

Norman Petty Trio, Queen Feature Ball

Election of a queen and the music of the Norman Petty trio will feature the Cotton Ball, all-school semi-formal dance tonight at 8 in the Union Ballroom.

The Cotton Ball Queen will be selected at the door from the candidates by couples attending. Pictures of the girls will be exhibited to aid the voters in their selection. Also at the door, all couples will receive corsages and boutonnières.

The candidates, sponsored by various dorms and campus organizations, are Gwen Nix, Alpha Phi; Lajuana Rabb, Delta Delta Delta; Carolyn Baggett, Weeks Hall; Shirley Stephens, Drane Hall; Beth Davidson, Kappa Alpha Theta; Perry Thompson, Beta Tau Alpha; Madalyn Maddox, Knapp Hall; Pat Rainer, Pi Beta Phi; Anease Pritchett, Sigma Kappa and Gail Cooper, Gamma Phi Beta.

The queen will be crowned during intermission by Nan Kelly,

South Plains Maid of Cotton. Bud Thompson, radio and TV announcer, will emcee and interview the candidates. Cotton ball bouquets will be presented to the ten girls.

The Norman Petty trio, whose record "Almost Paradise" was one of the biggest successes of 1957, will provide the dance music. The trio which is composed of Petty, his wife Vi, who plays the piano and sings, and a drummer, are from Clovis, N.M.

Tickets will be on sale all day in the Tech Union for $2.50 a couple.

The dance, which is a promotion for cotton, is sponsored by Alpha Zeta, honorary agriculture fraternity.

General chairman of the dance is Dean Rea. Randall Grooms is in charge of ticket sales, Bill Wiseman heads the publicity committee; Dan Smith, decorations and Duery Menzies, corsages.

LOVE ME TENDER is the title of this picture, one of the many on display as the Best News Pictures of the Year in Journalism 202. Although Elvis Presley probably did not have this in mind when he sang the song, the dog and cat seem to be carrying its theme out to a "T." It was taken Dec. 4, 1956 by William Dyviniac. Men's Press Club is sponsoring the Display.

Tech Choir Sings Sunday Night on Sullivan's Show

National spotlight will shine on Texas Tech tomorrow night when the Tech Choir appears on the Ed Sullivan show in New York.

The show, televised at 9 p.m. EST, will be telecast over KDUB-TV, Lubbock's Channel 13, at 7 p.m. CST.

The group left yesterday by plane and were scheduled to arrive in Newark, New Jersey, early this morning. They will spend four days in New York, returning to Lubbock Wednesday morning.

The choir will spend all day at the CBS television studio rehearsing for their appearance tomorrow night. The remainder of their New York visit will be spent in sight-seeing.

They will attend a performance of "The Music Man" tonight and will divide into groups Monday night to attend stage shows, opera or the New York Philharmonic.

The choir was accompanied to New York by Mrs. E. N. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Stephens.

Under the direction of Gene Hemmle, the choir was organized in 1949 and is the official choral touring group for Tech.

Prior to this nation-wide television appearance the group has performed with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, at the Easter Sunrise service in the Sun Bowl at El Paso and on a state-wide television program, "Texas in Review."

Coroner's Jury Says Killing Justifiable

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"He said he would kill me and my daughter and my mother," Lana Turner sobbed to a coroner's jury which later Friday decided her daughter's killing of Johnny Stompanato was justifiable.

THE ACTRESS declared her last words to Stompanato were: "Don't ever touch me again! I'm absolutely finished. This is the end and I want you to get out!"

Then, the blonde star said, her daughter Cheryl slipped a kitchen knife into Stompanato's stomach "and I swear it was so fast I truthfully thought she had hit him in the stomach."

SHE ADDED that in the argument preceding the stabbing Stompanato, while Cheryl was standing at the door, "came to me like he was going to strangle me."

After hearing more than an hour of her tremulous testimony, the jury of 10 men and two women decided 14-year-old Cheryl's slaying of her mother's lover was justifiable homicide.

The verdict is not binding on the courts, however. Cheryl, who has been at Juvenile Hall since the slaying last Friday night, will learn her future at a Juvenile Court hearing April 24. She could go free, be made a ward of the court, sent to a foster home, or be

Bike Race Entrants To Draw for Position

All teams entering the bicycle race are required to attend the meeting in Room A in the Tech Union today at 2 p.m. The Saddle Tramps and members of Alpha Phi Omega should also be present.

At this meeting, the only one before the race April 19, teams will draw for starting positions and pit positions. Following the meeting will be an inspection of the bicycles by the bicycle committee.

- Bicycle specifications are:
- (1) Wheels — tire and tube type; either 26" by 1 3/4" or 26" by 2 1/8".
 - (2) Sprockets — front, either 26 or 52 teeth; rear, either 10 or 20 teeth.
 - (3) Brakes — one set of coaster foot brakes with no front wheel or hand brakes.
 - (4) Handle bars — no specifications.
 - (5) Frame — no specifications.
 - (6) Fenders — no specifications; may or may not be used.

BOTH THE RACE bicycle and warm-up bicycle, if used, must meet the above requirements. Any matters concerning specifications not mentioned above will be decided upon by the bicycle committee.

At the close of the inspection riders may familiarize themselves with the course during a practice session.

The race will be 40 laps, or about 25 miles. A lap, about .6 of a mile, will include the Memorial Circle plus the Soapbuds Pavilion. The race will start in front of the Administration Building and will proceed in such a direction that the riders will be moving from east to west in front of the Ad Building. The race will start at 2 p.m. April 19, following a warm-up period at 1 p.m.

ENTRY BLANKS, rules and regulations are still available in the Student Council office. Entry blanks can be turned in at this afternoon's meeting. The meeting, however, will be the last chance for teams to turn in entries. Each team must pay a $5 entrance fee.

placed in the custody of her mother or father. The latter is Stephen Crane, second of Miss Turner's four husbands.

LANA, in the first public account of the nightmarish scene in the pink-carpeted bedroom of her Beverly Hills home, took the stand at a jammed courtroom on the eighth floor of the Hall of Records.

Often choking with emotion, she told of her struggle to break off her romance with the handsome former underworld figure who had been her companion for months.

Letters the two wrote to each other, made public this week, were full of endearments and words of longing for each other. But Lana told of threats he made. The letters indicated their romance was cooling, that she questioned the wisdom of the association.

ONCE IN LONDON, she said, he threatened to slash her face with a razor. And just before he was killed, she said, Stompanato threatened to "kill me and my daughter and my mother." Miss Turner gave this account of the violent quarrel that preceded the killing:

"I walked into my daughter's room and she was watching TV. I walked over to her and Mr. Stompanato was behind me all the time and saying some very bad things..."

"THE LANGUAGE was bad, swearing, and I turned to Mr. Stompanato... I said, 'I've told you I do not want to argue in front of the baby.' I've always called her that..."

"I went downstairs with Mr. Stompanato following me, and the quarrel was now becoming more violent, and I answered back that I was just finding out too many lies..."

THE ACTRESS said she told him, "I can't go on like this. You know that I have begged, I've pleaded for you to leave me alone even with all your threats."

She added that he followed her to the bedroom and: "Mr. Stompanato grabbed me by the arms and began shaking me, cursing me very badly and saying that, as he had told me before, no matter what I did, how I tried to get away, he would never let me, that if he said jump, I would jump; if he said hop, I would hop, and I would have to do any and everything he told me, or he would cut my face or cripple me, and if it went beyond that he would kill me and my daughter and my mother..."

'Cat' Depicts Life, Captures Audience

by JANET MOORE
"Wouldn't it be funny if it were true?"

Although only spoken three times, this line was fitting to spectacular drama of the crude but simple truths of life portrayed in Tennessee Williams' "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof" in Municipal Auditorium last night.

THE NEAR capacity audience remained in almost unmoving silence as if they were stunned but thoroughly stimulated by the frustrating Pulitzer Prize winner and New York Drama Critics Award Play.

This was an extraordinary piece of work that is rarely seen on the stage and can truly be called drama, not theatre, as the audience recognized the actors by its applause for three curtain calls.

THE MAIN THEME of the play could be summed up in the lines actually spoken, "It is so hard for people to talk," even though they are members of the same family. "Death is feared because we are so ignorant of death."

"True and pure things are not normal because they are rare."

Olga Bellin gave a good performance of emotion as Margaret, the "Cat" who could not get off a hot tin roof because she wanted so desperately to regain the love of her alcoholic husband whom she could not fully understand.

The husband, Bill Daniels as Brick, is accused by his wife and father of being a homosexual, which adds to his intense degree of disgust.

Victor Jory gave a captivating portrayal of the constant cursing, boisterous, yet wise Big Daddy. He is afraid of death from cancer and who will take over his wealthy estate of 28,000 acres.

This play revolved around the frank, harsh, and simple statements about sex. There was not much movement on the stage, as the action was created by the dialogue. The only scene was a bed-sitting room on a raised platform and a few times pantomime was used for missing objects. Such a moving play as this needed no additional scenery.

Raiders Down Buffs, 8-4, in 'Chiller'

by BILLY ELLIS

Three Red Raider pitchers limited the West Texas State Buffaloes to three hits, and Texas Tech's baseballers took their third win of the 1958 season, 8-4, in a game marred by unseasonably-cold weather at the Tech Diamond yesterday.

The win went to sophomore hurler Charles Flanagin, who was charged with two of the visitors' runs, but came in with the bases loaded in the third and retired the side, two on strikeouts, without a run.

The burly Flanagin pitched the third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings, striking out five, walking three, and giving up one hit, an infield grounder that the second baseman held too long before trying for a force out.

Aside from this "mental error," the two runs would not have been scored off Flanagin in the fourth, leaving him with a perfect pitching slate.

Tech won the game in the sixth, when down 4-2 the Raiders came up with six runs on three hits, taking advantage of two walks and a pair of Buff errors.

THE RALLY started after Ken Warren struck out batting for Flanagin. First baseman Dave Allen got his fourth of five walks during the game, going all the way to third when Buff centerfielder Jim Lewter bobbled Dave Bourland's high fly.

Gehrig Garrison walked, loading the bases, then the fun started. Jackie Miller hit a high-hopper to the second baseman, whose throw was too late to get Garrison coming down, with Allen scoring on the play. The Buff shortstop made a bad throw on Dave Potter's grounder, and two runs scored.

AT THIS POINT, the Raiders got two of their "legitimate" hits of the day. B. A. Donelson, who had two of the longest hits of the day, one a long foul over the leftfield fence, unloaded what appeared to be a triple to center, plating two runs.

But the umpire ruled a ground-rule double, sending Potter back to third. Gary Wetter, who went in for Rob Hill at second in the fifth, hit a bloop down the right field line that hit fair and bounced off the playing field, Potter and Donelson scoring and Wetter flogging into third with a triple.

THAT WAS the end of Tech's scoring, as catcher Cullen Hunt took a called third strike and Warren bounced back to the pitcher for his second out of the inning.

game might have been a tight pitchers game. There were twelve errors in the contest, seven by Tech and five by West Texas, and a total of twenty walks, 11 of them helping the Tech cause.
