SC Head To Leave Saturday

LBJ Invites Botkin To Meet

By BRONSON HAVARD
 Editor

A special White House conference of key student leaders in the United States begins Saturday at the request of President Lyndon B. Johnson, The Daily Treador learned Tuesday.

Ronnie Botkin, president of the student body, will represent Texas Tech.

In a letter to Dr. R. C. Goodwin, president of Texas Tech, President Johnson said, "I am inviting to the White House a group of student leaders from representative colleges and universities throughout the country."

Government leaders attending the conference and scheduled to give talks to the student leaders are Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

The only indication as to the purpose of the suddenly arranged conference was President Johnson's words, "... I have a great interest in the young leaders who are emerging in our colleges and would like to know them and their thinking ..."

President Johnson told Dr. Goodwin that information concerning the conference would be sent to the student leader selected to represent Texas Tech.

Botkin said Tuesday he was still awaiting word from the White House but was planning to leave by air for Washington, D. C. Saturday morning.

The letter to Dr. Goodwin was dated Sept. 24 and personally signed by the President.

President Johnson requested that Tech send a "... young person ... who has shown special qualities of character, leadership and interest in college and public affairs."

Saturday evening President and Mrs. Johnson will personally greet the student leaders. A buffet dinner and entertainment is planned for the night.

Lynda Johnson, the President's daughter, will serve as hostess for the evening program.

Commenting on the conference, and his selection, Botkin said he was very pleased and anxious to attend the meeting with the President.

The visit to Washington, D.C., will be Botkin's first.

At Tech Botkin has been active in student government for several years, having served last year as business manager* of the Student Council and has held numerous committee positions in Tech student government.

Rep. Miller Says Files Destroyed

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The Johnson administration ordered the destruction of "tools of information" valuable in uncovering security risks in the State Department, the GOP vice presidential nominee Rep. William E. Miller of New York, charged Tuesday.

It appears, he said in a statement, that the administration "may not want the Goldwater administration to learn next January what is in those files."

In Washington the State Department said the files involved were in field offices and were duplicates of originals which are kept in Washington.

Miller made the comment as he campaigned through Missouri and Kansas, encountering reports of polls that Sen. Barry Goldwater and himself are running behind in those states.

But, in speech after speech, Miller told his audiences to cheering, enthusiastic responses: "The polls are wrong. They were wrong in New Hampshire, they were wrong in California, and they are wrong now."

Miller addressed a breakfast rally of 600 Republican workers in St. Louis, Mo., participated in a St. Louis television interview, held a news conference, and flew to Hutchinson for a rally in a downtown auditorium.

From Hutchinson his schedule took him to Laramie, Wyo., continuing a campaign swing through the Midwest and West.

IFC Sponsors Smoker Today

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) hosts a smoker at 7 p.m. today in the ballroom of the Tech Union to familiarize men students with Tech's fraternity system.

Each of Tech's 11 fraternity presidents will discuss the aspects of their respective organization's program.

Thomas P. Stover, faculty advisor to fraternities, said the smoker is designed to introduce the various fraternities to new students.

The smoker is open to all men students desiring to attend.

Humphrey Campaigns In Georgia

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota carried his Democratic vice-presidential campaign into the Deep South for the first time Tuesday. He drew both heckling and cheers and declared, "I will not speak out of both sides of my mouth" on civil rights.

At Tifton, in the heart of the south Georgia farming region, Humphrey said Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, is "down here whistling Dixie—and it's the most expensive whistle you'll ever hear in your life if you listen to it."

"Up North he is the champion of equal rights," Humphrey said. "Down here, he's the champion of Goldwater."

In an address to a University of Georgia audience at Athens, he said Goldwater speaks the language of a nihilist.

"And to all men dedicated to the American tradition—whether liberal or conservative—nihilism is the politics of catastrophe."

Humphrey was trailed through south Georgia by Sen. Strom Thurmond, leader of a Republican "truth squad." Thurmond banged away at the issues of constitutional government and farm income.

Students Urged To Get Tickets

Students holding reserved tickets for the New Christy Minstrels show are reminded to pick them up by 5 p.m. Wednesday at the Tech Union ticket office. Unclaimed tickets will be sold after the deadline.

Council Debates Validity Of Cheerleader Board

The controversial Cheerleader Screening Board, a measure declared unconstitutional by the Tech Supreme Court last spring, made another debut at a Student Council session Tuesday night.

No vote was taken on the matter, either to re-create the Board again or to abandon it entirely, but SC President Ronnie Botkin said a vote will be taken next week after Council members have had a chance to obtain the reactions of students.

The Board, as explained by Edsel Buchanan, cheerleader faculty sponsor and director of intramurals, would be set up to provide for more qualified candidates for the election of varsity and freshman cheerleaders.

Original plans for the Board were passed by the Council late last spring.

The Screening Board would judge and rate all cheerleader hopefuls on the basis of body control, on crowd control and appeal, on originality and value of new cheers and motions, and on the basis of brief written applications.

The Board members would judge all applicants on a sliding numerical scale, with the candidate having to get above a certain number before they would be declared eligible to run.

In the plan discussed by the Council, persons sitting on the Board would include the faculty sponsor, head cheerleader, senior girl cheerleader, Student Assn. business manager, Council member-at-large, Saddle Tramps member and a member of the Athletic Council.

Along with the vote on the Screening Board next week, the Council will hear reports from the Name-Change Committee, the Traffic Committee and the Self-Evaluation Committee.

"The only reason the board was declared unconstitutional last year," said Botkin, "was because of an article in the by-laws that stated that all election procedures had to be set up before Oct. 15 of the election year."

"NOW HOW DID THAT ...?" — Tom M. Atchison campus security policeman, ponders how this "Parallel Parking" sign suddenly grew in the middle of Memorial Circle yesterday. He seems to be thinking, "They know that only diagonal parking is allowed here."

Johnson Girls Give Circuit Assistance

WASHINGTON (AP)—It reads like a road-show itinerary—Milwaukee, Louisville, Minneapolis, Beverly Hills, Indianapolis.

The Johnson girls are on the circuit, the campaign circuit that is, eating their way across country through mountains of Texas spare-ribs, corn on the cob and hot fried pies.

Dad Stays Home

Lynda and Luci are out on the hustings nearly every weekend, campaigning like mad—and raising big money—to keep dad in his Washington home, at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They'll be at it right up to Election Day, and there's never been anything like it. The girls, Lynda, 20 and Luci, 17, are turning out to be their father's best campaigners.

Girls Score First

Barnstorming by the President's children is virtually unprecedented. Margaret Truman joined her father in 1948 on a whistle-stop tour, but the Johnson girls go out on their own, hitting the stops singly under the banner of the Young Citizens for Johnson as the feature attraction of weekend barbecues. Their booking is solid and they're a hit.

On a typical summer weekend, Lynda was charming the guests at a little ole Texas barbecue for 1,900 people on a Long Island estate, Luci was having a ball at the Wisconsin State Fair and their mother was shooting the rapids in the breath-taking Snake River country of the Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming.

Frat Starts With Smoker

Alphi Phi Omega, men's national service fraternity, begins its 26th year on campus with a smoker at 7:30 p.m. today in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

The fraternity is composed of men who have had scouting experience. The organization conducts many worthwhile projects on campus such as coordination of homecoming activities and co-sponsoring the "Little 500" bicycle race in the spring.

The Tech chapter, Beta Sigma, is sponsored by Dean L. N. Jones.

Assassin Slips By Policemen

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second of an AP series giving the partial text and conclusions of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. A part of the report summary will run each day until completed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the shots were fired, a Dallas motorcycle patrolman, Marrion L. Baker, was riding in the motorcar at a point several cars behind the President. He had turned right from Main Street onto Houston Street and was about 200 feet south of Elm Street when he heard a shot.

Saw Pigeons

He looked up and saw pigeons scattering in the air from their perches on the Texas School Book Depository Building. He raced his motorcycle to the building, dismounted, scanned the area to the west and pushed his way through the spectators toward the entrance.

There he encountered Roy Truly, the building superintendent, who offered Baker his help. They entered the building, and ran toward the two elevators in the rear. Finding that both elevators were on an upper floor, they dashed up the stairs.

Reached Second Floor

When they reached the second-floor landing on their way up to the top of the building, Patrolman Baker thought he caught a glimpse of someone through the small glass window in the door separating the hall area near the stairs from the small vestibule leading into the lunchroom. Gun in hand, he rushed to the door and saw a man about 20 feet away walking toward the other end of the lunchroom. The man was empty-handed.

At Baker's command, the man turned and approached him. Baker asked Truly whether he knew the man in the lunchroom. Truly replied the man worked there.

Oswald 'Loner'

The man they encountered had started working in the Texas School Book Depository Building on October 16, 1963. His fellow workers described him as very quiet—a "loner." His name was Lee Harvey Oswald.

Approximately 7 minutes later, at about 12:40 p.m. Oswald boarded a bus at a point on Elm Street seven short blocks east of the Depository Building.

Recognized By Former Landlady
On the bus was Mrs. Mary Bledsoe, one of Oswald's former landladies who immediately recognized him. Oswald stayed on the bus approximately 3 or 4 minutes, during which time it proceeded only two blocks.

A few minutes later he entered a vacant taxi four blocks away and asked the driver to take him to a point on North Beckley Avenue.

At about 1 p.m. Oswald arrived at the rooming house. A few minutes later Oswald emerged from his room.

Another Shooting

Approximately 14 minutes later, and just 45 minutes after the assassination, another violent shooting occurred in Dallas. The victim was Patrolman J. D. Tippit of the Dallas police.

At approximately 1:15 p.m., Tippit was driving slowly in an easterly direction on East 10th Street in Oak Cliff.

Tippit pulled up alongside a man walking in the same direction.

Tippit Killed Instantly

Tippit opened the door on the left side and started to walk around the front of his car. As he reached the front wheel on the driver's side, the man on the sidewalk drew a revolver and fired several shots in rapid succession, killing Tippit instantly.

Domingo Benavides, a passing observer, promptly reported the shooting to police headquarters over the radio in Tippit's car. The message was received shortly after 1:16 p.m.

LBJ Suggests Rank Advance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sent to the Senate today the nomination of former astronaut Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. for promotion to full colonel in the Marine corps.

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, wrote the Marine Corps last July asking that he not be considered for promotion because he intended to leave the Corps.

Glenn said promotion was predicated on the future value of an officer.

Fred Mills, graduate teaching assistants, are production assistants under Ashby.

Mrs. Suzanne Aker, women's physical education department dance instructor, is director of choreography.

Harris Co. To Control, Curb

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney general ruled today that Harris County is authorized to spend county funds for mosquito control, but its tax rate cannot exceed the Texas constitutional limit of 80 cents per $100 valuation.

Harris County Atty. Joe Resweber asked the opinion. County commissioners are considering a mosquito control program to curb mosquitoes.

Senate Reconsiders, Roll-Call Vote Is Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate decided today to reconsider and have a roll-call vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to establish methods to fill vacancies in the vice presidency and to settle presidential disability questions.

The decision came after Sen. John Stennis, R-Miss., voiced objections to the Senate's action in passing the proposed amendment Monday on a voice vote with only nine senators present.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana declared with some heat that the action was entirely within the Senate's rules and that leaders were told that

Damage Caused By Shortcuts

"Shortcuts across the lawn from Hulen Hall to 19th St. could cause even more damage than was incurred after Saturday's game," said Dr. J. W. Kitchen, head of ground maintenance.

Cars attempting to avoid traffic jams cut across the lawn in front of Hulen causing deep ruts which will necessitate relandscaping of the entire area.

The real danger of such shortcuts lies in the possibility of damage to the underground sprinkler system. Due to the fact that the plot is new, several of the sprinkler heads extend above ground level. A car could easily hit one of these sprinklers causing a rupture of the pipes.

Bill Daniels, chief of traffic security said that tickets and fines will be issued to future violators.

Restaurant Operator Cited For Contempt

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Restaurant owner Lester G. Maddox has been ordered into federal court in a contempt proceeding after he had opened a new cafeteria and refused service to Negroes Monday.

U. S. Dist. Court Judge Frank

A. Hooper signed an order requiring Maddox to appear at a hearing Oct. 2 to show cause why he should not be held in contempt.

Maddox and his heirs or successors were enjoined by federal court order from racial discrimination in operation of the Pickrick.

Voter Deadline Nears

THERE ARE PERHAPS several hundred students here who have recently become 21-years-old or who will turn 21 before the Nov. 3 general election.

We wonder if there are some among this group who do not realize that Oct. 3—Saturday—is the final deadline for registering as a new voter.

Students who have turned 21 this year or who will turn 21 before the election must register in order to vote. Students who will turn 21 between Oct. 3 and Nov. 4 can register before their actual birthdate.

With as much at stake in the upcoming presidential, senatorial and representative elections, we believe every student would want to cast his vote.

A deadline is a deadline. If you are 21 and have not registered, then you either must do so and vote or stay quiet after Nov. 3.

WHAT THEY'RE SAYING

About The Silence

EARLY DEVELOPMENTS in the 1964 presidential campaign indicate that Lyndon Johnson has no intention of abandoning his role as President in order to answer Barry Goldwater. By virtually ignoring Goldwater's speeches he withholds the prestige that accompanies Presidential recognition. Seldom does he refer to Goldwater by name.

By adopting such tactics the President is virtually assuring himself of victory, but he is ignoring the true opportunity that the 1964 campaign presents. Not since William Jennings Bryan faced William McKinley has the American Electorate been presented such a clear choice between candidates; never during that period have potential issues been so clearly defined.

But thus far Goldwater has not concentrated on issues, and Johnson has not forced him to do so. The Chief Executive is able to control the tempo and direction of the campaign, and Johnson has chosen to let Goldwater stray.

In reality the campaign has not begun, and if the present trend continues, it never will. Johnson's strategy will leave Goldwater without effective reply, and will continue to force the Arizonan into the role of a Minority Senator rather than a Presidential candidate.

Such tactics can only aid Johnson. But in refusing to meet Goldwater squarely on the issue of the direction of the nation, the President is smoothing over a split which cannot be camouflaged forever. Unless the attitude of the nation is resolved now, Johnson and the new Congress may prove to be a far more intriguing struggle than Johnson and Goldwater.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

There is a guy squatting in the corner, vaguely illuminated by the subdued hue of a blue lightbulb. His eyes appear characteristically alight in the dimness. He ignores the dancing but occasionally tilts his head and lackadassically snaps his fingers to the pulsating earthiness of low slow blues from the phonograph.

He Has An Audience

The line of his jaw seems clean and definitive, matching a certain enunciative distinctiveness in his diction. He has an audience of three or four couples, for which he is the center of attention and knows it.

He gesticulates by stroking his chin, as of fondling a beard which may or may not exist. He speaks with a deliberate cunningness, and his lips twitch into the smile of one who revels in the hidden luminescences of cryptic subtleties which gleam phosphorescently in the dark, philosophical sea of his intelligence.

He is directing an intellectual argument and to win it he will wear the aura of inductive logic like a chastity belt or he will play games with semantics until his victims are tricked into intellectual impotence as though bewitched by Mau Mau terrorists.

The Have-You-Read-This-Game

He will play the have-you-read-this-game in an attempt to evaluate your intellectual sophistication, and he will quote great ideas from great men and tell you how they have it or don't have it and why.

Literary analysis suddenly becomes an esoteric crossword puzzle worked by filling in the proper symbolic definitions, music appreciation becomes a contest in naming obscure composers, and a modern painting becomes something to hang on the wall like the framed, first-earned dollar.

His contemporaries probably consider him to be a brilliant student. Or perhaps he has not yet learned to sufficiently disguise his naivete, and he is immediately classified as a pseudo-intellectual.

To Use A Hackneyed Expression

The term pseudo-intellectual is probably a trite, hackneyed expression, to use a trite, hackneyed expression.

But they say that you are here to learn and they tell you in way of passing that it is up to you to decide whether you want to learn or to just get a degree to satisfy your family or get a diploma for a status symbol—all of which are perfectly legitimate points but are unfortunately probably notoriously familiar to every college student.

So you try to figure the value of the big cliché, and at the same time you are either trying to ignore the guy in the corner or trying to beat him at his own game.

And in this, academic and/or intellectual competition can wrench itself from the merely scholastic and into the purely personal and with it go its concomitant jaudices—cynicism and rebellion being stages that are usually the most immediate emotional outlets—stages sometimes indicative of frustrated competition motives.

Something To Fill The Void

Emotional motivations toward intellectualism can be secondary manifestations of identity strivings, something to fill the void in the life of the student who feels that he is essentially nothing but a face in the crowd, his existence recognized only by the sullen countenance reflected by his ID card or by the jejune acceptance of friends who are willing to grovel in mediocrity.

The guy in the corner has escaped from all of it, temporarily at least, into a form of ecclesiastical hipness that broadcasts his membership in the cult of the aware, using the vocabulary of what might be called the code of the libertine or the communication of the confused.

Hopefully it is a stage, realistically it is a monotony, pessimistically, it is a curse.

But he speaks on, and you light a cigarette and say nothing but later you complain.

Automation To Change Lectures

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (IP) — Automation will turn college lecture halls into discussion forums, a University of Michigan authority predicts.

Dr. Stanford C. Ericksen, director of the Center for Research on Learning and Teaching, said here that teaching machines will allow students to learn more on their own initiative.

The professor thereby will gain "some degree of freedom from his traditional role of telling things to students and moves closer to the more rewarding relationship of discussing things with his students," he explained.

Technological means of presenting information to the student—such as educational television and programmed instruction—will come to utilize "the powerful relationship of discussing things with individually different students," Dr. Ericksen said.

"Insofar as the student can acquire the prerequisite information by himself, he can then converse with his teacher in a two-way inquiry about problems and issues for which answers are not yet known," Dr. Ericksen continued.

Similar to the dialogues Greek philosophers had with their students, this is university teaching at its best, he added.

Michigan Center for Research on Learning Center for Research is working to achieve this level of teaching, Dr. Ericksen said.

He pointed out that graduating seniors in future years will not only have acquired basic information, but will have learned how new knowledge is acquired and how they as members of society can adapt to the rapidly expanding body of information concerning the physical and biological world as well as the social affairs of man.

"This means that college teaching must go beyond the relatively easy task of transmitting established knowledge.

The more difficult future role will not be a choice between teaching or researching, but rather how to bring these attitudes and issues and methods of intellectual exploration and inquiry into the classroom."

Liberal Arts Still Needed

NEW YORK N.Y. (IP) — Oddly enough, comments Dr. Jacques Barzun, Columbia University provost and dean of faculties, while the liberal arts college, abetted by the graduate school, is squeezing out the old liberal education, the chief professional schools still ask for it in their candidates for admissions.

According to Dean Barzun, the law schools want students who know some history and can read English; the medical schools want well-rounded men; and the engineering schools profess the greatest respect for the humanities and social sciences.

In practice, he adds, admissions committees often betray these principles and prefer the candidate whose record shows a positive gluttony for science and mathematics.

"If starvation by routine kills off the intellectual appetites there will be nothing to restore; and it is likely that no appetite will last very long if it is neglected from the age of sixteen, when it is just becoming aware of itself."

American Colonel Instrumental In Averting Viet Civil War

Big 'Band Contest' Sparks All-School Dance Saturday

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A 46-year-old American Army officer with three children offered his submachine gun to a suspected Communist Viet Cong agent last Sunday and invited the man to kill him.

The American lived, and a bloody civil war between South Vietnamese army forces and armed rebel tribesmen was avoided.

The American, Col. John Freund, stayed for eight days as a combination hostage and message passer at the key camp of the Rhade tribal rebels.

The colonel was awarded a Bronze Star Tuesday by commanding Gen. William C. Wetmoreland.

For days, Freund had reasoned and cajoled and pleaded with his captors to release 60 Vietnamese prisoners they were holding at Buon Sar Pa. He knew that if the prisoners were kept beyond a certain time limit, the Vietnamese army would storm in with guns blazing.

A freshly dug mass grave in the camp marked the place where many Vietnamese victims of the revolt had been dumped just a few days before, and the whole camp knew there might be more bodies.

Finally, the Vietnamese gave the Americans a deadline for getting the prisoners out, and Freund was told to try anything.

In his own words, this was how Freund got the prisoners out under the guns of 300 rebels trained by the Americans:

"I looked around for rebel leaders. One of the leaders—the leader—had actually departed. He left in the very early phases.

"I tried to keep it a secret, and never gave away exactly what I was going to do until the very last moment. Finally I simply said to a large group of rebel troops that for your own security, and I sincerely meant security and their own welfare, in the interests of their people, it would be to their advantage that the prisoners be released."

"The government district chief was the first one to come out and everyone else followed him. From there we went down to the second compound, took the prisoners out from here."

—New Christy Minstrels— Folk - Singing Group Will Bring 'Rousing Sounds' To Lubbock

The rousing sounds of folk music will fill the Municipal Auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday when the New Christy Minstrels make their first Lubbock appearance.

The singing group, consisting of seven men and two women, combines collegiate good looks with distinctive folk harmonizing and expert musicianship.

The New Christy Minstrels perform "en masse," and each member of the group has a specialty which is done as a solo number. They accompany themselves on banjos, guitars and as "Life" magazine says, "with wide-open mouths."

The young singers have two notable achievements. They introduced the hootenanny at the White House and on Broadway. They entertained at a reception in the White House in January, 1964, at the invitation of Pres. Lyndon Johnson. The group's Broadway triumph occurred at the famous Latin Quarter nightclub.

"Variety" said, "The wide assortment of instruments and voices give the group all a full-blown force with captivating drive." "Billboard" Magazine described the Christy Minstrels as 'one of the strongest on-stage acts in the folknik field.'

The group was founded in 1961 by Randy Sparks, a vocalist-instrumentalist-arranger. Sparks had the musical idea of patterning a modern singing group after a company of pre-Civil War entertainers created by Edwin "Pops" Christy.

As he formed the group, Sparks decided that the New Christy Minstrels would use the original minstrels only as a musical pattern.

He did away with bad jokes, cliché routines and the melancholy-style ballad characteristic of many folk-singers.

The New Christy Minstrels were an instant success in nightclubs, supper clubs, on the concert circuit and on television.

Their record albums became best sellers in the United States, and the multi-lingual versions of their songs became collectors' items in Europe, Asia and 121 other countries.

Figures recently released by Columbia Records show that the group's last five albums reached an aggregate total of 2 million copies, not including singles.

Moscow, while supposedly disdaining anything American, has permitted the State Radio to play the New Christy Minstrels' record albums. The Russians point out that the American folk songs they sing are the authentic style of America's 19th century frontier entertainers — and that was B.C. (Before Capitalists).

Members of the group are Karen Gunderson, 21; Ann White, 24; Barry McGuire, 29; Barry Kane, 22; Nick woods 23; Larry Ramos, 22; Art Podeli, 28; Clarence Treat, 27; and Paul Potash, 24.

Tickets for the New Christy Minstrels' appearance are still on sale in the program office of the Tech Union. Tickets are $1.50 per student, and an I. D. must be presented for each ticket purchased.

Communist China Nuclear Test Scene

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist China may explode its first nuclear test bomb in the near future, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday.

"If it does occur, we shall know about it and will make the information public," Rusk declared in a statement.

While cautiously worded, his statement was one of the strongest made recently on the possibility that Red China may be on the verge of becoming the fifth power in the "nuclear club." The United States, Britain, Soviet Union and France are the nuclear powers, France being the newest developer of atomic weapons.

Billie Sol's Statement — Gov. Connally Says No

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally said Tuesday Billie Sol Estes made no statement last week to the Department of Public Safety "or to any other state official to my knowledge."

The governor referred in a news conference to a statement Monday by Fagan Dickson, state finance chairman for U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex.

from the now-bankrupt financier to Yarborough in 1960.

Dickson said in a news release the reported Estes statement, if released, "would further support" the U.S. Justice Department's findings that allegations of the gift were "without foundation in fact." He declined to elaborate.

Yarborough Missed Alleged Report
In San Angelo, Yarborough said Tuesday he had not seen the statement issued in Austin by Fagan.

"I myself have not seen the release," said Yarborough. "Fagan Dickson knows more about the repudiation . . . he told me there was a confession . . . but I have not talked to those people Dickson has."

Connally Discussed Statement
Connally said he discussed the Dickson statement with Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director. The department has been investigating Estes' affairs since his financial empire crumbled in 1962 and "will continue until all ramifications and aspects have been cleared up."

"As far as I am concerned, the DPS has a very clear duty and responsibility with respect to law enforcement in this state," Connally said.

nally said. "It is not a political organization, has not been used as such and will not be used as such as long as I have anything to do with it."

Connally To Address Demos

The governor also announced to newsmen he will address Democrats at rallies Wednesday in Bismarck, N.D., and Oct. 7 in Phoenix, Ariz., in his first strictly political appearances outside of Texas since the Democratic National Convention.

The governor said he is "at a loss" to understand the Dickson statement.

BUDDHA RELIC

LONDON (AP) — The prime minister of Ceylon, Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike, will bring a relic of Buddha to London Oct. 13 for enshrinement at a new Buddhist center at Chiswick. The gold-encased bone fragment is the first relic of Buddha officially to be enshrined outside of Asia.

Fiji Olympics Anderson Sets Pace In Raider Statistics

Eleven of Texas Tech's twelve social sororities will emerge from hiding dressed in full battle regalia Saturday and clash for top honors in the 10th annual Fiji Olympics to be staged on the Drane Hall Green at 2 p.m.

The traditional olympic torch will be ignited to signal the beginning of competition and the coeds will spend the afternoon vying for trophies and ribbons to be given to the winners.

Trophies will be awarded to the first three places in overall competition and a trophy will be given to each of the sororities who finish first, second and third in the tug-o-war. Also a sportsmanship award will be given to the sorority displaying outstanding sportsmanship.

Other events scheduled to test the coed's athletic prowess are the egg toss, balloon toss, still races, three-legged race, sack race and potato carry. Ribbons will be awarded in these events. Everyone is invited to attend the annual event.

Four Texas Tech players lead the Red Raiders statistically going into the Texas A&M game at College Station Saturday night.

Halfback Donny Anderson of Stinnett tops the Raiders in three of the eight departments, while double leaders are fullback Jim Zanios of Albuquerque, N. M., and safety Teddy Roberts of Gulfport, Miss. Quarterback Tom Wilson of Corsicana is the other statistical pace-setter.

Anderson is tops in pass receiving, catching 7 for 118 yards; punting, 11 for 38.7 average; and he has returned four kickoffs for 76 yards and a 19.0 average.

Zanios is still the leading rusher with 120 yards on 32 tries for a 3.8 average, and the most points, 12. Roberts has intercepted two passes for 18 yards of return, and has run back three punts seven yards.

Wilson is the leading passer, completing 11 of 20 for 156 yards and a 55 per cent accuracy figure

As a team the Raiders are averaging 210 yards of total offense per game and permitting a 229.5 average.

Another Good Year Likely For Passers

(AP)—It looks like another year of the quarterback in college football, with one going at a record pace in the two-week-old season.

Tom LaFramboise, quarterback at the University of Louisville, got off to a fast start in the NCAA Service Bureau football statistics by throwing and completing more passes in the first two games than any other major college quarterback has before. If he can keep up the pace for eight more games, he'll finish far ahead of George Mira's and Don Trull's 1963 records.

The first release of college individual figures shows LaFramboise with 45 completions on 75 attempts for 514 yards—and his team lost both games.

The 190-pound passer from Lincoln Park, Mich., is 11 completions ahead of Craig Morton of California. And despite losing 38 yards on the ground, his 476-yard total offense figure is 27 yards ahead of runner-up Larry Zeno of UCLA.

Louisville, rather naturally, also has the leading pass receiver, sophomore Clarence Spencer, who has caught 17 of LaFramboise's tosses. Jack Schraub of California has made 16 catches.

Ray Handley of Stanford leads in rushing with 252 yards on 35 carries, five yards ahead of Brian Piccolo of Wake Forrest. Joe Namath of Alabama and Syracuse sophomore Floyd Little share the scoring lead with 30 points each.
