"WE WANT GOLDWATER" — Student supporters of Kip Glasscock, representing Sen. Barry Goldwater, staged a rally Wednesday afternoon in Tech Union. The rally precedes Tech's Mock Political Convention to be April 23-24.

Campaigns Develop For Political Meet

"Margaret Chase Smith" appeared unexpectedly at a "Barry Goldwater" rally Wednesday in Tech Union.

Mary Dee Harris, Fort Worth senior, representing Sen. Smith, climaxed a speech by Kip Glasscock, who represented Sen. Goldwater.

APRIL 23-24

The rally was staged by the Young Republicans as part of the

Theta Sigs To Select Top Woman

Outstanding senior woman journalist will be named at the Matrix Banquet tonight sponsored annually by the Texas Tech and Lubbock alumni chapters of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional journalism society for women.

Guest speaker is John M. Fallon, Southwest Division News Manager for United Press International, Dallas. His theme will be "Four Days in November." Fallon ran the Dallas News desk at the time of the assassination of the late President Kennedy, and he also covered Jack Ruby's trial.

Awards will be presented at the banquet to the outstanding girl student from each Lubbock high school.

The banquet will be at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

President of the alumni chapter is Mrs. Charlotte Shaner and Jody Allen is president of the Tech chapter.

Mock Political Convention, set April 23-24.

'WANT GOLDWATER'

The Young Republicans will act as delegates from the states of Iowa, Colorado, Indiana and California. Members of these delegations carried signs supporting Goldwater and yelled, "We want Goldwater."

DICK REAVIS, chairman of rallies and promotion for the convention, introduced state chairmen. Dee VanGilder, chairman of the Iowa delegation, yelled, "Goldwater in '64." This was echoed by Shirley Allen, Colorado delegation chairman.

Indiana's chairman, Bob Vandaveer, said, "I'd like to present the winning candidate in '64 — Barry Goldwater."

Kip Glasscock then gave a brief speech on civil and states rights, social welfare, and international politics. He said, "We seek conservativeness as a way of hope to guide us from what seems an endless succession of dreary leadership."

TERRELL PROTESTS

Buford Terrell, Sen. Smith's publicity chairman, protested the rally, saying that it was conducted in a "boisterous and unladylike manner."

MARY DEE HARRIS then said, "I feel that the issue of civil rights is very important right now. Civil rights not only involve the rights of Negroes and other minority groups, but also of the rights of women."

KLBK television station filmed the rally, which was also broadcast on Tech's radio station, KTXT.

Dick Reavis said that several more rallies are being planned prior to the convention. Political Convention delegates may contact Reavis at ext. 4414 to plan rallies. Reavis plans to sponsor, among others, a Margaret Chase Smith rally on Woman's Day.

Shriver To Speak

Classes will be dismissed at 10 a.m. today so that Techsians may attend the all-school convocation featuring Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps, in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Sargent Shriver arrived in Lubbock about midnight Wednesday. He will visit the campus this morning shortly before speaking. The Student Council will be responsible for this visit. During this visit, Dr. Pearce, vice president for academic affairs, in the absence of President Goodwin, will provide formal institutional greetings.

'TREMENDOUS OPPORTUNITY'

Royal Furgeson, president of the Student Council, said that Shriver's visit is "a tremendous opportunity for the student body." He said that the Peace Corps head's appearance is one of the high points of the year as far as the Student Council is concerned.

Furgeson went on to say that he felt that the convocation should be attended by an overflow crowd. He said that Shriver is one of the most important persons to appear before the student body in several years.

A press conference is currently scheduled to follow the convocation. This 11 a.m. conference will draw representatives from all Lubbock news media.

At noon, the Student Council is sponsoring a luncheon at the Koko Palace for Shriver. Tickets for the luncheon are $1.50 and are available in the Student Council office or at the door.

MAHON RESPONSIBLE

Shortly after the noon luncheon, Shriver will leave to return to Washington. Royal Furgeson said the Peace Corps director's appearance on campus was largely the result of efforts by Congressman George Mahon. He said that the Student Council was deeply appreciative of Rep. Mahon's efforts in their behalf.

Furgeson stressed that Shriver's appearance is being sponsored for the benefit of Tech students and for the City of Lubbock and is not a political appearance.

Shriver has served as director of the Peace Corps since 1961. In February he was made special assistant to the President to head the Johnson administration's "War on Poverty." Prior to his current government jobs, he was assistant general manager of the Merchandise Mart from 1948 to 1961. He was earlier associated with Joseph P. Kennedy Enterprises.

He served in the U.S. Navy from 1941 to 1945, with continuous overseas duty in both Atlantic and Pacific Ocean areas on battleships and submarines.

YALE HONOR GRADUATE

Shriver graduated—cum laude—from Yale University in 1938, and he received his law degree from the Yale Law School in 1941. He has since become the holder of 13 honorary degrees from various colleges and universities.

Since 1955, Shriver has been active in politics—chiefly concerned with educational institutions. In 1961 the late President Kennedy selected Shriver, married to Eunice Kennedy, to head the newly conceived Peace Corps.

He has three children—two sons and a daughter. Although presently living in Maryland, he has been a resident of Illinois since 1948.

The Peace Corps director was awarded the "Golden Heart Presidential Award" earlier this year by the President of the Philippines.

Havard Chosen Editor, Annual Heads Elected

Bronson Havard, a Clute junior, was named Wednesday to fill the 1964-65 DAILY TREADOR editorship.

Havard was chosen by the Student Publications Committee from a field of three Techsians.

BRONSON HAVARD

The Committee also named Jim Davidson, a Tyler senior, as next year's advertising manager and Johnnie Lu Raborn and Becky Parker were named La Ventana co-editors. Miss Raborn is an Austin junior and Miss Parker a Sabinal junior.

Phil Orman, student publications director, commended the publications committee's choices. Orman said, "I'm confident Havard will do a good job for the Treador and Texas Tech. He has shown outstanding abilities while working on the school publication."

Commenting on his election, Havard said, "I shall make every effort to be worthy of the honor the students and faculty members have bestowed upon me."

Havard is a veteran Treador staff member. He is now the news editor and has worked as the asst. news editor and as a reporter. This year he was awarded the scholarship of the Lubbock Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

SARGENT SHRIVER

Nominees To Talk At Rally

An election rally is planned for 7 p.m. tonight at the Municipal Auditorium at which time all candidates for executive offices will present two-minute speeches to the student body.

WELCOME WILL BE given by Pat Hamilton and James Cole will act as master of ceremonies.

Presidential candidates are Ronnie Botkin and Bill Honey. Secretarial candidates are Holly Hunt and Nancy Shoemaker. Roland Anderson and Garland Weeks are candidates for business manager.

Before the rally, the cheerleaders will set up booths on the parking lot to attract students' attention. The booths may be set up anytime after noon and must close by 6:45 p.m.

DURING THE rally the cheerleader candidates will be divided into two groups, each group having five minutes to present yells.

Candidates for cheerleaders are Mike Bohn, J. "Jim" Crawford, Cril Payne, Ronnie Siler and "Jick" Walker.

Also Sandra Cox, Anita Edmiston, Jan Keen, Camella Moore, Betty Newby, Kathy Osthoff, Karen Schroeder and Sondra Stargel.

All candidates for Student Council representatives will be introduced during the rally according to schools.

Nothing can be passed out in the auditorium during the rally.

• Tourney Opens

Tech's Forensic Union is sponsoring a speech intramural tournament today in the Agriculture Auditorium. The meet will begin at 6:30 p.m. with extemporaneous speaking. Dramatic interpretation, after dinner speaking and prose reading will begin at 7 p.m.

-Tech Morals-

Thievery Cited As Campus 'Evil'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is the second in a ten-part series on Tech mores and morals)

By CECIL GREEN
Toreador Copy Editor

Everything from charm bracelets to Volkswagen fenders has been stolen by thieves on the Texas Tech campus this year.

Not Too Many Thefts

"However, we don't have a whole lot of problems with thefts here," said Bill Daniels, head of Traffic-Security, "although we do have our share of them. In fact, the number of thefts is showing a large decrease over past years."

Facts and figures bear out this statement, since only 74 thefts have been reported from campus parking lots, dormitories and college buildings so far this school year. This compares to 109 thefts reported over the same period last year.

Biggest Headache

Parking lots are the biggest headache for campus patrolmen, as almost 80 per cent of all campus petty thievery takes place in the dormitory parking areas, according to Chief Daniels.

This year, 59 thefts have been reported from the parking lots, but this is still a far cry from the 88 thefts accumulated over the same period last year in the same lots.

And, of the worrisome parking lots the perennial champion for thefts is the Wells Hall-Gaston Hall parking lot, where the largest number of thefts and vandalisms are reported, according to Daniels.

Running second to Gaston-Wells is the Bledsoe Hall-Sneed-Gordon Hall area, where a large number of reports initiate every year.

"The reason for this is reasonably simple," he continued, "because once the girls' dorms are closed for the night, their parking lots are patrolled regularly and quite often to watch for prowlers and window-peepers."

On the other hand, the men's parking areas are usually active until 11 p.m. or later each night and it is not unusual to see persons walking through the lots very early in the morning. And, according to Daniels, most of the thefts in the men's lots occur between the hours of 11 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Dark Parking Lots

Another reason the parking lots are such favorite targets for thieves might be accredited to the lighting situation—most of the lots are almost pitch-black at night.

"The only lights used to illuminate lots," Daniels explained, are large floodlights that are stationed on nearby buildings. Sure, it would definitely help if all the lots were well lit, but this measure would just help cut down in the number of thefts and not eliminate them.

"However, we think that the drop in the number of thefts this year is due in a great part to the addition of our canine patrol to the force," he said.

Police Dog Helps

Prizee, a large German Shepherd trained as a police dog, was added to the Traffic-Security Department early in the fall. "Since Prizee and his handler were added to the force," Daniels said, "we have been able to get even more coverage of the parking and building areas on campus."

However, the thefts still continue and, as someone once said, thieves will take anything. This seems particularly true when one reviews some of the items that have been taken this year.

The list includes almost everything that can be added to a car—such as tachometers, gauges, hubcaps and radios—and many of the things that are standard equipment, including batteries, mirrors, tires, steering wheels and even the bumper and fenders from a Volkswagen.

Buildings And Dorms Included

So far this year, there have been nine reported thefts from campus buildings and six from the dormitories. Last year, there were eight thefts reported from the buildings and 13 from the dorms.

"Most of the cases we investigate in college buildings involve missing personal property—such as women's handbags and the like," Daniels said, "but there are always some cases in which an office is left unlocked and something is stolen."

"Also," he continued, "most of these thefts occur during the times when the building is open for use; there have been no cases of breaking and entering involving any college building this year."

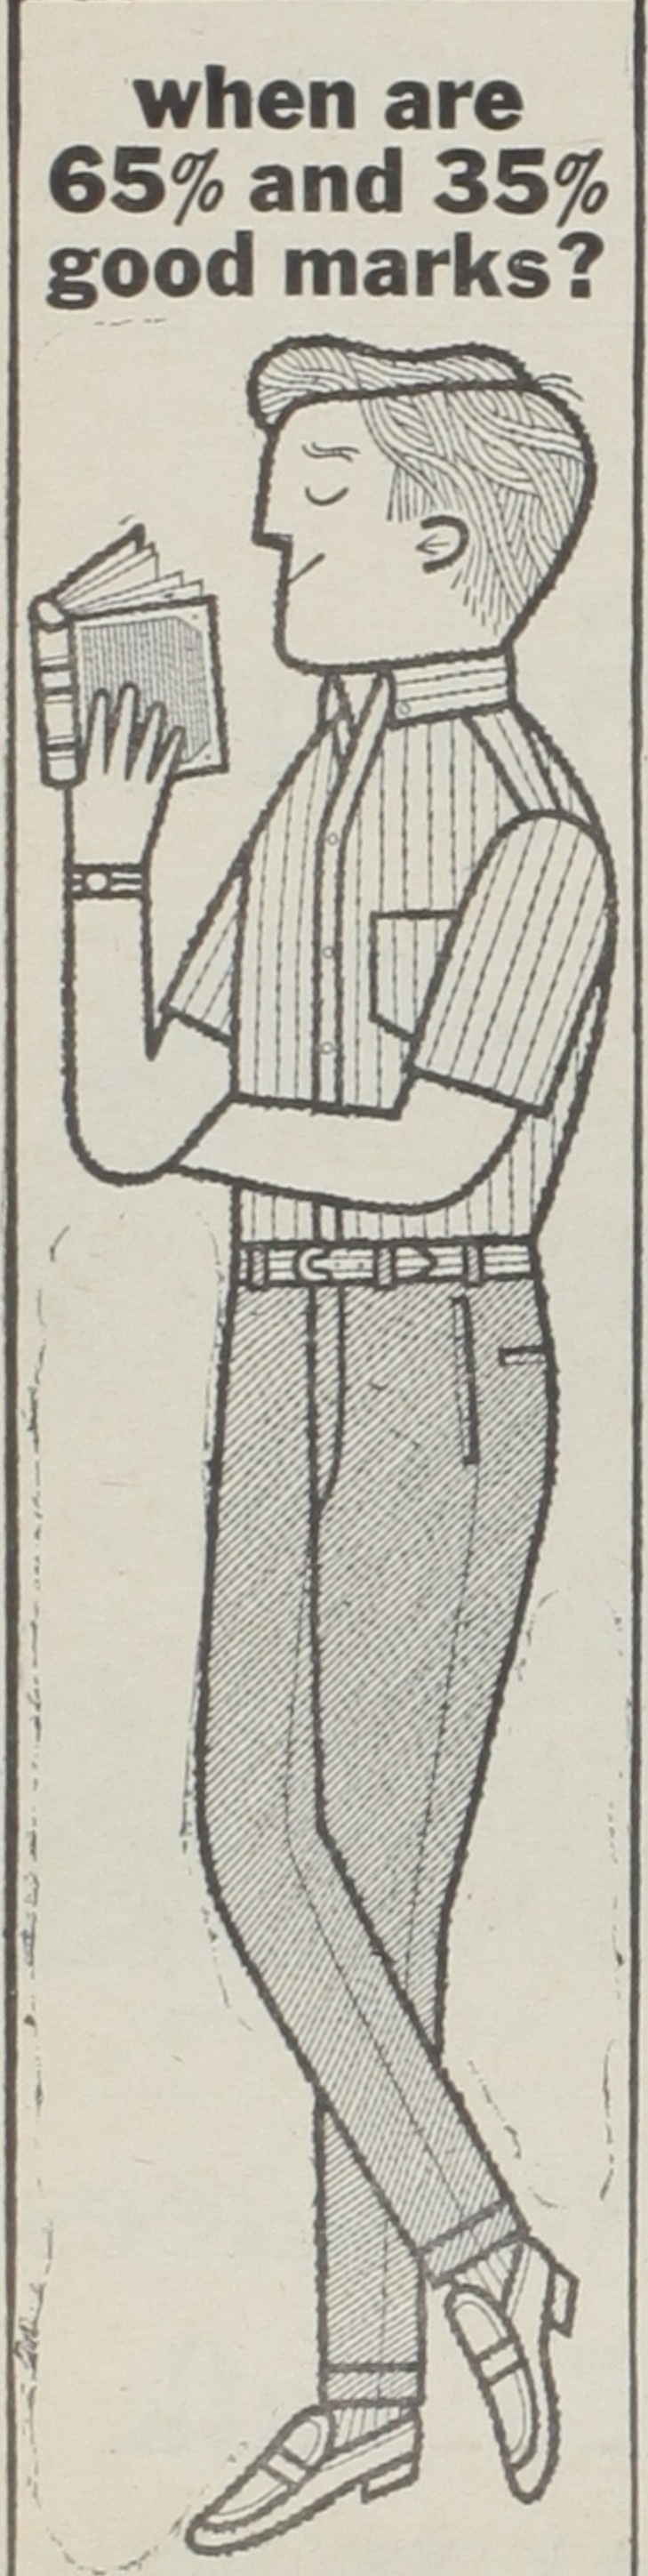

All campus buildings are locked at 11 p.m. daily and are unlocked after 6 a.m. And, during the hours in which the buildings are open, more thefts are usually reported over the year from the women's gym than any other building—even the men's gym.

Decrease In Dorms

Reported thefts from the dorms have dropped more than one-half since last year, according to statistics, with most losses involving clothing, money and personal property.

"Of all the things that are stolen each year," Daniels said, "we are usually able to return, find or recover about 30 per cent of it. The reason is because so much of the material

For Vice President

Shriver Listed As Candidate

By MIKE READ

Toreador Feature Editor

Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps, who will be visiting on the Tech campus today, is often mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic vice presidential spot under Lyndon B. Johnson.

Such mention is, at present, speculation; but the speculation is not necessarily mere idle thinking.

Shriver has several major advantages as a vice presidential possibility. He is a member of the Kennedy family, but his name is not Kennedy. He comes from the proper area of the country and has the proper background and political philosophy to compliment President Johnson's own qualifications.

The Peace Corps director has proven himself a more than adequate administrator — as he took charge of an idea of a Peace Corps and made the idea a working reality.

If Robert Kennedy seriously desires the vice presidential spot on the Democratic ticket in the '64 elections, Shriver could face strong family pressures against his potential candidacy.

However, Johnson is a strong politician with strong appeal in his own right. He doesn't need to coast to victory on the Kennedy name. A Johnson-anybody ticket will probably be just as strong as a Johnson-Kennedy ticket — maybe the LBJ-Shriver pairing would be stronger than the LBJ-Kennedy ticket.

The late President had alienated certain business leaders and certain powerful construction and trade unions. The Kennedy name still has a bitter taste for many of these groups — as well as many Southern groups. Johnson does not suffer this alienation, nor does Shriver; but the addition of Kennedy to the ticket might cause a loss in support from these groups.

Of course, the ultimate decision lies with the individuals concerned — in this case, President Johnson and Sargent Shriver.

Sargent Shriver was not particularly close to the late President — Robert Kennedy was already in such a position. When Shriver first came to Washington, it was Lyndon Johnson who introduced him to the bureaucratic system and guided him through the first months of the struggle to establish the Peace Corps.

Johnson's confidence in Shriver's ability has been shown by his choice of Shriver to perform certain diplomatic functions. If any further proof of Presidential confidence be needed — Shriver was Johnson's personal choice to head the "War on Poverty." More and more, the Peace Corps director is becoming involved with the administration's programs.

In short, Shriver has all the advantages of a competent administrator of Presidential confidence, the advantages of ties with the Kennedy family — without the disadvantages of the Kennedy reputation with business and certain segments of labor and the Southern groups, without the disadvantages of lack of Washington experience, without the disadvantages of obscurity and without the disadvantages of the Kennedy name.

A Johnson-Shriver ticket in '64? It's a very definite possibility!

that is stolen is so common that there is no way to identify it. "It would help a great deal if everyone would somehow mark his personal property so that it could be identified and recovered more quickly," he said.

College-City Agreement

The Lubbock Police Department and the Tech Traffic-Security have a working agreement, and all theft cases on the campus are reported to the city police so that they can be on the lookout for stolen goods. Likewise, the Lubbock Police notify the campus officers if they receive any cases involving Tech students or college property.

When a Tech student is apprehended for some crime, he has to face college authorities and/or the Lubbock Police and municipal authorities for disciplinary action—which can include jail, suspension or any number of fines or penalties.

"But, all in all, we are pretty lucky here," said Daniels, "since the thefts at Tech are very small in comparison to the number of students. And, one must also remember that many items that are reported stolen often turn up just misplaced or borrowed by a friend—yet all of these reports are included in the statistics."

Still, the thefts and thieves are an unwanted evil on the campus, and the only way they can be stopped is for the individual students to keep a closer watch on his personal property and report any thefts or suspicious action.

Texas Tech's golfers make their home season debut, but three other varsity teams will be on the road Friday and Saturday.

In Southwest Conference competition, Coach Jay McClure's linksmen are hosts to the Rice Owls Friday, and on the road George Philbrick sends his tennis team against Texas A&M Friday and Rice Saturday. Berl Huffman takes the baseballers to Alpine for games with Sul Ross Friday and Saturday.

Coach Don Sparks enters the Tech track team against University of Oklahoma and Kansas State at Norman Saturday.

The golfers last week downed Baylor 4-2 at Waco and split with Texas 3-3 at Austin.

FOX TAKES WIN

Frosh Overwhelm LCC, 10-2

Texas Tech freshman baseball team "spoke softly and carried a big stick" Wednesday, as they overwhelmed the LCC Pioneers 10-2.

Coaches' Clinic Starts Friday

Texas Tech's football coaches and Dr. John Cobb of the men's physical education department will be lecturers at the clinic for high school coaches here Friday and Saturday.

"Off-Season Training Programs" will be Dr. Cobb's topic.

Besides lectures there will be observation of the Red Raiders' practice session Friday afternoon and an intra-squad game Saturday afternoon.

Paced by the fine mound work of starter Eldon Fox and reliever Danny Davis, the Tech moundsmen were able to limit the Pioneers to two runs on only one hit while the home team amassed an impressive total of 10 runs on 12 hits.

Tech opened the scoring early in the first inning as Lee Walls polled a homerun shot over the right-centerfield fence. Tech scored two more runs in the top of the third as Walls got his second hit, a double, and Keller Smith of Lubbock sacrificed to bring the score to 3-0 at the end of three innings.

In the fourth, Hampy Kirby of LCC was very strong on the mound, as he held the Techsans scoreless on a walk by Tommy Thomas, a strike-out by catcher

Norm Schuesler and a double play on Fox's grounder to first.

The Tech nine came back strong in the fifth, scoring two runs on a pair of doubles by Smith and Davis with one on. First baseman Chuck Worrell ended the stanza by popping out to the infield.

LCC found range in the sixth inning as they finally broke the scoring ice with a pair of runs on a single hit. Not to be outdone, the Tech team also collected two scores on a walk, a bunt by Schuesler who went to second on an error, and a sacrifice bunt by Walls.

Neither squad was able to get a run across in the seventh although the Raiders loaded the bases with two out. Fox went down via a pop-up and the threat was ended.

Tech scored its last three runs in the top of the ninth inning on singles by Cris Galanos, Mike Hancock, Smith and Worrell.

Danny Davis entered the game in relief of the hard pitching Fox in the eighth and pitched two hitless innings.

The Pioneers tried an assortment of pitchers and hitters, but were unable to find the right combination to compete with the hard hitting Techsans who had one of their best afternoons of the season at the plate.
