'All I See Is Red Day'

PAINTING THE CAMPUS RED — Saddle Tramps Kent Hance and David Webb prepare the campus for "All I See Is Red Day" today by adding a touch of red paint here and there. To complete the job of turning the campus red, the Saddle Tramps are urging all students to wear red today and to the game tonight, where Tramps have also decorated Jones Stadium.

WT Runners Relay Pigskin To Lubbock

By MARY ALICE NABORS
Staff Writer

A pleasant surprise is in store for football fans at the Tech-West Texas game tonight—maybe.

The United States Weather Bureau reported Friday afternoon that clear skies and warmer weather are in the forecast for today and tonight in the Lubbock area, but that's exactly what the weathermen said before the hail-plagued SMU tilt several weeks ago and even before the drenched Texas game last month.

During those last two home games, the weather prognosticators had a perfect average going for them — all wrong. When contacted Friday, one of the weather-watchers said, "As of now, it looks as if we have everything on our side for good conditions, but we still have an office pool set up to see how close we come to being right."

See Weather

But whatever the weather, a group of West Texas State supporters will be seeing a lot of it before today's game gets underway at 7:30 p.m.

Starting at noon Friday, members of a WTSU fraternity started a 102-mile relay from Canyon to carry a football into Lubbock. Runners were to carry the ball a mile each before handing it off to another carrier.

The ball was expected to arrive in Lubbock in the wee hours of the morning and be on hand at the Buffaloes pre-game pep rally at 5:45 p.m. on the coliseum parking lot.

Present Pigskin

WTSU President James P. Cornette presented the pigskin to the president of the WTSU student body, Larry Elms, who in turn gave it to the student group running the relay.

The ball will also be featured in pre-game ceremonies with Tech Student Assn. officers, and the winner of the game will get to keep the ball.

Also keeping an eye on the weather will be the big Tech band under the direction of Dean Killion. The last time the band has gotten to march on the Jones Stadium field was at the Texas game in October when many fans were huddling under the bleachers to get out of the rain.

Creep Away

At the SMU game, the band silently folded up their instruments and crept away into the night when the rains and hail started falling.

Tonight, the band hopes to follow a Southern theme, with songs such as "Alabama Jubilee," "Swanee," "Deep in the Heart of Texas," "Dixie," "Are You From Dixie?" and a medley of "Alabama Bound" and "Mississippi Mud."

On the campus proper, today is officially designated "All I See Is Red Day." Students and the general public will show their school spirit by donning the traditional red for the game.

Get In Spirit

Even The Daily Tornado is getting in the spirit of the Saddle Tramp-sponsored day by coming out in red ink.

The Tramps will carry out the color theme by decorating the goal posts and student sections of the stadium in red and black crepe paper.

The Red Raiders will also show up in the all-red uniforms — no matter what the weather.

Museum Schedules Big Move

Mark Hailey, Museum Assn. president, announced plans Thursday for a new West Texas Museum.

"Plans are ambitious and only in the first stages," Hailey told the Tornado. He estimates the cost at $2.5-million for the basic unit and several of the proposed halls.

New museum facilities are planned for a 15-acre tract at 4th St. and Indiana Ave., "...providing Tech and city officials agree to extend the avenue through the campus."

Central Unit

Initial construction will have approximately 40,000 square feet of space. There will be a central unit for exhibition of an Allosaurus dinosaur skeleton coming from Utah next year and an elephant skeleton now in storage.

Exhibition halls will branch from the central unit. Halls are being planned for transportation, clothing and textile, religion, oil and cowboys-cattle presentations. A "Continuing Education Hall" is planned for seminars and similar meetings.

Examine Plans

A joint subcommittee of the Tech and museum board members will be authorized to hire architects for studying and drawing up a master plan. Museum officials will examine the first-draft floor plans Monday.

According to Hailey, Tech will build the first unit in exchange for the present Museum Bldg. Tech will use the present Museum Bldg. for additional classrooms.

'Shakespearian' Fine Arts Production Will Open Two-Week Campus Show

By NANCY MILLER
Fine Arts Editor

Tech's annual Fine Arts Festival, a two-week series of concerts, movies, exhibits, drama and special events, will begin Sunday.

The festival's Shakespearian theme will be carried out in its highlights, which will include a performance by folk-singer Richard Dyer-Bennet, Tech Speech Dept.'s first production of the year, Shakespeare's "The Tempest," and readings from Shakespeare by Basil Rathbone.

A new facet of the festival is the essay contest for students sponsored by the Union and Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English society. Papers on any of the arts prominent during Shakespeare's era will be judged by members of the English Dept. Rathbone will present cash awards to the first, second and third place winners.

The first event of the festival will be a concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. The Tech Choir, Tech Singers and symphony orchestra will present music based on Shakespeare's plays, including the overture to "Merry Wives of Windsor" by Nicolai, and nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn, and Vaughan-Williams' "Three Songs by Shakespeare."

The Union will also begin its series of festival movies Sunday at 7 p.m. with "The Ballet of Romeo and Juliet," performed by the Corps de Ballet and Orchestra of Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre.

Monday, Dr. Robert Loper, executive head of the Stanford University Speech and Drama Dept. will deliver the keynote address, "Twelfth Night: That Way Madness Lies," at 7 p.m. in the Union Coronado Room.

Dr. Loper will also speak at the Union's Coffee Hour at 10 a.m. Monday on "Romeo and Juliet" in the Mesa Room.

The film series will continue Monday at 4 p.m. with "Henry V" starring Laurence Olivier and Robert Newton. The film will be shown in the Coronado Room. The schedule for the rest of the week includes the following events:

TUESDAY: Richard Dyer-Bennet, composer, singer and instrumentalist, will present an evening of song at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

"Henry V" will continue at the Union at 4 p.m. Dr. Mary Louise Brewer of the English Dept. will speak at the Coffee Hour in the Union at 10 a.m. on "The Sonnets of Shakespeare."

WEDNESDAY: "Romeo and Juliet" starring Laurence Harvey, Susan Shentau and Flora Robson will be shown at 4 and 7 p.m. in the Union Coronado Room.

Charles Lawrie, director of the Opera Theater, will speak at the Coffee Hour at 10 a.m. on "Dramatic Music."

THURSDAY: The Speech Dept.'s "The Tempest" will open at the University Theater at 8:15 p.m.

"Romeo and Juliet" will continue at the Union at 4 and 7 p.m. Drs. Bill Lockard and Clarence E. Kincaid will discuss "Spontaneous and Deliberate—A Study in Creativity" at the Union Coffee Hour at 11 a.m.

FRIDAY: "Richard III" starring Lawrence Olivier, Claire Bloom and Cedric Hardwicke will be presented at 7 p.m. in the Union Coronado Room.

"The Tempest" will continue at 8:15 p.m. in the University Theater. The festival will run through Nov. 20.

Kauttu are three of six flyers on the team.

Band Sets Jazz Hour

Tech's stage band, under the direction of Dean Killion of the Tech Music Dept., will present a "Musicorama in Jazz" at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium of the West Texas Museum.

The "Musicorama in Jazz" is one of a series of Twilight Music Hour programs to be sponsored by the museum on the second Sunday of each month. No admission will be charged.

Maynard Plans Music Recital

Dr. Judson Dana Maynard, assistant professor of music, will present a music recital at 8 p.m. Monday at the First Methodist Church.

The program includes Bach-Vivaldi's Concerto in A Minor, Bach's Chorale-Preludes, Bernhard Heiden's Variations: "The Cruel Ships Carpenter" for Organ, Marcel Dupre's Prelude & Fugue in G minor, Haydn's The Musical Clocks, and Oliver Messiaen's Outbursts of Joy (Ascension Suite).

Dr. Maynard joined Tech faculty in September, 1961. A graduate of Montana State University, Dr. Maynard obtained his Doctor of Philosophy with a major in Music Theory at Indiana University in 1961.

Thunderbirds 'On Stage' In Reese AFB Air Show

The band stops playing, the crowd becomes hushed, and the ground seems to tremble. The Thunderbirds are "on stage."

This will be the scene at 3 p.m. today at Reese Air Force Base when the Thunderbirds, the world's first supersonic aerial team, put on their air show.

The team began in May, 1953 to "promote a better understanding and appreciation of air power and to assist with the effective advancement of our national policy objectives."

Since that time, they have toured the world flying up to one hundred air shows a year. There are six members of the actual flying team and about 40 enlisted men who serve as crew chiefs, maintenance men, etc.

The type of jet used is the Air Force F-100, a supersonic plane capable of reaching speeds of 823 miles per hour.

High School Students Attend Conference, Workshop Today

Area high school students visiting the Tech campus today have a full day awaiting them.

Beginning at 8 a.m. is registration for J-Day 1964 in the Journalism Bldg. This will be followed at 9:30 a.m. by a general assembly in the Agricultural Auditorium.

An awards luncheon is set for 11:45 a.m. in the Union Ballroom. The annual business meeting of the West Texas High School Press Assn. is set for 2:40 p.m. It will be followed by a tour of the campus at 3:45 p.m.

Also on the slate, beginning at 9 a.m., is the Student Activities Conference, sponsored jointly by the Interscholastic League, Texas Tech, and the high schools of West Texas.

The conference consists of a series of workshops on high school interscholastic events scheduled in the spring and will run until noon.

At 1:30 p.m., the South Plains Science and Mathematics Assn. workshop gets underway in room 101 of the Chemistry Bldg. Workshops are slated in biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics.

— 'Man From Rio' —

Fast-Moving Comedy Is Zany

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Fine Arts Staff

"That Man from Rio," showing at the Fine Arts Cinema, is a fast-moving adventure comedy on the same order as "North by Northwest," but not quite as good.

The French-Italian release stars Jean-Paul Belmondo, Jean Servais and Françoise Dorléac.

The completely fantastic plot is occasionally saved by Belmondo's good acting and by the splendid background photography of Rio de Janeiro, Brasilia and the Amazon River.

Central Plot

The plot centers around three small Indian statues which contain the secret to a hidden treasure in the Amazon Valley. One statue is owned by a French professor who is mysteriously kidnapped. The second is owned by a Brazilian industrialist who is found murdered. The third is the possession of a beautiful Parisian girl, the orphan of an Amazonian explorer.

The girl is played by Françoise Dorléac, whose performance is overshadowed by that of Belmondo.

When thugs attempt to kidnap the girl, her fiancé, Belmondo, is catapulted into a zany adventure. He follows the abductors through

Paris by motorcycle, steals an airline ticket to fly to Rio, and then follows the criminals to Brasilia by stolen bicycle, automobile and airplane.

Involved Process

In the process he becomes involved with Amazonian dartgun experts, policemen of several nationalities, a retired general, a diminutive shoe-shine boy (who provides him with a stolen car), a drunken explorer, carioca singers and a bawdy-house madam.

His adventures lead him from a slum shanty with a band and a well-stocked bar to a 40-room mansion with the same.

The climax comes when he parachutes from a plane into a bar-room brawl, and finally swings through the jungle on vines to overcome the villains in a lost Indian city.

Justice triumphs through his fantastic series of incidents; our hero and heroine are united and return to France — all in time for Belmondo to return to his Air Force unit before his eight-day leave expires.

Admirers of Jean-Paul Belmondo would do better to see "Breathless."
