

All Eyes On Raiders Tonight

By CAROLINE ENGLISH
News Editor

Tech's Red Raiders will get especially close scrutiny as they take to the turf against Mississippi State University in the season's first grid outing at 7:30 p.m. today.

Watching the home 11 take on the Bulldogs from the Deep South will be many of the record-breaking 13,000-plus Tech student body and 200 members of the Class of 1939 on campus today for their first reunion in 25 years.

Fee slips marked "Paid" will be the only identification accepted for student admission to Tech home football games until the distribution of ID cards, according to Mrs. Mildred Wright, athletic ticket manager.

Highlighting the grid contest will be the pre-game dedication and unveiling of a Saddle Tramps Red Raider memorial at the scoreboard. Ken Snider, president of the Tramps, will conduct the ceremonies. He has announced the dedication will honor all "Past, present and future Red Raiders and their mounts."

'New' Red Raider

Joining the Big Red cheerleaders and members of the Saddle Tramps in leading the team onto the field will be the new 1964-65 Red Raider, Doug "Dink" Wilson, junior from Matador, who will ride Charcoal Cody, a black gelding replacing Tech Beauty as the mascot's mount.

Punctuating the beginning of the national anthem and following each Tech score will be an ear-splitting blast from the Army ROTC howitzer, manned by members of the Tyrian Rifles Drill Team. That "Goin' Band from Raiderland," a 240-member group directed by Dean Killion, will present a pre-game program and a half-time show of tunes from the past and present combined with precision marching.

Featured Twirlers

Adding special sparkle to the band's performance will be two feature twirlers, Claudean Terrazas, Big Spring, and Vicky Keene, Lubbock. Drum majors are Wells Teague, Lubbock, and Marlin Lindsay, Odessa.

The official spirit boosters for the game will be a six-member pep squad, led by head cheerleader Cril Payne, Denton, and a body of red-shirted Saddle Tramps who will sit in a body.

A new yell-leader, Mike Bohn, Houston senior, will join Payne; Betty Newby, Borger; Camila Moore, Midland; Kathy Osthoff, Dallas, and Ronnie Siler, also of Dallas.

1938 Varsity Squad

Probably the keenest interest in happenings on the field will come from 11 men who are part of the '39 reunion. They are the members of the 1938 varsity Red Raider grid team — the only Tech squad undefeated in regular season play.

Then known as the Matadors, the team was the only Tech football team represented in the Cotton Bowl when they bowed to St. Mary's 20-13 after amassing a season 274 points to their opponents' 35 tallies in 10 previous games.

Team Members Present

Among the team members will be Elmer Tarbox, Lubbock, two time all-conference halfback; Leonard Latch, Gene Barnett, Frank Guzick, Wilmer Green and George Philbrick, presently Tech tennis coach.

The exes will begin registration at 9 a.m. At 2 p.m. the class will tour the two-year-old Library and the newer University Theater Bldg. A reception at 5 p.m. in the Union will enable the '39'ers to meet with present faculty and administration and with some of their 1939 instructors.

A dinner at 5 p.m. in the Union will conclude the meet. Most members of the reunion class will sit en masse at the game.

Leadership Theme For BSO Banquet

A new emphasis on leadership will highlight the special Board of Student Organizations' "President's Banquet" Tuesday night in the Tech Union.

More than 100 presidents of campus fraternities, clubs and other organizations have already made reservations to attend he dinner.

A distinguished Tech graduate, Fred Moore, the president of Mobil Oil Co., will speak on "The Challenge of Leadership in a Changing World."

Top Tech administrators will attend the banquet, including Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president, who will introduce Moore.

"The banquet will give the student leaders an opportunity to associate for the purpose of coordinating activities this year and to provide close working relations with each other through the BSO," Joe Murfee, BSO president and master of ceremonies for the program, said.

All presidents or their representatives are invited to attend. There are approximately 160 organizations on campus.

Sue Walker, banquet committee chairman, said the deadline for making reservations is Monday morning.

Interested persons should call the Dean of Student Life's office.

The banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Tech Union Coronado Room.

Play Tryouts Begin Monday

Fourteen speaking rolls and places for eight extras and eight additional dancers will be awarded following tryout sessions next week for the Speech Department's production of "The Tempest."

Students interested in either cast positions or production work should report to the auditorium of the University Theater from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

"The Tempest," to be a feature of the Tech Union Fine Arts Festival, will run five days, with performances at 8:15 p.m., Nov. 12-14, 16 and a matinee at 3 p.m., Nov. 15.

Those trying out for speaking parts will be provided with scripts at the tryouts.

A Mississippi "Up The Crick" After-the-Ball-Game party is scheduled after the ball game at the Wesley Foundation, 2420 15th St. Highlights of the get-together will include a movie, "Southwestern Conference Highlights," games, dancing and refreshments.

Unpredictable Pandas Pose Serious Mating 'Problems'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Moscow Zoo is afraid its widower giant panda and a London Zoo's spinner might fight instead of falling in love.

This fear blocked an attempt last spring to get the two together, well-informed sources said Friday.

The zoo in London's Regents Park said Wednesday it is prepared to negotiate with Moscow to mate the pandas.

A spokesman for the Moscow Zoo said it "may be ready" to mate its panda but had heard nothing recently from Regents Park.

The spokesman said the mating would have to be in Moscow because the Soviet panda is "exceptionally rare and worth millions of rubles" and so would not be allowed to travel.

Besides, the zoo is not sure its panda would be interested in female companionship, the spokesman said.

Other sources said the Regents Park Zoo first tried to make a match last spring. Moscow Zoo said it was a nice idea in principle but there were practical difficulties.

Pandas come from western China, and have been kept in captivity for only about 30 years. There has been little experience in breeding the giant variety.

FRANKIE CLAUNTS

Grad Assumes Corps Position

Another name has been added to the list of former Tech students serving abroad with the Peace Corps. Frankie Claunts, a June, 1964, graduate, will leave Tuesday for Rome, Italy, on his way to India.

Claunts received a bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and English. He will teach high school science in Kalimpong, West Bengal. He trained for his assignment this summer at the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Claunts of 2411 Seaboard Ave., Midland.

AgE Department Gets $30,000 Research Grant

Tech's agricultural engineering department received a $30,000 research grant Friday from the Electric Research Advisory Committee, composed primarily of key representatives from electric cooperatives in Texas and New Mexico.

In accepting the grant, the first the school has received under the auspices of the West Texas Water Institute, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, Tech president, said, "This research is vital to the future of the High Plains because of the increasing scarcity of water."

Dr. Willie Ulich, head of agricultural engineering and principle investigator on this project disclosed that the research will cover a three-year period and will study power requirements and efficiency of High Plains irrigation well pumps and power units.

"We plan to center this project

Club Plans Fall Opener

A get-acquainted meeting of the Tech Cosmopolitan Club is planned at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 27 in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union.

Headed by Habib Jam, Iran senior economics major, the club is open to all students. Jam emphasized that the group is not limited to foreign exchange students.

Programs include speakers and international discussions by club members. Membership includes more than 30 students.

Displays Art Work

Museum Honors Painter

A "Memorial Exhibition" for the late John Young-Hunter, the transplanted English artist who brought stylist traditionalism to the West, opens Sunday at the West Texas Museum.

Accompanying the exhibit of 40 oil paintings, sketches, tempera and watercolor will be Mrs. Young-Hunter, widow of the Taos, N.M. and London portrait painter.

Autograph Books

She will attend the initial 2-5 p.m. exhibition in the Museum Art Gallery and will autograph her husband's candid, revealing autobiography, "Reviewing the Years." She will attend a memorial tribute to Young-Hunter at 3 p.m. in the gallery — an event for which Texas Tech and Museum officials will be co-hosts.

According to Mrs. W. C. Holden, coordinator of exhibits for West Texas Museum, the college had three of its seven presidents and an administrative dean painted by Young-Hunter, a distinction claimed by no other institution west of the Mississippi. All four portraits will be included in the 40 paintings which will be on display here until Oct. 25.

Here Before

Young-Hunter's paintings have been displayed in the Museum previously; his first major exhibition was shown at Tech in 1945. "Portraits by John Young-Hunter, Presidents of Texas Technological College" also was exhibited here in 1955.

He was born in Glasgow in 1874, the son of a marine painter and member of the Royal Academy of London. Young-Hunter's life was invigorating and his early drawings indicative. His world — that of an artist — was of his own choosing.

Finished Book

Before his death in 1955, he finished his book, "Reviewing the Years" in which he cast aside the inhibitions and secrecy that have characterized many fine arts personalities and left a strong legacy for his followers. "... There is possibility that the memory of past experiences may prove entertaining to others besides oneself..." he wrote in the preface.

His book will be available at the Museum sales desk.

Diverse Tastes

"Like many fine artists, John Young-Hunter was a combination of diverse tastes and abilities. ... His contemporary portraits...

many years from now will still tell the onlooker something about the men and women he knew and painted so well," was the summation of Gilbert Highest, professor at Columbia University.

Also on display in the Young-Hunter exhibition here will be Indian trappings collected by the artist and loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley B. Blankenship of Lubbock, and costumes and furniture from his home and studio.

Ballet Class Opened To 'Fill Needs'

Instruction in both the Italian and Russian systems of ballet will be offered free, but without credit, beginning at noon Wednesday in the dance studio, room 108 of the Women's Gym. The class will meet daily during the week.

Mrs. Suzanne Aker, department dance teacher, will direct the classes.

The project was initiated to "establish a concert quality group of dancers" to meet campus demands for dancers according to Mrs. Aker.

Those interested in the class should contact Mrs. Aker at ext. 4107 or report to the first meeting Wednesday.

DEADLINE NEARS

New deadline for applications for President's Hostesses is noon, Oct. 3. All upperclass women with a grade point average of 2.5 for their last year at Tech may pick up applications in the Dean of Women's office.

Not Chosen But . . .

Statistically the Red Raiders are not the "chosen ones" tonight.

They are making their season premiere against Mississippi State — a team that ranked tenth in the nation at the end of last year and emerged victorious over North Carolina in the Liberty Bowl.

A team that is ranked in the upper bracket of a large and strong Southeastern Conference with most of last year's squad returning. And the coaches concede without any doubt that this year's team is better.

The Raiders, who finished with a 5-5 record last year, are returning 24 lettermen to a team with more depth and experience as the result of our first Red Shirt program.

Coach J T King describes his offensive line as the best since he has been coach even though guard and tackle slots could use improvements.

We have a better than average passing attack and a good running game with the first five leading rushers returning. But sports writers have picked Tech to finish fifth in the Southwest Conference.

Statistically we are not the "chosen ones" — but statistics don't always paint a true picture.

Flag Issue Reveals Two Nations In One

By BRONSON HAVARD
Editor

Take a map of North America and look closely at it.

Then answer the question: What country lies north of the United States?

The Dominion of Canada? The Republic of Quebec? The North American British Imperial Colonies? The Confederation of Canadian Provinces?

The map will probably have marked clearly and simply — Canada.

But a vacation there in late August made me wonder if the map doesn't deceive you a little.

The biggest issue in Canada right now is centered around a proposal by Prime Minister Lester Pearson and his Liberal government to adopt a new Canadian national flag.

To Americans this might not seem to be a very exciting issue and certainly not one that could develop into a national crisis.

But in Canada the danger of internal trouble and strife is a real possibility as two opposing factions clash in Parliament during the coming weeks.

The problem facing Canadians, as I recognized it on a trip to Quebec, Montreal and Toronto, is one of identity.

A more nationalistic political trend has been evolving there within the last few years and the Canadians are trying to find out who they are as a country.

It is not a simple matter of saying they are Canadians, as I found out.

Canada appears to be a nation within a nation or at least a society within a society.

Once you step across the border into Quebec Province you enter into the French community.

Almost every sign you see is in French and everyone you meet speaks the language. You also begin to notice the French heritage as exhibited in the architecture.

The newspapers are in French as well as radio and television.

My first contact with the flag issue came when I started noticing that many of the cars had the proposed new, maple leaf Canadian flag flying from the aerials.

I also began to notice that occasionally roadside signs had words that were painted over. Several times I recognized that the words were English. A couple times French words were painted over the blacked-out English.

Here and there I saw crude signs painted with the words: Quebec Libre!

It was not until I read some newspapers that I learned the painting over of English words was the work of members of the Rassemblement pour L'Independance Nationale (RIN).

The RIN is reputed to be the largest group advocating the establishment of a French-speaking Republic of Quebec.

The RIN has even gone to the extreme of using terrorist methods to get the five million French-speaking Canadians to fight for a "free" Quebec.

While I was in Canada a RIN gang robbed a Montreal bank.

The flag issue is a symbol of this resistance.

The issue stems from the problems with the French Canadians. Quebec province is the only one where the French-speaking Canadians feel at home.

The British influence is far greater in the other provinces.

People of French origin in Canada are worried that their culture will be diluted and eventually dissolved and dominated by the majority of Canadians who are of British or other origins.

In order to keep this from happening the French Canadians make every effort to resist British influence. The proposed new flag is a symbol of this resistance.

The present flag has the British Union Jack as part of it. The proposed flag has the three maple leaves that long have been a traditional Canadian symbol.

What flag will Canada have in the future is under debate. What will happen to Canada will be the real issue in Parliament when the leaders debate if they are to be British Canadians, French Canadians or just Canadians.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"SEEMS I ALWAYS MANAGE TO GET A 'CLOWN' IN ONE OF MY CLASSES."

the PINK RAIDER

By MIKE WALL

Registration was moving smoothly. No one was waiting in line and everyone for the first time was getting the courses he needed. It was amazing.

Saturday classes and night classes had been eliminated and three hour labs had all been cut to an hour and a half.

All that was required to register was to fill out forms in the spring and mail them back. Everyone received all the courses he or she needed at the times they wanted to take them.

Roll calls in classes had been eliminated since it was decided that whether a student attended classes or not was not a measure of his ability or amount learned.

Surely You Jest

The draft had been abolished in 1965 after Barry Goldwater was elected President and unmarried male students no longer had to worry about flunking out of school and having that waiting buzzard, the draft board, hovering over his shoulder.

Living in dormitories was no longer mandatory, since so many students applied for admittance to the dorms there was no need for compulsory rules requiring students to live on campus.

Compulsory dorm hours had been eliminated, since it was discovered students found no fun in staying out and ruining their morals if it was not done to break rules of the college.

Legislators and wing advisors were eliminated because it was found they created an unnecessary amount of paperwork and fulfilled no useful function anyway.

Student government had been eliminated in 1966 when election time roled around and it was so little noticed that no one filed for an office and 14 Aggies elected a cow as student body president by a write-in vote of 14-0.

I Can't Believe It

All advisory and counseling groups had been eliminated since it was found no student really wanted to take three-fourths of the courses he had to. To get a degree, all a student had to do was take 123 hours of whatever he wanted and get out.

In that same eventful year of 1966, Lubbock food officials had found food in the dormitories unfit for human consumption and parents of Tech students had risen en masse to protest. Food was now being prepared by a special chef flown in from Idalou and dormitory food consumption hit a new all time high.

It was in the same year that the signing of the anti-Communist affidavit had been abolished. A minor scandal had erupted on the campus when it was found that a group of entering students had printed up a bunch of orange cards that looked exactly like the original affidavit except for the fact that it said in part, "I swear that I am a member of all groups designed to overthrow the government of the United States."

Isn't That Strange

No one would have noticed the difference except for the fact that the notary public's stamp had burned out while students were going through the final check and she had happened to stop and read one of the cards while waiting for the campus custodians to repair her stamp.

The year before that, two deans had been dismissed when they were caught by the Liquor Control Board coming back from the strip.

Spring vacation had also been done away with the same year after enterprising male students had staged a successful party raid despite the faithful and devoted efforts of the campus police and their loyal and thrustworthy canines.

O Noble Creature

It seems the dogs were enticed away from their posts by steaks drug across their path by a very speedy student. While the KK were busy trying to round up their dogs, the males merely walked over and engaged in the pastime made famous by many hardy predecessors.

Then my alarm went off, making its usual sound of a civil defense siren going off in a small tin building and I got up and trudged from the dorm to my dreaded 8 a.m. class.

Goldwater Says Peace Is Only Aim

WASHINGTON (AP) — An honorable and just peace can be guaranteed only if the United States remains strong, Sen. Barry Goldwater said Friday night in his first major nation-wide television appeal.

The Republican presidential nominee, in a half-hour speech taped for telecasting over the Columbia Broadcasting System, said his only goal is peace. But he said he has talked extensively about U.S. military strength because:

"How can I talk about peace, how can any responsible American speak of peace, unless it is related to our ability to take care of ourselves, to defend our security and our sovereign independence in a world torn by conflict?"

He said there have been rumors that he is impulsive, imprudent and trigger happy. But, accusing the Johnson administration of wanting to "cut back on military strength that may be 'provocative,'" Goldwater declared:

"These are the reckless men. These are the imprudent and impulsive men. These are the irresponsible men. And these are the men, these leaders of the Johnson administration, who are risking war—war through weakness."

Goldwater hammered at his theme of freedom and peace through strength.

"As recently as four years ago," he said, "we had national leadership that knew these things and acted upon them. Under the Eisenhower administration, the watchword was peace through preparedness."

But under the Johnson administration it has become unilateral disarmament — and the illusion of peace."

Twice he likened America's enemies to a neighborhood bully, adding:

"Let him push you around and eventually you'll have to fight. Just stand up to him, though, just draw the line on his aggressions, and see what happens."

"He'll back down and there will be no fight."

Republicans, Goldwater said, understand this, but "the present administration does not understand the nature of the threats to world peace."

As he has done before, Goldwater scored Johnson for omitting any mention of communism in his acceptance speech at the Democratic National Convention last month.

Raiders Open Season With Bulldogs

By TOMMY SEAY
Sports Editor

The 1964 edition of Texas Tech's Red Raiders opens its season at 7:30 p.m. today when they play host to Mississippi State in Jones Stadium before an estimated crowd of 30,000-plus.

Picked to finish no better than fifth in conference play, Coach J T King's stalwarts look to another year of surprises such as their 5-5 finish last year when they came from the bottom of the ranks and a 1-9 season in 1962.

Both Tech and Mississippi are expected to use the modified "I", or tandem formation along with variations of the "T". The Raiders are expected to take full advantage of the new substitution rule by using a No. 1 offense, a No. 1 defense and an all-purpose unit to serve as replacements for both the offense and defense. The men in the all-purpose unit are trained to handle various positions on either team. MSU will also use three units including one two-way unit, one of strictly offensive players and one of defensive players.

All of the starters in Tech's 1963 offensive backfield are back this year and they are headed by Donny Anderson, considered by many to be the best back in the Southwest Conference. Anderson, last year's "Sophomore of the Year" in the SWC, led the Raiders in rushing last year and was second in conference play. The junior was also the second leading punter in the conference in 1963 with a 40.1 yard average and will probably handle the punting chores in tonight's game.

The fullback position is headed up by Jim Zanos, a 210-lb senior from Albuquerque, who emerged as the No. 1 fullback after spring training. In 1963, he was the second leading rusher for the Raiders. Zanos is ably backed by Leo Lowry who was Tech's fourth leading rusher last year despite missing the last two games of the season with an injury.

Scheduled at the left halfback position is Johnny Agan, a 182 lb. junior from Albany. Agan had a 4.1 yard average per carry last year and finished as the Raiders' fifth leading rusher.

Wilson At Quarterback

Expected to start as field general for the Raiders is Tom Wilson, 155 lb. junior from Corsicana, who was named the outstanding back in the spring game when he completed 13 of 17 passes for 177

Anchoring the offensive line for the Raiders will be co-captain Jerry Don Balch at left end and Charles Gladson at the right end. Both Balch and Gladson are seniors and saw action last year. Balch weighs in at 197 and Gladson at 188.

John Porter, 225 lb. junior from Lamesa and Chester Howard, 215 lb. junior from Longview Pine Tree will start at the tackle positions in a line that averages better than 200 lbs. Pegged for starting roles at the guards are James Henkel, a Corsicana sophomore weighing 210 and James Cecil, a junior from Sugarland at 193.

Reg Scarborough is scheduled for starting honors at center. Scarborough is a 199 pounder from Snyder and has earned two varsity letters at Tech.

Mainstays on the defensive are lead by C. C. Willis, a 194 lb. senior from Bay City, who is considered to be one of the best linebackers in the SWC. Willis is also one of the team's co-captains.

Putting together thousands of measurements, Air Force scientists designed this "typical" head. Its purpose? To help provide better protective equipment for Air Force flying personnel.

But the young men working on this project are far from average. As Air Force officers, they are working in a field that requires a high degree of technological insight.

The fact is, most Air Force jobs today call for advanced, specialized know-how. And they give young officers the opportunity to undertake vital missions of great responsibility.

For instance, an Air Force scientist may be exploring the complex field of aerodynamics. Another may be engaged in bioenvironmental engineering. A third may be studying the technology of nuclear weapons.

How many other professions give a young man such important work to do right from the start?

You can get started on an Air Force officer career by enrolling in Air Force ROTC. For information, see the Professor of Air Science.
