United Airliner Hits Ground While Trying Chicago Landing

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)-The death early today of two men brought to eight the number of persons killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago municipal a: port.

Eight others were injured. From the lips of survivors and an examination of the wreckage, investigators sought an explanation for the accident which occurred when the 21-passenger mainliner, inbound from the east, plunged nose first into a vacant lot scant 200 yards from the airport about 6 p. m. last night.

Roosevelt Pushes St. Lawrence Job

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)-President Roosevelt announced today he would ask congress, convening in January, to approve a treaty with Canada providing for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project "on which so much of our national safety and welfare depend."

The president's announcement, presaging another battle in congress over the long-debated project (defeated in 1934) was made by A. A. Berie, Jr., assistant secretary of state, in an address before the Great Lakes seaway and power conference. President Roosevelt, in a mes-age to the conference read by Berle, emphasized that the St. Lawrence project would provide millions in new horsepower urgently needed to speed up defense pro-duction, and create a safe haven and waterway for construction of Representatives of the seven compact member states - Oklacoma, Kansas, Texas, New Mexico, Michigan, Colorado and Illinois-arrived last night and obsevers from most of the other oil produc ing states were expected.

Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklanoma, compact chairman, asserted the states were able to regulate their oil production "without federal help.

But official statements were lacking on whether the commistion, which now makes recommendations for oil conservation but has no regulatory power, would seek broader influence.

The present compact expires next drafted at this meeting. Proposals that more "teeth" be put in the new comtract came from many independent producers.

Colorado City Wants In 3-AA Grid League

COLORADO CITY, Dec. 5 (Spl) Decision was made this week by Colorado City school officials that the school will go into AA football next year. The Colorado City Wolves are champions of 6A this year, and bi-district winners over Brownfield.

The school is expected to be for nally admitted to district SAA at meeting of the district committee in Big Spring Friday night. The district includes Big Spring, Sweet-water, Midland, San Angelo, Abilene, Odessa and Lamesa.

It was explained by Supt. John E. Watson in announcing the decision that if Colorado City were to stay in single A football, it would have to be by special permission of both district 6A and the state interscholastic league committee Enrollment in high school passed the single A deadline of 509 last year, automatically putting the ing tagged as the next big shots ed special permission to remain in

Highways Are Important

This is Highway Week in Texas, It is a peod when all Texans are being made better acsainted—through activities of the state highway epartment and the Texas Highway associationwith what the Lone Star state has in the way of a system of good roads, and what it needs to

NE. YORK

Texas is making a good record in the matter of highway construction and improvement, but lot of work remains to be done. The stateintained system of some 22,600 miles is only bout one-half completed to modern standards, ghway authorities assert, and it would take oximately $570,802,000 to bring this system up to the preds of today.

The state highway department receives about 30,000,000 a year in revenue for construction; hus it is estimated it would take 19 years to o the job needed to bring the road system up

The need of additional modern highways in Texas has been emphasized because of the nation's defense program. The state's road network holds a featured place as one of the key links in national preparedness, the importance of the state in the new national defense setup being avident because of the long Mexican border to the south and the extensive coastline on the east, Texas' many training camps and military centers of one sort or another, too, need adequate connecting highways.

Proper national defense agencies have designated 6,375 miles of this state's highway system as part of the nation's strategic military network and as vitally necessary for the nation's defense.

It is important that Texas be permitted to continue a full road construction program. Defense routes should come first, but other highway needs of the state should not be overlooked. One main purpose of Highway Week, in showing the benefits of the present system, and the need of further road development, is to build public sentiment against further diversion of the motorist's gasoline taxes to purposes other than the building of roads and highways. There is being undertaken a program for submission of a con stitutional amendment to end for all time the threat of further gasoline tax diversion.

This may be the safest way to prevent such diversion, but it possibly could be an unnecessary procedure. The fact remains that gasoline taxes should go for road and highway purposes, and the people of Texas ought to stand staunchly against improper diversion. Our roads are too

Washington Daybook -

WASHINGTON-Answering the mail orders: R. de G., New Orleans, La.-It is no trick at all to put you in touch with Edward Bruce, head of the section of fine arts, Public Building Administration, 7th and D streets, Southwest Washington, D. C., but I'm sorry to report that the deadline already has passed on the water color competition for paintings for the government leprosarium at Carville, La.

If you, or any other artists, wish to get on the fine arts section mailing lists for future competitions, I believe a brief letter, setting forth your qualifications, would do the job.

In connection with this particular competition, there are some facts in which you may be interested. The fine arts section received the staggering total of almost 10,000 water colors and every state, several insular posessions and the territories were all represented. Not only were there works by well known artists, whose paintings sell for far more than the $30 apiece offered in this instance, but the submitted paintings ran the whole gamut down to painfully sophomoric

As you may remember, the competition provided for the purchase of 300 water colors at $30 each, or a total outlay of $9,000. But here's the tripper: Mr. Bruce estimates that the total cost to the artists of packing, insuring and mailing In the paintings, plus the cost of getting the rejected ones back C. O. D. will amount to something like $40,000!

I don't like to be Mr. Gloom about any profession, but that seems to me a simple lesson in practical economics that should be an elementary course in every art school. When it costs artists nearly $40,000-not counting their labor-to absorb a $9,000 market, there's something radically wrong somewhere. The fine arts section sees this as an example of magnificent spirit on the part of American artists and I don't disagree with that a bit, but gambling against more than four-to-one odds is a good deal more like playBy Jack Stinnett

F. L., Gainesville, Ga.-Undoubtedly more vital defense matters have overshadowed the defense training work of the Civilian Conservation Corps, but just because you haven't read or heard much about it lately, don't think that the CCC isn't making strides along this line. When billions are being spent on new and old factories and hundreds of thousands of men are marching into camp to form our greatest peacetime army. it's not easy to make exciting copy or startling conversation about a going project that is gradually keying its aims and routine to national

If you want a few facts and figures, I can pass along some recent comments by Director James J. McEntee that certainly ought to be eve-openers to those who think the C-boys are the forgotten men of national defense.

Mr. McEntee says, for example, that 60,000 drivers of trucks, tractors and other automotive equipment and 15,000 mechanics now are being turned out by the CCC yearly, Another 60,000 get training in road construction, 8,000 in blasting and 7,500 in bridge building. About 5,000 cooks and bakers reach a qualified degree of proficiency

To list the figures on carpenters, masons, plumbers, electricians, radio operators, surveyors, draftsmen, welders, and other trades necessary to industrialize defense would be only to prolong this item. Just how efficient all these CCC graduates are I don't know, but Mr. McEntee also has a list as long as you arm of the men and boys who have been taken into defense industries, the army and navy in the last six months. Just one example is that on Jan. 15, 300 more CCC boys will report to the United States Maritime commission, bringing to a total of 1,400 the C-men who have been accepted by the commission for sea training. Nine to ten months more and these boys will be full-fledged seamen.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD-For an index to the offscreen character of Eddie Albert, consider the fact that he is now sporting a beautiful set of plain, old-fashioned boils.

Eddie, maybe you didn't know, has a medioine man. Eddie breught him back from one of his jaunts into Mexico. Found him in Chihushua, working with herbs. Eddie is crazy about herbs. This medicine, the medicine man said, had tong been used down there as a quack cure for one of those diseases which only recently has been mentioned in polite circles. Eddie, with a streak of Dr. Ehrlich in his make-up, brought him to Hollywood to perfect the remedy and see what could be done about it. Nothing to worry about, he says cheerfully. The medicine man assured him this is merely part of the remedy's blood-purifying action. Eddie thinks maybe the medicine already has been outmoded by later discoveries he's read about but then the medicine man has a perpetual motion invention, too,

"Maybe something'll come of that," says Eddie. "Wouldn't it be funny?"

It would, but it all gives a pretty good idea what Eddie Albert does with the money he arms in pictures. He doesn't talk about it, but ight now he's backing a professor who is writa serious work on economics. He thinks havan actor's name connected, even in a small way, with such a work, would discredit it some-

He has a new boat, a 54-foot ketch (the Cynthia), the better to travel in. He's a pal of the traveling Lambs, Dana and Virginia. He dreams about getting down into the old Mayan country, to explore and dig up ruins. Eddie's dreams are practical-he makes 'em come true. He likes to hunt buried treasure. There's a vast one he knows about, but he isn't much interested. What intrigues him in that direction at prestnt is a single hidden chest of silver pesos-"the other would be too much like a business expedition." He hears about these things from "guys I have out and around." He wants to get down on the Amazon and find out about some herbs he's heard about.

He wanted to find out how it felt to be alone in a cage of lions. That's why he angled himself into the lion-tamer role in "The Wagons Roll at Night." He says, "The world's so full of fascinating things to do that you can't do 'em

And you take a quiet fellow who talks like this, without affectation, and you have the fellow Stevenson was talking about when he wrote: "The world is so full of a number of things
