Rebels Reject 'Peace' Plans

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—President Kerr offered Monday to drop university charges against four leaders of a campus revolt in hopes of ending strife which has torn the huge University of California campus. The offer was swiftly rejected.

Kerr urged the rebels to join with others of the 27,400 students in abiding by a new rule allowing in one certain campus area the right to recruit and solicit funds for such off-campus causes as civil rights work in the South. The rebels insist the rule be lifted so they can do it anywhere on campus.

Kerr said he would leave the students involved in last Thursday's wild campus sit-in to the courts because civil charges are "far more serious than those made previously by the university."

After hearing Kerr's proposal "to end anarchy" on the campus, Mario Savio, leader of the insurgents, announced the proposal "is totally unacceptable." Any further plans of his followers will be announced Tuesday, he said.

Four Cited

Savio, Arthur Goldberg, his sister, Jackie, and Brian Turner, were cited for disciplinary action after a demonstration in October. Savio called the action trickery, saying the demonstration then ended in a university promise not to punish anybody.

Kerr's peace offer was made to a mass meeting of 13,000 students, called while morning classes were canceled.

Savio, 21, a philosophy junior from New York City, then tried to speak from the same platform. Police carried him away, struggling, held him for 10 minutes and released him.

Loud Boos

"Let him talk," some of the crowd shouted. There were loud boos.

Just before the meeting, a municipal judge told 768 demonstrators—arrested for a massive sit-in Wednesday and Thursday in the university's administration building—they faced charges which "may seriously affect your future." He continued the arraignment so they could prepare their cases.

The 768 included 590 students. Saying that, Berkeley Judge Rupert Crittenden agreed with defense attorneys to continue the mass arraignment of arrested students until next Monday to allow for defense preparation.

Chaotic Sit-In

The insurgents, represented by about 60 San Francisco Bay area lawyers, were arrested in the break-up of a chaotic sit-in at Sproul Hall, the Berkeley campus administration building, last Thursday.

Holding court in the 3,000-seat Berkeley Community Theater, Municipal Judge Crittenden warned the rebels the charges against them "can have serious consequences for you" and the ultimate decision they make "will be important for the rest of your life."

New Plan

As court adjourned, university officials prepared to reveal the plan they hoped would restore peace on the strife-torn 27,400-student campus.

All Contestants Will Be Honored

All coeds who competed in the Sigma Delta Chi-La Ventana Extravaganza preliminary Saturday will be recognized at the annual beauty contest at Municipal Auditorium Friday night.

A special seating section will be reserved for the women and their dates, and they will be recognized during the ceremonies.

Tickets for the event are on sale in the Tech Union foyer for $1.50 per couple or $1 per person.

At Campus Bookstores

Too Many Resales Trouble Managers

By PAULINE EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Book thieves are loose on the campus, or so it seems from the increasing number of books, currently in use, that are being resold to the Tech Bookstore.

"The number of books sold back to the bookstore before the close of the semester is alarming this year," commented Conner Cole, manager. "Unless students are dropping out of school or dropping a course, they should have no reason for reselling books until the semester ends."

Managers Concerned

Because the number of books sold before the close of the semester has doubled over what it was last year, Cole and managers from two off-campus bookstores, who have reported similar problems, are concerned over the situation.

"Apparently students do not realize the seriousness of such an offense," Cole said. In many cases students are selling books they have picked up or found somewhere.

No Check

The bookstore has no way of checking on whether a book belongs to a student or not, because under law they are not allowed to question students on where they got a book or why they wish to sell it.

Any student who has his ID card can sell a book. However, he must sign a receipt and give his address. If someone else claims the book and can prove it is his, the book will be returned to the rightful owner and a report will be given to either the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.

Normally punishment for stealing books would be suspension from school. Such an act would also be placed on the student's college record and he would be unable to get a transcript from this college.

More Caught

Percentage wise, more students have been caught selling books that did not belong to them this year than in the past, Cole said. The problem becomes more complex as Tech's enrollment increases.

So far, the bookstore hasn't lost money on resell books, because they have been able to trace students through their addresses even when the students have left Tech.

"If the number of books being sold during semesters continues to increase, we may have to review our policy and introduce one that will allow students to sell books only at the end of each semester," Cole added.

Viet Nam 'Official' To Speak

The Hon. Tran Van Dinh, former ambassador from Viet Nam to the United States, will discuss "The War In Viet Nam" Wednesday.

The lecture, open to the public, is at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room of the Student Union.

Van Dinh will speak to government classes from 2-4 p.m. Wednesday. His speech will be followed by a closed coffee and reception in the Anniversary Room of the Student Union at 4:30 p.m.

Van Dinh was named as the acting Viet Nam ambassador several months ago to replace the government official who was then ambassador to the U.S. and the father of the "infamous" Madame Nhu.

DR. METIN TAMKOC — A visiting government associate professor from Ankara, Turkey, will speak on the Cyprus situation to members of Pi Sigma Alpha, government honorary, at 4 p.m. today in the Social Science Bldg., room 214.

UT Student Officer To Attend SC Meet

John Orr, vice president of the student body at the University of Texas and president of the Texas Intercollegiate Student Assn., will talk to Tech Student Council members today about TISA projects and advantages of being a TISA member.

His talk will coincide with a SC vote on whether Tech should remain in the Texas group or possibly join the Assn. of Student Governments.

Collier Perry, Council engineering representative, will report on the national convention of ASG which he attended during the Thanksgiving holidays in Norman, Okla.

The meeting will be in the Union Mesa Room at 7:30 p.m.

★ 25 Beauties Compete For Title ★

Linda Allen, Jon Ann Rice, Sondra Stargel, Suzie Davis, Darlene Curtis, Pam Munson; third row, Paula Creitz, Weezie Mims, Kay Burleson, Cinda Gaffard, Karen Smith, Carolyn Case, Susan Evans and Linda Nolen. Miss Mademoiselle will be chosen Friday night in the Municipal Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

European Tour Makes An Ideal Christmas Present

Mrs. Alan Strout, member of Tech's English department, will make her ninth trip abroad this summer. Mrs. Strout is leader of a summer tour to 13 countries in Europe and this year will conduct her sixth tour.

"The most I can take is 32 people and about half this number have made reservations for the trip. The entire cost is $1,262 round trip and would make an ideal Christmas or graduation present," Mrs. Strout said.

The 62-day tour used to visit only 11 countries but the Scandinavian countries have been added.

"Many other tours of this type do not include Norway and Denmark but there is so much to see and do that I include them," said Mrs. Strout.

The trip is not restricted to students. Anyone may make reservations. The tour starts June 9 in New York. The S.S. Aurelia, an Italian ship, will sail to Southampton, England.

The atmosphere of Europe is board the ship. The crew is Italian with the food and language European.

The entertainment on board ship includes a swimming pool, talent costume shows, dances, daily student forums, tournaments and classes in many languages.

England, Norway

After leaving England the tour proceeds to Scotland for four days and then to Norway. Oslo, capital of Norway, is noted for ski slopes used in tournaments.

The Fourth of July will be celebrated in Sweden. Two days in Denmark ends the tour of the Scandinavian countries.

Germany, Switzerland and Austria are next on the tour. In Italy the group will spend a week.

Out-Of-The-Way Places

"In so many of these countries I have found a number of out-of-the-way towns and places to visit. Many of these places the average tourist never gets to see," Mrs. Strout said.

From Austria the tour goes along the Italian Riviera to Monte Carlo in Monaco. The French Riviera is next and then to Spain. Two stops are made in France, one before Spain and the other after touring Spain.

Ends In France

After several days in France the group will arrive in Montreal, Canada, August 10 or fly directly to New York from Paris on August 2.

One of the many highlights of the trip is Norway. Norway is noted for its craftsmen. Glass blowers, lace makers, weavers (tweed) and wood and leather craftsmen can be seen at work.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

The Wesley Foundation will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday. M. L. McGehee will speak on "A Personal Religion in a Depersonalized Society".

Mad, Mad World Plagues Office Helpers

By BARBARA WORLEY
Staff Writer

Telephone bells sound in the Clement Hall office.

"Good evening, Clement Hall, may I help you?" rattles the mechanical voice of the office girl.

"Tech just made a touchdown!" shouts the voice into the phone. The office girl, her ears ringing from the emphatic exclamation, smiles. This is the second such message she has received since she went on duty at 7 p.m.

She begins to reply, "Oh that's just . . ."

Her words are lost in the sudden clanging of a loud alarm. Suddenly the red lights flash—they seem as if they will come off the wall.

"Call me back," exclaims the office girls abruptly to her friend. She then proceeds to scramble out of her chair and run to the outer door of the office, around the corner of the lobby, and straight-way to the elevator door, managing to slip on the glazed tile floor only once.

Stuck Again

"Stuck on fourth," she mutters to herself. Turning around, she hastens to retrace her path from the office—this time removing her shoes to save the effort and embarrassment of a triple forward flip in pike formation onto the floor of the lobby.

She reaches the outer office door. Struggling with the bent key, she attempts valiantly to unlock the door which, by order of the Office Rules, she must lock each time she leaves.

She turns it once, twice and then three times, only then to notice that, while the handle of the key is turning freely, the base is somewhat permanently embedded in the lock.

Frenzy strikes the poor lass. The telephone begins to ring again—only to be drowned out by the repeated sounding of the elevator alarm.

What to do?

One Alternative

In a fit of near-panic, she decides that in order to get into the office and call the elevator emergency number, there is but one alternative left.

Racing against time and a subsequent helpful report from a passerby that there are seven girls stuck in the elevator, one of whom must catch a plane out of town in exactly 10.32 minutes. . . . the office girl runs around to the other side of the office.

Ignoring stares from dozens of boys waiting in the lobby, she races around to the door. She tries the knob.

Success! and it opens.

She runs into the office and reaches for the telephone.

"Clement Hall, may I . . ."

Searches Frantically

Amidst the droves of dorm occupants who come to the window at regular intervals to inform her that the elevator is stuck, the office girl searches frantically for the elevator emergency number.

Sheets of neatly typed dorm data drift to the floor as she nears the bottom of the stack labeled "Telephone numbers."

At last, her search having progressed to the bottom of the stack, she notices the list of emergency numbers taped to the left inner surface of the desk drawer.

She picks up the phone and dials. "Mr. Potter's office," drawls the answering voice.

"This is the Clement office, and our elevator, with seven girls in it, is stuck."

Cries Avail Nothing

"Be right with you, ma'am," answers the voice. And as the receiver is lowered to the hook, the office girl can hear the order, "Elevator stuck; send someone over to the clinic."

Her cries of help are to no avail, and as she begins with the speed of lightning to redial the number, another group of informants arrives at the window to proclaim, "Oh, by the way, the elevator's okay now."

Their message delivered, the girls stroll away from the office into their own world. They no longer are concerned with the workings of the Clement Hall office.

They stroll away, while inside, the office girl stands numb. Her present emergency is over, but she heaves no sighs of relief. Instead, she strengthens herself with a deep breath and sits down to await the arise of the next crisis.

For the office girl, the end of her woes does not come until the boys have all been shuffled out of the dorm, the doors locked, and the dorm closed officially. This is anywhere from 15 to 75 minutes after the rest of the dorm is asleep.

But, as she delivers the office keys to the dorm mother's room and begins her trek up the stairs . . . she finally breathes her sigh of relief. After all, her time is now her own. She is free from plaguing phone calls, stalling elevators and burning incinerators. Free until her office duty begins again—at 6:30 tomorrow morning.

UC Sit-iners Go Too Far

SEVERAL HUNDRED UNIVERSITY of California students (at Berkeley) may have done more to harm their Freedom of Speech Movement (FSM) than to help it.

Thursday's sit-in at Sproul Hall and the ensuing mass arrests probably caused the surprisingly co-operative Board of Regents to reconsider recent policy decisions in favor of the students.

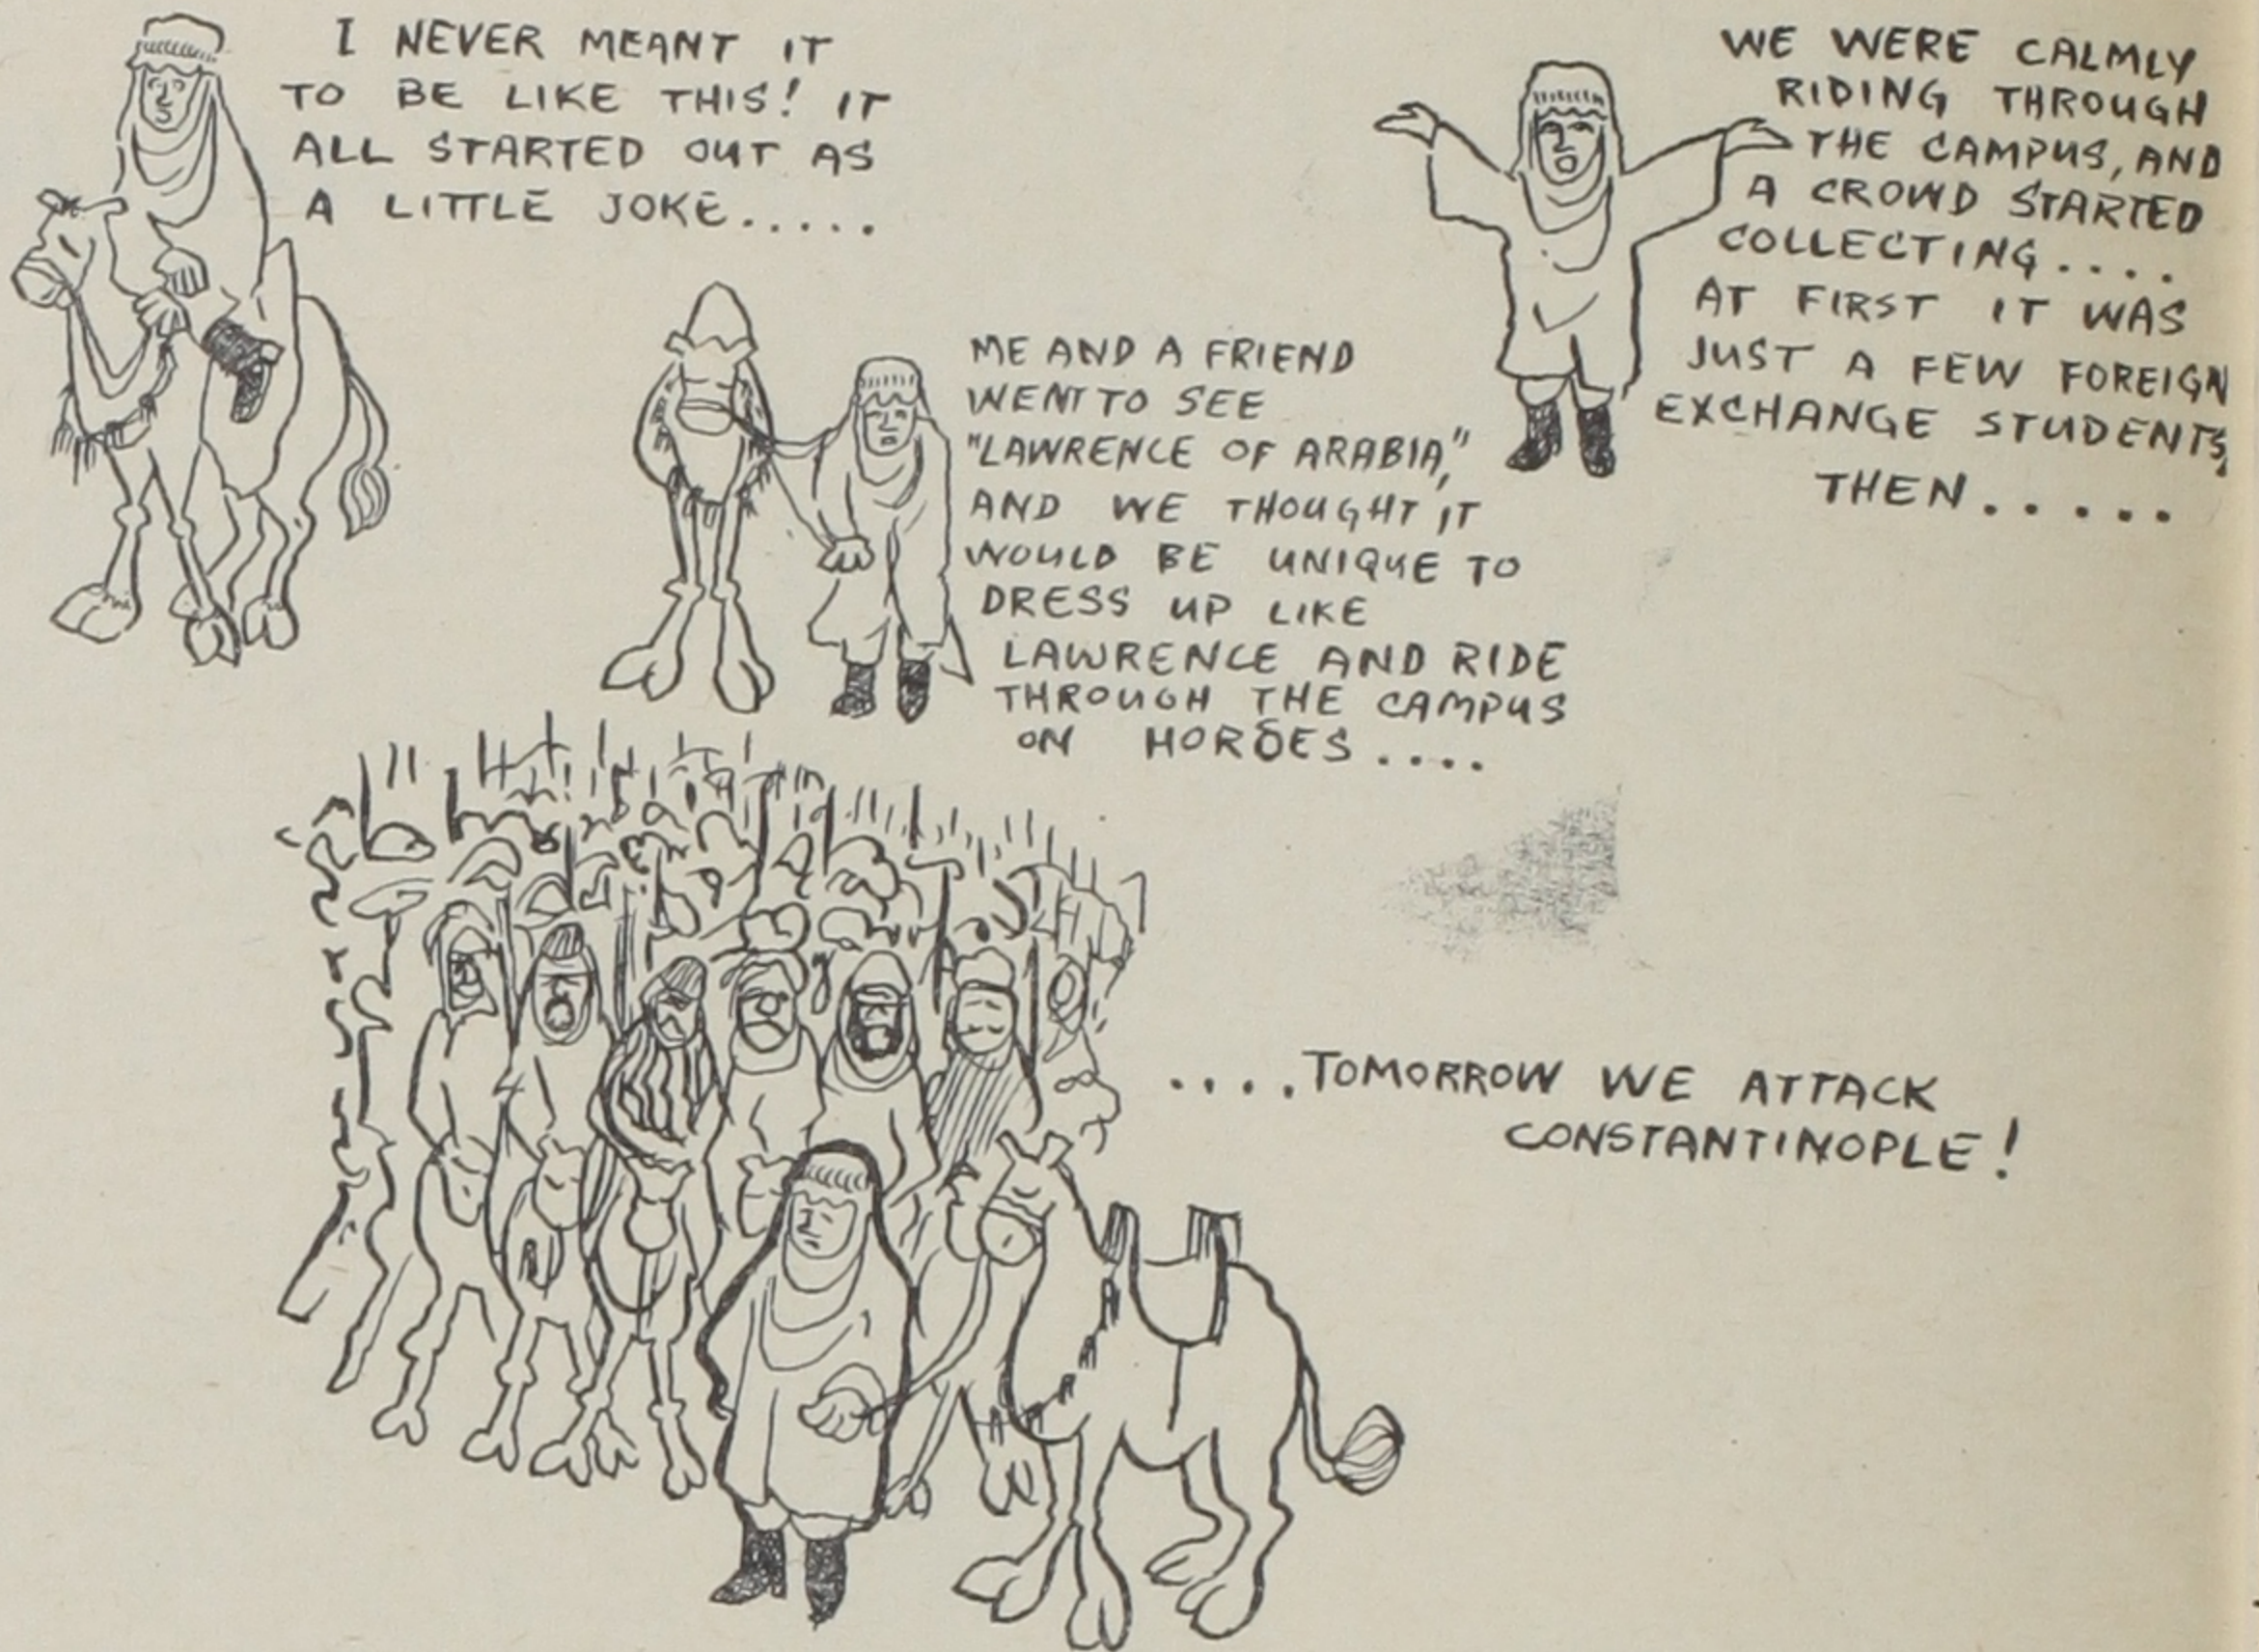

Too, many responsible student organizations are withdrawing from the FSM including the large Young Republican Club.

Originally the problem involved rules forbidding political solicitations and recruiting on campus for off-campus activities.

The Regents two weeks ago, according to the Los Angeles Times, modified their policy to permit lawful political groups to have activities on campus.

The Chancellor of the university, too, has demonstrated a willingness to work with responsible students by asking the Student Legislative Council to investigate ways and means of executing the policy.

To us it appears that the some 800 students involved in the sit-in have gone too far. Why demonstrate when there are still channels of communications open and one side shows a willingness to work out the problem?

Delegates Embarrassed By Name In Kansas City

By CECIL GREEN -
Managing Editor

A funny thing happened in Kansas City last week: Texas Tech was the butt of many jokes.

Not the school as such was laughed at, but the NAME of this school was laughed at—not in scattered instances, but every time anyone from outside Texas saw the name.

The occasion for the widespread ridicule was the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society. More than 600 delegates from professional and undergraduate chapters from almost every state were present at KC's famous Hotel Muehlebach.

During the four-day session, there were numerous receptions and hospitality times when delegates would enjoy refreshments and talk shop with other persons to get new ideas.

Naturally, when meeting new persons, it is common practice to find out where they are from and tell what school or chapter you represent.

At the first such session, I was talking to a delegate from Arizona and one from Pennsylvania. After the proper courtesies, one of the two looked at my name tag, which identified me as being from "Texas Tech, Lubbock, Texas."

"Say," he asked quizzically, "how can a small engineering school maintain a daily student newspaper?"

At this point, I put my martini glass of tea on the bar and slowly began to explain the facts of life:

- Texas Tech is the third-largest state-supported school in Texas with an enrollment of 14,000 students.
- Texas Tech is not just an engineering school, but a multi-purpose "university" with schools of arts and sciences, business administration, home economics, agriculture and engineering, plus a growing graduate school.
- The Texas Tech School of Arts and Sciences, if considered separately, would be the sixth-largest state-supported school in Texas.
- The School of Business Administration, the second-largest on campus, is ranked among the top ten in the nation.
- Texas Tech is a coeducational school, with the ratio of women students to men students getting larger each year.
- The lands owned by the college made it the second-largest school in the United States (in area) before some of the land was sold several years ago.

All this was explained to show them that we are not JUST an engineering school, but the problem didn't stop there.

That same evening, a student from Kansas was talking with Mike Ferrell, another Tech delegate.

This time, the stranger, after looking at Mike's name tag asked, "Do you just run agricultural news in your paper?"

Again, Mike slowly and methodically explained the misnomer that haunts and embarrasses Tech students.

Later on, we had to explain and apologize to radio and television executives, to public relations men, to newspaper and magazine editors and to some of the top newsmen and reporters in the nation.

The only persons there who recognized our school for what it is were students and some professionals from Texas schools and papers.

Strangely, the most emphatic for a new name for Texas Tech were delegates from Texas A&M University, who just went through a rugged name-change struggle themselves a year or so ago.

One of the radio officials of a large Kansas City station summed up the opinion of every person we talked to, "I feel sorry for your school, being saddled with a name like that."

Tech Union

---By George

By STEVE GEORGE

Taking a quick bird's-eye view of the events coming up in the Tech Union before the holiday breather, I see a variety of events scheduled with a strong emphasis on international affairs.

To begin with, the International Interest Committee will present an educational and entertaining lecture-film entitled "Russia and the People" as part of their "World Around Us" series.

Raphael Green, a distinguished explorer and cameraman, will present this film Tuesday, Dec. 8 at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room.

One of the few American cameramen to capture a true representation of Soviet life on film, Mr. Green filmed the Russian people engaged in their daily pursuits—as well as such extraordinary shots as a parade in Red Square and a press conference for the cosmonauts. Sincere and non-political in its approach, this film-lecture is an excellent opportunity for you to see for yourself what everyday life is like in the Soviet Union.

Included in the "World Around Us" series are two other film-lecture series scheduled for next semester. One is "Timeless Turkey" to be shown in February and "Highlights of Brazil" to be shown in March.

Next on the agenda, the Ideas and Issues Committee is sponsoring the former acting ambassador from Viet Nam to the United States, the Hon. Tran Van Dinh, to speak on the crisis in Viet Nam.

Mr. Van Dinh has been a diplomat, author, soldier, journalist, and was Chief of Staff for the Vietnamese Liberation Army in Taos when they defeated the French colonial troops, winning liberty for their people. Presently, he is the chief Washington correspondent for the Saigon News and was recently named as Consul General of Viet Nam to India.

One of the really hot spots in the world today, Viet Nam has and continues to be the subject of political controversy centering around the United States' proper role there.

In Mr. Van Dinh, you have the opportunity to learn first-hand of the existing conditions, the background, and the delicate problem of Asian politics with which the former ambassador is so completely involved.

It is mandatory that those of you who wish to discuss the problem intelligently become well informed. This program offers you an excellent opportunity—one that may not come again. The lecture will be on Wednesday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room.

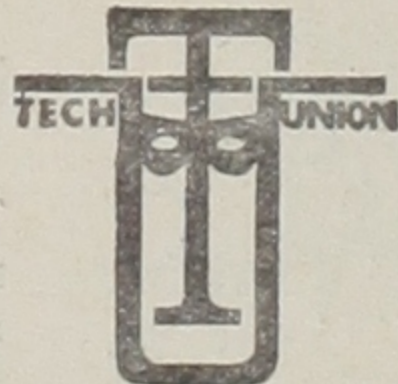

Continuing with the emphasis on the international scene, the first mass orientation of all delegates for this spring's Model U.N. will be on Thursday, Dec. 10 at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room. This year, the Model U.N. is getting off to a flying start months ahead of time, so the actual session next spring will really be worth going to see.

For everyone concerned with what to get mom, dad, brother, or sister for Christmas, the International Interests Committee has the answer—why not an exotic gift from some foreign land?

To this end, the committee will sponsor the annual International Fair from Dec. 13-16 in the Tech Union. For those of you who are not familiar with the fair, it consists of all kinds of gifts (all under $5, by the way) from a very large selection of foreign lands. Candy, figures, jewelry—you'll find them all here plus a large selection of "different" gifts for those of you who are more unorthodox in your gift selections.

Speaking of jewelry, anyone who has wondered about the current jewelry display will be able to find out all about it on Thursday, Dec. 10 at 4 p.m. when Stan Medeza, the jewelry's creator from Minnesota, will explain how and why he makes it.

Closing out the events before Christmas, the Hospitality Committee will sponsor a Children's Christmas Party on Thursday, Dec. 17 at 7 p.m. in the Coronado Room. The party will be along the same lines as the one given the kids just before Halloween. All children of faculty, administration or students are invited.

VOICE

of the People

Smith Questions
Game Comments

Dear Editor:

On the after game interview of last Saturday night, a Tech player, Dub Malaise, attributed the Raider defeat, and I do mean defeat, to the rather dubious theory that the wildly partisan New Mexico crowd inspired the Negro players on the team to jump higher, run faster and shoot straighter because they were Negro, leaving the lone white player on the team an uninspired "fifth wheel," unable to gain spirit from the crowd because of his "all white."

Does Mr. Malaise also hold to the oft discounted but oft repeated folk tale that the Negro as a race is better equipped for tap dancing, drum beating and high jumping than for removing tonsils, splitting atoms or teaching English?

The unlikely validity of the statement Mr. Malaise made would lead us to some interesting conclusions. If cheering crowds inspire only Negroes, "colored boys" as Mr. Malaise says, we can dispense with the Saddle Tramps, cheerleaders, and 9,000 assorted humans, some even "colored boys," who have cheered the Raiders here in Lubbock, or we might go out and recruit some of those easily inspired "colored boys" for our own team.

Sincerely,
Charles Smith, Class of '58
Lubbock

(EDITOR'S NOTE: We have edited your letter to condense it. You seem to carry the point out of proportion to the event; however, all Techsians, especially those in the public eye, should exercise care to avoid misinterpretations of their comments and action—as in this case.)

—Raiders Drop First Basketball Contest—

Lobos Rap Tech, 72-57

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (Special)—Texas Tech's basketball bubble burst here Saturday night as the Raiders fell victim to a potent University of New Mexico squad and a rash of their own mistakes to go down to a 72-57 defeat.

The Raiders managed one less point in the entire game than they had scored in the first half against McMurry only three nights previously. The Lobos, however, grabbed the lead early and resorted to ball-control tactics that rendered the Raiders' race horse offense practically helpless.

Quick Lead

New Mexico jumped off to a quick 10-2 lead and was never in danger of losing command. Tech managed to close the gap to five points shortly after halftime, but that was as close as the Raiders ever got.

The Lobos won the game under the backboards, grabbing off 46 rebounds to only 24 for Tech. The larger Lobos pushed and shoved their way to rebound position, with tempers flaring more than once.

Techsan Harold Denny was escorted from the game with 12:57 left in the game and the Raiders trailing by 10 points.

Malaise Leads Tech

Guard Dub Malaise was the sole bright spot in Tech's lacklustre offense, netting 23 points to give him high honors for both teams. This output raised his season average to 19.5, third best in the Southwest Conference.

Only other Raider to hit in the double digits was Norman Reuther, who managed 10. Glen Hallum and Denny added nine each, while Bob Measles had four and Dave Olsen two. This is in sharp contrast to Tech's usually well-balanced offense.

Coach Gene Gibson, who described the contest as "a good country licking," used all nine members of his squad in the contest. Guard Billy Tapp suffered a severely sprained ankle in the game and is expected to miss at least a week's action.

The Lobos placed four men in double figures as they displayed the well-balanced scoring and rebounding which led them to the National Invitational Tournament finals last year. Dick Ellis was tops for the New Mexicans with 18 points, but three teammates were right on his heels with 15, 12 and 10 points, respectively.

GOLF MEET CANCELLED

The Tech freshman golf meet with Odessa Junior College last Friday was cancelled due to cold weather, according to golf coach Danny Mason.

Although the meet will be rescheduled, no date has as yet been set.

Freshmen Defeat Varsity In First Swimming Meet

The Texas Tech freshman swimming team defeated the Raider varsity tanksters Friday night in an intra-squad meet which marked their first competition of the year.

Four places were awarded in each of the eleven events, and the freshmen copped seven first places. Final point total was 56-39. Varsity letterman Phil Simpkins was the only double winner.

The freshman squad is one of the best in Tech history, Coach Jim McNally said following the meet. They are rated along with Southern Methodist as the best freshmen tankster squads in the Southwest Conference.

Results Listed

First two places in the meet were as follows:

400-yard medley relay—1. Freshman (Darrell Wallander, Dana Weaver, Tim O'Rourke, John Braun), 4:00 (No second place.)

200-yard freestyle—1. Robert Graham, varsity, 1:58.2. 2. John Long, freshmen.

50-yard freestyle—1. John Braun, freshmen, 23.8. 2. Ron Grim, varsity.

200-yard individual medley—1. Phil Simpkins, varsity, 2:15.6. 2. Tom Tye, freshmen.

1-meter diving—1. Nate Holt, freshmen. 2. Don Goodsen, varsity. 200-yard butterfly—1. Tim O'Rourke, freshmen, 2:19.7. 2. Pete Velde, freshmen.

100-yard freestyle—1. Phil Simpkins, varsity, 51.1. 2. John Braun, freshmen.

200-yard backstroke—Tom Tye, freshmen, 2:18.0. 2. Darrell Wallander, freshmen.

500-yard freestyle—1. John Lang, freshmen, 5:41.8. 2. Tim O'Rourke, freshmen.

200-yard breaststroke—1. Dana Weaver, freshmen, 2:34.1. 2. Bill Bailey, varsity.

400-yard freestyle relay—1. Varsity (Phil Simpkins, Robert Graham, Glyn Day, Frank Shotwell), 3:46.1. (No second place.)

Both varsity and freshmen will travel to Portales, N.M., Friday to meet the Greyhounds of Eastern New Mexico University. The varsity will travel on to Albuquerque, having a meet with the University of New Mexico Saturday.

A&M Replaces

Foldberg As Football Coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (P) The Texas A&M Athletic Council Monday named Gene Stallings, chief assistant football coach at Alabama, head football coach.

He replaces Hank Foldberg, who remains as athletic director.

Stallings is a 1957 graduate of Texas A&M.

Foldberg came to A&M as athletic director and coach in 1962 after a successful tenure at Wichita, but he hasn't had a winning season here.

In his three years he had a record of 6-23-1 and in Southwest Conference play won five games while losing 15 and tying one.

Under his administration, however, A&M made great progress in other sports, winning basketball and baseball championships and doing well in track.

Arizona Slaps Red Raiders In Thriller Contest, 77-75

★ PROBABLE FIFTH MAN — Junior guard Russ Wilkinson was scheduled to start his first varsity game last night against the University of Arizona, teaming with returning starters Harold Denney, Dub Malaise, Norman Ruether and Glen Hallum. TUCSON (Special)—Texas Tech lost by two points its bid for a dramatic come-from-behind victory here Monday night, losing to the University of Arizona Wildcats, 77-75.

Trailing by seven points with less than three minutes remaining, the Raiders just ran out of time as they dropped their second game of the young season.

Sophomore Bob Measles hit three rapid jump shots in the games' closing moments to close the gap, but Wildcat Bob Spann connected on two free throws with a minute left to provide the eventual margin of victory.

Overcomes Deficit

Tech closed a four-point half-time deficit quickly in the second half, but their last lead was 55-54 with some 12 minutes remaining. From there Arizona again widened their lead to seven points before Tech began its closing rally.

Dub Malaise canned 27 points to lead all Tech scorers, followed by Harold Denney with 17 and Glen Hallum with 12. Norman Ruether had seven, Measles six, Dave Olsen four and Russ Wilkinson two to round out the scoring.

The Raiders went into the dressingroom at halftime trailing 39-35, mainly on the strength of Malaise's 18 points. Malaise hit eight of nine free throws as he drew three fouls from Wildcat's highly touted defensive specialist Warren Rustland.

Tech jumped off to a quick lead as Glen Hallum bucketed four points, but that was the biggest margin Tech held in the half. The Wildcats overtook the lead with about 15:00 remaining, as Bob Hansen, who accounted for 13 points in the first half, canned a field goal.

Stretch Lead

The Wildcats stretched their lead to eight points twice in the latter part of the period before Tech began a comeback. Malaise hit six quick points and then Dave Olsen, who was the Raiders' first substitute, tied it up at 31-31 with 3:07 left.

Arizona hit four straight free shots, however, and regained their lead. Malaise sank two more free shots, Wildcat Bob Spann hit a field goal, and then Denny sank two points to bring the score to 37-35.

The Wildcats gained possession out of bounds under their own basket with 0:02 seconds left, and Al Johnson took the pass, turned, and tossed it in as the buzzer sounded, giving Arizona their 39-35 halftime lead.

Tech was out-rebounded in the first half, losing the battle of the boards 28-19. The Raiders hit 51 per cent of their first half field goal tries, while Arizona's percentage was 45.

Raiders Resume Workouts In Pads

Texas Tech footballers return to their pads for the first time in more than two weeks this afternoon at 3:30 as they begin preparation for their Dec. 26 game with Georgia in the Sun Bowl.

The Raiders worked in sweat-suits Monday, emphasizing running, weight lifting and isometric exercises. Workouts will alternate between sweat-suits and pads for the next two weeks, before leaving for El Paso Dec. 22.

Freshmen and redshirts will run the Georgia offense and defense against the Raider varsity.

Workouts will be in Jones Stadium except in the case of cold weather.

High Court Strikes Off Racial Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court knocked down as racial discrimination Monday a Florida law prohibiting Negro and white persons who are not married to each other from habitually occupying "in the night time the same room."

At the same time, the high tribunal sidestepped ruling on Florida's law which bars inter-racial marriages. However, the wording of the unanimous opinion read by Justice Byron R. White cast doubt on such laws, which are in effect in 19 states.

He said: "There is involved here an exercise of the state police power which trenches upon the constitutionally protected freedom from invidious official discrimination based on race."

"Such a law, even though enacted pursuant to a valid state interest bears a heavy burden of justification, and will be upheld only if it is necessary, and not merely rationally related to, the accomplishment of a permissible state policy . . ."

Jack Greenberg, director-counsel of the legal defense fund of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said he views the decision as a long step toward legal equality of the races.

"As a legal matter," he said, "this knocks on the head the ultimate superstition upon which racial differences in law are supposed to be justified."

Teachers' Meeting Set

Texas Tech's chapter of the Texas Assn. of College Teachers will hold its December business meeting at noon Wednesday in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

Dr. Kenneth Davis, chapter president, said that a report of the fall policy meeting in November will be presented by Dr. Emmett Hazelwood, head of the Mathematics Dept.

"We also plan to discuss the proposed tenure law for Texas state-supported colleges and universities and proposals for sabbatical leaves which will be presented to the Texas legislature in January," Dr. Davis said.

Wednesday's luncheon-meeting will be a "members-only" affair. Members must make reservations by 10 a.m. Wednesday by telephoning Ext. 4211 or 4270.
