Tech Places First In Debate At ACC

Tech debaters, Wynette Johnson and Cleo Haston, won first place honors in the Junior Debate division of the Abilene Christian College Speech Tournament Friday and Saturday.

"Cleo and I contribute our win for the most part to our coach, Robert Dick," Miss Johnson said.

She was rated top speaker out of 130 participants representing 26 schools, and scored 142 points out of a possible 150.

Both debaters are sophomore pre-law students. Miss Johnson is from Lubbock and Haston's home town is Plainview.

Teams from Kansas, Oklahoma, New Jersey and Texas debated the question, "Resolved: That Labor Organizations Should Be Placed Under the Regulation of Anti-Trust Legislation."

In the semifinals there were three much-favored Baylor teams and one Tech team. Ironically Tech came home with the first place trophy, and Baylor placed second, third and fourth.

Tech's Kip Glasscock won third place in the oratory contest. Also entered in the tournament were the debate team of Arthur Skibell and Harry Neuhardt.

March Vote Will Pick Tech, Class Favorites

On March 7 Techsians will elect the 1962 Mr. and Miss Texas Tech. Nominations for the all-school election must be in the Student Council office, Ad 161, by 5 p.m. Monday.

To be eligible, a candidate must meet certain requirements. He must be nominated by a recognized campus organization, although he need not be a member of the nominating group. He must be classified as a senior.

Each candidate must meet the basic college scholastic requirements for eligibility. And he must be able to attend the Coronation Ball March 9.

The candidate must be notified prior to nomination and may be nominated only with his approval.

Class favorites will also be selected in this election. To be eligible, the student must be a member of the class in which he is nominated. He must have a 1.00 overall average, as well as a 1.00 for the preceding semester.

Class favorites will be elected by the members of their respective classes.

Registrar Sets Drop Deadline

Today is the last day for students to drop a course and still receive a grade of W, according to the Registrar's Office.

Students who wish to drop a course must see the dean of their respective school to complete the drop. No grades of WF will be given if the course is dropped today.

Tech Seeks Revenge Against Potent Aggies

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

Texas Tech lays its Southwest Conference title hopes on the line in Municipal Coliseum today when the Red Raiders battle the Texas A&M Aggies at 8 p.m.

It's a must game for both teams, with the Aggies needing a victory to retain their slim hopes for a tie and the Raiders needing the win to keep pace with Southern Methodist, the team tied with Tech for the lead. Tech is the favorite although A&M won the first game at College Station, 70-61. A capacity crowd is expected.

Both SMU and Tech boast 9-3 marks going into the last two games on the conference schedule, and A&M is a game back at 8-4. Rice still has a mathematical chance for a share of the championship with its 7-5 mark, but all other league teams have been eliminated.

The Aggies are led by Carroll Broussard, a 6-5 forward who was a unanimous all-SWC pick and second team all-America selection last season. He was second leading scorer in the Southwest Conference as a sophomore and took top honors in his junior year last season.

After 22 games this year, he's scored 382 points, enough to make the top five among SWC players play. His season average is 17.4, good enough to rate him the fourth best scorer in the league, the same ranking he has with his 17.5 conference scoring mark.

The Red Raiders have returning representatives from the 1961 all-SWC team also. Both 6-10 Harold Hudgens and 5-10 Del Ray Mounts were unanimous choices for the mythical team and this season rank No. 6 and 7 in the season scoring race. The pair were second and third respectively in SWC scoring last year.

Gene Gibson, head coach for the Raiders, showed anxiety Monday over the Aggies but he isn't planning any special strategy for the match.

"We played probably our best game of the year against Texas," Gibson continued. "Our offensive game was good, but it was our defensive work that really made us look good. We carried the fight to them all the way, and that's just what we're going to attempt to do against Texas A&M."

In addition to Broussard, Coach Bob Rogers will have guards Tommy Smith and Bennie Lenox, center Jerry Windham and forward Benny Johnson.

Broussard's best shot is a fade-away jump shot at the top of the circle, and it's mainly on that shot the two-time all-stater at Port Arthur has emerged as holder of all 13 Texas A&M scoring records.

Windham has been scoring at a 9.2 pace with most of his points coming on follow-up shots and tips. Lenox is second to Broussard in scoring with his 11.9 average, and Johnson and Smith complete the roundup with 10.8 and 6.9 scoring averages. It was the scoring of the latter two that hurt Tech most in the first meeting of the two teams. Both hit their season high against the Raiders, with Smith hitting 21 and Johnson 18.

Joining Hudgens and Mounts in the Tech lineup will be 6-3 Mac Percival at guard, a pair of 6-4 forwards, Roger Hennig and Bobby Gindorf.

Gindorf will draw the assignment of guarding Broussard in tonight's game and Hudgens will stay with Windham. Hennig will get the job of guarding Smith, with Percival on Johnson and Mounts on Lenox.

In other important games over the conference, Southern Methodist will go to Waco to play Baylor, Arkansas will host Texas at Fayetteville and TCU and Rice will travel to Fort Worth.

In a preliminary game at 6 p.m., the Texas Tech Picadors play their final game of the season. They'll have a chance to gain revenge against the Ince Oilers who defeated them in an earlier match, 98-86.

Student Vote Will Help Council Make Name Change Decisions

A multi-question ballot awaits voters in the name change election March 7.

The ballot will be similar to the questionnaire distributed by the Student Council last semester and it will serve practically the same purpose.

Where the questionnaire helped the Council decide if there was a widespread interest in changing the name of Texas Technological College, the election will aid the Council in determining "what name," if any, the majority of Techsians support.

The ballot will be divided into five parts. In the first, titled Student Information, the voter will check the school in which he is enrolled.

The second part is a question: Do you feel that the name of this institution should be changed? The voter will check yes, no or undecided.

For the third part, the voter will indicate the name he would like for this institution. The Student Council is currently soliciting names from campus organizations. Names scheduled to appear on the ballot are these:

- Texas State University
- Trans-Texas University
- Plains University
- South Plains University
- University of the Plains
- Texas Technological Institute
- Texas Technological University
- Texas Tech University
- Texas State University of Arts, Sciences and Technology
- University of the Southwest

There will be a space for the voter to write in any other name.

Part four asks the voter to check his reason for changing the name. These reasons are the following:

- a. Gives graduates a chance at better jobs.
- b. The present name is not a direct indication of the actual nature of this institution.
- c. Organization of the school is not that of a college.
- d. Change of name gives higher social rating.

e. Name change would attract more people.

f. It would be easier to attract qualified professors if this institution had university status.

Other Specify.

The last part requests the voter to check the reason he voted against changing the name of Texas Tech. Reasons given are these:

- a. Name change would affect the tradition of the Double T.
- b. The institution's image would have to be rebuilt.
- c. Suggested names are not appealing.
- d. Do not understand the reasons for changing the name.
- e. Students would enroll elsewhere.
- f. Other Specify.

Committee OK's Daily Publication

The Publications Committee Thursday approved the idea of a daily Toreador to begin publication next fall.

This is the first in a series of moves to make the Toreador a daily. If other steps are met, the paper will be published five days a week, Tuesday through Saturday.

"This is another step in the progress of the school," Phil Orman, director of student publications, commented. "A daily publication will put Tech on an equal footing nationally with other major schools of its size."

"I feel sure that this is something all students want," Orman added. He explained that a daily publication would fill the communication need created by the large number of students on campus.

Rush Tea Honors Business Majors

Women business majors will be honored at a Phi Gamma Nu rush tea from 5 to 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Anniversary Room of Tech Union.

Phi Gamma Nu, an honorary for women business majors, requires that its members have at least a 1.5 overall grade point average. They must also have completed six hours of business courses.

Included in the activities sponsored by the Lambda chapter of Phi Gamma Nu are fall and spring banquets, the selection of a Mr. Executive from the faculty of the business department, Christmas philanthropy and visits to various business firms in Lubbock.

Fraternity Requests Qualification Check

Students wishing to be checked for eligibility in Phi Eta Sigma, men's undergraduate honorary scholarship fraternity, are asked to notify the office of Student Life.

To be eligible, students should have a 2.5 over-all during his freshman year. A minimum of 24 hours is required. Grades in one-hour courses not requiring final examinations are excluded.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Young Republicans will hear Dr. W. M. Pearce, academic vice president, speak on federal aid to education at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Rec Hall.

RELIGIOUS PANEL—Thursday Forum will undertake a panel discussion concerning "Great Religions of the World." The Forum, which presents speakers on subjects of current interest, will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in the upstairs Ballroom in Tech Union.

Members of the panel are Rev. Calvin Froehner, who will speak on Christianity; Mohamed Ayoub, who will discuss the Moslem religion; Rabbi Alexander Kline, who will present views of the Jewish religion; and Dr. Ivan Little, who will present Oriental religious concepts.

STRAIGHT MATTER

by Nolan Porterfield

A PRETTY GIRL IS LIKE A MALADY: After last week's La Ventana beauty pageant, Gene Price says he's thoroughly charmed by southern girls and their drawn-out draws: "By the time one of them tells you her past, you're part of it!"

A front page story in last Thursday's Toreador on the campus traffic problem struck me as very, very strange. I don't know who wrote the story, or under what conditions it was written, but the whole thing reeks of the subterfuge and double-talk to which the student body is being subjected constantly on important matters.

Frankly, I'm completely overwhelmed by the fact that the Student Traffic Committee has been working on various parking problems since October and will have a report "in the near future." According to the story, the work of the committee has been given little publicity "due to the complexity of their duty"—whatever that means—and its members have not "divulged their proposals" because certain details may be changed "before the final proposal is submitted."

But the committee, according to its chairman, is "interested in letting Tech students know that something is being done about our traffic congestion on campus." If this is so, why is it that nobody heard anything about or from this committee until the Great Instigator, Ralph W. Carpenter, and his rabble-rousing cohort, John Petty, blew the whistle on the situation and asked for some action?

Also curiously paradoxical was the story's attempt to explain that the traffic problem hadn't been sent to a committee and allowed to die: "Far from that, the Student Council has the nine-member committee considering this and many similar traffic problems." If they've been doing this since October and are still in the planning stage, where will we be in May? Ready to appoint another "committee" and start over next year? Nuts.

Let's get down to brass tacks. Just what proposals are being considered by the Traffic Committee? When is the "near future," at which time we can expect a "report"? What does "complexity of duty" have to do with telling the student body what's going on?

OVERHEARD IN THE HALLS: "His mind is a closed book, and what's more, it comes in an awfully plain wrapper."

Now is the time for all good literary giants to bundle up their manuscripts and come to the aid of The Harbinger, Tech literary magazine. Deadline for entries in poetry, essays, fiction, artwork and photography is March 9. Material should be submitted to the English Office, C&O 125. Actually, any type of creative work will be considered, according to Grover Lewis, who's spearheading the drive for a bigger and better Harbinger this spring. Ex-students as well as those currently enrolled are invited to submit work.

An interesting aspect of the spring Harbinger is that entries will be judged by "outsiders," noted literary lights at other schools. This makes, perhaps, for greater objectivity, and also assures that your masterpieces will have a chance to attract some attention in other areas. Judging fiction entries will be Larry McMurtry, TCU instructor and winner of the 1962 Jesse H. Jones Award for his novel, "Horseman, Pass By."

Dr. James Brown, North Texas State English prof and author of poetry, fiction and articles in various magazines will judge poetry. Non-fiction judge is Dr. Martin Skockley, also at NTSU. Shockley is a nationally-recognized authority on Steinbeck and Twain, and, according to Lewis, is "one of the most distinguished scholars of American literature now teaching in the state." You'll be in good company, so sit down and start creating.

Mail Call...

Sirs:

Your correspondent, Shirley Vernon, betrays herself quite obviously as a musical lowbrow (or perhaps more correctly, a musical sub-lowbrow) by considering Roger Williams and Carlos Montoya "highbrow." One is inclined to think of Stravinsky, Bartok, Berg, Webern, Boulez and some of the pre-baroque composers as highbrow; Bach, Mozart, and Beethoven as upper-middlebrow; Handel, Haydn, Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Mahler, Debussy, and Ravel as middlebrow; and Chopin, Wagner, Verdi, Puccini, Tschaikowsky, and Rachmaninoff as lowbrow. A categorizing such as this should not be construed as relative value judgment of the music of these composers, but rather as an index to musical "taste" in enlightened areas.

Very truly yours,
Lowell M. Cross

Dear Editor:

Hooray!
Congratulations!
How about that!

Looks as if the student body will finally get to vote on a name change. And when the final vote is tallied, it should be apparent that the students overwhelmingly favor a name change.

Texas Technological College is a misnomer! While granted technology is one area of study in our school, it is only ONE of many. The name "College" itself, carries a restrictive connotation which does not accurately describe our present school set-up. Our school is a UNIVERSITY, and deservedly should be known as such!

When March 7th rolls around, I, for one, will cast my vote for TEXAS STATE UNIVERSITY!

Franklin D. Lewis
Student, Graduate School

Dear Editor,

A letter in defense of people who don't give a damn.

I am disturbed by the fact that in this day and time a person cannot "not give a damn" without being labeled Un-American, Communist or worst.

Surely Col. Glenn's flight was a great achievement. This is not the point. The right of the individual to believe as he wishes has been questioned. Freedom of belief is also the freedom not to believe or not to care.

You, Mr. Porter, are far more dangerous to the welfare of the American people with your attempt to censure another for his personal beliefs.

Your error lies not in disagreeing with him, but in implying that he is:

1. A poor example of an American citizen.
2. A little on the pink side.

I ask you, Mr. Porter, is everyone who disagrees with you un-American? A Communist?

I, and many others who express their rights not to care would like an explanation of your rash letter.

John Wehrle

Dear Editor:

I am very proud to hear that the students of Texas Technological College are going to have the opportunity to vote on a name change for our institution of higher learning.

According to Webster, a university is "an institution organized for teaching and study in the higher branches of learning, and empowered to confer degrees in special departments." In this country, a university typically comprises a college and one or more graduate or professional schools.

It seems to me that this definition would be more appropriate to our institution than the term Technological College. Technological is misleading and is not indicative of the type of institution Texas Tech is at present. College, itself, is restrictive in that it does not denote the extensiveness of our curriculum.

Along with the vote for name change, which will be held on March 7, the students will also be given an opportunity to select a specific name that they would prefer.

I would like to suggest the name TEXAS STATE UNIVERSITY be included on the ballot. My reasons for this are as follows:

1. Texas State University would denote the main competitor to "THE UNIVERSITY" (of Texas). Witness: Michigan State University, Ohio State University, Oklahoma State University, etc.

2. Texas State University would have wide appeal to students all over the state unlike some schools that have specific geographical location attached to their names such as North Texas University, West Texas State, East Texas State, etc.

3. Another indication of the popularity of the name Texas State University is reflected by the efforts of attempted legislative action to incorporate this name into a name change of Texas A&M, which would have become known as Texas State University and Mechanical and Agricultural College. Also Texas Southern University has unsuccessfully attempted to lay claims to this name.

It is rumored that the University of Houston (although it has not been made known publicly) would like to change their name to Texas State University when they become a fully state supported institution in 1963.

In closing I hope that lack of interest by the student body will not prevail as in recent balloting.

Stand up and be counted Techsans (soon to be Texans)!

Texas Politics Feel Force Of Connally

One of the newest faces to come upon the muddled Texas political scene in years is the face of John B. Connally, former Secretary of the Navy.

As the maddest scramble for the governor's office in 16 years gets underway, eight candidates are seeking the favor of the Texas voter, and Connally is one of the major contenders.

Six Democrats, ranging from the far fringes of the right to New Frontier liberalism, want to carry the Democratic banner in the November general election against GOP opposition.

Democratic candidates seeking the position of governor are Gov. Price Daniel, running again for the fourth consecutive time; former Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally; Attorney General Will Wilson; former General Edwin Walker; Marshall Formby; and Don Yarborough.

Republicans seeking the nomination of their party are Jack Cox, Breckenridge oilman and converted Democrat, and Roy Whittenburg, Amarillo cattleman, oilman and publisher.

Although John Connally's face is the newest to come into Texas politics in the past two decades, he is also considered one of the most formidable opponents in the race.

Most political prophets agree that the man to beat in the race is old politico-Pro Price Daniel.

Yarborough is assumed to have the second largest bloc of votes at this time. He has been referred to as the Triple L candidate in the race—having most of the labor-liberal-loyalist support in the state. Almost without exception, Yarborough has all of the left wing groups in the state supporting him.

John Connally has taken the moderate route in his first bid for public office. He is feared by his opponents because of the wide scope of his support in the race. He is basing his campaign on reunification of the Texas Democratic party.

The candidate most likely to be hurt by Connally is Daniel, who in the past has successfully wielded together several factions in putting together his victories.

Veteran political observers in the state have said that Connally has one of the most well-organized campaigns in Texas history operating out of his state headquarters in Fort Worth. His association with business and financial interests are reportedly close.

Although this is Connally's first try for elective office, he has held several top positions in private business and government, and is recognized as a top-notch administrator.

Connally worked his way through the University of Texas, receiving his LL.B Degree, and was licensed to practice law in 1938. In college he was one of the outstanding student leaders on campus. He served as president of the student body at the University, president of his law class, chairman of the Students' Assembly and Chairman of the Student Publication Board.

Following graduation Connally took a position as Congressional secretary to then Congressman Lyndon B. Johnson.

Returning to Texas after the war, Connally was president and manager for three years of an Austin radio station.

Before joining Senator Lyndon Johnson's staff as administrative director in 1949, Connally practiced private law and was an attorney for the Texas Electric Co-ops. He also served as director to the Lower Colorado River Authority.

In 1952 Connally became attorney for the late Sid W. Richardson and Perry B. Bass, independent oil operators. Following the Democratic victory in November of 1960, Connally was appointed Secretary of the Navy by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Along with Daniel, Connally will draw his support from the broad front all along the political spectrum. Many of his supporters have backed Allan Shivers in past races, and he has some of the leading Johnsonites in his camp. He has some backing from labor in Harris County and the Gulf Coast area. However, most of organized labor is strongly opposed to his candidacy.

Connally has promised the state hard-hitting, aggressive leadership if elected. Included in Connally's platform is a pledge for a constitutional amendment limiting the governor to two consecutive terms.

"I want to see Texas first in education, first in industrial growth, first in job opportunities, and first as a place to raise our families," Connally said.

Zorin Expresses Hopes For Space Cooperation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Chief Delegate Valerian A. Zorin voiced hope Monday that the coming U.N. meeting on outer space would lay the groundwork for Soviet-U.S. cooperation in that field.

At a news conference he cited Premier Khrushchev's cable to President Kennedy hailing John H. Glenn Jr.'s space flight and suggesting that the two big powers pool their efforts to explore space.

UNITED WE STAND

The entire academic world is agog over the success of the Associated Colleges Plan—ACP, for short. I mean, you go to any campus in the country these days and you will see students and faculty dancing on the green, blowing penny whistles, grabbing each other by the elbows and yelling, "About that ACP, Charley—like wow!"

And who can blame them? The ACP is a plan not only simply brilliant, but also brilliantly simple. All it is, is a loose regional federation of small colleges. Let's say, for example, that in a given region we have a group of small colleges, each with its own academic specialty. Small College No. 1, let's say, has a fine language department; Small College No. 2, let's say, has a fine science department; No. 3 has a fine music department; etc., etc.

Well sir, under the ACP these various colleges federate. A student in any one of the colleges can take courses in the specialty of any of the other colleges and—here's the beauty part!—he will receive credit for the course at his home college. Thus he enjoys all the advantages of a big university without losing the comfy coziness of a small college!

Well sir, you can see what a good idea the ACP is. I respectfully submit, however, that just because a thing is good is no reason not to try to make it better. Like, for instance, Marlboro Cigarettes. Marlbors were good from the very beginning, and people found out quickly and sales zoomed. But did the makers of Marlboro say, "Okay, we've got it made. Let's relax"? Well sir, if that's what you think, you don't know the makers! They did not relax. They took their good Marlbors and kept improving them. They improved the filter, improved the blend, improved the pack. They researched and developed tirelessly, until today Marlboro is just about the most admirable cigarette you can put a match to. There are, in fact, some people who find Marlboro so admirable they can't bear to put a match to them. They just sit with a single Marlboro in hand and admire it for ten, twelve years on end. The makers of Marlboro are of course deeply touched by this—except for E. Rennie Sigafos, the sales manager.

But I digress. The ACP, I say, is good but it can be better. Why should the plan be confined to small colleges? Why should it be confined to a limited region? Why not include all colleges and universities, big and small, wherever they are?

Let's start such a federation. Let's call it the "Bigger Associated Colleges To Encourage Richer Intellectual Activity"—BACTERIA, for short!

What a bright new world BACTERIA opens up. Take, for example, a typical college student—Hunrath Sigafos (son, incidentally, of the Marlboro sales manager). Hunrath, a bright lad, is currently majoring in burley at the University of Kentucky. Under the BACTERIA plan, Hunrath could stay at Kentucky, where he has made many friends, but at the same time broaden his vistas by taking a course in constitutional law at Harvard, a course in physics at Caltech, a course in frostbite at Minnesota and a course in poi at Hawaii!

I admit there are still a few bugs in BACTERIA. How, for instance, could Hunrath attend a 9 o'clock class at Harvard, a 10 o'clock class at Hawaii, an 11 o'clock class at Minnesota, and still keep his lunch date at Kentucky? It would be idle to deny that this is a tricky problem, but I have no doubt American ingenuity will carry the day. Always remember how they laughed at Edison and Fulton—and particularly at Walter Clavie who invented the collarbone.

Three cheers for American ingenuity, which gave us the ACP, the collarbone and MGM... that's the Mighty Good Makin's you get in Marlboro, the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. Settle back and enjoy one. You get a lot to like.

US, Russia Swap Broadcasting Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia were reported Monday to be arranging for simultaneous television broadcasts in both countries of statements by President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev. The tentative date is March 24 or 25.

Informants said the two leaders would make statements—in English and Russian, respectively—that will last 15 minutes each. They will be followed by translations.

The statements will be taped, or filmed, in advance.

Glenn Visits Washington, Talks Before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—John H. Glenn Jr. rode the capital's glory road in strictly no-go weather Monday and told a cheering Congress that space promised unimaginable benefits for mankind.

Addressing an extraordinary joint meeting of Congress after riding through rain-sodden but frenzied crowds totaling 250,000, America's first man in orbit said: "We are just probing the surface of the greatest advancement of man's knowledge of his surroundings that have ever been made."

"It is hard to even envision the benefits, that will accrue in many fields."

Many women wept openly and men strove to hold back tears as he wound up his simple, modest speech.

It was an emotion-packed day that ran the gamut from tears to lusty laughter.

The biggest laugh came when the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel told the gathering of legislators, ambassadors, Supreme Court judges and generals assembled in the House chamber how 4-year-old Caroline Kennedy cut him and his brother astronauts "down to size."

Seeing him off at West Palm Beach Airport, Caroline looked him up and down and asked, "Where's the monkey?"

It appeared that Caroline really had hoped to see Enos, the orbiting chimp.

"That really put us in our proper position," Glenn said.

Critics Call Textbook 'Inaccurate'

DALLAS (AP)—An American history book used in Dallas Public Schools came in for severe criticism Monday for giving credit to the United Nations for defeating Germany, Japan and Italy during World War II.

The book is "The Story of America Freedom," by Edna McGuire, a resident of Greencastle, Ind. It is published by the Macmillan Co. of New York.

A group of parents raised questions about the book, saying the author was using the term "United Nations" before such an organization even existed. The critics also said that the author gave credit numerous times in her discussion of World War II to the United Nations for defeating the Axis.

Tech Swimmers Split In Colorado Matches

Fresh from a Colorado road trip which saw them break even in four meets, the Texas Tech swimming team returned home over the weekend with a six-win, six-loss record.

After compiling 5 1/2 to 43 1/2 and 52 to 43 victories over the University of Colorado and the Colorado School of Mines respectively on Thursday and Friday, the Raiders were trounced soundly by touted Oklahoma 79-16 and beaten 62-27 by Air Force Academy Saturday.

Paced by team captain Jack Shipley with 7 1/4 points, Tech took 3-firsts, 6-second, 5-thirds and 3-fourths in its meet with Colorado. The outcome of the clash was uncertain right up until Tech's 400-yard freestyle relay of Bob Smith, Dan Mabee, Bill Spahn and Dick Haase copped its first place finish in the last event.

Also finishing first for the Scarlet and Black was the 400-yard medley relay of George Steele, Charles Bleil, Shipley and Haase; Shipley in the 200-yard individual medley and Steele in the 200-yard backstroke.

Although Colorado School of Mines was never out of the running, Tech led in that meet from start to finish. Sophomore Karl Keith took a first place in the 200-yard individual medley and a second in the 200-yard backstroke to tally 8 points and merit high point honors for the double-T. Mabee finished first in the 220-yard freestyle in 2:21.1 to bring smiles of satisfaction to the face of Jim McNally, Tech coach. It was Mabee's first time to compete in that event.

In Saturday's meet with Oklahoma, the Sooners won every first and second place honor with the exception of one, the 400-yard freestyle relay. However, the OU tankers are ranked No. 1 in the Big Eight Conference and get high recognition nationally.

Sophomore Bill Spahn took Tech's high point laurels against Air Force. He finished second in the 220-yard freestyle with a time of 2:18.6 and third in the 100-yard freestyle in 53.1. Both times were the best recorded by a Red Raider in those events so far this year. Shipley and junior Glen Shoup also came through with firsts in the 200-yard butterfly and 440-yard freestyle respectively.

Tech's next meet will be with East New Mexico at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Texas Tech natatorium. If the Raiders come through with a victory it will mark the first time that a Tech swimming team has ever gone to the Southwest Conference meet with better than a .500 record.

Mural Play Starts

Entries are now being taken for competition in five different intramural sports, Edsel Buchanan, director of men's intramurals, said Monday.

Sign-ups have begun in softball, table tennis, volleyball, badminton and golf. Play will start early in March.

Regarding play in softball, Buchanan also said that special meetings will be held Monday and Tuesday of next week to organize the various leagues. Fraternity managers will meet at 5 p.m. Monday and dormitory and independent managers will meet at the same time Tuesday. Both meetings will be in the Intramural Conference Room.

Softball play will begin the week of March 11.

Maris Inks Contract For $35,000 Raise

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. Babe Ruth hit when he set his (AP)—Home run champion Roger Maris agreed to a one-year $72,000 contract Monday, nearly a 100 per cent increase over last year's salary and said he'll settle for a repeat of his 1961 performance—61 home runs and a .269 batting average.

"They called me the louisest hitter ever to win the home run title," said the blond New York Yankee slugger. "Well, I wish I could be the louisest hitter in baseball this year and still hit 61 home runs. As long as I can be good in all the other departments, I'll sacrifice one, my batting average."

The man who hit more home runs in one season than any other major leaguer—one more than

Babe Ruth hit when he set his record of 60 for a 154-game season in 1927—refused to predict how many home runs he would hit in 1962.

Maris reportedly earned $37,500 last year. So, his contract represents a 96 per cent raise. Roger originally asked for $80,000, some $20,000 more than the Yankees' first offer.

"Maris got an exceptionally good raise," said Roy Hamey, the Yankee's general manager, "partially for breaking the home run record and for having a good year."

Hamey declined to reveal the exact figure and the $72,000 salary was learned from another source, a highly authoritative one.

The new contract makes Maris the fourth highest paid Yankee in history.

Ohio State Still Leads As Season Nears End

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Unbeaten Ohio State is No. 1 for the 11th straight week in the Associated Press college basketball poll, which underwent only two minor changes.

Kansas State climbed over the back of Kentucky into third place—just back of the pace-setting Buckeyes and Cincinnati. Utah replaced Oregon State on the No. 10 rung.

Otherwise, the Top Ten rankings are unruffled as a result of last week's games.

Here's the order on the basis of the latest votes of a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters: Ohio State, Cincinnati, Kansas State, Kentucky, Mississippi State, Bradley, Bowling Green, Duke, Colorado and Utah. Ohio State, winner of 21 straight games so far this season, again was a unanimous selection for the top spot, receiving all 47 first-place votes. The Buckeyes solidified their position with a 102-79 victory over Illinois. They have three more games before swinging into the National Collegiate NCAA Tournament.

Cincinnati, the defending NCAA champion with a 23-2 record, was a solid choice for the runner-up position, grabbing 36 of the No. 2 ballots. The Bearcats whipped Bradley 72-57 and Wichita 84-63 last week and have only a Thursday date with Xavier of Ohio left on their regular schedule.

Kansas State gained favor by walloping Oklahoma 89-57.

Kentucky was hard-pressed to beat Vanderbilt 87-80 and Alabama 73-65.

Mississippi State held on to its fifth place by beating two conference rivals, Georgia and Louisiana State, while Bradley followed up its loss to Cincinnati with a triumph over Notre Dame 93-87. Bowling Green won games from DePaul and Western Michigan; Duke beat Virginia and North Carolina; Colorado scored over Iowa State, all holding their positions.

Utah, which has lost only three games while winning 21, had victories over Utah State 78-76 and Brigham Young 106-101. Oregon State split a pair with Idaho.

The rankings, with first-place votes and season records:

1. Ohio State	47	21-0	470
2. Cincinnati	23-2	401
3. Kansas State	19-2	345
4. Kentucky	19-2	340
5. Mississippi State	22-1	273
6. Bradley	19-4	183

7. Bowling Green	20-2	165
8. Duke	19-4	121
9. Colorado	15-5	69
10. Utah	21-3	30

Others receiving votes: Oregon State, Wisconsin, St. John's, West Virginia, Loyola Ill., Houston, Arizona State, UCLA, Wake Forest, Virginia Tech, Drake, Purdue, Auburn, New York U., Dayton, Duquesne, Wichita, Creighton.

'Mr. Fixit' Handyman Adds Variety To Coeds' Dorm Life

By PEGGY BROWNLOW
Toreador Staff Writer

There is a man on the Tech campus whose true identity is rarely known but who is widely appreciated and loved.

His deeds are sterling and his manners beyond reproach. Yet sometimes this man strikes fear into the hearts of Tech coeds.

A coed's fear is based on her appearance. Surprised by his approach, a half-dressed girl may drop whatever she is holding and scurry quickly out of sight. Even at the sound of his nearing footsteps she may panic and race for safety, slamming a door in his face.

One girl new to Tech was so upset when confronted by him in the hall that she had hysterical giggles for hours. Upon meeting this man on the stairs, another girl backed downward in dismay until she tripped and rolled to the bottom.

However, coeds are continually searching for him to do numerous little favors for them. Always he does these favors with a gracious and gentle air.

What unique characteristic does this demure, courteous person have that affects the female population so strangely? Why are phones dropped, why do doors slam, why are appearances so much more greatly cared for when he is near? Who is this man?

The answer? He is the man who unstops the sinks, cleans the incinerator, or replaces the light bulbs. He is the one and only "Mr. Fixit."
