Band Accepts Bid For Austin Parade

Texas Tech's marching band has accepted an invitation to march in the inaugural parade of governor-elect John Connally on Jan. 15 in Austin. Approval to make the trip was given by Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president, during a conference with other Tech officials Tuesday afternoon.

J. J. Pickle, chairman of the inaugural parade committee, announced the honor in a long distance telephone call to Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of Tech's music department. Approval of the trip was necessary because it will be during dead week and students will have to be excused from classes to make the trip, according to officials.

The 230-member "Going Band from Raiderland" will leave Lubbock at noon on Jan. 14 and travel on six chartered buses to Austin. They will be housed in surrounding towns because accommodations in Austin have reportedly been filled for several weeks.

Dr. Hemmle is responsible for starting the chain of events leading to selection of Tech to march in the parade. He started the project when Connally was elected in November.

Hemmle, a personal friend and former classmate of Connally at the University of Texas in 1938-39, wrote to Connally and suggested the band attend because two of the newly elected Texas government officials are from Lubbock—Preston Smith, lieutenant governor-elect and Waggoner Carr, attorney general-elect.

"I have been here 13 years, and this is the first time that we have been in an inaugural parade," Dr. Hemmle said. "I have never been to an inauguration, but I'm going to this one."

"I feel that the band represents a high degree of excellence in both marching and performance, and this will call attention to the college," Hemmle continued.

"I think it is a distinct honor for Tech and for our band," said Dr. Goodwin, who, along with other Tech officials, will represent Tech at the inauguration.

Dean Killion, associate professor of the music department, has been band director for the past four years.

Hanford To Give Last Talk Today

By JEANNIE BOOKOUT
Toreador News Editor

In a final lecture before Tech students and faculty today, Dr. Holly Hanford, visiting professor emeritus, will appear in Union Ballroom to tell of Milton at the Vatican.

Dr. Hanford, who has been called "Dean of American Milton scholars," previously spoke on Milton before such overflowing crowds that his lectures have been moved to three different auditoriums to accommodate hearers.

A reception for the Milton expert will be given after the talk by members of the Ideas and Issues Committee of Tech Union who are co-sponsoring the lecture with the English department.

Dr. Hanford's talk will be based on a recent trip to Rome where he followed the footsteps of Milton's travels in Italy and did research in the Vatican concerning Milton's contacts with dignitaries of the Catholic Church.

"I'm interested in this lecture primarily because of Milton's contacts with members of the Catholic Church and its effects on him," Hanford said.

"During the time of Milton, England was afraid of Catholic influence and was hostile to the Catholic Church. Yet Milton associated with Catholics and this is interesting," Hanford explained.

Dr. Hanford, who has been connected with Princeton for the past seven years, believes that much about Milton can apply directly to college students of today.

"All of our problems have parallels in the past," Hanford said. "It expands your mind to go out of our own age and our own civilization. The thoughts of the past are highly educational."

Dr. Hanford feels that besides the fact that Milton was a great poet and an interesting man, "there's plenty to learn from his ethical and religious ideas."

In speaking of Hanford, Dr. John Guilds, English department head, called him "The Milton scholar of the 20th century."

"Today will be the first time we have had enough space to accommodate the crowds to hear him speak," Guilds said. "Before people had to stand in the aisles and in the hall to hear."

Hanford will leave Tech in January to become visiting professor at Pennsylvania State University.

Student Paper Calls For End To Bowl Trip

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin student newspaper called Tuesday for an end to Badger participation in the Rose Bowl football game.

"Let's make this bowl trip the last one," the Daily Cardinal declared in an editorial which said it supported University President Fred H. Harrington in his public assertion that post-season games involve "over-emphasis that is unfortunate."

The publication noted that Wisconsin has in the past gone on record against post-season games but has accepted bids when offered.

Wisconsin won the 1962 Big Ten crown. It appeared in the Rose Bowl games in 1953 and 1960, losing both.

Hostages Slow British Move Against Rebels

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Rebels use of nine Europeans as hostages slowed British troops Tuesday night in their drive for full control of the Brunei oil town of Seria.

Combat teams bypassed the police station, where the hostages were held by about 50 rebels, to mop up other sections.

There were unconfirmed reports of sharp fighting in one area. Seria remained the hottest spot in a rebellion against British authority in Brunei, an oil-rich protectorate, and the neighboring crown colonies of Sarawak and North Borneo.

"Our chief concern is to release the hostages unharmed," said Brig. A. G. Patterson, commander of the British operations.

Patterson said all nine were men on the staff of Shell Oil Co., seized by the rebels at the outbreak of the uprising Saturday. One other Shell employe, a Eurasian, has been killed and two wounded in the fighting.

Indonesia, which rules most of Borneo, made clear its support of the rebels.

Angel Flights Attend Austin Area Conclave

Four members of Tech's Angel Flight attended the Angel Flight area conclave in Austin Dec. 8. Also attending were representatives of flights from Baylor, East Texas State College, Oklahoma State University, Southwest Texas State and Texas University.

The meetings began in the Texas Union and lasted from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Dec. 8. The purpose of the conclave was to discuss the organization of Angel Flights in the area, so that each one might benefit from the projects and activities of the other organizations.

The Angel Flights also discussed the national conclave to be held in Buffalo, N.Y., and made plans for the drill competition meet to be held at Tech in April. Plans were also made for a spring trip to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Col. John R. Sala spoke to the conclave in place of Colonel Lindley, head of the U.S. AFROTC, who was unable to attend. Colonel Sala encouraged the Angel Flights to create a lively interest in the work of the military men.

The conclave climaxed the day's activities with a military ball.

The girls representing Tech's flight were Dana Pope, Carolyn Wood, Pat Deason, and Kay Dudley, area commander. Their sponsors were Captains Williams and Wilson.

Tech Band Announces New Album

Texas Tech's concert band has announced the release of an album recorded at last spring's concert by the Austin Custom Recording Company of Austin.

The album is on sale by Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma, band fraternity and sorority, and the cost is $3.50. It contains music selections of concert literature, the Broadway hit of "My Fair Lady," several school songs and several marches.

The album, entitled "Texas Tech Band," includes Overture to "Rienzi" and Overture to "Candide," the latter composed by Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Some of the marches included are "Crown Imperial March," "Valdres March" and "Jubilee March."

The lighter side of the album includes selections from "My Fair Lady," the "Mataдор Song," "Fight Raiders, Fight," and "Grandioso," a "favorite" of the student body, according to Dean Killion, band director.

Tech Club Announces New Mexico Ski Outing

Tech's Ski Club recently announced the organization of the group's annual trip to New Mexico's Santa Fe Ski Basin on Jan. 26-29.

Membership in the Ski Club is $2. The cost of the ticket this year will be $48. Ticket price includes transportation, equipment, meals and lodging at the Holiday Inn, and optional side trips from Santa Fe.

The club will meet Thursday in the Blue Room of the Tech Union at 7:30 p.m. Harvey Chalker, manager of the Santa Fe Ski Basin, will be on hand to conduct a question and answer period.

The trip will be Tech's seventh annual excursion to the mountains and is open to all interested students. The only requirements are membership in the club and a ticket.

French Clubs Show Film

A French film, "La Traverse de Paris," will be shown by Le Cercle Francais and Pi Delta Phi tonight in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

The film will be shown at 6:30 p.m. and at 8:15 p.m. It is based on Marcel Ayme's satirical fable of two men, who tug a contraband pig from one end of Paris to the other, during the Nazi occupation. Its qualities of irony, suspense, hilarious farce and searching revelation of character under wartime stress make it appeal to those who prize choice cinematic morsels.

At the Venice International Film Festival in 1956, the film won grand prize and award for the best male performance. The film stars Jean Gabin and Bourvil, with Louis de Funes and Jeanette Batti.

Admission charge for the film will be 50 cents per person.

Tech Receives Art Gifts From Stanley Marcuses

Two fine arts gifts valued at $2,450 have been presented to Tech and placed in the West Texas Museum at the request of the Board of Directors.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Marcus of Dallas donated the gifts consisting of a red sandstone cornerstone of two young female figures, valued at $1,200, and two Siamese shadow backgrounds of painted and cut leather, appraised at $1,250.

The gifts were accepted on behalf of Tech and the Museum by Manuel DeBusk of Dallas, chairman of the board, and Mark Hailley, president of the West Texas Museum Assn.

Representative of the art found in the old Indian temples, the 15-inch high cornerstone of two young female figures exemplifies the Indian concept of grace and beauty, Mrs. W. C. Holden of the museum staff said. The sculpture was done by a South Indian artist between the 12th and 13th centuries.

Describing the cornerstone's background, Mrs. Holden said that the Indian ideal of art is profoundly mystical and approaches the art of medieval cathedrals of the Western world. "They represent an area of art of which very little is available in our country," she said.

The two Siamese shadow backgrounds of cut and painted leather, 60-62 inches high, were made in the 18th century. The work shows dancing figures with trees and flowers.

A well-known art connoisseur and collector, Marcus made this year the fifth year they have presented paintings and other gifts to Tech.

The two new gifts will be featured in a special display of recent acquisitions in the Rotunda Gallery of the Museum in January.

Marcus is a former president of the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. He and Mrs. Marcus have long been philanthropists in the fine arts field to colleges and universities in the United States.

Last year the Marcuses gave

Tech a contemporary painting "Natura Morta II" by Piero Ruggeri, an Italian artist. In 1960 they gave three gifts, totaling $2,750, which included a zodiac beaker of the Hindu-Javanese culture from the 9th to the 12th century, an Ikat weaving from the Sumba Islands in Indonesia and a painting, "L'etre et les reflets" by the French surrealist Jacques Herald.

In 1959 Tech received a large oil painting by the young German painter, Priking. The first gifts came in 1959 when they presented Tech seven collector's items valued at $1,025. They included two pairs of Persian miniatures from the 16th century, and a manuscript page from an 11th century Koran.

The most recent gifts were appraised by Julius Carlebach of Carlebach Galleries of New York, members of the Appraisers Association of America.

WAIT'LL NEXT YEAR DEPT. Texas Tech's hardwood warriors are on a four game losing streak, three of them in the Coliseum, and people are beginning to wonder just what has befallen Raider basketball, once the most powerful team in the SWC. It's been quite a while since a Tech cage squad lost three in a row in the Coliseum.

The feeling in the area is that graduation should be abolished. Bobby Gindorf, the only starter to return from last year's SWC champs, had an average of something over seven points a game. Mac Percival and company accounted for 79 per cent of the Red Raiders' scoring. They are gone now and only Gindorf remains. He can't hold the fort alone. Besides, he isn't included in the 79 per cent of the point-making accomplished by the graduates.

—FTB—

Gene Gibson's prodigies still have four games to ready themselves for conference wars; Auburn, Alabama and Oklahoma on the road and the Phillips 66 Oilers at home. On Jan. 3 they meet TCU in Fort Worth to open the conference struggle.

—FTB—

Although Tech has never met Auburn or Alabama on the hardwood before, there are several indirect ties between the schools.

Auburn and Tech met in the 1954 Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Florida, and Tech spotted the Plainsmen a half-time lead before trouncing them, 35-13.

Former Tech football coach, Pete Cawthorn, served as athletic director of the University of Alabama and now lives in Tuscaloosa.

Head football coach J T King and Raider aide, Willie Zapalac, served under Paul "Bear" Bryant in his Texas A&M days. Bryant is now head football coach at Alabama.

—FTB—

THINK OR THWIM DEPT.

Tech's swimming teams' obscurity is coming to an abrupt end. This year Tech has one of the best teams it has ever had. In action this past weekend, they drowned the Baylor Tankmen by a 76-19 score, a far from dubious debut. The Bruins were swamped.

In a letter to Jim Richardson, TOREADOR sports editor, swimming coach, James McNally said:

"... These young men work hard and win their share of meets. No victory bells sound, no Saddle Tramps attend the meets, no cheer leaders are here, but the team keeps working and fighting to place high in the conference year after year. If your paper needs a cause, you could choose none better than making the students aware of the minor sports program at Tech.

There are many stars in coach McNally's little galaxy, but the brightest is a fellow named Phil Simpkins. Simpkins holds the national high school free-style sprint record, and bettered the conference 100 yard free-style record as a freshman.

Swimming is an exciting and competitive sport. It is a spectator sport that furnishes many thrilling moments for the onlooker.

If you are as I am, weary of unfulfilled expectations, go out and watch the Tech swimmers do their stuff. They are a fine bunch of athletes.

—FTB—

ALLEY CAT DEPT. Bill Miller, Texas Tech kegler, rolled a 299 game and 725 series in last week's All College Scratch Bowling Tournament. That's hardly getting your money's worth. Remember, Bill, they allow you two balls in a frame.

—FTB—

FROM THE BENCH DEPT. A note from Bill Melton informed me I wasn't Bill Stern and that I should tighten the tie on the mug at the top of this column. Thank you for the suggestion, Bill, but I get a vicarious thrill from the undone tie. It makes me feel like a celebrity.
