Open House Substituted By Knights Of Pythias For Picnic Of Friday

The Knights of Pythias picnic scheduled for this evening, has been cancelled and will not be held.

Instead, the entertainment committee has announced that on Tuesday evening, September 5, there will be given "open house" entertainment, banquet at Pythian Castle Hall. Pythians are invited to bring their families or friends and if possible to attend you are urged to get in touch with Walter Vastine, phone 715, for information as to your part in making the entertainment a success.

Do the American people really become aroused, if an awakening is coming now—and this flood of letters can hardly mean anything else—it indicates that the nation is facing the scales a united force of a size and strength such as America has employed only three or four times in all her history.

No one could make a greater mistake than to underestimate the significance of this.

This is not just another political movement; it is not just another flag, just another safety valve for confused and inarticulate public emotion.

The blue eagle is the emblem of drive which is a united country back of it; and it all makes one think of General Johnson's recent remark—

"God help the man or men who get in the way of the national recovery program."

OUR PROBLEM IN CUBA

The government at Washington seems to be doing its best to find the right course in an uncommonly tortuous and complicated maze in connection with the unrest in Cuba. It is facing a situation in which it has a great many chances to displease a great many people, and very few chances to win any applause; and so far it seems to have guided its course with a good deal of tact.

We have a definite responsibility for what happens in Cuba. We gave that nation its independence; we have since kept it more or less under our wing, reserving the right to intervene if self-government breaks down; and the notorious faults of the Machado regime have undeniably produced a situation in which some sort of action on our part is essential.

Nevertheless, the affair is far from simple. To go so far as to land troops at Havana would awaken the customary wave of resentment throughout Latin America, even though it was done for Cuba's own good. To apply pressure without seeming to apply it, and to convince everyone that you are doing it disinterestedly, is not easy. Right at this moment Uncle Sam seems to have been handed a singularly thankless sort of job.

The summer wearing apparel of the modern woman consists of about five articles and four of them are stockings and shoes.

Speaker H. T. Rainey On Speaking Tour Urging Cooperation In NRA

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—Speaker Henry T. Rainey left Thursday for St. Louis, continuing his speaking campaign for 100 per cent adoption of the blue eagle program of recovery.

Attacks on the recovery program and the national administration border on treason, the 72-year-old veteran congressman from Illinois told an audience here.

Denying any partisan motives in adoption of the National Recovery Program Rainey assailed purported statements of some Republican leaders describing the Roosevelt administration as committed to a policy of centralized control.

"Statements like this are not technically treason under the law but they graze the very edge of treason," Rainey said.

He complimented the southwest on its energy in promoting the Blue Eagle campaign and expressed confidence that the scheme would solve America's economic problems.

Campfire Dinner In Quiet Dell Proves Hot Weather Relaxation

has been said that we do not go to "rough it" but rather to "rough life." Relaxation that comes in an expedition into the open is a meal cooked over a glowing fire in a quiet spot, smooth wrinkles from tired minds. Men and women particularly enjoy this as a recreation and cooking a campfire saves work at the table. The following menus are substantial camp meals that appeal to appetites whetted by hours of open air.

Hot Steak Sandwiches with Onions and Chili Sauce: Take fresh steaks rolled from home, having them wrapped in waxed paper. Over the campfire, broil the steaks in a long handled fork. During broiling, season well with salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce.

Place the steak in the buttered roll and in each sandwich place a slice of onion, one of Sweet Dill Pickle, and Chili Sauce.

Cup Cakes with Peanut Butter Frosting: Any good recipe may be used for the cup cakes. Frost them with the following Peanut Butter Frosting: To 3 tablespoons Peanut Butter add 2 tablespoons strong cold coffee, 1 tablespoon cream or top milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla and enough powdered sugar to make the proper consistency to spread (about 1-2 cups). Spread on cakes that have been cooled, allow the frosting to set, and then wrap in waxed paper in a box.

Peas and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches: Mix 3-4 cup Peanut Butter with 4 tablespoons Chili Sauce and spread on buttered rolls or on buttered whole wheat bread. Wrap and take to the picnic. Over the campfire, broil bacon and place several slices in each sandwich.

Peas and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches with Prepared Mustard: Wrap a very thin slice of bacon around a 1-inch cube of American Brick Cheese, and fasten the bacon in place with a toothpick. Place on end of long fork or sharp stick and hold over the campfire until the bacon is crisp and cheese slightly melted. Place in rolls spread with Mustard Butter, prepared by combining 1-2 cup butter creamed, with 2 tablespoons Prepared Mustard.

Proof of the Pudding

There's an old fashioned flavor about the pudding type of dessert that appeals to most people. And fortunately there are scores of recipes that come under this head. If your repertoire is worn a little thin by frequent repetition—why not try some of these?

Mix as for a cake batter, then pour over the apricots. Bake in a moderate oven for 1-2 hours. Turn onto a hot platter and serve at once with cream or foamy sauce, or cream and a little apricot juice whipped together.

Date Pudding

Successful Meat Cookery

Whether you are dealing with the choicest cuts of meat or with the more economical and coarser fiber, the success of the result depends entirely upon the methods used in preparation. It is easy to spoil the finest steak by neglecting certain procedures in preparation and still easier to render unpalatable the cheaper cuts.

Tender meats such as sirloin and porterhouse steaks, rib roasts and chops should retain their rich juices—this is accomplished by applying intense heat in broiling, pan-broiling or roasting. The cheaper cuts with their coarser fiber should be seared on the outside and then subjected to long slow cooking with sufficient moisture to keep the meat tender and juicy. In making stews and soups the meat should always be placed in cold water and cooked very slowly for a long time.

Naturally the cheaper cuts are made more succulent and flavorful by the use of a variety of seasonings and condiments. The following recipes suggest methods of preparing different cuts of meat in ways calculated to bring out their fullest flavor.

Savory Pot Roast

Chop 1-4 pound of salt pork into bits. Andrews Pioneer Victim Of Stroke

MIDLAND—John M. Speed, about 78, pioneer resident and former sheriff of Andrews county, died suddenly at his Andrews home Wednesday from a stroke. His son, J. M. Speed, Midland attorney, left with his family immediately upon receipt of the news. Interment services were scheduled for 5:30 this afternoon at Andrews, the Ellis mortuary in charge.

Coming to Andrews county about 1908 from Kentucky, John M. Speed figured prominently in the land boom which was experienced there two years later. He engaged in the cattle business and at farming, also in the mercantile business for years in partnership with his son.

He was elected sheriff of that county in 1920, serving until 1926. When the Midland and Northwestern railroad was built, and many Andrews citizens moved to the Paskett townsite, J. M. Speed & Son established a store there.

Later, when the town of Andrews began a period of growth on account of discovery of oil to the southwest, J. M. Speed constructed a brick hotel. He had extensive holdings of city property and farm land.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. John M. Speed of Andrews, a son, J. M. Speed of Midland, and a daughter, Mrs. Roy Wilson of Andrews.

Let's hope that the dentists in presenting a code to the NRA will not pledge themselves to employ additional help to man the grinding machines.

CHAPTER 57

FRAZIER came into the office before noon, as Mary expected he would. She was ready and waiting for him.

"Mary!" his hands clasped both of hers and he looked into her face earnestly, for a speechless moment, as if he were searching for something that he wanted very much to find there. "It's so wonderful to see you again. Are you just a little glad to have me home again?"

"More than a little," she replied, reflecting that he must not know just why she was glad, and trying to sound sincere.

"Is that true, Mary?" He was incredulous, inarticulate with joy. "Well, how shall we celebrate? I can't tell you here and now, all I want to say."

"Anything you wish, Martin."

"Say, that was a good little idea of mine—going away, after all, now wasn't it? Been thinking things over and over. You know what they are, but I'll tell you again tonight. How about a little private dining room for the evening, where we can talk things over?"

"If you wish that would be nice." Mary felt like a person who is compelled to sign his own death warrant. Was it only this morning that she had thought the end to all confusion and difficulty had been reached? Only a few hours ago that she had thought, with a vast relief and a little pity, how she would meet Frazier with the news of her engagement to Dick Baldwin?

Instead, she had slipped Dick's ring into her pocket, and was posing as the same free girl whom Martin had left a few weeks before. Mary felt like a traitor.

Dick telephoned in the afternoon. His voice was kind and solicitous. "How is my precious girl today? Happy?"

"I could be—except for the market, Dick." Which was the truth. The condition of the market had caused all this trouble for her. "I told you I would give you trouble and loss with that stock. It grieves me so."

"Dear, I wish you wouldn't think of it. Everything is low—it can't last forever. It isn't as if I owed money on the stock. I can hold it until the market picks up."

"But it might never. That stock may continue to drop until the company fails."

"Well—let's forget it, honey. Think of something very pleasant like seeing you tonight. How about it?"

Mary was wretched at having to deceive him so. "Oh, Dick, dear, I have to work late. Foster is like a lion in a cage these days, and if I don't stand by, he may break loose," she tried to speak in jest.

"Sure, I know. When, then, tomorrow?"

"Call me tomorrow, or drop into the office, will you, dear? I'll let you know then. My life isn't my own these days, really."

"Of course not. You belong to me," he laughed. "Okay, honey, until tomorrow."

The day wore on as sad and tragic days do, with relentless and resolute accent upon every minute of time. Foster was in no mood for work, the market was slow and business dull, so Mary accomplished very little work. Yet she felt more exhausted than after many days when she had broken her own speed record.

For more than one reason, she was glad that Martin had suggested a private room for dinner. She could not chance to a dinner frolic for the evening, for one thing. She also thought that it might be easier to say to Frazier what she had to say, with a secure privacy. Then, there was the danger of being seen by others—Dick particularly—if she dined in public with Martin. It would be all right, when she could give some explanation to Dick. But if he happened to see her and understood—that would be too terrible.

The room in which they had dinner looked as if Martin had spent the whole day planning for the evening. There were flowers on the table, flowers for Mary, bonbons on the coffee table before the fire, an elaborate menu. A radio had been brought into the room to provide orchestra music during dinner. It was all very domestic and cozy.

"How do you like it, Mary?" he asked anxiously.

"Everything is lovely, Martin. You do everything well," she smiled appreciatively.

"Well, when a man has a hunch that the dream of his life is about to come true, he gets so confused, he doesn't know what he is doing. But there, I am getting ahead of the program. Shall we have dinner before we talk about it?"

"I believe men are in a better mood after they have dined," Mary tried to say. She wanted so desperately to believe that she was not being a hypocrite, a traitor and a cheat tried to convince herself that, rather, she was being a martyr for a splendid cause, a savior of life and happiness and a loyal servant.

"Tell me where all you have been, and what you have seen this time," she tried to be interested, although she did not care in the least where he had been, or what he had done.

"Well, not to London to see the queen—but I met a few gangsters in Chicago, also some bankers and friends there. Then I went down to Texas and inspected a few oil wells. But what have you been doing, oh—waiting for me to come home?"

"Just the same old routine—and not very pleasant at that. Well-made Products disappointed all of us, didn't it?"

"Oh, yes, but it will come back, in time," casually.

"You can afford to be optimistic, Martin, because you are secure. Not everyone is so fortunate."

Mary sipped ice water to moisten her lips and tongue, then she began, "I've been wondering, Martin, whether you would do something for me?"

He looked puzzled, a little surprised. "Why, of course, you know I would do anything in the world for you, Mary."

"Well, you may not think so, when you know what it is. But I might tell you about it. It's much as I can, and you may do as you please. Do you trust me, Martin?"

He was quite astonished by this time. "Absolutely. You are as square as a forty-five degree angle."

"Do you have any faith in my business judgment?"

"Well, now, how many times have I signed a check on the strength of your advice? What is it, Mary? You check one hundred per cent with me, and you know it."

"I need to raise three hundred thousand dollars some way, and I know no one who has that much money in the world, unless it is you," she began, abruptly.

Frazier was not quite prepared for that. He stared at her in amazement. Had she said one thousand dollars he would have laughed at her solemnity. It was a moment before he spoke. Then he smiled indulgently. "Well, now, I didn't know my little girl thought in such figures as that. Tell me about it, dear."

"I can't tell you much, Martin. I only can assure you that I am being very sane and sensible and that you would be making a very safe investment, if you could spare that much cash to me for—not more than a month, possibly a week or two."

He really was quite amused. "What did you do, darling—buy the whole issue of Well-made Products on margin and now you can't hold it? This is good. I'd like to have the whole story. But you know I've been telling you for months that I would back you if you wanted to try your hand in the market. You went in steeper than I would have expected, though."

"It is no joke, really, Martin. I never was more serious in my life. I know the whole thing must sound absurd to you—it does to me, for that matter. But there is so much at stake."

The despair in her face and voice was proof of that, yet he was more than a little perplexed.

"I have no security to offer you," Mary continued quietly. "If you think you could help me, you will just have to believe in me."

"I would not ask for security from you—unless you can give me your own precious self. I want you more than you could possibly want the three hundred thousand. And you would be more than worth that price to me."

Mary had expected such a proposition.

Golfers To Qualify For Tournament Play Saturday

First Day Will Be Consumed In Qualifying Counts; Match Play To Start Early Sunday

Only one day separates Big Spring from the opening of the third annual Country Club Invitational golf tournament. Early Saturday morning the first link aspirants for the award offered to the medalist of the meet will tee off on the eighteen-hole Country Club course. The first day will be consumed with qualifying. Numbers of players have been carefully stroking the course the past few days to familiarize themselves with the course oddities. The greens, fairways, and tee boxes have been put in top shape, and if no rain occurs the entrants will be playing under the best conditions. About twenty-four local linksmen have qualified the past week to levitate the heavy influx of players Saturday. A number of out-of-town players have paid the necessary $2 entrance fee, but have not qualified. Local entries are expected to boost the field to at least a hundred. George Slaton of Colorado leads those that have already qualified with a 78. Joe Kuykendall rounded the eighteen holes to be lowest for locals with an 80.

Automobile Races On Odessa Track Soon

Among the drivers entered are: Carl Mayfield, Oklahoma City; Waldo Barnett, Wichita, Kan.; Sam Wolfe, Leveland; Posey Reeves, Oklahoma City; Otto Flynn, Lubbock; Earl Boney, Broadview, N. M.; Clarence Rogers, Plainview; Jake Thompson and Allen Rigler, Plainview, and John Crow, Monahans.

Malin Wins Suit From Pittsburgh Pirates

AMARILLO—Jerry Malin, sports editor of the Amarillo Globe News, won a verdict in his damage suit against the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates, major league baseball clubs in the Forty-seventh District Court here late Thursday. The White Sox and Pirates failed to pay an advertised exhibition game here last April 3 and Malin, who had promoted the game, asked for $1,300 damages. The jury found in favor of Malin on all counts but lowered the amount of damages to $1,000.

Babe Tells The World He Is Not Through As Player

NEW YORK—Babe Ruth was so indignant Thursday night about a published story that he was "through" and had decided to "hang up his spikes" that he called up the sports editor of the Associated Press to make a sweeping denial and dictate a formal statement. "Say, where do those fellows get that stuff about me being all washed up?" demanded the Yankee slugger. "When I am ready to quit for good, everybody will know it. What's more I'm going to make a statement now and make it stick. Take this down." Whereupon the Babe dictated the following: "So much has been written about my plans for next year that I wish to make myself clear on this matter. I will make no decision about retiring from baseball until I am convinced I can no longer play. I will not know about 1934 until I have had some spring training. I hope to play next year. I believe I will be able to, so, for the present at least, I am not retiring from baseball." The Babe said he had not yet had any conversation with Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, as to signing a 1934 contract or as to any other angle in his future. The former home run king's salary was reduced from $75,000 to $52,000 this year.

Cantrill Begins Work With Five Letter Men As Nucleus For Class A Race This Year

Colorado Wolves Find No Latch String Out For Class B Homecoming And Stay In Upper Bracket For Season

Big Jim Cantrill and his Wolf pack are back in their place as members of Conference Class A, after roaming around over West Texas some two or three weeks beginning to be re-admitted in good standing in the lower bracket from which they pulled away last year. Announcement that the Wolves would be continued in the upper classification was announced Friday after Cantrill had talked things over with Roy Bedichek at Austin. A few weeks ago the Wolf mentor and other school officials announced that the pack would return to its former rating as member of the Class B. In due time Mr. Bedichek, czar in football, consented that such would be in order. Certain clubs in the upper class were too overwhelmingly strong for competition such as Cantrill realized he would be able to muster during the next season. With spirits running high, Big Jim set out to hold conferences with the big boys dominating the district. With a smile he informed them that he and his Wolves were coming back home to be once more among their fellows. Eat the Colorado coach did not receive much encouragement. In fact, he did not receive any encouragement at all. To the contrary, he was informed that the district officials had already worked out schedule for playing the 1933-34 season and in so far as they were concerned, he was out. The local mentor sought assistance down at Austin, only to be advised that since the schedule was already made out and his former bed fellows did not care to take him in again, the state director would not interfere. It was either return to Class A or be left out of official playing during the season. Cantrill may be able to develop a club that will interest such outfits as the Sweetwater Mustangs, Big Spring Steers and one or two others. He has five lettermen, some of whom were stars in the district last year, who will return this season. From the potential recruit camp several lads are to be mustered for action on the squad. Several of these men give promise of developing into formidable pigskin toters. Among the letter men who will return to wear the Wolf uniform during the next season are Captain Red Church, tackle; Stagner, end; Hagler, guard, Cox, end and Red Moon Morrison, quarter back.
