"Acting Is Hard Life" Says Sir Phillip

Famous Shakespearean Actor Could Not Think Of Retiring From Stage After Fifty Years Of Theatre Life

BY EVA ROB WATKINS
Toreador Staff Writer

It was backstage last Thursday night, amid heaps of shining Roman helmets, swords, and gay colored ruffs, capes, and gaiters that Sir Phillip Ben Greet told his interviewer that the auditorium was boiling. American audiences were the best in the world, moderate stage sets for Shakespearean plays were "Smarty," and that he used to play Falstaff.

The beloved old producer of Shakespearean plays who is also famous for the number of great actors he has trained, had finished another night as Casca in "Julius Caesar," discarded the Roman garb for a black suit, removed all the make-up and was again Sir Phillip, and a very tired Sir Phillip, too.

"It is a hard life, a very hard life; but of course I never think of retiring. Have been in the business for 50 years and I would not be happy unless I could listen for my cue, work with my actors, and wear this greasy make-up every night." But he also said if he had his life to live over again he would not work on the stage.

All this time Peter Dearing, assistant director of the company, and who is Sir Phillip's adopted son, has been putting away his father's make-up and costume. He stopped long enough to say that he loved America. Here Sir Phillip exploded. "America? Humph! Humph! He means American girls." At this Peter giggled and became very busy with packing and old Sir Phillip shook his head, and then continued:

"That betest he is wearing now they do you know some girl gave it to him—and I suppose he swore to her he would wear it every time he was in the play. Hearing this, Peter dropped the royal purple suit he was packing. "But I protest! I tell you she did not. I bought this one in a department store in Baltimore."

This settled it and Sir Phillip Ben Greet again took up the discussion of the stage. He said he would be afraid to go to New York for at least six months, until all the squabbling over modernizing Shakespeare has blown over. "Oh, just imagine producing 'Hester' stage set," he said spontaneously. "It has caused a furor in the theater world, but I don't enjoy the adverse criticism of the critics, even though I agree with them, because it hurts the theater."

"We like American audiences but we are always afraid they do not understand our accent." He said he firmly believed that seventy-five per cent of the people did understand all they said. Of all accents, Sir Phillip likes the southern best. The northern least, and he thinks the people of California speak very much like the people of England. "You can't imagine," he said, "what a miserable time we have trying to understand a negro dialect play."

Sir Phillip who was born on a ship and whose father was a sea captain, said he knew of nothing that would be nicer than to have a show boat and cruise up and down rivers playing Shakespeare.

Aptitude Test Planned Here

Test To Be Given Students Expecting To Enter Medical School; Scheduled Here At 1 o'Clock Tomorrow

On December 11th, throughout the United States the medical aptitude test of the Association of American Medical colleges will be given in more than six hundred colleges to all premedical students who expect to apply for admission to a medical school next fall. Since the test is a normal requirement for admission to practically all the medical schools and since it will be given only once a year, all students who expect to apply for entrance by next fall are urged to take the test.

The tests will be given at Texas Technological college at 2 p. m. on Friday, December 11, in room 101 of the main building under the supervision of Dr. R. C. Goodwin. The test will require slightly less than two hours. Each student is requested to come fully prepared to take the test and to bring with him $1 to defray the necessary expenses of the association in the preparation of the station and interpreting of the tests.

Miss Jonnie McCreery is going to Dallas during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Harriet Tilden will visit in Ames, Iowa, her home town, during Christmas.

Brandt Speaks To Tech Group

Silk Hose Are Very Cheap When The Making Of Them Is Considered, Say Professor Carl D. Brandt

"People think that silk hose are expensive," said Prof. Carl D. Brandt of the textile engineering department, in an address on "Hosiery" last week, "but if they knew what it took to make hose, the prices would not seem so high."

In talking to Miss Mable Ervin's class in economics of textiles, Mr. Brandt stated that factory labor is very cheap. One Chinese girl can reel one pound of raw silk, which will make from 24 to 28 dozen hose and one silk dress. The expense, however, comes with the delicate manufacturing process that is necessary if good stockings are to be had.

"The hose that sell for $1 are usually 'seconds' or imperfect ones. The best are more expensive. There is a new type being made now that is more durable than the rest. It is adjustable and has three top-divisions which help to stop 'runs'."

Discussing the laundering of hose, Mr. Brandt said, "Stockings should be turned wrong-side-out for washing, but the inside will receive the rubbing."

AGGIE CLUB NOTICE
The regular meeting time of the Aggie club has been changed from Wednesdays to Thursdays at 7:30.

Judging Team Returns Home From Contests

Place In All Events; Watch Chicago Board Of Trade In Action; Do Practice Work In Wisconsin

The Aggie Livestock Judging team has returned after a successful and interesting trip through the northern states. High scores were made in each of the contests entered. At Wichita, Kansas, the team placed eighth; at Kansas City, ninth; and at Chicago sixteenth. The team faced national competition at Wichita and Kansas City, but at Chicago, Canada was represented, making the meet one of international importance.

The team, composed of J. F. Downey, P. D. B. Snyder, Moran, Euel Linder, Lubbock, Fred Nix Lubbock, W. T. McKinney, Gordonville; J. O. Gordon, Albany and R. C. Mowery, sponsor, left Lubbock November 10 in automobiles and drove to Perryton, Texas where they spent the night with Percy Powers, a 1930 graduate of Tech. The next day they drove to Wichita, Kansas. Eighth place was taken in the contests there.

Practical Judging Held
After leaving Wichita, practical judging was held at the Kansas State Agricultural college at Manhattan, Friday, the team drove all day to Kansas City where the members stopped at the Dixon hotel. The American Royal contest was held Saturday, where the team placed ninth.

Iowa State college at Ames, was visited next. There the members stayed in the Memorial union, a student-owned social gathering house, where they visited the different agricultural departments and did practice judging. From there they went to Madison, Wisconsin, where they did more practice judging of livestock, and were guests of two of the James dairies. A turkey dinner was given to them on Thanksgiving by the Edellyn farm at Wilson, Illinois.

Thursday night they arrived in Chicago and stopped at the Hotel La Salle and spent Friday sight-seeing. The main points of interest were: Lincoln Park, the Aquarium, the Marshall Field Museum, and the Chicago Board of Trade. Saturday, the day of the International show, was spent in judging livestock, where they placed sixteenth among the entrants of North America. They attended the banquet given for the 150 contestants at the Stockyards Inn hotel. Leaving Chicago at 5:30 that afternoon, they drove to Lincoln, Illinois, from there to Tulsa, Oklahoma and then arrived in Lubbock on December 2.

For a number of years Pender has been active in Masonic work and has been head of each of the four Masonic bodies in Denton: the Blue Lodge, the Royal Arch Chapter, the Royal Select Masons, and the Commandery.

The above mentioned J. W. Pender is the father of H. C. Pender of the Tech government department.

Eunice and Lula Cone, both students in Tech last year, are now in the University of Texas.

James Fotts, Edgar Kuebel and Milton Campbell will be on the affirmative, while E. G. Cauble, Fred de Lashaw, and Elias Williamson will support the negative. The subject considered is one of interest to the nation at large, being discussed at length in all agricultural centers of the United States, and is to come before Congress this week.

This Friday in the Aggie community, ten miles east of Lubbock, the debate will be repeated for the benefit of the local farmers and others interested in the subject. After the debate tonight, the Senior Livestock Judging team will give short reviews of the three contests which Tech entered this year—the judgings at Wichita, Kansas City, and Chicago.

Before closing, Mr. W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department, will represent the 1930 Livestock Judging team to present to the high point man of 1931, Euel Linder of Lubbock, a loving cup commemorating the Chicago Livestock contest.

Beauties for the 1932 La Ventana will be selected by a popular vote of the Tech students. Red Huff, editor, announced last Tuesday.

It has been the custom in the past for the annual staff to have some noted artist to select the beauties, but this year the staff will let the students do the choosing. The election will be held sometime in February and will be sponsored by the Senior class.

Las Bonitas, La Ventana beauties of this year and each student who votes will be required to vote for eight candidates. Any ballot not having eight choices listed will be thrown out, according to Huff.

Speech Dept. Gives Annual Christmas Program Friday

Expression students of the Speech department at the college are giving a Christmas program, Friday evening at 8 o'clock in room 202 of administration building. The Speech department for the past several years has given an annual Christmas program. The eagerness of the date this year is necessitated by dead week which precedes the examination period.

The program Friday evening is of a dignified nature and beautifully embodies the lessons of the true Christmas spirit. A one-act play is to be given and readings which are arrangements made from legends of the Orient. The stories are taken from translations of writings by the Swedish author Selma Lagerlof.

Those taking part are Beulah Anderson, Francis Barks, Allen Brown, Edna Wilkinson, Lenora Brownfield and Mary Spring. All are members of the Thespian Dramatic club. The director is Mrs. Ray C. Mowery.

Military Science Schedule To Be Arranged For Cadets

The military department makes the following announcement to those students who are taking Military now and to those who would like to do so:

On December 11, there will be a meeting of those who are interested in arranging schedules, as well as a full explanation of the work carried on and offered by the Military department of Texas Tech.

This meeting will be held at 7 o'clock in the Armory, located on College Avenue and Ninth street. Everyone attending the meeting is asked to bring along a pencil and paper and their winter term schedule for the purpose of working out periods to take Military.

Riflemen Name New Officers

At the meeting of the Rifle club on December 3, Charles Adams of Lubbock was elected president; Bob Rogers, and George Redinger of Hale Center, were elected vice-presidents; W. R. Hudson of Dallas, was made sergeant-at-arms, Lowell A. Dalton of Lubbock was elected secretary-treasurer, L. W. Chapman of Lubbock was elected head coach, and Dr. W. L. Ray, Dr. E. F. George, and Col. C. A. Davis were chosen as sponsors.

Challenges Received
Several challenges for postal matches have been received and there are more expected. Due to graduation of team members last year, there are several vacancies on the team and new men are needed. Anyone who is interested in this work is requested to be present at the next meeting on December 12 at 7 o'clock in the national guard armory.

The range in the basement of the administration building has been improved and is in good shape. Tentative plans have been made for a range in the armory also by the National Guard and plans are being made for the rifle club to use it.

Clements Is Found "Not Guilty" In Sensational Tech Pre-Law Trial; Pretty Blonde Takes Stand

Both Sides Aided By Capable Lawyers; Coker Is Judge

By Toreador Court Reporter (Special to The Toreador)
TECH PRE-LAW COURT ROOM, Dec. 3, 1931.—The broken heart of the pretty little blonde, Doris Ladd Johnson remained unhealed tonight as a jury rendered a decision against her and set Solon Clements, whom she had sued for breach of promise, free. The pretty blonde from Eastland was in tears throughout the trial, while the face of the defendant remained hard and unchanged.

Clements was represented by the law firm of Settle, Dryden, and DeBusk while the plaintiff went to bat with the firm of Hughtell and Smith waging her battle.

The defense, featured by a brilliant young woman attorney from Rising Star, Miss Elizabeth Dryden, sent tears to the eyes of the jury as testimony was advanced by "Gray Eagle" Pender; Helen Grace Grover, aged aunt of Clements; Reverend J. O. Haymes, a local minister; and several others, to show that the defendant was an innocent, shy, and modest lad. Further proof of his innocence was established when the Jerfries twins, the Duncan sisters of Dallas, Plains, tried to entice Clements with their love songs. During the entire experience Clements maintained an even temperature and displayed but a slight variation of heart-beat.

Johnson on Stand
For nearly half an hour Miss Johnson was on the stand and between she told a jury and a crowded courtroom how Mr. Clements had called her his "blue-eyed baby" and how he had promised to marry her, only to run away on the night of their proposed elopement. Testimony of one of Clements' witnesses was thrown out after plaintiff attorneys had proven he was insane.

Further testimony by the plaintiff included statements from Miss Helen Settle that the defendant had jilted her, Marie Wolfarth, roommate of the plaintiff, stated that Miss Johnson had been subject to considerable embarrassment as the result of Clements' actions.

"He even kissed me," shouted J. W. Jackson as he took the stand for the plaintiff.

"Clements had a habit of placing mistletoe above the door of his office," said Jackson, and when girls would enter he would grab them and—you know the rest, at least I do, because one time he kissed me."

Time after time Judge Glenn E. Coker was forced to pound his gavel to restore order. Each witness brought forward "suggestive" testimony, either in behalf of the defendant or against him. On several occasions the judge thought it advisable to ask women and children to withdraw from the courtroom but threats of the crowd squelched his efforts.

The jury was out only a few minutes and as they filed in, the crowded courtroom was silent, the hundreds of persons anxiously awaiting the verdict. As the verdict was read many shouts went up, but many admirers of the little blonde were in tears.

Movie Contracts Offered
Seventeen camera men were present at the trial, taking pictures for news reels. Miss Johnson could not be reached for a statement. The Toreador, his attorneys indicated tonight that 14 movie contracts had been offered the beautiful Miss Clements made the following statement exclusively for The Toreador: "You may quote me as saying that I feel good about the trial and I count the experience as very valuable. From now on I shall be very careful whom I shall court and already I have indicated to all co-eds that our relations will have to cease, I can not trust women any longer."

Today Clements walks about the campus a free man. The best that Hughtell and Smith pictured in him is still at large. Miss Johnson has gone her way, a little chastened by her attorney's failure to convict Clements, but still ready to carry on the fight.

Campus rumor early today hinted that a settlement had been reached between the two former sweethearts. It is said that Clements agreed to get his brother, Canon (Shotgun), to play for her on his piccolo.

And so ended the biggest case ever staged by the Tech Pre-Lawyers.

Is Mock Trial
The foregoing trial is a regular term feature of the Tech Pre-Law club. Mock trials are held several times each year and usually attract large crowds from the student body. The attraction was held in room 302 of the administration building before a capacity crowd. Several were forced to stand, being unable to obtain seats in the large rooms. The trial was merely a mock one being presented for entertainment and for training and for training for members of the Pre-Law organization.

AN UNSATISFACTORY SCHEDULE

The Tech schedule for fall term examinations is far from satisfactory, judging from comments on the campus. The Toreador joins in frowning on the schedule recently released. It doesn't seem to fit in with the desires of the 1900 college students.

First, the schedule calls for two and one half hour exams instead of the two hour quizzes as has been the custom in the past. The exams periods should have been shortened instead of lengthened. The present tendency in colleges now is to shorten the exams or eliminate them altogether. It's a poor professor who can't find out how much a student knows without having to quizz him almost three hours at the end of the term.

Second, the schedule begins in the middle of one week and ends in the middle of the next one. Many students will have to go to the expense of remaining in town over the week-end for an exam perhaps on Monday or Tuesday. Then too, there are better times to give exams than on Saturday afternoons.

Third, the exams end too near the Christmas holidays. On the day before Christmas eve is a little late to be starting home for the holidays.

The Toreador doesn't know who planned the schedule. Furthermore that doesn't matter. But it does suggest that a little more thought be given the next ones and that we go back to the old custom of having not more than

The Lucky Seven Of The Week

She wears a gray fur coat and lives on Main street. She is seen quite frequently with her little sister. Does she have the clothes?

Well girls, we are sorry to tell you this but, "he" told me the other day that he had the sweetest girl in the world. She weighs 99 pounds (he doesn't like heavyweights) and she is a brunette (blondes aren't in his class) and goes to Baylor university.

A person whose name has never appeared in the paper, he notified us that if it didn't appear this week he was going to C. I. A. where he was certain they would give him some recognition.

Glance at the answer for number four of the Lucky Sevens and you will find the answer to the question, "What is the attraction in the library for the boys?" A perfect salesman. Why Salesman Sam doesn't even have a chance against such competition. She works at the La Mode so if you want to find out her ability just go there and see if you do not walk out with a package (boys included).

Because of his insufficient funds he is unable to run an advertisement so we took pity on him and are running this ad for him in this two-hour periods and of starting them on Monday. Such a schedule would prove more satisfactory.

THOSE WHO DIDN'T LETTER

With the announcement of the Tech lettermen for the 1931 football season, the press and football lovers rise to applaud those who are to receive the merits. And certainly they deserve the plaudits of the fans and the press.

There is another group of men on the Tech campus, however, who deserve an equal amount of recognition: Those who went out for football but didn't play enough to letter. It takes a real man to work out for football day after day even if he knows he will earn a letter. It takes just as good a man (if not a better one) to work out every day, take all kinds of hard knocks to develop the team and on the days of the big games sit on the bench and watch the other bring down the cheers of the stands.

It is a real man who works out for football every day when he knows that his chances to play are very slim and the chances to letter are even slimmer. It is this group of men who surely deserve much recognition.

WHAT A CHANCE!

Cheating was compulsory on a quiz given recently in a psychology class at the University of Texas.

"Look at your neighbor's paper, compare your answers, change your seat if you wish; cheat in any way you can provided you do not talk," were the instructions given at the beginning of the class period. Elated students needed no urging, and with complacent expressions, they carefully copied each others answers and willingly exchanged papers for purposes of comparison. Material covered by this quiz had also been covered by a previous test on which no cheating was possible. A method of testing, involving individual codes which were used in answering the questions had been prepared.

The purpose of the second quiz was solely experimental and no credit was given. Results of the experiment have not been announced.

Tech Matadors Discard Football Togs For Basketball

Under The Double "T"

BY LYLE HOLMES
Toreador Sports Editor

To ease the minds of a few of our readers who are evidently much carried over a statement made in this column last week concerning Lubbock high school—it was not the intention in anyway to take from the apparent ability of the high school team. In fact it is our most sincere hope that the Westerners continue their march for a state title. We urge every one who possibly can to attend the Abilene game on Tech field Saturday, and to lend their support to the Westerners.

The reference using the High school was made to show our own Tech students how to be loyal. The whole thing was a slam at our own students, students who would not follow their own team. They had followed a high school team instead. Some kind of drastic statements have to be made before some students will take note of what they should do, and what they should not do, thus the statements concerning the high school.

Coach Morgan is evidently looking forward to one of the most successful basketball seasons Tech has ever known. And why shouldn't he? Every man who lettered on the varsity last year is back, and to top this off most of the men have had from two to three years experience on the varsity. Three former Tech cage captains will be in uniform; Hodges, Fisher and Tadlock are the men mentioned. It is not the luck of every team to have three captains play in the same year on their team. All the men mentioned were captains at different times.

The trip which would have carried the basketball team into the far North was squelched, but Coach Morgan not to be out done is endeavoring to get Tech one of the most attractive schedules ever played by a team in West Texas. The schedule if arranged will include teams from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas, Colorado and Kansas.

If Tech isn't able to get an attractive schedule, it will be one of the biggest mistakes this school ever made. With material that has for the past two years been practically unbeatable, back, and with more material coming up from last year's fish team, Tech should have a team that would easily be classed as one of the very best teams in the country. If the proposed trip north had materialized, Tech would have held their own with nine-tenths of the colleges encountered. This isn't being so optimistic, either, considering that Tech has about the best if not the best material in the entire state.

It will be just a few weeks until the college will be the scene of all kinds of intramural sports. The football teams representing four different units of the college will be fighting for the championship. Men will be doing their best on their respective teams to gain a place on the mythical all-intramural team, and thus earn a letter and a gold football. Les Tribble will again be back leading prospective wrestlers about almost as he likes, in an effort to show the finer points involved in the head pulling game. Les, by the way, won over thirty matches during the summer and lost only one. Some of the best wrestling matches are held on all-college nights, together with boxing, tumbling and other forms of minor athletics. Intramural sports of all kinds will begin immediately after Christmas.

The liberal arts students are already boasting that they are going to win the intramural championship. Some of the players they have are: Mina Watkins, former Lubbock high school star and intramural star last year; Oswald, fullback on the championship intramural team last year; Beasam, a reserve on the varsity this year; Cy LaMaster, reserve varsity man; Sonny Lauderdale, last year's letterman on the liberal arts team; and Clarence Robo, former intramural star. With this wealth of material it is no small wonder the arts students are confident.

Tech has gained no end of publicity by signing a contract with S. M. U. for three years. In the midst of the S. M. U. and St. Mary's game the announcer paused to announce to the whole United States that S. M. U. had signed a three year contract with Texas Tech.

Recently a tentative schedule for the Simmons Cowboy team was published in the "Brand," Simmons publication. It contained several of the Southwest conference teams scheduled by Tech and also a few of the intersectional teams. Guess Simmons is trying their best to keep pace with a faster growing school. It was interesting to note that not one of the teams on their tentative schedule contained a definite date, which just goes to show that Simmons is hopeful, that's all.

Coach Morgan Plans Heavy Cage Schedule For Tech Matadors

Every Member Of Last Year's Basketball Lettermen Is Back For Season; Captains Here

Del Morgan Starts Workouts With Wealth Of Material On Hand; Twenty Report For Practice

BY LYLE HOLMES
Toreador Sports Editor

Immediately following their win over Simmons via the football route, the Matadors came home and discarded their grid tugs for the lighter ones used in basketball.

Del Morgan, head basketball coach, announces that about twenty candidates have reported regularly for the night practice sessions. Most of the cagers reporting have had previous experience with the varsity or freshman teams of last year. Although none too optimistic over the prospects for a winning team, Coach Morgan is elated over the fact that not one of last season's varsity crew was lost by graduation. The complete lineup which won more than twice as many games as it lost for Tech last year is back, with Tad Tadlock, Captain, leading the group. Tadlock has had three year's experience on the varsity. Before coming to Tech he was a mainstay at center on the Amarillo Sandies high school team. Tad will receive the call for the guard position when time for the first game arrives.

Harvey Dunn, letterman at guard last year, and former all-state guard from Ralls is back in uniform, and can be counted on to help hold down the guard position with Tadlock. Bud Fisher, Memphis, former Matador captain and center on the Matador cage team for the last three years, has been working out regularly.

And Darr Back
Aud Darr, of Melrose, New Mexico, forward with the Matadors last year will be back. And got off to a late start last year because of a sprained ankle, but got in enough minutes to earn his letter. Moody, former Lubbock high school star, and letterman at forward on the Tech varsity last year is back to help Hodges with the scoring position. Clarence Hodges, captain of the Matador cage team last year, was at first thought to be ineligible, but has been reinstated. Hodges has had three year's experience on the varsity and is readily welcomed back to the team.

Crews, forward from Wilson, and letterman on the varsity last year is back to help Coach Del Morgan with a few basketball games as he did last year. While with Wilson, Crews received honorable mention over West Texas for his prowess on the courts. Kelsey, Wise, and Robinson have all had experience with the varsity and are likely to earn their numerals this season. All three are forwards and should add to the scoring punch of the team.

Basel Hill, halfback for the grid team this year, and whose play was worthy of honorable mention, will be a candidate for a basketball berth. Basel has been an outstanding athlete in Tech for the past four years. Jennings is a transfer who is likely to give other cagers plenty of trouble.

Several players are coming up from the freshman and intramural teams last year. Some of the most likely ones are: Bulldog Hale, Stoops Bryant, Cotton Hubbard, Truman Green, Messer Smith and Jesse Holmes. Jesse Holmes was elected captain of the Lubbock high school team last year, but was found to have enough credits for college entrance. He lettered on the Tech frosh squad last year, and much is expected from him this season.

Coach Morgan wishes for all men who are interested in competing for the team to report for practice as soon as possible.

With the announcement this week that Clarence Hodges, above, will be eligible for the varsity basketball squad, added strength was given the Matadors. Hodges was the leading scorer for the Tech quintet and was captain of the squad.

Hodges, up until this year, was a regular member of the football squad, lettering four seasons.

Funeral Held For Graduate

Melvyn Hunter, Graduate Of 1930, Dies In Local Sanitarium After Two Week's Illness; Was An Athlete

Funeral services for Melvyn Hunter, 24, Texas Technological college engineering graduate, of Plainview, was held at the First Methodist church there last week. Burial was in a Plainview cemetery.

Hunter died in a local hospital Wednesday night after an illness of two weeks. He was brought here from Plainview on Monday after his condition had been pronounced critical by physicians there.

He is survived by his young widow, the former D'Aun Simmons, 1601 Nineteenth street, and two half brothers, one of Ohio, and the other of Kansas. The widow also is a Tech graduate.

Hunter was graduated in electrical engineering, receiving a bachelor of science degree in August, 1930. He was one of the most prominent students on the campus and was a star basketball player for three years. He was also active in many other school affairs, taking a leading part in engineering school activities. Here last February he and Paltheaters were Willie Edelman, Summerfield; J. M. Teague, Jr., Floydada; Willis Edelman, Summerfield; Cecil Witt, Plainview; Frank Brown, Hart, and Kenneth Hemphill, Littlefield.

Students Tickets Will Be Sold To Activity Holders

No student tickets will be sold to Tech students at the Lubbock-Abilene game Saturday, according to Mr. R. W. Matthews, principal. Those who have student activity tickets, however, may secure tickets at regular student rates by presenting these tickets at the principal's office at the high school building not later than 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Only those holding student activity tickets will be allowed student prices.

BATTLES DEATH

Ormand Charles Corry, instructor of economics, insurance, finance, politics, side-line football, and journalism, is several miles down the road to recovery from an operation on his nose. Corry denies the operation was performed as an act of landscape gardening.

Is Eligible

CLARENCE HODGES

With the announcement this week that Clarence Hodges, above, will be eligible for the varsity basketball squad, added strength was given the Matadors. Hodges was the leading scorer for the Tech quintet and was captain of the squad.

Hodges, up until this year, was a regular member of the football squad, lettering four seasons.

Tech Coaches Plan Contests In Intramural

Intramural Football Contests Scheduled To Begin Immediately After Registration For The Winter Term

Following the Christmas holidays, intramural sports will start off at Tech with a bang, according to Head Coach Pete Cawthon.

Plans for the intramural football teams are already getting under way. Jerseys for the football teams representing the liberal arts school, the aggie school, the engineers, and the army are available. The uniforms will be issued to men who are out for intramural football following registration, in January.

The practice of having teams representing the various schools on the campus is an old one. It first started in 1928, with Tech athletics went stale, and has been instrumental in furnishing likely material for the varsity team each year. Several men who were selected on the all-intramural team last winter made their letters with the varsity this fall.

To Select Coaches
Coaches for the intramural teams will be selected from the varsity lettermen. Last year, Floyd Woodridge's liberal arts team won the intramural championship by going through their schedule undefeated.

At the close of the season, men who are selected for the all-intramural team are awarded letters and gold footballs.

Besides intramural football, there will be other minor sports in which students who are interested may engage. Wrestling, boxing and tumbling are practiced by many and some of the best matches are scheduled for All-College nights.

In wrestling and boxing, contests are held to determine the winners of the different schools, then the winners of the different schools have contests to determine the champions of the college.

Students who are interested in participating in any of the intramural sports should see any of the Tech coaches.

Double "T" Stickers Now On Sale At Local Stores

Double "T" stickers are now on sale at the Bookstore, the Tech Drug and Martin's, according to members of the Double "T" association which is sponsoring the sale.

The Double "T" organization recently took over complete charge of the sale of these stickers and all money from the sale will go directly to the fund.

Sarah Michie, 1931 Tech graduate and former library assistant, is working on a Masters degree in English at the University of Ohio.

Matadors Will Journey Over State For Several Contests; Churchill Brings Team Here

Tech Will Meet Horned Frog; During Tour In Single Game; Only Two Games Definitely Decided, However

Although failing to schedule games for the proposed trip into the North, Coach Del Morgan is planning a heavy schedule for the Matador cage team. Only two games have been definitely scheduled so far.

The Matadors will begin athletics anew when they journey to Ft. Worth January 23 for a single cage game with the men of Schmidt. The game will mark the first time since the fall of '30 that the Matadors have had any athletic relations with the Frogs. Then the Matadors fell before them on the gridiron, 26 to 0.

February the 1st and 2nd the Matadors will be host to Coach Churchill, and his New Mexico university team. Last year the Techmen visited Albuquerque and returned home with an even break, losing the opening game but coming back strong the following night to take the final encounter. The Lobos will come to Lubbock prepared to avenge the defeat handed them this season by the Matadors, in the first football game between the two schools. Coaches Churchill, of the New Mexico university team, was formerly a member of the U. S. Olympic team, and for several years was forward on the All-American basketball teams of the leading newspapers of the country, while playing with Oklahoma university.

The tentative schedule announced by Coach Morgan includes the following teams: Simmons, Abilene Christian college, Canyon, Teachers, New Mexico Normal at Las Vegas, Texas Mines at El Paso, New Mexico A. & M. in Lubbock, Colorado Teachers at Gunnison, Daniel Baker at Brownwood, Oklahoma Central State Teachers college at Lubbock, Southwestern university at Lubbock.

Although no definite dates nor places for the games have been decided upon, it is likely that Canyon, Simmons, and Abilene Christian college will play games here, and then the Matadors will give them return games on their home court.

Made FRESH

never parched, never toasted

CAMELS are KEPT Fresh!

You probably know that heat is used in the treatment of all cigarette tobaccos. But you know too that excessive heat can destroy freshness and fragrance. That's why there could be no truly fresh cigarette except for scientifically developed methods of applying heat. Reynolds is proud of having discovered and perfected methods for getting the benefits of heat treatments and still avoiding ever parching or toasting. With every assurance we tell you, Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack. If you wish to know why the swing to Camels is nationwide and steadily growing—switch to them for just one day—then leave them, if you can.

TIME AND TIDE

BY WILL BRISBARTON

REDCOAT

During the class hour the other day I was loitering on the second floor of the old building. A cute little girl, apparently a freshman, was making a rather democratic canvass of us loiterers for someone to help her with her English. She confronted a young slawhart descending the stairs and exclaimed:

"Are YOU an English major?" The disconcerted young man, though quite obviously embarrassed, was too modest to impose upon the credulity of a fellow classmate.

"No," he said, "this is just an R. O. T. C. uniform."

EXIT

One busy Saturday afternoon Mrs. Dingus, being in her husband's drug store, decided to help out with the rush. A young man desired to buy a fountain pen and Mrs. Dingus, putting several out on the counter, began to demonstrate the splendid writing point of one. With her usual ability to point a moral and use some Latin on almost any occasion, she covered a sheet of paper with the words, "Tempus fugit."

The boy seemed satisfied with the demonstration, saying:

"I believe I'll take that one, Miss Fugit."

STATISTICS

Dr. Horn always likes to check-up on the number of people present on occasions where he is the principal speaker. At a recent banquet, where the number present could not have exceeded over 50, before he arose to deliver the address of the evening he asked a young man near him to make a count of the number present. It so happened that the young man was intent upon satisfying a long standing curiosity of his own. He had promised himself to make an accurate tabulation of the number of times the speaker recurred to the phrases, "as a matter of actual fact" and "on this particular occasion," counting as a variation of the latter phrase "at this particular time." Knowing the length of banquets and not wishing to miss any "particular occasions" and "actual facts" the boy decided there would be time enough after the speech to get figures on those present. It was a good speech—so good, in fact, that the speaker's request was entirely forgotten. Dr. Horn sat down, and as the din of applause subsided he leaned over and asked hoarsely:

"How many did you count?"

"One hundred, sixty-seven," blurted the young man, his face coloring a violent red.

CHAFF

How jealousy places are guarded in the interminably long lines that form during the registration period and some idea of the crush in these lines was brought home to us rather forcibly the other day by a story we heard in the auditor's office. Late one afternoon of the fall registration as the end of the line before the business office window rounded the last corner the teller found before him a haggard little fellow with a trial schedule and without class cards.

"What are you doing getting into this line?" the harassed teller roared at the culprit.

"I didn't get into it," whimpered the exhausted little chap. "I started to get through it up on third floor this morning and got hung."

HANDCLASP

The other day an extremely self-conscious young man, finding it necessary to obtain work to help pay his expenses or leave school, decided he had rather work on a newspaper than do anything else he could think of. He paced up and down the pavement in front of a local office, finally screwed up his courage to the sticking point, and marched into the private cage of the editor. The editor was in some other region of the office at that moment, but on invitation of the secretary the young man waited, standing very ill at ease and very anxious to make a good impression.

Out in the outer office the editor had an unlit cigarette in his mouth, and a apparently being out of matches. Finding none, he moved back to his desk, the unlit cigarette still dangling. The extremely self-conscious young man thought he saw an opportunity to oblige. He fumbled nervously through his pockets, found a match, and struck it. The editor, rushing in and discovering his visitor, promptly extended his hand. His caller, much flustered, misunderstood the approach, started to hold the match for a light, then saw the extended hand and jammed the lit match full into its palm.

CURED

Dayle Wallace, one time registrar's assistant and now of Yale, had the habit of referring to Mr. Dohoney, when he wasn't around, as "Pop." One day a weatherbeaten old farmer with a hog-calling voice came in to see about registering a daughter. Dayle turned to his colleague, Irwin Coleman, and said:

"Say, Irwin, when will Pop be in?"

Irwin didn't know, so the gentleman said he would come back later. Mr. Dohoney returned and after a bit the farmer came clanking in again.

"Say Son," he boomed out, "has your Pa come back yet?"

Letters To The Editor

LET'S DO SOMETHING

Dear Editor: While pondering over my favorite tub of dish water the other day, a meat platter slipped and splashed dish water in my eye. All of a sudden an idea dawned on me. Yes, just a few facts about this hashing industry at Tech. Do you realize how many students are hashing for their board or their room and board? Well, there are approximately one hundred and forty. Now get set because here are some more facts.

After a careful survey, it was found that college students are forced to work from six to eight hours per day for their board, a very small per cent getting also their room. Now if you stop to think you will find that at the prevailing prices for meals these men are working on the average for 11 cents per hour. In reality they are paying more for their meals than the person who planks down the cash. Not only is this true, but they don't even get what they are working for. They get the wings, neck and the cold dressing after everyone else has been served. At Texas University, A. and M., T. C. U., Baylor, and most all of our leading schools in Texas the minimum wage paid college students who work in boarding houses is thirty cents per hour.

What are we going to do about it? The question lies entirely with the student body and those students who are forced to work for their room and board or cut school.

Like the common ditch digger who occasionally takes pride in a well dug ditch, there are many hashers out here who are good ones and should know it. There is a sort of satisfaction in knowing that one has served a meal well and has pleased most everyone concerned. But that is of no importance as there are plenty of hashers who are content to take the job no matter how many hours he has to work.

I contend that something ought late a little thought in his introductory course in philosophy, makes a habit of assigning a term theme on the subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" When he made the assignment the other day, one young lady who apparently had no intention of making up her mind until she had seen enough to do so, wrote the assignment down very carefully and inquired:

"You want us to just take up THIS life, do you Dr. Granbery?"

to be done. We are open for suggestions. C. M.

Dear C. M.:

Thanks for your letter as such a statement has been needed for some time. The Toreador is now making an investigation about how long students work for their room and board and will have some valuable information within the next few days. I already know, however, that what you say is not exaggerated. Some of the Lubbock landladies are not content with holding on to the Tech students for board but want to get their labor for nothing. There's plenty that can be done about it too, if the college officials will take it into their hands and investigate. Write again. The Editor.

Two College Men In Feature Cast

Phillips Holmes, picked off the campus of Princeton university less than three years ago for a meteoric career in motion pictures, and Norman Foster, alumnus of Carnegie Institute of Technology, play the leading male roles in the first authentic pictures of American college life to come to the screen, "Confessions of a Co-Ed."

Featured with these young college men is Sylvia Sidney, in the leading woman role. Miss Sidney, who made an instantaneous hit in her first moving picture, "City Streets," plays her second important screen role in "Confessions of a Co-Ed." She was winning fame as the star of the Broadway production "Bad Girl" when the movies "discovered" her.

"Confessions of a Co-Ed," which will show at the Palace theatre starting Sunday next, is the intimate story of an anonymous college girl, taken from her day-by-day diary. For obvious reasons the author's name must remain hidden but her story, highly dramatic and intensely emotional as it is, reflects the actual conditions existing in the modern American college.

Sans Souci Club Members Are Entertained Thursday

Miss Catherine Mitchell entertained members of the Sans Souci club and guests in the home of Miss Dorothy Rushing Thursday afternoon. Members present were Wanda Butler, Etta Smith, Mary Lee Burwell, Virginia Eaton, Francis Snyder, Johnnie Jo Whitley, and Dorothy Rushing. Guests were Misses Florence Moses, Maucine Cook, Dorothy Dobbins, Evelyn Price, Melba Watson, Ada Mae Gilbert, Melba Gilbert, Jerry Durham, Mary Elizabeth Hogan, Flora Laney, Anna Jo Pendleton, Lenore Brownfield, and Julia Duggs.

Gus Crawford and Roger Clapp spent the Thanksgiving vacation with friends and relatives in Chidress.

Formal Dance Is Given On Friday

The first formal dance for this year was given by members of the College club at the Hilton hotel Friday evening.

Music for the evening was furnished by Laugent and Perret's orchestra.

There was a grand march at 10:30 o'clock which was led by Frank Kelly, president of the club, and Miss Camille Stobaugh. Decorations for the affair were simple. The club insignia, fashioned of electric lights and a seal, hung over the orchestra and two club pennants hung on either side of the hall. The club song "Mighty Lake a Rose," was played for the march.

Among the special guests for the evening were W. C. Cole, faculty sponsor, and Mrs. Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Quinlan.

Club members and their dates who attended were: Frank Kelly and Camille Stobaugh, James Loughridge and Gertrude Standerfer, Wilson Holden and Christel Bock, Reuben Smith and Rose Mary Heatley, Robert Walker and Sue Burton, Jack Flowers and Mary McMurry, J. F. Rhuman and Jean Shelley, Jennings, Hugh McKinney and Polly Barrow, Drew Dickson and Wanda Butler, Walter Nixon and Mary Louise Gamel, Claude Thompson and Evelyn Heatley, Jack Durham and Gail Quinlan, John R. Johnson and Catherine Jamerson. Other club members include Gail Daniel, John Wulfman, Roy Taylor, Robert Hooks, Clyde Thompson, Milton Moffett, Jack Castel, Jimmie Renfro and Riley Boyd.

Special guests and their dates included Tom Agerton and Florence Moses, Ed Brown and Mary Earle Loffand, Russell Brown and Julia Davis, Courtney Harris and Beth Wulfman, Ed McCullough and Ada Mae Gilbert, Jimmie Wilson and Vonelle Gilkerson, Frank Maddox and Geraldine Durham. Other special guests were Ben Lee, Alden MacArthur, Jeff Murphy, Turner Rhuman and Mark Welch.

There were a number of other guests at the affair, mostly students of Texas Technological college.

Misses Weeks And McCreery Honored With Mexican Dinner

Miss Margaret Weeks and Miss Jonnie McCreery were honored with a Mexican dinner in the practice house Friday night. The dining-room was lighted by candles, and a cactus served for the centerpiece. The menu consisted of frijoles, tortillas, ensaladas, pear salad and Mexican candy.

Others attending besides the honorees were Misses Mayme Twyford, Donna Vaughn, Eunice Walker, Joyce Teague, Hazel Lee, and Irene Jackson.

"Over The Hill" Is Tom Barry's Best

"Over The Hill," the dramatic photoplay, which opens its local engagement Sunday at the Lindsey theatre with James Dunn and Sally Eilers in the romantic leads and Mae Marsh, idol of silent days, in the role of "Ma" Shelly, makes a befitting climax to the long and successful pen career of Tom Barry.

The story of "Over The Hill" deals with a cross-section of a family, relating a double tale of romance and love. It depicts the drama, the comedy and the pathos of a mother and her growing brood, and is said to show vividly the defeats and the victories of a young couple starting life in a hard and hostile world.

In addition to the principals its cast includes James Kirkwood, Claire Maynard, Edward Grandall and Olin Howland. Henry King directed the production.

Let's talk Straight from the Shoulder

WHAT you want in a cigarette is taste. You want mildness... smoothness... and satisfying pleasure when you smoke.

All right then... get this straight.

CHESTERFIELD pays top prices... yes, and a premium for the ripest, mellowest, sweetest-tasting leaf that grows.

The curing and conditioning is done by specialists... men carefully trained in handling these fine tobaccos.

IN BLENDING, also, Chesterfields are different... Instead of merely mixing the tobaccos together... we cross-blend them. It's like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco. That's how we get that Chesterfield flavor. Milder... and a more pleasing aroma.

Cigarette paper? Only the purest that's made is good enough for Chesterfield.

PICK UP a package. Note its clean appearance... free from heavy inks. It's moisture-proof, too.

And three big factories at Richmond, Durham and San Francisco—operating under the strictest sanitary standards—rush them fresh to you.

Good... they've got to be good. Because they're made that way. And most important of all... you can taste this goodness in the cigarette. You can tell it in the smoke.

Light up, Mister! Try Chesterfield.

Let the cigarette do its own talking. You'll get the whole thrilling story in just two words... "They Satisfy!"

"Yes Sir—Mild get they Satisfy"
