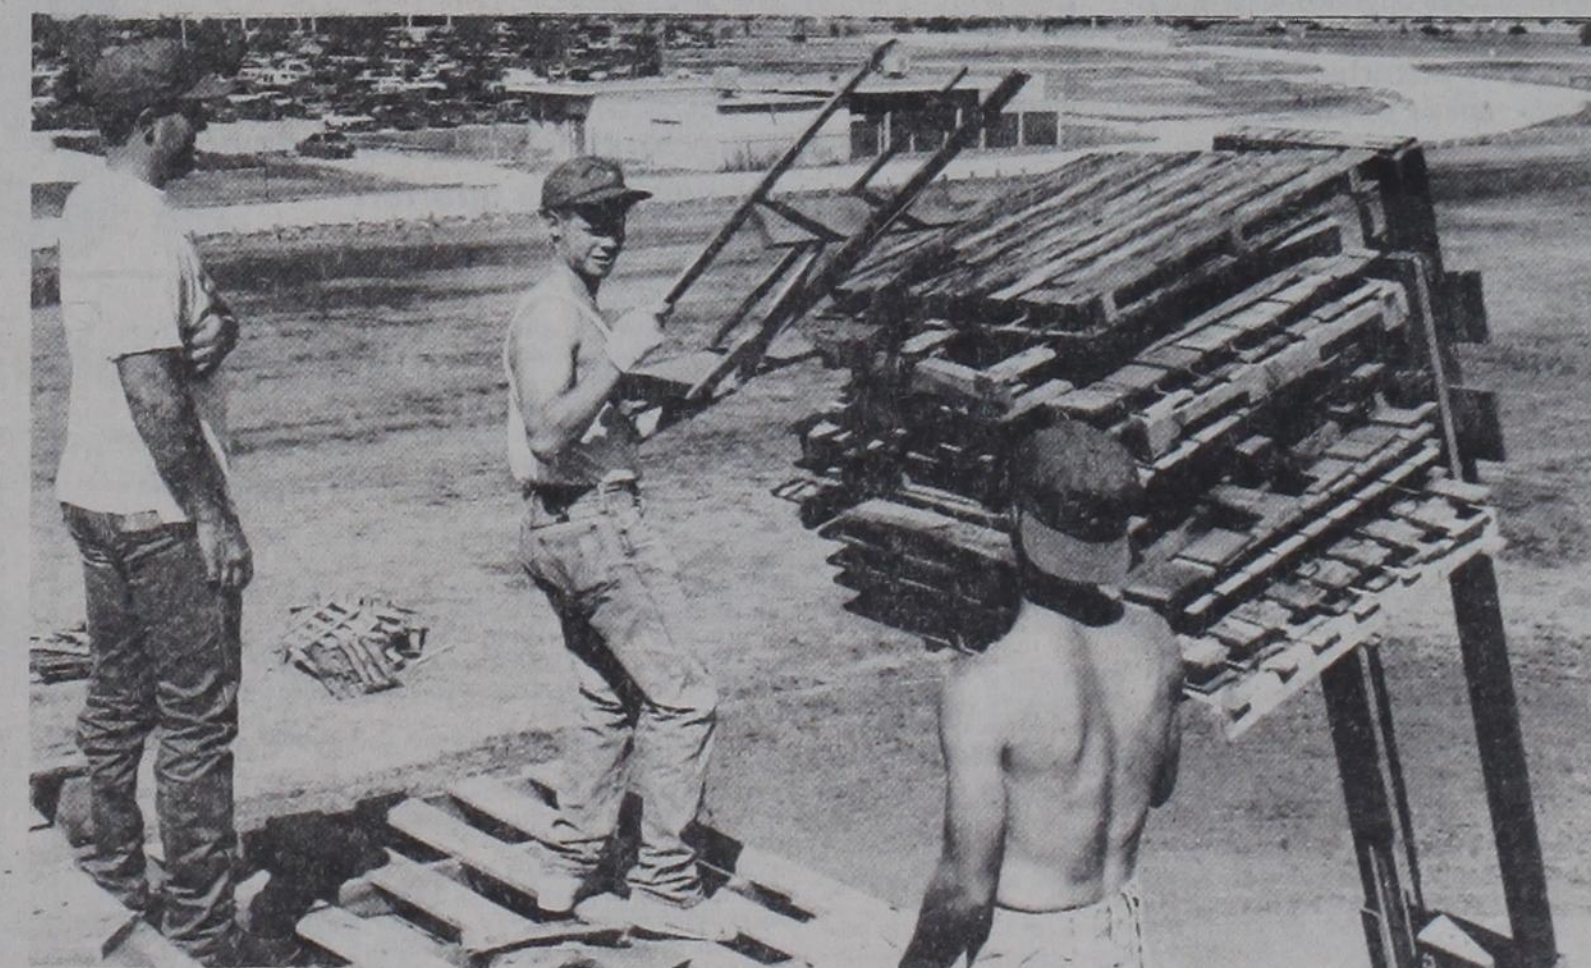

"We're still looking for a bigger and better site where we can hold the bonfire every year, something permanent."

The bonfire is scheduled to be lit at app. 8:15 p.m. after the pep rally at 6:30 p.m. and the Blanket Concert featuring "Ground Zero" at 7:30 p.m.

The torch will be carried in by Arch Lamb, who founded the Saddle Tramps in 1936. Lamb also will act as grand marshal of the homecoming parade.

"We want to take a step back into the past and let the founder (of the Saddle Tramps) carry in the torch," Marshall said.

The five Homecoming Court members will be announced at the bonfire. KLLL, KFMX and B99 will broadcast live from the bonfire.

Parents looking to blame children's suicides on others

Anna Quindlen
Columnist

It was two days before Christmas when Jay Vance blew the bottom of his face off with a shotgun still slippery with his best friend's blood. He went second. Ray Belknap went first.

Ray died and Jay lived, and people said that when you looked at Jay's face afterward it was hard to tell which of them got the worst of the deal. "He just had no luck," Ray's mother would later say of her son to a writer from Rolling Stone, which was a considerable understatement.

Jay and Ray are both dead now. They might be only two of an endless number of American teenagers in concert T-shirts who drop out of school and live from album to album and beer to beer, except for two things. The first was that they decided to kill themselves as 1985 drew to a close.

The second is that their parents decided to blame it on rock 'n' roll. When it was first filed in Nevada, the lawsuit brought by the families of Jay Vance and Ray Belknap against the members of the English band Judas Priest and their record company was said to be heavy metal on trial.

I would love to convict heavy metal of almost anything — I would rather be locked in a room with 100 accordion players than listen to Metallica — but music has little to do with this litigation. It is a sad attempt by grieving grown-ups to say, in a public forum, what their lost boys had been saying privately for years: Someone's to blame for my failures, but it can't be me.

The product liability suit, which sought $6.2 million in damages, contended that the boys were "mesmerized" by subliminal suicide messages on a Judas Priest album.

The most famous subliminal before this case came to trial was the section of a Beatles song that fans believed hinted at the death of Paul McCartney. The enormous interest that surrounded this seems terribly silly now, when Paul McCartney, far from being dead, has become the oldest living cute boy in the world.

There is nothing silly about the Judas Priest case, only something infinitely sad. Ray Belknap was 18. His parents split up before he was born. His mother has been married four times.

Her last husband beat Ray with a belt and, according to police, once threatened her with a gun while Ray watched. Like Jay Vance, Ray had a police record and had quit high school after two years. Like Jay, he liked guns and beer and used marijuana, hallucinogens and cocaine. Jay Vance, who died three years after the suicide attempt, his face a reconstructed Halloween mask, had had a comparable coming of age. His mother was 17 when he was born. When he was a child, she beat him often.

As he got older, he beat her back. Once, checking himself into a detox center, he was asked "What is your favorite leisure time activity?" He answered "Doing drugs." Jay is said to have consumed two six-packs of beer a day. There's a suicide note if I ever heard one.

It is difficult to understand how anyone could blame covert musical mumbling for what happened to these boys. On paper they had little to live for. But the truth is that their lives were not unlike the lives of many kids who live for their stereos and their beer buzz, who open the door to the corridor of the next 40 years and see a future as empty and truncated as a closet.

"Get a life," they say to one another. In the responsibility department, no one is home.

They are legion. Young men kill someone for a handful of coins, then are remorseless, even casual: Hey, man, things happen. And their parents nab the culprit: It was the city, the cops, the system, the crowd, the music. Anyone but him. Anyone but me.

There's a new product on the market I call Parent in a Can. You can wipe a piece of paper on something in your kid's room and then spray the paper with this chemical.

Cocaine traces, and the paper will turn turquoise. Marijuana, reddish brown. So easy to use — and no messy heart-to-heart talks, no constant parental presence. Only $44.95 plus $5 shipping and handling to do in a minute what you should have been doing for years.

In the Judas Priest lawsuit, it's easy to see how kids get the idea that they are not responsible for their actions. They inherit it. Heavy metal music is filled with violence, but Jay and Ray got plenty of that even with the stereo unplugged.

The trial judge ruled that the band was not responsible for the suicides, but the families are pressing ahead with an appeal, looking for absolution for the horrible deaths of their sons. Heavy metal made them do it — not the revolving fathers, the beatings, the alcohol, the drugs, a failure of will or of nurturing. Someone's to blame. Someone else. Always someone else.

Letters

Judge inside

To The Editor:

I opened my UD this morning to find a seething letter, born of the recent controversy initiated by Taylor and others. The letter in question was penned by Mack Daddy (9/25/90). Beneath the quagmire of anger and "urk," something very disturbing screamed at me for attention.

On a hunch, I opened my trusty dictionary (an American Heritage School Dictionary, circa 1984) to look up a few words. "Discrimination: Acts or attitudes based on prejudice; unfairness or injustice toward a particular group of persons. Prejudice: Hostility toward members of races, religions, or nationalities other than one's own. Racism: racial prejudice or discrimination." Nowhere in any of these definitions was a specific race or nationality mentioned.

My suspicions were confirmed. The letter that I was reading was another example of the bigoted, racist letters which have graced the pages of our newspaper the past several days. Despite Mr. Daddy's testimonial diatribe against racial injustice, he continually addresses his comments to "white America!" How pathetic.

There is a horrible sickness at the root of the past week's controversy. This disease is perpetuated by groups such as the NAACP and LULAC, not the mention our own COMA. These organizations spread prejudice and bigotry in much the same fashion as the most famous of their members, the Ku Klux Klan. Granted, their methods are more socially acceptable than the KKK, but all embrace the very same racial supremacist ideology.

I had the opportunity to travel to Europe this past summer, where I lived with students and families of many different nationalities and cultures. As we learned about each other and became friends, I learned a lot. There is something which is more important than race, nationality, or religion. We are all united in the fact that we are all HUMAN. Although Abraham Lincoln referred to racial unrest in the United States when he said "A house divided cannot stand," the very same can be applied to the divisions that run deep in the most supreme of all races: the Human Race.

There is nothing wrong with being proud of your country or your heritage. It's great to like who you are. When any race or nationality is promoted at the expense of another, that is unacceptable. Judging a person, or a group, by the skin color or heritage is one of the most horrible social crimes in the world today. Why not judge a person by who they are rather than what they are? The inside is the most important side of all!

Yes, Mr. Daddy, Ms. Taylor, and all others, there are many acts of racial injustice in this country's history. That is a sad fact that I am not proud to admit. Affirmative action and reverse discrimination join that list along with slavery and cross-burning. You can't fight bigotry with bigotry. Dr. King knew that. That's why he advocated civil disobedience and silent protests rather than hatred, violence, and bloodshed.

Get with the program! This is 1990. Our country has risen to great heights of technology and knowledge. Now, it's time to become civilized. Let's give scholarships to bright, needy students, regardless of color. Let's give jobs to people based on skill and experience, rather than on nationality quotas. Who cares if the board of directors of Nike is green with purple spots. Can they do their job? If not, fire them. Hire someone who knows how to make shoes. Learn to look beyond the skin color. Only judge the person within.

Banning unjust

To The Editor:

Christians in Lubbock have reached an all-time low since I moved here. Lubbock Independent School District has, under the direction of Michael Moses, superintendent of schools, decided to publish a document which is being distributed as a reference for their school dress policy, itemizing those things forbidden to be worn by those attending (and, may I assume, working at) any Lubbock school.

This document forbids the wearing of any religious symbol except the cross. The Jew is not permitted to wear the Star of David which is the star appearing on the Israeli flag today. The Oriental is not permitted to display the Yin and the Yang, nor the counter-clockwise Swastika, which in ancient times represented the four winds. The Muslim cannot display the crescent and the star. In fact, according to the document, the Texas and American flags are Satanic, because they display the pentacle, or five-pointed upright star without a circle.

According to this document, spring and fall equinoxes, summer and winter solstices, All Hallow's Eve (as opposed to Halloween), and birthdays are considered Satanic holidays.

The documents lists twelve "typical" characteristics of the Satanist, among which nine are listed here: "intelligent, creative, curious, male, middle or upper-class family, restless, are physically or sexually abused, drink alcohol or take drugs, has a personality that is influenced by others." Sounds almost like the boy next door.

Under "spiritual" motivations, the following are what the Satanist hopes to gain: "Fame, happiness, control (of others, I assume), wealth, knowledge, popularity, etc."

According to a friend of mine who teaches in the district, he/she was asked to monitor the doodling of their students in hopes to catch them drawing any of the symbols or the "drawing of half man or woman — half beast." (No more angels, children!)

Why wasn't the cross included in the batch? After all, the cross has been used more times in satanic and pagan cult worship than any other symbol in the history of mankind.

Who are these people that head our schools? What gives them the right to ban our symbols and accuse the average Joe of being satanic? When will they start burning witches? How many times have I heard these "true" Christians tell me that the "true" Christian wouldn't do things like this? Yet, these same Christians will sit back and do nothing about what these so-called "untrue" Christians do to the non-Christians.

Democratic candidate says taxpayers already 'strapped'

By MELISSA SHARP
The University Daily

Democratic candidate for Lubbock County judge Jim Freeman said Lubbock and the other 11 counties seeking state reimbursement for housing state prisoners in county jails need to negotiate a plan to benefit taxpayers.

Freeman met in Austin Thursday with representatives of the other counties to devise a plan to receive money without strapping taxpayers, he said at a Young Democrats meeting Wednesday.

"If we go to our taxpayers to handle this situation, our taxpayers are already strapped," he said. "If we go to the legislature, they will go to the same people we have already strapped. It's a catch-22."

With 30 years experience in state government and five years as an administrative assistant in Lubbock County, Freeman said he is the most qualified candidate. His Republican opponent, Don McBeath, has been a Lubbock County office administrator for less than ten years.

"There is a lot of difference between an administrator and an office manager," he said. "He works with one department, and I work with 33 departments and 10 appointed officials."

Freeman said 20 percent of Lubbock County Democrats and 20 percent of Republicans vote straight ticket. He hopes to receive at least half of the remaining votes.

"I have been talking to people across the county, and it looks good," he said. "I am not overconfident about that. We have the same concerns, and we are able to relate to one another about how to solve those concerns."

Connie Nicholson, incumbent Democratic candidate for Lubbock County treasurer, accompanied Freeman.

Nicholson said she wants to require daily deposits from county fee offices.

90-91 faculty awards to be distributed to winners

By LORI TUCCI
The University Daily

Several campus-wide faculty awards will be presented throughout the 1990-91 academic year to deserving Texas Tech faculty members. A wide range of awards is available, said Len Ainsworth, vice provost of Tech.

The various awards will be presented to the winners at different times during the year. The following are just a few of the many awards available:

- The Faculty Recognition award is for Tech faculty members who demonstrate outstanding contributions toward concerns of the students.

- A Faculty Distinguished Leadership Award is presented for outstanding service to the department, college or university in which the faculty member is employed. This award is based on merit.

- Faculty Development Leaves are granted after certain eligibility requirements are met. Eligibility is based on potential creative work or contribution to knowledge in the applicant's field, evidence of growth and competence, need and potential.

- The President's Excellence in Teaching Award will be awarded to a deserving faculty member for excellence in a teaching role.

- The President's Academic

Achievement Award is given for excellence in achievement across the teaching-research-service missions of the university. To be eligible for this award, the nominee must have three years of faculty service, receive recognition by peers in one or more areas, and must show evidence of productive scholarship and demonstrated competence in the areas being considered.

- An Ex-students Association New Faculty Award is based on student evaluations, innovative teaching activities, initiation of research and creative activities and interaction with students. Among the criteria for this award is the stipulation that the nominee must have been employed as a faculty member for not more than four years.

Ainsworth said that nominations are now being accepted for these prestigious awards.

The awards are presented every year. Candidates are nominated by student organizations, individual students, faculty, deans or The Ex-Students Association.

Members of Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, the Honors and Awards Council, Dads and Moms Association and the Faculty Development Council assist in selecting winners and developing criteria for the awards.

Economist predicts winners, losers in Texas oil due to Gulf crisis

WACO — Austin, El Paso and Waco will lose in the oil game and Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio will win if the Persian Gulf conflict keeps fuel prices high, says a Baylor University economist.

M. Ray Perryman, in the September issue of his financial newsletter, The Perryman Report, says if the price of oil stays at about $27 per barrel through 1995, Austin will lose 2,233 jobs and El Paso will lose 1,433 jobs.

But San Antonio stands to gain 3,451 jobs; Fort Worth could add 4,000 jobs and Dallas could see 11,266 more jobs. Houston could gain 35,132 jobs, Perryman predicts.

He said the price increase would hurt smaller cities along the Interstate 35 corridor like Waco and Temple.

Crude oil traded Thursday at $39.17 per barrel, up from 37.80 on Wednesday.

If the price remains high, the work force of the state would grow by 134,528 more jobs than anticipated over the next five years.

"There's probably not going to be an oil boom," Perryman told the Waco Tribune-Herald. But an average of $27 per barrel would bring a net gain of $6.5 billion in real output by 1995, he said.

The new jobs from current oil prices, if sustained, would not come close to the 600,000 job gain in 1980 and 1981 in Texas.

Strategic Planning Initiative to assess needs of Tech programs

By MARK LACK
The University Daily

The colleges of Texas Tech currently are undergoing a new process of self-evaluation in efforts to pinpoint strengths and weaknesses within the university's departments.

The evaluation within the colleges, known as Strategic Planning Initiative, has stemmed from the plans of bringing Tech upward and into the future, said Executive Vice President and Provost Don Haragan Thursday.

"It will prioritize our mission, and assess our needs for various programs. We're going through a time where resources are hard to come by and it makes sense to look at our priorities and try to figure out where we're going and what we can do," Haragan said.

The process of evaluating the university is a "bottom-up" process, according to Haragan.

"We've gone to the colleges and the deans and asked them to prepare a self-study to discover where their weaknesses are, and where they have their priorities," he said.

After the reports the colleges prepare are submitted, Haragan said they will be looked at with a "university perspective." This will probably be a group representing faculty and administrators from around the campus that will look at the reports and make recommendations concerning the strengths and weaknesses of the university, he said.

"They will make recommendations as to where the university should invest its resources for maximum return," Haragan said. "We're trying to invest more resources into those areas that need it if they're going to move ahead."

One way to provide resources is to eliminate programs, Haragan said, which may or may not happen. There are other ways to provide resources, however.

"Another way is to increase student-faculty ratio by putting more students in classes to save resources," he said.

It is uncertain now what the outcome will be after the evaluation is completed because the process will take at least a full academic year, Haragan said. This is a continuing planning process, and Tech, as well as other universities, needs to continue to look at itself and assess its needs, Haragan said.

"I think the situation regarding resources in the state, and state resources going into higher education during the past decade, means that it is not only something that you should do but something that you must do," he said.

The Provost said Tech is a very diverse university, which is good, but he is not sure that Tech can afford to be as diverse as it has been in the past.

Tech President Robert Lawless is very supportive of the efforts to evaluate the university, Haragan said.

"He has talked a lot about quality and excellence in terms of programs in which Texas Tech can excel, so I think he's very supportive of what we want to do in the area of strategic planning. It's all come together and this is the year where we're going to make it happen," the Provost explained.

Japan relying on reserve oil

By The Associated Press

TOKYO — Lessons learned during the 1973 Arab oil embargo have helped Japan weather the Persian Gulf crisis, but danger lurks in plummeting stock prices and rising interest rates.

Nearly two months after Iraq invaded Kuwait, gasoline prices are up only slightly in Japan and there is little sign of the grave concern that might be expected from a country that relies on Middle East imports for 70 percent of its oil.

That is largely a result of the government's efforts to avoid a repeat of 1973, when Arab restrictions of oil exports, and oil imports that tripled in price within months, threw Japan's economy into chaos. The "oil shock" sent inflation soaring and led to the first decline in Japan's gross national product during the postwar era.

The powerful Ministry of International Trade and Industry on Tuesday asked wholesalers of liquefied petroleum gas.

Dads, Moms association promotes Tech's image

By CHRIS BOBBITT
The University Daily

The Dads and Moms Association and the Ex-Students Association promotes Texas Tech's image through their activities for Homecoming and Family Day, said External Vice President Russell Laird.

"Both associations make Tech more visible across the state and the nation," Laird said.

The Ex-Students Association has 72 chapters throughout the United States. The Dads and Moms Association, a newer organization, has four chapters in Texas and one in Colorado.

"The (Ex-Students) association exists for several reasons," said Bill Dean, executive director of the Ex-Students Association. "One is simply to serve as a conduit of information back and forth between the university and its ex-students to keep them informed about what is going on."

The Ex-Students Association, founded in 1930, conducts 72 meetings a year between April and August and raised more than $700,000 last year in donations. The Texas Techsan magazine and videos about life at Tech are produced for the members of the association.

"People don't support things they can't identify with," Dean said. "If you just send them a letter asking for money, you are not going to get much of a response unless you've gotten them somehow involved."

Recruiting is another aspect of the Ex-Students Association. Dean said active ex-students often meet with high school students who are prospective Tech students. The ex-students work strictly on a volunteer basis. Ex-students are also influential in the legislative process, Dean said.

"Legislative influence is very important today and we try to identify those alumni who are contributors, friends or on the campaign of various senators and representatives so they (ex-students) can be influential to use as far as favorable legislation and favorable appropriations go."

Homecoming is a big event for those who have been to Tech and have gone on," said Dudley Faver, executive director of the Dad's and Mom's Association.

Faver describes the Dads and Moms Association as a "service organization for Texas Tech University," as well as a "bridge between the university and the parents of the students."

The association's five chapters are located where the multitude of Tech's students originate. Faver said the association has plans to install chapters in Fort Worth, Austin and El Paso.

Family Day is the big event the Dads and Moms Association sponsors along with co-sponsoring the talent show with the Student Association. Oct. 26 and 27 are the dates for Family Day this year.

Family Day originated in 1956 as "Dads Day" when members of the Women's Service Organization invited their fathers to the campus for a picnic and to watch a football game. The day eventually spread throughout the campus and WSO turned the event over to the dean of students.

the Ex-Students Association. This year the association is hosting the combined classes of 1950 and 1955 for a 35 year reunion. On Saturday, the association sponsors the ninth annual Red Raider Road Race, scholarship benefit. The association helps with the parade and later sponsors a tailgate party at 4:30 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

The Dads and Moms Association also helps with Tech relations.

"We relate to the parents who sent Texas Tech University students in the same way the Ex-Students Association relates to

MOVING UP HAS A WHOLE DIFFERENT MEANING FOR AIR FORCE ROTC CADETS.

Virtually all college students plan to move up in their career. But Air Force ROTC cadets can begin the training toward a career that goes higher and faster. In fact, if you'd like to begin a life in the sky, your best first step is Air Force ROTC.

You'll learn the confidence you'll need whether you're going to plot a course as a navigator or take the controls as a pilot. FAA-approved flight lessons will launch you for the first time. And as your college career develops, so do the skills you'll need as an Air Force officer.

Begin early in college, and you'll be eligible for scholarships that can pay expenses and provide you $100 each academic month, tax-free. After graduation, you'll be ready to take the challenge of an intensive, rigorous training program.

Move up with Air Force ROTC now, and you can move up with the Air Force as an officer. Contact your campus Air Force representative:

Males should examine testicles for cancer regularly

By STEPHEN PHILLIPS
The University Daily

Cancer of the testes affects more men 15 to 34 years of age than any other cancer and accounts for 3 percent of all cancer deaths in this group.

The most critical thing about testicular cancer is that it can have no symptoms, said Scott Fry, a physician at the Student Health Center in Thompson hall.

Men who have an undescended or partially descended testicle are at a much higher risk of developing testicular cancer than others, Fry said.

"One problem for males, is it is not unusual for persons to find an undescended testicle."

Because testicular cancer has no symptoms in the early stages, it is important for men to examine their testicles at least once a month.

Fry said if males do not do regular testicular exams on themselves, by the time they get something that is big enough to be noticed during daily activities, they'll have a large tumor to deal with.

The self exam takes only about three minutes to perform.

Start by holding the scrotum in the palm of the hand. Then feel one testicle. Apply a small amount of pressure. Slowly roll it between the fingers and try to find hard painless lumps.

Next, examine the epididymis. This comma-shaped cord is found behind the testicles which stores and transports sperm.

Next, examine the vas which is the sperm-carrying tube that runs up from the epididymis.

Normally, the vas feels like a firm, moveable, smooth tube. Now repeat the exam on the other side.

The first sign of testicular cancer is usually a slight enlargement of one of the testes, and a change in its consistency.

Other symptoms can include a dull ache in the lower abdomen and groin, a lump on the testicle, or enlargement of the male breasts and nipples.

Once changes in the testes begin to be noticed, a doctor should be notified immediately, Fry said.

The self-exam is important because it is common for doctors to omit the genital exam, and many males reach high school without having an initial exam, said Fry.

There is a higher occurrence of testicular cancer in childhood, late adolescence, and old age, he said.

The kind of tumor that occurs in college-age men is an aggressive tumor and has a very poor survival rate.

It is important to find the tumor early in order to change the five-year survival rate, Fry said.

According to the American Cancer Society the five-year survival rate for all cases of testicular cancer is 87 percent.

The most common type of testicular cancer has a survival rate approaching 100 percent in cases detected and treated early.

Pay for tickets while you still can

Today is the last day to pay outstanding traffic warrants without receiving penalties.

The city extended the amnesty period an extra week. "There were such long lines at the court Friday and Saturday that many people were unable to get in and pay for old tickets," said Judge Ken Johnson.

The city's crackdown on outstanding traffic warrants is paying dividends, with $47,000 in additional income collected by Municipal Court last week.

After today, the city's off-duty police officers and city marshalls will begin serving warrants on outstanding traffic tickets.

"We have to show that Municipal Court is not a toothless tiger on this issue," Johnson said.

Johnson said he hopes when people see that the court is serious about this, more people will voluntarily take care of their old tickets.

Get your cars out of there

Because of the Texas Tech football game against Baylor, the following parking areas must be cleared by 8 a.m. Saturday.

- The Band parking lot
- In C-1, the north section of the lot from row H east to the Stadium
- In C-1, the south section of the lot from row F east to the Stadium
- In C-2, the first double row and half of the second double row of parking closest to the Stadium. These spaces have red numbers painted on the curb to indicate reserved parking spaces for all home games.

'Killer bees' prolong visit to Mexico, arrive in Texas by spring

HOUSTON (AP) — Swarms of "killer bees" apparently have stopped off in Mexico for an extended visit.

The Africanized honeybees, which were expected to arrive in Texas this fall, have killed 16 people in Mexico.

Experts say they may not reach the border before spring.

"It's possible we may yet find an Africanized honeybee swarm (in South Texas) in October, later this fall," said Anita Collins, a geneticist at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's honeybee research laboratory at Weslaco.

"If not, I'd say it's fairly likely we'll see something early next spring — in March, April or May," Ms. Collins said. "But of course, that's what we said last year and they didn't show up."

The Africanized bees began their trek northward soon after they were introduced to Brazil in 1957 as part of a breeding experiment.

West Texas dogs get their day at area canine show

By CRISSIE McMENNAMY
The University Daily

What has four legs, a limited vocabulary and knows no human prejudice? A canine, of course. These furry little critters aren't just for show — or are they?

For years people have trusted these faithful animals to perform tasks ranging from guarding a home to leading the sightless or simply providing companionship. But in this dog-eat-dog world, everyone needs a chance to excel. One of the outlets available for Hub City hounds to strut their stuff is the Heart of the Plains Kennel Club's dog show this weekend.

In three shows starting today, more than 130 breeds of dogs will parade their owners through a series of judged events in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Exhibit Hall. More than 1,000 dogs, including some of the top winning dogs in the United States, Mexico and Canada, are entered in the competition.

Once an owner decides that his or her pet is ready for competition, the pet is no longer just a friend or a hobby. The dog becomes a way of life. As ways of life go, however, none could be better suited for an animal enthusiast.

"I have always been an animal lover," said Sherell Guichard-Thomas, dog-handler. "I love the fact that with a dog you can never really do anything wrong. They still love you whether you look ugly, tired or whatever."

Guichard-Thomas' Chow Chow, Versaw's Bashful Dreamer, was ranked eight in the nation in 1988 after winning the best in show title in an area dog show. Currently ranked as the number three Chow Chow in the nation is Bashful's brother, Versaw's Star of Justin. But this family's fame doesn't stop with just two top-dogs.

"The litter that Bashful came from is the only litter in history to have three best in shows," said Guichard-Thomas. "The other winner is Versaw's Dreamstar."

With these examples, it might seem that geneology is the key to a prize-winning pup. If that is true, the price tag involved can border infinity, at least for a college student. According to Guichard-Thomas, a show quality puppy can cost between $600 and $1,200. As the rarity of the breed increases, so does the price tag.

Doling out the cash is only the first step to a prize-winning puppy, there is also the matter of training the li'l fellow. Training for the show ring goes far beyond teaching Rover to aim for the newspapers in the corner.

"The earlier you start training a puppy the better off you are," Guichard-Thomas said. "At about 8-weeks-old, the dog should be started on a leash. It is also very crucial to teach the dog to be handled by other people, because if a dog is vicious in the ring, they're excused and can never return."

Generally the show is divided into two areas; confirmation, which is equatable to a beauty contest and obedience. In the confirmation division, the first step toward success is competing against like breeds.

The winner of this round of competition is termed "Best of Breed," and advances to group competition. The seven groups of dogs are hound, sporting, herding, working, terrier, toy and non-sporting. In each of these seven groups, the best dog will be selected and advance to compete for "Best of Show."

"It's really a lot of work, but once you win one time, you're addicted for life," Guichard-Thomas said. "Bashful defeated 1,600 dogs over a year's time. That's really quite an honor."

The obedience portion of the show involves three levels; novice, open and utility. The most difficult aspect of show is the utility round in which a dog can only be commanded by hand signals. In one part of this level, the owner must touch an article and place it in a pile of like articles, then the dog must retrieve only the article that his owner touched. This is referred to as scent discrimination.

The time, money and patience must be worth the victory because the attendance and participation in dog shows has steadily increased throughout the years. To Guichard-Thomas, a dog show is just a way to introduce a good friend.

"I would definitely say that a dog could be a best friend. If I have a real bad day, my dogs are always glad to see me. It doesn't matter if the whole world is mad at me, I can always depend on my dogs."

Guichard and Bashful

Lemons and Midnight Raider

James Schaefer/The University Daily

Masked Rider duty includes hard work, honor

By STACEY SANDBERG
Contributing Writer

The masked man is not the Lone Ranger, the horse is not Silver and the setting is not the Wild West. Rather, the masked man is Blaine Lemons, Texas Tech's very own Masked Rider. The horse is Midnight Raider. And the setting is Jones Stadium.

Jones Stadium, the "Hole" as it is affectionately called, is where Lemons can be found on the day of every Tech home football game. Decked in black from his hat to his boots, Lemons, a senior animal production major from Colorado City, sits majestically atop Midnight Raider, ready to lead the troops (the Red Raiders) into battle. Lemons said one of his other duties at the game is to race around the field every time the Red Raiders score. Also, during the third quarter, Lemons takes a slower lap around the field to talk to the fans.

Lemons has found that young people are not the only ones he attracts. People of all ages find it easy to be captivated by this Tech tradition. Not only does Lemons appear at every

Texas Tech home football game but he has many other public appearances including rodeos, parades, vacation bible schools and Bob Wills' Day.

"Even though being the Masked Rider is an honor, there is a lot of hard work that goes along with the title," Lemons said.

Midnight Raider's home is a New Deal farm. Three or four times a week Lemons visits the farm to feed and groom the horse. Midnight Raider is Lemons' full responsibility, but on the days Lemons is unable to go to the farm, Misty Phillips takes care of the horse. Lemons also recruits the help of two other friends, Allen Garcia and Jeff Neff, who prepare the horse for travel and make sure the horse reaches each appearance safely.

Lemons was one of 15 applicants who tried out for the Masked Rider position. Only 13 of those 15 actually competed in the horsemanship trial. The trial allowed three judges to test the ability of the applicants in saddling and running a short pattern with a horse.

"Following the horsemanship trial, six of the 13 applicants had interviews with the members of the Masked Rider Committee," said Lemons.

The committee consists of the previous Masked Rider, as well as people from other spirit organizations. The committee narrowed down the applicants and Lemons officially took the reins as Masked Rider on March 1, 1990, at the Changing of the Reins ceremony. The ceremony celebrates the tradition of the Masked Rider, as well as recognizing the people whose donations help this tradition continue. The ceremony con-

We'll arrange $400 cash back from Ford Motor Company and pre-approved financing from Ford Credit. All you have to do is take delivery from our stock by December 31, 1990 (or place a factory order by October 1, 1990), and graduate with a Bachelor's or advanced degree between April 1, 1989 and December 31, 1990. Was that hard?

Pre-Approved Credit
To qualify for pre-approved credit, you must have verifiable employment beginning within 120 days of vehicle purchase. Your salary must be sufficient to cover living expenses as well as a car payment. A prior credit history isn't necessary, but if you have one, it has to be satisfactory to Ford Credit. Duck soup. # Band ready to rock for Homecoming

By KIRK BAIRD-PARKS
The University Daily

The official band of the 1990 Texas Tech homecoming is Lubbock's own Ground Zero.

Ground Zero performs at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the South Field of University Medical Center, 4th Street and Indiana Avenue. Admission to the performance is free.

Ground Zero, which has been together for about 18 months, includes Richard Grico, bass guitar; Merlin Angle, drums; and Darren Welch, guitar and vocals.

"I'd just call us original rock and roll," said Welch. "We play a little of everything, from James Brown to Jimi Hendrix."

"We're just trying to project our own sound. We don't want to sound like anyone else, just us."

Described as a Top-40 power trio, the band doesn't see any need to add another member to the band — just yet.

"When we first started we tried other guitar members but I guess Darren just scared them," Angle said.

"I'm sure when we run out of things to do this way we'll change and add somebody," Welch said. "We're trying to write music that we can do with just three people that sounds complete. It's hard but it's just too much fun."

"It's just easier communication between three people, especially on the stage," Grico said. "People are usually surprised that there are just three people."

In a power-trio, the work of the lead guitarist is a key element in the band. Welch is no exception to this rule.

"There are so many guitar players, I just have my own little thing that I do. I think I am good at that. I don't know if you ever get to the point where you're satisfied, I don't think I ever will," he said.

The group mixed eight original songs for an album to be released at Christmas, and they dream of making it big.

"That's what we're aspiring to do. Of course we've got the dream of being heard by Mr. Big and he drops all our money problems and buys us several buses. Realistically, that's not going to happen but we're heading in the right direction," Angle said.

"Think of how many bands are out there," Welch said. "That's why we're striving for originality, so we comb our own little niche."

Whether they make it to the big time or not, the band will always be a big booster of Tech.

"We're so pro-Tech it's pathetic," Angle said. "It's an honor to be a part of something like this. We're really looking forward to it."

Raiders remember last season far too well to take Baylor lightly

By ANDREW HARRIS
The University Daily

Traditionally when Baylor travels to Lubbock, the Bears seem to play their best game of the year.

When coach Grant Teaff brings his 1-2 Bears into "The Hole" Saturday, he will be looking for another of those season-best games.

Last season, in typical Baylor fashion, they entered the game against Texas Tech with a 1-2 record and manhandled the then unbeaten Red Raiders 29-15 in Waco.

Inconsistency has again plagued the Bears thus far in the 1990 campaign.

Baylor shut down a potent No. 8 Nebraska attack in a 13-0 loss, was blown out by No. 18 Arizona St., 34-13 and barely defeated unknown Sam

Houston St. 13-9.

Coach Teaff said the main key in beating Tech will be to increase their scoring output from their first three games.

"The first thing we have to do is score more points," Teaff said. "We have not been too prolific offensively this year. If we can't move the football, then we can't score on Tech and we are not going to win."

"Tech has a good offense and they are going to score points," Teaff said. "The only way you can beat a team like that is to score points."

Baylor leads the series 29-18-1, with the Raiders leading the series in Lubbock by a 14-13-1 margin.

Senior quarterback Brad Goebel has regained his starting job from sophomore Steve Needham and will start his second of the season after injuring his knee before the Nebraska game.

Goebel was a rusty 5 of 11 for 69 yards in his first week back last week against Sam Houston St.

Teaff said he is surprised at how well Goebel has adapted to the Bear's new Veer offense.

"Brad has done quite well throughout the spring and early fall," Teaff said. "But when he got hurt, it really put a kink into his progress. If he had been working all this time, he would be much further down the road."

Joining Goebel in Baylor's Veer attack will be senior tailback Eldwin Raphael and sophomore fullback David Loeb.

Although the Bears have lost defensive All-Americans Robert Blackman and James Francis, the Baylor defense returns eight starters from a year ago and hopes to repeat as the top defense in the Southwest Conference.

Leading the way for the Bears defensively will be free safety Mike Welch. Welch heads a predominantly senior secondary that is the strength of the Baylor defense.

The 6-foot-2, 197-pound senior from Sweetwater was third in tackles for the Bears last season and received Associated Press Southwest Conference Player of the Week honors for last week's 10-tackle, two-interception performance against Sam Houston State.

Junior defensive end Santana Dotson, 6-foot-5, 258-pounds, anchors an experienced Baylor defensive line.

Bears must face Tech's wrath

By BELLE MILLER
The University Daily

After a disappointing loss in Austin on Wednesday, the Texas Tech volleyball team travels to Waco on Friday to participate in the American Airlines Volleyball Classic.

Teams competing against the Red Raiders include Baylor, Sam Houston State and Lamar.

Tech competes in its second Southwest Conference match as the team plays Baylor at 7 p.m. Friday. The Raiders then take on Sam Houston State at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Tech concludes its tournament play against Lamar at 5 p.m. Saturday.

"The match against Baylor is the important one for the weekend because it is a conference match," coach Mike Jones said. "It's real strange because even though their record doesn't show it, they play some good volleyball."

"We just need to be real prepared. They beat us two years ago in Waco, so we're not taking them lightly."

The Bears are 1-12 so far this season and have lost 19-straight league matches. Baylor has already lost two conference matches against Texas and the Raiders have beaten the Bears on 22 previous occasions.

Solomon Clark

Jones said the team handled the loss to Texas well.

"The girls are in real good spirits. They were mad at themselves Wednesday night because we let the match get away from us and we didn't execute as well as we could have."

The Raiders play the fourth-ranked Texas again on Oct. 14 when the Longhorns make their yearly trip to Lubbock.

Jones said with the help of Tech fans, the Raiders should be able to pull out the win.

"We took a few steps forward this week. Last year they just overwhelmed us. We definitely have a shot when we play them again."

Tech received its highest ranking ever in the NCAA top twenty poll this week. The Raiders earned a spot at No. 12.

"I was surprised with our ranking," Jones said. "It's great for our program and getting picked by the NCAA committee is a real good sign for us. The news was a real morale booster, but at the same time we can't lose our intensity."

Sam Houston, which was second in the Southland Conference a year ago, is posting a 17-3 season so far.

Jones said Sam Houston will probably be the toughest competition for Tech during the weekend tourney.

Lamar leads the series against Tech 14-8. The Lady Cardinals have posted a 10-6 season record heading into this weekend.

SWC highlights 'Coogs vs. Rice for Bayou Bucket

Jeff Parker
Sports Editor

The Southwest Conference is off and rolling with eight of nine teams taking to the gridiron this weekend.

Last week the conference only lost two of seven games against non-league foes, giving the SWC a 13-8 (.615 percent) combined record in games outside the conference.

Rice at Houston
The Astrodome (59,433)

So the Cougars are perhaps one of the best college offensive teams of all-time. So they whooped up on the Owls 64-0 at cross-town Rice Stadium a year ago. So they're going to do it again, right?

But when you stop and think about it, Rice does have an expert mentor in coach Fred Goldsmith. And when you are talking athletic quarterbacks in the SWC it is difficult to keep from mentioning Donald Hollas. Rice can't be any worse than they were last year and they have won two out of three ballgames.

Forget it. As soon as you give the Cougars a point total to shoot at — and oddsmakers did, listing them as a 28-point favorite — they always seem to break it.

Texas A&M at Louisiana State
Tiger Stadium (80,140)
Baton Rouge, La.

The Aggies land in Baton Rouge with one of the most feared rushing attacks in the nation gaining more than 340 yards per outing.

The Tigers had one of the worst jokes ever pulled on a college team when at Vanderbilt, when they were denied an apparent go-ahead touchdown on the final play. The Commodores will be celebrating that one for quite a while.

Colorado State at Arkansas
War Memorial Stadium (53,645)
Little Rock, Ark.

Arkansas was also denied on the last play on the game last week when Mississippi stopped the Razorbacks on its own one-yard line.

Colorado State will be a tough test. Coach Earl Bruce has earned everyone's respect since being axed at Ohio State. He has made the Rams a legit threat.

Texas Christian at Southern Methodist
Ownby Stadium (23,783)

Jim Wacker's hard-to-figure Toads have quickly become the talk of the SWC, winning two-straight games in dramatic come-from-behind fashion.

Researcher discovers method to eliminate athletic choking

By The Associated Press

COLLEGE STATION — It's not always the successes that are engraved in the minds of sports fans. The failures have their own place in history.

Who can forget watching the ball roll under Bill Buckner's glove, and the World Series slipping away from the Boston Red Sox?

Or hometown idol Carl Yastrzemski popping up to end that 1978 playoff game, making a hero of Bucky Dent and a pennant-winner of the hated Yankees?

This year, baseball's best known chokers have seen a 6½-game lead in the American League East evaporate, although the Red Sox are just a half-game back of the Blue Jays and still have hope.

Maybe they should also have Wayne Shebilske.

The psychology professor at Texas A&M University says he has developed the "Shebilske maneuver" to prevent athletes from "choking" under pressure.

By learning to perform well in clutch situations, stars could become superstars, Shebilske says. "I feel I can make a difference," Shebilske said, by developing a routine styled for each individual.

"I think I can improve ... not so much the overall batting average but getting a hit when the stakes are high."

Getting rid of butterflies is not the answer; harnessing that pent-up energy is, Shebilske said in an interview.

In short, he says, "calm down and pay attention."

"I think I can prevent choking by getting batters to change what they do in the on-deck circle, when they step out of the batter's box — better things they can do to make use of those moments," Shebilske said.

Raiders open season as host of Classic

The Texas Tech men's tennis team officially kicks off its 1990-91 campaign this weekend as they host the Quisenberry Insurance Tennis Classic. The Quisenberry Classic is a flighted tournament involving four teams with play beginning at 8:30 a.m. Friday and concluding with matches at 10 a.m. Sunday. Flights 1-4 of singles and 1-2 in doubles will be played at the Tech Varsity Courts, with remaining flights to be played at the Athletic Training Center. Senior Matt Jackson, who begins the fall ranked No. 34 in the Volvo Tennis/Tennis Collegiate Top 100, will lead the Red Raiders this year as Tech attempts to better last season's school-best 23-7 record. Jackson received all-Southwest Conference honors last year and finished the spring ranked 55th.

Women's tennis journeys to Nebraska

After shutting out West Texas State earlier this week, the Texas Tech women's tennis team will get its first test of the young 1990-91 season as they compete in the Husker Invitational this weekend in Lincoln, Neb. The Red Raiders blanked the Lady Buffs three days ago, doing so without their top seed, junior Mallory Grantham. Freshmen Sheri Gilreath, Debbie Biswell and Lynne Jackson all posted impressive wins in their collegiate debut against West Texas State. Participating in the singles competition for Tech this weekend will be Grantham, Karen Biggerstaff (1-0), Biswell (1-0), Amy Ryan (1-0), Gilreath (1-0) and Jackson (1-0).

Competing in doubles for the Raiders will be Grantham/Biggerstaff (1-0), Jackson/Ryan and Biswell/Robin Dawson.

Golfers face tough test in Albuquerque

The Texas Tech women's golf team competes in its second tournament of the year this weekend as team members travel to Albuquerque, N.M. to play in the 12th and final Dick McGuire Invitational. The tournament will take place on the 6,120 yard, par-174 University South Course with tee off times for all three days at 9 a.m. Competing for the Red Raiders and first-year coach Jeff Mitchell will be seniors Laurie Kleinmann, Neisy Rodriguez and Kerry Dowlin, and sophomores Angie Magee and Kim Jutt. The top four individual scores will be counted daily toward each team's total. Other teams participating in this year's McGuire will be host New Mexico, third-ranked Stanford, 10th-ranked Texas, 12th-ranked Texas Christian, 13th-ranked Southern Methodist, 14th-ranked New Mexico State.

Cross country teams hit road for races

The Texas Tech women's cross-country team will travel to Dallas this weekend to compete in the 2nd Annual Quality Hotel-SMU Invitational while the Raider men travel just down the road to Plainview to the Wayland Baptist Invitational. The women's meet is expected to be the largest meet of its kind in the state of Texas this season. Leading the Red Raiders in Dallas will be sophomore Regina Ortega, who took third place at Abilene Christian in last week's opener. Juniors Martin Del Hierro, Richard Oropeza and David Medrano will lead the men's squad at Wayland Baptist. The men will start on Saturday at 9:15 a.m., while the women get things underway in Dallas that same morning.
