'Finish Fight' Is Planned On Black Legion

Fear-Stricken Members Burning Robes, Officials Are Informed

DETROIT, May 29 (AP)—Reports that fear-stricken members of the Black Legion were burning their hoods and robes were received today as authorities planned a finish fight on the "terrorists."

Said Prosecutor Dudley Owen of Jackson county: "Some members are burning their robes. I do not think the remainder have the nerve to commit further violence."

Detective Richard Bowen said police had received a letter, written in human blood, warning officers to "lay off the Black Legion."

Wire From Cummings

From Washington, Attorney General Cummings suggested to Prosecutor Duncan V. McCrea at Detroit that any information indicating a federal offense has been committed by the Black Legion should be submitted to the justice department.

Cummings telegraphed McCrea in reply to an appeal for intervention of the justice department's bureau of investigation. His brief telegram said:

"As of course you are aware, the authority of the department of justice in criminal matters is limited to violations of federal statutes."

"If you have any information indicating that a federal offense has been committed, I would suggest that you send the same to the Federal department of justice at Washington."

Tax Inquiry Sought

Meanwhile, McCrea made a second attempt to enlist the aid of federal officials in his investigation of the Black Legion when he requested the department of internal revenue to inquire into the source of income of Vergil F. Effinger, Liman O. alleged district commander of the secret organization.

In a letter to Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, McCrea requested an investigation of Effinger's income, emphasizing that he undoubtedly received money from the sale of the black hoods and robes used by the terrorist band, and from the dues of thousands of members in his district comprising Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Woman Hurt In Car Mishap

Mrs. Douglass, Receives Fractures In Highway Collision

Mrs. William P. Douglass suffered fractures of the right arm and leg Friday morning in a car collision 12 miles west of here.

She was rushed to the Big Spring hospital where it was reported her arm was broken above the elbow and the femur fractured. Clyde Smith, Loraine, employe of the Plains Machinery Co. of Plainview, driver of the car which struck the Douglass car, told investigating officers that he apparently had gone to sleep at the wheel.

At the time of the accident the Douglass machine was parked at the side of the road while Douglass sought to find one of his dogs. Smith sustained a cut above the nose and a slight abrasion on one knee.

Liner Sets A Speed Record

Queen Mary's Day Run Beats That Of French Normandie

ABOARD THE QUEEN MARY, EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—The Queen Mary broke the French liner Normandie's record for a full 24-hour run, traveling 747 miles until noon, ship's time today. The Normandie's best day's run to the west was 744 miles. Cruising on schedule yesterday, the big vessel had made no attempt to challenge the Normandie's record until the huge engines were well broken in.

From shortly after the first midnight until noon yesterday, the Queen Mary made 326 miles, an average speed of 28.73 knots. The speed was stepped up to 31 knots to best the Normandie's record.

LONDON, May 29 (UP)—A lone stowaway was put ashore from the liner Queen Mary at Cherbourg, the News Chronicle correspondent aboard the liner reported today.

Feeders Day Program At U. S. Farm Likely To Be Passed Up This Year

Feeders Day program, celebrating the completion of the 150 day feeding test at the U. S. experiment farm, likely will not be held this year.

Two factors have combined to make the day impractical this year. The tests will not be completed until the middle of June or after and by that time it will be next to impossible to get speakers from the state agricultural college and extension services here for the program. Too, in the past, presence of a large crowd plus hot weather has tended to cause the stock to lose quite a bit of weight.

Money In Sight, If PWA Granted Its Share Of Fund

Hopes of an allotment through the Public Works administration for Big Spring's municipal reservoir project were quickened Friday, with indications that PWA money may be available for financing heavy construction work.

Before the senate today was a deficiency appropriation measure carrying a $1,425,000,000 allotment for next year's work relief. Of that sum, $300,000,000 would be set aside for Secretary Ickes' PWA, the agency through which Big Spring has applied for a federal grant to help finance the proposed Moss Springs dam and lake.

Has Been Approved

The local project has been approved by all divisions of PWA, and has been pending only because of lack of PWA funds. It had been earmarked for the reservoir if additional PWA money is allocated.

On the strength of recent developments in Washington, City Manager E. V. Spence Thursday wired Rep. George Mahon and Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, asking that they intercede in behalf of the Big Spring project.

A telegraphic reply had been received Friday from Sheppard who said "I shall be glad to contact senators and to do all I can in behalf of your project."

Mahon Letter

Spence also had received a letter from Mahon which said in part:

"I shall be glad to continue my contact with the PWA, doing all I possibly can to secure favorable action on this application. x x x I feel that the Big Spring application is in good standing and that we may consider the outlook if funds are made available."

The city's application is for a $225,000 direct PWA grant, representing 45 per cent of the estimated $500,000 cost of the lake project. The city would float bonds itself to finance the remainder. Previously a loan grant had been asked of PWA, but this was amended with the aim of expediting the application.

Frost Takes Post As ABC President

Charles Frost was installed Friday as president of the American Business Club, succeeding Durward Carnett, first president of the chapter.

Other officers installed were Dr. Preston R. Sanders, vice-president; J. W. Joiner, secretary; C. A. Amos, treasurer; Hank McDaniel, sergeant-at-arms; Roy Reeder, Hugh Duncan, Dr. Harvey Kennedy and Howard Thomas, members of the board of governors.

AUTOMOBILE MISHAP DEATHS ON INCREASE

CHICAGO, May 29 (UP)—The highway lure of fine spring weather has counteracted beneficial effects of safe-driving campaigns in cities, the national safety council reported today.

Automobile deaths increased in cities during the first quarter, the council said. Rural districts, however, reported about the same number of fatal accidents as in 1935.

Deaths in April totaled 2,460, compared to 2,590 in 1935. Fatalities during the first four months this year totaled 9,250, a reduction of six per cent from the 10,230 during the corresponding period last year.

Fall River, Mass., with a population of 115,000, is the largest city in the country without a traffic fatality this year.

FORD RETURNS HERE; TURMAN TO CORPUS CHRISTI

Steve Ford returned here Thursday night after a several weeks trip to Fort Worth, Houston, Corpus Christi and other Texas points in company with his son-in-law, L. C. Turman of Mexico City.

Ford announced that Turman and his wife, the former Zillah Mae Ford of Big Spring, and their children, would move at once to Corpus Christi, where Turman will be engaged in oil activities. Turman went Thursday to Mexico City to dispose of his home there and to accompany his family back to Texas. Mrs. Ford has been in Mexico City for some time, visiting her daughter.

Ford planned to leave here in a few days with his son, Jimmy, for a stay in Corpus Christi.

OPEN BIDS FOR LOCAL P. O. WORK

Prices Range From $94,000 To $104,000; Contract Not Awarded

Bids for construction of a post office building here were opened today by the treasury department in Washington but letting of a contract for construction was delayed pending study by the department.

According to Associated Press, Templeton-Cannon, San Angelo, was low bidder on the project with a figure of $94,350. Algernon Blair, Montgomery, Ala., submitted a bid of $99,487, and A. Cornell Blair, Petersburg, Va., bid $104,952.

Later Bid

E. L. Martin of Dallas gave notice of intention to submit a bid later.

The building, to be a one story, stone and brick affair, will be located at Fourth and Scoury street just north of the First Methodist church.

While box space will not be much larger, the building will carry more office room and vaults.

Big Spring has been in line for a new post office building since the action of congress in 1930 in making an appropriation for the structure. The figure was raised and then subsequently cut in keeping with the economy acts. Bids were asked in 1933 and then refused because the lowest was far in excess. Further economies by the government caused removal of the project from the eligible list but it was restored in 1934.

Plans were completed in April and bids asked early in May.

MAP PLAN TO TAKE SCOUTS TO CAMP

Big Spring Boy Scouts will join in a cooperative plan for transportation to camp this year, it was voted Thursday.

Following discussions on the camping dates, scouts voted to send the Big Spring boys the first two weeks of the camp which starts June 16. It was estimated 70 boys would go from here.

Camp will be held near Barksdale on the Nueces river in Edwards county.

A group of Big Spring men headed by Carl Blomfield, chairman of the camping committee, will make a trip to the camp site this week-end to complete arrangements for the camp.

Japan Boosts China Forces

Situation Tense; China Foresees Resistance By Armed Force

TIENSIN, May 29 (AP)—Japan, defying official Chinese protests, sent 3,000 more troops into North China garrisons today. Reinforcements for strengthened Japanese garrisons at Tientsin, Peiping and Fengtai seriously aggravated the tense situation, giving rise to declarations among Chinese that China must prepare to resist further the Japanese incursions by force.

The powerful Southwest government of Canton joined the central administration at Nanking in protesting the North China troop incursions.

Trouble had been renewed yesterday when Japanese officials demanded that Chinese authorities stamp out a strike by thousands of students who called upon China to "rise against the Japanese invasion."

Upon Japanese demands, Chinese police were sent to patrol the streets. Students had marched through them spreading anti-Japanese pamphlets denouncing smuggling in North China and Japan's recent heavy reinforcement of its Tientsin and Peiping garrisons.

(The Chinese government protested both these situations to Tokyo without avail.)

WORKERS PUT ON ALL AVAILABLE JOBS

After a threatened shortage of unskilled labor for highway jobs, the national re-employment service office this week had all available jobs assigned.

Only about half of 80 men requisitioned for Monday had gone to work by the middle of the week due to the weather. Several were called on Wednesday when topping of highway No. 9 north from Fairview toward Big Spring was started.

Widening Of Hwy. 1 Urged By Road Body

Publicity Campaign For Broadway Of America Also Favored

Resolutions urging the state highway commission to widen highway 1 through Texas and calling for the immediate launching of a $3,000 campaign to publicize the Broadway of America were adopted at the first state meeting of the Broadway of America association, held Thursday in Colorado.

A group of Big Spring citizens, including Grover C. Dunham, president of the chamber of commerce; W. T. Strange, manager; Calvin Boykin, Fox Stripling, Dave Tobolsky, Rev. G. C. Schurman and Joe Farr, registered at the Colorado meeting.

The two resolutions, along with others asking for the appropriation of a fund to assist in establishing a national park in the Big Bend territory, were submitted by the resolutions committee, composed of Gail E. Bately of Sweetwater, John Chamberlain of Mineral Wells and T. N. Carswell of Abilene. The publicity recommendation provided that Texas should furnish $1,200 of the $3,000 cost of the campaign.

A talk by Henry W. Stanley of Dallas, national president of the association, featured the morning program. He told of the benefit to merchants and business men from the "tourist dollar." Mayor J. A. Sadler of Colorado delivered the welcome address, with response from T. M. Callum of Dallas, J. R. Chaney of El Paso, first vice-president of the national-wide group, presided. Other morning talks were delivered by J. H. Green of Colorado, Chaney of El Paso, R. A. Thompson of Dallas, Dudley Yard of Pecos and Mr. Barber of Sweetwater.

Delegates were guests at a luncheon given by the Colorado chamber of commerce luncheon club and the Lions club at noon. Rev. P. D. O'Brien, Baptist minister, presided and program numbers included solos by Mrs. Foy Proctor of Midland, with Mrs. Fred Wilcox of Midland, accompanying, and accordion selections by Mrs. Beatrice Jamison of Sweetwater.

During the afternoon session, Yard, Pecos resident, talked on "How to Hold Tourists in West Texas." Barber led a round-table discussion.

Delegates were registered from Dallas, Fort Worth, Putnam, Eastland, Midland, Weatherford, Pecos, Sweetwater, Ranger, Colorado, El Paso, Big Spring, Baird, Mineral Wells, Abilene, Van Horn, Odessa, Cisco and Lorraine.

100 Men Work At Cemetery

Efforts of several score workers Thursday left the cemetery clean for the first time in many years. Approximately 100 men took part in the clean-up campaign which lasted all day. Of this number, 56 were placed by the national re-employment service and paid by individuals. An additional 10 men were hired privately and sent by citizens to assist in the work.

A large group of volunteer workers gave a day's labor in helping put the burying ground in order. Of this contingent, candidates were in the majority and put in a hard day of work.

Ed Merrill, in charge of the movement to put the graveyard in order, expressed satisfaction with results of the campaign.

Trucks were furnished by the county and the city furnished hand tools for the workers.

GREER RANCH GETS BENEFICIAL RAINS

Rancher, reports good rains over his 24-section range. Most of the pasture has received as much as three inches of moisture, he says. Last week he sold 258 dogs and cut-backs for an average of six cents to a Mason buyer who will in turn ship them to Kentucky. Because his range is not overstocked, Greer has not had to feed his sheep this spring and says that they are in excellent condition.

Coastal Areas Threatened By Flood Damage

Nearly All Texas Receives Moisture; Good Showers Received Here

(By the Associated Press)

The hardest May rain in years continued to drench Texas today, causing many streams to rise dangerously in the coastal region. The weather bureau reported El Paso as the only point not having rain in the past 24 hours.

At Dallas, the Trinity river was rising near the flood stage. The Guadalupe and San Marcos rivers were receding.

Families Forced Out

The Brazos had shoved back waters over thousands of acres of lowlands between East and West Columbia forcing families to flee homes, and at the Darrington prison farm 18 miles north of East Columbia. Bottoms and lowlands along the Guadalupe and San Marcos rivers were under water.

Cotton and corn crops on thousands of acres had been threatened, but receding waters today on the two streams gave rise to hopes that damage would be light unless more rains fall.

Brazos Area Traffic Difficult

A new rise in the Colorado was reported at Columbus, where the stream stood at 25 feet, and another foot was expected Friday.

Highway traffic in the Brazos area was difficult. Routings to Corpus Christi and the Rio Grande valley were by way of Rosenberg, East Bernard, Hungerford and Wharton; to Bay City by the same route; and to West Columbia through Rosenberg.

"Dust Bowl" Wet More

Petting rains continued to fall on most of the state Thursday and Friday. The Panhandle rain belt moved to the eastern half, covering most of the area from Higgins on the north to Sterley on the south and from Amarillo east to Oklahoma.

Rain filled the edges of the "dust bowl" in Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma also. Farmers and county agents at Springfield, Colo., said the downpour was the heaviest in years. At Clovis, N. M., hard hit by dust storms this year, an all-time record for rains in May was set when 6.95 inches fell in one week. The entire eastern section of New Mexico received rain.

More Than Half-Inch Recorded In This Area

Rains dotted the Big Spring area again Friday, bringing more than a half inch of moisture in many places.

Gauges at the U. S. Experiment Farm and the D.O.C. weather bureau at the airport showed .44 and .71 inches, respectively.

Regions to the west and northwest of here reported heaviest falls. While farmers in most quarters have got in part of their planting, they grew anxious Friday to finish the job which dry weather had prevented until less than two weeks ago and wet weather has delayed since then.

GROUP READY TO AID LANDON IF AGREEMENT CAN BE MADE

Easterners Oppose Naming Of His Campaign Manager As Committee Chief

TOPEKA, May 29 (AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon announced today that John D. M. Hamilton, Kansas national committeeman, would place Landon's name in nomination for the presidency by the republican national convention in Cleveland.

Hamilton, organizer of the Landon-for-president committee and the Kansas governor's campaign manager, is a district delegate to the convention.

WASHINGTON, May 29 (UP)—Eastern republican leaders were said today by authoritative party members to want an agreement with Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas which would remove practically all obstacles to his early nomination in Cleveland next month.

The United Press was informed an effort will be made to obtain from Landon a promise that John D. M. Hamilton would not be named chairman of the republican national committee if Landon were nominated. Hamilton, a Kansas lawyer, is Landon's campaign manager.

Pressure on eastern leaders in Landon's behalf is sufficient to explain, in part at least, why the original plan to prevent his nomination may have been altered by developments of the past few months. In the New York delegation there has been an active Landon movement and yesterday six of New York's 90 votes were publicly pledged to Landon by delegates who refuse to wait for their leader to make up his mind.

Observers place varying interpretations on recent developments of the stop-Landon movement. Some persons well placed to obtain accurate information are convinced, however, that the suspect phase is

MEMORIAL DAY DRIVERS FACE FUEL-SPEED GAMBLE

FUEL SUPPLY REDUCED; RACE COURSE IMPROVED

Cars And Drivers To Grind Out 500 Miles In Less Than Four Hours Over Indianapolis Bricks

By JOHN L. CUTLER United Press Staff Correspondent INDIANAPOLIS, May 29. (UP)—Although cars and drivers will grind out 500 miles in a little less than four hours over Indianapolis Motor Speedway's bricks tomorrow, the 24th annual Memorial Day race will be won in the pits, a majority of the contestants believe.

WINNERS SINCE 1ST RACE IN '11

Table with columns: Year, Driver, Average MPH. Lists winners from 1911 to 1935, including names like Ray Harroun, Joe Dawson, Rene Thomas, etc.

The improved turns encourage the drivers to push their machines to speeds at which the powerful little motors gulp the fuel supply.

While the drivers concentrate every faculty on keeping the pace in the fastest company in the world, it will be the job of the pit handlers to hold them within limits they are sure will conserve enough gasoline for the closing rush toward the finish line.

As a result of the new fuel restrictions, five gallons less than was permitted for the 1935 race, opinion among the drivers is divided almost equally as to whether this year's event will produce a new record for the 500 miles.

Kelly Pettilo, smiling little Italian-American who took his driving lessons piloting truckloads of perishable fruit across Rocky Mountain passes, set a record of 106.85 miles an hour in winning last year's race.

Cocksure young drivers whose creed is "push your foot to the floor and go" are confident they can beat that mark.

Older heads, especially those mechanical engineers who build their own machines and have a greater respect for the fuel limitations, are not so sure.

In keeping with the greater importance of the pit management, the 1936 race sees the return of one of the outstanding drivers of two decades ago—Ralph DePalma, retired now to engineering. He brings a newcomer, Henry Banks, 24, Royal Oak, Mich.

Harry "Cotton" Henning, probably the most publicized of the mechanics, will supervise the pits of three of the pre-race favorites, the entrants of Mike Boyle, Chicago sportsman.

The cars Henning will direct will be driven by Bill Cummings, Indianapolis, winner of the 1934 race, and Al Miller and Chet Miller, both of Detroit but no relation and both ranked with the most consistent of conservative pilots.

Harry Hartz, Los Angeles automobile genius whose luck in the speedway race has won him the designation as "the greatest second money winner of all time," will guide Ted Horn, Los Angeles, another newcomer.

Pettilo, who assembled the winning car for 1935 with an assortment of parts, has withdrawn from active competition but will coach from the sidelines while George "Doc" McKenzie, Eddington, Fa-hoes the driving.

Regardless of gasoline limitations and the more conservative ideas of the pit managers, a speed over 100 miles an hour probably will be necessary to win the race.

Four Trojans Rated At Top For Olympics

Cope And Staley In High Hurdles; Meadows, Sefton Pole Vault

LOS ANGELES, May 29. (UP)—Four young men, ranked high as candidates for Uncle Sam's Olympic team this summer, are making track and field history at the University of Southern California.

So nearly alike they might be considered twins, Phil Cope and Roy Staley in the high hurdles and Ed Meadows and Bill Sefton in the pole vault are standouts on the defending national champion Trojan varsity, considered the most powerful squad in the nation.

Cope and Staley already are world champions while Meadows and Sefton rarely vault below 14 feet and they menace the world mark every Saturday afternoon.

The two star timber-toppers are the pride of Coach Dean Cromwell, veteran Trojan coach at U. S. C. for the past 30 years and assistant Olympic coach. Both juniors and only 21, Cope and Staley elminated brilliant prep and collegiate careers as sophomores last year by running a dead heat against Ohio State to tie Percy Beard's world record of 14.3 seconds.

In his first big meet this year, Cope hit 14.3 against California, with Staley a bare foot behind. A week later against Stanford, Cope again tied the world's record, with Staley a close second. Cope was national high school champion in 1933 at Oklahoma City. His team-mate is from Santa Monica, Cal., where he was timed at 14.8 as a high school boy.

As for the pole vault, Cromwell has four men consistent over 13 feet 6 inches and usually can count on at least first and second in any meet. He confidently expects to see Meadows and Sefton win Olympic laurels at Berlin in August. Following in the footsteps of World Champion Bill Graber from U. S. C., these two Trojans are probably the best collegiate vaulters in the country.

Missed World Mark Meadows cleared 14 feet, 3 inches earlier this season and missed Keith Brown's world mark of 14.5-1.5 by the smallest margin. Vaulting over 13 feet while still in the high school at Fort Worth, Meadows tied with Sefton to win the national collegiate last year at 14 feet, 1-8 inches and hung up his best mark against Stanford in 1935 with 14 feet, 3-7-8 inches.

Sefton still holds the world intercollegiate record at 13 feet 6-1-3 inches at Los Angeles Poly high and tied with Meadows in three big meets last year, the national collegiate, national A. U., and second in the I. C. A. A.

All four of these Trojans are seasoned competitors and can stand the strain of national finals in New York. Cope and Sefton were in Europe with traveling A. U. teams last summer and expect to go again this year with a half dozen or more fellow Trojans—this time with a free round trip ticket to Berlin.

ROBBINS TO MEET JIM WALKUP

By ORIE BRISTOW (Special Correspondent) MINERAL WELLS, May 29.—Greens were still soggy and the weather not too promising as your correspondent and a hundred or more other golfers started the first round of play this morning in the annual invitation tournament of the West Texas Golf Association.

The writer would like to give a bush by bush description of his snappy 73, but telegraph charges on a description of that round would be prohibitive.

Three of the Big Spring boys, Shirley Robbins, Douglas Jones and Oble Bristow (ahem) found the championship flight. Robbins drew the tough assignment of meeting Jimmy Walkup of Fort Worth. Bristow meets Himmel of Mineral Wells and Jones plays Makur of Mineral Wells.

Big Spring's star four-man golf team composed of Frank Morgan, Robbins, Jones and Bristow won a contest against the field with a total score of 311. Morgan shot an 85, Robbins a 77, Jones 70 and Bristow 75 (ahem).

Carl Young qualified with an 89, Lee Hubby with a 90, A. H. Davidson with a 90, A. L. Rogers with 101, and T. J. Coffee with 102.

Tommy Cochran, former state champion, was the favorite in the Calcutta, with Reesor, former Oklahoma champion, a close second. Lehman and Norton were also on sale, but they ran a poor race.

Amos Melton, Fort Worth scribe, is still sulky because The Herald's correspondent scooped him yesterday and refuses to lend the writer his picture machine. I have written several mothers for pictures, but most of 'em show up at about the age of four. I'm trying to make arrangements for a picture of the medalist, Norton, at the age of three.

STEERS COAST TO 10-4 VICTORY

(By The Associated Press) Texas League clean-up: Jumping on southpaw George Miltstead for a half dozen runs in the first inning, the Dallas Steers coasted to an easy 10-4 win over the Tulsa Oilers yesterday and made it three out of the series of four. Sal Glatto was reached for 11 hits but his comfortable lead never was endangered. Johnny Waco who relieved Miltstead with one out in the first pitched fair ball the rest of the game.

Oklahoma City battered the hapless Fort Worth Cats, taking both ends of a double-header, 4 to 3, and 4 to 2. Shealy for the Indians and Stely, hurling for the Cats, were on almost even terms in the opener. Each struck out two each allowed five passes to first. Klarnier gained credit for a victory in the abbreviated nightcap in which he allowed seven hits while Ginn held the Tribe to five safeties.

DON'T TREAT CONSTIPATION LIGHTLY

Poor Health May Be the Price of Neglect

Too many people dismiss common constipation as a matter of no great consequence. Yet this condition causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. When it is allowed to continue, it may lower your resistance, and so increase your chances of catching a serious illness.

Common constipation often develops when you eat meals that lack sufficient "bulk." Your system fails to get needed internal exercise. Fortunately, today, you have a generous source of effective "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass, which gently cleanses the system. This natural laxative food also supplies vitamin B and contains iron.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN often. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk"

FIST FIGHTS IN CUB-CINCY GAME

(By the Associated Press) American and National League summary:

A pair of first fights at home plate in the third inning of yesterday's Cub-Cincinnati game resulted in the banishment of Pitcher Leo Stine of the Reds, Captain Woody English of the Cubs, and Coaches George Kelly and Roy Johnson, of Cincinnati and Chicago, respectively.

The melee occurred during a big inning in which the Cubs scored seven runs. With the bases filled, English on third, Len Warneke on second and Stan Hack on first, Billy Herman lifted a fig to right fielder Ival Goodman. English raced home after the catch and as he crossed the plate, exchanged warm remarks with Stine who was backing up the play. In a second both players were trading punches. Members of both teams gathered around the plate. Umpire Bill Stewart ordered the pugilistic quartet from the field and the game was resumed.

The St. Louis Cardinals lost their second game in a row to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 2, but regained undisputed possession of the National league lead. The defeat, tying up the series with the Pirates, left the Cardinals a half game ahead of the New York Giants, who dropped both halves of a doubleheader to Boston.

A home run by Wally Berger in the ninth enabled the Boston Bees to hold their edge and defeat the Giants, 5 to 4, in the nightcap of a doubleheader, after taking the first game, 4 to 3. The double defeat knocked the New Yorkers out of first place in the National.

Dodgers Sink Phils The Brooklyn Dodgers sank the Phillies, 13 to 10, back into the National league cellar with a six-run rally in the ninth, after the Phils had gone out in front by scoring five in the seventh. Johnny Moore hit his ninth homer of the season for the Phils.

With Rookie Joe DiMaggio getting two singles and a triple to lead the parade, the New York Yankees stretched their American league lead to two and a half games by downing the Red Sox, 10 to 6.

The Chicago White Sox bunched four hits, one a home run by Hayes, with a base on balls in the ninth inning to beat Detroit, 6 to 5. The rally came after Goose Goslin's home run in the eighth with the bases filled had put the Tigers in the lead.

Washington and Philadelphia split a doubleheader, the Athletics winning the first, 4 to 3, in 10 innings, and the Senators taking the nightcap, 5 to 0.

Cleveland defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 5, after trailing 4 to 2 at the end of the sixth inning. Hale's homer put the Tribe ahead in the seventh, scoring Allen, Gatzert and Knickerbocker, after two Indians had been retired.

GAME WITH LORRAINE ON JUNE 7

Manager Spike Henninger of the Cosden Oilers was attempting this morning to make arrangements to play Miles here Sunday.

Miles, a member of the strong Concho Basin League this year, rates as one of the section's strongest aggregations, and Henninger has been trying to arrange a game for several days.

On Sunday, June 7, the Oilers will play Loraine here. Cosden and Loraine have met twice this season, and the Refiners nosed out winner in the first game, 2 to 1. In a seven inning affair last week, Loraine squared matters with a 4-1 decision.

The Cosden softball team plays the Magnolia Flyers of Abilene here tomorrow night.

By RUTH ORR

PATTERN NO. 298

The motif forms a hexagon that measures three inches across, done in No. 30 mercerized crochet cotton, while in the soft knitting and crochet cotton, for a bedspread, it measures 5 inches across.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions, with diagrams to aid you; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 298 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 206, Station D, New York, N. Y. (Copyright, 1936, the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Hot Specials

A 1 lb. pkg. Chase & Sanborn Coffee 21c. When you make you want to use the best flour; and those who have used Red & White know that it is the best; but when this can be bought at an astoundingly low price, it simplifies your baking problems. We offer you this fine flour at $1.09 for a 48 pound sack. Is that hot? You know what you have been paying for sugar recently; well with a purchase of $1 or more Saturday, we are going to let you have a 30 pound sack for 40c. We don't have to ask you. That is hot! Takes lots of soap to get the mud and perspiration out of things these days, so our help to you for this purpose is to offer you 14 bars (think of it) of Red & White Laundry soap for two bits.

Others

For these meatless meals that we all stress from this time of year on, we want to offer you the famous Blue and White ready prepared spaghetti at 3 cans for 25c. All this needs is to be heated and served. It already contains the cheese and what goes with it. When friend hubby gets home late from golf or Midland Downs, you can fix him up with this while he is washing his hands, and have a little dinner. Then neither of you will have to worry about his indigestion, dyspepsia, or what has he. We feel sure you don't have more than a part of a box of matches in the house to save your name, so while you are getting your Red and White flour, sugar, laundry soap and spaghetti Saturday, take along six boxes of matches for 15c. Less than hubby paid for his last package of cigarettes.

Vegetables

All the "Doubting Thomases" are satisfied that it can rain here now and have begun to concentrate on getting rid of mosquitoes and worms and such, but despite rumors to the contrary, our Valley truck got through and brought us a nice lot of fresh vegetables for you tomorrow. You will find our regular good line of vegetables on the rack, at prices that will even please the boss.

James Roosevelt Talks Wild West, If You Believe London Journals

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—Harvard-educated James Roosevelt, eldest son of the president, picked up a new accent within 24 hours of his arrival in England—but not a British accent.

The tall, sunny-smiling American, who uses a fastidious Back Bay Boston accent, found that his interview with British journalists came out in print in the phraseology of an old-time Wild West cowboy.

"Gosh!" he was quoted as saying, when asked what people in the United States thought about the maiden voyage of the giant new liner Queen Mary. "I reckon I guess about half the good ole U. S. A. is a-comin' over here to sail back on 'er!"

"My Word! How 'strawdinary!" The tendency to dress up every visiting American as a verbal Daniel Boone, whether university professor or Nobel prize winner, is as hard-dying in England as the tradition, in America, that every Briton was a monoch, spats, silk top hat and drops alitches by the bushel.

A typical example of this deathless guff appeared recently in a London newspaper—a cartoon depicting a "typical" American, clad in flaring plus-fours and a ten-gallon hat, standing in front of the English Speaking Union headquarters in London.

"Say!" he addresses the high-chinned British doorman. "We guys kinda blab the same lingo, huh, pardner?"

Coincidentally, the humorous magazine Punch called its readers with an example of what happens when an English vicar attempts to pronounce an American song title: "You can't do that, the-ah-he-ah-ah!"

"Why Hoow Yaw Talk!" Americans puzzled to hear their own self-description of their nationality come out as "Amurrican," as jibingly repeated by Britons, may wonder who speaks the "King's English" when they overhear some such conversation as this between two London debutantes: "Oh, I dent nyow, rely. I seppose seh—"

"Relly?" "Um. Bet dent breathe it to a sewl!"

Services Held For San Angelo Banker SAN ANGELO, May 29—Funeral services for O. C. Cartwright, vice president and cashier of the Central National bank, were held from the First Christian church here

Ambassador Robert W. Bingham, after three years' residence in England, has told London banquet audiences that "there is no American accent; the educated speech of both countries is the same"—but James Roosevelt, with a brand-new cowboy accent bestowed on him by the British press, may feel inclined to retort: "Wa-al, pardner, you shore are wrong!"

OLD-TIME COWBOYS TO HAVE A PART IN STAMFORD RODEO

STAMFORD, May 29.—Veteran cowboys who rode the ranges or went up the long cattle trails in the days of the open range will hold their seventh annual round-up in Stamford during the Texas Cowboy reunion July 2, 3 and 4.

During the meeting, the old-time cowhands will elect officers for their association, which limits its membership to cowboys or cattlemen who saw service no less than 35 years ago. Clyde Burnett, Benjamin cattleman and former trail driver, is president of the organization this year and will preside over the July meeting.

In their gathering here during the reunion each year, the oldtimers revive memories of the old west, swap yarns and renew acquaintances. All members in good standing are guests of the reunion management during their stay in the city. Their membership badges are engraved in stone. One of the rodeo events each year is the oldtime outfit-ropers contest, which is limited to cowboys 55 years of age and over. A fine saddle is the prize for the winner.

The veteran cowhands are among the most enthusiastic spectators at the cowboy rodeo and their participation is not confined altogether to the grandstand. He came here Dec. 31, 1907, after having been elected assistant cashier at the time of the Central National's organization, when it was known as the San Angelo Bank and Trust company. His widow survives. The commercial process of making gasoline, known as "cracking," was developed about 25 years ago.

Only $730 — and winning fame as the smoothest EIGHT in the world
Reserve all judgments of eight performance until you drive this car
AFTER ALL, the smoothest eight is the eight you want to buy. So make no decision until you drive the Pontiac. For this is the eight with built-in smoothness. In fact, Pontiac's powerful engine has no vibration point at any speed—due to incredibly accurate balance of rotating parts, a rigid, short-stroke crankshaft with overlapping bearings, and the harmonic balancer introduced by Pontiac. Yes, you'll learn about smoothness from the Pontiac Eight—and that's not all! The fast, sure action of Pontiac's big, triple-sealed, hydraulic brakes will be another revelation. So will the comfort of the spacious "Turret-Top" Fisher Bodies. And when you count the cost of owning the smoothest eight, you get another surprise! Under official supervision, the Pontiac Eight has delivered 22 miles to the gallon. And you can buy it for about the price of many sixes! These are the facts. Now test what they mean in greater all-around satisfaction. Drive the Pontiac Eight for just ten minutes. That's enough to prove, once and for all, that your search for super-smoothness is over.
*List prices at Pontiac, Mich., begin at $615 for the Six and $730 for the Eight (subject to change without notice). Safety plate glass standard on Du Luxe Six and Eight. Rice Salads For Picnics

A favorite in "bowling along" to joining the party in a steak mold, rice salads may be carried without fear of spoiling and are simple and easy to serve. For porch or garden party they are equally popular, because this substantial and refreshing ingredient, combined with fish or meat, becomes the main dish of the party, and with rolls or thin bread and butter sandwiches, a beverage and dessert completes the perfect table.

If you've never tried "bowling" begin now on some of the new salad recipes given below, or mold one for your picnic; they're a picnic themselves—to make!

Rice and Green Onion Salad
1 cup cooked rice.
1 teaspoon, chopped parsley.
3 green onions.
French dressing.
Lettuce.
Paprika.
1 cup cottage cheese.
Combine the chopped green onions, parsley, and cooked rice. Marinate with French dressing.

Serve on lettuce leaf with a spoonful of ball of cottage cheese garnished with a dash of paprika. Four servings.

Rice and Carrot Salad
2 cups boiled rice.
1-2 cup green pepper, cut into shreds.
One onion, finely cut.
French dressing.
1-2 cup cooked carrots, sliced.
Lettuce.

Mix vegetables and add enough dressing to moisten well, place on salad dish, garnish with hearts of lettuce and cheese balls. Five servings.

1 cup boiled rice.
1-3 cup mayonnaise.
1 cup diced cooked chicken.
2 tablespoons chopped nut meats.
Salt and pepper to taste.
1 small can asparagus tips.

Mix thoroughly the rice, chicken, asparagus and mayonnaise. Add nuts and seasoning. Pack firmly into molds and chill for three hours. Unmold, garnish with salad greens. Serve in slices, with mayonnaise. Six servings.

Ready-to-Serve Meats For Spring

By MARTHA LOGAN

Not new but certainly "different" are the ready-to-serve meats. They are prepared in large variety, each different from the other in texture, flavor and seasoning. You may easily purchase an assortment that will find favor with every member of the family.

Meat served cold is more appropriate to the service on many occasions, it combines better with the menu, and is more appealing to the appetite than if it were served hot.

On warm spring days and in the hot summer, no one wants to spend any more time in the kitchen over a broiling stove than is absolutely necessary, of course.

So, when menu-making for spring and summer meals, we must use thought-power instead of foot-power!

Menus should be planned ahead of time with an eye to the amount of work necessary to materialize them. Meals should be lighter, too, in warm weather, because the body needs less heating foods than in winter.

Since the principal meal of the day is planned around the meat course, it behooves us to pay close attention to the meat we buy. The ready-to-serve meats certainly satisfy the first requirement—appetite appeal. Of all shades of an appetizing pink and red, they combine well with all of the spring vegetable greens, and delight with their colorful display.

They fill the second bill, cooling combinations, because they may be served with all kinds of green salads as a main course for any meal. Besides, the cold meats are suggestive of coolness, when combined with crisp, cold salads. And these ready-to-serve meats are certainly time-savers! All you have to do is buy them, put the slices on a platter, and you have a meal in less time than it takes to tell about it!

For a Sunday night supper, when just a snack or so of something substantial is wanted with a salad and a beverage, a cold meat dish is appropriate, delicious and most attractive. Large platters of several kinds of ready-to-serve meats may be arranged buffet style, so that the family or guests may take their choice.

Sometimes the meat platter may be a more elaborate affair, with a potato or vegetable salad in the center, surrounded first by a bed of shredded lettuce, and then with the variety of cold meat slices.

Here is a suggestion for an attractive buffet luncheon or supper using the ready-to-serve meats:

Assorted Ready-to-serve Meats
Cottage Cheese with Toasted Almonds
Combination Salad Hot Rolls
Jelly
Peppermint Stick Ice Cream
Angel Food Cake
Salted Nuts
Coffee

Cold Meat Platter
In the center of a large platter arrange a mound of cottage cheese combined with toasted salted almonds. Sprinkle the cheese with minced chives. Surround the mound of cheese with some vegetable green—parsley, lettuce, watercress or endive. Around this arrange an assortment of ready-to-serve meats. Garnish the platter with radish roses, pickle fans and olives.

With Three Million Already Spent On It, Shelter Belt To Be Written Off As An Impractical Experiment

WASHINGTON, May 20 (UP)—The $100,000,000 great plains shelterbelt project, designed to prevent deterioration of midwestern farm land by planting a wide strip of trees from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, has been assigned to the limbo of projects tried and found wanting.

Widely acclaimed as the salvation of millions of acres of farm land when it was proposed by President Roosevelt two years ago, the project is to be "liquidated" this year. The nearly $3,000,000 already spent on it is to be written off as experimental work found impractical. The program laid down by Mr.

Roosevelt envisioned millions of young trees planted in a shelterbelt strip 100 miles wide, extending through the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and into the Texas Panhandle.

Agriculture department officials still have faith in the project, but congress, which must supply the money if the project is to be finished, overruled the department's requests for further funds.

The forest service, which has charge of the project, convinced the budget bureau that it should have $1,000,000 additional to go on with the work in the fiscal year 1936-37. But the house appropriation committee rejected the item.

The $1,000,000 was restored by the senate, only to be reduced to $170,000 by a conference committee. House opposition to the item was led by Reps. Louis Ludlow, D., Ind., and Lloyd Thurston, R., Ia.

"The cost of planting those millions of trees would be 10 times the value of the help it might render to farm land," Thurston said.

"We've carefully worded the conference report so they've got to quit the whole business and liquidate it. They won't be able to get around our decision by finding money some other place."

Officials said thus far approximately 1,525 miles of "strip" planting and about 10,000 acres of "farmstead" planting had been carried out.

A "strip" is about 100 feet wide, and contains 10 or 12 rows of trees planted at six-foot intervals. "Farmstead" is planting from 1,000 to 1,200 trees on each acre of land near homes, schools or other isolated buildings when soil is threatened with depletion.

Cost of work thus far placed at about 2.5 cents per tree. Some 60,000,000 trees, raised in nurseries especially for the shelterbelt, now must be distributed to farmers under the terms of the new agricultural department appropriation bill.

The forest service said it could still cooperate with state governments in establishing shelterbelts under the 1924 Clarke-McNary bill, which authorized the federal government to assist states in this type of work.

It is estimated that the average motor vehicle consumes more than 600 gallons of gasoline annually. In 1926 annual consumption was only 520 gallons.

RICHARDS TAKES ON HAZARDOUS FLYING JOB IN LOUISIANA

T. J. Richards, former resident of Big Spring where he conducted a flying school and charter plane service for a time, has taken over a hazardous job in the flying business.

He is dusting cotton for worms in Louisiana for a wage of approximately $20 a day. In this work the plane flies low over the field. After work he will move to Florida and dust citrus fruit. Richards was reported to be contemplating work as a test pilot.

A former rodeo star, Richards was a participant in the rodeo put on by Tex Austin in London two years ago. He recently has been in Colorado, going to Louisiana, from there.

NOTICE OF BANKRUPTCY PETITION FOR DISCHARGE
In the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Texas
IN THE MATTER OF EMINENTINE CHALK, BANKRUPT
No. 1700 IN BANKRUPTCY
OFFICE OF REFEREE
Abilene, Texas, May 28, 1936

Notice is hereby given that Eminentine Chalk of the County of Howard, and district aforesaid, did on the 15th day of May, 1936 file in the Clerk's office of said Court at Abilene, a petition setting up that she has been heretofore duly adjudged a bankrupt under the act of Congress approved July 1, 1936; that she has duly surrendered all her property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said act and of the orders of the court touching her bankruptcy and praying for a full discharge from all debts provable against her estate in bankruptcy, save such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

On considering the above mentioned petition, it is ordered that any creditor who has proved his claim, and other parties in interest, if they desire to oppose the discharge prayed for in said petition, shall, on or before the 30th day of June, 1936, file with the Referee for the Abilene Division of said district, a notice in writing of their objection, and a discharge in the above entitled cause.

Referee in Bankruptcy.

The recent boom for Frank O. Lowden of Illinois is interpreted in that light. Lowden is well paid and the likelihood of his nomination under any circumstances except acute emergency is not considered to amount to much. But if Lowden or any other republican could be pushed to the front far enough to frighten Landon it might be possible to drive a bargain with the Kansas governor. That bargain, the United Press was informed, would be a promise that if nominated the national committee chairmanship would not be handed to Hamilton.

Landon backers are described as so confident their man will be nominated that there is small chance of foreclosing the chairmanship against Hamilton. If they refuse all overtures the stop-Landon movement may assume new significance. Back of the anti-Hamilton drive is said to be a long period of political animosity between Hamilton and Hillis.

more directed toward stopping Hamilton than stopping Landon. It is understood that several potential republican nominees have been approached by representatives of Charles D. Hillis of New York and J. Henry Rorabock of Connecticut, republican national committeemen for their respective states. There are indications the representatives of eastern republican leaders were more interested in finding a "stalking horse" candidate to oppose Landon for bargaining purposes than attempting to center upon a man for whom the republican nomination would be

SCIENCE ON THE FRONTIER

Conceivably, Centennial year will bring tourists who still think of Texas as a wild frontier, with bands of frolicsome cowboys shooting up adobe villages. There probably are some people who still have that mental picture of Texas.

If so, they will get a first surprise when they visit cities such as Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio. But then suppose they go on west, feeling they're finding the last stronghold of the familiar Southwest of fiction. If, after passing through modern, thriving towns, they should drive up a fine highway toward the top of Mount Locke, in the Davis Mountains, looking back on quiet ranch houses and miles of tree-fringed hills, they will meet still another surprise. They will see a crew of workmen busy in a new round-domed structure. If they inquire, they will find that the second largest reflector telescope in the world is being installed there, the work of fitting the enormous mirror reflector disc of glass in place now under way.

They will find, a mile up on Mount Locke, one of the world's outposts of science, an institution and plant with which the astronomers of every nation are familiar. If they inquire, they will learn that Dr. William de Sitter, director of the oldest astronomical observatory, that of Leyden, came to Texas to advise the trustees of the McDonald observatory in the selection of a site, the type of equipment and Texas' share in the future study of the starry firmament.

So that, the achievement of the University of Texas in building McDonald observatory, under a bequest by the public-spirited Paris, Texas, banker, will help spoil a tradition and shatter the outsider's idea of an untamed frontier.

Texas, disturbed by widespread notoriety of the dust storms, worried by the arid threat to this year's crops, had been worried lest Centennial visitors find a seared and parched state, suffering from dust and drought, facing economic injury from loss of crops and offering an ideal picture of a country to stay away from.

But by the accord of events, generous rains have fallen throughout the Dust Bowl, and all over the state. One big week of rain transformed the physical picture of Texan and just by the margin of enough days for grass to sprout and the fields to take on verdant growth. Among its many other blessings, the rain has made Texas an attractive sight for visitors.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—One of the chief annoyances of living in the country is advising one's friends how to get there. In this neck of the woods, where the roads intertwine into hearse-like labyrinths, it is practically impossible to direct strangers intelligently to any rural community.

Wary of talking himself hoarse, one such Squire, an artist, solved the vexing problem by sketching a relief map of the Metropolitan area, emphasizing the roads leading to his estate. Then he had the sketch printed.

Inquire as to the most direct route by which his countryside manor may be reached and he'll extract one of these miniature maps from his wallet. Saves time, and, with a map in your hand, you can't go wrong.

Throwing himself full length in the center of Madison Avenue, at high noon, a weary laborer caught himself a few winks of sleep . . . despite the fact that two lines of traffic were snarling and twisting on either side.

You're correct about the crowd gaping . . . But nobody said anything to him—not even the cops. With a couple of assistants he had been busy prying up a square of asphalt in the center of the avenue. With pick-axes they hacked out a lot of dirt. They were protected from careless motorists by a double strand of chain.

When noon came they ate their lunch there in the road. It was after his cabbage and beer that the hero of this paragraph stretched out for his snooze. He seemed to enjoy it, too, despite the 10-ton trucks that whizzed by within a foot of his head. . . . To keep the dust from strangling him he covered his face with a great blue bandanna handkerchief.

His pals sat on the dirt pile beside him and smoked black, short-stemmed pipes.

That friendly rivalry between Russ Morgan and Isham Jones, orchestra maestros, dates farther back than the beginning of their musical careers. Russ is a Pennsylvania lad and belongs to the soft-coal school of thought—that is, he is a member of the welfare committee of a great mine near Nanticoke, and when a hard coal worker and a soft coal worker get together it's like mixing milk and grape-juice—they curdle.

Isham got his early training swinging a pick in a hard coal mine, which perhaps explains his finesse with a baton. He and Russ battle it out practically every night over Crepes Suzette in their favorite after-midnight chop house.

You've probably heard it by now, but the latest of the gags being bandied about (and this one makes John Peter Cooney laugh more than any other) concerns the ham master of ceremonies who was so bad that even the audience, which expected terrible things, was aghast. Finally a ring-sider could stand it no longer. As the abashed m. c. walked from the floor the heckler yelled: "Don't look now—but I think you laid an egg!"

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Those close to both President Roosevelt and his old friend, Governor Lehman of New York, have it doped out that Lehman will run for governor after all.

It will take a lot to persuade him, but that persuasion will be exerted at the psychological time.

Not only does Roosevelt need Lehman badly to make sure of carrying New York state in November, but also Sen. Bob Wagner doesn't relish the idea of giving up his comfortable senate seat to run for governor. And to save the state for Roosevelt, this is what he might have to do.

If there is enough genuine demonstration for Lehman's return his friends feel he is certain to run again.

Constitution's Guardian
George McNamara, little Tipperary Irish-American, who stands guard before the constitution of the United States in the library of congress, has this to say about his sacred charge:

"Strange to hear so much about it. I say to myself almost every day: 'There it is. Look at it. And I'm guarding it, and the supreme court and all of them are raising so much hell about it—but to look at it, it doesn't look like so much.'"

Supporting Presidents
The supreme court has given Roosevelt more headaches than any other president in recent years. But it has also done something else. It is making him become an expert on constitutional law and history.

The other day Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Jerome Frank, brilliant F.W.A. attorney, went in to discuss with him the demand of Newton D. Baker, attorney for the power interests, that the government purchase a confidential memo signed "F. D. R." It was supposed to indicate that Roosevelt was waging a campaign against the power companies.

Ickes and Frank wanted to know what attitude the president wanted to take in regard to this proposed subpoena, and they didn't have to wait long for an answer.

If the courts are going to subpoena confidential memos of the president and his cabinet, they will have to spend about all their time on the witness stand, was the president's view. He pointed out that this particular memo was only one in a series and, unless viewed in the light of preceding memos, would be misleading. The background would have to be explained by his taking the witness stand.

W. Wilson Memos
Then the president told how, as assistant secretary of the navy, he had received various penciled memos from President Wilson. In one case the construction of a battleship was under consideration and Roosevelt got a White House memo which read: "Go ahead (signed) W. W."

He argued that no one would know what that memo meant unless it was explained by testimony from the president whereas it was being argued that the president could not spend all his time on the witness stand.

Then he cited the case of Marbury vs. Madison, famous decision handed down by Chief Justice Marshall in which the supreme court gave itself the power to pass upon acts of congress.

John Marshall tried to subpoena President Jefferson. Roosevelt recalled: "Well subpoena him and see what happens." Marshall said. But Jefferson refused to answer the subpoena.

Aaron Burr
The president concluded by telling how John Marshall, a few years later, tried to subpoena the papers of Gen. James Wilkinson during the treason trial of Aaron Burr. Wilkinson, commander of the army in the west, had reported to Jefferson that Burr intended to separate the western states from the union. But Jefferson fitly refused to send the papers.

Committees of congress can subpoena papers and high persons from the executive branch of the government, but it is not the usual practice for the courts to do so. In this particular case, the District of Columbia supreme court upheld the government, ruled that Roosevelt did not have to produce the "F. D. R." memo.

Three experts from London's famed Strand Yard have been visiting G. Boss J. Edgar Hoover, getting pointers on how he trails gangsters.

During the visit, one of them, R. M. Howe, "deputy assistant commissioner of the criminal investigation department of the New Scotland Yard," said he wanted to locate Keith Merrill of the state department. Howe indicated that he had had considerable trouble finding him.

"Did you look in the phone book?" someone asked the Scotland Yard sleuth.

"Why, no. I didn't think of that." They looked. Keith Merrill's name was there.

GAINS SHOWN IN TAX REVENUE ON BEER, CIGARETTES

AUSTIN, May 29 (UP)—Although the beer tax has been lowered revenue from beer and cigarette taxes are running higher for the first four months of 1936 than they were for the same period of 1935, according to figures released by State Treasurer Charles Lockhart.

Beer stamp revenue for the four months of 1936 amounted to $324,523.94 as against $263,869.93 of the corresponding period last year. Cigarette stamp revenue totaled $1,742,786.01, compared to $1,249,744.65 in 1935.

The increase in beer consumption is accounted for by lowered retail prices, dealers declare.

WASHINGTON, May 29—Retail sales in the Gulf Southwest as reflected by reports from 913 independent stores in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, reporting to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, in cooperation with the bureau of business research, University of Texas, according to preliminary estimates, increased about 13 percent in dollar volume for April 1936 as compared with April 1935. This report which covers the larger independent stores with the exception of department stores, represents 21 kinds of business, 9 of which, due to an insufficient number of reports, are included in miscellaneous or group totals.

Shipments Of L'Stock Gain

April Figures Above Preceding Month And Year Ago
AUSTIN, May 29.—A substantial increase in livestock shipments occurred in Texas during April in comparison with both the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research monthly livestock report showed.

"Shipments totaled 9,951 cars against 7,174 cars during April last year, an increase of 38 per cent, the report said. "Of the different classes of livestock, cattle shipments showed the greatest absolute gain. Forwardings of this class of animals were 7,124 cars compared with 5,736 during April last year, an increase of 24 per cent. Shipments of calves, 57 against 721 cars, showed a decrease of 20 per cent. But shipments of hogs, 768 compared with 347 cars and sheep, 570 compared with 38 cars, showed increases of 121 per cent and 55 per cent respectively over April last year."

"Forwardings of Texas livestock during the month of April always reflects an interesting seasonal movement—the shipment of Texas livestock to the Flint Hills of Kansas and the Osage country of Oklahoma. This year almost 3,000 cars of Texas cattle were destined for the Flint Hills—almost 50 per cent more than during April last year. But the 1,220 cars shipped to the Osage country did not make up the 1,180 cars shipped to this region in April a year ago.

Forwardings of sheep to the Kansas Flint Hills were more than double those of last year while considerably fewer sheep were shipped to the Oklahoma pastures. This situation obviously reflects superior pasture conditions in Kansas in comparison with Oklahoma this season, presumably the result of drought in the latter state.

"Fort Worth maintained its strong position as a market for Texas livestock during the month. Some of the other large markets, however, showed some significant changes. For example, more than three times as many hogs were shipped to the Los Angeles market as were forwarded to this market in April last year. Chicago received more than 10,000 Texas sheep, East St. Louis nearly 7,000 St. Joseph 5,000 and the state of Iowa 8,000 against practically none last year."

Chapter Nine DIRK PROMISES

Something moved in the drawing room. A swift flame-like stir beside the piano. Dirk went and stood before the girl. Her eyes met his, dark, unwavering, the eyes of a guilty child, defying censure, defying punishment.

She was the same, yet different. Stripped of the rouge and mascara, of the light red trousers, she stood in her black dress with the bright familiar shawl slipping from her arms—here, the girl from the tents in Jersey. So it was she he had seen entering the gates two hours ago.

"I couldn't stand Torrobin any longer."

"But you liked the clown," Dirk said, with no motive but to make her talk on, for she had fallen silent.

She looked away.

"Yes," she answered. "I liked the clown."

"Was he badly hurt?" Dirk asked.

"I think not. You see I came away. I couldn't stand Torrobin any longer. And the Jameson Hotel—the place where I had been stopping—I owed them money. They were holding my trunk."

She looked at him, added quickly,

"Will you explain?" he said to her.

"Explain to whom?"

"To me," he said. "I didn't know you knew my brother."

"Must you be explained to?" she said. "Why don't you ask him?"

"Why don't I?" Dirk asked gravely. "But he could hardly explain what he probably doesn't know has happened."

"That's what I wanted to see a lawyer about. About my trunk and the money the circus owes me."

Scarcely adequate reasons, Dirk thought, for a midnight call on a lawyer. Yet no doubt they seemed sufficient to the girl. He had no desire to doubt her account.

She came back to her question.

"As you going to tell him?"

Dirk said no, that he had no intention of telling Rupert, but if Torrobin came and found her here it might all come to light.

"If it does," she answered, "I'll explain. But I don't want your brother to know if I can help it. There was only one thing he asked me, and you know when a man's been drinking, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

She turned abruptly, and went out into the hall, as if seeking Rupert. Timothy was taking Rupert up the stairs. Blowdy, at the top Rupert looked back, looked down at Dirk and the girl standing in the hall. He moved a hand with a heavy gesture of waving, plodded on with Timothy, disappeared.

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

The girl sat down on the lowest step, leaning her head against the carved oak balustrade. Now that Rupert was gone, she seemed to grow suddenly tired, suddenly tired. Dirk thought of food, and mentioned breakfast. She thanked him, but she was not hungry. He sat down beside her, and she said, "Are you going to tell him?"

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"Tell him what?" asked Dirk.

"About the circus. About—where I came from."

"Doesn't he know?" asked Dirk.

"No—and I don't want him to. I never saw him until tonight."

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"Then how—"

"It was a whim, a drunken whim. I shouldn't have let him."

She was not answering the question he had been about to ask. She went on quickly.

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"But how did she—"

"It was you I came here to see. I knew you were a lawyer. I needed to see a lawyer. You won't tell him about the circus, will you? He'll throw me out."

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. "You were with others. Some of them had their fortunes told. She gets things out of people when they're at all talkative. She probably thought she was going to tell your fortune, too. And you wouldn't let her. She doesn't like that. Torrobin may come here, she added.

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"Are you afraid?" Dirk asked.

"Only for you. He carries a gun. Still, I don't think he'd pull it on you, seeing who you are, and this big place, and all." She looked about the great hall, its tapestry-hung walls, its stone floor and Persian rugs, its dimly lit chandelier swinging from the vaulted ceiling—all old, all a little worn or faded, but formidable.

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"It's like a fortress," she said.

"That was what I thought when I first came. A refuge, a fortress. . . . And a gun in New York is different."

"People in the circus are decent—just as he meant the word. Why, even my talking to you those few minutes, he betrays what's uppermost in his mind. He asked if I was a decent girl. I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"You are not afraid for yourself?" Dirk asked.

"Not now. Not since I married your brother. And in this house. You see, I belong here now. There's no need to tell him about the circus. I really didn't belong to it. I was a substitute for Senator Leonor. She was the Firefly till she left a few days ago."

I didn't feel decent marrying him like that just to save myself—I mean, just to find a refuge from debt and—and Torrobin. But that wasn't what your brother meant."

"I've been in New York, giving music-lessons. I only had one pupil, and the bank where I had put my money closed its doors. I heard about Leonor's leaving the circus, so I went over to Jersey, and got her job. I had to have money, and my family—my father, especially—are not very friendly with me just now. I've always been able to ride. But I didn't make anything out of the circus. I left before I was paid."

IN DRAMA OF THE OLD WEST

Ann Loring, newcomer to the film and Warner Baxter, as they appear in Baxter's latest starring vehicle, "Robin Hood of El Dorado," a drama based on historical episodes in the early gold-rush days of California.

Epic Drama Of Days Of '49 To Be Shown Here

Warner Baxter Plays Title Role In 'Robin Hood Of El Dorado'

Taken from some of the most vivid pages of America's history, "Robin Hood of El Dorado," comes to the screen at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday, heralding the rebirth of the spectacular outdoor feature. Starring Warner Baxter, the picture is one of the more pretentious of the new-season photoplays.

The featured cast includes Ann Loring, new "discovery"; Bruce Cabot; the Spanish dancing beauty, Margo; Eric Linden; Edgar Kennedy; Charles Trowbridge; Harvey Stephens and others. The cast of extras in the more spectacular scenes numbers many thousands.

"Robin Hood of El Dorado" is the romantic story of the life of Joaquin Murrieta, glamorous bandit-patriot who roared through the wild west at the head of 400 men in the lawless days of the California gold rush of '49. Romance, stirring action and impressive settings combine to make the picture outstanding. Action abounds, with sensational feats of horsemanship and personal bravery presented.

Entire gold boom towns of early California were rebuilt and repopulated to give the film the tone of authenticity.

Murphy's Diggings, Sawmill Flat, Angel's Camp and other roaring settlements of the gold-rush, names that are listed in every history, sprang to life for this photoplay. Most of the picture was filmed in the actual locales. "Robin Hood of El Dorado" falls in the same class as "The Covered Wagon," which was laid in the same

Wm. Boyd In Film At Lyric

Is Starred In Another Of 'Hopalong Cassidy' Adventures

Two-gun "bad men" of the early West are pictured at their best—which is their worst—in "Three On the Trail," latest of the Hopalong Cassidy adventures which reaches the Lyric screen Friday and Saturday, with William Boyd and Jimmy Ellison playing the familiar roles of Hopalong and Johnny Nelson.

Seeking varied types to characterize the menacing villains in "Three On the Trail," the producers cast five of the most vicious-looking actors in Hollywood in the roles of the leader and members of a powerful band of lawless bandits who hold the town of Mesquite in a virtual siege.

Led by Onslow Stevens, in the role of Peccos Kane, gambler and owner of Kane's Paradise Bar, a cultured, but tricky and cruel killer, comes Ted Adams playing Jim Trask, Kane's chief lieutenant, a hard-boiled, swaggering ruffian. The other members of the quintet include Al Hill as a gunman and Stevens' bodyguard, a sneak and petty thief; John St. Polis, veteran favorite, in the part of the weak sheriff, who has fallen completely into the power of the killer, and is too far gone to break away; and John Rutherford as the notorious desperado who has joined up with the other outlaws.

Muriel Evans, in the role of the friendless school-teacher, brings a romantic touch to this story of the Old West, and George Hayes is seen once more as "Windy," lovable old booster, who "hates win-win like pizen."

Team And Truck Hire Procedure Revised By WPA

SAN ANTONIO, May 29—Revision of procedure for hiring teams and trucks for Works Progress administration projects will rotate work among a greater number of truck and team operators, give the one-truck owners better opportunity for meeting competition from fleet owners, and assure prompt payment for services by transferring owner-drivers from a contract basis to the payroll basis used for other WPA employees, it was announced here today by treasury procurement and Works Progress administration officials.

Under the system previously used each trucker was a contractor, and delays in payment for services often occurred because of errors in vouchers submitted for services rendered.

The new procedure will spread the work among owner-drivers by allowing each one to certify his equipment to treasury district deputy procurement officers, who will list each truck and assign it as orders are received from WPA or other federal agencies.

Teamsters and truckers may learn how to certify their equipment by contacting WPA offices or project superintendents. As previously stipulated, equipment must meet safety requirements.

Owner-operators will be allowed to work a maximum of 160 hours per month at an hourly rate which may be made throughout the state in assignments to projects.

WESTERN DRAMA WITH JOHN WAYNE TO BE AT QUEEN

Based on the growth of the old Western empire, an adventure story, "The Lawless Nineties," billed as the Queen Theatre's feature for Friday and Saturday is a story of the turbulent days when Wyoming was still a territory getting ready to ask admission as a state.

John Wayne, one of the popular cowboy actors of the screen, will be seen as the head of the federal posse sent into the territory to see that a fair election is held. Ann Rutherford has the leading fem-period of America's growth. Incidents in the life of Murrieta, incorporated into the screen play, are from the novel, "Robin Hood of El Dorado," by the late great western historian, Walter Noble Burns.

nine role and others in the cast include George Hayes, Al Bridge, Charles King, Tom Brower, Jack Rockwell, Lane Chandler, Al Taylor and Tracy Layne.

The picture is one of a series of historical films based on episodes in the settling of the West. It combines all the fast action, the hard riding and hard fighting of the old western plays, with a real story in an interesting setting.

Golf Analyzed

By JOE GLASS

How many duffers are conscious of the position of their clubhead at the golf swing? Not many. Yet in watching the experts one has the feeling that they are conscious of the clubhead position throughout the swing, particularly in the downswing.

I especially have this feeling when watching Denny Shute, who plays a controlled game. And I recall the words of Abe Mitchell, who stressed that the player should be keenly aware of the position of his clubhead.

Shute, in playing a shot, keeps

Copy Of Baker's Speech At Alamo Among Relics Owned By M'Kinney

"Remember the Goliath! Remember the Alamo!" These phrases are both familiar to every native Texan, but where did they originate? Jim McKinney says that they came from a speech made by Captain Baker to his men the day before the battle of San Jacinto. "I never knew where all these words came from," he explains, "until I read Captain Baker's speech that he was the author of these words." J. S. McKinney, an old-time resident here, has a copy of the speech.

Then there is the gun found on the old Marcy Trail which ran through Big Spring 87 years ago. Sheriff Jess Slaughter has had the gun on display for several years. Many kinds of arrow and spearheads are in McKinney's possession in addition to skinning knives which were used by the Indians, either the Comanches or Apaches. They were found here 47 years ago. Other curios include a pepper box which was brought to Tennessee in 1794 from Virginia; a 25-cent piece dated 1834; a one-cent piece, three times as large as the present pennies, dated 1791; a piece of wood which came out of old Fort Chadhorn built in 1854; a picture of the battle of San Jacinto and the 36 men present when Santa Anna surrendered to General Sam Houston. He has had the picture 47 years.
