Lyndon Tours, Talks Politics

WITH JOHNSON IN MIDWEST (P) — President Johnson said Wednesday he is going to ask for improvements in the Social Security law and "maybe sooner than you think."

The President dropped this remark to a crowd at Peoria, Ill. Later he told reporters who asked about it, "I meant just what I said."

"After Jan. 3?" a reporter inquired. "I didn't say that," the President replied.

Social Security

Johnson said he considers improvement of the Social Security program a matter of highest priority.

He declared in the corn belt earlier in the day that there are those in the land whose policies would wreck and bankrupt the Social Security system and one farmer out of every five.

Johnson hammered away on bread-basket and pocketbook issues, on peace, prosperity and responsibility — and on Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, but not by name.

Largest Turnout

In Des Moines, Iowa, the first stop on Johnson's 11-state campaign trip, Police Chief Vear Douglas estimated a total turnout of 177,000 persons in a city of about 225,000—the biggest crowd, he said, the city has ever seen.

The President told the people they have a choice Nov. 3 between peak prosperity or wrecked progress; between tested, good-sense policies for keeping peace or an uncharted course.

He said Americans can pick between policies he said would mean more income and opportunity for farmers on the one hand, or disaster in small doses on the other.

Praises Both Parties

In his first nationwide telecast of the campaign, Johnson said Wednesday night that chief executives of both parties have "moved with courage and firmness to the defense of freedom" in the past 20 years.

"If we should discard the trusted policies of the last 20 years, the peace of the world will be in grave danger," he said. "I will not discard them."

The Citizens for Johnson Committee bought 30 minutes of network time Wednesday night for a talk emphasizing foreign policy questions.

More Travel

The President in the next six days will travel from Ohio and Louisiana to California — much of it along a route Goldwater already has traversed.

In Des Moines, Johnson's motorcade had to plough a furrow through shrieking, whoop-it-up crowds. Johnson stopped again and again to pump hands or trade greetings on the way to the steps of the state capitol for his speech.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON

LBJ Slates Stop Here — Possibly

It was announced this week that President Lyndon B. Johnson may make a political stop in Lubbock later this month.

Details of the possible campaign visit have not been made available to local Democratic Party officials, but the President is scheduled to arrive in Texas Oct. 15 for several days of brief appearances.

Announced Stops

Announced stops on the President's itinerary include Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio. Other stops will be included at a later date.

President Johnson was last in Lubbock while campaigning with the late President John F. Kennedy in the heat of the 1960 presidential race.

This Friday, another top state Democratic official, Lieutenant Governor Preston Smith of Lubbock will arrive on campus for a major address to Tech's chapter of the Texas Assn. of College Teachers (TACT).

Smith Speaks

Smith will speak on "Prospects for a Higher Education" at 4 p.m. in the Tech Union Ballroom. The talk is open to all members of the Tech faculty.

Dr. Kenneth Davis, TACT president, said that Smith will discuss financial prospects for higher education, as well as the report of the Governor's committee on education beyond the highschool level.

TV ROOM OPEN FOR 'SERIES'

Students who want to follow the 1964 World Series will have access to a wide-screen television in the Tech Union Ballroom, according to Wayne James, executive director of the Ex-Students Assn.

The association will sponsor the "Watch the Series" program in cooperation with a local department store.

STRANGE LOSS — Jane Leisete, Houston sophomore, looks at a flapper dress, worn in the "Roaring 20's," while APO members Bill Roussel, right, Port Arthur senior, and Art Schaerdel, center, Richardson junior, look on. It is only one of many items that Alpha Phi Omega, men's national service fraternity, will have on sale in the Cornado Room of Tech Union from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today. Items included in the sale are coats, sweaters, slide rules and note books which were unclaimed in lost and found last year. Checks will be accepted if student ID's are presented.

Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater will make a brief stopover here today to speak at a campaign rally at 10:20 a.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Dr. William M. Pearce, vice president for academic affairs, has said that since the rally is not college sponsored, there will be no reason for dismissal of classes. Students wishing to attend the meet will be counted absent.

Due to Goldwaters' visit, the Coliseum parking lot will be closed from 7 a.m.-3 p.m. today. Students normally parking in the area are to park in the dirt lots west of the Coliseum and east of Jones Stadium, according to Bill Daniels, head of Traffic-Security.

Sweeping Tour

Goldwater is visiting Lubbock on a sweeping tour of Texas, and will leave for El Paso immediately after his address.

Only a brief formal welcome is scheduled at the airport, and Goldwater will not speak.

Introducing the GOP candidate at the rally will be George Bush, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate. Entertainment will be provided by the Lubbock Christian College Band and organist Bernie Howell.

Rally Arrivals

Motorcades from 21 area counties plus buses from eastern New Mexico are expected to be here for the rally.

Bearing a large banner saying "Tech Sigs Welcome Barry Goldwater," Sigma Chi, social fraternity will greet Goldwater at the airport. The presidential candidate is a member of the organization. After his arrival, the group will then proceed to the rally.

Others Present

Appearing on the platform with Goldwater will be Bush; Bill Hayes, congressman-at-large candidate; Jack Crighton, gubernatorial candidate; and Joe B. Phillips, candidate for congressman of the 19th district.

The rally is open to the public and no admission will be charged.

Prior to Goldwater's visit, Frank Kovac, finance director for the National Republican party, will speak at a closed $100-a-plate breakfast at the KoKo Palace.

No Majority Polled

Freshmen Will Stage Runoffs For Officers

In Wednesday's voting for freshman class officers, none of the candidates received a clear majority, and runoffs will be held for all posts.

The two contenders for the office of president are Johnny Walker, with 465 votes; and Mike Malcik, with 192.

More Runoffs

Eldon Shirey polled 433 votes to Joe Ince's 215 for the office of vice president. There will also be a runoff for secretary between Janie Kinney, with 295 votes; and Exa Richardson, with 212.

David Berry is the new School of Engineering representative to the Student Council with a majority vote of 105.

In the race for School of Business Administration representative, there will be a four-man runoff between Don Foster, who had 160 votes; Bill Bueck, 104; Walter "Sonny" Henderson, 104; and Tommy Craddick, 78.

Dual Contest

There will also be a dual runoff in the contest for AWS rep-

School Trip Ticket Sales End Friday

Only 400 tickets remain for the Texas Tech-TCU gridiron game Saturday in Fort Worth, designated this season's all school trip.

Sales end Friday morning, Mrs. Mildred Wright, director of ticket sales, reports more than 2,500 tickets to the game already gone. Students may purchase tickets for $1 on presentation of an ID card at the Athletic Office.

Mrs. Wright added that the ID's along with the tickets, are necessary for entrance at the stadium gate in Fort Worth.

Pep Rally

Kent Hance, Student Council vice president, said no reception was planned there, but Tech cheerleaders will lead a pep rally for the Red Raiders at 6:15 p.m. Saturday on the band practice field west of the women's dorms at the University campus.

The north end of the west stands has been designated the Tech section.

Classes will not be dismissed for the school trip, Dr. W. M. Pearce, academic vice president reported.

Also this year, no transportation will be provided by the Student Council because of a lack of interest in school-sponsored school trips during the past few years.

Last year's school trip was to Austin by bus to watch the Raiders play the Texas University Longhorns.

Originally, the trip for this year was scheduled for Houston for the game, but a raise in train fares and the discovery that the game would be televised locally made Council members change their plans.

No Majority Polled

representative for freshman women. It will be between Suzy Crain, who polled 185 votes; and Judy Haworth, with 148 votes.

All runoffs will take place Monday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Ballot boxes will be placed in the Ad Bldg., the C&O Bldg., the East Engineering Bldg., and the Tech Union.

PEP RALLY SETS STAGE

Bob Wood, president of IFC, will light the bonfire at 7 p.m. this evening beginning Tech's fourth pep rally this year at Southwest Conference Circle.

Kent Hance, vice president of the Student Council, has urged all students to attend the rally which will kick off the school trip to Fort Worth for the Tech-TCU football game.

The Saddle Tramps are sponsoring the rally.

Students Jam Lounge For Jazz Premiere

Crowds of students swelled into the entrance of the Piano Lounge in the Union Tuesday for the premiere of Tech's modern jazz trio.

Pianist Mike Ragsdale, bassist Walter Marlin and drummer Jim Price extracted a warm and vigorous response from more than 200 Techsians who sat on couches and on the floor.

"It looks like we've got something going," said Marlin, speaking for the group. Jazz sessions at Tech will continue, officials said.

The group's repertoire included ballads and low, earthy blues played with a flexible and explorative improvisational development.

Dad's Day Scheduled For Oct. 24

The man who pays the bills will be honored at Texas Tech Oct. 24.

That date is officially designated as "Dad's Day" on the campus.

Events will be highlighted by the Tech-SMU football game.

The day begins for the man of wonders with a coffee and registration followed by a Tech Dad's Assn. business meeting and a luncheon. The mothers will have a tour of the campus in the afternoon and later in the day the family will be together for a barbecue.

Awards will be presented to Dads in the pre-game ceremonies.

Committee members for the event are Jane Loughmiller, general chairman; Cynthia Myrick, luncheon chairman; Patty Powner, registration chairman; Jenny Matthews, coffee chairman; Virginia Fry, publicity chairman and Jacqueline Olsen, assistant dean of women, is the sponsor of the committee.

FRENCH MAGAZINES — Robert Carter purchases a copy of the French literary magazine from Lucy Couter. The magazine, published once a year, contains the work of students in the French department. Copies can be purchased in room 212 of the Ad Bldg.

Dolls To Dress-Up For Derby Dance

Sigma Chi fraternity will sponsor Derby Day and an all-school dance Oct. 17.

A parade featuring Derby Doll candidates from each sorority will move down Broadway to begin the day's activities at 1:30 p.m.

Sorority competition in Derby events will begin at 2 p.m. on the band field south of the Music Bldg.

Each sorority will choose a Sigma Chi member to enter the "Active Dress-Up" contest. Other events will include such contests as a clothing change inside a sleeping bag, and a perfect figure contest for which there will be awarded a booby prize.

In the last event a Derby Doll will be chosen and crowned by Sherry Beadle of Delta Gamma, last year's Derby Doll, and Miss Lubbock of 1964.

Bill Widener, Derby Daddy, said no admission will be charged.

Club Elects Officers For Term

Texas Tech International Trade Society elected officers for the fall semester recently.

Officers are Clifford Shive, president, Fort Worth senior; Jack Anthony, vice president, Abilene senior; Bill Courtney, secretary, Colorado Springs sophomore; and Larry Jones, treasurer, graduate from Dublin.

Plans were made for the annual International Trade Seminar, co-sponsored by the club, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and the U.S. Department of Commerce, to take place in February.

All students who are majoring or interested in majoring in International Trade are urged to contact one of the officers or Dr. John Hilderbrand.

Guest Minister Speaks Sunday

The Reverend John L. Walker, minister of the all-Negro Messiah Presbyterian Church of Lubbock, will speak at a dinner in the Presbyterian University Bldg., 2412 13th St., at 6 p.m. Sunday. All Tech students are invited to attend.

Walker, a native of North Carolina, is the first minister that Messiah Presbyterian Church has had in the past several years.

Messiah Presbyterian Church is the only all-Negro Presbyterian church in Texas.

Bigger Problem Remains

THE STUDENT COUNCIL resolution authorizing extensive policing of stadium seats and the forbidding of large scale seat saving may give temporary relief to the seating problem but deals only superficially with it.

Perhaps for the remainder of the home football games the Council action will help, but the action gives only a short-range solution and does not come to grips with the growing seating problem we face at both football and basketball games.

The Council tackled two immediate problems Tuesday night — (1.) Persons other than students taking student seats, and (2.) Whether or not athletes should be allowed to reserve a section.

In two votes, the Council acted on both problems. The representatives in essence "outlawed" the saving of more than one seat and authorized the policing of the student sections to prevent non-students from entering the area.

In a more lengthy debate the Council split over the question of allowing all lettermen to save a section as a group.

The original motion to include only members of the Double T Assn. was amended, by a 15-14 vote, to include all lettermen now active in sports and enrolled in school.

The Council vice president explained that the Council action was all that is needed at this time.

He said he believed that Council should wait to see the effects of the seating resolution before taking further action.

Also he said the decision to allow all lettermen to have seats in a special section is based up a school-spirited tradition.

As such, the reasons for just passing a resolution on seat-saving is justifiable but its limited purpose is a subject of debate.

We believe the Council should now take a long range look at seating problems at both football and basketball games to determine if the present system of seating is more satisfactory than systems used by the University of Texas and other schools.

What is needed is a comprehensive study. And such a study takes time. This is the reason why a Council committee should be appointed.

At Tuesday's meeting the Council did not have a committee to make any reports or proposals. Instead the resolution and the athlete-seating decisions resulted from individual representative debate and discussion.

It is a function of the Student Council as a student representative body after collective debate to come up with a proposal or proposals to offer to the Athletic Council as a possible solution to the seating problem.

Students 'Just Interested' In Politics, Poll Reveals

By VY TOWNSEND

When a reporter leaves the newsroom with this assignment, "Take this poll," he or she wonders who will say what and why. I served as such a sounding board yesterday, and I was rather disillusioned with what I observed as such.

A photographer, with an eager camera, and I, with pen and paper, set out to get some answers to this question, "How interested are you in this year's political campaign?" I expected strong answers. Either, "What campaign?" or "Yes, and I just happen to have my party's platform in a brochure form here." Instead I found that those surveyed were "just interested."

Do They Care?

They were neither hot nor cold, apathetic or effervescent. Perhaps a larger survey would have reached those with definite opinions, but I know twelve people felt this way.

(1) Tom Tye, freshman pre-veterinary major, said, "I don't have an active interest, but I am concerned with what's going to happen. I don't go out to campaign, but I keep up with issues, candidates, and I want to know the outcome."

(2) Junior chemistry major, Ben Brashears added his philosophy, "I sit back and watch what's going on. As far as my vote, I have to decide which is the more desirable. Voting is like being on a jury; it's not what's right or wrong but how is it presented."

Keep Up Constantly

(3) Dave Morgan, a junior majoring in geology, said, "I have not actively campaigned, but I keep up constantly with radio, press and television to find out the issues. I read all Democratic and Republican statements and party news, and I will continue until after the day one candidate is elected."

(4) Kay Stewart, a freshman liberal arts major, declared, "I'm very interested. I'm a Republican but not too much in favor of Goldwater. I don't keep up with issues in the newspaper very well, but I do listen to opinions of others.

(5) Junior Ronnie Arrington, an electrical engineering major answered, "As I can't vote I'm not really interested, as I will be next year when I can vote."

One Way Out

(6) Sandra Hughes, a freshman majoring in retailing, said, "I'm glad I don't have to vote; neither candidate suits me."

(7) A marketing major, freshman Shirley Schmidt answered, "I'm very interested in it. I keep up with the issues and argue a lot. It's never hard to find someone who has a different opinion."

(8) Larry Elsey, a junior majoring in marketing, said, "I'm not going to vote this year because I don't feel either candidate is able. I don't trust their judgment with the future of the country. I keep up with the issues fairly well, and I get into a lot of discussions."

Learning The Issues

(9) Junior Suzanne Freeman, majoring in economics, answered, "Our house at home is divided. At first I thought it was the lesser of two evils. Now I'm forming my own opinion. I'm not taking any active part in campaigning, but I read political views in the library."

(10) Areta Privett, sophomore music education major, said, "I've been very interested, but I don't have much time. It is vitally important though, because next year I'll be voting. That fact has increased my interest."

(11) Majoring in business education, freshman Vicki Milliken, said, "I don't actively campaign, but I know what's going on."

(12) Junior Bill Terry, a pre-medicine major, answered, "I don't campaign, but I keep up with the news. I'm too young to vote, but I'm looking forward to the time I can."

NY Mothers, Children Picket Integrated School

NEW YORK (AP)—Police battled a near-riotous mass of demonstrators Wednesday to arrest dozens of white mothers and break up a three-day sit-in in a newly integrated Queens elementary school. Some of the women held bawling babies as they were taken away to Criminal Court.

In the melee outside P.S. 149 in Jackson Heights at least two women fell to the ground. Children wept and screamed and one tot, being forced into the school building by his mother, wailed: "I don't want to go."

The sit-in began Monday in protest against the forced transfer of white first and second graders away from P.S. 149 to make way for Negro youngsters from another neighborhood.

Order Restored

Eventually, with 65 white adults under arrest, order was restored by 50 policemen and 15 policewomen. With the mothers into court went more than 60 school children aged 5 and 6, plus a score of younger tots.

Some of the mothers sang "God Bless America" as they were taken to court.

In the courtroom, babies were fed from bottles while the women were paraded before the bench in groups of five. Criminal Court Judge George Balbach's repeated shouts of "Quiet!" were all but drowned out by the squalling of babies and the disorder of older children.

Given Sandwiches

Correction Department officials fed peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and milk to the older children.

The sit-in and demonstration was sponsored by the Parents and Taxpayers (PAT) organization.

Frederick M. Reuss Jr., chairman of the group in eastern Queens, declared: "It's a dreadful sight when a courtroom in New York is filled with mothers with babies in arms. They are here simply because they are trying to protect their children from the ravages of the Board of Education."

Most of the adults, including the mothers, were charged with loitering at a school, a form of disorderly conduct, punishable by up to 60 days in jail. Balbach released them without bond for trial next month on the misdemeanor charges.

New Plan

The New York Board of Education is experimenting with a school pairing plan first devised in Princeton, N.J. Four nearly all-Negro schools have been paired with four virtually all-white schools. Students are bused or otherwise interchanged between paired schools to bring about greater racial integration.

-In Philippine Villages-

Old Eggs Unpleasant Part Of Native Diet

By JACQUE GILL
Feature Editor

College students invaded all parts of the world this past summer — as sightseers, scholars, Peace Corpsmen and workers.

But one Tech student traveled to the Philippines for a different reason — he was a missionary.

John Moeser lived and worked among Filipinos for seven weeks — in rice paddies, villages, market places, homes, prisons and churches.

He ate what they ate — mostly rice.

He and his partner — Dan Vestal of Baylor — met a Communist prisoner, government officials, farmers, educators and students.

All People Alike

"Wherever we went we found people were alike," said John. "Once you wade through the culture and get to know them as a person and individual, you will find they share the same joy and happiness, disappointment and sorrow, and the same incompleteness and need."

In explaining the purpose of his work, John said, "We were not ambassadors or a new and glamorous political, economic or social system. We were there to share with them a person who could not only affect their relationship with others but a person who could radically change their concept of themselves — Christ."

Talks To Communist

"Dan talked with a Communist prisoner," said John. The man had been co-commander of a terrorist group attempting to overthrow the government.

"He was responsible for killing the mayors of five towns. He had only bitter hatred for all Americans and anyone else who had a part in administering the government besides Filipinos."

"The Communist listened to Dan explain Christianity and then said for the first time in his life someone had offered him something of great significance."

People Are Allies

John explained that the common people greatly loved the American people because they fought side by side in World War II.

"We went to several villages and little children would come out and shout the only English they knew — 'Hello, Joe!'"

"But all Filipinos aren't as pro-American as some American people think. Many government officials and newspaper editors are becoming anti-American. They want to identify with Asia and not the West. But at the present time they don't want to sever relations with America — this is where they get all their aid."

Want To Learn

John said Philippine students have a tremendous desire for education.

"The Far Eastern University in Manila was expecting more than 50,000 students this fall," John said. "Only two blocks away, the University of the East was also expecting 50,000."

But John also said persons who own the colleges take advantage of the students and take their money without giving them a good education.

Food 'Different'

John confessed the food they ate was "different."

"For breakfast we sometimes had mud fish, rice and onions. Rice was the main staple for all meals. Once we had belot — a 13-day-old egg with the embryo already formed. It wasn't so bad — we ate the head first."

Fish Intestine

"We also ate fish intestines. The Filipinos lavish the intestines because they are soft and have no bones."

One unusual event they observed was "John the Baptist Day." "It happens once a year," John said. "On that day you can baptize anybody you want by throwing water on them."

Driving Dangerous

"We saw another unusual practice in Manila," John said. "The traffic is tremendous. If you accidentally bump or run over anyone you can't stop to see if they were hurt or the people will mob you. They get angry with the 'rich' who drive the cars and they show this anger when someone is hurt by a car."

Represented BSU

John was sent to the Philippines as a representative of the Baptist Student Union of Texas. Besides John there were 42 other student missionaries from Texas sent to Ghana, Nigeria, Panama, Mexico and parts of the U.S.

A senior government major, John was named junior favorite last year. He was also named to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" and "Tech Salutes". He received the Sigma Delta Chi award his sophomore year.

BIG MEAL? — John Moeser, Lubbock senior, displays a gigantic fork and spoon set hand-carved by Philippine craftsmen. Moeser spent last summer as a missionary to the Philippines, where he lived, worked and talked with many classes of Filipinos.

Kappa Psi

The long night vigils during the typhoid epidemic in early 1852 created the first spark of cooperative spirit and brotherhood for the two founders of Phi Kappa Psi. It was on February 19 of the same year that William H. Letterman and Charles P. T. Moore called together a number of their college mates in the little town of Cannonsburg, Pennsylvania.

From this beginning and after more than 110 years, the mother chapter has been joined by over 60 other chapters across the nation which now form the ever-growing brotherhood of Phi Kappa Psi.

In March, 1953, the Psi's came to Tech. Through active participation in all intra-murals, a vigorous pledge program, concentration on scholastics, and a full social calendar, the Texas Beta Phi Psi's seek to develop the well-rounded gentlemen and scholars at Texas Tech.

Tech Holds Third

Texas Tech's Red Raiders, to the surprise of everyone—with the exception of the staunchest Raider fans — are currently occupying third place in Southwest Conference season standings with a 2-1 won-loss record.

The Raiders trail Arkansas and top-ranked Texas. Both are undefeated in three starts. Rice is in the fourth spot with a 1-1 mark, followed by SMU, 1-2. Baylor, TCU and Texas A&M, all have failed to win a game.

Third Place

Tech is also third in conference standings with a 1-1 standard, although this is relatively insignificant because three teams — Baylor, SMU and Rice — have not played a conference game as of yet, and the remaining teams have played but one apiece.

The Raiders have scored 37 points in their three outings, as compared to 42 for combined opposition. They rank fourth in the conference in total offense per game with a 222.7 average (156.3 on the ground and 66.3 in the air).

SWC Defense

Tech is also fourth in defense among SWC teams, allowing an average of 232.7 yards per game.

Opponents have averaged 125 yards passing per game against Tech, a figure which points out the need for a tighter pass defense on the part of the Raiders.

Techsans Donny Anderson, Jim Zanios, Tom Wilson and Kenneth Gill rank among the conference leaders in individual statistics.

Anderson Leads

Anderson, as usual, is the dominate man from the Tech point of view. The burly halfback rates second in rushing (3.9 average); second in pass receiving (nine receptions for a 13.4 mean and one touchdown); and seventh in punting (36.9 average on 18 kicks, somewhat below his last year's 38.5 mean).

Fullback Zanios is the number seven rusher in the conference, sporting a 3.2 average per tote. Quarterback Wilson is third in passing with 199 yards for a 11.7 average completion. He has hit on 50 per cent of his passing attempts.

Gill, who has spent most of his playing time with the defensive team, holds the conference field goal record with a 51-yard boot against Mississippi State. The kick was also a Tech record.

TT Faces Winless TCU

Texas Tech, winner of two out of three previous contests, will be in Fort Worth's Amon Carter Stadium Saturday night to face Abe Martin's TCU Horned Frogs, who have yet to post a victory.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. The Raiders figure to move their season mark to 3-1 and to take their second Southwest Conference tilt.

'Poorer Team'

Martin, in his twelfth year at Texas Christian, has one of his poorer teams. Gone is star fullback Tommy Crutcher, along with 18 other lettermen. And although it's hard to consign the Froggie mentor to the SWC basement (he hasn't been there since his first campaign), it doesn't look like he can go much higher.

Jim Fauver, a 185-pound senior halfback, carries the Christian offense. He leads the conference in rushing yardage. Kent Nix, a tall quarterback who reminds a lot of people of Sonny Gibbs, has moved up to take over the signal-calling duties after sparking the Frogs to their only touchdown in a 29-6 loss to Arkansas last week.

Martin's wing back is Bobby Batton. Starting at fullback will be Larry Bulaich, a two-letter man from LaMarque.

The line up front is headed by 245-pound center Ken Henson.

TCU dropped a couple of hard fought non-conference games before meeting the Razorbacks last Saturday.

On the Kansas one-foot line with 20 seconds to go in their first contest, the Frogs lost a fumble and the game, 7-3. Then Florida State beat them, 10-0.

Tech Looks Impressive

Tech, with a strong attack centered around the explosive Donny Anderson, has beaten Mississippi State 21-7 and Texas A&M 16-12 while losing only to national champion Texas, 23-0.

Coach J T King and his charges will be trying to revenge a 35-3 drubbing the Frogs administered a year ago. Texas Christian holds the all-time series edge, 13-7. The last Raider win was in '61, 10-0.

Squad In Shape

King will have his squad in fairly good shape for the game. Guard Ronnie Pack is the only man expected to miss the Frogs. He is still out with an injury sustained in the Texas game.

Bill Adams and Terry McWhorter, both of whom had to sit out the A&M conflict, will probably be ready. Halfback Johnny Agan and defensive back David Baugh, both starters, were hurt against the Aggies but will be able to play.

Tom Wilson will again direct the Raider attack from his quarterback slot. In the backfield with him will be Jim Zanios at full and halfbacks Anderson and Agan.

Anderson Leads

Anderson had the best night of his career against A&M, rushing for 129 yards and a touchdown. He leads Tech with a 4.1 average per run, 121 yards in pass receptions, a 16-yard kickoff return rate, and is tied with Zanios in the scoring derby with two TD's.

The Stinnett junior also handles the punting chores — 37 yards a boot so far.

From end to end the Raiders will start Jerry Don Balch, John Porter, Ray Garrett, Reg Scarborough, James Cecil, Chester Howard and Charles Gladston.

—Rookie Leads Way In Series Opener—

Underdog Cardinals Blast Yankees

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Young Mike Shannon and broken-jawed Carl Warwick struck key blows in a four-run sixth inning uprising that gave the underdog St. Louis Cardinals a 9-5 victory over the New York Yankees in the opening game of the World Series Wednesday.

A standing-room throng of 30,805 at St. Louis' first Series game since 1946 savored the spectacle of the proud Yanks losing their fifth straight. The favored American League champions went crashing down four times in a row against the Los Angeles Dodgers last fall.

The Cardinals turned the game into a rout in the eighth with three unearned runs as Manager Yogi Berra dug into his bullpen for secondary pitchers.

Rookie Homered

Shannon, a young man recalled from the farm system in mid-season, struck a tremendous 450-foot home run with a man on off the "B" of a brewery sign atop the scoreboard in left that tied the score in the sixth. It came off loser Whitey Ford, who was knocked out when Tim McCarver followed with a double.

Warwick, who went into the game with a scar on his right cheek and a "throb in my head" as a souvenir of a line drive during a Sept. 27 batting practice, stroked home the tie-breaking run with a pinch single off relief man Al Downing.

Rolling Along

Until the Cardinal uprising, Ford had been rolling along with a five-hitter and a 4-2 edge over Ray Sadecki but the old master was not in his usual sharp form. Only the fact that the Yanks had been nipping away at Sadecki had kept him in control.

A stiff wind from the southeast that stiffened the pennants atop Busch Stadium helped Shannon's drive and also boosted Tom Tresh's two-run 400-foot homer into the left center field seats in the Yankee second.

This definitely was not a pitcher's day. Sadecki, the winner, allowed eight hits in six innings before he was lifted for a pinch hitter. Ford, making his 22nd Series start, was bombed out in the sixth and charged with five of the Cardinals runs.

If there was a pitcher to write about it was Barney Schultz, a 38-year-old refugee from the farm system by way of two or three big league clubs. The knuckle ball artist, so important in the Cards' late pennant drive with 11 saves, allowed the Yanks only one run in the last three innings.

Digs Deeper

When danger threatened, Schultz was able to dig down a little deeper and pitch his way out of it. After Mickey Mantle singled and Tresh walked in the seventh, he struck out Joe Pepitone. After a run had scored and the Yanks had Bobby Richardson on second and Roger Maris on first with two out in the eighth, Old Barney forced Mantle to ground to Julian Javier.

In the ninth, Schultz had them on the hip all the way, 1-2-3.

"We were a better team after the game got going," said Keane in the clubhouse. "The longer it went the better we got. We hit the ball and that was it. Our young players were very cool. It didn't bother them at all."

"The turning point was Shannon's home run," said Keane, who had brought the rookie back from the Jacksonville farm in mid-season.

Yogi Comments

"They got the hits with two out and we didn't," said Yogi Berra, who added:

"I've seen Whitey have better stuff. Shannon hit the homer on a hanging slider. They were hitting his breaking stuff."

The condition of Javier, the Cards' second baseman, remained doubtful. He went into the game as a pinch runner and scored a run but he could not come in fast enough to handle a routine ground ball that went for a hit by Richardson in the eighth, and was removed for a pinch hitter in the last half of the inning.

Dal Maxvill, who started the opener at second and played the first six innings until James hit for him, probably will start Thursday.

The opening victory was a tremendous lift to the Cards, who had been 17-10 underdogs in the Series and 6-5 in the first game.

Having beaten Ford, the Yanks' ace, the Cards now are able to send fire-balling Bob Gibson, 19-12, against the Yanks' rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 9-3, in Thursday's second game. There will be a day off for travel Friday before the Series resumes in New York Saturday with Curt Simmons, 18-9, of the Cards facing Jim Bouton, 18-13, at Yankee Stadium.

Intramural Entries To Close Today

Entries for all faculty and staff activities offered by the Texas Tech Intramural Program will close at 5 p.m. today, Edsel Buchanan, director of intramurals, has announced.

Sports offered for faculty and staff members include league bowling, golf, badminton, tennis, handball, paddleball and volleyball.

Play Begins Friday

All play will begin Friday, with the exception of league bowling. That will begin Sunday.

League bowling is scheduled for Sunday nights at the Lubbock Bowling Club. Matches will begin at 7:15 p.m. Teams will be mixed, with two men and two women per team.

Golf will be organized on a tournament basis, either with or without handicap, or both. The use of handicaps will depend on the entrants.

Women Also

"Mixed tournaments will be held in any sport in which it is necessary," Buchanan noted. "Many faculty and staff women do not realize that they, too, are welcome in our program, and we want to be sure to emphasize this point. Many women are especially interested in tennis or badminton."

Further information may be secured from the Intramural Office, ext. 3113.

Poll Reveals

Youths Favor Control

Precis Syndicate Feature

Would you be surprised to find out that your teenage son or daughter favored government control of the nation's nine basic industries?

A well-known research firm was just as surprised recently when they asked thousands of high school teenagers across the country, "In your opinion should industry be run by the government or privately operated?"

Government Ownership

More than half of the teenagers thought that the nation's industries should be owned and operated by the government. Of the young people questioned, 84 per cent considered patriotism unnecessary — and 40 per cent could name no advantages of capitalism over communism.

Such answers make it clear that among American teenagers there exists an open rejection of many of the values which adult society holds dear.

Reject Responsibility

Many teens have rejected all responsibility for "a world they did not make." They have learned to rebel, to resist, to dissent, to go it alone.

Chief Judge Albert A. Woldman — of a Cleveland Juvenile Court — describes such teenagers as having "lost their way." The shifting of academic requirements since the first Sputnik of 1957 has made school pressures intolerable to many, according to Judge Woldman. And the same scientific upsurge has increased automation, which has wiped out many jobs teenagers might have normally turned to.

Unemployment Grows

The unemployment problem for adolescents is also increasing because of the large number of "war babies" who are now reaching their late teens and looking for work. The teenage population has swollen to well over 30 million! There are a million more 16-year-olds this year than last. "Teenage unemployment," says Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, "could develop into one of the most explosive social problems in the nation's history."

Though the saying, "Boys who have jobs don't get into trouble" may be overworked, it's still a proven fact. In one slum area of 125,000, with a high rate of juvenile delinquency, Dr. Conant found that roughly 70 per cent of the boys and girls aged 16-21 were out of school and unemployed.

Businessmen have helped to correct the frightening attitudes and problems of today's youth by supporting Junior Achievement, Inc.

a program now operated in 36 communities across the country. In J.A., youngsters own and operate their own miniature corporations.

Each miniature company, composed of 15 teenagers, is assisted by three businessmen who act as advisors in the fields of production, business and sales. The youngsters raise money to finance these companies by selling stock at 50 cents a share. Then they produce, advertise and sell their product, elect their own board of directors, and pay themselves salaries, wages and commissions.

Junior Achievement

Through Junior Achievement many high school students discover what type of business career they want to follow; they learn how to work with others and get to know and understand the American business system of free enterprise.
