—For SC President—

Honey, Botkin To Compete

Ronnie Botkin and Bill Honey will be contenders for Student Council president during spring elections. These were the only two who picked up petitions Tuesday night during filing procedures.

Bill Honey is presently an Arts and Science representative, chairman of the Traffic Safety committee, and member of the communications committee. When asked if he had a particular issue or platform for his campaign, he said, "Yes, I do, but I don't want it to be printed at this time."

He is a member of Tech Union's Ideas and Issues committee and the Interfraternity Council.

RONNIE BOTKIN holds the office of business manager at present. Botkin was not available for comment Tuesday night.

There will be two candidates vying for every executive office on the council. Kent Hance will run unopposed for vice president. Bill Williams filed, but later withdrew from the race because he was ineligible.

Nancy Shoemaker and Holly Hunt will be opponents in the race for secretary. Garland Weeks and Roland Anderson will battle for the position of Business Manager.

FOURTEEN PEOPLE picked up petitions for the six cheerleader positions. The School of Arts and Sciences had more potential cheerleaders than any of the other schools.

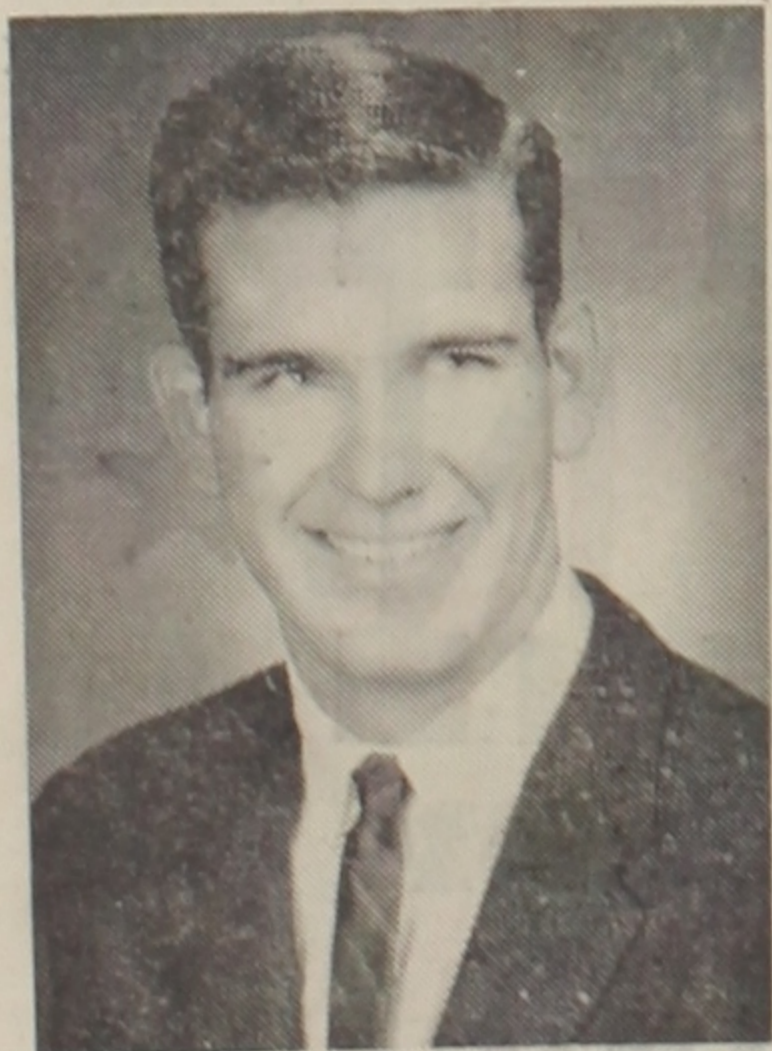

They are Jan Fowski, Anita Edmiston, Sondra Stargel, Jan Keen, Betty Newby, Kathy Osthoff, Mike Bohn, Karen Schroeder and Camella Moore.

Candidates from the other schools are Sandra Cox, Dianne Lavender, Ronnie Siler, Cril Payne and Richard Varnell.

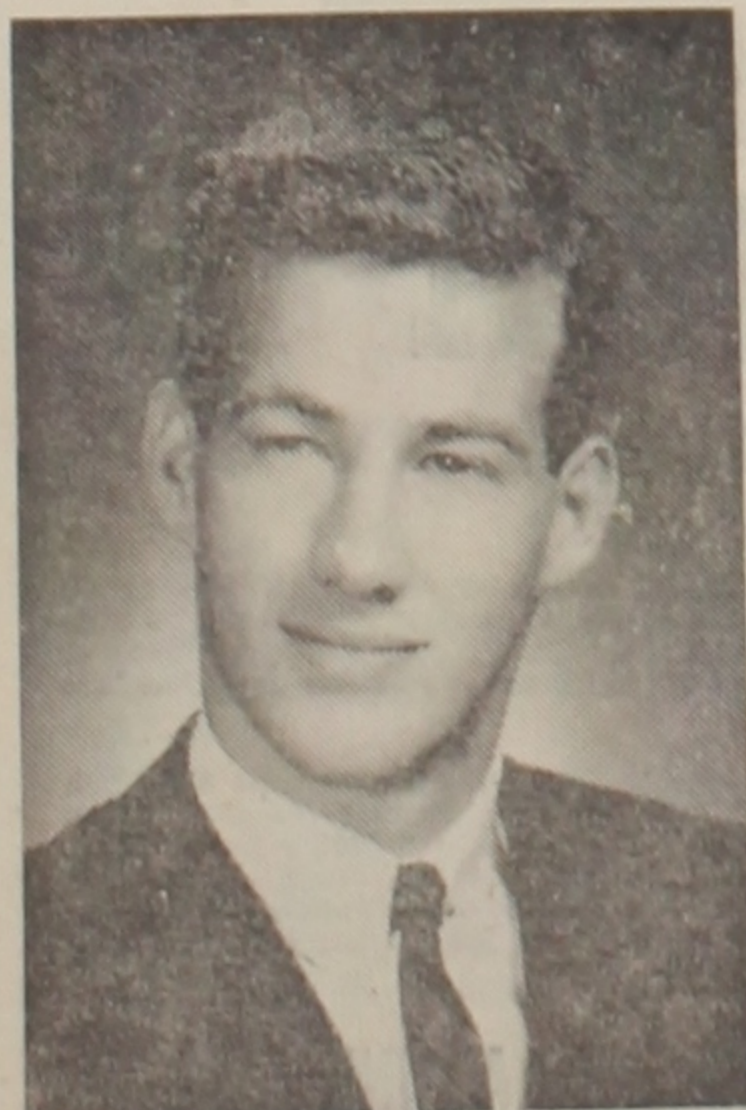

Dates for the elections are as follows:

- April 10 — Executive officers and cheerleaders
- April 15 — Runoff
- April 24 — Student Council representatives
- April 29 — Runoff

Campaigns for cheerleaders and executive officers begin April 6, and representative campaigns begin April 19, according to Pat Hamilton, Council secretary.

Awards Service Slated

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president, will address the 18th annual All-College Recognition Service at 2 p.m., March 22 in Tech Union Ballroom.

ALL-COLLEGE Recognition is designed to honor scholarship achievements of individuals and organizations. Also recognized during the ceremony are students who have excelled in leadership and athletics at Tech.

Dr. J. Wayland Bennett, acting dean of Agriculture, will present individual recognition to 204 students recognized scholastically for the first time.

Dean of Arts and Sciences, Dr. S. M. Kennedy, will acknowledge 79 students receiving class honors — those have been recognized scholastically a previous time.

SCHOOL HONORS will be presented to 31 students who have been honored scholastically at two previous services by the dean of Home Economics, Willa Vaughn Tinsley. Dr. Goodwin will introduce 14 students for college honors — those students who have been recognized at three previous ceremonies.

Dr. George Heather, dean of Business Administration, will recognize 168 scholarship holders. These students have maintained a 3.0 grade average or better for the spring and fall semester of 1963.

Thomas Stover of the dean of student life office will recognize outstanding scholarship of 10 campus organizations.

Several awards besides the above listed will also be given at the service.

Correction

The correct deadline for paying graduation fees is Tuesday, March 24. Fees must be paid at the cashier's window of the comptroller's office in the Ad Bldg., room 111. All seniors must pay the fees by the deadline in order to graduate.

Court Rules Against SC

The student Supreme Court ruled Tuesday night that the cheerleader screening board "as adopted" by the Student Council is unconstitutional.

In an unanimous decision after a one and a half hour deliberation, the six-member court said, "the cheerleader screening board is in itself a procedure and as such may be adopted... as part of the procedures in the Election Code.

"However, the adoption of this board... did not meet the deadline of Oct. 15 required in provision III A of the By-laws. Therefore, the board was unconstitutionally adopted. Should such a board be subsequently adopted, it could only rule on the qualifications set up in the By-laws and the Constitution."

The court spent two hours hearing testimony in the case which was one of the most dramatic in the court's history.

'NO REAL BASIS'

In opening testimony, David Black, counselor for Doug Boone and David Northcutt—who appealed the Council action—said the Council action establishing the cheerleader screening board was unconstitutional because it set qualifications for cheerleader and election procedures without amending the Council By-laws or Constitution.

Bob Ford in opening remarks said, "We shall show that the plaintiff's arguments have no real basis. The burden of proof is with the plaintiff."

Black called five witnesses who had been served with subpoenas to the stand during the course of the trial. Testifying were T. John Ward, cheerleader; Kent Hance, Council member; Roland Anderson, Council member; Gayle Machen, editor of THE DAILY TOREADOR; and Royal Furgeson, Council president.

All the witnesses except Furgeson were opposed to the board on constitutional grounds.

The Defense argued throughout the trial that the screening board was part of election procedures and therefore could be enacted by the Council. The Plaintiff argued the board was qualification for candidates and violated the constitution.

'VERY SMALL MINORITY'

"The constitution seems to place the right to elect in the hands of the student body," Anderson said during questioning.

He added that the board would put the student body's election power "into the hands of a very, very, small minority."

Hance concurred with Anderson. During the cross-examination he said the Council members were not aware of the violation of the By-laws and Constitution. No one mentioned it, he said.

Counselor Black then called Furgeson as an "adverse" witness. Furgeson was asked, "Would you say that this act is clearly a violation of the By-laws?"

He answered, "Yes."

YD's Hear Candidates

Candidates in two major local Democratic primary races will speak to the Young Democrats today.

Houston Boyd, local attorney and candidate for the state legislature, will open the meeting with a political speech.

J. Q. Warnick, Jr., also a local attorney and one of Boyd's three opponents in the race, will follow Boyd.

A former Tech student and past vice president of the Young Democrats, Bobby M. Brown, will speak as a third candidate in the hotly contested bid for the Austin position.

Mike Read, president of the club, said Delwin Jones, fourth candidate in the race, has not replied to the invitation and is not expected to speak.

Candidates for County Judge will also speak to the group. Read said all candidates for this position have accepted the invitation to appear before the club.

The Young Demos will host the open meeting at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Lounge of Tech Union.

Campus Briefs...

The Student Council business office is now taking applications from any student organization interested in receiving assistance from the Student Activity Fee, according to Ronnie Botkin, Council Business Manager.

Applications must be made in the Student Council Office before Friday.

The traveling secretary from the national offices of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity will arrive in Lubbock today to inspect the Tech chapter.

The inspector, Bruce G. Campbell, works from a central office in Oxford, Ohio, and travels around the country evaluating chapters of Phi Delta Theta and comparing their work with others throughout the nation.

While on campus, Campbell will meet with the fraternity officers, attend formal chapter meetings and talk with the chapter advisor. His visit will end Friday.

Ann Orrick is the first official entry from Tech in the South Plains Maid of Cotton Contest sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The contest is scheduled for April 10-11 but the deadline for filing applications is 5 p.m. Wednesday, March 25. Applications are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, county agents offices and the office of the Dean of Women.

Interested applicants must never have been married, be at least 5 feet 5½ inches tall without shoes, and should be between 19 and 25 years of age.

Student 'Visitors' Needed

Techsans interested in becoming "recruiting ambassadors" still have time to sign up for the Student Council's academic recruiting program, according to Jerry Gibson, committee chairman.

There will be a general meeting of all recruiters 7 p.m. Thursday in the Ag Auditorium for orientation.

The Student Council is offering assistance to students who want to tell high school students about the merits of attending school at Tech. Recruiters will speak to groups at their home town high school.

Students attending the Thursday meeting will receive folders to take with them when they visit their high school. A letter of introduction will be sent by the Student Council to each high school principal.

"The program is aimed at getting better students — not just more students — to attend Tech," Gibson said.

"Students participating in the academic recruiting program will be encouraged to speak to the national honor society of their respective high school," Gibson commented.

Gibson said Tech students should participate in this program because their association with the high school is generally closer than an official paid college recruiter and can be very effective.

Gibson urged all interested Techs to make special efforts to attend the Thursday night meeting. He emphasized that the meeting is Thursday and not Wednesday night as previously announced.

NICE SKUNK! NICE BOY! — "Gee, can't a fellow get a little quiet studying done? Just because I don't have a library card... Besides, how do you know I'm not a man in a skunk suit?" The usual pleasant atmosphere of the library was disturbed yesterday when a scholarly skunk was found in the basement. Two city employees whisked him away on a charge of disturbing the peace.

'Gory' Auschwitz Trial Reveals Nazi Barbarity

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Slowly but fatefully, justice is writing its meager footnote to the incredible story of Auschwitz—nearly 20 years after it became a symbol of Nazi barbarity.

New aspects of the Nazi concentration camp in Poland, where four million to five million persons perished, are being revealed bit by bit to the German people and the world.

THE SCENE IS Germany's largest war crimes trial, against 22 Germans who were SS guards or functionaries at Auschwitz during World War II.

Since it began last December the trial has boiled down to a relentless account of atrocities. Judge Hans Hofmeyer often pales with revulsion.

THE DEFENDANTS listen impassively, now and then scribbling notes for their attorneys. Confronted face to face with a witness who recognizes them after so many years, they indignantly insist the witness has confused them with someone else.

Their defense rests mainly on one point — "What I did in Auschwitz, I did on higher orders."

GERMAN HISTORIANS testify that SS guards could do practically anything they wished with prisoners since Hitler's concentration camp system was built to rid the world of what Nazi ideology considered inferior people — Jews, Slavs, gypsies and others regarded as unfit to contribute to Nazi Germany's glory.

The German press has given the trial extended coverage, at times highlighting gruesome details that otherwise don't find their way into the pages of family newspapers.

New Union Program Gives Leadership Opportunities

By BRONSON HAVARD
Toreador News Editor

Steve George, newly elected president of the Tech Union, won the top student office under the new Union program because of a background of leadership experience.

The new program approved this semester gives leadership opportunities in the Union to interested and qualified students who do not have previous Union experience.

TODAY IS THE deadline to apply for Union committee chairmanships. Interested students should apply at the Program Council Office.

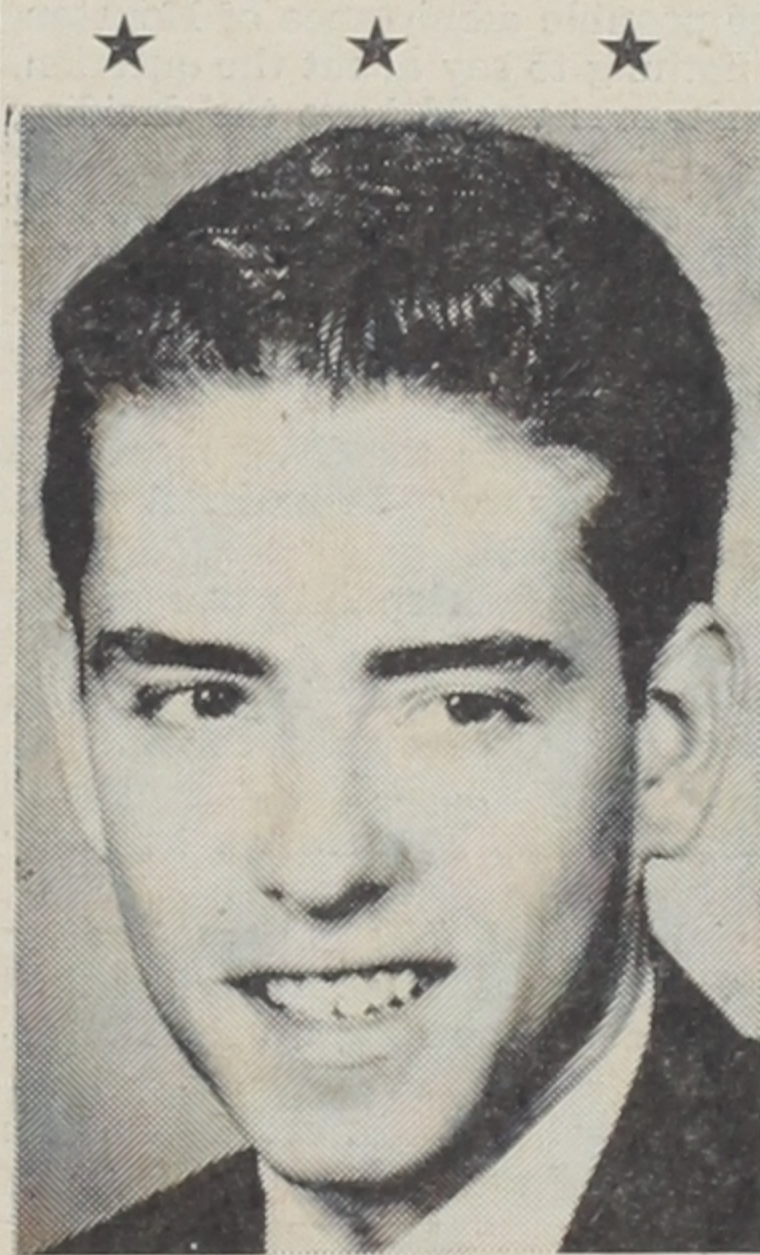

On his recent election George commented, "I'm very pleased to have been selected as president of the Union for the coming year and I hope that I can contribute to its continued growth. To succeed Kay Cravens (the current president) will be quite a job . . . she has been a tremendous leader."

GEORGE, A JUNIOR math major from Houston, has done outstanding work as vice president of the Student Honors Council for the past two years, and is a member of the honors program.

"I HAVE ALWAYS been interested in the Union's programs and its new policy of selecting officers from the campus at large gave me the opportunity to apply for a position," George said.

Commenting on next year's program he said, "As far as policies for next year, the master plan will be one of flexibility. We plan to keep the Tech Student Union growing in all of its programs to stay ahead of Tech's population boom."

By MIKE WALL

The University of Houston's decision to seek admittance to the Southwest Conference came as somewhat of a surprise although the topic has come up several times.

Richard Boldt, sports editor of the Daily Texan said earlier this year that he didn't believe UH would be able to get into the Conference in the next 10 years if ever.

Boldt said that he couldn't see any conference fielding two teams from the same city. In view of the fact that Jess Neely wouldn't care to see the Rice gate cut by another SWC school, it would have seemed that Neely would have protested the move by Houston quite a bit.

Boldt also pointed out that a nine team league would return the SWC to an odd man out per week and the extra game would leave room for only two intersectional games each season.

Also, UH's position would make them a prime candidate for the Orange, Sugar, and Bluebonnet Bowls if they were in the Conference.

NEELY WOULDN'T SAY

When Neely was asked about the possible admittance of Houston, he said that the coaches would have nothing to say about the question, and that the faculty men of the Conference would have the deciding answer.

In his position of athletic director of Rice, I'm sure Neely would have a little more influence than he will admit.

Swimming coach Jim McNally leaves the first day of spring vacation for the NCAA meet at New Haven, Conn., and he'll be taking with him Tech diver Jesse Marsh.

Marsh won the only first place Tech took in the SWC meet and the first place finishers automatically qualify for the national meet.

MARSH SHOWS PROMISE

Marsh is only a sophomore and should develop into one of the better college divers before his eligibility expires.

Marsh is currently working out three times daily in preparation for the trip and McNally said that he is really excited about making it.

"The farthest east Jesse has ever been was during our trip to Houston, so the trip to New Haven should really be a change for him," McNally said.

McNally recalled with a laugh visiting with Jesse's parents after he had taken the SWC first place honors. He said that when he asked where Jesse was, his parents said that he was spading up the flowerbeds around the house.

According to McNally, Marsh's dad said, "Southwest Conference champion or not, he's still got to do his work."

Pics Take Two From SPC; Extend Win String To Three

The Tech Picador baseball team extended its win record to 3-0 yesterday, taking both games of a doubleheader with South Plains Junior College.

The Pics snuck by the Texans in the first game, 5-3, but blasted SPC from the field after five innings in the nightcap, 14-1.

Eldon Fox, won his second game of the season in the first game, striking out 15 opponents and walking four along the way.

Fox seemed to be in trouble in the last inning after walking the first two batters to face him. But he relied on a combination of fast balls and curves to strike out the last three batters of the game.

Tech got off to a two run first inning lead as Jerry Tidwell walked, advanced on a stolen base and scored on a single by Keller Smith.

Smith advanced on another error, stole another base and went home on a sacrifice fly by Tommy Jones.

Tech's second run came in the second inning when Larry Kroeger was safe on first on an error. Chuck Worrell sacrificed him to second, he advanced to third on a passed ball, and scored on a single by catcher Mike Hancock.

Tech put the game on ice in the bottom half of the fifth with a two-run output. Tidwell singled to start the inning off and was scored on a triple by Keller Smith. Smith then went home on a double by Tommy Thomas.

In the second game, it was strictly no contest, with the Picadors scoring 14 runs on 11 hits and seven Texan errors.

Chris Galanos led off the Tech scoring barrage with a home run in the first inning.

The Pics didn't do too much for the rest of the first and the second, but they erupted for five big runs in the third and added another seven in the fourth.

Danny Davis, playing in his first game of the season, went the distance for the freshman, striking out eight and allowing only one hit.

Davis also collected one double in three trips to the plate.

In addition to Galanos' homer, Thomas and Jack Hines collected roundtrippers and Smith added another double.
