Tech Panel Probes AAUP Blacklisting

By MIKE READ
Toreador Feature Editor

Dr. Lowell Blaisdell, history professor, moderating a joint symposium of two faculty organizations on academic freedom, said Wednesday that Tech should remain on AAUP censure for violations of academic freedom.

Blaisdell said that requirements set by the national American Assn. of University Professors have been only half met. These requirements were a tenure system and recompense to three discharged faculty members — a tenure system has been established.

The symposium marked the first time that the Tech chapters of the American Assn. of University Professors and the Texas Assn. of College Teachers joined forces on an issue of mutual interest.

Members of the symposium panel were Dr. Lawrence Graves, history professor; Dr. Robert Lawrence, assistant professor of government; Dr. Thadis Box, associate professor of agronomy; and James Cole, Student Council vice president.

Lawrence, speaking first before a well-filled Ag Engineering Auditorium, compared attitudes toward academic freedom at strategic research centers and at Texas Tech. His conclusion was that Tech has a somewhat different standard on academic freedom than major research centers follow.

Lawrence prefaced his remarks by saying that he was speaking on the assumption that all gathered in the auditorium had done so with the best interests of Texas Tech in mind. He asked that his remarks be considered only as constructive criticism for improvement.

FREEDOM INDISPENSABLE

Graves said that academic freedom is indispensable for the modern university. He said that the university professor must have academic tenure for safety to say what he feels must be said.

Box said, "Tenure should not protect the incompetent, shield the lazy or lethargic, or sanction the mediocre." He said that all university instructors suffer when academic freedom and tenure are abused by even a few instructors.

ATTITUDES FALSE

James Cole looked into the student attitudes and impressions of administrative suppression. He said that such attitudes are largely false and unfounded. He said that much of the blame for student attitude must be accepted by the student leadership. He said that student leadership has not transmitted opinions effectively from student body to administration and back again.

Dr. Lawrence seemed to present the prevalent view when he said that academic freedom, just as any other freedom, must be constantly, vigilantly defended or be lost.

• Penny Mile

A "Mile of Pennies" is the Women's Service Organization's goal for their contribution to the World University Service. The drive began Wednesday and will continue through Friday. WSO members are collecting contributions from 7 a.m. until 5 p.m. in front of Tech Union.

All funds will go to the WUS service projects. They include providing student health services, housing, textbooks, scholarships and other facilities for world universities.

Wood Gets IFC Post

Interfraternity Council elected Bob Wood of Delta Tau Delta president of IFC for the coming year Wednesday night.

Wood, a junior pre-law major from Amarillo, succeeds Gary Lawrence, Kappa Sigma, in the post. The Council presented an award for leadership service to Lawrence for his work as IFC president this year.

The Council also elected Dan Neeley, Sigma Alpha Epsilon sophomore finance major, vice president; Neal Young, Phi Kappa Psi sophomore government major, secretary; and Tim Bennett, Phi Gamma Delta junior agriculture economics major, treasurer.

Wood served as vice president of IFC during the current semester and is currently president of Delta Tau Delta.

In other action, the Council approved by a majority vote the "California rush program," which Lawrence termed "a major change in our system as we have it at present."

Lawrence was appointed chairman of a committee to prepare rush plans for next year.

Political Convention

Mock Meet Opens

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Toreador Staff Writer

Techsians will have an opportunity to participate in and observe a national political convention in action today and Friday. At 4 p.m. Tech's Mock Political Convention will begin with a reception for U.S. Rep. Pat Martin, Republican from California.

Martin will be the convention's keynote speaker, talking at the general session at 7:15 p.m.

Following the reception, which will be in the Anniversary Room of Tech Union, student delegates will parade from the Textile Building to the Union. This will open the keynote session.

HAVE PLATFORM SESSION

Following the same basic agenda as a real convention, the convention will have a platform session, beginning at 1:15 p.m. Friday. A dinner break will start at 5:15 p.m., and the delegates will convene again at 7 p.m. for the nominating session. In this last session, presidential and vice presidential candidates for the Republican party will be selected.

The convention is headed by Keith Strain, who is the national chairman. He commented, "Since a convention is the tool of a party, the advisory committee felt that we could not make the convention a real learning process unless it is partisan. Because the Republican party is the party out of power this year, we decided to make the mock convention Republican."

National secretary is Anne Moore and national treasurer is Karen Schroeder.

LISTS PURPOSES

According to Strain the purpose of the convention is:

- To stimulate interest in politics.
- To give students a means of expressing their political beliefs.
- To learn, through participation, the workings of the National Conventions.

The convention is designed to be a learning experience as well as a competitive event, said Strain. Awards will be given Saturday on the basis of the delegations that are "the most effective and the most realistic."

Realism in the convention, according to Strain, is entirely up to the organizations participating. He said that the awards will be created as the convention proceeds, and awards will be given for any outstanding activity.

—In SC Vote Friday—

Candidates To Clash

Candidates for 35 Student Council representative positions will clash in Friday elections.

ASPIRANTS FOR two home economics positions will not face the ballot box until Monday, because of a school open house Friday.

As the largest school in the college, arts and sciences students will be voting for 17 positions. Students in business administration will choose representatives for eight positions, students in engineering will choose seven representatives and students in agriculture will vote for three positions.

RUN-OFF elections presently are slated by the Student Council for the Wednesday following the first voting. The run-off elections will pit two candidates for every open position.

Ballots for representatives from the School of Agriculture will be placed in the Agriculture Bldg. and the Plant Science Bldg. Business administration ballots will be at polls in the C&O Bldg., and arts and sciences ballots will be at polls in the Ad Bldg. Polls in the East Engineering Bldg. and Arch. Comp. Bldg. will have ballots for engineering representatives.

THE BOX in the Tech Union will have ballots for all races, while the other polling places will have ballots for representatives from only one school.

On the IBM ballot, a person may vote for fewer than the maximum allowed number of candidates; however, ballots with more than one vote for the same person will be voided, and the entire vote will be lost.

'Gordo' Will Speak On Space Program

Astronaut Gordon Cooper will speak on the space program — present and future — at the convocation Tuesday, said John R. Bradford, dean of the School of Engineering.

Cooper also will discuss his 22 orbit flight, said Dean Bradford. James Webb, director of National Aeronautical and Space Administration, will also speak in the coliseum.

Cooper's appearance is in conjunction with the School of Engineering's "Science and Engineering Show." The theme of the show is "Planning for Tomorrow Today" which is to be stressed by 15 departments.

The Laser light beam, capable of cutting steel, Army weapons — Sargeant and Pershing missiles are included in 10 on-campus exhibits of the Army ROTC. Special demonstrations of Army airplanes, including helicopters, are planned at the Lubbock Municipal Airport through Saturday.

Tech's Subcritical Nuclear Training Reactor containing 55 hundred pounds of pure uranium and costing over $200,000 will be demonstrated by members of the Electrical Engineering Department. The department will also feature the delayed human voice, voice controlled cars, a simulated brain, and a "road hog."

Exhibits will be on display from 2-10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday. All ROTC cadets may pick up free tickets for airplane flights by presenting their ID cards in Army ROTC offices.

Homemakers To Host Weekend Open House

The 25th annual home economics open house is scheduled for Friday and Saturday in the Home Economics Bldg.

"Modernizing Homemaking" is this year's theme. The building will be open from 2-9 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m.-5 p.m., Saturday.

The applied arts department will offer exhibits by seniors in various phases of crafts. The department of clothing and textiles will present six fashion shows.

Tours will be conducted through the nursery and kindergarten. Demonstrations and skits will be featured by the home and family life department. Exhibits will be displayed by both the food and nutrition and home economics education departments.

Miss Celeste Craig, Stamford sophomore, is chairman of the open house committee and Miss Betty Huffman, Breckenridge, is co-chairman.

Home economics graduates of Tech, home economics faculty and graduating seniors will attend a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Saturday in the Coronado Room of Tech Union.

Tickets to the luncheon are $1.50 and reservations may be made by calling SW5-0451, SW9-8296, and SW5-1910 by 5 p.m. today.

Tech Gets Second In Sailing Contest

Texas Tech placed second at the Southern Intercollegiate Sailing Assn. meet this past weekend in Fort Worth. Texas University placed first and Southern Methodist University was third.

The team was composed of Bart Loveless, Owen Burch and Robert Gaurza. They were invited to participate in the meet sponsored by the Fort Worth Boat Club.

SEA Installs Officer Slate

Tech's Student Education Assn. installed officers Wednesday night at its second annual installation banquet in the Tech Union ballroom.

Officers from the West Texas State University organization of SEA installed the new officers. Installed were Donna Reary, president; Jo Anne Winters, vice president; Sue Buchanan, secretary; Rosie Ashton, treasurer; Winston Odom, parliamentarian; Wendy Warthem, AWS representative; and Nancy Garner, BSO representative.

The presentation of three scholarships, Kuykendall scholarship, SEA scholarship, and Texas State Teachers Assn. scholarship, was also on the agenda.

Mistress of ceremonies for the banquet was Sharon Smith.

BSO Jobs Open

Betty Jamison, recording secretary of the Board of Student Organizations, announced that applications for offices in BSO may be picked up this week in the office of the Dean of Student Life. Applications must be returned by Tuesday. Offices open are retreat chairman, programs chairman, workshop chairman, booklet chairman, and president's banquet chairman.

Drugs 'No Problem' Says Police, Officials

(This is the sixth in a 10-part series on mores and morals on the Tech campus)

By MIKE READ

Toreador Features Editor

Unanimous official consensus points out that there is no problem on the Texas Tech campus with excessive use of barbituates and other addicting drugs.

NO BARBITUATE PROBLEM

Capt. L. W. Forrester of the Lubbock Police Department, said that there was no problem of barbituate abuse on the Tech campus. He said that police records do not indicate any illicit use of addicting drugs on the campus and no arrests have ever turned up an illegal supplier of drugs to Tech students.

He said that rumors occasionally circulate about illegal drug use by Tech students, but that these rumors are either unconfirmed by investigation or proven false. He went on to say that there probably is some small use of drugs on the campus, but what use is known by the police department is "legal and not of an extended nature."

Bill Daniels, chief security officer for the campus, said, also, that there was "no problem of illegal drug use on the campus." He said that many rumors had circulated and been checked in his years at Tech, but he went on to say that he had been unable to verify any of the rumors.

STUDENTS DON'T FALL PREY

Capt. Forrester said that perhaps Tech students were more intelligent than to fall prey to addicting drugs and had only praise for the situation on campus.

This is the official view. Yes, some legal drugs use on campus—just as any other segment of the general population. No, no illegal use of illicit drugs on the campus—somewhat different from the "general population," though the problem is still a small one in this area.

Research into the field, from unofficial sources, also failed to find any confirmed illegal use of drugs on the campus. Even the legal use of addicting drugs on campus is very small, according to the two officers interviewed.

According to rumor, use of potentially addicting stimulants rises just before exams and falls off during and after both mid-term and final exams. However, this has not been verified.

USE OF NON-ADDICTING STIMULANTS

What can be verified is a more general use of non-addicting stimulants during these periods—No-Doz, coffee, alcohol. Alcohol is present on the campus and off the campus, though no attempt has been made to determine the extent of either presence or use of alcohol, as revealed by students interviewed.

Perhaps part of the explanation lies with the use of stimulants. Most use of stimulants on campus is for purposes of staying awake, rather than for the "kicks" of over-stimulation. And excessive use of addictive stimulants is not too often required to accomplish the primary student purpose of staying awake.

'If This Be Madness' Shows Gilberts Talent

John Gilbert's "If This Be Madness" shows a definite composing talent for the young Tech instructor.

"Madness," based on Cervantes' "Don Quixote," relates the story of a young New York psychiatrist, played and sung admirably by Fred McFarland, who cannot let himself love anyone, because of his own self-love.

Mary Holloway, portrayed by Bettye Lowder, comes off well as the "dumb" young woman who falls hopelessly in love with Bartholomew Stoffoles (McFarland.)

Her uncle Daniel Quick, played by Harlan Reddell, is the modern equivalent of the wandering Don Quixote. He rings true as the man who must desperately find something to believe in, whatever it may be.

Comedy honors go to Charles Addington and Carol O'Connell, who both stop the show with their songs "Never Trust a Man," sung by Miss O'Connell and "Mack's Song," sung and danced by Addington.

Union Sets Dinner

A national dish dinner featuring authentic Latin American dishes, scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday, will initiate festivities for the Latin American Emphasis Week which continues through Friday, May 1.

Speaker for the dinner will be Miguel Araguren, director of the Pan American Relations Department. He will discuss the "OAS—It's History and Present Day Aims."

Tickets, $1.25 per person, are on sale between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. until Friday at Tech Union.

The chorus, composed of Susan Speers and Jan Grice, bring the show comic and dance episodes while they are in the process of changing the scenery.

The musical score is melodious and sparked with clever lyrics. This is one of those rare occurrences when an audience can walk away from a show whistling the refrains.

Book for the musical is by Lawrence Wyatt and lyrics by Gilbert and Wyatt. Wyatt is an instructor at the University of Alaska.

Performance time for the show is 8:15 p.m. today through Saturday in the Union Coronado Room. Admission is 50 cents for students and $1 for the general public.

Leusing Wins State YD Post

Lloyd Leusing, Lubbock senior, won the first vice presidency of the Young Democratic Clubs of Texas at the state convention Friday through Sunday in Brownwood.

"This is the first time any state officer in the Young Democrats has come from the Lubbock County club. We are quite proud of the advancement the club has made this past year on the state level and of the honor brought to the club by having one of our outstanding members elected to this office," said Mike Read, Lubbock Young Demo president.

He went on to say that 18 members of the club went to the convention and that a large part of the credit for the club's success must be given to the interested members of the club who made the convention delegation one of the largest present in Brownwood.

ELECTIONS OF state officers were conducted Sunday afternoon, out of order by suspension of the rules. Andrew J. Shuvall won re-election to a second term as president by 100 vote margin.

Lloyd Leusing won the first vice president's position by a vote of 262 to 159. Other vice presidents are James Broussard, from Lamar

Tech, and Linda Mall, from Tarleton State.

Mary Kay Kessler, from Tyler, is the new state secretary. Sam Nelson, from the University of Texas, won re-election to another term as state treasurer by acclamation — the only officer to be unanimously elected.

Ann Mallet, from the University of Texas, won a two-year term as national committeewoman.

Cannon Regains Raider Batting Lead

Catcher Doug Cannon's sensational hitting against Abilene Christian propelled him back into the batting leadership among Texas Tech's Red Raiders, who face New Mexico Highlands University at Las Vegas Friday and Saturday.

Tech meets the Cowboys in a pair Friday and a single game Saturday. Coach Berl Huffman's Red Raiders tackle Southwestern Oklahoma State in a doubleheader at Weatherford, Okla., Monday before returning home.

Cannon, team captain from Leveland, clouted seven hits in eight trips as Tech swept a doubleheader 15-5 and 10-1 over Abilene Christian here Tuesday. He has 23 hits in 60 at-bats for a percentage figure of .383.

Included among Cannon's hits were a homerun and three doubles.

Sophomore first baseman John Dudley took over the Raiders' home run leadership, with three, all against the Wildcats.

Two triples by leftfielder Ronny Ayers of Lubbock sent his total to four and kept him in the leadership in that department. Shortstop Foy Williams of Lubbock still paces the Raiders in doubles, with four. Outfielder Bob Fielder of Abilene has the most runs-batted-in — 19. Batting leader last week, Fielder fell from .396 to .367, good enough for second behind Cannon.

Golfers Try TCU In Important Game

Tech's golf team tackles the Texas Christian golf team in Fort Worth today with a good chance to stay in first place in the Southwest Conference race.

Tech holds a slim margin over second place Texas and appears to be a good bet to beat TCU. Comparing mutual opponents, both Tech and TCU beat Rice 6-0; Tech beat A&M 4½-1½ while TCU lost, 1-5; and Tech beat Baylor 4-2 while the Froggies lost 3½-2½.

Outfielder Larry Thorne of Abilene maintained his base stealing top spot, with three.

Winning pitchers against ACC, Kippy Williams of Pampa and Morris (Moose) Dudley of Lubbock have the best mound marks—2-2, for .500.

Against New Mexico Highlands, winners in four games here earlier, Huffman plans to start David Tarter of Muleshoe (0-1), Frank Ray of Abilene (1-3), and Joe Fox of Gainesville (2-3). The Cowboys won here by 4-0, 5-2, 3-2, and 4-0.
