Enrollment Nears 11,000; Fall Classes Start Today

Officials Laud Student Body For Cooperation

The everyone-goes-to-college bells were ringing this morning on campuses throughout the world, and for Tech they were ringing louder than ever before, with 10,923 students completing registration and another 200 plus in the process to push the total well above the 11,000 mark.

Assistant Registrar Evelyn Clewell reported the 10,923 figure late Thursday night which was the complete total for the first three days, exclusive of the students still in the process of registration.

Assistant Dean of Admissions Don Renner said fees could be paid as late as noon Saturday for those beginning registration Thursday, although regulations specify that the student must have all class tickets stamped paid before attending class.

Renner also reminded that Wednesday, Sept. 23, would be the last day to add courses and change sections.

He said registration progressed about as expected, and expressed satisfaction with the general registration process, pointing out the overall improvement made in time of registration per student.

"Generally speaking, it (registration) has run a lot smoother with fewer problems overall than we've had in the past," Renner said.

He said there were some individual problems, especially in the last few hours as sections began to close, but that several hundred more students were able to register in one half day less than it required last year.

Although the basic system of registration used this term has been used by Tech for the past several years, the finishing-up process this fall was speeded by mass processing facilities in the downstairs ballroom in the new Union, a plan initiated in the summer session.

Renner singled out among other things excellent student help and overall cooperation between the student body and the registration workers.

He said no more registration personnel were required this year than in the past despite the increase.

Enrollment increases are expected to continue each year, according to registration officials, with future growth predictions and adjustments being based on past growth at Tech and other colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Registration began at 1:30 p.m.

Tuesday with some 3,000 students completing the process. The total topped the 9,000 mark Wednesday, with final figures for Thursday not available until Saturday.

The 11,000-plus will mark an approximate 12 per cent increase over last year's enrollment of 10,212.

Official registration closed at 6:30 p.m. Thursday with scores of empty chairs and desks, reams of paper scattered everywhere, and a few of the 300 helpers completing last minute errands—the only evidence of Tech's 11,000 students.

First Pep Rally Set For Tonight

First pep rally of the year will take place at the Southwest Conference Circle tonight.

Stated to begin at 7 p.m., the rally will boost student body spirit for the Saturday night football game between Texas Tech and West Texas.

Highlight of the 15-minute program will be an introduction of the Red Raiders by Head Coach J T King, Cheerleaders, Saddle Tramps, the Tech band and dormitory freshmen will also be on hand en masse.

The SWC Circle is located south of the Men's Gym.

Ole Miss Bars Negro Student In Defiance Of Court Order

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi defied orders of federal courts Thursday and refused to admit James H. Meredith, a Negro, as a student at the University of Mississippi.

The Mississippi governor made his defiant decision in a face-to-face meeting of 23 minutes with Meredith, who hopes to be the first person of his race to enroll in Ole Miss in the school's 114-year history.

He said "no" despite a federal court edict that Meredith must be admitted and in the face of a convoy of four men believed to be U.S. marshals.

Gov. Barnett courted a contempt citation from a federal court by the action, taken upon authority given him by the Mississippi College Board a few hours ago.

A week ago the governor told Mississippi in an impassioned speech that he would go to jail rather than integrate a Mississippi school and more than hinted that he would close schools before so doing.

The dramatic meeting of Barnett and Meredith, 29, took place behind the guarded doors of Alumni House on the Ole Miss campus a few minutes after the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in Hattiesburg, Miss., overthrew a new state law that would have barred the Negro from the school.

When Barnett took his action the court had ordered all Mississippi officials not (1) to interfere with Meredith's admission to Ole Miss under previous court orders; (2) to try to arrest Meredith under his conviction on voter registration fraud charges, or (3) to put into effect an order by Jones County, Miss., Chancery Court which would bar Meredith from the state university.

About the same time, Barnett held a telephone conversation with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in Washington. While the conversation remained courteous, a Justice Department spokesman said, neither man retreated.

Footnotes

by Miller

One of the dubious advantages of writing a regular column is that although in theory the column is limited to a special subject, in practice the writer is free to take off on numerous literary tangents, limited only by his editor, his publisher, and the tolerance of his readers.

Footnotes is that kind of column. In theory, it is limited strictly to amusements and the reporting thereof. But in practice, it occasionally deviates from the bulletin-board of amusements style and lapses into occasional comments upon Tech habits and practices, gripes and greatnesses of Tech students, and the tempo of the times.

Today is one of those lapses. Now that the initial chaos of registration is lessening, and before classes and exams begin to take up too much time, it seems like a good time for a little objective self-analysis.

Most of us come to college with the idea that someday we're going to do something big in our respective fields, and that college is the ideal training ground. This is true. But there's nothing like a big college for deflating ambition and many people tend to get side-tracked. Discouragement hits hard, and often leads to a 'what the heck' attitude.

Lofty stick-to-your-goal articles are becoming so commonplace that they are becoming almost cliches. These articles often ignore the fact that most of us spend our time wondering just what our goals are. The clear, bright-eyed youth with his feet set immovably on the path to success is a myth. We hear that the future is in our hands, that someday we will control the world.

Well who cares about the future? Our time is now, and there's no time like it. And that's the key.

We're here to check out life, with our youth and the promise that it holds. So we get discouraged. Well, what the heck, everyone gets discouraged. The thing is, we've got time on our side. There's a long life and a big world out there, and all we've got to do is find out what it's about. Sure, life is hard, but this is hard too, maybe even harder. Sure, the future is in our hands, but so is the present, and that's where we are now.

So here we are with a new year facing us. Maybe we'll find what we're looking for this year. Maybe it will come to us some dark night. Maybe we'll find out something we didn't know. But the point is, we've come this far. And with a little luck, we'll make it the rest of the way.

Parts Open Double T Sponsors For Play After-Game Dance

Parts for 13 men and 4 women will be cast for the new Speech Dept. play, "A Dog in the Manger."

Tryouts for the play will be Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 7-10 p.m. in the Green Room of the Theater Workshop.

"A Dog in the Manger," a new translation of a play by Lope de Vega, deals with the problems of Spanish honor. It is a satire on the Spanish code of honor and its complications, treated in a light manner. Although particularly applicable to Spain, the theme has universality.

Copies of "A Dog in the Manger" will be available for reading at the Speech Dept. open house, 6-10 p.m. Sunday in the Green Room of the Theater Workshop.

Theater Greet's New Students

Entering freshmen and upperclassmen will have a chance to become acquainted with the work of the Tech Theater Dept. at the Theater Workshop Open House, 6-10 p.m. Sunday.

The open house, to be held in the Green Room of the Theater Workshop, will serve not only as a get-acquainted period, but as an exhibition as well.

Floor plans and sketches of the new Theater Building will be on exhibit, as well as model sets built by Tech students and directors, and production books from past Tech productions. Also on exhibit will be the catalogue and programs from the Tech Theater tour last summer to New York and England.

The first all-school dance sponsored by the Double T Association will be held after the West Texas Tech game Saturday night. The dance is scheduled to begin at 9:30 in the downstairs ballroom of the Student Union.

Charlie Hatchett will provide the music. The tickets are $1.50 stag or drag and can be purchased from the freshman athletes or at the door of the dance.

The association sponsors the first dance after the first home game each year and uses the proceeds for its activities.

"We hope to become more active this year, beginning with this dance," said Charles Steinman, Double T president. The association is composed of varsity lettermen in all phases of the Tech athletic program. This includes football, basketball, track, swimming, tennis, golf and trampolines. Only fencing has been discontinued as a Southwest Conference competitive sport.

The group officers are: James Shaw, vice president; Doug Gibbins, secretary; Billy Gayle Wilson, treasurer; and Dennis Watkins, warden.

Rule Changes 'Maid' Entries

Tech coeds who do not live in the South Plains area will be able to enter the Maid of Cotton contest for the first time this year.

A new ruling by the South Plains Maid of Cotton committee will enable young women attending college in the 23-county contest area to enter the race for the 1962 cotton queen crown. Previously, only girls residing in the South Plains area were eligible to compete.

"Any young woman between 19 and 25 residing or attending school in the area may compete," said George Loveless, chairman of the 1962 Maid of Cotton committee.

Contestants will be judged on poise and personality in talks with the judges and will be required to model bathing suits before the panel of judges only. Each will give a talk on a subject she has selected before the judges and the public at the contest proper.

The Maid of Cotton ball is set for Nov. 12 at the Lubbock Country Club, and the contest itself will be Nov. 13 in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Applications for entry in the contest can be picked up at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce office beginning Oct. 1.

Republican's Rally

Tech Young Republicans will provide transportation to a rally in Austin Saturday for gubernatorial candidate Jack Cox. The group will also have lodging for students while in Austin.

The trip will go to the rally Saturday morning and return Sunday afternoon. Anyone interested in making the trip should contact the Republicans at the booth in the lobby of the Student Union, today. Expenses will include only meals while at the rally.

New Men Appointed To Assist Advisor

Mike Denton, former IFC president, and Jess Parrish, now doing graduate work at Texas Tech, have been appointed to assist Thomas P. Stover, advisor for fraternities, foreign students and student loans.

Denton will be the assistant in charge of fraternities. Parrish will be the assistant in charge of foreign students.

The two were appointed when it was determined that due to increased demands made upon that office, Dean Stover would need assistance.

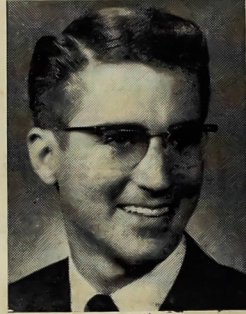

"With the help of these men I'll be more fully informed of the affairs of Tech," Dean Stover said of the two. "Being new at Tech, I need assistants who know the school and the people in it," he added.

Robert Rodgers, a 1961 graduate of Tech, served in the post now held by Dean Stover between the time of his appointment and the resignation of Hershel Potts former dean of student life.

While a student at Tech, Denton was a member of Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity; Saddle Tramps, BSO, and the American Marketing Assn. He received his B.A. in Business Administration in finance.

Parrish, also a Tech graduate, has a B.S. degree in education. He was director of the first recreational hall at Tech, and has also served as physical education teacher for the public school system in San Angelo.

Studio Begins Picture Taking

Avalon Studio began taking pictures Thursday for the class sections of the 1963 La Ventana. Appointments are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Oct. 11 is absolutely the last day we will take pictures. We have deadlines to meet and cannot afford to wait any later," said Joyce Woody, co-editor of the yearbook.

Students who did not make appointments during registration may make them by calling Avalon Studio.

Men students are requested to wear coats and ties for the pictures.

"We have several magazine editors positions available and of course we need staff members," said Miss Woody. Interested persons are asked to apply at La Ventana office in the Journalism Bldg.

Miss Woody also announced that there would be a meeting of La Ventana staff at 5 p.m., Wednesday, in room 208 of the Journalism Bldg.

Good Balances Bad Under New System

Many Techsians may be pleased with the knowledge that their D's now carry more weight than do their F's. But the pleasure may dwindle with the realization that under the present grade-point system, it now takes a two-point grade average to graduate.

Dr. W. M. Pearce, academic vice president, officially announced the change from a three-point system to a four-point system last March. Both Tech's Council of Deans and President R. C. Goodwin unambiguously approved the four-point system.

The change was made to allow a distinction between the grades of D and F in matters of grade-point averaging.

Under the new system, grades of A, B, C and D will get grade point of four, three, two and one respectively.

During the summer all grades were computed on the four-point system. All Techsians will be treated like transfer students during the fall semester.

"The net effect is to raise by one all the requirements having to do with grade-points," Dr. Pearce said. The Tech bulletin which was issued in April uses the four-point system.

In cases where a student now a Tech has several F's, the new system could considerably lower his gross grade-point average, but Dr. Pearce said that a student will not be penalized and will graduate under the bulletin requirement he entered on.

In cases where the student's grade will be affected the case will be handled individually.

Tech Radio Expanding

When the Raider football squad travels to foreign soil to do battle Techsians who remain at the college will be able to listen to the game on the campus radio station-KTXX-FM.

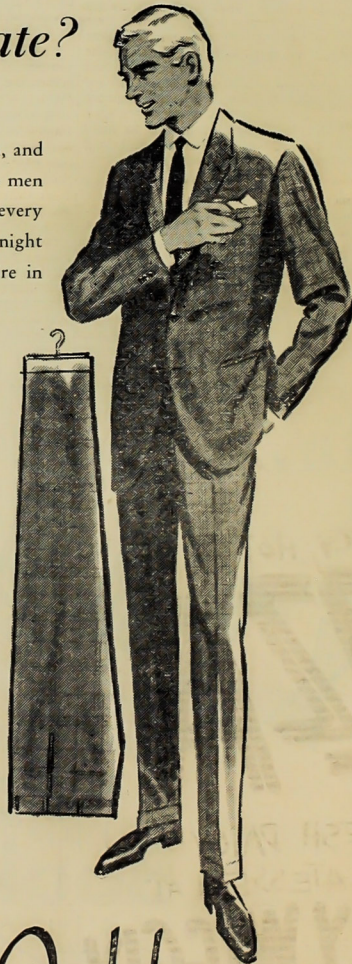

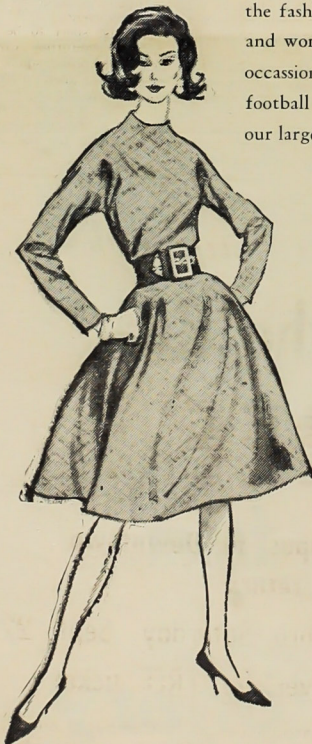

All football games will be broadcast this year as part of the station's new and expanded program schedule.

Charles E. Buzzard, assistant professor of speech and faculty advisor to KTXX-FM, said the station will be operating under several new policies this year which should make the programming more interesting to Tech students.

Fall broadcasting will begin at 4 p.m. Saturday, and the station will sign off when the Tech-West Texas game is over. The station will operate from 4 p.m.-8 p.m. until Oct. 1, when it will broadcast at 8 p.m. until midnight Monday through Friday, and from noon until midnight on Saturday and Sunday. Buzzard said that some staff vacancies have occurred on the station due to the failure of students to return to college. Any student who would like to learn more about radio may contact him in the Speech Bldg. or call Ext. 2153 during the day.

HORN FROGS

RADNOR, Pa. (Special) — Sonny Gibbs, Texas Christian's 6-foot-7 quarterback who paced the Southwest Conference in total offense with 1,198 yards in 1961, was voted a top qualifier for the 1962 All-America team today by the nation's college coaches.

More than 500 members of the American Football Coaches Association placed the powerful 230-pound Horned Frog alongside 46 other college stars as a favorite in this year's race for peak football glory. Their selections were announced in the current issue (Sept. 22) of TV Guide magazine by Bill Murray, association president and head mentor at Duke.

Gibbs, a senior from Graham, Tex., won the total offense crown on the strength of 999 yards he chalked up in the air on 71 completions in 137 attempts. He added 199 yards on the ground. Gibbs, who tossed five touchdowns, is being touted by Coach Abe Martin as the nation's best quarterback for 1962.

The coaches association will select the 73rd annual All-America team, originated by Walter Camp, after a careful study of films of 1962 games. Choices will be announced in the Dec. 1 issue of TV Guide. The No. 1 eleven will be guests on the Ed Sullivan Show Sunday, Dec. 2.

RAZORBACKS

FALETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — An Arkansas football program that has more than measured up to the test of consistency under Frank Broyles opens the 1962 season Saturday night at Little Rock against the Cowboys of Oklahoma State. A crowd of "at least" 38,000 is expected to fill War Memorial Stadium for the 28th meeting between the two state rivals.

The three-time champions of the Southwest Conference have undergone amazing changes since last meeting Alabama in the Sugar Bowl on January 1—and these adjustments have given Arkansas fans an air of uncertainty. It's hard to imagine a Razorback team without Lance Alworth, Paul Dudley, George McKinney, John Childress, Jimmy Collier and Dean Garrett—but the "new" Porkers still retain that winning complex. "That," says

Broyles, "may be the strongest thing we have going for us. That—plus our fans at Little Rock," he added quickly.

While the Porkers still rate high among those who know Southwest Conference football, their Big Eight rivals have been quietly preparing for the third year of league football. Word from the Cowboy camp, however, rates this '62 edition as possible the very best in 17 years, and a darkhorse in the Big Eight.

OWLS

HOUSTON (Special)—The LSU season opener is slated for less than two weeks, on Saturday night (Sept. 29) week at Tiger Stadium in Baton Rouge. But Rice coach Jess Neely is concerned whether his charges are going to be up to a "game edge" for such a formidable foe by that time, despite the fact the Owls are getting an extra week of pre-season drills since they are the only Southwest Conference team that doesn't play this coming Saturday.

Neely's concern seems to be that his players to date have been sluggish, and haven't had the zip and sharpness they should be displaying by this stage of pre-game practice. "I'm sure the heat has had a lot to do with it," says Neely. "It always is very warm and humid this time of year down here, but somehow it seems to be even more intense this year. As a result, we've had to take it a little easier than we'd prefer. But we simply must improve and get more done or we'll have it very rough in having to meet teams of such caliber as LSU and Penn State right off the bat."

MIDDIES

ANNA POLIS, Md. (Special) — Navy and Penn State open the round-robin battle for Eastern football supremacy at University Park, Pa., Saturday.

A crowd of over 40,000 is expected to sit in for the 27th renewal of the series between the Nittany Lions and the Midshipmen, both highly regarded as Eastern title possibilities this fall.

A clear claim to the Eastern throne room should be asserted by December. The East's "big five"—Navy, Penn State, Pitt, Syracuse and Army—meet in an unusual round-robin that figures to establish an unchallenged titlist.

Pistol Pete And Co. Move Into Lubbock

Texas Tech's assignment in its opening football game is a tough one—to slow down the fast-moving West Texas State Buffaloes in Jones Stadium here at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

More than 30,000 are expected to watch the point-a-minute Buffaloes collide with the Red Raiders, who barely eked out a 16-14 victory in the 1961 finale. West Texas State, again starring Pistol Pete Pedro, swamped Trinity University 61-0 last Saturday night.

Pedro, nation's leading touchdown maker last fall, from Lynn, Mass., looks even better than ever, Texas Tech scouts report. He amassed 203 yards in the Trinity trouncing.

But Pedro isn't the Buffaloes' only threat. Coach Joe Kerbel, a former Tech assistant, also has halfback Jerry Logan of Graham, who scored three touchdowns against Trinity, quarterback Jim Dawson of Borger, and fullback Ollie Ross of Harrisburg, Penn., in addition to three members of their 1961 second team backfield.

Coach J T King's attack will be built around fullback Coolidge Hunt of Lubbock, halfback Bill Worley of Midland, quarterback

Johnny Lovelace of Farwell, and end David Parks of Abilene.

Slowed by injuries this week have been Tech tackle Nathan (Sonny) Armstrong of Sweetwater and the Buffaloes' Ross. If Ross can't start he'll be replaced by another Harrisburg griddler, Russell Mundy, who looked equally powerful last week.

Tickets remain available for both the West Texas State game and the University of Texas contest which follows here next week.

The gray fox is the only fox that actually can climb trees.

Eagles Try TW Eleven

DENTON (Special) — North Texas State University and Texas Western, opponents in the season finale last year, kick off the 1962 season here Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Fouts Field.

The North Texans won last November in El Paso 24-14, happily presenting Coach Odus Mitchell his 100th collegiate victory.

The '61 decision also pushed the Eagles' margin to 6-3-2 in the football series that began in 1951 and has continued every season since then.

As Mitchell launches his 17th campaign at NT, Texas Western's boss will be making his debut as a collegiate head coach. He's O. A. (Bum) Phillips, a highly successful high school coach at Nederland, Jacksonville and Amarillo. The Miner coach also served as an assistant to Bear Bryant at Texas A&M.

Intramurals Offers Four New Sports

By BARRY BROWNE
Toreador Sports Writer

Success of Texas Tech's intramural program has been largely due to application of a rule vital to any intra-college activity — to provide a diversified and varied program to attract many different campus groups.

In an effort to provide an even more complete program of athletic competition, director of intramurals Edsel Buchanan and his staff have formulated plans to add four new sports to this year's intramural slate.

Beginning this fall students will be able to participate in soccer, field Olympics, curling and odd-lift weightlifting. All were added to the program in an effort to reach student groups which have not participated in intra-college athletics in previous years.

Soccer has been added to the expanded program because Buchanan felt there was "a definite need to provide a sporting activity for foreign students on our campus."

According to Buchanan, soccer is a very popular sport in both South America and Europe, both of which send many foreign students here.

Still another sport added to this fall's competitive program is field Olympics. Planned as a once-a-semester track and field meet, it will be composed entirely of individual entries.

Contestants compete in broad jump, high jump, shot put, pole vault, discus and javelin. Winners are determined on the aggregate total distance achieved in any four of the six events.

The last sport to be offered is odd-lift weightlifting. Composed of the bench press, squat and dead lift events, it allows athletes of any size to compete against one another. This is made possible by the use of a mathematical formula, compensating for the size advantage.

Musical Exudes Talent

By BILL MCGEE
Toreador Editor

Scheduled for hold-over performances today and tomorrow, Lubbock Theatre Centre's delightful production of "South Pacific" offers the Tech student some idea of just how talented his classmates are.

The varied and complex problems of staging the Rogers and Hammerstein favorite are overcome with completely professional aplomb by the Lubbock troupe.

Director S. Walker James has urged a large cast through difficult vocal and theatrical maneuvers with the result that the whole production shines with the polish of professionalism.

Tech senior Linda Eberly is superb as the corn-fed and confused Nellie Forbush. Gamin features and reckless gestures give her role just the desired amount of bouyancy. Her mobile expressions are an added attraction for front-row viewers. Her voice is particularly well-suited for the kind of songs demanded by the role; Mary Martin would never make the Metropolitan either.

Fred MacFarland, another Techsan, brings outstanding vocal talent and sensitivity to the leading male role of Joe Cable. A sense of stage uncertainty enhances—rather than diminishes—the part's verisimilitude. The lieutenant is supposed to be very young. The well-known songs could have been written for his clear tenor.

Tech student Carolyn Jacobs was cast as Nurse McGregor, and John Roppolo and Durward Jacobs formed Tech's delegation to the scraggiest bunch of troops ever assembled. Their antics keep the comedy level high throughout the play.

Vivian Garets, wife of journalism professor W. E. Garets, performs the character role of Bloody Mary with incomparable competence. It's a difficult role which demands real dramatic ability with almost vulgar comedy. Her professional vocal experience is evident in her delightful songs.

Other kudos to R. Norman Carr for a perfectly believable Emile de Becque and overtones of Pinza in his vocals; to Carol Hastings for a very tender Lia; to Charles Benton for a suitably opportunistic Stewpot; and to Jerry Henderson and Harvey Brewington for being as G.I. as a Navy mop-bucket.

Tech's talented contribution to Lubbock Theatre's "South Pacific" makes it an enchanting evening for the most perceptive critic. It's a must for every Techsan.

Student admission is $1.50 and curtain time is 8 p.m. The Centre is at 2508 Ave. P.

More holdover performances are in the offing, according to Director James, depending upon attendance tonight and tomorrow.
